Hart Mass[illegible], son of the Canadian High Commissioner in London, who was the Oxford cox, saw his comrades crumple over their oars as they tried feebly to congratulate Cambridge.

The light blues rowed with perfect precision over the Thames, which was like a grey sheet of molten lead. Everyone had expected Cambridge to set a fast pace but few had anticipated that it would be maintained.

Cambridge started at 38 strokes to Oxford 36½ and maintained a higher rate of stroking nearly all the way.

Cambridge led by two lengths after two miles. The Oxford stroke seemed content to keep his men at a steady rate in the hope Cambridge would shorten the stroke and lose rhythm. But the light blues did not oblige and shot under Barnes Bridge, half a mile from home, 3½ lengths ahead. The race was as good as over.

Conditions for the race were perfect. The weather was sunny and warm, the water smooth with a slight following breeze.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, April 1 (CP)—A trough of low pressure extends from James Bay southward across the Lake region and Mississippi Valley and pressure is also relatively low over Northern Saskatchewan but high pressure and colder weather is spreading southward over the Mackenzie Valley. The weather has been generally fair in the Prairie Provinces, mild in Alberta and Saskatchewan but moderately cold in Manitoba. Temperatures have been moderate over Eastern Canada with light snow or rain occurring in many districts.

Lake Superior: Northwest winds; mostly cloudy and moderately cold with light snowfalls or flurries. Sunday—cloudy with some light snow or rain.

Manitoba: Cloudy with light snow or rain tonight, Sunday—winds shifting to northward and becoming colder with light snowfalls or flurries.

Saskatchewan and Alberta: Northwest winds and somewhat colder tonight and Sunday with light snowfalls or flurries.

BRITISH PRESS VIEWS STATEMENT

All but Daily Express Welcome Premier's Announcement

London, April 1—(CP)—With the exception of Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, London morning newspapers today welcomed Prime Minister Chamberlain's announcement that Great Britain would aid Poland in the event of an invasion of her territory.

The Independent Daily Express regretted "that a guarantee should be given that involves Britain in the concerns of eastern Europe and that it should be given without seeking and obtaining the approval of the Dominions and their concurrence in its obligations."

The Daily Mail (Independent) commented that "the whole situation of policy deserves a far greater degree of clarification than was offered in the House of Commons."

The paper said the statement was "sketchy, and of necessity," as it was only an interim offer, concluding that "Mr. Chamberlain —

Gardens in April! April 1 was anciently observed in Great Britain as a day of general festival, and it was not until about 1700 that it was known as April Fool's Day. The name, April, apparently refers to the season when trees and flowers begin to open, which meaning (that is, "to open") is supported by the Latin and modern Greek. In the North, April is the month for planting outside the more common vegetables, and for setting out those already started in frames; also to sow cabbage, cauliflower, and celery for late use.

Film Star Actually Had to Borrow Money to Pay Part of Income Tax

Hollywood, April 1—(AP)—Bing Crosby, one of filmland's so-called "richest men" actually had to borrow money to pay his first quarter's income tax.

Moreover, his brother Larry said today, Bing hasn't been able to "clear a dime" in two years.

Bing, said Larry, who is vice-president of Bing Crosby, Inc., won't even talk about his financial situation any more. He's too "disappointed."

"But I'm talging" Larry explained, "to ward off the false hopes of a lot of people—about 20 write in every day—who think Bing's wealthy and want him to lift the mortgage, give them jobs, or share-the-wealth."

Bing makes $135,000 a picture, as many as four pictures a year for a total of $540,000. He gets $3,500 a broadcast.

But Bing—quoting Larry again—is in the top income brackets. Approximately 80 per cent of his total earnings go to the federal and California State income tax bureaux.

"And then there's his living expenses—living up to what the public expects of an actor," Larry amplified. "Bing can't quibble over prices or he'll be called cheap.

"Bing could make more money—actually—by making two pictures a year instead of four. He makes four to take care of other people. If he made only two, what would he need us for? He's got about 50 people—mostly relatives and friends—directly on his payroll, to say nothing of the hundreds employed indirectly through his activities."

Anglo-French Promises Of Aid to Poland Ridiculed by Italy

Rome, Apr. 1 (AP)—Italian newspapers ridiculed Anglo-French promises of aid to Poland today although uneasiness seemed apparent over the embarrassing consequences any Polish-German friction might have for Italy.

Il Popolo Di Roma summarized press reaction to Prime Minister Chamberlain's pledge of armed support for Polish independence with the headline, "England assumes defence of Poland's independence, which Germany denies ever having threatened."

Il Messaggero ascribed the British action to "war psychosis" and said that Mr. Chamberlain "imposed" British assistance on Poland after Warsaw had refused to join an international declaration against aggression.

Foreign observers expressed the belief that the Italian attitude reflected two standpoints: loyalty to the Rome-Berlin axis, and an earnest desire to believe that a German-Polish clash is unlikely.

HITLER PRESENT AS BATTLESHIP TAKES TO WATER

Von Tirpitz is Christened by Daughter of Late Commander

BRITAIN CRITICIZED

Wilhelmshaven, Germany, April 1—(AP)—Germany's new 35,000-ton battleship Von Tirpitz was launched in the presence of Chancellor Hitler today amid thunderous shouts of "Sieg Heil" (hail victory) from thousands of Nazis who expected him to reply later to the British pledge of aid to preserve Polish independence.

The battleship slid majestically into the estuary of the North Sea—called Jadebusen—at 11:30 a.m. (5:30 a.m. EST). It bore the name of Von Tirpitz in honor of the man who never spoke of Great Britain except as "that old pirate nation" and who was famous in the Great War for advocating submarine warfare.

Hitler looked on proudly, his hand raised in the Nazi salute as the ship left the ways. He appeared pale, tense and somewhat preoccupied.

Daughter Christens Ship

Admiral Von Tirpitz's daughter, wife of the former Ambassador to Rome, Urlich Von Hassell, seemed deeply moved as she broke the traditional bottle of champagne.

She said: "On the orders of the Fuehrer and supreme commander of the armed forces I christen thee Tirpitz."

Previously Admiral Adolf Von Trotha, whose name is associated with the battle of Jutland, said: "This messenger of peace must also be able in the event of danger to break any resistance aimed at a nation which is entitled to equal right and equal respect among the peoples of the world.

The Chancellor came from Berlin by special train. As he stepped upon the railway platform at 11 a.m. (5 a.m. EST) the battleship Scharnhorst and the flagship Admiral Graf Spee fired 21 shots in salute.

CANADA INVOLVED IF GREAT BRITAIN ENGAGED IN WAR

So Declares Hon. Ernest Lapointe in House of Commons

NEUTRALITY IMPOSSIBLE

Says People of Quebec Would Rally to Empire but Oppose Conscription

Ottawa, Apr. 1 (CP) — French-Canadian sentiment against Canada's participation in any foreign wars features the debate on Canada's relations abroad which opened in the House of Commons Thursday and is expected to continue most of next week.

Following the definite declaration by Justice Minister Lapointe, Federal leader of Quebec Liberals, who told the House yesterday Canada would intervene in any war involving an attack upon Great Britain, three Liberal members from that province declared themselves against participation in any foreign war.

Liguorie Lacombe (Lib. Laval-Two Mountains), A. J. Lapointe (Lib. Matapedia-Matane) and Maurice Lalonde (Lib. Labelle) were the three French speaking members who were opposed to Canadian soldiers engaging in any war outside the Dominion.

Would Oppose Conscription.

Mr. Lapointe and Hon. C. H. Cahan (Con. Montreal St. Lawrence-St. George) described their confidence that the people of Quebec would rally to the cause of empire if approached in the proper manner but they were against conscription which Mr. Lapointe said he would fight even if it was proposed by his own colleagues.

That there could be no question of neutrality while Canada remained in the British Empire was the contention of Mr. Lapointe, Mr. Cahan and Hon. J. Earl Lawson (Con. York South). Once that was realized in Quebec, Mr. Cahan said he was sure there would be no division in the event of Canada having to go to the aid of the empire.

TAX UNJUSTIFIED SAYS COL. DREW BUT BILL PASSES

Motorists Now Paying Eight Cents a Gallon Tax in Ontario

FIVE-HOUR DEBATE

Toronto, April 1 — (CP) —Ontario's motorists today were paying eight cents a gallon tax on gasoline—instead of six cents—and they started to pay it at midnight less than an hour after Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews gave royal assent to the bill authorizing the increase.

The government was worried in the legislature yesterday as Conservatives started a determined onslaught on the $6,500,000 tax increased measure that was given first reading a few minutes after Premier Mitchell Hepburn delivered his budget address Thursday.

Premier Hepburn called the Conservative attitude a fillibuster, but Conservative leader George Drew insisted the opposition was only carrying out its parliamentary duty in attacking an unwarranted tax measure.

Five-Hour Debate

In the five-hour debate that followed, giving the House its first night sitting of the present session, there were three Liberal speakers and 13 Conservatives before the measure carried on a 43 to 21 straight party division.

Shanghai, April 1—(AP)— Chinese military headquarters admitted tonight the Japanese had occupied Wuning after hard fighting in which both armies had suffered heavy casualties.

France Handles Negotiations With Russia Under Treaty

Nations Work to Coordinate Military Effectiveness With New Bloc

FORM OF SOVIET AID

Paris, April 1—(AP)— France worked today to coordinate her military effectiveness—in line with the new anti-aggression bloc created by the British-French pledge of aid to preserve Polish independence.

In French eyes, Poland and Rumania are the outlying "alarm" states—ready to sound the call if Germany endeavored to acquire new territory.

Russia, diplomatic circles said, would be urged by the French to promise Poland or Rumania she would rush planes, tanks and motorized equipment to aid, when and if either asked for them.

Negotiations With Russia

Foreign Minister Bonnet had a long talk yesterday with Jakob Souritz, the Soviet Ambassador.

By agreement with London, Paris was reported to be handling negotiations with Russia under the French-Russian mutual assistance treaty.

To facilitate Russian cooperation with Poland and Rumania, the two buffer states were being urged to consider their military alliance of 1931 as now directed at Germany.

The Rumanian-Polish agreement originally was drafted as a protection against Russia. It was said here, however, that general staff talks between Warsaw and Bucharest alone were necessary to turn the alliance toward Germany.

Military Alliance Forecast

To facilitate Russian cooperation with Poland and Rumania, the two buffer states were being urged to consider their military alliance of 1931 as now directed at Germany.

The Rumania-Polish agreement originally was drafted as a protection against Russia. It was said here, however, that general staff talks between Warsaw and Bucharest alone were necessary to turn the alliance toward Germany.

In the French view, the British and French pledge to Poland revived French post war alliances which were frequently thought to be dead after the Munich partitioning of Czecho-Slovakia. [illegible]se included the French-Russian mutual assistance treaty and the French-Rumanian and French-Yugoslav accords.

To reinforce the last two, France yesterday signed a strong new commercial treaty with Rumania and today put into effect a new French-Yugoslav treaty, along similar lines.

Quick Witted Action Saves Man's Life

Windsor, Ont., April 1—(CP)—Hospital authorities said today chance and quick-witted G. C. Flanagan saved the life of Harry Graham, 60-year-old Windsor resident who lost his left arm last night.

Graham told police he fell asleep beside the Essex terminal railway tracks here. An engine slowly moving down the tracks partly passed over Graham's arm before a railwayman on the front tender could have the engineer halt the engine.

When railwaymen got off, one wheel of the engine still pinned Graham's arm under it.

Conductor Flanagan observing no blood was flowing from the arm, stopped other railwaymen from moving the engine until he could apply a tourniquet to the man's arm and check loss of blood.

Hospital authorities said heavy loss of blood combined with the shock would have caused Graham's death.

MOTHER OF MEMBER DIES

Ottawa, April 1—(CP)—Mrs. Jeremie Dore, mother of Aurelien Belanger, Liberal member of the Ontario Legislature for Prescott, died here today, aged 86.

Her first husband, father of the M.L.A., was a descendant of the Belanger family which came to Canada with Samuel de Champlain, French explorer. Her second husband died 12 years ago.

HOLD UP LOTTERY GAME

Winnipeg, April 1 (CP)—Two armed men held up about twenty Chinese playing a lottery game here last night and escaped with approximately $35. The men menaced the players with a revolver and a rifle while they scooped up the money.

Interruption of Services To England and U. S. Occurs After Two Minutes

Clarification Requested?

London, Apr. 1 (AP)—Poland was understood today to have requested clarification of Great Britain's pledge to aid her following a statement in the Times that the promise "does not bind Great Britain to defend every inch of the present frontiers of Poland."

Count Raczynski, Polish Ambassador, spent an hour at the Foreign Office. He was understood to have asked whether Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement yesterday really was an unconditional pledge of armed aid for Warsaw or merely an invitation for Poland to come to some arrangement with Germany over the Free City of Danzig and Pomorze (the Polish Corridor).

The answer given him was not disclosed immediately, but British officials emphasized that, in their private view, German action against either Danzig or Pomorze, if resisted by Poland as a threat to her independence, would bring Britain and France into action.

EDEN ENDORSES STAND IN POLAND

Urges Maximum of National Effort to Support Decision

London, April 1—(CP)— With the position of the democracies materially stiffened by Prime Minister Chamberlain's announcement that Great Britain and France are pledged to go to war if the independence of Poland is threatened, the government pushed ahead today with its gigantic recruiting campaign.

War Secretary Hore-Belisha issued an appeal for 250,000 volunteers for Britain's territorial army and said this would be the best way of showing the world the nation did not need compulsory military service.

"The territorial army is now the largest voluntary army in the world," he said. "We are working under a system in which it is left to the conscience of every citizen whether he will serve his country and serve it in the most vital way.

"Are we right?" he asked.

Eden Supports Decision

Anthony Eden, former foreign secretary, in an address at Newcastle last night, said the "whole nation" would endorse the Prime Minister's statement on Poland.

"But if that policy now being pushed is to have the maximum chance of success it must be backed up by the maximum of national effort," he added.

"We can't afford any more relaxation," Mr. Eden Said.

The Prime Minister did not mention Germany by name when he made his historic pronouncement in the House of Commons yesterday. But no one was in doubt about what nation he had in mind.

BRITAIN'S PART IN PEACE DEFENCE

Paper Sees Course Leading to Continued Commitment

New York, Apr. 1 (CP)—The British-French pledge to go to war in defence of Poland if that nation's independence is "clearly threatened" was seen by the New York Times today as taking Great Britain "along a course which leads logically, and perhaps inevitably, to a continuing commitment in defence of the peace of Europe."

The Herald Tribune (Republican), in an editorial, describing the statement as being phrased with "painstaking and ingenious imprecision" said it nevertheless "infuses a real stiffness into the democratic attitude and a real meaning into the insistance that the settlement (of Polish-German problems) be made by negotiation and not by highway robbery."

Precipitant of Peace.

The Herald Tribune said the statement "can serve as a precipitant of peace—if peace is possible," and concluded that the answer lies with Chancellor Hitler, who might "choose to make peace an impossibility".

The Times said Hiteir's speech today at Wilhelmshaven may supply the answer. The editorial said:

"A Germany in full possession of its senses would recognize the importance of what happened yesterday in London. It would not make the mistake of believing that the temper of Britain and France in the spring of 1939 is the temper of Britain and France in the fall of 1938, or of underestimating either the enormous staying power of the British democracy in the event of war, or its ability to command the sympathetic support of democracies elsewhere."

HORSE TRADING AIRED IN COURT

Socially Prominent U. S. Women Disagree Over Condition of Horse

Detroit, April 1—(CP)— Horse trading between two socially-prominent United States women, with a decision given in a Toronto horse show as an important angle, was before the Detroit courts today.

The story began when Mrs. Lewis Bredin, Detroit and New York, saw a hunter named Cyprus de Beau at the Madison Square Gardens Horse Show in 1936. She bought the hunter from Mrs. John Hay Whitney, Middleburg, Va., for $4,000 and paid by cheque.

Later, Cyprus de Beau was disqualified at a Toronto Horse Show because of a slight paralysis of the vocal cords. Mrs. Bredin stopped payment on the cheque and shipped the animal back to Mrs. Whitney.

NEUTRALITY LAW AGAIN DISCUSSED

Fresh Controversy is Stirred Up in U. S. Congress

Washington, April 1—(AP—Prime Minister Chamberlain's pledge that Great Britain and France would back the independence of Poland stirred fresh controversy in the United States Congress today over proposals to change the country's neutrality law.

Discussing the proposal of Chairman Key Pittman (Dem.-Nevada) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that the law be amended to permit arms sales to warring nations which pay cash for their purchases and transport them in their own ships, Senator Lafollette (Pro.-Wisconsin) told reporters:

"Mr. Chamberlain's statement, as I see it, only serves to strengthen the arguments in opposition to

Hitler Had Spoken Only of Revived Germany as Shown by City of Wilhelmshaven

TECHNICAL REASONS

Berlin, April 1—(AP)—Two sentences of Chancellor Hitler's speech from Wilhelmshaven today were broadcast over short wave radio and then the apparatus went dead.

Broadcasting officials in Berlin said "technical reasons" were responsible for the interruption.

However, persons who had seen the Fuehrer's speech prior to delivery said it "did not contain as much dynamite as was generally expected."

There was no other immediate communication with Wilhelmshaven.

The short-wave broadcast was the only way the speech was to have been released from Wilhelmshaven until after the Fuehrer had finished speaking.

It was not broadcast in Germany.

There was a large contingent of newspapermen with the German Chancellor but no word was forthcoming from them immediately. One possible explanation was that journalists were required to remain at the point where Hitler was speaking until he finished his address, and thus were unable to send the usual running-story accounts.

Wilhelmshaven, Apr. 1 (AP) — Chancellor Hitler began his eagerly awaited speech at 5:44 p.m. (11:44 a.m. EST).

Hitler began: "German fellow citizens, he who will have the deepest impression of the decay and the resurrection of Germany most vividly must come and see the development of a city like Wilhelmshaven."

"Wilhelmshaven, reverberating today from life and activity, was a short time ago a dead spot nearly without means of existence and without prospects of a future."

Shortly before his speech the chancellor left the battleship Scharnhorst. That was at 3 p.m. He went to the city hall, where the burgomaster handed him an honorary citizenship. En route, he drove along streets crowded with cheering citizens of Wilhelmshaven and guests from all parts of Greater Germany.

London, April 1—(AP)— Radio officials here said the broadcast of Chancellor Hitler's speech from Wilhelmshaven today by both the British Broadcasting Corporation and the National Broadcasting Company of the United States was cut off because of German fears of a rebroadcast to Germany.

The broadcast was interrupted from Germany shortly after the Fuehrer began to speak.

Short wave service from Wilhelmshaven, to which some German stations were listening, also was shut down two minutes after Hitler began speaking.

The flag on the tower of the city hall is flying at half staff as a token of respect to the late H. K. Fairfield, who served for several years as an alderman.

PASSION ORATORIO OF HANDEL TO BE SUNG

On Good Friday evening in Christ Church the choir under the direction of G. N. Maybee will present in its entirety the story of the Passion of Our Lord as found in St. John's Gospel, set to music by George Frederick Handel. The parts are as follows: "The Christ," bass-baritone, J. G. Willshire; Pilate, baritone, B. J. Theobold; the Evangelist, A. W. Simpson, tenor, supported by L. Blaker, A. B. Saunders, P. Blaker and with two treble soloists, Jack Willshire and Hugh Simpson. No admission charge is being made.

MASTER OF TENDER GRENVILLE IMPROVING

Well known to mariners and water-front men of the city, Captain Murray Barry, master of the government lighthouse tender "Grenville," is recovering from injuries received in an automobile accident near Gananoque. Mrs. Barry is in a critical condition, sustaining fractures of the skull and both legs.

Prior to the opening of navigation, which water-front men say will be late this year, the "Grenville" will place buoys in the various waters of the district.

The ship was the first lake vessel in these waters last year, placing navigation aids on April 3rd.

TROPHY PRESENTATION TO 34th BATTERY TO TAKE PLACE APRIL 13

Presentation of the trophies and prizes won by the 34th. Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery, in competition last year, will take place on Thursday April 13th., when officers and men of the unit hold their annual dinner.

The function will also take the part of a farewell to Major W. E. Van Steenburgh popular commanding officer who is leaving the city later in the month.

Spring training of the unit will start on April 5th, with in all probability, between fifty and sixty men taking advantage of the drills.

BISHOP JOHN LYONS APPOINTED CHAIRMAN

The Right Rev. John Lyons, D.D., Lord Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario, has been appointed chairman of a committee of district clergymen who will be responsible for the service to be held on Barriefield Heights, near Kingston, on the occasion of the visit of their Majesties the King and Queen to that city on May 21st.

MAYOR BONE ENJOYED TWO WEEKS' HOLIDAY

"A perfectly enjoyable trip," stated Mayor Jamieson Bone this morning on his return to Belleville after nearly two weeks' winter vacation in Charleston, South Carolina, Washington, D.C., and New York City.

"They tell me I missed some really bad weather while gone from Belleville, added the Mayor.

One of the first questions asked on his return was: "How did the Moira behave while I was gone?"

LAKE NAVIGATION OFFICIALLY OPENED

Great Lakes shipping was officially opened today, the first day marine insurance rates go into effect for the year, and two veteran skippers, both well known in the Port of Belleville are today racing to claim the honor with their ships of being first to enter the Toronto harbor.

Captain Bob Wright of the Collier Coalfax, an almost weekly visitor to the local port during the navigation season and Captain Bruce Nicholls of the Valley Camp, expected to leave Port Dalhousie at midnight, clearing for Oswego where they are expected to load coal for Toronto.

JEWS TO CELEBRATE FEAST OF PASSOVER

Special services have been arranged at the Pinnacle Street Synagogue by Rabbi B. Gerstel for the opening of the seven-day festival of Passover which will start at sundown on Monday to be observed by Jews throughout the world. The festival commemorates the rescue of the Jews from bondage in Egypt. Unleavened bread is eaten in the place of ordinary bread during this period as a reminder of the haste with which the Jews left Egypt. Congregational members from Picton, Trenton, Brighton and other district communities will help local Jewry in the observance here.

TRY TO BEAT GAS TAX BY BUYING AHEAD

Motorists of the city and district not only tried to beat the new gasoline tax yesterday by filling tanks of their cars and trucks to full capacity, but entered service stations with their vehicles heavily piled with varied assortment of cans and containers with which to get more gasoline, reported one station manager this morning. Except in the case where the motorist had provided himself with the new type, government approved welded steel safety can, these requests could not be filled, it was stated.

Bogus 50-Cent Pieces Being Passed in City

City police today issued warnings to merchants and citizens alike regarding the circulation of counterfeit coins of the fifty cent denomination. Yesterday Fred Mattis, of this city, presented a lead fifty cent piece into the hands of the police. Mr. Mattis had been tendered the coin in change, but could not recall from what source it came.

The coin was a poor imitation of Canadian coinage, being made for the most part entirely of lead and much lighter in weight than the Canadian fifty cent coin issued by the government. Today Chief Kidd circulated the coin on Front street tendering it to local merchants for observation and scrutiny against the possible wholesale unloading of such counterfeit coins in Belleville.

"These counterfeit fifty cent pieces are easily distinguished, and the citizens are asked to co-operate in the matter of apprehending any person attempting to pass bogus coins," urged Chief Kidd today.

Police Blotter

Property damage to the city mail collection motor car occurred at the intersection of Front Street and Victoria Avenue last evening when that vehicle was struck by a passing motor car while stationary.

Clarence Campbell, city mail collector, had double parked his automobile while collecting the mail at the above intersection. A motor car driven along Front Street by T. D. Muir of Toronto, accidentally collided with the open door of the mail vehicle. The glass window and door were damaged. Police investigated and the matter was amicably settled between the parties.

No arrests were registered on the city police blotter last night, which left the cell block free for the accommodation of fifteen transients, who sought sleeping quarters at the station.

'Fill 'er Up' Was Sweet Music to Gas Station Men's Ears Yesterday

Gasoline trucks rumbled along highways and through cities and towns of the district yesterday afternoon and night as service-station owners filled tanks to capacity before the hour of midnight when the next gasoline tax of two cents per gallon, imposed by the Ontario government came into effect.

Not to be outdone car-owners, trucking firms and other people owning gasoline-driven vehicles rushed to service stations to "fill-'er-up" in a steady stream until midnight.

One popular Front Street service station manager stated today that he "sold more gas between the hours of six o'clock and midnight last night" than he did during the entire week." Cars paraded to the [illegible] in a steady stream, he said, [illegible] until the deadline drew [illegible] business slacken off.

BINGO FOR HAMS QUITE POPULAR

Kinsmen Club Appreciative of Patronage Received from Citizens

Increasing popularity of the "Bingo for Hams" sponsored by the Belleville Kinsmen Club, and held at the former A & P Stores building on Upper Front Street was evidenced last night when a large crowd showed by the steady patronage and enthusiasm that the service work of the club has the public's sympathy and support.

A steady stream of people flowed in and out of the store all evening and members of the club are grateful for the fine response shown their efforts today to raise funds for their eye-clinic.

Miss M. Caughey, 177 Church Street became the proud possessor of a brand new Stewart-Warner radio shortly after ten o'clock when her ticket No. 3653 was drawn from the drum by Mr. George Lee. Keen interest in the draw for these handsome door-prizes has been manifested since the games opened and in all likelihood a large crowd will await with anticipation the drawing for the last radio, that takes place tonight.

Owing to keen demand, officials of the club decided late yesterday to extend their activities that ordinarily closes tonight. As a result the games will be played this afternoon, and by the time this is being read they will no doubt be well under way. Games will start at two o'clock and continue till six—and from seven-thirty until midnight.

There are plenty of hams left, and clubmen are looking forward to one of the largest crowds of the week to attend their games at night. They wish to remind the public that all proceeds of the games will be placed in their Eye-Clinic Fund, a service work that is doing a lot of good among the underprivileged children of the city and district.

Hydro Retail Shop

Editor, Ontario Intelligencer:

Mr. Editor: With somewhat of amusement I read the letter signed by Merchant in your paper of Mar. 28.

I would suggest to those writing letters concerning the finances of Belleville to come out and sign their name so we would know who they are. It strikes me that the writer has not been in Belleville very long or else he has been misinformed.

It is quite true that certain merchants were called together but they came to the council and asked the council to discontinue selling gas stoves, etc. They said that they would put on demonstrations and a real sale. (This is the same story we hear today in regard to the Hydro.) But what happened? The council accepted their word, gave them all the stoves and equipment they had at cost price, and I am not sure whether it has all been sold yet. If they had made a success of it, it wouldn't have been necessary to sell the gas plant out to the Ontario Shore Gas Company. I am not going to quote figures to you in connection with the money the Ontario Shore Gas Company paid each year to the city as you would have to obtain them from the city treasurer but I feel perfectly satisfied that it was applied on the debenture principal and interest.

Merchant seems to be misinformed also regarding the $90,000 paid by the Ontario Shore Gas Company. There was some $90,000 of outstanding debts against the gas plant and this does not include the debenture debt. $60,000 of that amount the city owed to the Bank of Montreal and the other items you may get from the city treasurer who I am sure would be glad to give them to you.

Merchant brings this up against the Hydro shop. What has that to do with the Hydro shop? This was before the city took over the Hydro.

He asks if there is any town or city that has a deficit that haven't a Hydro shop. In the Globe and Mail of March 30 you will find that the city of St. Catharines has a deficit of $26,433. They have no shop. There are others that I could mention but this has just come to my attention today. He quotes Brockville as an example of good business. Yes, Brockville is but does Merchant know that Brockville had their plant bought and paid for before Belleville bought theirs? He states that Belleville has not used any money for improvements. If you will look up the records you will find that the plant was bought for $176,000 and at the close of 1937 it was valued at $280,251.32. These improvements included building, lines, transformers, etc.

Now, Mr. Editor, I want to thank you for publishing this letter and I don't intend to worry you with any more letters. If Mr. Merchant or anyone he wants to name will meet me in the city hall at a public meeting, I would be very glad to discuss the whole Hydro situation with him. I think an open discussion on the public platform would satisfy a great many and enlighten some others.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor.

GEO. A. REID,
Ex-Commissioner.

Come on, Fellows Now Is the Time for All Good Men to Shell Out

The month of March, 1938 liquor permits, radio permits, licence plates and cheap gasoline all went out at midnight. Today they were of as much use as a discarded Christmas tree.

Of the month it can be said that it had every indication of going out like a sulky lion, terminating one of the strangest months on records of the city hall. With only a few mild days to its credit, but with a record of blizzards, snowfalls, sleet storms, and near zero temperatures, there will be few of the city and district who have not expressed relief at its departure.

Today, April 1st allotted to the generally harmless pranks of the practical jokester each year, saw the spirit of fun and jokes less in evidence than in previous years. In homes throughout the city sugar bowls were as usual filled with salt and fruitless jokes via telephones were common, but for the most part the prankster, the jokester was not up to standard, on this day of contrasts.

Today gasoline service station operators reported business exceedingly slow. Many motorists yesterday had stocked up, filling tanks to capacity in order to take advantage of the saving by buying ahead. The Moira river currents swirled quietly to the bay, through ice which as yet has shown no signs of breakup along the river's lower length. For six consecutive Sundays that have gone, weather conditions have been anything but propitious; residents can only wait to see what this Sunday's weather bill of fare offers.

COMMISSIONER DIES

Edmund G. Odette, 55, Ontario liquor commissioner since 1934, died suddenly in his downtown Toronto hotel apartment as he was reading a newspaper. Death was attributed to a heart seizure.

OBITUARY

LATE MRS. JOHN MAIDENS

Friday afternoon, March 31st, the funeral of Mrs. John Maidens took place from her late residence, 167 Victoria Avenue. The service in the home and at the graveside in Belleville Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. D. T. McClintock, pastor of the Tabernacle United Church.

The bearers were Messrs Hugh Ross, William Brickman, J. O. R. McCurdy, Samuel McGuire, Hector Post and Robert L. Johnston.

There were many beautiful floral tributes and the flower bearers were Messrs George Sprackett, T. G. Bell, George A. Reid and George N. Simmons.

LATE MRS. RACHEL E. YOUNG

The funeral of Mrs. Rachel Elizabeth Young took place Friday afternoon, March 31st, from the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Home, 38 Everett Street. The service in the chapel and at the graveside in Belleville Cemetery was conducted by Bishop George Marshall of Emmanuel Church.

The bearers were Messrs. R. H. Ketcheson, T. D. Ruston, John Hawley, Oliver J. McIntosh, George Watkin and Capt. W. H. Bottum.

LATE ROBERT J. BAKER

The funeral of Robert James Baker took place from the family residence, 7 Harvey Street, Friday afternoon, March 31st. The service in the home was conducted by Major Alderman, officer in charge of the local corps of the Salvation Army, assisted by Brigade Sergeant Major Hart.

At the close of the service the funeral party left for Newburg where interment was made.

The bearers at the residence were Messrs. F. A. Correll, H. E. Green, J. Hanna, P. Cornell, H. S. O'Riley and Harry Bryant, all of whom are employees at the Canadian Department Store.

The bearers at Newburg were Messrs. A. Pybus, W. A. Ballance, K. Baker, N. Pybus, F. Buck and L. Huff.

MRS. MARGARET RAY

Early this Saturday morning, April 1st, Mrs. Margaret Ray, widow of George Ray, passed away at the residence of her son, Mr. Carl Ray, 59 Station Street. She had been in failing health for some years.

The late Mrs. Ray was born in Belleville and had resided here all her life. Her parents were Mrs. Mary A. Brown and the late Thos. Brown.

Mrs. Ray possessed fine traits of character and was held in high regard by many friends. In religion she was a devout member of St. Michael's Church and was associated with the Catholic Women's League, the Benevolent Society and the Altar Society in connection with the parish.

Surviving to mourn her loss are her son, Mr. Carl Ray, Belleville; two daughters, Mrs. Benjamin Burley, Sudbury, Ont., and Miss Georgina Ray, at home; her mother, Mrs. Mary A. Brown, 337 Dufferin Avenue, Belleville; two sisters, Mrs. Irene Keane, Trenton, and Miss Helena Brown, Belleville; one brother, Mr. Edward Brown, Belleville. Her husband died 27 years ago.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

INFANT NELSON

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Nelson of Dartford, Ont., died in the Belleville General Hospital early this Saturday morning, April 1st. The child was born March 8th., 1939.

MRS. A. E. HARBESON

Kingston

The death occurred at her home, corner Johnson and Sydenham Streets, Kingston, at 9 o'clock Friday morning of Mrs. Harbeson, wife of Dr A. E. Harbeson, following an illness of three months. She was formerly Irene Alice Nicholson, daughter of Thomas Nicholson and the late Mrs. Nicholson.

Mrs. Harbeson graduated from Notre Dame Convent and then attended Queen's University, graduating in Arts in 1923. She taught at Notre Dame Convent for two or three years and in 1931 she was married to Dr. Habeson.

Mrs. Harbeson took an active interest in affairs of the community and was widely known and extremely popular. She had been president of the Notre Dame Convent Alumnae for five years, was a member of the executive of the Catholic Women's League for several years, had been a member of the Local Council of Women the Hotel Dieu Hospital Auxiliary and the Women's Liberal Association.

The late Mrs. Harbeson took an active interest in the Girl Guides and did much to promote that organization. She held the rank of captain before her marriage and had been commandant at the Girl Guide camp at Carruthers' Point for two years.

Surviving are her husband, her father, and three brothers, Rt. Rev. Monsignor J. P. Nicholson M.C., V.G., of Belleville; Victor and Cleary Nicholson of Kingston. The Misses Anna and Emma Corrigan of Kingston, are aunts of the deceased. Her mother died in 1928.

The funeral will be held from her residence Monday morning to St. Mary's Cathedral where solemn requiem mass will be sung at 10 o'clock. Interment will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Major S. Young Appointed O. C. Hastings and P. E. Regt.

Succeeds Lt.-Col. Donnan Who is Retiring from the Command

DISTINGUISHED RECORD

Picton, Ont., Apr. 1 (Special)—One of Prince Edward County's most distinguished military sons, possessor of a war record that compares favorably with any in the province, Major Sherman Young, E.D., East Lake, yesterday received official notice from National Defence Headquarters, Ottawa of his promotion to Lieut-Colonel to command the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

Lieut.-Colonel Young succeeds Lieut.-Colonel B. C. Donnan, E.D. of this city who is officially retiring from command of the regiment.

A descendant of Colonel Henry Young, first white settler in Prince Edward County, Lieut Col. Young has given twenty-five years meritorious service to the army.

Joining as a private in the machine gun section of the Second Battalion, First Canadian Division, he took part in the memorable second battle of Ypres, in April 1915 when the Canadian troops held back the German hordes in spite of poison gas. Wounded and captured during the battle, he was imprisoned in a German prison camp until October 7, 1915, when he was exchanged for further service.

Sent to England as a convalescent, he was discharged as being unfit on December 31st, 1915. But he had had a taste of war and was not satisfied. In 1916 he was gazetted a Lieutenant in the 155th Battalion, and acted as instructor to various units until he was sent overseas again in 1918.

Following the war he joined the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, his soldierly manner and training earning him rapid promotion. In 1936 he had completed twenty years service resulting in his being awarded the Efficiency Decoration.

alvation Army, Christendom o Mark 110th Anniversary of rth of Gen. William Booth

s of Most Remarkable Figures in Religious and ocial History Born at Nottingham, England — Brief Story of His Career —Organization of Army Covers Many Lands

One of the greatest social and eligious figures of the nineteenth ntury, whose work goes conquer- g down the years of the twenti- h century was General William oth, founder of the Salvation my. The one hundred and tenth niversary of his birth falls on onday April 10th, this year, but April 9th is Easter, the anniver- ry will be commemorated in the hristian world and by all corps the Salvation Army in most nds of the earth tomorrow Sun- y April 2nd. Belleville Corps will serve the day.

William Booth owed much to his other, who often used to say to im "William, be good." Left fa- herless his was a life of drudgery nd poverty, but devotion to his other led him to seek to take his ather's place and he became con- rted at fifteen, and began street eaching in the streets of his na- e Nottingham, England. From ildhood he had felt great love r the poor. His success was due s he said to his resolve "that God hould have all there was of Wil- am Booth." Going to London at enty, with a friendless dark fu- re before him, he spared all the me he could from his work to la- r for God and in preparation for work.

His Evangelism

Leaving business for the minis- y, he conducted revivals in Lin- ln and London. He left the hurch because the conference re- uired him to give up his evange- stic work in 1861, his wife calling om the conference gallery "never" hen he was asked to give up his mission of soul-saving. The two went out in faith, organized tours. t was in tent services in an old burial ground in Whitechapel he found his work. That was in 1865 when he founded the East London Revival Society. He was a fighting spirit which fought for the hungry, the prisoners. After six years an old saloon was acquired and fitted up and here he had a centre for his work. In 1868 The Christian Mission became the Salvation Army to the accompaniment of uprisings and misunderstandings and riots on every hand. Dirt and garbage, were it is said, thrown at the speakers in the meetings, blows and kicks given by those who were opposed to the work, but this meant merely a training for his work. The difficulties brought experience into the lives of the workers.

World Tours

At sixty-two he made his first world-tour to South Africa, Australia, India. His travels were almost ceaseless and he became recognized and reverenced more and more. He was asked to pray twice in the U.S. Senate, he hoisted the S. A. flag on Mount Calvary in Palestine, and prayed under the Tree of Agony in the Garden of Gethsemane. He was honored by Kings and rules.

AFTER ROYAL WEDDING

In 1910 as the Commemoration Stone was laid on Mile End Waste, he said "This spot is sacred to my spirit. Forty-five years ago I stood on this very ground, and lifting up my eyes to God, I asked His blessing on what was to be my life-work. Around me were wretchedness, misery, blasphemy, poverty, poverty, poverty, I consecrated myself and all that was mine on earth to the cause of their uplifting and their salvation."

In 1911 an operation on his eye failed and he said, "Now if it be His will, I must do my best for Him without my eyes."

He died on August 20th., 1912. Royalty and the people honored him in death. His son General Bramwell Booth preached at the graveside.

This is the man who in his work for others and his fight for the right has left an indelible impress upon the world. A vast worldwide organization today under the Salvation Army is carrying on his work, with his daughter, General Evangeline Booth, at its head.

Salvation Army Organization

The Salvation Army is a vast organization, a few facts are worth noting: 51,000 bandsmen play hymns throughout the world, while songsters sing "the songs of Zion" in 97 countries and in 10 languages with 82,097 consecrated voices. These musicians meet and practice and play many times weekly without remuneration. Local officers number 116,048. The Army is completely organized. Through its 26,000 officers it preached the Gospel the same in all lands. The Army has a standard of life and conduct which is universal, transcending national characteristics, climate and geography. The Army publications number 129.

Social service in Army Hostels and Shelters for Men and homes for women. Last year over 50,000 men were lodged every night in Army Homes and 117,833 were placed last year in employment. In Canada 17 hostels gave 633,000 beds and nearly one million meals to indigent men. Women's homes, children's homes, slum posts, leper colonies, eye hospitals, eventide homes in far-off lands tell a story of the influence of his love of mankind. Hundreds of officers are maintained to visit police courts of all large cities daily to help authorities and unfortunates. Since 1878 the Army has been engaged in world missions.

It has a vast organization for the training of the young.

This is the work which has come out of the loving heart of William Booth, one of the greatest leaders and dynamic spirits of all time, who was aided by a godly wife, who also left her mark upon the development of the Salvation Army.

Army officers and members must rejoice in his work. And the Church and society of men throughout the world place him high in the ranks of those who have led their fellowmen to truth and light and better social conditions.

Compacts shaped like a telephone dial are a craze in Paris, the places for letters and numbers having men's initials or telephone numbers.

Cuba shipped nearly three times as much tobacco to Spain last year as in 1937.

CONSTIPATION MAKES PEOPLE HATE YOU

● Nobody loves a grouch. But if your bowels aren't "regular" you're bound to feel mean. Common constipation is often caused by a diet that lacks "bulk". Many common foods don't leave enough residue for the bowels to keep them working rhythmically. Crisp, crunchy Kellogg's ALL-BRAN helps to form a soft bulky mass that encourages bowel movements. And ALL-BRAN is a rich source of Nature's intestinal tonic, Vitamin B_1. Adopt this sensible routine: Eat ALL-BRAN every day; drink plenty of water. With "regular" habits you'll be a new person.

EAT ALL-BRAN and THEY'LL WANT to DATE YOU

Rawdon

Rawdon — On Tuesday evening about seventy five friends from the Bethel community and surrounding district gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Barron and tendered their son Jim and his bride, formerly Miss Madeline Neal of Marmora, a miscellaneous shower.

During the evening John Farrell was master of ceremonies, Miss Irene Tucker led in community singing and readings were given by Miss Eileen MacMullen and Mrs. Percy MacMullen.

On behalf of the charivari gang Mr. Gordon Green read the following address:—

Bethel, March 28th., 1939.

Dear Jim and Madeline,

We, the young people of the community would like to express to you our congratulations and best wishes at this happy time of your lives.

You Jim, with your quiet ways have made lasting friendships with many of us, and we rejoice with you in your happiness.

You Madeline, we do not know as well but we hope to have that pleasure as you continue to make your home in our community.

We hope that this small gift may serve as a remembrance of your acquaintances and friends of the neighborhood.

Signed on behalf of the charivari gand:— Gordon Green and John Ryan.

Mr. John Ryan made the presentation of a white electric table lamp with silvered shade.

Mr. Wesley Farrell read the following address on behalf of the community:—

Bethel, March 28th., 1939.

Dear Madeline and Jim,

It is a pleasure for us to come here tonight to welcome Madeline to our neighborhood and to wish you both Jim and Madeline every happiness in your life together.

We are certain that by working shoulder to shoulder success can be accomplished in matrimony as well as in every other enterprise.

We have brought these gifts here to convey to you our wish that your home will be a happy one and that as you make use of each gift you will be reminded of the good wishes of your friends.

This is the first of our Spring showers and the probabilities for this spring — along the fourth concession of Rawdon and the neighboring vicinity are "abundance of showers."

May we give advice to those brides-to-be as well as the one we honour tonight. If you will hang a mirror near the door where friend husband comes in in the morning then put in a conspicuous place this sign "smile" It is a very queer man who will not smile at himself in the mirror. Then after his face is cracked and the corners of his mouth curve up things seem to go better.

Then to the grooms. If you are clever you will always remember your wife's birthday but eventually forget her age.

And to the brides and grooms let us assure you that love and understanding are essential to make a happy home, an appropriate poem entitled "Home and Love" by R. W. Service closed the address.

Signed on behalf of the community, — Wesley Farrell, Gordon Green, Howard Cooney, Bill Ketcheson.

To both of these addresses Jim and Madeline replied thanking their friends for the lovely assortment of gifts and inviting one and all to visit them. The young couple opened the parcels which revealed a nice array of useful and ornamental gifts in silver, china, glass and linen. At the close an appetizing lunch was served and all enjoyed a half hour social chat before returning homewards wishing the newlyweds every happiness.

On Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Barron were tendered a miscellaneous shower at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Neal, Marmora.

Miss Irene Tucker presided over Bethel Young People and during the devotional period Miss Mina Dracup sang a solo.

Miss Vera Ketcheson read a paper on "This Canada of Ours", which had been prepared by Mr. Wesley Farrell.

The guest speaker was Mr. Ralph Campbell of Foxboro of the Older Boys' Parliament.

Carmel

Carmel—Mrs. Wallace Simmons who underwent a serious operation at Belleville General Hospital was able to return home on Saturday last. She is slowly improving. Miss Beverly Roberts of Marmora is caring for her.

Mrs. E. Paricoll of Picton has been the guest of her mother, Mrs. Margaret Sullivan and brother, Clayton, for the past week.

The play "Go Slow Mary" which was put on by the members of the Literary Society on Tuesday evening in the church was a decided success. $25.95 was realized. Every player rendered his part most acceptably.

Callers at Mrs. Wallace Simmons this week were: Mr. and Mrs. John Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Windsor Dafoe and Earl, Miss Fern Patterson, Mr. Reid, Mrs. E. Clapp, Mrs. Blake Pitman and Willett, Mrs. Frank Sullivan and Clayton and Mrs. Thompson.

Mrs. (Rev.) A. M. Wootton of Kenmore, who was with her mother, Mrs. W. Simmons through her operation returned home on Saturday last.

The 'flu has visited nearly every home in this community.

Miss Burley, of Roslin is staying with Mrs. W. Clapp this winter.

Mrs. Blake Pitman and Willett called on Mrs. Chas. Brintnell on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Wallis Simmons received a phone call from her son, Mr. Ira Simmons and Mrs. Simmons of Rouyn, Quebec, on March 27, congratulating her on her birthday. Mrs. Simmons received many more calls and also a number of cards also wishing her a speedy recovery.

Gore

Gore—The Victoria Athletic Club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Fox and Gerald, Tuesday evening, with twenty-four in attendance with six tables in play. Euchre was played the first part of the evening. Mrs. Kenneth Green won first for the girls and Mrs. Roy Brickman second. Mr. Harvey Brown won first for the boys and Mr. Gerald Pope second. A short meeting was then held and lunch was served after which dancing was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Morley Moy is ill in Belleville Hospital. All wish her a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Burr and Ronald of Burr's spent the tea hour and evening with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fox. Mr. Willie Fox, Mrs. Julia Fox and Mr. Ed. Trumpour also spent the evening at the same home.

A number on this line are ill with the 'flu.

Sawing wood is the order of the day in this neighborhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Anderson spent the dinner hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fox.

Mr. Morley Welbanks and Miss Audra Brickman motored to Kingston on Sunday to visit the former's sister, Miss Bessie Welbanks who has been confined to the hospital there, and also returned home with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Redner and Rodger, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Green, Miss Margaret Fox and Mr. John Black spent the tea hour and evening Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Stan Barber.

Mr. Ray Fox is building a new colony house.

Sunday School and Church were held at Centre Sunday morning.

Mr. Roy Brickman has purchased a new horse.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Brickman, Miss Irma Bonter and Mrs. S. W. Bush spent Thursday at Wellington.

A number on this line have tapped their sugar bushes this week.

Thomasburg

Thomasburg—On the evening of March 21st, the C. G. I. T. Group of Thomasburg, held a Mother and Daughter Banquet in the Sunday School rooms.

The rooms were beautiful with green streamers, and the tables were prettily decorated with green centre pieces and candles, and a dainty place card and a cracker marked each place. All sat down to a delicious supper, after which group motion songs were sung. The president, Marion Bateman extended a hearty welcome to the Mothers and Mrs. Harold Morton replied with a few well-chosen words.

Mrs. Morrison, the guest speaker from Tweed was introduced by the C. G. I. T. leader, Lucille Herrington. Mrs. Morrison gave a very instructive and helpful address on C. G. I. T. work, which she concluded with a prayer.

Miss Evelyn Bateman gave a piano solo and group songs were again sung. Ana Morton and Marion Bateman pleased all with a duet. Lucille Herrington expressed her thanks to all for making the banquet a success and the pleasant evening closed with the National Anthem.

Mr. Dave Knox received word on Tuesday of the death at Grand Rapids, Mich. of his brother-in-law, William Baker.

Mr. George O'Neill is a patient in Nicholl's Hospital, Peterborough.

Tweed

Tweed, Apr. 1.—The contract for delivering mail on route No. 3 has been awarded to Mr. Walter Courtney. Since the death of Mr. William Fisher, Mr. Wallace Moon has been in charge of mail delivery on this route.

Two elderly residents of Elzevir and Hungerford Townships passed away suddenly this week. Their deaths were investigated by Coroner Dr. M. G. Dales who found that death was due to natural causes. In Elzevir Township, Mr. Samuel Massey passed away at the home of Mrs. Arthur Boomhour. Mr. Bruno Delore died at the home of his son, Noah Delore.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Morrison observed the forty-fifth anniversary of their wedding on Wednesday, Mar. 29. They were married in Fergus in 1894, the bride, formerly Miss Maude Stark, living at grand Valley. At that time Mr. Morrison was publisher of the Grand Valley Weekly. Subsequently he published the Orangeville Banner, the Bancroft Times, and until 1931, the Tweed News. They have four children, Marjorie and Joyce (Reg. N.), Ottawa; Lee of the O.S.D. staff, Belleville, and Constance at home.

Two months in Belleville jail was the term given a local resident who appeared before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd charged with theft of a purse. The offence was alleged to have occurred at Tweed Opera House recently.

Mr. Merritt Clark, son of Mr. Henry Clark, who was recently appointed to the managership of Selrite Stores Ltd of Souris, Man., has been transferred to Drumheller, Alta., a town of several thousand population situated in the coal district of the Prairie Province.

Crushed by a log, Justin Healey of Stoco was removed to Hotel Dieu, Kingston, suffering from chest injuries including several fractured ribs. His condition is improving.

Last Saturday night brought the skating season to a close. The season just concluded was the first in several years in which the Tweed Amusements Ltd. has not finished in the red.

Mr. and Mrs. George Freeman celebrated their forty-fifth wedding anniversary on Sunday, March 26. They were married in England in 1894 removing to Canada fifteen years later. They have resided in Tweed since that time. They have the following children: James of Kingston, Bert of Port Hope, Mrs. H. Stewart of Detroit, Mrs. Putman of Kingston, Violet and Mabel at home.

On Saturday at Collingwood Miss Zella Gardiner Kennedy was married to Deverde Roy 'Smokey' Smith of Collingwood and formerly of Tweed. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. S. Kerr. Miss Kathleen Fawcett was bridesmaid and John Richards was groomsman. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Deverde attended Tweed Consolidated and High Schools. He is pitcher with the Oswego Netherlands of the Canadian-American Baseball League.

Tweed High School Board held its regular meeting on Monday evening with all members present. Chairman S. R. Curry occupied the chair. Considerable discussion took place regarding introducing the teaching of manual training and home economics. Steps will be taken to acquaint the ratepayers with the advantages to be gained by the introduction of these subjects.

The annual commencement exercises will be held at the school on May 5.

GOVERNMENT WINS SCOTTISH SEAT

Aberdeen, Scotland, March 31—(CP Cable)—The government today won the Kincardine and western Aberdeenshire by - election when the Conservative candidate was returned to the House of Commons by a reduced majority.

The victor, Colin, Thornton-Kemsley, polled 11,111 votes against 9,990 for A. J. Irvine, Liberal. In the 1935 general election Sir Malcolm Barcley-Harvey, Conservative, whose appointment as Governor of South Australia necessitated the by-election, polled 12,477 against 9,841 for Mr. Irvine.

Thus the government's majority was reduced from 2,636 to 1,121. There are six other by-elections pending.

LEAVES ENTIRE ESTATE TO RELIGIOUS SOCIETIES

London, Ont. March 31 (CP)—Mrs. Annie Templeton, 65-year-old widow who police believe was murdered last Monday, left practically her entire estate to religious organizations.

Mrs. Jessie Taylor, mother of 11 children who is charged with murder of Mrs. Templeton, was named in the woman's will as executrix. However, it was understood she was not left any money.

No one knows the amount of the estate. However, those interested in the case said they believed it was not large.

Mrs. Taylor is held in jail and may not be tried until next September. It is understood that she will ask to have someone else named to handle the estate.

Mrs. Templeton's body was found early Tuesday lying on the street in front of the Taylor home.

DEMOCRACIES CALL FOR SHOWDOWN

The most momentous address delivered so far in the political career of Prime Minister Chamberlain was that made in the British Commons on Friday when he made his declaration of British and French military aid to Poland if she were made the victims of aggression. The import was so serious that official Germans, who usually act as spokesmen in international matters, did not utter a word, leaving all comment for Chancellor Hitler himself to deliver today at the launching of the German battleship von Tirpitz at Wilhelmshaven. It is to be noted that the controlled press of Germany is bitterly attacking Britain for her activity of late and for British press reports of troop manoeuvres on the Polish border. Hitler himself is said to have been much angered by the statement of Mr. Chamberlain in the British Commons.

Will Germany accept the situation and follow the line of least resistance under the pressure of the democracies of Western Europe and so take no step which would cause war? In some circles it is thought that Germany will likely try to convince Poland against entering an anti-German bloc because she has as a neighbor the powerful German Reich. Nazi irritation seems to be marked, from what can be gathered from news coming out of Germany.

Britain and France have made clear in their decision to guarantee military aid to Poland in the event of her being subjected to aggression that the time has come for straight talk and determined action. Though expanding Germany was not mentioned by name, the Prime Minister's declaration pointed at that state which has profited to the extent of the absorption of Bohemia and Moravia and of Memel in the past two weeks. Reports of concentrations of troops near the Polish border with the heaviest massing of troops towards Danzig on Thursday were followed by intense activity in the official circles of European countries. Britain and France took instant decision to act with guarantees of military aid to defend Poland from any state, if aggression should be attempted. Russia and other states in Middle and East Europe have been consulted.

This is the latest crisis of many. Democracies have called a showdown.

So the problem which has been baffling the world for some years nears an apparent change. The democracies have pointed the finger at Germany and disregard of the British and French action by Germany in any action against Poland may lead to very serious consequences.

Munich seems a far-off event, but since Munich and particularly in these latter days, Germany has revealed herself in a light which has alarmed the world. Democracies the world over have been drawn together as the possibility of German aggression or of an attempt at world domination is dreaded. As President Roosevelt said yesterday Mr. Chamberlain has let the world know where to place blame if the peace of the world is broken.

FIFTY MINIATURE WORLD'S FAIRS

The world's fair at New York is forgetting nothing. Blind children will "see" the exhibition, scale designs are to be sent to handicapped children with description in braille, Grover A. Whalen, president of the fair corporation and school authorities announced. Forty boys have been at work on the "world's fair" for the thousands of blind children. They will build fifty miniature fairs. Schools of the blind all over the country will profit by this unique undertaking.

In the midst of great undertakings, those unfortunate enough to be without vision are not forgotten. Surely the world is getting a little better and more considerate despite sinister developments in some parts of the world.

FILMS IN WESTMINSTER ABBEY

How far the film has gone is indicated by the fact that on Saturday films were shown in Westminster Abbey of scenes in Palestine. Such innovations may "quite conceivably shock a good many people" but "will, on the other hand, doubtless be welcomed by many who realize the increasing importance of the part the film is playing in the daily life of civilizations," comments the Montreal Star.

Films has been shown in churches and church halls for some time. In this instance scenes of Palestine are most fitting to be shown in this sanctuary of British Christianity for Palestine is the source of Christian civilization.

Churchmen and church members realize that the motion picture and the sound picture are important instruments in training and education today. There is no more reason why they should not be shown in churches than that medicine and surgery should refuse the aid of the film in investigation, in training of nurses and doctors and in showing the results of research.

The churches can be depended upon to use films that are suitable in their message. The film has a universal appeal today and naturally makes a good link between the people and the church. The more religious films shown in churches the more subjects will be required and the more rapid will be the development of religionus educational films.

APRIL

April is here with mists o'er greening meadow,
Red buds on the maple, how the pulses start!
Robins gaily singing, sunshine chasing shadow,
With the dreams of other Springs stirring in the heart.
April comes back with all its old enchantment,
Visions of the bye and bye greet us everywhere,
Winter-weary hearts rest in deep contentment
As Springtime's magic music floats upon the air.
April returns and silver streams are singing—
Streams that slept so quiet beneath the ice and snow;
Wild the winds of winter! but now the Spring wind's bringing Message from the wild wood where the Spring flowers grow.
April will come when I'm not here to greet it,
With all the old-time magic of the bygone years,
Oh that some small verse of mine may help a heart to share it—
The magic of the April days, its mingled joys and tears.

"FACTORY WHISTLES AND TIN HORNS" is the title of a word picture outlined by an observer which is worth absorbing. He says:

"Are we reaching the point where we can no longer hear the factory whistles because of the noise of a few tin horns?

"Perhaps it's the swing music age, but it's a shame when even one of our good citizens has reached a state of mind whereby he would prefer Cab Calloway to Caruso.

"And, speaking of music, there never has been a tune played which means so much to so many people as do the notes which come from the whistles of industry calling men and women to their daily opportunity of being free citizens — earning their way as they go along, independent to trade their efforts and ability for the highest remuneration ever known to man. On the average, that is what this new world has been offering. Compare things here with conditions elsewhere and doubt it if possible.

"But let us consider those whistles. Some of them sing tenor, some sing bass and others various of the remaining notes in the scale. Sound them all and you have the symphony of success — success for the millions who, directly or indirectly, profit by what this theme song of industry stands for. To add a new whistle to the ensemble is an achievement. To silence or damage an old one is nothing less than a calamity.

"Unfortunately, for all men, we have in our midst a few tin horn 'Tooters' who have been making so much noise about comparatively nothing at all that many of us are failing to appreciate the music of the factory whistle.

"These 'Tooters' with their flare for preaching damaging industrial restrictions, and with their hymn of hate, 'The Economic Royalist Rag', are, whether they know it or not, out to work ruin to the thing which means most to nearly everyone. If they succeed, who wins?

"Perhaps that grand old picture 'The Angelus' offers a suggestion. Whenever a factory whistle blows let all good citizens doff their hats as a means of expressing their thanksgiving for the unmistakable fact that here men have the opportunity to earn their livelihood or—

"Are we reaching the point where we can no longer hear the factory whistles because of the noise of a few tin horns?"

SPANISH WAR BEGAN JULY, 1936, in a revolt by Foreign Legionaires—has just finished. Finished actual warfare, yes, but the Spanish war started a conflagration in Europe which may take some time extinguishing. As a revolution between two political parties in Spain, afflicted with different isms, the fracas would have flared and died without much worry, but when Germany and Italy took a hand and used Spain as a training ground for soldiers and an experimental terrain for ground and lofty murder, disguised as war, the fat was in the fire and the blaze has damaged most of Spain and threatens to spread all over Europe—as the victors demand the spoils and look around for other lands to conquer. Those nations with the perpetual gimmes certainly are a severe pain in the neck.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

April 1st., 1919.

A reception to the students at Albert College, the Business College and city schools was held in the parlors at Bridge Street Methodist Church last evening. About five hundred guests were present and the affair was most enjoyable. Mr. P. R. Wooten acted as chairman and he put some "pep" into the proceedings. The guests were received by the pastor the Rev. Dr. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Wooten and Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Deacon. The officers of the Young People's Association which had charge of the event are: President, Mr. P. R. Wooten; Secretary, Miss Irene Moore; Treasurer, Mr. Fred Deacon, Jr.; Superintendent, Mr. Fred S. Deacon.

Mr. and Mrs. William Colling left yesterday for Toronto where they intend to reside.

Mr. W. E. Schuster is in New York City on business.

The Kings of Liverpool

Eventually a man I met in one of the offices put me on the right track.

"Why should you bother with passenger companies at all?" he said. "What you want is a ship bound East, a ship with no fixed itinerary, which must be away four, six, eight months, whose course is not known once it has discharged its outward-bound cargo. It's got to be a big ship with plenty of space to be comfortable out East, and one belonging to a good company, otherwise the food will be poor. You'll not find such a company in London."

"Where then?" I said.

"Liverpool's the place! London's not in it with Liverpool when it comes to shipping!"

Liverpool is frankly a jumping-off place for anywhere and the people are not ashamed of it. The place lives and moves and has its being in ships and shipping. Everywhere one sees the signs of shipping companies; and all the trains seem to run to the pier-head.

It is impossible to avoid ships and shipping in Liverpool. One might be in London for years and then not discover it was a shipping port. But in Liverpool everyone talks "ship"; half the population in the streets seem to have a rolling gait; in the cafes the pretty waitresses ask what company you belong to when they have seen you twice; and at the music-halls the "artistes" invariably sing as encores songs purporting to be of the sea.

The sailor is the real king of Liverpool. Everybody in Liverpool loves the sailor, and is only too anxious to show him how to have a good time and spend his money while he is ashore; and it is he who is the great man there till he has spent it.

Then he goes to sea again to earn more.

At the old-fashioned hotel in Birkenhead, where I was advised to stop, again the flavor of the sea was very much in evidence. A picture of a full-rigged ship sailing over carefully regulated waves was prominent in the hall. Faded photographic groups of officers in the Mercantile Marine adorned several of the public rooms. Curious shells and corals formed the usual mantel ornaments. I walked into the room which I thought a public place, to find I had invaded the den of an old retired sea captain. Everyone knew I was a ship's surgeon, and took a friendly interest in me, which, to one used to the distant service of city caravan-series, was at first almost embarrassing. . . . .

Everyone and everything was very intimate. The Welsh "boots" and general factotum was a mine of information on all things nautical. I drew upon him continually. The morning after my arrival he gave me minute directions how to find the "Shipping Office;" but of course I went wrong; and, after wandering a devious way amongst dreary-looking buildings, past scrap heaps of old iron, and broken-down boats, over railway lines, till I thought I was utterly lost, it was a corresponding relief when I suddenly came on a building labelled "Mercantile Marine Office."—J. Johnston Abraham, in "The Surgeon's Log."—London: Chapman & Hall. New York: Dutton.

MINIATURE CUTLERY

A perfect miniature canteen of cutlery containing 50 pieces which together weighs less than an ounce, and are made of stainless steel exactly to scale, has been made in the leisure moments of the director of a Sheffield firm of table knife grinders. The wood cabinet, perfectly carved in Queen Anne style, is 4 ins. high, 3 1-2 ins. wide and 3 ins. from back to front, and holds knives under 1 in. long forks with hair-thin prongs, a salt spoon that would hold hardly more than two or three grains, and sugar tongs which would only pick up about one grain of sugar at a time. —Industrial Britain.

PROUD WINDSOR

According to Dr. Frederick Adams, medical officer of health, Windsor has the lowest death rate of any city on the continent! It was but 7 per 1,000 as compared with 7.8 per 1,000 for Detroit, which claims the lowest rate in the United States. The birth figures, infant and maternal mortality and other rates shown in the 1938 vital statistics, also compare favorably with other cities.—Windsor Star.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Treatment Other Than Medical Is Often Helpful

I try not to criticize methods of treatment other than that given by the members of the medical profession because I have seen many despairing individuals helped by these other practitioners.

While it is unfair, criminal, in fact, for any 'hopeful' or faith treatment to be given where there is cancer, tuberculosis, syphilis, diabetes, or other ailment that if treated early means the saving of the life, and overlooked or neglected means loss of life, nevertheless in a great many cases, manipulation of the joints and muscles, the application of electricity or heat in some form, massage, various kinds of baths, bring about both a mental and physical cure.

Careful investigation shows that not less tha half of the patients who consult physicians have no organic ailments: yet all really need some help from the physician. For this reason, Dr. C. F. Martin, Dean of McGill University College of Medicine stated some years ago that "every patient is a mental patient."

It is in this particular that so many physicians, in an effort to be straightforward with their patients, do not hesitate to tell them that there is nothing wrong with them and they have no need, in fact no right to worry or complain as they do. Other physicians, after a careful examination, explain to the patient that as there is nothing wrong, no treatment of any kind is necessary.

But the patient has symptoms and would like attenton. If he doesn't get rid of his symptoms and receives no attention he is going to go where he can receive attention of some kind. Thus if he consults a masseur, a physical director, an electrotherapeutic expert, and receives one or more of these forms of treatment, the treatment itself not only helps him by stimulating the heart, lungs and various body processes but it also answers his desire, his 'need' in fact for something to be done for him. If something is being done for him he loses his biggest reason for not feeling well and this, in itself, makes the treatment worthwhile.

WINTER TOURISTS

An article in Business Week, published in New York, tells of a great increase in tourist traffic from the United States to Canada during the winter months. Wealthy Americans who used to go to Europe for Winter sports now cross the border to our ski resorts.

According to this account, tourist business is back where it was in 1929, though the type of tourist is changing. It is "middle-class America on wheels" which is now flocking into the Dominion, to enjoy the scenery and Canadian life. They seek moderately-priced accommodation—the cheaper hotels rooming houses and automobile camps.

Ten years ago, it is observed, "dry" Americans came over for a "big splurge". This is not very complimentary to our visitors, but it is atoned for by the fact that they still come in equal numbers no longer to indulge in "binges," but to benefit from the salubrious climate and beautiful surroundings.

Canada welcomes them wholeheartedly, in the conviction that they will not be disappointed in their expectations, Winter or Summer.—Hamilton Spectator.

AIR PORT CAUTION

There is a noticeable tightening up at Trenton Air Station these days and strictness is now the rule. Every person entering the gates must give his name and if he has a car, his license number. The Flying Training School, one hundred and fifty officers and men, is leaving soon for Camp Borden. Recruits will come in to take their places. After the men have tried their examinations for the Technical Training School they will also be transferred. So men come and go, war clouds gather in Europe and there is no telling about the future.—Trenton Courier Advocate.

EDITOR'S MAILBAG

The editor's mail bag daily brings a strange assortment of mail. Some authority recently stated that no business receives a greater quantity of mail than a daily newspaper. There seems good reason to accept this statement for a newspaper office is the dumping ground for tons of propaganda, political, commercial and social. To its desks come pounds of letters and parcels, packages containing Mayflowers picked in October, strawberries picked in apple season, and carrots resembling horses — or rather carrots which in some proud grower's mind resemble horses.

There are, of course, many letters for publication letters on every subject and in every style, from cold, dispassionate polemic to hot-blooded and insolent abuse. —Halifax Chronicle.

FAIR WARNING

An Irish - Canadian who threw into the Atlantic a bottle containing his name and address has now received a message from a French widow with 11 living children. This ought to serve as a warning against such dangerous practices.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

The Bicycle Has a Centenary

On April 21 in England the centenary of the bicycle, something on the principle which governs its operation today, is to be observed in quite an appropriate way. There is to be a tour on wheels to commemorate the journey made by Kirkpatrick MacMillan on the wooden contraption which was the forerunner of the modern machine. This tour is to be undertaken in Wales by a party of twenty-five people, every one of whom is owner, managing director, director or sales manager of a well-known firm connected with the English cycle trade. The ground to be covered includes rough Welsh mountain tracks, but the going will be smoother than in the pioneer's time because of the great improvements that have been made in the bicycles.

Kirkpatrick MacMillon was a young blacksmith who lived at Courthill, near Dumfries. The wooden model he invented a hundred years ago had front wheel steering and the rear wheel was driven by levers and cranks. After spending three years perfecting the contraption MacMillan started on a journey from Dumfries to Glasgow on June 6, 1842. It took him two days to cover forty miles, which was fast going considering the primitive machine and the state of the roads. Like all persons who venture forth in new types of vehicles, MacMillan ran foul of the law on his journey. A small child got in the way of his bicycle and the proud owner was fined five shillings for riding on the highway to the danger of the public. Said public, of course, was not bicycle conscious.

There were two-wheeled machines one wheel behind the other, as far back as 1800, but they were hobby or dandy horses, on which propulsion was effected by the primitive method of pushing the feet against the ground, something after the fashion of the low kiddie car of wood which repoiced the hearts of little folks and exercised their limbs about fifteen years ago. These kiddie cars have been improved out of all resemblance to the original invention, just as the bicycle literally has run away from the dandy horse which Kirkpatrick's pedal contraption sent on the way to limbo. After the hobby horse came the pedals and their connection with the back wheel, the main principle of the fine article of today. Next came experiments from which evolved the boneshaker, with one large and one small wheel. This was about 1866 and was followed by Rudge's "Ordinary" in 1884. This was the famous penny-farthing bicycle, with the six-foot or so front wheel and the foot-high wheel in the rear. It required youth and skill to master this "Ordinary," for the rider had to place one foot on a minute step on the rear, run several yards on the other foot, and then leap onto the saddle on top of the big wheel. This was all the more difficult because the rider had to stretch his arms to the limit in order to hang on to the handlebars before taking the leap. Too enthusiastic riders sometimes leaped right over the seat and struck the ground with a thud. As a matter of fact racers sometimes came to grief, as Montrealers old enough to remember the championship bicycle races on the old M.A.A.A. grounds will recall. There are still men here who rode the high wheelers in their youth and who scoffed at the safety bicycles which came into use in 1890, and which in size and appearance resembled the latest models of the present day. The safety bicycles were made possible because of the gears. The "penny farthings" had no gear, so the big wheel was necessary for speed.

Bicycles at first had no rubber tires, so they made a tremendous rattle as they bumped over the indifferent macadam roads of the period. The first rubber tires were not pneumatic, they were solid like the tires on a perambulator, and much thicker. There was newspaper and other public terest when solid rubber tires introduced and applied to wheels of the old horse cabs, which Montreal had a goodly su ply in the days before the au mobile burst upon the sce But when the pneumatic tires ca along they were ragarded as ma vellous inventions. They were, b at first they punctured easily a the motor car owner had to do so fine manipulating and patching b fore he could resume his uncertai way. On the bicycle the pneumatic were simpler to manage, and any way boys do not mind repairin tires on the spot. They can tak their bicycle apart and reassembl even ball bearings with ease.

In the gay nineties the bicycle wa at its zenith in Montreal, and al though a good wheel, English, Am erican or Canadian, cost as muc as $100 to $125, enthusiasts change to new models each year. In th early days most of the streets wer macadam and often rough at tha But this did not deter the cyclists who went in parties to such distan places as St. Johns and St. Hya cinthe, or to St. Annes of Bout d l'Ile, that is at week-ends. A cyclis who had made the tour of the Island of Montreal in his summe holidays was the envy of his stay-at-home companions.

Bicyclists revelled in the ne asphalt pavements, the first o which in Montreal were on Littl St. James street and on Dorches street from the Windsor Hotel we ward. They pedalled so furious along Dorchester that they we branded as scorchers and letter were written to the editors of th newspapers denouncing these mi creants for endangering the lives honest elderly citizens. Then th editors would write editorials an the cartoonists would draw caricatures of humped-backed, popeyed youths leering at pedestrians wh were waving umbrellas or walking sticks in indignation. Now and then the police would wage warfare on the scorchers and they would cease their troubling for a while. Then bicycling died down and the motor car became the enemy to be condemned. Even so, today there are millions of bicycles throughout the world.

The Montreal Bicycle Club was running in the days of the high wheelers, and was quick to realise the importance of the safety bicycles when they appeared on the scene. Its foremost leader was that splendid type of citizen, Louis Rubenstein, who achieved skating fame for Montreal and all Canada by winning the world's fancy skating championship at St. Petersburg, Russia, in the palmy days of the Empire. Louis became an alderman and was beloved by all his fellows in the City Council and by the citizens generally. He and his brothers did a lot for amateur sport in Montreal, and Louis especially had a host of friends and acquaintances in amateur sport circles all over North America. He was an official and a prominent figure at the numerous championship events that used to be held here by the M.A.A.A. He captained many of the bicycle runs around the mountain and to outside centres where bicycling was popular. When American bicyclists came to the city on their runs Louis Rubenstein was the leader in their entertainment, he having, among other qualities, a fine sense of humor.

Bicycle tours by all save the younger boys are a thing of the past in this part of Canada. The automobile in its tens of thousands has replaced them as a means of popular travel. But it can be said for the bicycle tourists of the past that they had time to see the country, especially those who rode in the days of the penny-farthing high wheelers.—T. A. K., in Montreal Gazette.

The Art of Reading Hansard

Sometimes we think that Hansard the stenographic record of the Canadian Parliament, should be made compulsory reading for all our fireside statesmen, our armchair world-reformers, our barber-shop prophets of despair.

If all Canadian people were to read Hansard, just for a week, they would have an entirely new conception of our Canadian politics and politicians. They would find, to their general amazement, that the average member of the House of Commons knows at least ten times more than his average constituent.

In fact, the recent debates in Parliament on trade and monetary policy revealed a knowledge of economics, of finance, and of business almost too great for the average Hansard reader to grasp. Our politicians have been learning fast in these critical years, reading avidly, getting their minds around the entirely new problems of a new world.

The public never gives them credit for that. Instead, Parliament is faced with a daily barrage of abuse, uttered and written mostly by men who have never seen it, never read its records and don't know what it is saying and doing. Usually, by a fine irony, this general condemnation of our democratic institutions comes from men who are continually shouting that they stand for democracy.

Our democracy must be a stronger growth than we realized to have withstood so long the assault of its friends, yet it cannot endure forever the present fashionable pose of contempt.

Democracy does not need to fear criticism and argument. They are its life blood. Conflicting ideas keep it alive. But in Canada today we are getting too little criticism and argument and ideas. We are getting mostly ignorant sneers from people too lazy for anything better. A course in Hansard would be a good tonic for them. We are not foolish enough to imagine they will take it. —Vancouver Sun.

SAFETY COMPETITION

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin of Massachusetts must have been proud to report on automobile accident figures for last week. Only one person was killed by an automobile accident in the State in seven days, the lowest figure ever recorded for such a period.

Whether luck or fate or good preventive work or the weather played the biggest part in making this record possible may be a matter for argument, but the record itself is welcome evidence that progress is at last being made in reducing the number of automobile fatalities.

Here is a competition that all the States may enter. States and counties and cities, in fact, long ago entered the competition. It is the sum of many individual efforts that is seen in the excellent Massachusetts record. The police all careful drivers, municipal officials, watchful pedestrians — all can and do contribute.—N.Y. Sun.

JOB REFUSED

Refusal of a $10,000 a year civil service job by a former member of Parliament makes news these days. The job was on the Board of Transportation Commissioners and the M. P. is Wilfrid Hanbury of Vancouver, who did not know anything about it until he was informed he had been appointed. Then he decided he would rather stay with his B.C. sawmill.—Sault Ste. Marie Star.

Shannonville

Shannonville—Old Man Weather was aptly illustrated here on Thursday. In the morning snow, sleet, hail and rain formed the chief sources of misery for local residents. In the afternoon a heavy snowfall which lasted until late in the evening, added to the misery and just when local residents had persuaded themselves to believe that fine weather was here to stay.

Friday morning all the havoc wrought by the storm could be seen without any difficulty. The streets were in a terrible condition both for cars and pedestrians, especially for the latter who found it very difficult to get around without getting wet.

Thursday night visibility was very bad and motorists travelling No. 2 highway were forced to proceed at a very cautious rate, although no accidents were reported.

Birthday Celebrated

A very gay affair was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Conley on Thursday night when they were hosts to a number of their friends at an informal get-together.

During the evening the group joined in dancing, social discourse and other modes of entertainment until the early hours of the morning. At the social hour a delicious lunch was served.

The FORD V·8

IT IS one thing to write the word "economy" into an advertisement. It is another matter to build true economy into a car . . . without sacrificing power and performance, size and roominess, quiet comfort and luxury.

The inherent economy of the 1939 Ford V-8 starts with the modest price tag, and "carries through" with every revolution of the powerful V-type 8-cylinder engine. (In fact, owners from every province report 22 to 27 miles per gallon of gasoline!)

And of course, the expert service which Ford dealers render at low cost is another Ford economy "angle".

We suggest that you arrange with your nearest Ford dealer for a thorough demonstration of the 1939 Ford V-8. We believe you'll agree it's "The Quality Car In The Low Price Field". Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited: Ford, Mercury, Lincoln-Zephyr and Lincoln Motor cars.

Master Keys To Switches Stolen At Bellevue, Mich.

Battle Creek, Mich., Apr. 1 (AP)—Grand Trunk Western Railroad officials asked state police to search for two men believed to have stolen master keys to switches on the line between Chicago and Lansing, Mich. from the station at Bellevue, Mich., and then attempted to wreck an eastbound passenger train yesterday.

A maintenance man found an open switch on the main line near Charlotte, Mich., this morning a short time before a passenger train was due. Wires on the signal circuit also had been broken. Near Bellevue a switch padlock had been unlocked.

SPRING IN ENGLAND

Every year one flower or another stands out above the rest. Last year brought a miraculous Spring for violets of all colors. This year snowdrops have undoubtedly been finer than for some years past.

Beginning late, they grow extremely tall. During the whole of February they were never flattened by rain or snow and came through into March strong and clean. They were at their best, as always, in grass, especially in grass under hedgerows, and it was good to see them ramping in thousands across a paddock of sheep. But the best of the week was felt not so much in the flowers as in the burst of Spring-cleanliness: lawn mown, edges trimmed, borders forked, carrots sown, onion-bed as smooth as sand after tide.—London Spectator.

$10,000 FIRE LOSS

Kitchener, Ont., April 1 (CP)—About $10,000 damage was done early today to the Weber Block by a fire which originated in George Hiller's tobacco store here.

The blaze started behind the counter in the tobacco shop and was not discovered until it had gained considerable headway and blown out the large front show window.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

Girls Propose in Novels Only

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For the first time in my life I'm in love, and I'm 26 years old. The object of my affections is 30 years, and I meet him every day in business. He is a bachelor, and is rather shy with women. He lingers around my desk quite a bit, but has never called on me or asked to take me out. I'm thinking seriously about telling him of my deep affection for him. Do you think it's the right thing to do?

Puzzled.

Please don't! It's only in novels that women get away with that sort of thing. When a man meets the woman he wants to marry, even the most timid man wants to do his own proposing. However, a girl may render valuable first aid by inviting the man to call, and making him welcome. If you don't want it to look so pointed, you might ask in some friends to a little supper party and cards, or whatever you usually play. But don't, I beg of you, propose.

A Disillusioned Girl

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've learned to care very much for a certain girl, whom I've known only about six weeks. She goes out with me three and four times a week but she doesn't give me much encouragement when it comes to love. The reason for this is that she went "steady" for about two years with another boy who left her quite suddenly for another girl. Since then she has lost faith in all men. She says all men are alike and she can't believe any of them.

How can I make her change her ideas about men, and assure her that I'm sincere when I tell her I love her?

Will.

This girl must have reasons of her own for wishing to exaggerate her opinion of men Perhaps she wants you to pity her, which, as you know, is supposed to inspire love. It seems to me that, if she really feels that all men are untrue, she wouldn't go out with you at all. If you persist, in all probability she'll change her mind. Best of luck to you.

Parents Permit Her To Have Company Now

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Not so long ago my folks would not allow me to go out with boys, so every time a certain boy asked me I had to decline with thanks. I like this boy very much, but he got tired of asking me, and doesn't pay any more attention to me.

Now I'm allowed to go out occasionally with boys but he doesn't ask me any more. Would it be wise to tell him I now may have company?

Mitzie.

By all means let him know that the ban has been lifted at home. Why not give a Sunday night supper party? Invite him to this party ,with three or five others, and have a good time.

Party Can Be Successful Without Kissing Games

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Am I old-fashioned? I'm 17 years old and want to ask your opinion about playing kissing games at a party. Do you think it's proper? I never like to play them, and when I refuse everyone tells me I'm a poor sport, and I wonder if I'm insulting my hostess by not joining in the sport.

Would people hold a girl in higher esteem if she did not play or would they consider her a poor sport or a "goody, goody" girl? I think it's rather silly and don't get a bit of fun out of it. Thank you for advising me.

In Doubt.

I agree with you heartily that these kissing games are really silly—and, worse than that, are completely out of date in any but very rural communities.

Why not give a party and plan other games and show the guests that one can give a party without playing kissing games and have just as good a time? There are all sorts of games, directions for which you can get at the public library. Promiscuous kissing is unhealthy.

If you decline to play these kissing games in a good-natured manner, or suggest playing something else, I don't see why they should consider you a poor sport.

GOOD MANNERS

Good Listening Makes Good Manners

When we see the immense popularity of some persons, many of us are apt to search anxiously for the secret in the hope that we may be able to imitate it. Oftener than anyone would imagine, the enviable person's popularity lies in his or her ability to be a good listener.

To many people it is very difficult sucessfully to simulate attention if they are not interested. But being a good listener resolves itself back to the old-yet-forever-new problem of being good-mannered.

One of the most difficult places in which to register attention is in a restaurant. At first, after settling ourselves comfortably, we are absorbed in ordering, but this accomplished, it is only natural that we should want to let our eyes wander over the room to take in its novel features (if it has any) or to "get the atmosphere", or simply to discover friends. But we should use discretion about this "looking about" and should be listening with absorbed interest when we are supposed to be listening. For, if, as Dick or Jack discourses, your eyes are on a table four rows down and your thoughts even farther away, you won't be devastatingly popular with Jack and Dick.

Or again, if a number of Clever Ones are dining together and you are "also invited", you will certainly be a Belle or a Beau if you are willing to let the other fellows talk! By that, I do not mean that you should sit bumpishly silent while everyone else gallops away with all the epigrams! But I do mean that you should do your companions the honor of listening to what they have to say even if their pace is too fast for you.

Many people do not realize that when they are a part of that group called an audience, their attention or inattention seriously affects the person who is teaching or acting or lecturing. There is a "feel" about any audience that is unmistakable. It is an effect of crowd psychology. And one person whose attitude expresses "anywhere but here" can so effect the nerves of the speaker, that he or she may find it utterly impossible to continue. I recall an instance in which a famous lecturer suddenly began to stumble and to stutter and then to stop talking altogether. And in a voice trembling with indignation he stated to his astonished audience that he would be unable to continue with his subject unless the person who was reading would close her book!

And it is cruel too to laugh at any one who is before an audience professionally or unprofessionally. The good rule to remember is that it is permissible to laugh with a speaker, but never, no matter what happens, at him or her. Try to put yourself into a receptive attitude toward any speaker. You will often be surprised to find that you have been given bread where you expect to receive a stone!

And if you are at school or college, give your instructor and yourself a chance by being a good listener. Whether it is your host o. hostess in a resetaurant, or a group of friends, or a lecturer or actor pouring out his best that you may be pleased, generously give every bit of good listening that you have it in you to give.

Manners of the Moment

When you are in the theatre, don't talk for the "benefit" of people around you....even if you are a celebrity!

VICTORIOUS FRANCO SALUTED BY SPANISH SUBJECTS

Just before whole of Spain capitulated to him and his forces, this picture of General Francisco Franco insurgent leader, and his wife, was made in the rebel headquarters of Burgos. Following the method of Premier Benito Mussolini in Italy, General Franco gathered and rewarded Spanish men and women who were raising large families. Following the distribution of the prizes the general and his wife, RIGHT, received the Fascist salute from their followers.

Insomnia Is Menace of Beauty

KATHRYN KANE ...... plenty of sleep retains her wealth of beauty.

x x x

By HELEN FOLLETT

CONSIDERING the talk that goes on about insomnia and the complaints against the late arrival of the sand man, one comes to the conclusion that the human race is altogether too wide awake. Beauty specialists report that many a weary customer, coming in or the relaxation afforded by a facial treatment, lays all her beauty griefs to sleeplessness.

We're creatures of habit. A few wakeful nights and the jig is up. Going to bed late doesn't make any difference. Well! if you can't sleep, don't worry. Physicians say rest is almost as beneficial as sleep.

More exercise out-of-doors will turn the trick. Have a light meal at night. When you go to bed, don't dig up all your old grievances or plan what you're going to say to your dearest enemy when you meet her. Relaxation begins in the mind. If the mind is tranquil, muscles will relax. A warm bath before retiring may ease fretful nerves, and then again it may not. But there's no doubt about one thing, and that is that the poor sleeper is on the way to collecting wrinkles.

When awakening, try to stay drowsy. Don't get your mind busy. Endeavor to keep on dreaming. You can train yourself to be calm. It has been done by thousands who won't let their beauty petals fall.

Tweed C. G. I. T. Hold Open Night

Tweed—The C. G. I. T. held "Open Night" to their parents on Tuesday night in the Sunday School Hall of Tweed United Church. The room was taxed to its utmost capacity to accommodate the throng who enjoyed probably the best of the many fine programmes of the group of young girls under the direction of their leaders Misses Bessie Gordon and Reta Palliser.

For the different numbers the girls were attired in a variety of very attractive costumes which were prepared largely by Mrs. W. S. Gordon. Miss Marjorie Tummon played the accompaniments throughout the programme. Miss Palliser and Miss Marion Tummon assisted with the make-up and costuming arrangements behind the scenes.

The girls and their leaders were heartily congratulated for their successful concert, which was prepared under the handicap of the flu that has been epidemic locally.

The chief item of the programme was an interesting play "Let's Start a C.G.I.T." The characters were: Helen Orr, Della Austin, Helen Courtney, Dorothy Lucas, Hazel Luffman, Shirley Leal, Ruth Forster, Muriel Baker, Marion Hall, Audrey Dales, and Myrtle Bowers.

Duet — "Bluebells of Scotland, May Vilneff and Blanche Johnson.

Duet — "Romeo and Juliet", Audrey Dales and Hazel Luffman.

Play — Mother Goose and Her Wax Dolls.

Characters — Mother Goose, H. Orr; Jack and Jill, M. Vilneff, B. Johnson; Little Boy Blue, D. Austin; Little Bo-Peep, S. Leal; Mary Mary, Quite Contrary, H. Courtney.

Musical Game—Sir Roger de Caverly. The costumes for this last number were particularly attractive.

A silver collection was taken and a considerable sum was added to the C.G.I.T. funds.

Fourteen of the girls are planning to attend C.G.I.T. Camp at Moira Lake in July.

SIR EDWARD NICOLL DIES

Putney-on-Thames, England, Apr. 1 (CP Cable)—Sir Edward Nicholl, 77, founder of the Nicholl Steamship Company and the Cardiff Hall line died here yesterday. Sir Edward started his career as an apprentice in the engineering department of the Great Western Railway and later became a marine engineer and founded the shipping line which bears his name.

Germany supplied nearly nine-tenths of the tools shipped into Italy last year.

DR. DAFOE'S COLUMN on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Family Quarrels Often Reflected In State of Child's Nerves

Quarrelling between parents is a very serious thing for the child, particularly if it is long continued, for it leaves the child feeling upset and insecure.

The child loves his mother, but he loves his daddy too. He can't understand why there should be this fighting going on. Chances are he doesn't know what the argument is about, but he can feel the tenseness. If his mother cries, it only adds to his unhappiness. This is bad, for family cares and worries are often reflected in the child.

Our nurses have strict instructions that when they are upset emotionally they aren't to go near the children. This isn't just a blind order; it is based on personal observations of the children. Several times in the past, when something has gone wrong in the nursery and the nurses have become upset, we have seen it refleced in the children. It would give you a real surprise if you saw how quickly those children feel it when there is any play of emotions in those about them. Sometimes it has been enough to make them lose their appetites for a day.

Whatever the mismanagement of the child, or whatever his maladjustment in the home the nervous habits that arise should be a warning to the parents. I remember one youngster who had night terrors. After some time, I found out that his mother was in the habit of telling him she wouldnt love him any more if he was bad.

I know this is a fairly common way of making chilren obey—threatening them with dire consequences if they misbehave. Surely I don't have to point out how wrong this method is, for it shakes the very foundations on which his sense of security is built. His whole world revolves around his mother's and father's love. When he is told that will be withdrawn, there isn't anything left for him to feel sure about.

Some parents threaten to give the child away if he is naughty. It may be said half in jest, but the child may not know that. Another threat of the mother or father is to say they will leave. Whatever the threat is, if the child, who is most anxious to keep the affection of his parents, feels that for some reason it may suddenly slip away from him, he is disturbed right to the bottom of his soul.

Sometimes such threats are made to a child because there is jealousy over his love between father and mother. I remember a case in particular where a woman was so jealous of her boy's affection for his father that she tries in every way, including threats, to turn him against his dad.

All these ways of controlling behavior in the child are appeals to fear. For the time they may accomplish the purpose, but in the end, results are apt to be disastrous.

It is a good thing to remember that most of a child's habits are merely in imitation of some adult with whom he lives.

Current Offerings at Belleville Theatres

Advance Information on Screen Offerings Supplied by Theatre Managers.

AT THE McCARTHY

"AMATEUR VAUDEVILLE SHOW"

You like a good stage show and so do we. That's why we give you this tip—don't miss the Amateur Vaudeville to be presented at the McCarthy Theatre, next week.

Leading amateurs of Picton and Prince Edward County will present sixty minutes of snappy stage entertainment and in addition James Dunn and Rochelle Hudson with a splendid supporting cast will be presented on the screen in "Pride of the Navy", a snappy tidal-wave of fun and romance, blended into a story that spells the one word, entertainment.

The amateurs are the prize winners at a Picton show acclaimed by 1800. The lovely vocal solos and duets will charm you; the two little cowboys will amaze you with their daring rope tricks; the 13-piece Hill-Billy Band will present song and music as you like it; instrumentalists are of a high order; comic singers will convulse you with mirth; the lad who plays all instruments rivals the Yodelling Cowboy.

Guest artists include the fine boy tenor, Jackie Marsh, Belleville's own radio artist—recent winner on Ken Soble's program. Pupils of Miss Mary Forster will present Tap-Acrobatic and novelty dance numbers. Tell your friends about this show—make up your own parties—come and join the Prince Edward people at the McCarthy Theatre in an evening of entertainment that will long be remembered in Belleville as a Gala Red Letter Program. Picton brings the show to you—you help to bring the people to the show.

"The Law West of Tombstone"

Now playing at the McCarthy Theatre is an excellent screen offering that you will enjoy. Harry Carey, veteran character star of the screen portrays his most exacting part in the role of Bill Barker, the fighting man who served his own brand of justice back in the raring eighties, in the feature presentation "The Law West of Tombstone." Tim Holdt, Evelyn Brent and Jean Rouverol have splendid featured roles in this massive and outstanding production. Added attractions include an all kiddie musical revue entitled "Toyland Casino", a sure-fire comedy treat —The Three Stooges in "Three Little Sew and Sews" and the opening episode of the all-exciting "Flying G-Men" entitled "Challenge In The Sky" which promises to be more thrilling and action-packed than even "The Spider's Web."

AT THE BELLE

"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs"

Romance high comedy, pathos excitement, color of breath-taking beauty and tuneful music! Mix them well and you have "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," Walt Disney's first step into the feature-length production field now on the Belle sreen.

Combining every element which spells entertainment, the seven-reel animated feature brings to life the beloved Grimms' fairy tale, known in almost every land the world over.

Disney and his staff of artists have created a beautiful heroine in Snow White herself, "whose skin was white as snow, lips red as a rose, and hair black as ebony."

Into the seven little dwarfs, they have instilled all of the personality and comic little quirks so definitely associated with Disney characters. Instead of treating them as a unit as they were in the original story the studio staff gave them names and made each of them a distinct person. In fact Doc, Sneezy, Dopey, Sleepy, Grumpy, Happy and Bashful are due to take the screen world by storm.

Snow White's beautiful but vain persecutor, the Queen, is the villainess of the piece, and the eerie scene where she changes herself into an old witch-like hag in order to give unsuspecting Snow White a poisoned apple is one of the high points of excitement in the picture.

Snow White's Prince Charming is as handsome as any leading man in Hollywood, and sings love songs to her in a magnificent tenor voice. The music throughout the picture is ravishing.

Snow White, the Prince, the Queen, and the Queen's huntsman are all figures entirely devoid of caricature, and the first characters developed by Disney to have all the physical attributes of normal human beings.

The picture, distributed by RKO Radio, is exquisite entertainment for adult and young alike, and marks a new milestone in film features. It is a "must" attraction for every amusement seeker.

The Belle Newsreel, a funny Edgar Kennedy comedy "Maid to Order" and "Cafe Rendezvous", a smart musical revue, will be presented on the same program.

The Stars Say—

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, April 2

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds auguries of thrilling or dramatic events, possibly descending with suddenness and precipitancy from most unexpected quarters. It means an about-face of plans and objectives, and quite likely will call for lavish use of funds or unforeseen expenditures. But it is advised that discretion be exercised if the turn of fortune is to endure.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of sudden and surprising events, which may demand new plans, fresh objectives and strange contacts and interests. Funds are jeopardized by lavish expenditures or unforeseen outlay, in which sound judgment should be used.

A child born on this day may be efficient, original, inventive and of a scientific and adventurous mentality. It may have romantic and novel ambitions.

For Monday, April 3

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for rather inharmonious and turbulent conditions, with strife, impetuosity, rash and ill-guarded behavior probably offsetting or complicating an incident or opportunity which might be of definite benefit. Refrain from quarrels and reap good fortune.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may become involved in disputes, quarrels, tempestuous and intemperate behavior which may counteract some matter of special advantage. Be careful, especially with strangers.

A child born on this day may be energetic, hasty, reckless and tempestuous, although also having some very fine and gracious inclinations. Romance looms large in its life.

Caroline Chatfield Says today

Girl's Healthy Independence Will Keep Best Boy Friend in Line.

x x x

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

Our flame has burned steadily for two years and naturally I have taken seriously all that's been said. The boy friend is just beginning to succeed at his work and isn't able to support a wife—which I understand. But I don't understand this: When I returned from a long visit he told me we'd made a big mistake in seeing so much of each other and if we didn't date others we wouldn't know what sort of a partner would suit us. This threw me for a loop but I pretended to agree. Later he swore he was kidding, couldn't love anybody but me and wanted us to keep on as we'd been doing. I love him and believe he loves me, but I'm sure he'll think more of me if he understands I'm not a dope and that I can have other dates. That's my program. Is it a good one?

El.

x x x

ANSWER:

Not one girl in a hundred has the grit to go through the plan you're proposing, but it's good strategy and from every standpoint it gives you the opportunity to widen your acquaintance and have some gal fun which you are missing while you are "in escrow". Also it conveys to the boy friend the idea that he's in a contest, which will make him stretch himself to come first under the wire. Furthermore, his respect for you will be heightened by your display of independence!

There's one big gap between the viewpoints of the girl in love with nothing on her mind but love and marriage and the boy who is just getting his foothold in business, dividing his time and interest between love and work. He knows marriage is far off and when his girl begins to close in on him, he likely to have some long thought about his position and hers. The is the time for her to apply t oxygen in liberal quantities.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

The boy friend is jealous and u reasonable, and while I love h dearly I'm not happy when I'm wi him, or after he leaves. He loathe to go to dances and I love it bett than anything; so he takes me a has fits if I have a rush. Invariab we have a big quarrel on the w home. If I tell him that we'd bett quit he says he can't live withou me and because he loves me h can't bear to see me interested other boys. What will come of it we keep up like this?

ROSEMARY.

x x x

ANSWER:

Squabbles, squabbles, squabbles, that's all. And if you should marry the jealous boy he'd be quite as jealous after marriage as he is now, though he'd refuse to take you to dances and he wouldn't let you go without him. Unless you are willing to put up with this sort of insanity you'd be foolish to go on.

Love doesn't make people jealous; that claim is only a refuge of the afflicted ones. Marriage doesn't cure a man of jealousy; it merely puts the big whip in his hands and puts the girl where she has to take the lashes. Many Women are willing to pay this price for love. Are you one of them?

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

IN LUCK: The wife who believes her husband's jealousy is a symptom of devotion rather than of disease and boasts that he can't bear to have her out of his sight, day or night.

Capital Close-ups of Week

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, April 1—(CP)—In the high councils of every federal political party, the opportunities of the next general election are being weighed and campaign strategy planned against probably the most confused background of issues and controversies in Canadian history.

Election rumors and speculation echo through the corridors and lobbies on Parliament Hill. Appeals likely will be made to the electorate on matters of defence, empire relations, trade, unemployment, railways, national unity and the constitution.

Enthusiasm for their chances runs high in opposition parties. The Conservatives seem to have acquired new vigor under their leader Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion and from the oldtimer members to the young men in the party they bubble optimism. At every party gathering, the standard introduction for Dr. Manion now is: "The next Prime Minister of Canada."

The C.C.F. feel their great strength will be in the Prairies and British Columbia but intend to launch a nation-wide campaign probably with M. J. Coldwell (C. C. F. Rosetown-Biggar) as the principal speaker.

The Social Crediters will be back in the fight again and several new groups will join in what promises to be a housing campaign to choose Canada's 19th parliament.

Holding a record membership in the Commons of 179 seats, government supporters are the most noncommittal persons in the capital concerning the possible outcome of an election. In the position of being on the defensive and upholding their record and achievement, Liberals are making few predictions.

Contrasting with the old days of the two party system when choices were comparatively simple and loyalties more distinct, this time the voters will be faced with a vast variety of questions and candidates.

House Personalities

James Gray Turgeon, Liberal member for Cariboo and the younger half of the only father-and-son combination in parliament, is proving to be one of the government's ost active workers. The son of 90- ar-old Senator Onesiphore Tur- n, oldest member of the Upper use, and brother of Chief Justice F. A. Turgeon of Saskatche- . he was first elected to the mons in 1935.

1936 he was appointed deputy rnment whip and this session, to long absence through illness vernment whip Ross Gray of , Ont., from Ottawa, Mr. eon has been running the show d deal of the time in the gov- ent lobby.

e hustles the members into the se for division, arranges speak- , carries on negotiations with position groups and in the morn- gs does trojan duty in various ommittees. Wearing a perpetual mile, this dynamo of energy hunches over his desk behind the reasury benches, an integral part of the government's board of strategy in the House manoeuvres.

On the other side of the House, Karl Homuth is making a name for himself as a two-fisted debater. The big, burly industrialist from Preston, Ont., who was elected to parliament last fall for Waterloo South after he upset a concerted Liberal effort to defeat him, does not believe private members should be seen and not heard during their first session.

He sits on the Tory back bench under the gallery and half a dozen times has clashed with the cabinet's best debaters. His speeches on the trade treaty particularly brought him to the attention of the Commons and disputes with Defence Minister Mackenzie, Pensions Minister Power and Transport Minister Howe have kept him in the limelight. His Conservative colleagues predict an extensive political future for this Preston citizen.

Corridor Cuffnotes

Dr. J. M. Robb, Conservative Organizer, has a piece of cardboard pasted inside his hat which reads: "You're darn right this isn't your hat"....Canada's official recognition of Franco's Nationalist regime in Spain is expected shortly.... Members are practically unanimous that it does not pay to be an M.P. The $4,000 a year indemnity is not sufficient to pay living expenses, campaign outlay and various other .....

bout half the members in the e are avid hockey fans and the down games here are providing of the session's greatest thrills. Tommy Church (Con. Toronto-Broadview) hardly ever misses a game....

In some military quarters here, considerable significance is being placed in the White House meeting in Washington when Air Marshal W. A. Bishop lunched with President Roosevelt and Louis Johnson, U. S. Assistant Secretary of War...

Sixteen boys ranging from 10 to 16 years of age run messages for the members in the Commons instead of going to school. These pages get a special dispensation from the truant officer, though, and don't seem to lose much by being away from the classrooms. As one little lad puts it: "You learn more in parliament sometimes than in school." Many pages have risen to high civil service positions. Tommy German, the Montreal hockey man, was a page in his boyhood here. There is sometimes violent rivalry between the government and opposition lobby pages. The boys are paid $1.75 a day.

Royal Chaff

Latest chuckle for government officials arranging for the ro[illegible] is a letter from a staunch Imperialist who wants Canadians to be attired for the occasion in a national dress. He advocates red vests for the men with white and blue trimmings and a three-color costume for women. Purple and gold umbrellas and red-white-and-blue walking canes are other suggestions. "Canadians would make a name for themselves if this patriotic scheme was carried out," the letter winds up....

City Sidelights

Most breath-taking scene in the capital: Flood lights on dignity of the peace tower late at night....There is rare beauty too in the spired skyline of the parliament buildings along the crest of the cliffs towering over the Ottawa river, viewed from the Quebec side against a red-and-white spring dawn...

CANADA INVOLVED

Putting Canada First.

Speaking on general issues of peace and war, Justice Minister Lapointe said:

"Whatever decision is reached on a question of this kind must be on the basis of putting Canada first in our national policies as Canada should also be first in the hearts of her people.

"The policies of Canada must carry with them as much as possible the general support of her people. I believe that the shaping of our foreign policies is a phase of the problem of maintaining national unity.

"There is all the difference in the world between the right to neutrality and the exercise of that right." The dominion could remain neutral, Mr. Lapointe said, "but doing so would mean secession from the commonwealth."

In Quebec, those most strongly declaring they would have nothing to do with any war of Britain are those who refuse to have the right to amend their constitution or abolish appeals to the privy council.

Empire a Unit in War.

"It is contrary to international principles to recognize the possibility of one country being belligerent and the other neutral when they are not separate sovereignties."

Mr. Lapointe quoted a reported conversation between Hitler and former chancellor von Schuschnigg of Austria in which the German chancellor indicated his belief the British dominions would not take part in an empire war.

"If any dictator in the world has made up his mind that the British Commonwealth is going to be disrupted he is basing his future project on an absolute fallacy."

Referring to Prime Minister Mackenzie King's statement that if London were threatened he had no doubt what the decision in Canada would be and the criticism that followed in some newspapers, he said:

People Would Force Government

"Those writers do not know the situation if they think there would not be in Canada immediately a wave of public sentiment that would force any government to intervene in such a case.

"I am willing to go to every town in my own province and ask if there is one of my fellow countrymen who would deny the soundness of that conclusion."

Mr. Lapointe then spoke of conscription. "The French-Canadian will never agree that any government has the right to force them to military service on the other side of the ocean.

Says Conscription Would Disrupt

"I believe that conscription in 1917 was a blunder of frightful magnitude and that we are still reaping the sad and sorry results of that ill-conceived policy. The most effective way of helping is not the way that would divide our country and tear it asunder.

"Australia has always been against conscription. South Africa will never have conscription. Ireland would never have conscription.

"Not only will I always fight against this policy, I would never be a member of a government that would enact it and not only that but I say with all my responsibility to the people of Canada that I would oppose any government that would enforce it."

Canada Not Immune From Attack

But Canada was not immune from attack or the covetousness of aggressor countries and Mr. Lapointe believed in preparation for defence. "I say this and I want my colleagues to hear and understand me: If there is one chance that in a thousand that what our experts say could happen may occur, I would be a traitor to Canada, to my own people, if I would not help to provide against it.

"We cannot lull ourselves into a false security simply by making fine speeches, uttering great sentiments on the beauty of having no military expenditures and being strong for peace.

"The issue in Canada is security, even world security, because we cannot expect to be an oasis surrounded by troubles and disasters which we alone could escape. Who could predict how a victorious totalitarian power would deal with Canada?

Security Needed For Neutrality

"If Canada were neutral, independent, it would need security. It would need greater means of defence and that is what sane people seem to forget.

"Canada would need alliances, more particularly with England and the United States. But if Canada has to rely on allies the neutral result would be that these allies would have to rely also on Canada.

"I do not understand the mentality of those who think Canada should be neutral and at the same time oppose military expenditure. Neutral countries are the most heavily armed and protected."

Canada And League of Nations

M. J. Coldwell (C.C.F. Rosetown-Biggar) called upon Canada to give leadership in a reorganization of the League of Nations or some similar body to revive the principle of collective security. It was not too late and he believed a world conference should be held to that end and that United States should be persuaded to join.

He said Canada should not blindly follow the policies of the Chamberlain government which would not stand up for democracy but only for its own economic interests and those of the ruling class is represented.

Agreeing with Mr. Lapointe's stand on neutrality, Mr. Lawson said he was tired of hearing people praise British freedom without offering to stand up for the empire that gave them this freedom.

Canada First Goal

Canada would be the first goal of any power that might defeat Great Britain in a war of aggression. All dictators were looking for colonial expansion.

Only alternative to close alliance with the British Empire was an alliance with the United States which would ultimately mean complete union. French-Canadians would unlikely receive language recognition in that country such as is accorded in Canada.

Canada should keep free from "foreign entanglements," said Mr. Lacombe. Canada did not need defences because it would be safe from molestation if it remained aloof from foreign affairs and followed paths of peace. He was confident conscription could not be avoided if Canada became embroiled in war. Canadians should fight only for Canada in Canada.

Arming For Peace

Urging that Canada "arm for peace" W. R. Macdonald (Lib. Brantford City) said a determined stand by all the Dominions behind the Empire should make the efforts of Great Britain a strong barrier to world conflict.

Mr. Cahan condemned any thought of Canada remaining neutral in the event of Great Britain being at war. It could not be justified on legal or moral grounds.

Of Quebec, in which province he has long resided, he said the populace would react warmly to any appeal to the defence of the empire if approached with conciliation and an understanding of their traditional characteristics.

Quebec people were ready to cooperate but would always resist coercion. "If my fellow citizens in Quebec realize neutrality involves separation from the crown I have no doubt of the decision of the people of that province."

In no other country would the racial and religious rights of French-Canadian people be safer than in Canada under the British Crown. He believed all intelligent men of Quebec realized that.

"If war came," said A. J. Lapointe, "our strict duty is to remain out of it unless Canada is attacked or indirectly menaced. We have no right to sacrifice our young people and to bring our country to the brink of ruin for the cause of European nations."

Assurance that conscription would not be invoked in the event of war was welcomed by Mr. Lalonde but was opposed to Canadian participation in any foreign war although he feared it would be inevitable as Parliament would be controlled by "imperialistic" members.

Would Face Any Issue

Hugh Plaxton (Lib. Toronto-Trinity) said he was confident if an emergency arose Canadians would face the issue squarely and accept their responsibilities as British subjects. The young men of military age would rally to the defence of the empire the way their fathers did in the Great War.

Debate on the Foreign Affairs question was technically interrupted during the hour devoted to private bills but the subject was the same. The House considered, on motion for second reading, a bill introduced by Joseph Thorson (Lib. Selkirk) designed to establish the exclusive right of Canada to advise the King to declare war involving Canada.

This measure was talked out by T. L. Church (Con. Toronto-Broadview) who declared it was an "insult to British-born people." Because Canada, since 1926, has been an autonomous nation in the Commonwealth with full power to determine domestic and external policies Mr. Thorson claimed it was beyond the power of the Government of Great Britain to advise His Majesty to declare war on Canada's behalf.

TAX UNJUSTIFIED

After the debate the measure went through four stages in seven minutes and after 11 o'clock Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews reached the assembly to give royal assent.

The royal assent finally ended the government's worries as to what would happen if the bill was not finally dealt with last night. Telegraphed instructions had gone out to gasoline companies to start collection of the higher tax at midnight. Legal advice to the government was that the higher levy could not be collected until the bill received assent.

Referred to Speech

Col. Drew and other Conservative speakers referred to a speech made Feb. 23 in Toronto by Highways Minister T. B. McQuesten in which he opposed the increase to nine cents recommended by the Ontario Royal Commission on Transportation.

Mr. McQuesten's answer to this was that an increase to eight cents wasn't an increase to nine cents. Col. Drew insisted Mr. McQuesten had left the impression he was opposed to any increase. He asked why but got no answer.

The budget estimate forecast $25,000,000 gasoline tax revenue this year, an increase of $6,500,000. Answering a Conservative question last night, however, Mr. McQuesten dropped the budget estimate to $4,000,000.

As the debate started in the afternoon, Premier Hepburn announced the House would observe the usual Friday five o'clock adjournment, but he abandoned this intention and at six o'clock instead of the five, the House recessed for supper, instead of adjourning. At eight o'clock debate was resumed.

In Hands of Opposition

Delay in passage of the bill for a month or longer was in the hands of the opposition, Premier Hepburn said. But, he warned, municipal subsidies would be cut in exact proportion to the loss of revenue entailed in such a delay and the blame would rest on the opposition's shoulders.

Col. Drew retorted that the Premier was proposing to penalize an innocent third party, the municipalities, simply to threaten and intimidate the opposition into an abandonment of its rights.

For three weeks during the Throne Speech debate, Conservatives were chided for not participating in it, said Col. Drew. Now when the opposition wanted to discuss a $6,500,000 measure they were accused of holding up government business.

Leopold Macaulay (Con. York South) gave a forecast of the line Conservative attack on the budget will take. He alleged 200,000 gasoline tax refund applications received by the government had not been dealt with pending the end of the fiscal year.

Road subsidies due municipalities had also been withheld in order to enable the Premier as Provincial Treasurer to report a surplus, said Mr. Macaulay.

Other Forms Advanced

Sweepstakes and taxes on meals over 50 cents were suggested as alternatives to a two-cent increase in the gasoline tax by A. H. Acres (Cons. Carleton).

William Stewart (Cons. Toronto-Parkdale) said there was no hope of the gasoline companies absorbing any of the tax. The whole increase would be passed to the motorist.

Dr. Harold Welsh (Cons. Hastings-East) said that as a physician practising exclusively among rural people, he was qualified to express the rural viewpoint. Rural hamlets were disappearing and people in them had difficulty in making livings. In the rural areas there was much poverty. The automobile was the transportation of the rural dweller and a gasoline tax increase would be a hard blow.

Unfairness in Subsidies

There was unfairness in municipal subsidies, said Dr. Welsh, because municipalities not requiring assistance obtained more than low assessment townships where standards generally were lower.

J. D. Hepburn (Con. Prince Edward-Lennox) said the government should give some consideration to the owners of cars on the back concessions. These farmers today were counting their money in coppers and becoming poorer annually.

"We don't need additional taxes in this province," he said."

"We need curtailment of expensive government."

No Time For Taxation

G. H. Doucett (Con. Lanark) said he had promised to vote for Premier Hepburn when the Premier would bring in a bill to make the tax four cents.

"You would vote for this bill twice," suggested Mr. Hepburn.

Frank Spence (Con. Fort William) said the present was no time for increased taxation, an effective deterrent to all investment.

W. A. Summerville (Con. Toronto-Riverdale) said he believed there was a large waste of money in the Highways Department.

"I don't think the Prime Minister knows what is going on in that department," he said.

HITLER PRESENT

Angered at Offer

The Chancellor was reported in Berlin to be angered by the offer, announced by Prime Minister Chamberlain yesterday of British and French aid, if necessary, to defend Polish independence.

Coming as it did on the heels of what the Nazis have regarded and denounced as a "lie campaign" in the British and French press against Germany, it gave Hitler an excellent opportunity to answer back. Germans seemed convinced that he would.

The German press attacked Prime Minister Chamberlain's proposal as "laughable" and "not understandable."

Some papers charged bitterly that the British military attache in Warsaw spread rumors about alleged German troop concentrations on the Polish border deliberately to lay the ground-work for such a development.

"The threat against Poland exists only in lying columns of the English press and its mimickers elsewhere," said Lokalanzeiger, which further described Mr. Chamberlain's "gesture" as an attempt to "pick a quarrel with Germany."

Completely Soluble

Voelkischer Beobachter said that "Mr. Chamberlain's declaration shows—wanted or unwanted— a tendency to poison German-Polish relations and to make unbridgeable German-Polish problems which are completely soluble through negotiations."

The Boersen-Zeitung said that Mr. Chamberlain was "fighting windmills" and added that "such attempts to disturb will suffocate in their own absurdity."

Some Germans wondered if Hitler might serve notice to Great Britain that he was stepping out of the 1935 naval agreement under which Germany's naval tonnage was not to exceed 35 per cent of that of Britain.

The 35,000-ton von Tirpitz, making its debut today, is the second of that size launched by Germany in less than two months. The Bismarck preceded it Feb. 14.

The main armament of the von Tirpitz will consist of eight 38-centimetre and twelve 15-centimetre guns.

Goebbels Asks Question.

Propaganda Minister Goebbels, who is vacationing in eastern countries, nevertheless had a long article in Voelkischer Beobachter today entitled "Who wants the war?"

"The forces of internationalism are the only ones to profit," another headline declared.

"Nothing has happened in connection with the Reich in Europe since Adolf Hitler has taken over power in Germany which could ever have given occasion for a new war," Goebbels wrote.

"For what, seriously, can it matter to the average Englishman or the average Frenchman whether Austria concludes its anschluss, whether Sudetenland returns to the Reich, or whether Germany, with the consent of Prague, establishes a protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia?"

"Jews are guilty " Goebbels said. "If at any time in Europe, during a black hour, a new war should break out, this call would have to resound over our entire continent. Jews are guilty.

"They want war and they are doing everything in their power to drive nations to war. They, themselves, do not believe that they will be the victim but the ones to profit from such a war."

CARDINAL SBARRETTI DIES

Vatican City, April 1—(AP) — Donato Cardinal Sbarretti, apostolic delegate to Canada from 1902 to 1910, died today. He was 82. Physicians said he died of heart disease. His Eminence was born in Italy in 1856. After becoming a Priest he was made professor of Theology in the College of the Propagation of the Faith in Rome.

Goalie Gardiner of Rangers 'Quite Hot' in Last 2 Games And Team May Take Boston

Placed in Tough Spot but Performs Like Real Champion

ODDS FAVOR LEAFS

Detroit and Toronto Teams Play Final Game Tonight

By JACK CALDER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Goalie Bert Gardiner will bring a big-league hockey miracle to fulfilment this week-end or go back to the business of trying to help win a minor league championship.

When Dave Kerr was injured in the first game of the National League's Stanley Cup series, New York Rangers summoned Gardiner from their International-American League farm at Philadelphia to fill in for the agile netminder. It was a tough assignment for Kerr's under study, with the Rangers already down one game to the league champion Boston Bruins.

About Washed Up.

Boston won the next two games of the best-of-seven round and it seemed Gardiner was about ready to return to Philadelphia and aid the Ramblers in the Int-Am playoffs. The Rangers were up against it, for the Bruins were eager to finish up the semi-final round and then rest up before meeting Toronto or Detroit in the finals.

Up to that time Bert had been warm enough. No one complained about the way he filled in for the great Kerr. Then Gardiner got hot.

He kicked back the eager Bruins in their bid for the fourth game at New York, the Rangers winning 2-1 amid frenzied action. He went to Boston to play before a bitterly hostile crowd and he was still hotter as the Rangers took another 2-1 decision, this time in overtime.

Chance To Level Series.

So the Rangers and Gardiner enter the sixth contest at New York tonight with a chance to level the series at three wins apiece. Then they can enter the cup finals by winning at Boston tomorrow.

With the exception of Kerr and Cecil Dillon, who has missed the entire series, the Rangers will be at full strength again. The Bruins are even more fit and are anxious to make up tonight for their errors of the fourth and fifth battles.

The other finalist will be declared tonight at Toronto, where the Maple Leafs take on Detroit Red Wings in the deciding game of their best-of-three round. Toronto won the first 4-1 and Detroit the second 3-1.

Odds Favor Leafs.

The odds still favor the Leafs, despite Detroit's game comeback on home ice Thursday. The Red Wings haven't won a game in Toronto all season and have scored only two goals there. Their defence gave a fighting display Thursday, but it looks too weak to stand up much longer with Scotty Bowman on the shelf through injuries and Buck Jones, a rookie, and Syd Howe, a forward, trying to hold the fort with Doug Young and Ebbie Goodfellow.

Detroit's main hope lies in the possibility that Charlie Conacher's blazing shot will stand them in even better stead than it has through the play-offs so far. He is tied for second place in point-making with Syl Apps of Toronto, just behind Gordon Drillon of Toronto.

GOODYEARS BEAT SAINT JOHN 3 TO 0

Undefeated Team Held Scoreless for Two Periods

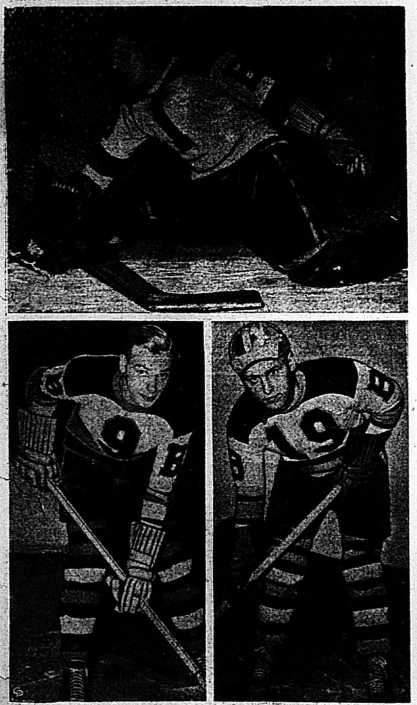
Toronto, April 1 (CP)—Perhaps better teams than Toronto Goodyears have gained the Eastern Canada senior hockey finals but none with better records. Undefeated in 30 league and playdown games this season, Goodyears have won 25 and tied five for a near perfect performance.

The latest victory came last night when the Toronto team blanked Saint John Beavers 3-0 and eliminated the Maritimers from Allan Cup competition. The victory, coupled with a 7-2 decision in Ottawa Wednesday gave Goodyears the series in two straight and put them in the finals against Montreal Royals.

Royals and Goodyears will open a best-of-five series in Montreal Sunday afternoon, the winner to meet either Port Arthur or Kimberley Dynamiters for the cup.

Goodyears looked at lot worse than their record for two periods last night as goalie Bill Dickie of the Beavers held them scoreless. In the third, however, the Toronto team redeemed itself by scoring three times in 10 minutes.

while his team held a one-man advantage. Don Metz got the other.



NO WONDER BOSTON BRUINS KEEP WINNING!

Ideal hockey teams are said to be ade by blending rugged, dependble veterans with fast, fiery oungsters, and if ever that blendg was accomplished with success rthur H. Ross, manager of Boston uins, N.H.L. champions, performthe feat this past season. Around nucleus of Eddie Shore, Dit pper, Cooney Weiland and others built a team that stood head and lders above the others in the e, largely because of the rookies he had added to the squad. Here are three of them, all rated by scribes around the major puck circuit as the best newcomers of the year. TOP, is Frankie Brimsek, a spotlight-hogger since the start of the season with his lowest goals-against total, 10 shutouts, all-star selection, topped off with the winning of the Calder trophy as the No. 1 rookie of the year. LOWER LEFT, Roy Conacner, placed second in the rookie voting. In his first season as a pro all Conacher III did was lead the league in scoring goals. Johnny Crawford is the other player shown. Teamed with Dit Clapper as one of the team's defence pairs, Crawford developed fast and took fourth place when the votes were totalled. Only player that stood between Bruins and a clean sweep of all top spots was Detroit's Gus Giesbrecht, rookie centre, who was voted third best among the league's newcomers.

3 ON EXECUTIVE WILL SETTLE ALL LEAGUE DISPUTES

R. Farquharson, Ken Edgecombe, and Ken Colling Named by Association

FIVE TEAMS IN

Three Intermediate "A", One Intermediate "C" and Jr. Team in

With five teams represented, the Belleville Softball Association went on record as suggesting that in all Provincial O.A.S.A. future playdown games, 'the parent association notify the contesting teams, at least 24 hours in advance, the names of the umpires appointed to officiate in such provincial softball playdowns'. This recommendation will be submitted by the Belleville Association delegates at the annual meeting of the O.A.S.A. to be held in Hamilton next Friday.

"Such a motion, if carried, would eliminate any trouble, similar to that experienced in the Kingston-Belleville intermediate O.A.S.A. play downs last fall when a Kingston umpire was attacked and two Belleville players later suspended. The motion will give the opposing clubs a chance to object to proposed officials before it is too late," pointed out Vice-president Harry Rollins, who is also an executive member of the O.A.S.A. The delegates named to the annual meeting of the O.A.S.A. last night at a league meeting held in the Aajmaa Club rooms were President Clem Bowler, Frank Sedore and Secretary Harry Knott, who was voted an honorarium in a slight recognition for his untiring efforts towards softball for the past four years.

A neutral executive or tribunal of three men was named by the executive and whose duties it will be to settle disputes and violations to the league bylaws and constitution, which may arise. The members of the tribunal named were Messrs. Robert Farquharson, Sr., Kenneth Edgecombe and Ken J. Colling, all of whom will work in conjunction with the officers elected at the annual meeting.

Three intermediate clubs from Belleville, classed as intermediate A teams in the O.A.S.A., one intermediate C club and the Belleville juniors will constitute the Belleville Softball Association for 1939. The three A class clubs are Corbys A.C., Shell-Aajmaa Club and Dracup's "tiremen". The Point Anne "Cementmen" affiliated as a class C intermediate club and the Belleville juniors. The latter two clubs will affiliate directly with the O.A.S.A. and draw byes into their respective O.A.S.A. group provincial playdowns as well as affiliating with the Belleville group for league play.

Sports Roundup

New York, Apr. 1 (AP)—One of the gifts Monty Stratton will receive on "Stratton Day" in Chicago will be a contract to coach the White Sox. . . . The football Giants think they have another Bronko Nagurski in Walter Neilsen, ex-University of Arizona fullback. . . . a two-year-old named Practor is getting ready to show you some speed down at Bowie. . . . Yesterday was just another day in Henry Armstrong's life, but a pretty busy day, at that.

Ho hum, just a bum. . . . Well, the critics agreed that as an actor Signor Galento is no worse than expected. Some comment:

Post—The only thing that can help this act is the Sanitation Dept.

Sun — As a Thespian Two-ton Tony is best described by the word with which he refers to Joe Louis.

Mirror—His witticisms proved he had sliced Joe Miller to the bone.

Herald-Tribune — No Broadway actor's reputation is threatened.

World-Telegram — He boxed one round, then had a tough time speaking into the mike. Reason: out of breath.

(The Times' John Kieran admits he gave the act a "wide detour". Reviewers for the News and Journal-American fell asleep and wrote exactly nothing.)

Did you know that outfielders use longer spikes on their shoes than infielders? Don Meade isn't going to ride in Maryland until he makes his peace with the racing brass hats here. . . . Duke 33, Springfield 1; Duke 26, Colby 8, . . . Down south the idea seems to be offense for baseball, defence for football. . . . Escobar and Morgan will draw around $25,000 for tomorrow night's bantamweight title scrap in San Juan.

CRESTS GIVEN TO GROUP WINNERS OF KI-Y LEAGUE

Officials of Y and Members of Kiwanis Club Make Presentations

REFEREES PRAISED

Rosters of Three Winning Teams Officially Announced

Honoring the hockey champions of the Belleville Ki-Y hockey groups officials of the Y.M.C.A. and Kiwanis Club presented the members of the three winning clubs with crests at the Y.M.C.A. last evening. Refreshments were also served at the conclusion of the presentation and during which General Secretary J. E. Shortt acted as chairman.

The championship clubs in the 1939 Belleville Ki-Y Leagues were St. Michael's (bantam), "Peelers" (midget), and the East End Club in the juvenile series. Suitably inscribed crests were presented to the individual players of each championship team, while to the Keegan's 'Specials', runners-up in the midget series, hockey sticks were given the members of this team. The "Peelers" and the "Specials" were tied for the midget group leadership, with the former winning in a sudden death play-off game. Refreshments served included ice cream, cake and soft drinks, all of which were provided through the courtesy of the "Y" and the Kiwanis Club. Special mention of the efforts of Referees Wally High and Bill Storms were made by the league officials, who tendered their thanks to these men for their interest and co-operation in making the Belleville Ki-Y groups a success.

Those taking part in the presentation included Kiwanian Frank Pollwell, chairman of the Belleville Ki-Y League, Kiwanian Herb Fox and J. E. Shortt of the Y.M.C.A.

The rosters of the three 1939 Ki-Y Hockey League champions are as follows:

St. Mikes (Bantam) under 12 years—Basil Donoghue, George McNally, Harry Bennett, Don Barrett, George Reeves, Bob Lucy, Lawrence Meagher, Robert Bunton, Jerry Moher.

Midget, "Orange Peelers", under 15 years—Owen Jones (manager), Ken Campbell, Vern Goyer, Ted Smith (captain), Ward Ketcheson, Bob Rankin, Doug Evans, Billy McIntyre, Stan Wiggins, Bernard Meagher, Roddy Lyle.

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

Ken J. Colling

Is Belleville to take its place in the sports firmament at last? A new out-of-doors sports arena is the latest, to be erected at the corner of Mary and West Dundas streets, to seat 3,000 fans with a covered grand stand over one end and to be equipped with floodlights capable of lighting the field for rugby football, baseball, softball and other types of outdoors sports. Those behind this $50,000 civic stadium project of course wish to remain anonymous for the time being at least. Work will commence on the new stadium immediately with hopes of seeing it opened by the first of June, if possible. With a floodlight stadium at the disposal no doubt baseball and rugby will flourish as of yore, while a senior lacrosse team is expected from the airport.

Already plans to have a senior ball club are being mooted in an effort to popularise the diamond game. A professional manager from the United States will be employed while a high class battery is to be imported, including a pitcher who can get the ball over the plate without consistently hitting the opponents' bats with precision. And also a third baseman who won't cripple the fans sitting behind first with his wild pegs and a trio of outfielders, who can create something else besides a breeze while swinging their bludgeons at the plate. What will be done about rugby of course lies in the hands of "Uncle Bill" Fry, but lacrosse will be a new treat, and there are some top-notch gutted stick manipulators up around the airport.

Getting back to that floodlighted stadium, all spectators will have a seat, individual cushion seats to be afforded those in the covered reserve sections of the stand. It must be admitted the site for the stadium is ideal and central, only five minutes walk from the main street. Of course the introduction of floodlights will be the main and feature attraction and the lighting equipment is to be the best money can purchase, the anonymous informant stated. Already the support of the city's business houses and industrial firms have been assured and things are humming in the matter of interest. Jobs have been assured all imported material that is required to put Belleville in the realm of the big city sporting ventures. Also the matter of an artificial ice plant.

Pardon us, the phone just rang. Voice of a sweet young thing over the phone—"Is this 1939?"

"No," we replied.

"That's what you think. Look at your calendar," and she hung up. Yes and to our readers glance at the upper righthand corner of this page and look at the date.

Such a sensational build-up, as the above, might be a poor April fool prant on the fans, but it's all in fun and we hope some day will, moreover, prove a reality.

So away with this April foolishness and in a more serious light, do you remember when Burly Lawson Little, who won two American and two British golf titles in succession, making golf history, turned professional three years ago today. Little's only major victory since he turned pro was in the 1936 Canadian open at Toronto.

The annual distribution of crests, to the winners of the respective Ki-Y hockey groups, was held in the Y.M.C.A. last evening. Jack Doran's St. Michael's kids won the Bantam series, Owen Jones' "Peelers" the Midget crown and Bill Dennis' newly organized East End Club the Juvenile title. Incidentally through the 1939 Ki-Y hockey series over 200 teen aged Belleville boys took part in the 31 games played. There was 16 teams in the three series. The Ki-Y hockey league serves a great purpose in Belleville and is responsible for hundreds of keen, able-bodied Canadian boys to have the opportunity of playing team games, instead of learning the rudiments of armaments or the goose step. The Ki-Y groups are a worthwhile institution, that should be given more public support.

Read why the HART Kathanode CARRIES THE LONGEST GUARANTEE EVER GIVEN . . .

A revolutionary, new engineering principle, utilizing the amazing insulation properties and porosity of SPUN GLASS makes possible the Patented Hart Kathanode Battery with its greater power and longer life!

To assure peak power delivery for an extended period the separators or insulators in your battery, must be strong enough to hold the power producing material firmly in place in the positive plates; they, must be porous enough to allow the acid solution in the battery to flow freely from plate to plate (see illustration at left) — yet be acid-proof. Not only do these Spun Glass separators permit maximum power delivery but they have greatly increased the life span of the battery!

The Spun Glass separators of the Hart Kathanode keep the positive plates at full strength by eliminating the "shedding" of power-producing materials and thereby guarantee many extra months of Full Power battery performance.

This illustration of a Spun Glass insulator mat shows the amazing porosity of this insulating material and demonstrates one of the reasons for the longer life of the Hart Kathanode Battery. Hart Battery Company Limited are licensed exclusively to manufacture the Kathanode battery in Canada.

36 LINED UP IN GROCETERIA

Three Gunmen Active in Hamilton as Cash Registers Looted

Hamilton, Ont., April 1 (CP)—A new holdup technique was studied by police here today as last night's unprecedented crime wave was investigated. Scornful of the tactics of robbers who seek stores with lone women clerks, three gunmen lined up 36 persons in a groceteria while they looted the cash registers. Automobiles were taken from two citizens by armed men during the night.

Taking practically no precautions against later identification, the three bandits entered the east-end market at a busy hour. Customers became hysterical and a clerk slipped out a rear door but the cool robbers stuck to their business. Two stood with drawn guns near the queues of customers while the third emptied the tills into a shopping basket.

Their job done the men ran to a waiting car and sped away. Customers were not molested and no threats were made. The amount stolen was not determined immediately.

No trace of the men was found though the car was described as similar to that taken from Frank Appleford, Paper Company executive, earlier.

Appleford was dragged from an automobile parked in front of his home and thrown to the road by two youths who drove away.

BATTERING 'ENRY STOPS DAVEY DAY

Retains World's Welterweight Title After 12 Blistering Rounds

New York, April 1 (AP)—Battered and war-worn but still all conquering, Henry Armstrong turned from the glutted domestic market and cast his eyes at England where May 22 he will display the talents that have beaten 45 straight opponents, the last courageous Davey Day of Chicago.

Armstrong, bloody, spent, the index finger of his left hand broken, left Day, badly beaten, in Madison Square Garden ring last night. They helped the little negro from the ring, but he still wore the world's welterweight crown.

He had a right to wear it proudly. For after 11 rounds, in which he had taken command, lost it hurt both hands had seen his early lead slip away, he gathered himself, and danced out to stop Day with a short right hook. Henry weighed 135, Day a pound more.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

TRANSFERS GRANTED

25 Applications for Change of Residence Granted by Executive

Owen Sound, Ont., April 1 (CP)—At a lengthy discussion last night the executive committee of the Ontario Baseball Association considered a large number of applications for change of residence. All were left over for the sub-committee to deal with later.

There were close to 25 applications. The matter of the senior A leagues and association and their groupings was another matter considered by the committee and it was decided that a special meeting of the leagues and associations interested will be held on Good Friday in Toronto (King Edward Hotel) when they will have the opportunity of ironing out their own difficulties.

The application of the Sarnia Junior League for permission to join the Michigan-Ontario League was discussed and this was also left in the hands of the sub-committee.

The status of the Bay of Quinte League teams, which have been playing intermediate "B" and "C" ball, for advancement to "A" and "B" created some discussion. No decision was reached and the sub-committee will have to deal with it. The Bruce League situation was dealt with in conjunction with the status of teams like Penetang, Meaford, Barrie. These teams will be given permission to play with the Bruce League should they be unable to get a grouping satisfactory to themselves.

President Presides.

J. W. Scott, president of the association occupied the chair and W. J. Snyder of Hamilton looked after his secretarial duties.

W. G. Ward, Niagara Falls, a member of the executive and second vice-president of the association was unable to be present on account of the death of his mother. Others present were, Robert Elliott, Deloro; W. J. Smith, Toronto; A. J. Walsh, Toronto; Bert Smith, Toronto; A. Hilmer, Oakville; H. H. Berscht, Hamilton; R. S. Broasch, Toronto; J. F. Dobson, Barrie; C. S. Gilbert, St. Thomas; D. L. Graham, Strathroy; Max J. Swanston, Peterborough; Frank H. Spry, Amherstburg; Bruce Oliver, Sunderland.

Following is the list of applications for change of residence, left over for the sub-committee.

Douglas Mays, Toronto, Kirkland Lake to Hamilton; Clifford Bennett, Belleville to Kingston; Stanley D. Spratt, Napanee to Kingston; Harvey Groves, Blenheim to Wingham; Lyle Chowen, Courtright to Forest; B. A. Jacques, Simcoe to Aylmer; Gordon Storey, London to Aylmer; Fred W. Haynes, Collingwood to Penetang.

MEMORIAL CUP SURVIVORS

(By The Canadian Press)

Edmonton Roamers take on Brandon Elks tonight in the second game of their best-of-five series for the Western Canada junior hockey title, while in an eastern semi-final Verdun Maple Leafs engage Perth Blue Wings. Roamers trounced the Elks 6-0 in the first game, while Maple Leafs won 3-1 in the opener of a best-of-three round. Teams still left in the running for the Memorial Cup:

EAST—
Quebec — Verdun; Ontario — Perth, Oshawa.
WEST—
Manitoba — Brandon; Alberta — Edmonton.

ALLAN CUP SURVIVORS

The long looked-for meeting between Montreal Royals and Toronto Goodyears for Eastern Canada's senior hockey title materialized last night as the Goodies trounced Saint John Beavers 3-0 to eliminate the Maritime champions from Allan Cup Play. Royals and Goodyears now start a best-of-five round Sunday for the section title. Teams left in the Allan Cup hunt:

EAST—
Quebec—Montreal Royals; Ontario—Toronto Goodyears.
WEST—
Ontario — Port Arthur; British Columbia—Kimberley.

Dangerous Hill When Wet

By ALBERT P. TERHUNE

Because Lalage knew so little of business and because she knew so much about Billy Doorn's utter perfection in everything, she bade Billy go straight to the boss and demand a raise of pay.

Because Billy Doorn was in that dazedly drunken first stage of a first engagement which makes a youth reverently certain that his sweetheart has all the occult wisdom of a Sybil and all the mystic intuition which her sex claims for itself, he obeyed her command.

There was a slip-up somewhere. Both of them felt that but neither of them could figure where it was. Both of them had read enough fiction to know that a loving woman is far wiser than a mere man. Also that men owe their most shining successes in life to following the uncannily wise advice of such women.

Yet Billy had followed not only Lalage's advice but her Napoleonic mandate. And here he was out of a job.

Vorick Cressel, Billy's erstwhile business overlord, was a casual acquaintance of Lalage's parents, and thus of her own. Also, Cressel walked past her home every morning on his way to the office.

Lalage lay awake until sunrise. Then she crept out of the house and to the garage and set off downhill in her runabout toward the business section of the little city. Something she had read in last evening's paper had dribbled into her mind during her long waking hours, and had given her a fantastic idea.

Down the long slope of the street she drove, coming to a halt at the intersection of one of the many short cross-streets that led toward the river. From the end of each of these block-long cross-streets there was a sheer drop of anywhere from fifty to seventy feet, to the river below. Wherefore each street's river end was barred by a stout grill, from curb to curb.

A heavy motor-truck had turned into one of the streets the day before. It's brakes had gone bad. It had smashed against the rotting grill at full speed and plunged far down into the river.

As Lalage halted her runabout and gazed down the hundred-yard space which separated her home street from the drop, she saw a night shift of men at work repairing the damage.

Two hours later, Varick Cressel set forth from home on his daily trudge to the office. A scud of rain was beginning to fall. He turned up his collar.

"Good morning, Mr. Cressel" hailed Lelage. I'm going downtown. Don't you want a lift?"

Windrous dainty and appealing she was, as she leaned far out of the runabout's doorway. Cressel clambered aboard the car beside her, gratefully, and with much appreciation; yet aware of a hope that she had not yet heard of her fiance's discharge from his office. Lalage glanced at the folded newspaper in Cressel's hand, as the runabout got into motion.

"Wasn't it horrible—that accident at the end of posser terrace?" she asked.

"Yes," he made answer. It was. Disgrace of the city that such a rusty old fence should have been left there so long."

"And wasn't it a million times terribler," went on Lalage, softly pressing the accelerator, "about Billy Doorn losing his job with you? I say it was more terrible, because the truck-driver jumped in time and wasn't hurt. But Billy jumped into the trouble himself—because I pushed him into it. And now he's out of work and—"

"If you don't mind," said Cressel, stiffly, "I think I will get out. I don't care to discuss my business dealings with—"

"Oh, I'm so sorry!" damented the girl. "But I'm afraid I can't stop and let you out. You see, I seem to have lost control of both brakes. They won't work. I—I have a feeling that when we get to Prosser terace—"

"Don't be absurd!" snapped the bewildered man. "You haven't even touched the brakes. I—"

"And I seem to have forgotten how to," she lamented, as the runabout whizfed faster. "In fact, Mr. Cressel, the only thing that seems likely to bring back my memory is your solemn promise that Billy shall have his job back. You see; it's my fault. I tried to be like the wise girls in stories, and to run his work for him. I taught him a speech to make to you and got him to make it. It was my fault. ow I've got to undo what I've done. It's up to you, Mr. Cressel. So, if you won't let him come back to work—"

"Look out, there" shouted Cressel. "You almost hit those people. Slow down or—"

"Yes," sweetly assented Lelage. "Prosser terrace is only two blocks ahead. But—"

"Tell the young idiot to come back to work this morning!" snarled Cressel.

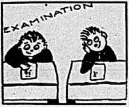
"Oh, how sublimely dear of you!" cooed Lalage. "See, just the very prospect of it makes the brake work again! That's a solemn promise? Because the story would sound so funny if I told it! See, we're safely past Prosser terrace. As soon as I leave you at your office I'll telephone Billy."

"Never mind about phoning to young Doorn to come back, Miss Goss," Cressel exhorted his secretary, ten minutes later. "Someone else is doing it for me. I thought the boy needed a lesson. That's why I made believe to let him go—useful as he was. But it was somebody else who needed the lesson. I think she got it. Women are queer, Miss Goss. Take dictation, please".

Little Benny's Note Book

Miss Kitty started to hand out paper for arifmetic examination, saying, Now I want every boy in the class to pass this examination with flying colors. You may not realize it now but you'll realize later in life that arifmetic is not just a meaningless drudgery, it's one of the most useful acquisitions. All the monetary sistems of the world are based on figures, so if you apply yourselves and become good in arifmetic you will understand what the newspapers mean when they speak of such and such a country being on the gold standard or the silver standard as the case may be, and now if there are no questions we will proceed with the examination, she said.

Sounding like a good time for questions, and Puds Simkins waved his hand, saying, Just because Chinese money has holes in it does that say it's not as good as our money? and Miss Kitty said, A certain number of Chinese yen, as I believe it is called, is always worth a certain number of dollers, regardless of the holes, so it always comes down to a question of figures, in other words arifmetic.



Me quick waving my hand and saying, If you were in China and didn't have anything but quarters and 50 cent pieces and didn't feel like changing it into yens, would the Chinese be sattisfied with it anyways if you puntched holes in it first? and Miss Kitty said, Our own money has its par value all over the world and is always exceptable, in fact gladly so, and now does that end the questions?

Wich it didn't, Raymin Levy waving and saying, If you plugged up the holes in Chinese money would the Chinese think it was ruined? and Miss Kitty said, I will answer no more questions about holes, now is that all?

Wich it was on acount of nobody being able to think of any kind of money except money with holes in or without holes in, so we started the examination wishing we wasn't.

TORONTO STOCKS CLOSE

Toronto, Apr. 1 (CP)—Sharp recovery was registered by the Toronto stock market in the final session of the week, evidently on the presumption that Europe would now have a period of relief from war threats. In the first hour more than half of Friday's heavy losses were recovered. Volume was only fair at about 350,000 shares.

Base metal shares bounded back to show gains of 3 points for Noranda, Smelters 2 points or more and Hudson Bay and Nickel added fractions. Waite-Amulet firmed about 50 cents.

Lake Shore got above the 36 mark for a rise of a point to 1½. Dome, Buffalo-Ankerite and Hollinger added minor fractions and Wright-Hargreaves recovered about 40 cents.

Malartic Goldfields was a strong spot in the penny list. It gained 6 cents. Sladen firmed 5 and Stadacona 3.

Gains of two points or more appeared in the industrial section. National Steel Car added 2¼ and Consumers Gas 2.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, April 1 — In one of the fastest Saturday sessions in more than a year, the stock market today rallied and relapsed at frequent intervals but managed to end on a rising note. The European scene held Wall Street's attention to the virtual exclusion of domestic business and political happenings. There was a slow-down in the final period as Chancellor Hitler started his speech at Wilhelmshaven. Transfers were about 1,500,000 shares. Final gains ran to two or more points for favorites, but there were a number of losers of as much.

Lake Shore shot up nearly two points in the Canadian division and gains running up to a point or so were posted by Distilleries, Hiram Walker and Dome.

Prominent stocks on the recovery shift included U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Chrysler, U.S. Rubber, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, United Aircraft, American Telephone, Public Service of N.J., Anaconda, American Smelting, Santa Fe, Great Northern, Du Pont, and Philip Morris. Lagging were Dow Chemical, American Can, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical and U. S. Gypsum.

Butter Prices Stronger, Eggs Easy

Toronto, Ont., April 1.—Further strength was shown by butter prices, while graded eggs eased and held unchanged on the Toronto open produce market yesterday, according to the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Trading was just fair and demand spotty on the butter market, but enough buying appeared to keep receipts moving. Offerings continued on the light side. Ontario creamery solids turned over at the improved prices of 21 3-4c for No. 1 grades and 21c for 38 score. No change occurred in prints.

The egg market was uneasy, with buyers having about covered their requirements for the week-end. Graded shipmens took a 1-2c drop but other sections maintained previous levels. Graded eggs closed at 21 1-2c for grade A-large, 20 1-2c for medium, 19 1-2c for pullets and 18 1-2c for B and C grades.

Montreal Produce Quiet

Montreal, April 1.—Prices held steady and unchanged in quiet trading on open produce markets here, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reported.

Creamery butter prints to retailers sold for 22 1-2c-3-4c a pound and solids for 22-22 1-4c.

Graded egg shipments in used free cases sold at 23c a dozen for A-large, 21 1-2c for A-medium and 20 1-2c for A-pullets. Receipts: 1,267 cases.

Canadian Chamber of Agriculture

In November of 1935 a group met in Toronto which represented farm co-operatives and producer organizations. There was one thought that was uppermost in the minds of all present and that was the lack of unity of the farmers of Canada.

There are in Canada 728,623 farmers who must be organized in their various fields of production if they wish to market the product they produce to the best advantage.

It was agreed at the meeting that one organization should be formed to represent Canadian farmers and that organization was called "The Canadian Chamber of Agriculture".

Some good lots of hogs received during the week of March 31st, 1939, are as follows:

Goodyear Volume Well Maintained

Toronto—With letter to shareholders enclosing quarterly dividend cheque, President A. G. Partridge stated:

"Our volume of business for the first quarter of 1939 compares favorably with the first three months of 1938, both in domestic and export sales. Earnings for this quarter, however, have decreased somewhat as compared to a year ago, but under the circumstances, may be considered satisfactory.

"The unusually severe weather conditions through the past winter months have affected the use of both automobiles and trucks adversely and the sale of new automotive vehicles is down considerably over the same period last year.

"The effect of the new Trade Treaty which calls for a reduction in the protection afforded Canadian-made automobiles and trucks, will undoubtedly mean further curtailment of automotive production in Canada by several of the smaller Canadian factories and the discontinuance by the larger Canadian manufacturers of certain models which will hereafter be imported.

"During the last two years over 35,000 motor vehicles have been imported, most of which could and should have been made in Canada. There is also a further loss of export business when Canadian manufacture of any model is discontinued.

"All this means a still further loss of employment in the automotive factories and plants making automobile parts, without any perceptible advantage to any one in Canada. I feel sure that if this condition was fully realized by the Canadian people, preventive action would be taken before it was too late. You should be interested, both as a taxpayer and as a stockholder of this Company."

SMALL QUANTITY SYRUP OFFERED; PRICE $2 GALLON

Substantiating early week reports that poor runs of sap were being experienced by sugar-bush owners of the district a negligible supply of maple syrup, far below that offered a year ago, was evident on the city market today. Only a few vendors from widely divergent parts of the district offered the product for sale. Prices however were steady with gallons selling at $2.00 each and the more popular quart quantity offered at 50 cents.

Buying was fairly brisk during the later hours of the morning but on the whole the product moved slowly, although maple sugar slabs and patties sold briskly at five cents each.

Weather approaching the spring type brought out one of the largest attendances of vendors and shoppers in weeks, with a warm sun contributing to market conditions that were well above those of the past three weeks.

Price tones were generally steady with slight decreases being noted in eggs and potatoes. Other quotations were firm and trading on the whole was steady .

Eggs were fairly plentiful with choice "A" selects offered at 26 cents per dozen. Other "A's" sold well at from 23 to 24 cents. Mediums were quoted at 22 cents with some ungraded stocks offered at 22 cents per dozen.

Chicken offerings were fair with some choice weighty yearling birds selling at from $$1.25 each. June chickens were offered at from 80 to 90 cents each with fowl quoted from 50 cents upward. A few ducks were available at 90 cents each.

Homecooking booths were well patronized, while a large amount of bottled horse radish appeared to catch shoppers' eyes.

There was little variety to choose from on the outside market with staple vegetables and winter apples forming the chief attraction. Carrots, turnips, parsnips and beets were steady at fifty cents for bushel lots with onions a few cents higher.

Potato prices showed a tendency to decline today with a good quality tuber selling a $1.35 per ninety pound bag. Other qualities were quoted at from $1.25 for the same amount. Stocks were fairly plentiful but few transactions were made during the early hours.

Mudcats at fifteen cents per pound headlined the fish display with mullets selling at four for twenty-five cents. Panfish were quoted at fifteen cents per dozen and frozen whitefish at fifteen cents per pound.

Pork, beef and veal quarters were offered today with the former quoted at thirteen and fifteen cents per pound for fronts and hinds respectively. Beef was offered at eight and ten cents per pound with veal at the same prices as pork.

Six-weeks'-old pigs showed little difference in the high prices that marked them last Saturday. Six dollars per head was asked by farmers, but little business was done, during the earlier hours at least.

EIGHTEEN INCHES OF SNOW FELL IN MARCH

In spite of the fact that the March Lion had things pretty well his own way during the month just past, there was but slight difference in snow and rainfall from March of a year ago.

According to statistics released this morning by the City Filtration Plant, total rainfall for March this year was 0.80 inches with a snowfall of 18.2-5 inches with a total precipitation of 2.64 inches. March, 1938, was productive of a rainfall of 1.70 inches, a snowfall of 10.3-5 inches, or a total precipitation of 2.76 inches, a slight increase over figures for March of this year.

BOMBS EXPLODED DURING NIGHT

London, April 1 (CP)—Bombs thrown from a motorcar exploded in various parts of London during the night. There were seven explosions between 12.37 and 6.30 a.m. One blew out the front of a newspaper advertising office and another shattered windows in a bank's basement. There were no casualties.

Seven of nine Irishmen arrested in connection with previous bombings were found guilty in Old Bailey Friday. Two of the defendants were acquitted. Sentences will be passed Monday.

'A City of Contentment', Something to Think About!

He walked slowly up Front Street, amazement and incredulity written plainly on his features. This could not be the Belleville in which he had spent the best of his life. A voice at his elbow murmured in his ear. 'It's hard to believe, is it not?" He turned, and saw a figure that strangely resembled himself. Features, clothes, mannerisms, even the accent, were identical with his own.

"What has happened?", he gasped. "A miracle," murmured the voice.

Overhead from the newly decorated city hall tower, the sonorous notes of an electric clock pealed forth the hour. From the confines of the covered, well-heated market came the hum of crowds of shoppers. Down the street the imposing tower of the new four-doored Fire Station reared itself against the blue of the sky.

City Parking Spaces

Wonderment in his eyes, he gazed along the wide thoroughfare that was Front Street. He glanced at his companion with a look of interrogation . "Where are the cars?" he asked. A smile, strangely reminiscent of his own stole over the other's face. Waving his hand he gestured towards the spacious city parking spaces to the rear of imposing new business blocks lining the street.

"No trouble in that respect. Perhaps you had better ask the police," gesticulating towards a stalwart officer, dressed in a stylish uniform of blue with open-fronted tunic and modish peaked caps.

"We have no trouble now," said the officer, "since the city completed the parking spaces. But jump in," motioning toward a new car that boasted a two-way radio. "I'll take you by the City Hall and show you parts of the city you have never seen."

The City Council

As they passed the City Hall a group of men laughing, fraternising, emerged from the building. "Who are those people," he asked, "members of a service club, or fraternal organization."

Brotherly Love

The policeman smiled. "That is the city council," he replied. "One of the finest bodies of men that ever represented this city. Like a large happy family, they work in perfect harmony, without discord or argument. They call each other by their first names, and are the essence of good fellowship."

Along tree-bordered streets the car sped. Newly planted trees thrust their tops against a blue sky unmarred with smoke. Along the streets near the water front they travelled. New industrial buildings, their reddish brown brick fronts blending with the green grass of lawns loomed in the distance. Trim modern houses appeared in the background.

New Beaches

Turning down a side street, a wide expanse of golden sand greeted their eyes. "These are the new beaches," the policeman explained. "Yes" the voice added, "in the summer thousands of people come here to enjoy swimming and other beach sports." Modern bathing houses stood well back, gleaming against a wide expanse of well-kept grass.

A screaming siren roared in their ears. Modern fire apparatus raced by, manned by men in trim modish uniforms. Pumpers, gleaming in polished brass pulled to a stop near a hydrant. Within a minute a minute a powerful stream of water was plying on a building that was emitting smoke from a window. "A grand bunch of men," murmured the voice. "They have the finest co-operation of the city council and the public at large. Everyone turns in and assists them with the result they are efficient, and have kept the loss of property down to a minimum."

Protection Against Floods

Up Church Street the car travelled, past County buildings looking trim in new coats of paint. Along more tree-lined avenues to the river, across the bridge, and along the river bank. Large cement dams reared their pillars high in the air. "Our new flood control devices," murmured the voice. "No more does the Moira overflow its banks and destroy property in the city."

Back into town and along streets bordered with trim private homes. "Who owns these places?" he asked. "Simple," came the voice.

Tax Burden Lighter

"Years ago before the era of prosperity set in and Belleville became known as the city of contentment, we had a mayor, young, dynamic and filled with the courage of his convictions. He deplored the state of taxation under which the city labored, and went about in his own way, to have it lowered. This is the indirect result of his efforts. Today taxes are the lowest on record, everyone owns his own home and is happy."

Spirit of Hope

"Strange," he thought, "that voice is so much like my own that at times I think I am talking to myself." Turning to the "voice he asked, "who are you."

"I am you. Your spirit of hope, of unrealized dreams that my come true" came the reply. "But don't be alarmed, within a minute you will be in your home."

Someone shook his shoulder. He struggled for a moment then opened his eyes. His young daughter stood by his side, merriment showing in her face. "Daddy" she laughed "why do you talk so much when you are sleeping. Look I am going to tear a page off the calendar."

Sleep still tugged at his eyes. Then he awakened with a start. He stared at his daughter standing near the calendar with a torn page in her hand. Then his eyes jerked to the date on the new page. It was April 1st.

Water Rises Slightly In Moira River; No Flooding Yet

A slight rise in the water level of the Moira River was noticed at noon today, but no general break-up of the ice had been reported up to that time, however. Residents along the river above the upper bridge feared the river would break up later in the day and were preparing for a possible flood of waters, although no serious overflow was expected at this late date. According to some of the older residents of Belleville only once before in the history of the community had the Moira River not been broken up on April 1st. The previous date of such a late break-up was not given, however, but is said to have been well over fifty years ago. The ice in the river is considerably honeycombed and although the smaller tributaries are pouring excess water into the Moira, no general or serious flood is expected.

A noon report stated that a slight down-river movement of ice had taken place between Lazier's Dam and the Stone Quarry.

Tommy Mason, Cannifton Road, stated the movement was not general, and no choking or damming of water had occurred.

MATERIAL AID PACT IS BEING WORKED OUT

Paris, April 1—(AP)—Persons close to the French Government said today after a meeting of the Cabinet that a general mutual assistance pact among the anti-aggression powers of western and eastern Europe was in definite process of formation.

Prime Minister Chamberlain's pledge of assistance to Poland yesterday was made with full French support, these circles said, and was designed to offset any surprise aggression while the mutual assistance pact is being worked out.

International Briefs

Ankara, Turkey, April 1 (AP)—The Anglo-French pledge to support Polish independence with the might of their arms was greeted by the Turkish newspaper Tan today under the headline "The Time of Bluffs is Past."

The promise, the paper said, "gives the totalitarian states a 'halt' warning, but will the totalitarian states renounce their expansionist policies? If not, the determined democracies will bar their way."

London, April 1 (AP)— Prime Minister Chamberlain in a letter to his Birmingham constituents published today said that "we are passing through difficult times but . . . I trust we shall presently see an improvement in the situation."

He stressed that Great Britain's desire is "still to remove any legitimate causes of grievances wherever they may exist, but any attempt at world domination would have to be resisted in this country, along with others, as it always has been in the past."

Naples, Italy, April 1 (AP) — Premier Mussolini told a crowd of peasants at Capua today that since they lacked enough space for their families "somebody will have to provide it."

He spoke at the dedication of a big land reclamation project. His hearers shouted "unisia" and "Expansion."

What Il Duce said was that the reclaimed land eventually would have farmhouses "adorned with many children for whom the space is insufficient and somebody will have to provide it."

The reclamation project he dedicated is on the Volturno River. Homes are to be provided for 3,500 families.

London, April 1 (C.P. Cable) — Malcolm MacDonald, Secretary of State for the Colonies, who was "prejudiced against Prime Minister Chamberlain" when he first entered the cabinet, now ranks Mr. Chamberlain as "a remarkably great man."

Addressing the Parliamentary Press Gallery last night a few hours after Mr. Chamberlain had pledged Great Britain's assistance to Poland, Mr. MacDonald said:

"After three years of having the honor of serving under him, I for one would choose no other leader than that remarkably great man."

Madrid, April 1—(AP)—The military occupation of the former Spanish Republican zone was completed today as Nationalist authorities continued to push reconstruction measures. The last two provincial capitals to be occupied were Murcia and Almeria, which gave up Thursday—the day after Madrid's surrender—and invited General Franco to take over.

Moscow, April 1—(AP)—Russian newspapers today reported the Anglo-French pledge to Poland but refrained from editorial comment. Official quarters also were silent.

The London correspondent of the official newspaper Izvestia, however, mentioned that some circles there were comparing Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement on Poland with his declaration a year ago on Czecho-Slovakia and "are comparing the present situation with the situation preceding (Viscount) Runciman's journey to Prague."

(Lord Runciman went to Prague as unofficial negotiator before the September crisis which led to the partition of Czecho-Slovakia.)

LIBBY HOLMAN MARRIES ACTOR

Ralph Holmes and Bride Seclude Selves on Bride's Ranch

New York, April 1 —(AP)— Wealthy Libby Holman and her second husband, 23-year-old actor Ralph Holmes, secluded themselves today on the torch singer's Connecticut estate for a quiet honeymoon.

The pretty, throaty-toned songstress and the son of Taylor Holmes, former matinee idol, were married secretly in Washington Monday.

Broadway acquaintances of Miss Holman, whose first marriage to Smith Reynolds, North Carolina tobacco heir, ended in tragedy, expressed surprise at the announcement. Theatrical circles had thought her engaged to Ralph Holmes' older brother, Phillips Holmes, movie actor and producer.

The singer, now in her 30's, won fame with the throb tune "Moanin' Low." Eight months after her marriage to Reynolds he was found shot to death, July 5, 1932, during a party at Reynolda, the tobacco family's estate at Winston-salem, N. C.

His bride and his best friend, Ab Walker, subsequently were charged with murder. The charges were dismissed without trial.

Miss Holman received $750,000 from the estate. Her six-year-old son, Christopher Smith Reynolds, born six months after Reynold's death, will inherit $7,000,000 when he becomes of age.

LUCKY TO ESCAPE

Haifa, Palestine, April 1—(CP-Havas)—M. F. D. Corfield, Assistant District Commissioner of Acre, escaped today when two Arabs fired six shots at him, one of which knocked his hat off.

BODY OF MAN FOUND IN PO

Small Cut Over Eye of Man Found in Three Feet of Water

Fort Erie, Ont., Apr. 1 (CP)—Fort Erie police today identified the body of a man found with his head submerged in a pool near the Canadian National Railway yards here early today, as that of Arthur Collette, 50, of Toronto.

The body was found by Leo Passero, a railway worker. The head was submerged in about three feet of water.

Chief of Police A. E. Griffin said the only indications of any violence was a small cut over the left eye.

Coroner Dr. H. L. Butters ordered the body removed to a local morgue, and an autopsy may be necessary to ascertain the cause of death.

Collette is believed to be a transient, according to statements of other transients found near the scene, which is a favorite haunt for Knights of the Road seeking rides on freight trains into this terminal. The clothing contained no money.

BRITISH PRESS

rather like the legendary Miss Otis—regrets he was unable to elaborate today. And today was Friday (the start of the English weekend.)"

Key Word 'Independence'

The Times (Independent) commented on the extent of the undertaking: "It does not bind Great Britain to defend every inch of the present frontiers of Poland; the key word is not integrity but independence.

"Mr. Chamberlain's statement involves no blind acceptance of the 'status quo'. On the contrary his repeated reference to free negotiation implies that he thinks that there are problems in which adjustments are still necessary."

The Manchester Guardian (Liberal) emphasized that the Prime Minister's words were carefully chosen and that their meaning is clear to everyone. The newspaper called upon the Soviet Union to resort to action instead of words and bring an end to its policy of isolation.

Assurance to Rumania

"It was the intention of the British government to give an assurance with regard to Rumania exactly in the same terms as the assurance to Poland announced by Mr. Chamberlain," the Guardian's diplomatic correspondent said. "It has not been done because a Rumanian reply has not yet arrived. But there is no doubt at all that the Anglo-French assurance regarding Rumania will be given."

The Daily Worker (Communist) used the headline: "Premier prepares another Munich. Leaves Polish Corridor open to Nazis."

The paper said that "Colonel Beck....is being cast by the British government for the role of 'Runciman of Poland'" (Viscount Runciman surveyed the Czecho-Slovak situation for Britain before Munich.)

HORSE TRADING

Mrs. Whitney retaliated by filing suit against Mrs. Bredin. The case was brought up here Friday before Circuit Judge Robert Toms, who heard the complaint but took no action. No date was set for trial. Mrs. Whitney claimed the horse was sound when sold and refused to accept Cyprus when he was shipped back.

It was up to the express company to collect for shipment and Cyprus, the horse without a home, was sold to Mrs. Eleanor Patterson, Washington, for $2,225, balance of which was turned over to Mrs. Whitney after the express company took $485 for shipments.

NEUTRALITY LAW

the Pittman resolution, which if passed, would result in the United States furnishing arms, ammunition and instrumentalities of death and destruction to belligerents which have the cash and control the sea.

"The inevitable consequences of such a policy would be to draw us closer to actual participation in a foreign war . if such a disastrous event should occur."

The present law provides that, when the President finds a state of war existing between two foreign countries he shall prohibit forthwith the export of arms to each. The law provides also that sales to the belligerents of such other goods as the President designates shall be on a "cash and carry" basis.

GIVEN HIGH TITLE

Wilhelmshaven, Germany, April 1 (AP)—Chancellor Hitler today gave Admiral Erich Raeder, commander-in-chief of Germany's expanding fleet, the title of Grand Admiral—Germany's first since the Great War.

The announcement was made after the launching here of the new 35,000-ton battleship Von Tirpitz, named for the late Grand Admiral Alfred Von Tirpitz, German naval commander who advocated unrestricted submarine warfare during the Great War.

"ENVOY EXTRAORDINARY"

by E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

CHAPTER XX

"Our Dutch friend does me the honor to be interested in my house, apparently." Matresser murmured, following the sweep of the glasses.

Elisabeth made no reply. For more than a minute they watched him—a sea-going Colossus standing on the soles of his wide-spread feet, motionless and intent. Suddenly Elisabeth uttered a half stifled exclamation. Matresser also was looking towards the House but he remained silent.

"Someone waved a handkerchief from one of those windows," she declared.

"It did look like it, didn't it?" her companion remarked indifferently.

"What room is that—the seventh window from the left gable?"

"I'll have to think." Matresser answered. "It's very near my own study."

"But who could be waving?"

He shrugged his shoulders.

"One of the servants, I should imagine," he suggested. "Anyone who was in any of the rooms in the front there, who happened to see him looking up for such a long time, would probably wave."

"Do you like Mr. van Westrheene?" she asked.

"Horrible fellow," Matresser replied, as they commenced the short descent to the village. "He shoots as well as most of us—a little better as a matter of fact—but he is hatefully inhuman."

They stood on the quay for a few minutes, but a sudden squall of snow and sleet from eastwards drove them into shelter. Matresser led the way to the Inn. Mrs. Hewells was at the door to greet them.

"I'm that glad," she said, "there's a fine fire in the parlor. If you will go right in I will be getting your lordship and the young lady some tea."

"Tea sounds very nice," Elisabeth declared, "unless you think we ought not to stay," she added, turning to Matresser.

"We'll risk it," he answered. "I remember what Mrs. Hewell's buttered toast is like! Let me push your chair up to the fire."

"One moment," she begged.

She was standing at the window looking across towards the harbor. The rolling mists were rapidly becoming denser, but for one moment there was a view of the "Daphne". She pointed it out to Matresser.

"I begin to wonder," she observed, "whether that Dutchman has not taken a fancy to you. He brings his boat in at a tremendous risk, they all say, the night you arrive, comes to call on you the day afterwards and so far as I can see—I have noticed it twice before — he spends half his time with his field glasses examining the whole front of the Great House."

"Not an easy fellow to forget if you had once seen him," Matresser remarked.

"He is the tallest man I have ever met, except one of the Danish Royal Family," she confided. "You will not think me foolish, will you? I have the feeling that I cannot breathe, that I cannot exist happily in the same room with him. I scarcely ate a mouthful that night he was next me at dinner. He seems to draw all the air down his own lungs. He is a monopolist, or I suppose I should say an individualist, in life. He lives for himself only."

"Himself or what he represents," Matresser said thoughtfully.

She gave a little start.

"What do you mean by that?" she asked.

"I could imagine him in other days in other clothing," he explained, "as the leader of a savage tribe whose ethics were to kill that they might live. A simple code of existence. It could lead to a lot of bloodshed, I suppose, but it would also lead towards security for the successful savage."

"What I would like to know," Elisabeth said, "is why he is spending his time here—why he has come to his place. Tragedy seemed to follow so quickly in his footsteps."

"You don't suppose he had anything to do with that poor chap Fergus' death?"

"I do not know," she replied deliberately. "How should I know? A few months ago this was the quietest, simplest corner of he world I had ever been in. Now here is a different atmosphere."

"All since my return, apparently," he observed.

"Well, you were rather a stormy petrel, were you not?"

Mrs. Hewells brought in the tea—a real farmhouse tea with scones and jam and piles of buttered toast.

"I think that this storm is very fortunate for us,' Elisabeth said, as she drew off her gloves and seated herself in the chair which Matresser had drawn up for her. "Now I make the tea for you. This is an English domestic scene. Of course, it is all wrong," she went on. "I am here to be your sister's companion—not yours."

"But see how naturally it has all happened," he pointed out. "This is your afternoon off. You go for a walk. I meet you—a happy chance. A storm arrives—another happy chance. And we have tea together at Mrs. Hewells'. It gives me the opportunity to say something to you before I go away, something which I knew I should say very soon but which might not have been so easy up at the house."

"You are very mysterious," she said.

"I shan't be for long," he told her cheerfully. "One more small piece of sugar, please, to give me courage," he went on, passing his cup. "I will be perfectly orthodox according to the best social tradition. Elisabeth, will you marry me?"

"Will I what!" she exclaimed.

"Oh, well, of course, I could talk about it forever," he continued, "but having made up my mind what I want in life, I am following my usual custom and asking for it. I know I have wasted a lot of time travelling about in, I suppose a perfectly selfish fashion, but for a time at any rate that has to come to an end. I want to settle down here for the sake of other people and there is no one else I have ever known with whom I wish to share my life."

"But you cannot be in earnest," she expostulated. "It is impossible. You know really nothing of me. I might be—an adventuress."

"You could be no more an adventuress in life," he pointed out, "than I am an adventurer. I have an idea that I could make you happy and I suppose you know quite well that I could not have said one word of these things to you if I did not care. You have gathered, I suppose, that I am not demonstrative. That is, I think, because I have been a Jack-fo-all-trades and turned over many pages of life. Love making has not come very much my way. Look at me, please, Elisabeth. You know that I am fond of you."

His hand had fallen upon hers. It seemed to her an incredibly bewildering situation. She was curiously and inexplicably happy. She knew that so long as she lived she would carry with her the memory of this quaint little room his strangely spoken words, the curious strain of earnestness which had suddenly crept into his tone and manner. He was shocked and yet thrilled to find that her eyes were full of tears.

"You must think that I am perfectly idiotic," she said. "I will not pretend that you are the first man who has ever asked me to marry him but there is something so altogether different about the real thing when it comes."

"I hope there is," Ronnie agreed. "You must not think that I am being silly," she begged, "or trying to play the ingenue, but however I felt about it I do not think I could ever marry you."

"And why not?"

"Frankly because my life is already full of other very serious things," she explained. "In England you are all so happy and comfortable. Success comes to you so easily. You have no broken institutions to lament. You have not a long procession of ruined relatives and friends to keep you sad."

"You can bring as many of them as you like over here," he promised. "We will do what we can. I should always want to do what I could to make your people happy."

"But you do not see," she went on, "it is more than a personal matter? It is Austria—my country—that is suffering."

"Please go on," he begged. "I only wish to understand."

"I know that you are too great a man ever to stoop so low, but if I tell you something, you will promise that you will forget it?" Elisabeth asked Matresser.

"If you ask me to—yes."

"I hold a position in your household and I try to do my duty, all the same I am nothing more nor less than a spy —or rather, I should be if there were more opportunity."

"Bless my soul!" Ronnie exclaimed. "What is there down here which could possibly help you?"

"I do not know," she answered. "I may know any day. I only know that the position was found for me and I came."

"Then get along with it, my dear," he invited. "To tell you the truth it sounds most intriguing. Spies have not come my way very much, except in cruder countries with a rope round their neck. If I can help at any time let me know."

Elisabeth looked at him gravely.

"Are you making fun of me?" she asked.

"Of course I'm not, dear," he answered. "The only thing is, it did sound rather absurd. I mean what I say, too. If you think there is anything to be found out down in these parts which will be of any use to your mysterious principals, let me know and I will help. By-the-by, for whom are you working? What is it you want to find out? I would rather help than hamper. Indeed—"

"Do you mind not saying any more?" she interrupted. "I know that you mean to be kind but you hurt. The people for whom I work are worth while. That is all I can tell you. Will you please ask me no more questions?"

"I should like to ask you once more whether you won't marry me," he insisted.

She was half angry, half tearful.

"Do not spoil it all," she begged. "If it is any pleasure to you to know it I was very happy for a few minutes and you have given me something very beautiful to think about. Please let it stay at that. Do not treat me as though I were a stupid intriguante. The only passion I have ever known in life is my passion for my country. I am in earnest, however ineffectual I may be. It must be almost impossible for you to understand, but be kind, please, Lord Matresser."

"My dear, I couldn't be anything else," he assured her.

CHAPTER XXI

Matresser continued to address Elisabeth: "I am too fond of you. I shall let you go your own misguided way, but when I judge the time has come for me to talk to you seriously again I shall do it.. I can see you are dying to get home."

"Do you mind?" she pleaded. "It is all so difficult."

"Come along," he invited. "Mrs. Hewells telephoned for a car directly we got here."

She rose promptly to her feet as he touched the bell.

"It has been such a lovely afternoon," she said as she bade farewell to Mrs. Hewells. "And you," she added a moment or two later to her host, "let me thank you, too—will you not? Do not think I am ungrateful. It is marvelous to have a home like yours and a mansion and great estates and to be an English nobleman, but when I see all these things and I look across, not only as far as Vienna but through all our beautiful country, do you really think I could settle down here and be happy and forget?"

He held her hand quite tightly in his for the first few moments of their homeward drive. For a man who knew so little of her sex he was very wise indeed. He exercised the gift of silence.

X X X

They discovered a certain amount of agitation among the household when they reached home. Matresser was begged to go at once to his mother's boudoir. She welcomed him eagerly.

"My dear Ronald," she confided, "until you rang up and we knew your whereabouts we were in great distress. A telephone message came at four o'clock from Sandringham. A certain gentleman from Downing Street—they were very mysterious—is leaving this evening and he wished to know if it would be convenient for him to dine and spend the night here on his way back."

Matresser whistled softly to himself.

"Of course you said yes."

"My dear boy," his mother remonstrated, "for a cabinet minister of such distinction we have opened up the Bishop's Suite in the west wing and I told Ann she must send her young soldier friends back to barracks. They can come over and dine any night they like after tomorrow. From the way the message was sent I am quite sure the visit is meant to be a private one, although I cannot imagine why."

'ight as usual, my wonderful mother," Matresser declared. "I am going into the library to study contemporary politics in The Times. What on earth can I find to talk about with a leading statesman?"

"For once, my dear," his mother told him, with a mysterious light in her keen eyes, "you will have to break through that reserve of yours and talk about your travels."

The Right Honorable Sir Francis Tring, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, proved himself a very popular guest during his flying visit to the Great House.

"I hope you understand, Lady Matresser," he explained, "that I had no idea whatever of interfering with any house party you might have been giving. We politicians have a very censorous press criticizing our every move and we are passing through rather troublesome times. This is such a well-known country house for gay parties and wonderful sport that my visit here, when things are a little critical in London, might have seemed crass."

"I am sure we all quite understand that," she assented.

"I did want just a few words with your son," Tring continued. "He has helped us before, you know, and I value his judgment."

Lady Matresser was not a woman who usually showed her emotions, but she was certainly surprised.

"I am delighted to hear you say so, Sir Francis. To tell you the truth I never imagined that Ronald's travels were of any interest to anybody except to the Royal Geographical Society and his sporting friends....By the way, my son-in-law, Stephen Hennerley, is our only other guest, and you know him, I think."

"Of course I do," Sir Francis assented. "He belongs to our party and is a very useful Member of Parliament. There was a young lady—a foreigner, I believe—whom I thought very attractive. I only saw her for a moment."

"Mademoiselle Stamier is a charming girl and very much admired. She is my daughter's companion."

"Is she by any chance of Austrian nationality?" Sir Francis inquired.

"She is a niece of the Austrian minister," Lady Matresser confided.

"Austria will be one of our problems, I fear, for years to come," Sir Francis observed. "I think most English people have the warmest feelings of friendship toward her but we never seem to be in a position to be able to translate our good will into practical help."

Dinner was announced and the tete-a-tete came to an end. Sir Francis, who had the look of a harassed man, talked courteously but at no great length to his hostess and exchanged only a few remarks with Elisabeth who sat on his other side.

"You are going to join in one of these wonderful shooting parties, Sir Francis?" the latter inquired.

"I? My dear young lady," he told her, "I have not touched a gun this year. I have just called on my way back to town to have a few words with our host."

"With Lord Matresser?" she asked in surprise.

He nodded assent.

"We look upon Matresser," he went on, "as one of our unofficial ambassadors. He seems to have a special gift for dealing with some of these troublesome people in faraway countries. Within my memory we have three times asked for his advice. In each case, if we had followed it literally, we should have been better off."

"But are they countries which interest you?" she ventured.

"Every square yard of land where the Union Jack has once been raised," he declared with mock grandiloquence, "is our interest."

"That sounds terribly like the hustings," Hennerley observed with a smile. "I could imagine our local patriot, balanced upon a tub at Kakenham Market, getting off a squib of that description."

"It would perhaps be better for the country," Sir Francis remarked drily, "if there were a little more of that sort of talk abroad."

"May I say good-bye to you now, Lady Matresser," he begged. "I know you will forgive my apparent breach of manners but I must be in London early in the morning so I have ventured to order my car for an unheard-of hour. Your son and I are going to have a talk in his den if you will excuse us."

She shook hands with a somewhat mystified smile.

"We are sorry to see so little of you, Sir Francis," she said, "but I am delighted to think that Ronald is likely to be of some use to you."

X X X

Arrived in Matresser's den, Sir Francis lit a cigar and Matresser his pipe. Burrows himself brought up their coffee and brandy and received his final instructions with regard to the early departure of this important guest.

"I am delighted to see you here, of course, sir," Matresser said as soon as they had settled down, "but isn't it rather a breach of our arrangement?"

"It had to be," Sir Francis acknowledged grimly. "I don't know whether you quite realize what has happened. I sent an important message down to you by one of our most reliable men in the Foreign Office—Phillip Fergus. You know him, of course. I wrote you about that last report of yours, asking for some information about a spot we are rather interested in just now. The fellow was first of all assaulted between Pakenham and Cley and afterwards deliberately, brutally murdered. Something must have leaked out about your travels, Matresser. Who is there down here likely to be playing the spy?"

"I wish I knew," Matresser rejoined. "I am pretty well surrounded by my own people."

"Then your own people will have to be put on the grill. The letter which Fergus was bringing you and which apparently you have never received, would seem perfectly harmless to any ordinary person, but to anyone who could read between the lines it would give away the whole bag of tricks. We have had to go further in this matter than we have ever gone before."

"What exactly do you mean by that?" Matresser asked Sir Francis.

"I mean that we are sending Finch down here tomorrow," the minister went on. "He is third in command at Scotland Yard but he was at MI7B during the war and he is pretty clever at this sort of business. Marlow is coming with him to see that the criminal side of the matter is kept within bounds. Before they get to work, Matresser, as man to man, and I can assure you a great deal depends upon your reply, are shielding anyone or partially shielding them? Have you no suspicion whatever as to who it was who first assaulted and then murdered Fergus and is in possession of the letter addressed to you, fortunately in very vague terms but definitely inviting you to take part in our pending conference?"

"I can assure you that I have no idea," Matresser declared earnestly. "The only strangers in these parts are a Dutchman called van Westrheene, who brought his boat in here the night of the storm and who has been up to shoot with me once and dine, a great sportsman but a disagreeable fellow. Then, besides him, the only persons who do not absolutely belong here are my mother's maid, who I have satisfied myself is entirely harmless, and my sister's companion, Mademoiselle Stamier, whom you sat next at dinner and who I think I told you is a niece of the Austrian Minister."

"We will leave the young lady out of it for the moment," the Foreigner Minister declared. "I have some slight acquaintance with Mademoiselle Stamier and she is scarcely likely to work against her sympathies. Van Westrheene is a Dutchman, you say. I will have him looked up directly I get back."

"Would you like to see the doctor in whose house the final tragedy happened?"

"How long has he been in the place?"

"He was born here and his father before him. He is what he calls himself—a real piece of Norfolk clay. He used to be ashamed of the fact but now he rather brags about it. He has never been outside England in his life. He has not even crossed the Channel."

Dear Mrs. Huffman:

We, your friends and neighbors, have again met together to do honor to your kindness and faithful services as pianist of Burr church.

No other member can boast of being such a regular attendant, so kind, cheerful, and ever willing.

For a long time we have felt that you were deserving of some small gift of appreciation and tonight we wish to do that honor. Words cannot express our thanks to you, but perhaps a verse of Edgar Guest comes as close to it as any, so—

"We'd like to be the sort of friend that you have been to us.
We'd like to be the help that you have always given us.
We'd like to mean as much to you
each minute of the day,
As you have meant, oh friend of ours, to us along the way.

In closing we ask you to accept this small token of our regard.

A lovely clock with chimes was brought in by Mrs. Marvin and presented to Mrs. Huffman.

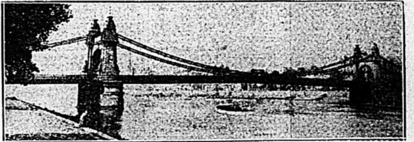
AS HE DISCARDED "APPEASEMENT" FOR ARMED STRENGTH

British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain is pictured making the speech at the town hall, in his native city of Birmingham, that will go down in history as one of the most important of his career, and quite possibly one of the most important in contemporary British history. In this address he sounded the death knell of what he had previously called his realistic policy of "appeasement" toward dictator nations. Britain's continued work for peace will be on the basis of her armed strength and her solidarity with other peace-loving nations.

AS THE KING AND QUEEN WELCOMED FRANCE'S PRESIDENT

Symbolizing the amity between France and England at a critical time in the history of Europe, the King and Queen are pictured as they welcomed President and Mme. Lebrun, of France, during the latters' historic visit to the British capital.



IRISH TERRORISTS BOMB HAMMERSMITH SUSPENSION BRIDGE

The Hammersmith suspension bridge over the Thames, one of London's main traffic arteries, was damaged by two terrific explosions which police stated was the most serious outrage since the outlawed Irish Republican army commenced its reign of terror in Britain early this year. The bridge has been closed to all traffic, while engineers determine the extent of the damage.

BRITISH LOAN FOR REARMAMENT OF RUMANIA

Col. Beck, Polish Foreign Minister, Arrives in London

NEWS ODDITIES AND BRIEFS

AIRPLANE LANDS IN STREET

Denver, April 3 (AP)—"An airplane is down in the middle of the street," alarmed residents telephoned police.

Five squads of police rushed to Colorado Boulevard and 35th Street. They found William Paddock of Denver blowing earnestly into the fuel line of his single-seat monoplane, which he had landed safely on the boulevard.

A couple of police-supervised puffs and out came the obstruction.

The patrolmen cleaned a lane through several hundred curious persons along the boulevard and Paddock took off.

FORD BUYS SAILING VESSEL

Detroit, April 3 (CP)—Henry Ford has bought the largest sailing vessel on the Great Lakes, the J. T. Wing, a 140-foot gaff-rigged schooner, and will use the boat as a training ship for young men interested in sailing. The Wing is being overhauled and will be sailed this summer, probably by sea scouts.

HUMAN ILLNESSES TROUBLE ZOO INMATES

Chicago, April 3 (AP)—Robert Bean, Assistant Director of the Brookfield Zoo has his worries. For instance:-

First the bull elephant had a touch of rheumatism. Then two penguins, Hep and Zep, developed corns from their parading.

New, Moe and Bo, two of the bearded and hairy Baboons, have the barber's itch.

HUNTING A NEEDLE WOULD BE SAFER

Hawk Run, Pa., April 3 (AP)—Miners of this Clearfield County community have their own problem of "hunting a needle in a haystack" today. They're removing by hand coal from 18 loaded railroad cars to find four sticks of dynamite buried by mistake in one of the cars. Mine officials feared an explosion might result if the train was moved.

ARAB SHEIK KILLED

Jerusalem, Apr. 3 (CP-Havas)—Sheik Ahmed Al Sakmini was killed in the market place here by unidentified persons Sunday. He was well known as an Arab leader. An Arab was killed at Nazareth and two Arabs shot by soldiers at Tiberias while breaking through a military cordon.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, April 3—(CP)—Synopsis—A fairly deep disturbance, moving northeastward across New Brunswick, strong winds and moderate gales with snow, and rain in the Maritime Provinces and heavy snow in the St. Lawrence Valley. Light snowfalls or flurries have also occurred in many parts of Ontario and Alberta. The weather has been cold throughout the Dominion. High pressure extends from Alaska southeastward across the Mackenzie Valley and Manitoba to the central states.

Manitoba and Saskatchewan—Fresh to strong westerly winds; mostly cloudy tonight and Tuesday with slightly higher temperature; some light snow or rain.

Alberta—Partly cloudy and comparatively mild today and Tuesday.

Why the Weather!

By Major A. H. Thiessen

Colonization and climate! Nations wishing to expand by colonization should study the climate of the regions they wish to annex for that purpose. It is well-known that the Romans, great conquerors as they were, failed in colonizing Britain and Germany. The Teutons, however, were successful in colonizing Britain, but not the Mediterranean countries. The people of northern Europe are happy and successful in northern United States and Canada. When people migrate they flourish best in that country where the climate is similar to that of the homeland.

PRECAUTIONS ARE TAKEN BY POLICE AS BECK ARRIVES

Vital Conversations Are to be Held With British Leaders

INFORMATION ON AID

Report Says Beck May Ask for Hundred Million Dollar Loan

London, April 3 — (AP)—Colonel Joseph Beck, Polish Foreign Minister, arrived at 4:33 p.m. (11.33 a.m. EST) today for vital conversations with British leaders.

He was met at the station by Viscount Halifax, Foreign Secretary, and members of the staff of the Polish Embassy.

Stringent police precautions were taken at the station. A large force of police and plainclothesmen mingled in the crowd which was held back by barriers.

Col. Joseph Beck, Polish Foreign Minister, came from Warsaw seeking further information on the aid which Great Britain, as well as France, is committed to provide if Polish independence is threatened. France's promise was under a long-standing treaty commitment.

Requests For Loan

Beck was reported carrying requests for loans and colonies to lay before the Prime Minister and Foreign Secretary while working out details of the new British-French-Polish alliance. Unofficially it was reported here that he would ask for a loan of £20,000,000 ($100,000,000).

Beck was represented as prepared to tell Britain that Poland wished to live on friendly terms with Germany but would oppose with arms any threat of force against her territory.

Beck's train made a brief stop in Berlin last night and the Polish statesman had a five-minute chat with an undersecretary of the German Foreign Office.

France, the United States and Russia were being kept informed on all developments.

Russia to Supply Arms

Reports in Paris were that one plan being considered called for Russia to act as a source of arms supply for Poland rather than to aid with troops in event the anti-aggression bloc were called on for a showdown.

The Soviet newspaper Izvestia, however, indicated that Russia was not satisfied with Mr. Chamberlain's Polish declaration and awaited "a policy of genuine collective security."

British newspapers generally agreed today the comparative mildness of Chancellor Hitler's Wilhelmshaven speech should be given cautious welcome.

While the Daily Herald (Labor) warned of an "obvious trap," The Daily Telegraph (Conservative) observed:

"Hitler's speech merely repeated for the 100th time the wearisome story of Germany's alleged wrongs and served up once more all the familiar jargon about 'living space,' 'vital rights,' 'a place in the sun,' 'encirclement' and the rest.

Part of Technique

"It made no reference to Poland. Possibly the explanation is that he was surprised by the vigor of (Prime Minister) Chamberlain's statement and had no time to make up his mind. But it would be a gross error to interpret his silence as in itself a favorable sign. In fact

ENCIRCLEMENT OF GERMANY DENIED BY LORD HALIFAX

Britain and France Trying to Create United Front Against Aggression

ESTABLISH CONFIDENCE

Dangerous and Unwise Course Giving Aid to Poland Says Labor Member

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, April 3—(CP Cable) — Viscount Halifax, Foreign Secretary, told the House of Lords today that "nothing could be further from the truth" than German charges that Great Britain and France were trying to encircle Germany.

Great Britain was attempting to create a united front against German aggression and not against Germany herself, the Foreign Secretary emphasized. Germany's neighbors could not be expected to ignore the lessons of the past and that was the reason they were co-operating, he added.

The British government was fully alive as to the importance of Russia in this new system of collective security, Lord Halifax declared, and great importance was attached here to Russian views.

Established Confidence

The Foreign Secretary recalled Germany's seizure of 8,000,000 Czechs in March. It was natural, he said that as a result of this step "other countries bordering on Germany should feel their independence might be equally in jeopardy."

The British government, therefore, sought to re-establish some measure of confidence in Europe and was in communication with certain other governments.

"These consultations are still proceeding and I am not now in a position to make any final statement with regard to them," Lord Halifax added.

He said he expected to have with

TORSO SLAYER AGAIN ACTIVE

Workmen Find Woman's Foot 'Sawed Off' at Ankle

Cleveland, April 3 (AP—Cleveland feared today its torso slayer had struck again.

Detective Peter Merylo, in charge of the torso murder investigations, planned a search of the Kingsbury Run district where two workmen yesterday found a woman's foot, "sawed off" at the ankle.

The Kingsbury district, an industrial area, has yielded parts of four bodies in the last four years. Eight other mutilated bodies have been found within a five-mile radius.

Merylo and Dr. Samuel Gerber, Cuyahoga county coroner, refused definite comment on the possibility that the murderer had taken a 13th. life.

Dr. Gerber said it would take him "at least a week" to ascertain if the foot was embalmed. He declared the foot was in good state of preservation, either because it had been put there recently or because it had been frozen.

The workers discovered the foot in an iron barrel on a trash dump.

Germans Explain Glass Shield About Hitler

Berlin, Apr. 3 (AP) — Wilhelmstrasse officials expressed surprise today at report from the United States and Great Britain that Chancellor Hitler's standing behind a glass, described as bullet-proof, Saturday in Wilhelmshaven had been given prominence and "unfavorable interpretation".

The official explanation follows: There was a strong breeze blowing at the naval port Saturday. Hence, both to prevent the notes from which Hitler spoke from blowing away and to guard against the possibility he would catch cold, a curved glass shielding the speaker from three sides was placed on the speaker's stand.

This precaution has nothing to do with fear in high quarters that an attempt might be made on the life of the Fuehrer.

Artists Offer To Decorate Streets Of Toronto Free

Toronto, Apr. 3 (CP)—Anthony Macomo, secretary of the National Youth Progressive Association, said today 130 commercial artists, members of the association, had volunteered to decorate Toronto's streets free of charge for the visit of the king and queen here this summer. The matter has been referred to the city clerk.

"If the city will foot the bill for materials, we will design and erect the decorations without further cost," Macomo said.

The association's idea is to place decorative shields on every Hydro pole along the royal route. The decorations would include strings of pennants emblematic of the various nations of the empire.

HITLER WARNS TREATY OF 1935 IS ENDANGERED

Tells Britain She May 'Burn Fingers' Helping Others Out

REFERS TO AXIS

Berlin, April 3—(AP)— Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and his associates maintained frequent communication with the German Embassy in London today to get a complete picture of developments there in the Anglo-Polish negotiations.

Newspaper headlines said that a sizable British loan was being held before the Poles as "bait."

"The usual means—Poland is to be baited by a loan," was the caption of Der Montag.

"The bait: A loan—and Poland is to bite," said Das Zwoelf Uhr Blatt.

Says Warsaw Warned

The press further informed the public—by headlines such as Voelkischer Beobachter's that "Warsaw considers itself warned"— that Chancellor Hitler's speech of Saturday had had its effect on Poland on the eve of Foreign Minister Joseph Beck's departure for London.

At Wilhelmshaven Hitler threw back the Anglo-French anti-aggression challenge but avoided going beyond the intimation he might cancel Germany's naval treaty with Great Britain.

"Germany will stand neither for intimidation nor encirclement," he said.

BAPTIST MISSION AT SIAN BOMBED

Two Hundred Houses Reported to Have been Destroyed

Shanghai, April 3—(AP)— The British Baptist Mission at Sian, Shensi Province, was reported today to have been damaged for the third time in a Japanese air raid.

Two hundred houses, including the Baptist missionary residence, were said to have been destroyed in the noontime raid yesterday.

Improved air raid precautions and the previous withdrawal of many civilians restricted casualties to only a dozen. All foreigners were reported safe.

Meanwhile a new Japanese offensive toward Changhsa, Hunan Province capital, is threatening the great Chinese southwest, at present the principal reservoir of China's war power.

General Chiang Kai-Shek's greatest defensive works lie in the southwestern provinces; his greatest troop strength is deployed along the Hankow-Canton railway guarding the fringe of this domain which includes the provisional seat of the Chinese government.

Japanese columns were reported today cutting pathways through the Hwalin (flowery forest) mountains in a westward drive from Nanchang, fallen capital of Kiangsi Province, while forces on the north of Changhsa, at Yochow, resumed their long stalemated offensive southward along the Hankow-Canton railway. Yochow is about 100 miles north of Changhsa.

510 POUND WOMAN BURIED

London, Ont., Apr. 3 (CP) — Mrs. Rose Pallaria, 27, mother of three children and believed to be the heaviest woman in the district, was buried here today in a specially-constructed casket. Mrs. Pallaria, who died Saturday, weighed 510 pounds. The casket, carried by eight pallbearers, was 36 inches wide.

MOTHER KILLS INFANT SON AND THEN STABS SELF

Smothered Child to Death With Pillow in Crib State Police

MOTHER TO RECOVER

Mother's Fears Child Would be Cross-eyed Were Unfounded

Pittsburgh, April 3—(AP)— A young mother was accused today by police of killing an infant son she feared deformed then critically stabbing herself in remorse over the act.

The officers said Mrs. Harold Brown, 22, smothered 10-weeks-old Harold Joe Brown to death with a pillow in his crib then three times plunged a butcher knife into her left breast.

Her husband discovered the tragedy late yesterday when he returned home from work and kissed the child's cheek in the belief he was asleep. Mrs. Brown was lying on a bed bleeding profusely. Hospital attendants said she would recover.

The mother's fears that her child would go through life "with a badly shaped head and crossed eyes" were needless, reported Coroner's Surgeon Dr. J. M. McMeans. He said Harold Joe's eyes were crossed slightly, his head "bulged" somewhat at the back but he probably would have developed normally.

THREE BUILDINGS IN AYTON BURN

Fire Brigade from Hanover Prevented by Bad Roads from Reaching Scene

Hanover, Ont., April 3 (CP)—Fire caused damage estimated at more than $35,000 early today at Ayton, 10 miles south of here, when snow-blocked highways prevented the Tanover fire brigade from answering a call for help.

Three buildings in the village were destroyed and four persons were injured. They were taken to hospital at Hanover.

The injured were William Sisler, who broke two bones in his foot when he fell from one of the burning buildings; Edward Claridge and Irwin Sisler, whose eyes were injured by smoke, and Lorne Werner.

Dr. C. R. Card of Ayton, whose office, home and all their contents were destroyed, borrowed clothing and drove the injured to Hanover. Dr. Card and his wife escaped from their home in night clothing.

General Store Destroyed

Heaviest loser in the fire was Valentine Domm whose general store and contents were a total loss. His adjoining home also was destroyed. The bake shop and home of Clayton Wittich also were destroyed.

Volunteer fire fighters in the village were helpless to stop the fast-spreading flames, which were discovered at 2.15 a.m., and a call for help was sent in to the Hanover brigade.

It was found impossible to bring the heavy equipment over snow-clogged roads which have been virtually closed to motor traffic for several weeks. Dr. Card, however, managed to drive his car to Hanover with four injured.

BAD WEATHER DELAYS PLANES

Vancouver, Apr. 3 (CP)—Trans-Canada Air Lines eastbound plane, scheduled to leave last night on its passenger-carrying flight, was still being held at Sea Island Airport here today. Officials said bad weather over the Rocky Mountains has resulted in an "indefinite delay" in the second eastbound passenger flight.

Premier Says No Threat to Germany While a Good Neighbor

Bucharest, Apr. 3 (AP) — Great Britain's indicated offer to finance Rumanian rearmament today was received in Bucharest as especially welcome assistance in the face of the present precarious situation in central Europe and the Balkans.

Such assistance, it was said, should relieve Rumania of being almost entirely dependent on Germany for armaments.

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, April 3—(CP Cable) — The Anglo-French guarantee to Poland will be followed by similar commitments to other countries which stand in the way of any attempt by Germany to dominate Europe, Prime Minister Chamberlain announced in the House of Commons today.

Although the Prime Minister did not specify the countries he had in mind, it was expected Rumania would be the first to be given a guarantee similar to Poland's.

Great Britain's expansionist aims could not be carried out if the guarantee were confined to Poland, Mr. Chamberlain said.

Nations Are Anxious

Every state lying adjacent to Germany, ever since Chancellor Hitler's annexation of Bohemia and Moravia, had been unhappy, anxious and uncertain about Germany's intentions, the Prime Minister declared.

He said that may be a misunderstanding of German policy but if Germany had no thoughts of applying force against them "so much the better."

In the event of Germany having no aggressive intentions against her neighbors any agreement to resist her would become inoperative. There had never been any threat against Germany "as long as the German remains a good neighbor."

Hitler's Idea 'Fantastic'

It was fantastic, the Prime Minister said, for Chancellor Hitler in his Wilhelmshaven speech of Saturday to talk about the encirclement of Germany.

Turning to questions of Russian co-operation, Mr. Chamberlain admitted ideological differences existed between Great Britain and the Soviet Union but these differences played no part in the plan to resist German aggression and to preserve the independence of Britain and all countries that may be threatened.

Cooperation with Russia would be welcomed irrespective of its internal system of government, he said.

British Nation United

"I believe this nation now is united not only in approval of what we have said, but of the aim and purpose that lie behind it. I think the whole Empire shares that approval," the Prime Minister declared.

"The members of the British Empire beyond the seas have hitherto watched our efforts for peace with the fervent hope they might be successful.

"All of them have had a growing

SKIPPER APPOINTED

Toronto, Apr. 3 (CP) — Captain Jack Felker, Toronto, native of Goderich, has been appointed master of the steamship Captain C. D. Secord, owned by the Mohawk Navigation Company, it was learned today. He succeeds Captain F. Heffernan of Belleville who died last winter.

Captain Felker began sailing with the old Montreal Transportation Company in 1910. During the Great War he was skipper of a mine-sweeper.

Britain Attaches Importance To Relations With Iceland

London, April 3—(CP)—The British government attaches "great importance" to relations with Iceland, Richard Butler, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, announced in the House of Commons today when questioned regarding German activity there and in Denmark.

(It was disclosed in March that the Icelandis government had refused Germany permission to establish a civil aviation base on the island.)

Major J. R. Macnamara, Conservative, asked if the government "were aware of Nazi activities in Denmark and Iceland" and if the government "would make it clear that the independence of the Kingdom of Iceland is viewed by ourselves in the same light as the independence of France?"

Mr. Butler replied: "Various reports have been received on this subject from His Majesty's representatives. His Majesty's government attach great importance to their relations with Iceland. However, I do not find it impossible to accept the comparison as set forth in the question."

YOUTHS CAPTURED AFTER ROBBERY AND FAST CHASE

Automobile Theft and Theft of Licence Plates Will Also be Charged

POLICE FIRE AT CAR

Welland, Ont., April 3—(CP) — Four Niagara Falls youths will appear in court here today charged with armed robbery, automobile theft and theft of licence plates. They are Stewart Tate, 20; Boyd Englehart, 16; Louis Savano, 21; and Donald Irvine, 20.

Arrested near Toronto yesterday after a chase which featured gunfire and reckless driving, the gunmen were returned to the seat of the county where their most serious charge, robbery of a Port Colborne confectionery store, took place.

PUBLISHER SAYS HE WILL REBUILD

Loss by Fire of the Timmins Daily Press Placed at $200,000

Timmins, Ont., April 3 (CP) — Roy H. Thompson, publisher of the Timmins Daily Press, whose plant was damaged by fire early yesterday announced plans today for temporary publication of the newspaper at North Bay starting Wednesday.

Mr. Thompson said he was accepting the offer of W. E. Mason, publisher of the North Bay Nugget, to use the plant and facilities of the Nugget.

Estimates of the loss suffered in the destruction of the Daily Press and of Radio Station CKGB were placed by Mr. Thompson at $80,000, only partially covered by insurance. Original damage estimate yesterday by J. Nolan Sisson, general manager of the newspaper, was $200,000.

"We will rebuild as soon as it is feasible," Mr. Thompson said.

TOKYO ANXIOUS OVER MEETING

Sir Robert Craig, Envoy to Japan, to Meet Envoy to China

Tokyo, April 3—(CP-Havas) — The journey of Sir Robert Craigie, British Ambassador to Japan, to meet Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, the Envoy to China, in Shanghai aroused misgivings in the Tokyo press today.

"This conference of the British Ambassadors to Jajan and China is intended solely to frustrate Japan's attempts to build a new order in East Asia," said the Nichi Nichi Shimbun, which is close to the army.

Reviewing British policy in Asia in the last four years, the paper said Japan "must completely and immediately" change her policy toward Great Britain. British political figures, the paper said, have conducted "reckless political activities" in China.

TWO LITTLE PIGS ESCAPE FROM CRATE

Unlike the little pigs of the nursery rhymes, these little pigs didn't go to market.

Crating four small six-weeks-old porkers into his trailer, Mr. S. T. Rutter, Crofton farmer, proceeded to the Belleville market to offer the quartette of porkers for sale, but upon arrival at the market place there were only two little pigs found left in the pen on Mr. Rutter's trailer.

Two of the porkers had escaped from the crate and were lost enroute to market. So—those little pigs may have 'squealed all the way home."

COLLIE DOG HELD IN CITY POUND

Found wandering at large on Forin Street this morning, a bob-tailed collie male dog was removed to the city pound by Poundkeeper Thomas Thorne. If the animal 's not claimed within forty-eight hours, it will go the way of all homeless dogs.

LAST MINUTE RUSH TO GET 1939 LICENCES

Practically all motorists of the city and district have secured their 1939 motor vehicle licences, it was reported at the office of Major S. E. Vermilyea, issuer for the district, this morning. A check today revealed that of a total of 4500 new plates, all had been issued except three or four hundred which are expected to be given out later this week.

With an average of from three hundred to three hundred and fifty new licences being issued daily, employees of the office experienced one of their busiest periods on record during the latter part of last week. Saturday, with a total issue of nearly four hundred new licences set a new record for speed at the office.

MAINTENANCE GANGS SAFEGUARD TRACK

Maintenance gangs of the Canadian Pacific Railway continued this morning their work of strengthening the large culvert on the west end of car bridge after week end operations in preparation for the flood. A system of floodlighting the bridge has been installed to reveal any signs of trouble with the bridge in the event of a heavy ice shove during the night. Twin lights and reflectors have been installed on the telegraph poles on the bridge piers.

NAME CHANGED

War Veterans of the city who have enrolled under the National Veterans' Survey have been advised that the name of this survey has been changed to the National Veteran Security Committee for Ontario. Major C. B. Lindsey of Toronto has been named provincial chairman.

FLOOD CONSCIOUS RESIDENTS PREPARED FOR MUCH TROUBLE

Two Sawdust Flats residents off the continuation of Coleman Street near the west bank of the river who yesterday had household effects and furniture ready for removal from their homes in the event of any sudden surge of flood waters such as isolated them in their upper bed rooms three years ago, had today overcome their first fears and prophesied that the "worst of the flood was over." Mattresses and bedding and other effects which had been placed for quick removal, were put back in place, but a wary eye was still being kept on the slumbering river.

ICE AT O'BRIENS BRIDGE 20 IN. THICK

Ice in the northern stretches of the Moira River is still solid with little or no sign of breaking up, reports from the district of O'Brien's Bridge stated today. Ice to the thickness of twenty inches is solid in the "dead water" in the vicinity of the bridge, according to a farmer who garnered his ice supply a couple of weeks ago.

Fields of the district are showing little signs of snow while the majority of surface water has drained in to creeks and the river. There is little snow on fields the report states although there is considerable left in sideroads and concession rights-of-way.

STILL TOO COLD FOR HARDY CROCUSES

Lateness of the current Spring season is evidenced in the fact that one year ago today, crocuses shot yellow heads in a profusion of bloom on the lawns of Dr. G. H. Stobie, Campbell Street. A survey today revealed no sign of the pretty blooms.

WILL GIVE ASSISTANCE

Unemployed of the city anxious to plant and care for gardens within the city in an effort to raise sufficient produce to assist them through the coming winter will be given every consideration in the matter of free seed and vacant plots this spring, it was stated by Mayor Jamieson Bone this morning.

"I know in the past this matter of free seeds and garden plots for the unemployed has fizzled out due to the fact many who applied would not take the time to care for their gardens after they were planted, but we do have a number of men who take pride in this work, and are really anxious to help themselves," stated the Mayor. "These are the men we are anxious to help. Their applications will be considered."

CONDUCT SURVEY

A survy of all officers who served in the Royal Navy, the Royal Air Force or the Imperial Army is to be conducted in Canada by a special committee of the Imperial Officers' Association of Canada, according to information received locally. The survey will be to learn the number of former officers who are desirous of offering their services in the event of a national emergency. Captain C. H. N. Ashlin of 25 King Street, Toronto, is enrolling officer.

POLICE COURT

Arthur Bourette, Belleville, was sentenced to serve one week in the common jail after being convicted of the theft of a quantity of coal, the property of the Canadian National Railways, when the accused appeared before Magistrate E. J. Butler K.C. in today's city police court.

Two alleged accomplices of Bourette's were convicted in a previous court on a similar charge. "This young man has a job to go to on a nearby farm", pleaded Mr. Jacob Goodman, solicitor for the accused. Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan K.C., agreed to have the sentence date from the time of the accused man's arrest one week ago.

"As you have been in custody for one week now, you may go, but don't let me see you back in this court again", warned His Worship to the accused.

Norman T. Ferguson, 23-year-old Oshawa, youth appeared on a charge of perjury. The charge arose out of the evidence submitted by Ferguson during a trial heard before His Honor Judge Madden in County Court at which time Ferguson appeared on a charge preferred under the Unmarried Parents' Act. Bail was set at $1,000.00. Mr. S. W. Swartz, Oshawa, barrister, appeared on behalf of the accused and completed arrangements for the bail.

When William Bennett of Selby, Ont., failed to answer to his name this morning, Chief Kidd asked a bench warrant be issued for his arrest. The charge was only of intoxication, which promoted His Worship to suggest a summons be sent to the accused at his home address. "If he fails to recognize a summons, then we will issue a warrant," added His Worship.

Three persons appeared on charges of intoxication and paid the assessed fines. One was a woman.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN F. LOCHHEAD
(Centreville)

After an illness of six days' duration Mrs. John Fraser Lochhead passed away at the family residence in Centreville, Ontario, on Sunday, April 2nd.

The late Mrs. Lochhead was born 67 years ago at Brighton. Prior to her marriage she was Miss Jennie Maud Wells, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Wells. For forty-six years she had resided at Centreville and was highly esteemed in the community. Prior to moving to Centreville she lived in Brighton. In religion Mrs. Lockhead was a member of the United Church at Centreville, and took an active part in church work. She was secretary of the Women's Missionary Society and fraternally she was a Past Mistress of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association.

Surviving her are her husband, John Fraser Lochhead; four sons, R. P. Lochhead, W. H. Lochhead, C. D. Lochhead, all of Centreville, and J. P. Lochhead, Belleville; one daughter, Mrs. Hubert Cook, Newburg, Ont.; one brother, N. H. Wells, Brighton.

The funeral will take place at Centreville on Wednesday afternoon.

JOHN FRAWLEY

John Frawley, an aged and well respected resident of Belleville practically all his life, died on Saturday, April 1st, at his late residence, 100 Cedar Street. He had been in failing health for some time.

The late Mr. Frawley was born 89 years ago in Tyendinaga township, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Michael Frawley. For many years he was employed by the city in the public works department. In religion Mr. Frawley was a faithful member of St. Michael's Church.

Surviving him is his wife, who prior to her marriage was Miss Margaret McCormick; one daughter, Mrs. Henry Bennett, Milltown; four sons, Arthur Frawley, Timmins, Ont.; John Frawley, Los Angeles, California; William Frawley, Belleville, and Joseph Frawley, of Toronto.

The funeral took place this Monday morning from his late residence to St. Michael's Church, where Requiem Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father J. J. Collins who said also the committal service at the graveside in St. James' Cemetery.

The bearers were Messrs P. Cote, J. McDermott, J. Bennett, D. Culhane, L. Horrigan and A. McCormick.

EVERETT MOYNES
(Frankford)

Frankford, April 3 (Special) — Everett Moynes, a lifelong and highly respected resident of Frankford, died at his home on Sunday after a short, but serious illness. He was born in Frankford sixty years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Moynes and after receiving education in the local schools branched out into business and during his lifetime conducted a grocery store, a shoe business and bakery in the village. For some years he lived retired, until a few years ago when he was appointed bailiff for the 8th Division Court of Hastings County, a duty he filled with impartiality to all concerned. He was very interested in band work and was a member of the Frankford Citizens' Band for over thirty years. He was a member of the United Church and fraternally was identified with Franck Lodge, No. 127, A.F. and A.M. Surviving are his widow; one daughter, Mrs Ernest Jones of Trenton; one sister, Mrs. Harry Potter, Stirling, and two brothers, Elwood of Trenton, and Elgie of Frankford. The funeral will be held from the United Church on Tuesday under Masonic direction with interment in Frankford cemetery.

MRS. JAMES WILLIAMS
(Rawdon)

Rawdon, April 3 (Special) —Mrs. James Williams, an aged and highly respected resident of Rawdon township, died suddenly at her home on Sunday after a lengthy illness. The deceased had been ailing for some time but early Sunday evening was stricken with a heart attack and failed to rally. She was born in Tweed 78 years ago, being a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Carleton, and had resided at her present address for sixty years, where she had taken an active part in church and social life until illness forced her retirement. She was a member of Mount Pleasant United Church, teaching Sunday School for several years and taking an active part in the Missionary Society. The deceased was the first president of the organization and held the important post for ten years.

Left to mourn her loss are her husband, three daughters, Mrs. W. Mills of Napanee; Mrs. W. Laycock of Montreal, Quebec; Mrs. Thomas Henry of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan; one sister, Mrs. Frank Todd of Rawdon, and nine grandchildren. The funeral will be held on Wednesday from Mount Pleasant United Church.

LATE MRS. MARY A. LESLIE

The funeral of Mrs. Mary A. Leslie, widow of Adam Leslie, took place Saturday afternoon, April 1, from her late residence, McDonald Avenue. The service in the home and at the graveside in Belleville Cemetery was conducted by Rev. W. J. Walker, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

The bearers were Messrs. Arthur Hill, Peter McLaren, Leslie McLaren, William Leslie, John Mather and Frank Pringle.

GEORGE LITTLE

On Sunday morning, April 2nd., George Little passed away at the residence of his sister, Mrs. George P. Cole, 45 West Bridge Street. He had been in failing health for four years.

The late Mr. Little, who was in his 61st. year, was born in the 6th. concession of Murray Township, in Northumberland County, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Little. For many years he resided in Frankford and was well esteemed in the community. For the past two years he had made his home in Belleville. In religion he was a member of the United Church.

Surviving him are two sisters, Mrs. Frank Moran, Trenton, and Mrs. George P. Cole, Belleville; one brother, James Little, Trenton.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

FRED W. SMYTHE

Many old friends in Belleville of Fred W. Smythe, formerly of the A-1 Sign Studio, here, will regret to learn of his death which occurred at the Queen Alexandra Hospital, London, Ont., on Monday, April 3rd.

A more complete obituary and the funeral announcement will appear in this paper shortly.

LATE MRS. MARGARET RAY

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Ray, widow of George Ray, took place from the residence of her mother, Mrs. Thomas Brown, 337 Dufferin Ave., this Monday morning, April 3rd, to St. Michael's Church where Requiem Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father C. E. Baker, who said also, the committal service at the graveside in St. James' Cemetery.

During the offertory Mr. Edward Brown sang "Nearer My God to Thee."

The bearers were Messrs. Alex. Bremner, Wilfrid Callaghan, Guy Casey, Bernard Flagler, John Bean and Ernest Pigden.

There were many spiritual offerings and beautiful floral tributes.

MRS. WILLIAM ORR
(Madoc)

Madoc (Special)—After a week's illness Mrs. W. Orr departed this life on Wednesday evening at her late residence, Madoc village. On Saturday, November 8, 1938, she celebrated her 91st. birthday. Her maiden name was Mary Elizabeth Dunn, daughter of the late John Henry Dunn and Alice Hudson Watson, who came to Madoc from Duchess County, New York State, in 1837 and settled on a farm in Madoc township, just east of the village.

Mrs. Orr was born in Madoc township, and had resided in this district all her life. She was married to William Orr in 1865, who predeceased her in 1900.

Of a family of six children, three are living; one son, Arthur, Jasper, Alberta; and two daughters, Maria of Toronto and Mrs. Helen Hern of Madoc, who are left to mourn her loss.

Mrs. Orr has lived in the same house for seventy-three years, it being the first brick house built in Madoc village. She was a member of Trinity United Church, and as a girl a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Being of a retiring disposition and always speaking a kindly word for everyone, she was loved and held in high esteem by all who knew her.

A brother,, Thomas A. Dunn, predeceased her nine days ago in Picton. They were the last of a family of seven children.

The funeral service was conducted at her late residence by her pastor, Rev. I. E. Kennedy, at 1.30 on Saturday afternoon, who took for his subject, "Peace Within," from St. John's Gospel. The bearers were Frank Dafoe, Robert Bristol, William McBain, George West, C. M. Wallbridge and John Devolin. Interment was made in Lakeview Cemetery.

MR. JOHN HESS
(Bayside)

Bayside (Special)—Well known and highly respected throughout the community Mr. John Hess died at his late residence here in his 82nd. year on Friday, March 24th. Mr. Hess was a successful farmer at one time living on the second concession of Sidney, and had been living retired here about twenty years. He was well known in politics as a staunch Conservative, and filled the position as reeve of the township for a number of years. He took an active part in church affairs and could always be counted on to do his part in both church and community affairs.

Surviving him are his widow, who prior to her marriage was Miss Sarah Ann Barry; one daughter, Mrs. Volney Finkle of Trenton; two sons, Harry Hess of Trenton, and Percy Hess of Oshawa.

Funeral services were held in White's United Church on Monday afternoon and were conducted by Rev. J. W. Flatt. The choir sang "Does Jesus Care?" Interment was made in White's cemetery. The numerous floral tributes were silent messengers to the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

The pall bearers were five grandsons, namely: John Hess, Thomas Hess, Gerald Finkle, Arthur Blakely, Frank Hamilton and a nephew, George Burns.—(Contributed.)

NEGOTIABLE BOND STOLEN IN CITY

$100 Bond Taken from Purse in Apartment by Sneak Thieves

Sneak thieves entered the apartment of Miss Pearl Hamilton, 185 Victoria Ave., and stole $5.00 in cash and a negotiable bond of $100.00 value, the victim reported to city police over the week end.

When the robbery was perpetrated is unknown to the victim, Miss Hamilton related to police. The cash and bond were in Miss Hamilton's purse on Friday, but yesterday were discovered missing. The purse had not been out of its owner's possession, except when left in her apartment, which prompted police to believe the theory of a sneak thief having entered the apartment and taken the cash and bond.

The number of the bond had been registered and banks were notified of its serial number in case persons attempt to dispose of it. Plainclothes Constable Isard warned all banks of the robbery and in turn supplied the number of the missing bond to bank authorities.

PASSION MUSIC SUNG AT SERVICE ON PALM SUNDAY

Bridge Street United Church Choir and Soloists Heard in Maunder's 'Olivet to Calvary'

J. H. Maunder's "Olivet to Calvary" was sung at Bridge Street United Church on Sunday evening by a large choir ,the soloists being Mr. Jack Deacon, Mr. Harold Williamson, Mrs. Fred Houston, who took the place of Mrs. George Stobie, who was unable to sing on account of a severe cold, and Mr. James Bankier. Mr. Alec Gordon, organist and choirmaster directed. Mr. Gordon also presided at the organ.

The congregation, a large one, heard the story in music of the days preceding the Passion and the Passion itself. It opened with the chorus "On the Way to Jerusalem" which was sung in an effective manner by the entire choir, the opening words being "When o'er the Steep to Olivet". The second section "Before Jerusalem" was composed of two recitatives and an air Mr. John Deacon singing "Like a Fair Vision" in his inimitable style, his voice showing remarkable richness and clearness of tone. "O Jerusalem" recitative and air were rendered by Mr. Harold Williamson, whose voice is one of wide range and capable of great possibilities.

Mr. Deacon sang the recitative in the third section "And Jesus entered into the Temple' and Mr. Williamson took the solo which was followed by the full chorus in "Another Temple waits Thee". The section "The Mount of Olives" opened with Mr. Deacon singing the air "Not of this World" followed by the chorus " 'Twas Night o'er lonely Olivet". Mr. Deacon took impressively the solo "He was Despised", followed by Mr. Williamson and the chorus singing "Come Unto Me" both solo and the chorus being done in a striking and effective manner.

The entire choir then sang "Just as I Am", Mr. Williamson took the recitative and air "A new commandment' 'followed by the chorus "O Thou whose Sweet Compassion". In part six he sang the recitative "And when they had sung a hymn". In section seven the choir sang "And while He yet spoke" followed by Mr. Deacon in the recitative and air "Ye who sin", which was rendered in a brilliant style.

Mr. J. D. Bankier tenor, was heard in fine form in "And Pilate said". The chorus "Then came Jesus", was a very fine piece of work by the choir.

The impressive "choral march" "The Savior King goes forth to die" provided Mr. Gordon with opportunity to reveal his musicianship at the organ and also his gift as director the march being interpreted in masterly style. In the last section Mr. Williamson sang with deep feeling "And when they came to a place called Calvary". The solo and chorus "Droop Sacred head" brought to a close this fine composition which is a long one and gives a solemn musical setting for the events marked on Holy Week.

The singing of the choir throughout was marked with excellence. There was a fine balance of the voices and volume was always under control. The interpretation by the choir and by the soloists was in finest harmony with the solemn subject matter of the music.

Police Blotter

Several minor investigations kept city police busy ove rthe week-end. Derwood Archer, 57 George street, Belleville, reported the theft of his motor car on Saturday night. Later the vehicle was recovered on East Dundas street apparently unharmed. A 15-cell battery which was said to have been in the vehicle, was reported missing when the car was found, however.

Norman Mills, Sidney street, reported the theft of his bicycle to the police yesterday morning. The bike had been parked on the premises of Bridge Street United Church, while young Mills was attending Sunday School yesterday morning.

Hearing a loud crash on the street B. M. Moorman, 8 Murney street, looked out to see a large black sedan drive southerly along Albert street, where Mr. Moorman had parked his motor car while visiting friends. Investigations proved the 'hit and run' vehicle had caused considerable fender and running board damage to Mr. Moorman's car. The guilty party escaped detection.

Plainclothes Constable Fred Isard hastened to the vicinity of the Frontenac Paper Box factory on Pinnacle street yesterday afternoon in time to apprehend a teen-age boy who, it is alleged, was throwing stones through the factory windows. Complaints regarding windows having been shattered in that building were earlier received by police. The matter of restitution is now in the hands of the parents.

Swerves into Ditch To Avoid Collision

Swerving into the south ditch in order to avoid a rear end collision with another motor car, an automobile driven by Nelson Evans, Cheddar, Ont., crashed into the ditch immediately south of Foxboro on Highway No. 14 early Saturday evening. No person was injured during the accident, although the undercarriage of the vehicle was badly damaged, Highway Patrolman Sam Ervine reported upon investigation.

Mr. Evans was proceeding southerly towards Belleville when he overtook another south bound vehicle. It was raining hard at the time police added. A passenger in the car, a recent bridegroom, was enroute to Belleville to purchase furniture for his new bride and home.

Motorcycle Patrolman Ervine reported the driving conditions on Highway No. 2 immediately east of Belleville, in the vicinity of Bell's Creek, is hazardous at the present time and motorists are advised to proceed with caution, as the heavy frosts of the winter have left the highway at that point dangerous and soft.

BELLEVILLE APPRECIATION TESTED

WILL BELLEVILLE CITIZENS SUPPORT EFFORTS TO BRING LEADING MUSICAL ARTISTS HERE?

The Belleville Branch of the Canadian Concert Association which have brought such excellent talent to Belleville in the past, have a program lined up for the coming season of exceptional merit, and wish to ascertain if sufficient membership can be obtained to finance the undertaking. Three artists of outstanding ability are available for next year, two of whom have already been contacted:

MISCHA LEVITSKI

WORLD FAMOUS PIANIST

ANN JAMIESON

CANADIAN SOPRANO

. . . who has won fame on the "Hollywood Hotel" Program, other NBC broadcasts from New York City, and who appeared last year at Eaton Auditorium, Toronto winning glowing praise from the critics.

The engagement of these artists depends entirely upon the response given by Belleville citizens who are lovers of good music and who are desirous of bringing culture to the city at small cost to each individual. Any member desiring tickets please notify Mr. Alec Gordon, or the Chamber of Commerce within the next two days, as the campaign must close in that time.

YOUTHS CAPTURED

Starting with theft of a car at Niagara Falls from E. R. Blue, the men allegedly laid a trail of crime across six counties. After the Port Colborne holdup, they drove to Burlington where they took a licence plate from another car for their rear fender and dirtied the front plate.

Despite the dirt of the front licence, Constable Harry Head, driver of a Toronto police car, picked out the stolen automobile as it cruised in West Toronto and gave chase. The bandit car went back to the highway at 90-miles-an-hour and swung to the left side of the middle road boulevard.

Six Shots Fired

Once in open country Constable George Johnston, second officer in the cruiser, started shooting. He landed four of six shots on the vehicle. When the fourth came through the back of the sedan and "creased" Englehart's leg, somebody in the car decided they'd had enough and turned off the ignition.

Englehart and Tate were arrested in the car but Savano and Irvine ran through adjacent farmyards and escaped temporarily. They were caught after they attempted to board a bus back to Niagara Falls.

The car stopped at H. F. Gannam's store in Port Colborne just at closing time. Three of the occupants entered and ordered drinks. Suspicious, two sons of the proprietor, George and Joe Gannam, hid $50 from the cash drawer.

Drew Revolvers

When the youths finished their drinks, they drew revolvers. They threatened and abused Gannam and his sons and tore the telephone from the wall, finally obtaining $16.60 One of them punched Joe Gannam and he fell against a table arousing the rest of the family. The bandits ran, taking some cigarettes.

Relying on their licence subterfuge, they were cruising Toronto streets when spotted. Police said a quantity of cigarettes was found and a revolver recovered from near the scene of the chase.

300,000 MINERS NOW OUT OF WORK

Soft Coal Industry Shut Down as Men Negotiate for New Contract

New York, April 3—(AP)—Seventy per cent of the United States' soft coal industry shut down today as more than 30,000 miners in he Appalachian area remained from work pending completion of negotiations for a new contract.

Weekend attempts by a sub-committee of miners and operators to reach a new agreement to replace the old two-year contract that expired at midnight Friday were futile despite an urgent appeal by Labor Secretary Frances Perkins.

The work stoppage followed automatically under the traditional rule of the United Mine Workers—"no contract, no work."

The 30,000-odd locals of the union were instructed to pull out all of the 338,000 miners affected except for skeleton crews totalling 20,000 en. The daily payroll loss was estimated by Secretary Perkins at $1,500,000.

The shutdown affected the bituminous industry in Pennsylvania, West Virginia Ohio, Eastern Kentucky, Western Virginia, Central Tennessee and some mines in Maryland and Michigan.

FOUR KILLED

Ronald Turner, 31, Toronto, was killed Sunday when his automobile collided with a truck near Oakville, 15 miles west of the city. In another crash, Mrs. Dalla Pinn, 28, of Detroit, suffered a fractured skull when her car collided with a truck at Bowmanville, 30 miles east of here. In Hamilton, Thomas Spence, 70, died in hospital after being struck by a car driven by E. J. McKenster, Hamilton.

Carried Quarter Mile

The automobile in which Wilkinson and Crook were riding was carried a quarter of a mile after being struck by the train.

An automatic signal at the crossing was working at the time, trainmen said. The train was in charge of Engineer P. E. William, fireman W. Marshall and Conductor V. Cline.

Turner was thrown headlong from his car in the Oakville crash, suffering head injuries. His machine collided with the truck, driven by Roger W. Reeves, Woodstock, and owned by Schell Transport of Woodstock.

Reeves was uninjured. Dr. J. H. Steal, Oakville, Chief Coroner for Halton County ordered an inquest for Thursday. Turner leaves a widow and two young children.

Izzy Soukalsky, Toronto, driver of the truck which collided with Mrs. Finn's car, was held on a charge of criminal negligence and Mrs. Finn was taken to hospital in Bowmanville. Her four-year-old son, Charles, escaped with minor bruises. The truck driver and his brother, Aaron, were unhurt.

Sabotage Reported on British-Owned Ships

Belfast, April 3—(AP)— Police today investigated reports of sabotage aboard two British-owned ships, at least one of which caught fire in the Irish Sea.

The vessels were the cargo steamship Slieve Bearnagh and the passenger ship Duke of Lancaster, both out of Heysham for Belfast and both owned by the London, Midland and Scottish Railway Company.

Police confirmed the fact that fire broke out on the cargo vessel and was quickly extinguished but denied there had been any fire aboard the Duke of Lancaster.

Passengers nevertheless were questioned before anyone was permitted to leave either ship.

Police investigated the possibility the reported sabotage might be a continuation of activities carried out recently by supporters of the outlawed Irish Republican army.

Burr's

Burrs—On their return from their honeymoon spent at Port Perry and Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Carter (nee Ruth Hicks) were honored by the people of Burr's neighborhood by a rousing charivari on Wednesday evening at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Carter. After the serenade the visitors were all invited in and treated to ice cream, cake and candy. Mr. Ralph Margetson sang a number of songs. After a social hour the party left for their homes wishing Mr. and Mrs. Carter a long and happy married life.

On Thursday Mr. and Mrs. Allan Carter Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Carter and family and Mrs. J. R. Marvin were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Hicks, Gilead. A number of other friends were also present. Their Gilead friends gave them another charivari.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bowers visited Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stanton on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jo Moon, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bowers, Mrs. Gene Hubbs and Miss Vera Hubbs were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Fox on Thursday evening.

Messrs George and Norman Fox were at Belleville on Thursday afternoon.

Albury

Albury—A number of men attended their cheese factory meeting at Rednersville on Tuesday afternoon.

The Women's Institute held an all day quilting at the Library room on Wednesday with fifteen present for a Pot Luck Dinner with more being present in the afternoon. Two quilts were started and finished later in the week. The sewing basket was won by Mrs. Gilbert. The monthly meeting was conducted by the president in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Allison, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Peck, Mrs. Harry Peck attended the Past Matrons' Club on Wednesday evening with their husbands being present. Mrs. Clifford Peck received the attendance prize.

Mr. Bert Bonter returned home to Brockport, New York, on Sunday after spending some time with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Geroge Young spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Williamson.

A few attended the church service on Sunday evening.

A few from this vicinity attended the dance at Consecon on Monday evening, sponsored by the Girls' Club. Mr. Alec Dickie was one of the lucky winners. A lovely lunch was served.

Springbrook

The Springbrook Branch of the Women's Institute were hosts on Wednesday evening to their husbands and friends at an At Home held in the Sunday School rooms of St. Mark's Church, Bonarlaw, where the guest speaker was Mr. Fair of Stirling, District Agricultural Representative.

Mr. Fair was introduced by the W. I. President, Mrs. J. P. Baker, and showed two excellent sets of slides as well as various pictures contributed by persons in the audience. The slides were "Across Canada" and "Canadian Homes from East to West" and were very entertaining and educational.

Miss Betty McKeown was the winner of a beautiful quilt on which tickets were sold

A song composed by one of the Institute ladies, Mrs. David Wellman, was projected on the screen and sung by all present between the pictures. Mrs. Jason Baker acted as organist. A bountiful lunch was served by the ladies and closed a very pleasant evening.

TWELV E LOSE LIVES AS BRIDGE WASH ED OUT

When flood waters in Big Black river at Vicksburg, Mississippi, undermined a bridge approach, it resulted in the collapse of the structure with a loss of 12 lives of people motoring over it at the time. Rescue workers are seen here dragging for victims, many of whom got part way through the windows of their submerged cars, but were unable to struggle free to the surface.

HOLY WEEK BEGINS

This is Holy Week, the last period of Lent, as the memorable scenes, enacted over nineteen centuries ago, are the subject of meditation and prayer. In the churches the season of Lent has been marked and these last days of the penitential season are more closely observed by worshippers. Good Friday will sum up Lent and Easter on Sunday next will be the spiritual outcome of that Life lived in Palestine so many centuries ago, but with a message which never loses its importance to human life.

Holy Week is doubly impressive as it is linked up with the life of he reviving year, which with its gifts of beauty symbolizes the spiritual life. The beauty of the season of spring seems the most apt time in which to celebrate the culmination of events in the life of Christ. These coming days are the prologue to the joy of Easter.

WHAT TRADE MEANS

The head of the German Reichsbank has expressed regret at the breaking-up of trade conferences with Britain and France and finds their needs of trade increased.

Germany needs foreign trade.

"Even after annexing Austria, grabbing the Sudeten area, recapturing Memel and overpowering Bohemia, Moravia and Slovakia, Germany needs foreign.. trade.. more.. than ever," remarks the New York Times. "The German Reich suffers from a deficiency of raw materials. It is forced to import more than half the oil it uses. It is dependent on foreign sources for at least one-fifth of its foodstuffs; two-thirds of its iron ore and copper, three-quarters of its tin and wool, and all of its cotton, rubber, manganese and nickel.

"Conquest in Central Europe has not changed the fundamental outlines of this picture. The annexation of Austria made Germany self-sufficient only in two minor metals, talc and graphite. The Sudeten added coal, but coal is the one important mineral with which Germany herself was already adequately supplied by nature. The rest of Czecho-Slovakia brought her acquisition of a fine industrial plant, but comparatively few raw materials with which to stoke it and an actual deficiency of food. At this point in its foreign conquests the Reich actually has no more arable land per capita than when it started.

"Tha is why Herr Funk insists again that Germany must have foreign trade— for only through the sale of her own goods abroad can she obtain the foreign currencies that will buy the foodstuffs she needs and the raw materials without which German armament cannot proceed and German industry cannot funcion. Conquest has its glories and its rewards; but for the head of the Reichsbank it also has its problems. For experience has shown that every fresh blow struck by Germany at the peace and confidence of Europe narrows Germany's hope of foreign markets."

Germany with this marked deficiency in material resources, while never losing sight of his fact, has considered and acted as if the solution of the situation is military might and regimentation of the people. A nation arming as Germany has done had to be regimented but at great cost to the spirit of the people and the future of trade. The armament program which Germany and Italy began has brought the world to the present pass. Had the German Government instead of stressing militarism endeavoured to go forward through international co-operation, there would probably be now a different world of content and comparative lack of fear. But Germany chose the other road of power politics which brought her to the annexation of Austria, the Munich affair; the acquisition of Sudetenland, the recent grab of the states in the former Czecho-Slovakia and what now looks like a thrust for Danzig and the Polish Corridor.

This question of economic resources in which the free nations of the world are so richly endowed will be the factor that will ham-string Germany in the event of war, observers believe. Retribution for her course under Nazi rule is also being felt for Germany.

LATEST OCEAN CROSSING

A 2800-mile hop from Baltimore to Horta in the Azores by the Yankee Clipper, a forty-two ton Pan American flying boat pioneering an air link between the New and the Old Worlds has been achieved at a speed of 163 miles an hour. She flew at a height of 8000 feet where every star in the sky was visible. There the plane and those which follow it can use Arcturus, Spica, Polaris, Sirius and Cabella as guides.

What pioneer of the seas was ever able to be so guided? A plane can get lost in the old sense of "losing" its way. The ancient stars can be used by airplanes as "fixes" in their flights.

SPRING THOUGHTS

Spring is such a splendid Season
That Everyone likes for various reasons.

Some like the air
—so warm, so soft,
Some like the sky
so lovely aloft.

And some proclaim that for Nature's best, her budding flowers
eclipse the rest.

Still others admire
the drops of dew
That glisten brightly when day is new.

But as for me,
I like every thing
Each has its place in the scheme of Spring.

All blend together wonderfully right—
A "super-production" of sound and sight.

It's the masterpiece of God's creating—
Spring, to me
gets highest rating.

SEEMS IF THERE WAS LESS TALK over the air and in press and parliament, there would be less war and rumours of war—the pot is kept boiling all the time, the devils' brew of hate and horror and misunderstanding which threatens to sour a great deal of international good will. Again comes the thought that the dog which does the most barking does the least biting, but the unnecessary noise made by these braggarts is disturbing to business and the peace of mind of humanity. When it comes to real fighting Britishers always do little talking but most of the effective fighting.

POOR GRAMMAR IN THE PULPIT, if and when, provokes the critics, but eloquent Henry Ward Beecher, when accused of bad grammar, said "God help grammar if it gets in my way when preaching."

MOBILIZE THE MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT and see if their deeds are as weighty as their words. Put them in uniform as the first line of defence, says the War Correspondent at the Corner Grocery. Less talk and more action, says the War Commentator, would make the enemy hesitate before starting any putschs in this direction. Conscientious Objectors, if any, should be put hoeing potatoes for the army which it is said travels on its stomach.

PRACTICED

The wife of a very parsimonious man has always experienced great difficulty in inducing him to part with any change.

One day she followed him to the door and asked:

"Henry, can't you let me have a couple of pounds? I want to—"

"There you go again!" exclaimed Henry. "It's always money, money, money! When I am dead you will probably have to beg for it."

"Well," said the wife, "I shall be a lot better off than some poor women who have never had any practice."

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

APRIL 3, 1919

The annual sale in Belleville of cattle consigned by members of the Belleville District Holstein-Friesian Breeders' Club was largely attended. The sale realized $18,835.00, making an average of $200.00 for each animal offered for sale. The highest price realized for an individual animal was $1060.00 for Sir Echo Alcatra, consigned by Mr. E. B. Purtelle of Bloomfield. The purchaser was Mr. W. W. Draycup of Harold, Rawdon township. The highest price for a cow was $925. for Sylvia Alcatra Posch, consigned by Mr. Purtelle of Bloomfield and sold to Mr. G. H. Wilmot of Kingston.

Mr. Leslie Wainwright left today for Ottawa where he has received a civil service appointment.

APRIL 3, 1909

During the past winter the schooners Keewatin, Two Brothers, Suffolk, Dundee, Echo, and Freeman were sheltered in the harbor here. The Dundee is laden with ice for a port on Lake Erie and will sail as soon as navigation opens. The other boats are light and will be rigged out shortly for service on the lakes. The only steamer which wintered here was the Salisbury, which is owned by the Lehigh Cement Company.

Rev. A. M. Hubly of Emmanuel Church, is in Toronto attending the Missionary Congress.

Mr. T. M. Lake has returned to Belleville and has taken charge of an agricultural implement agency.

Mr. M. B. Jamieson of Toronto, an old Belleville boy, spent the week-end in the city.

Mrs. (Dr.) Farrell and two children of Tweed are visiting friends here.

40 YEARS AGO

APRIL 3, 1899

Yesterday was Easter Day and the city churches were filled with worshippers.

Miss V. Moynes is home from Toronto on a short visit.

Miss Carrie Martin left today for Winnipeg.

Mr. W. B. Northrup went to Montreal today.

Mr. F. M. Clarke is in Gananoque adjusting a fire loss.

Mr. John Laing of Montreal, is visiting friends here.

Mr. F. R. Burrows of Toronto, spent Easter here with his parents.

Mr. Ed. Pope, B.A., is home from McGill College, Montreal, to spend the Easter vacation.

Mr. Cecil Fraleck, now of Toronto, an old Belleville boy, is home to spend the Easter vacation.

Mr. James Johnson, for some time employed in the Templeton drug store, has left to locate in Buffalo, N.Y.

At a meeting of the Belleville Ministerial Association this morning the Rev. T. W. Bowen read a paper on "Phrenology and Responsibility." The secretary of the Association, the Rev. Mr. Dingham, will read a paper at the next meeting on "Anti-Phrenology."

Mr. George D. Dickson, Q.C., is in Toronto on legal business.

Mr. Joseph Craig and wife of Rochester, N.Y., are visiting friends here.

Mr. C. F. Aylesworth of Madoc, was in town today.

The snow storm this morning stopped the city clock.

The alterations to the butter market have been completed by Mr. La Pointe. He did a good job.

Mrs. J. W. Marroway and family, left this morning for Parkdale (Toronto) where they will join Mr. Narraway, who resigned as principal of the Central School here to accept a similar position in Parkdale.

DOGS VERSUS CATS

Many of us take for granted the seemingly natural enmity existing between cats and dogs. It is part of their heredity we say something deeply bedrocked in the fundamental make-up of their natures and implanted therein eons ago in the dim geologic past.

It has occurred to me however, that we ourselves are responsible in some measure. We often hear people say, "I do love dogs but I hate cats," or vice versa. Thus we have a clash in human personality, between the dog-lover and the cat-lover. Social pressure usually tends to keep these indifferences submerged, and apparently all is well on the surface. But if you are a dog-lover your dog will instinctively and actively reflect your own dislike of cats. He loves you, therefore he must hate cats. So it will be, too, with the cat and its owner. Those of us who have successfully housed both together in a peaceful and congenial atmosphere are people who love Rover and Grimalkin equally. Alas! they are too few.

One further suggestion as to the human basis for cat-dog antipathy. It is also concerned with individual differences in people. Cat-lovers, you will note, are generally the quiet type, persons who are prone to thought and meditation. The cat's quiet, undemonstrative affection, no less deep for all that, appeals to them as more in harmony with their own personality. On the other hand the devoted dog lover will be found to be the more physically active type less inclined to thinking of meditating. Thus the dog, noisy and demonstrative in his display of affection, will make his own particular appeal to persons so constituted. Those people who have a great love for both cats and dogs will invariably be found to be a combination of the meditative and active natures.

So it may be said that cats and dogs in disliking each other are merely giving active expression to the innate though submerged antagonisms of their owners. If we all develop an impartial love for both, then it may happen that these two most comforting friends of man may bury their hatchet of hate and mistrust.

BIRD INVITATIONS

If you live on a farm or have farmer relatives or friends you will be able to give your bird friends a real treat during the latter part of the winter, in February or March, when ice or cold rains and snow cover the few remaining patches of weeds, by taking baskets or sacks and placing chaff from the barn floor or hay loft in them. This chaff should be scattered near the places where the birds are used to feeding. How they do revel in scratching among the loose chaff for the abundance of seeds and a bit of green, dried clover, too!

Save all the old yarn from socks and caps which have become worn out. Sweaters yield much yarn. Unravel this and place it between an old fashioned toaster, if you have one. Hang it out in the yard in early spring and you will be pleased with the happiness it gives to the birds who are seeking nest-building material. They will take every shred of the yarn, which should be in short lengths.

One farmer always trims off the long ragged hair from his horses' manes in the fall. This hair is carefully saved and placed in a box where the birds carry it off for nest building.

Another bird lover, when on trips with her little son, gathered the seed pods of milkweed or cattail placed them in an empty flour sac and hung them in the garage. In the spring they were placed outside, dry and fluffy for the birds to use in lining their nests. Birds will, of course, search for and find nesting material, but they will be quite likely to build near by if you help them out a bit—and besides, it is such fun, giving the children worthwhile lessons.—Fern Berry in Our Dumb Animals.

Is the Injection Method of Treating Hernia a Success?

When a new method of treatment — surgical or medical— is made known to the medical profession, there may be great enthusiasm for it at first, to be followed later by just as great lack of enthusiasm Still later, after the pendulum has swung both ways—for and against the method—the pendulum stops and the true value of the method becomes known.

"The treatment of hernia by injection has been a controversial subject for over a hundred years. Until recently there has been an overwhelming skepticism as to the safety and value of the method. In the last five years this skepticism has been replaced by an enthusiasm which has resulted in its widespread use."

Drs. Franklin I. Harris and Alfred S. White, San Francisco, in the Journal of the American Medical Association, tell of their endeavour to find the true value of the injection method at Mount Zion Hospital.

"From 1933 to 1938, 573 patients with hernia of all types have presented themselves for treatment. Of this number 236, or 41 per cent. were treated by the injection method, 91 or 16 per cent by operation, and 246 or 43 per cent by the application of trusses."

As it is the injection method that now interests most hernia patients, the results recorded by Drs. Harris and White are as follows:

1—There was not a single death by this method and the complications were of little or no significance.

2—We are convinced that in the hands of experienced surgeons familiar with the principles and method of using the injection method, the injection method is safe and without serious complications.

3—We are convinced, however, that the end results—a perfect and lasting cure—by the injection method are not as good as by surgical operation.

"The 236 patients treated by injection have been followed for from six months to three years after the last injection. There were 57 per cent of cures, 28 per cent possible cures, and 15 per cent complete failures."

"These results are sufficiently good to recommend this treatment when operation cannot be considered because of expense or personal or physical reasons."

Of course, when the cases are carefully 'selected', the results of the injection method should be even better than those recorded by Drs. Harris and White.

DEFENCE FIGURES

The White Paper on defence is now an annual warning to the country of what it may expect and an annual record of the most staggering cumulative effort we have ever made in time of peace. The series began in 1935 and each year the financial burden has loomed larger and the record of achievement more impressive. But the end is ever still more remote. Two years ago the five-year program of £1,500,0000,000 took our breath away. Last year (after Austria) we were reconciled to its being substantially exceeded. Now (after Munich) we see that in the first three of the five years alone we are budgeting to spend (counting next year's estimates) £1,173,000,000 in the three services alone, apart from over £80,000,000 on civil defence. And, although we arranged two years ago that £400,000,000 of the £1,500,000,000 should be raised by borrowing an average of £80,000,000 a year, we have already exhausted nearly half, and next year, unless we are to cripple ourselves by hugely increased taxation, we shall not find the remaining half adequate. Hence the government's decision to take powers to raise a further £400,000,000 by borrowing to cover us until the five year period ends in March, 1942.—Manchester Guardian.

ENGLAND NEEDS

Deep bomb-proof shelters should be dug. The clamor for them is so insistent that Mr. Chamberlain will give way shortly. We need new broad walks. In peace they would provide for the swift movement of traffic. This would bring economies to commercial enterprise. In war they would secure the rapid evacuation of our large cities. Evacuation camps are needed to receive the children in time of war, but not for use in peace years. Do not be afraid that if we build them now they will fall into disrepair. The Richborough Camp was built during the Great War. Its structure is still sound and it is now sheltering German refugees, though it has been disused all these years. And remember that half a million of our unemployed come from the mining, building, and public works contracting industries. They are just the men we need for digging shelters, building camps, making roads. And what about those who are left over? What work remains for the young lads who are coming out of schools and cannot find jobs? They have the most wholesome, agreeable, beneficial, encouraging of all industries—tilling the soil. Dorman-Smith has told us that work can be found on the land for a million more men.—London Express.

ROYAL TAILOR BILL

At an exhibition in London is to be seen the beautifully neat account book kept by George Kirke, Gentleman of the Robes to Charles I, which contains full details, with prices, of the "Robes, Apparel and other necessaries belonging to his Mats owne person" supplied during the year from September 1630, to September, 1631.

The amount spent by King Charles on clothes was remarkable, especially when the value of the money at that period is considered. Taking only the sums written down in the left-hand column of the account, there is a total of nearly £3,900. Of this £657 4s was for "Silke hose Garters, Points, etc.", £365, 18s for "Gloves, guirdles and hangers", and £102 17s 8d for "Beauver Hatts and Hattbands."

Individual items in King Charles' tailor's bill were £169 1s 3d for "a suite and cloake of peach cullor sattin", and £122 15s 8d for "a skie cullor sattin doublett, the hose and cloke of mixt peach cullor cloth laced very thick with a rich open gold and silver-lace cloke lined with a skie cullor plush."

For "a tennis suite of carnation damaske all stitcht and loopt with silke, his Majesty had to pay only £12 11s 6d, so that evidently sports clothes were comparatively inexpensive. "A night gowne of skie cullor silke table laced with a large gold and silver lace three times about lined with plush" cost as much as £80 13s.—London Times.

CHARMING DISHONESTY

Such are the charms of dishonesty that you will find even men who are usually honest in money matters and who will yet turn to dishonesty for fun. The number of spoons forks and ash-trays stolen from hotels and restaurants every year as trophies is so enormous that, reading it, you might conclude that the human race is no better than a gang of thieves. There are thousands of people who see a moral difference between "pinching" and stealing, and who, though they would not steal your purse, would pinch your ash-tray. I once knew a man who, if he were visiting a house and were left alone for a minute or two, always filled his pockets from his host's cigarette box I have heard him boasting of this as a feat, and it was clear that he thought that, in doing what he did, he was living in wise obedience to the maxim, "God helps those who help themselves." One of the best men I ever knew used, as a boy, to climb into a railway station refreshment room when it was closed and to steal cakes and buns with a gang of other boys. He grew up to be a perfectly honest man, but can we be certain that the honesty of his manhood was as natural as the dishonesty of his boyhood?—New Statesman and Nation (London.)

NEW TYPE POLICE

New York City's dynamic Mayor F. H. LaGuardia spoke briefly at the twenty-fifth annual reception and ball of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association at Madison Square Garden assuring his audience of twenty thousand that nobody was too good now to become a New York policeman. And the department would be headed by "a man from the ranks" as long as he was Mayor, he added.

"The old handlebar type of mustache," said the Mayor, "has given way to the streamlined, handsome type of officer. The old helmets and pot-bellies have given way to a new type uniform and athletic wearers; the rap of the nightstick on the pavement to a highly mechanized force; the old art of doping out crimes has given way to chemistry, physics and the laboratory"

The Mayor departed in haste after his speech to see a four-alarm fire in Brooklyn

EARLY ICE CREAM

The early history of ice cream is fragmentary and the name of the actual originator is not known. It is recorded that Alexander the Great the Ptolmyes and Julius Caesar preferred "iced drinks," made with wine and snow, resembling our water ices, writes a correspondent to the Philadelphia Inquirer.

The writings of Marco Polo mention certain frozen sweets he enjoyed in China in 1227. Italian records indicate a thriving ice cream trade there in the 15th. century and Catherine de Medici, when she moved from Florence to France, took her own gelateria or freezing plant with her. The first printed record of it in England appeared in 1769.

Legends differ on its introduction into America, but credit most generally is given to the Virginia Cavaliers. In 1777 what is probably the first advertisement for ice cream appeared in a New York paper.

During the administration of James Madison, his wife, Dolly, served it frequently at her levees. In 1832 a Negro confectioner of Philadelphia, Augustus Jackson, offered ice cream for sale at a dollar a quart. Several accounts claim that this man and the chef at the White House during the Madison administration are the same.

HITLER WARNS

There was an indirect reference interpreted as aimed at either President Roosevelt or the American Secretray of State, Cordell Hull, when the Fuehrer, in describing Germany's efforts at economic expansion, asserted:

"We won't take order in this matter from any European or extra-European statesman."

The Chancellor spoke outside the Wilhelmshaven Rathaus from behind a bullet-proof glass screen.

Recording Broadcast

Only those in the immediate audience heard his address as it was delivered. A cheduled short wave broadcast abroad was broken just after he started to talk.

Later, however, a recording of his voice was broadcast in Germany.

Officials said the failure of the short wave transmission was due to "technical reasons."

Hitler proclaimed anew that the Rome-Berlin axis was unshakeable for all time and he called Italy "the state with which we shall march now and forever."

"If any nation wants to measure its strength with ours (the axis' in any other way than a peaceful one" he declared, "we are ready for that also."

Room For Living

Dr. Otto Kriegk, veteran newspaper commentator, held that foreign nations did not grasp the full significance of Hitler's speech. He said three important points kere overlooked:

1. Hitler's vigorous denial that the democracies had any right to criticize Germany or interfere with her "Lebensraum"—room for living.

2. Hitler's insistence that the world must rid itself of the "Bolshevist danger" where after there could be peace and understanding.

3. The assertion near the end of Hitler's speech, "let the others conclude pacts and issue declarations as many as they please. I do not place trust in documents but I place my trust in you, my fellow citizens."

Says Lie Destroyed

Kriegk, who often speaks for the government, added:: "This program which goes far beyond all measures of encirclement has not been fully grasped (by other nations')".

Hitler's Voelkischer Beobachter declared "the Fuehrer's speech destroyed the lie about mobilization." and that "foreign countries have been liberated from the nightmare of British panic-mongering."

Hitler still was cruising in the North Sea after an inspection of the fortified island, Heligoland.

Aboard the cruise ship Robert Ley with him were 1,000 "strength through joy" vacationists and hundreds of Nazi party and government officials.

Wilhelmshaven, Germany, April 3—In a lengthy address, withheld from Germany and the entire waiting world for hours, Adolf Hitler made clear Saturday that Germany may have to reconsider the Anglo-German naval treaty which restricts German naval tonnage to 35 per cent. that of England.

The attitude of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in making military commitments to Poland "may destroy" the agreement of Munich, he said.

"And," he warned in the next breath, "if any power wants to measure its strength with ours, the German people are always ready."

The broadcast had been cut off. Reports of the address were later sent out by newspaper agencies.

"I concluded this treaty in an ardent desire for peace," the Fuehrer said in discussing the 1935 naval pact.

"This peace must be shared by two sides.

Says Germans Respected

"I for one believe wholeheartedly in the culmination of an eventual understanding between nations. Abroad, we may not be loved, but we are at least respected.

"Now I can say, that if any power wants to measure its strength with ours, the German people are always ready.

"There are those in the world who seek to divide nations into virtuous and non-virtuous classifications. For 300 years, Great Britain acted without virtue, and now in her old age, speaks of virtue.

"If some British statesman demands that each and every problem that relates to Germany's internal affairs should be discussed in public, we then could demand just the same of Great Britain.

"In Palestine, Germany has nothing to seek. We want nothing there and do not interfere in what England is doing. Britain has just as little to seek justifiably in our internal relationships.

"What right has Britain to shoot others in Palestine when they are only defending their homes. In central Europe we did not slaughter thousands. What we did, we did peacefully.

"If this desire for peace does not still persist in Britain, the practical presuppositions of our treaty are removed."

(This was interpreted as a reference to the Anglo-German naval treaty rather than to the Munich accord).

The Fuehrer referred scathingly to "'those who pick chestnuts out of the fire' and warned that they were likely to burn their fingers.

"We have a strong Reich," he said, "and this Reich is strong enough to cope for its rights. We are not dependant upon the favor or disfavor of other states or statesmen."

The Fuehrer's 62-minute address was interrupted frequently by cries of "Pfui" as well as boos whenever he mentioned Britain. In a seemingly jovial mood despite the studied deliberation of his address, he raised many laughs at Britain's expense.

Speaking of Germany's territorial claims in Czecho-Slovakia, he said: "At a time when Britain was indeed very small, the first German king was crowned at Prague.

"We would have had nothing against an independent Czech state if it first of all had not oppressed Germans and secondly if it had not been used as an instrument of communism.

"We employed the old German right and united with that right what history and our geographical position proposed."

"We did not do this to oppress the Czechs," he added. "The Czechs now will have more freedom than the subjects of so-called virtuous nations. I think that I did a great service for peace in Czecho-Slovakia.

"There I removed a great danger in central Europe.

"Germany does not dream of attacking other nations. We want only to develop our economic interests."

Germany, Hitler said, is an enormous consumer of goods and consequently a valuable economic partner for anyone. With regard to armaments, he declared, Germany will continue to rearm as long as other nations force her to do so.

"I think," he said wryly, "that we shall make progress quicker than others."

The Fuehrer sharply attacked newspapers and journalists for hinting at break-up of the Rome-Berlin axis. The tie between Italy and Germany, he said, "is the most natural instrument in the world." It will, he added, 'persist in all circumstances and at all times.

Hitler earned a cheer from his 80,000 hearers when he announced that this year's Nazi party congress in Nuremberg would be called "the party congress of peace."

CRUSHING DEFEAT FOR THE FASCISTS

Rexist Party of Belgium Loses 24 Seats in Senate and Chamber

Brussels, April 3—(AP)— Belgium's Fascist Rexist party was shown by complete returns today to have suffered a crushing defeat in yesterday's general election. The party lost 17 of its 21 seats in the 202-member Chamber of Deputies and seven of its 12 seats in the 167-member Senate.

The Pro-Nazi Heimatreue (Faithful to the Homeland) front which ran full tickets in the Cantons and Eupen and Malmedy—districts ceded to Belgium by Germany at the end of the Great War—failed to win a seat in either House of Parliament.

The Liberal and Catholic parties each gained 10 seats in the Chamber and five and four seats, respectively, in the Senate. The Socialists lost six in the Chamber and four in the Senate. The Communists held their ground in the Chamber and lost one in the Senate.

The new composition of the Chambers will be: Catholics 73, Socialists 64, Liberals 33, Flemish Nationalists 17, Communists 9, Rexists 4, Frenssen Technocrats 1, Ex-Service Men's Association 1.

Only 101 of the Senate's 167 members are elected by direct vote. The distribution of the seats will not be known until the remainder are chosen—44 by provincial councils and 22 by the Senators themselves.

Astrologer Predicts No European War

London, April 3—(CP)—Hon. Ralph Shirley, veteran astrologer, whose horoscope of the King when a boy of seven suggested his majesty would be "raised in due time to a higher sphere than that to which he was born" and who a year ago predicted the Spanish war would end this April, has now forecast there will be no great European war "though there is still trouble ahead."

"The summer will see this crisis developed and I think it will affect Mussolini as well as Hitler, of whose critical positions, as the summer advances, I gave warning four months ago." He added European peace may come about through the fall of the dictators within six months.

Ambassadors May Return to Berlin

Paris, April 3—(AP) — Circles close to the government said today that consultations between Great Britain and France was under consideration for the return of the British and French Ambassadors to Berlin.

The British Ambassador, Sir Nevile Henderson, was instructed March 17 to return to London, "to report on Germany's absorption of Czecho-Slovak territory."

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Rev. H. B. and Mrs. Johnston, Belleville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Julia, to Mr. Donald McKenzie Gallagher, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Gallagher of Harrowsmith, the wedding to take place quietly early in May.

Miss Elizabeth Patrick, and Mrs. John Rodgers of New York City, Mrs. Susan Belcher, Watertown, N.Y., Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Atkinson, Rochester, N.Y., Mrs. Ben Bunton, Mimico, Mrs. James Wardell, Welland, were in town, attending the funeral of the late James Patrick.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Grant of Toronto, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Miles, Front Street.

Miss Mary Webster, V.O.N., is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Miss Hazel Halpin, Turnbull St., returned Saturday from Coniston, where she has been spending the past two weeks the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Morgan.

Prof. Norman McKenzie who addressed the Lecture and Study Club on Friday evening was a dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Archibald, Dufferin Avenues. Professor McKenzie and Mr. Archibald were able to renew associations begun at Dalhousie University and continued during service together in the 85th Battalion, the famous Nova Scotia Highlanders.

Following the concluding lecture at the Belleville Lecture and Study Club on Friday evening, a reception was held in the Collegiate Library at which members had the opportunity of meeting Professor Norman McKenzie. Mrs. P. C. MacLaurin and Mrs. T. C. McMullen poured coffee and the assistants were Mrs. K. S. Hill, Miss Erie Grout, Miss Pearl Campbell, Miss Stewart Masson, Miss Hilda McLaren and Miss Robina Templeton.

CARMEL Y.P.U.

The regular meeting of the Carmel Y.P.U. was held on Wednesday evening, March 29th. Miss Olive Howes, Missionary convener, was in charge. The meeting opened with poem by the leader, Miss Howes. Hymn 120 was sung and the Scripture Lesson was read by Mr. Jack McCabe, followed by prayer. Hymn 20 was sung. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. Offering was then received. Miss Howes took charge of the topic, "Ministry in the Storm Centres." She was assisted by Mrs. Percy Reynolds, Miss Ruby Howes and Miss Hazel Hicks. The Mizpah Benediction closed the meeting.

BRIDGE STREET W.A.

The Women's Association or Bridge St. United Church met Friday March, 31, with a large attendance, Miss Brown the president presiding. Reports of different committees were received and adopted. Mrs. Findlay's unit was in charge.

The Bible lesson was taken by Mrs. Adams on the Resurrection followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison.

Mrs. Baker gave an ineresting talk making a plea for the women of the different societies for more co-operation in improving social and economic conditions of our country.

"We should cherish and endeavour to retain the liberties we enjoy through the labor and sacrifices of our forefathers", said the speaker. The meeting closed with a sing-song from the Red Book and Mizpah Benediction followed by refreshments.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

(Copyright, 1937, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

Is She Interested in Money or Love?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

The only girl I ever cared for seems to be in love with another man. No one considers him a match for her, as they seem to have nothing in common. She has high ideals and sensible tastes. He inherited a little money and spends it right and left.

My circumstances do not allow me to do for her the things he does. He can take her to places she could never go to otherwise. Could she fool herself into thinking she loves this man, because he can give her a good time? And could it be possible that she loves me and is just "kidding" herself into thinking she loves the other man?

Wondering

It may be true that the girl cares more deeply for you than she is aware of, and just because this other man can give her a good time, she mistakes her feelings for love. However, don't you think it would be unwise to build your hopes on so doubtful a foundation? We are apt to confuse cold facts with what we dream may come to pass.

In the meantime, why don't you have a secondary interest? Why not take up a course of training that will improve your prospects or increase your income? So many opportunities are open to bright young men these days. Here's hoping you will soon be as prosperous as the "other man".

Age No Bar to Happy Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've been married now for four years. When at 20 I secretly married a man quite a bit older than myself, my friends and relatives were horrified. But I knew what I was doing. I had know him three years before, and had a chance of finding out all about him.

I think the secret of our successful marriage is that we are both interested in the same things, are congenial, both anxious to help anyone in need, always try to sacrifice our own feelings for each other, and we are not a bit jealous of each other. He has given me a small car, and it never occurs to him to question where I go or what I do.

We have a two-year old son who is the joy of his father's life.

The reason I am writing is to ask why it is that people always think it's shocking to marry a man much older than yourself. I'll wager there's not a home in this city, or anywhere, as happy as ours—yet we have had a hard time financially, as much as any other middle class family, but we have worked together and love has made it easy for us.

Happy Wife.

You have my congratulations on your happy solution of the all-important problem. It isn't a difference in years that counts so much as a difference in tastes, ideas and standards, as your happy marriage has proven. The real reason "old bachelors" are said not to make ideal husbands is that they're 'set' in their ways, and girls have to make themselves over to please their older husbands. But you've evidently picked a winner.

Girl's Anxiety Makes a Man Conceited

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am very much in love with a boy, and he says he loves me too. But now there's a girl who used to go to the same school with us but who has moved away to the other side of the city. She keeps on writing to him, and although he says he doesn't care for her, whenever we quarrel he threatens to go with her instead of me.

She's better-looking than I am, and it wouldn't be hard for him to fall for her. But, since I'm not engaged to him, I have nothing to say as to whom he shall go with, and it makes me so discouraged whenever he quarrels with me. We have talked about marrying in the future, but feel we're too young to even think of it now. He's 17 and I'm just a few months younger.

Worried

My dear girl, as you're not engaged to the young man, and do not want to be for a long time, you are making a big mistake to even let on that you're a bit anxious over his attentions to other girls. Learn to smile at anything, although you do get jealous at times. If you show your real feelings, you give yourself away, and this would make any young man conceited.

New Trends in Decoration Make Home Charming

There is a new vogue for stripes in decoration, vertical, horizontal, diagonal. They may be wide, bold, clear, colorful stripes, or narrow, subtle, delicate ones. Stripes, artistically used, add an "alive" quality to a room-decoration, often add just the dramatic note needed.

Quilted fabrics are another smart and charming note in decoration. Fabrics already quilted—lovely, inexpensive chintzes, for example—and fabrics that you can have quilted, by machine or by hand. Or if you are 'handy' with the sewing-machine, you can buy a quilting attachment and easily and quickly do the quilting yourself.

When you plan the furnishing of a room, distribute the weight and interest of the furniture and accessories so that one wall will balance the opposite wall.

It's interesting to repeat the pattern or color of curtains in the upholstering or slip-covering of a piece of furniture across the room.

You can achieve an easy-on-the-eye balance in a room by occasionally using a matching pair of something . . . a pair of chairs by a sofa or fireplace, a pair of bookcases, a pair of end-tables flanking a sofa, a pair of lamps, a pair of vases or candlesticks on a mantel-shelf, pair of flower-stands, But don't overdo the using of pairs in a room. . . . . this becomes tiresome.

Consider using wall-to-wall carpets, especially if you own your own home. For a little more expense, rooms can give an enormous return in luxurious appearance, in expansive floor-harmony.

Today texture weaves are one of the most exciting and stimulating features in decoration. Train your eye and decorative sense to discern new relationships among textures, new combinations.

At any time of the year freshen a room by slip-covering the furniture, or some of it. Don't think of slip-covers as appropriate only to summer.

A new wallpaper may inspire you to now heights in decoration. Whatever your tastes, whatever your enthusiasm, you can capture them in wallpaper, in color and in design.

Trimly tailored lamp shades are in better taste than pleated and heavily-decorated shades. A cream or beige textured silk is an interesting fabric to use for a shade, since light effectively dramatizes the texture.

Place small rugs parallel to the walls of a room . . not at various angles.

Have you thought of making kitchen curtains of the gay new print kitchen towels? Just hang them on rings, on a narrow rod. Makes a decorative ensemble . .. matching kitchen towels, kitchen curtains.

Manners of the Moment

Don't begrudge that tiny second it will take you to hold a door open for the person directly behind you. You will like yourself better if you don't let the door fly back in the person's face.

Cutting Fat Slowly Is Safest

YVONNE BOUVIER
Keeps trim, slender by eating properly

By HELEN FOLLETT

LET THE heavyweight mind her eating habits, get out early in the morning and hoof it; she will soon get herself a slenderized shape. There's no need of strenuous exercise or half starving. Getting rid of tonnage by a slow method is safe. Rapid reducing will soften the tissues of the face, invite wrinkles.

The candidate for the willowy figure must have all necessary food elements, cutting down on those that build adipose padding. One egg a day or one sliver of meat will supply protein. Milk and eggs will provide vitamin A, fruits and vegetables contain the vitamin B and C that she needs for well being. Nuts, rich in oil, are taboo; so is candy. Sugar is concentrated food, nobody needs much of it.

She can have her fill of celery, string beans, lettuce, cabbage, asparagus, brussels sprouts, tomatoes, cucumbers, artichokes, cauliflower and eggplant if not fried in butter. There's no end of good things of the table that won't add to inches. Dry toast is better than bread and butter. Tea and coffee should be taken clear. Unsweetened lemonade, buttermilk, tomato and orange juice are all good for the lady-person who is tired of buying her dry goods in the department given over to "stylish stouts".

If a permanent wave is a success, the hair can be arranged in ringlets that will last for two weeks without the use of a setting lotion. Should it happen that your hard-boiled curly-cues go limp in a few days, seek another beauty shop.

The hair must be wound tightly on the rods, the timing must be precisely right, the hair should be cooled before the strands are taken from the curlers.

All permanent wave methods are satisfactory. It is the work of the operator that determines whether or not results are what they should be.

Finger-nails, like the cutaneous surface of the hands, suffer from too much hot and cold water, cleaning agents that are harsh in effect.

Combat the ravages of housework by giving the rosy sheaths an oil bath at least twice a week. Pour a few tablespoonfuls of hot olive oil in a cup, soak the finger-tips for ten minutes. When you take them out, friction them vigorously. This treatment stimulates the underlying blood streams from which the nails get nourishment. Afterwards, stroke briskly with the palms of the hands.

Bonarlaw

Bonarlaw—Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. John Montgomery at Finch, Ont., on Thursday morning of this week in her 83rd. year. Mrs. Montgomery was the mother of Mrs. John Forsyth and Mr. Hugh McMaster, of Springbrook.

Mr. Edward Ovens of the Canadian National Railways, retires from the service of this company on March 31st, on pension allowance, after twenty years' service.

DR. DAFOE'S COLUMN on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Parents Should Help Nervous Child to Become Adjusted to Environment

There are many factors which may contribute to your child's nervousness. As I have already warned you, blaming it on a nervous parent or grandparent doesn't help the situation.

Once we have searched ourselves and our home for the cause, then it is our duty to use our discovery to help the child become better adjusted to his environment. We must do what we can to remedy the harm that has been done, to strengthen his sense of security and confidence.

Of course, children's reactions to nervous upsets are as varied as there are children. For instance, he may show that he is upset by persistently wetting the bed at night. Now up to the time a child is two or three years of age, it isn't uncommon for him to wet the bed occasionally, even to wet himself during the day. However if he is two and a half or three, has had a good training in habits, and still wets himself, it is a good idea to find out why.

If you call in a specialist, he will very quickly tell you if the child is wetting himself because of some physical reason. If this isn't the case, then you can begin to look for something that is upsetting him, something in his environment to which he cannot adjust himself. Even when this is corrected, you still have to break the child of a bad habit he has learned.

I always tell mothers that trying to break the habit by shaming the child is entirely wrong. I have seen children run and hide their heads when an adult points the finger of shame at him for wetting but I have seldom seen it effect a cure. Very often, it just intensifies the bad behaviour.

However, it can be brought home to him by letting him experience the disadvantages of being wet. For instance, if your three-year-old wets himself in the daytime, you can warn him that you can't take him with you when you go out because his clothes are wet. One child was told that he couldn't go out in the car because of his habit, that he would wet himself. He insisted he could stay dry—and he did.

Another method of showing him the disadvantages of wetting himself is to wrap him up tightly in blankets to keep him warm while his clothes are drying. Then the child will be very impatient about being wrapped up for so long, and he will be careful to see that he stays dry in future.

I have known mothers who broke children of the habit of wetting both night and day, by having the child help wash out the dirty clothes. Now don't do this as a punishing for wetting, but just as a logical result of their being wet.

However, remember not to worry about your child wetting himself until he is about three. Up to that time it is the adult's responsibility to see to it that he is kept dry. After that, if it continues, it may be considered a nervous habit.

AT THE BELLE

"Ice Follies of 1939"

Hitting a new high in entertainment "The Ice Follies of 1939" starring Joan Crawford and James Stewart, Lew Ayres and Lewis Stone comes next to the Belle.

"The Ice Follies of 1939" contains the happy combination of plot, extravaganza, and some of the best tunes to come out of Hollywood this season. It features Joan Crawford in the type of role which sky-rocketted her to screen fame, and in addition introduces her to audiences as a new find in film songstresses.

The story centres about Mary McKay, a singing ice skater, who through a series of strange twists of fate, finds herself on the top rung of the ladder to film fame. Her quick ascent, however, leaves husband Jimmie Stewart behind and the manner in which the two are finally reunited supplies plenty of punch to the dramatic action of the story.

As Mary McKay, Joan Crawford soars to new heights of film popularity. She lends herself to the role with a new abandonment, her voice, in three popular songs, is individual and appealing and her ice skating routine leaves no room for improvement. Particularly interesting are Miss Crawford's scenes when, as a newcomer to the studio, she is subjected to the many tests necessary in the moulding of a star. Wardrobe make-up and test departments are faithfully reproduced, giving audiences a first hand view into the inner workings of a large film plant.

James Stewart, as Miss Crawford's husband, has been happily cast. Sentimental, sincere, he gives to his role that naturalness which has placed him in the category of the screen's most popular leading men. Lew Ayres, too, will add to his already long list of loyal fans as Jimmie's partner, Eddie Burgess, whose wisecracks dominate many of the drama's lighter moments.

Special comment should be made on the elaborate ice spectacles featuring the original Ice Follies Troupe. Specialty and group numbers, executed on wet ice to give a mirror effect, are breath-taking in their beauty. This is especially true of the Indian Ballet which features in addition to champions Roy Shipstad and Bess Ehrhardt, a chorus of twenty-four girls.

The Belle News of the day, "The Wrong Way Out", a very interesting crime does not pay story and an entertaining Pete Smith specialty "Double Diving" are announced for exhibition on the same program.

"Snow White and Seven Dwarfs"

Romance, high comedy, pathos, excitement, color of breath-taking beauty and tuneful music! Mix them well and you have "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs", Walt Disney's first step into the feature-length production field now on the Belle screen.

A funny Edgar Kennedy comedy, the popular Belle News reel and a smart musical revue will be presented on the same program.

AT THE McCARTHY

"Amateur Vaudeville Entertainment

Outstanding amateur vaudeville by 32 prize winning amateurs from Picton and Prince Edward County is now being presented on the stage of the McCarthy Theatre in addition to the screen program of merit that includes a tidal-wave of romance and fun throughout in the feature attraction entitled "Pride of the Navy" with James Dunn and Rochelle Hudson in the co-starring roles, supported by an exceptionally talented featured cast. Also a Walt Disney Technicolor cartoon will be shown.

The vaudeville program includes a 13-piece hill-billy band; vocal soloists and duets; two little cowboys in an act that will amaze you; and six other acts that are different than ever before seen in Belleville presented by amateur talent. Guest artists include Jackie Marsh, Belleville's own amateur radio hour winner, on Ken Soble's program. Also Mary Forster's pupils in a presentation of tap-acrobatic and novelty dances. You will appreciate this entire show, we assure you, make up your party and join the Prince Edward people at the McCarthy theatre, for an evening of fine stage and screen entertainment.

The Stars Say

For Tuesday, April 4

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

ON THIS day elders, superiors and those in places of authority seem to figure adversely, according to the lunar transits. There are signs of opposition and methods intended to thwart and delay. They will make matters difficult and unhappy, perhaps with hints of litigation because of misconstrued speech or writings. However, patience and tactful policies may overcome such obstacles or hostilities, and add to the social gratification as well.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of very definite obstructions, delays or other frustrating circumstances. These may come from elders, superiors, old institutions or those in power. Persistent and patient efforts, with possibly strategy or diplomacy, may heal misunderstanding or breaches and possibly litigation. Compromise and policy may happily adjust matters and bring some social gratifications.

A child born on this day may be serious, sensitive, critical and stubborn, inciting opposition and hostility. However, it may have some inclinations to use diplomacy and stratagem when needed. It might use these qualities in a judicial career.

Zagreb, Yugoslavia, April 3 — (AP)—Premier Dragisha Cvetkovich met today with Vlado Machek, Croat leader, for the first of a series of conferences which Yugoslavs hope will find a formula for settlement of long-standing political difficulties between the Croats and Slovenes and the Serbs.

Buenos Aires, April 3—(AP) — Formal charges were awaited today as a result of investigation of allegations that Germans had conspired for the colonization or annexation of Patagonia, the bleak but potentially rich plateau of 257,058 square miles in Southern Argentina. Judge Miguel Jantus took charge of the investigation under a law requiring him to intervene in any case in which Argentine sovereignty might be involved. It was believed, as a result, that the government felt enough evidence had been uncovered to warrant formal charges.

Santiago, Chile, April 3—(AP) — Senator Cristobal Saes, President of the anti-Racist Institute of Chile, announced his intention today of asking the government to make a "minute investigation" of activities of German agents in Chile. He said the study would be similar to investigations in Brazil and Argentina.

Warsaw, April 3—(CP-Havas) — Colonel Walery Slawek, twice Premier of Poland and a close collaborator of the late Marshal Joseph Pilsudski, died today from self-inflicted gunshot wounds. He was 60.

Slawek, who had been despondent shot himself yesterday. He was defeated in the elections last year after many years of political prominence.

Paris, April 3—(AP)— Premier Edouard Daladier announced today President Albert Lebrun would be a candidate for re-election in the Presidential voting Wednesday. The Premier talked with the President this morning and said Lebrun agreed to allow his name to be placed before the election congress which will meet at Versailles.

'GROSS FORGERY' SAYS GERMANY

Excitement is Caused Over Alleged Report on Patagonia

Buenos Aires, April 1—(AP)—Five cabinet officers joined today in an investigation by Buenos Aires police into newspaper charges that the German embassy here had harbored an incipient plot to annex Patagonia, potentially rich in oil and wool, to Germany.

The newspaper Noticias Graficas published a document which it said was a facsimile of a report on Patagonia to the German colonial ministry from a German embassy adviser named Von Schubert and Albert Mueller, acting leader of the Nazi party in Argentina.

The purported document described Patagonia, a southern Argentine region of 267,058 square miles and 77,750 inhabitants, as a "no man's land" over which Argentina was said to have "no right." The German embassy branded it a "gross forgery."

RADIO SILENCE STILL UNBROKEN

Expedition Runs Into Pacific Ocean Typhoon on March 24th

San Francisco, April 1—(AP) — The radio silence that eight days ago settled over Richard Halliburton and his strange sea-going expedition during a Pacific Ocean typhoon still was unbroken today.

MacKay Radio Company operators said all efforts to communicate with him had failed since March 24.

Halliburton, 39, writer and adventurer, left Hong Kong for San Francisco in a Chinese junk. The crew of 10, mostly Chinese, included one radio operator.

The junk was 2,400 miles out of Hong Kong, headed for Midway Island, when the radio went silent during a typhoon.

MacKay radio officials said the American freighter Jeff Davis was in the general area where Halliburton's craft was last heard from. The freighter reported last night, however, that it had not sighted the junk and had been unable to pick up any radio signals from it.

Hopes for Halt To Aggression as Result of Decision

Johannesburg, April 1 (CP-Reuters)—An editorial hope that Great Britain's pledge of assistance to Poland may have called a halt to aggression was voiced by the Rand Daily Mail today. The newspaper acknowledged, however, that it is impossible to forecast the future with certainty.

The Cape Times said Prime Minister Chamberlain had stated the unanswerable fact, that there are no questions which can not be solved by peaceful means, "but if they are to be settled by war Great Britain and France will face aggressors with moral and probably material, forces."

U. S. Recognizes Franco Government

Washington, April 1—(AP)—State Secretary Cordell Hull announced today the United States had recognized General Franco's Government of Spain.

At the same time the State Department was notified that President Roosevelt had a signed proclamation lifting the embargo imposed two years ago on shipments of American arms and war materials to either side in the recent Spanish conflict.

The United States followed Great Britain and France in extending formal recognition to Franco's regime as the legal as well as the actual Spanish Government.

LITHUANIA SENDS PROTEST TO GERMANY

Kaunas, Apr. 1 (CP-Havas) — Lithuania today protested to Germany against the treatment of Lithuanians in the Memel Territory, as the diet sent the accord turning over the land to the Reich to President Antanas Sometona for final approval.

Kazys Skirpa, Minister in Berlin, asked the German government to stop arresting Lithuanians in Memel and to free persons already in custody in order to improve relations between the two countries.

METROPOLITAN LIFE CONTINUES PROGRESS IN 1938

Half a Billion Dollars Paid Policyholders for Seventh Consecutive Year.

OTTAWA, April 3rd. — Payments to Metropolitan Life policyholders and beneficiaries during 1938 exceeded half a billion dollars for the seventh consecutive year, according to the 72nd annual report of the company released today. The report also shows that dividends paid to policyholders during the past year amounted to $103,947,384, and that a still larger sum — $118,042,832 — has been set aside for dividends payable in 1939. Nearly one-half of this amount, or $57,765,510, will be paid to Industrial policyholders; $57,452,174 will be paid on Ordinary policies and $2,825,148 on Accident and Health policies. Included in the amount set aside for dividends payable to Industrial policyholders in 1939 is an item of $9,200,000 which will be applied to further the company's program, in effect for several years, of increasing the benefits under old Industrial policies. The 1939 dividends, when added to bonuses and dividends previously paid to policyholders, bring the total up to $1,438,485,045. The fact that the Metropolitan is a mutual company, operated solely for the benefit of its 29 million policyholders, is commented upon in the report which also shows that during the year 1938 a total of more than three-quarters of a billion dollars was paid to policyholders or added to funds held for their benefit.

HARRY D. WRIGHT
Second Vice-President and Manager for Canada, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, who reports increased investments in Canada for the benefit of policyholders.

Commenting upon the Canadian business of the Metropolitan, Second Vice-President H. D. Wright, Manager for Canada, stated that the total amount of life insurance in force had shown a satisfactory increase during the year. "This steady progress, year after year, indicates the continued confidence of the people of this country in life insurance," he said. He pointed out that Metropolitan investments in Canada including Dominion, provincial and municipal bonds continue to increase and now total $267,781,040. Commenting upon these investments, Mr. Wright pointed out that since the company had commenced business in Canada in 1872, the total amount paid by the company to Canadians, plus the amount now invested here for their benefit, exceeded the total premiums collected in Canada by $138,500,000. Turning to the Health and Welfare activities in Canada undertaken on behalf of policyholders and in the interests of public health generally, Mr. Wright said that the Metropolitan had participated in 91 different health campaigns during the year; had distributed nearly 3,800,000 pieces of health literature; and through the operation of its nursing service had made 385,674 visits to sick policyholders without additional charge to them.

Referring to the company's total business in Canada and the United States, the year's report shows that the Metropolitan ended 1938 with a new high total of life insurance in force, the amount of such protection being $22,612,403,594, of which 51% or $11,556,261,130 was owned by Ordinary policyholders; 33% or $7,550,316,755 by Industrial policyholders; and 16% or $3,505,825,709 by Group policyholders. There was also in force Accident and Health insurance carrying a principal sum benefit of $1,449,927,200 and weekly indemnity of $18,500,602. More than $1,800,000,000 of additional life insurance protection was provided by the 3,330,151 new policies issued during the year.

The assets of the Metropolitan increased by the sum of $223,179,590 which brought the total of the funds held by the company for the benefit of policyholders and beneficiaries to $4,942,900,416 at the end of the year. The report comments that the assets include more than 100,000 carefully selected, diversified investments. The surplus and general voluntary reserves are now $313,391,071. This serves as a margin of safety — a cushion against contingencies which cannot be foreseen.

FLOOD THREAT LESSENS

Fergus, Ont., April 1 (CP)—Threat of flood damage from the Grand River here was lessened during the past 24 hours with the level continuing to drop. The level today is below normal for this time of year.

Large ice jams remain intact above the dam at Grand Valley and these hold the only threat at the present time. Any damage which might result from a breakage of the jams would largely be confined to that village as the ice would be crushed up by the time it reached here.

Metropolitan reports to its policyholders—

HIGHLIGHTS OF 1938

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company is a mutual company. It is operated solely for the benefit of its 29 million policyholders, whose life insurance with this Company totalled over $22,612,000,000 at the end of the past year.

In 1938, more than $566,300,000 was paid to policyholders and beneficiaries, and $176,000,000 was added to statutory reserves for payment of obligations which will accrue in future years under present policies. Dividends paid in 1938 amounted to $103,940,000. A still larger sum—$118,042,000—has been set aside for dividend payments in 1939.

Metropolitan has paid, since 1927, more than $5,000,000,000 to policyholders and beneficiaries.

More than $1,800,000,000 of life insurance protection was provided by the 3,330,151 new policies issued during the past year.

Assets held for the benefit of policyholders and beneficiaries—which include more than 100,000 carefully selected, diversified investments—amount to more than $4,900,000,000.

As part of its welfare program in 1938, Metropolitan distributed 68 million health booklets—an average of 1 every half-second—and published monthly health-education advertisements in magazines whose combined circulation for the year was over 300 million copies.

Metropolitan welcomes every opportunity to provide its policyholders with information that will enable them to have a clearer understanding of how the Company operates. To help accomplish this, the Company is publishing a series of educational advertisements in magazines, and seeks in various other ways to keep its policyholders informed. A booklet, soon to be available, contains a detailed account of Metropolitan's progress in 1938. We shall be glad to send you a copy on request.

Boston and Toronto to Meet In Stanley Cup Finals After Detroit, New York Eliminated

Series Opens in Boston on Tuesday Night With Bruins Favored

HECTIC CONTESTS

Bruins Beat Rangers in Seventh Game and Leafs Down Wings

By JACK CALDER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Hockey's bitterest rivalry, the long Boston-Toronto feud in Stanley Cup playoffs, enters its fifth cycle tomorrow night after one of the most hectic build-ups in the history, of the annual melee that follows the National League schedule.

The teams will begin the finals at Boston on a gruelling best-of-seven-games basis on the heels of long, hard semi-final rounds. It is the first time, despite the significance of their previous meetings, that they ever have met in the cup finals.

With Young Mel Hill of Saskatoon, Sask., riding the glory road again, the Bruins finished off New York Rangers 2-1 in the deciding game of their round early today at Boston, after 48 minutes of extra play. Hill scored the winning goal in overtime, just as he had done in the first two games of the best-of-seven round.

Ice Length Rush

The Maple Leafs reached the championship round at Toronto Saturday night when their money-goal star, Gordon Drillon of Moncton, N.B., raced the length of the ice to score the overtime counter that defeated Detroit 5-4 in the deciding game of a best-of-three round. The Leafs previously had eliminated New York Americans and Detroit had beaten Montreal Canadiens.

Those were brilliant lead-ups to the finals, which really didn't need anything to make them historic. The long enmity between Boston and Toronto would have been enough.

Four times the Bruins and the Leafs have met in cup playoffs and each time Toronto has won. Last year in the first round, with the league title at stake, Toronto won the best-of-five round in three straight games when Boston was heavily favored. Chicago Black Hawks, who didn't even reach the playoffs this winter, defeated the Leafs in last year's finals.

The Bruins won the league championship during the schedule this season, when the N.H.L. was solidified into a single group. The Leafs finished third behind the Rangers.

Round is Tied

Again Boston was the favorite when the playoffs opened, and the fans' confidence was upheld when the Bruins won the first three games with Young Hill breaking up the first two. Then little Clint Smith punched an overtime goal at New York and the Rangers grabbed a 2-1 victory in the fourth match. Given new hope, the Rangers won two more games, tying the round Saturday night through a 3-1 win at home.

Manager Art Ross of the Bruins and the 16,000 Boston fans were nearly nervous wrecks after those three beatings and they were limp last night after three periods in which the teams scored once each. Both goals came in the second period, Ray Getliffe tallying for the Bruins and Muzz Patrick for the Rangers.

Bill Cowley, who had supplied assists on Hill's other two sudden-death goals, passed the puck to him for the winning one again after taking Roy Conacher's rebound off the back-boards. Hill fired from six feet away, ending a total of 553 minutes and 18 seconds of hockey for the seven games.

Gardiner Quite Hot

It was the first time in four games that Boston had scored twice on Bert Gardiner, who entered the Rangers' nets when Goalie Dave Kerr was injured in the first contest. Manager Lester Patrick of the Rangers, lauding all the blue-shirts for their gameness, cited Gardiner in particular.

Hill also scored Boston's goal Saturday night in the second period. Phil Watson tied the game at 1-1 and Bill Carse and Alex Shibicky established the Rangers' margin in the third.

Drillon's dash, breaking up the Toronto battle after five minutes of extra time, was a classic. The Detroit lines were drawn back ready to check, when he started from behind his own goal. He scarcely wavered in his course as he passed his check and sped by Doug Young on the defence before whipping the puck into a corner behind goalie Tiny Thompson.

Came From Behind

The Red Wings refused to admit defeat until Drillon's team-mates were crowding around to pat him on the back. Three times they came from behind to tie the score and they went ahead in the third period on a goal by big Charlie Conacher.

Just two minutes after Conacher scored, Bob Davidson punched in Reg Hamilton's pass and in another minute Murph Chamberlain gave Toronto a 4-3 advantage. Again the Red Wings rallied, Hec Kilrea converting a passout from rookie Don Grosso with nine minutes of regular time left.

DOWN THE RIVER

Five years ago Jim (Rip) Collins, ABOVE, was the biggest individual batting punch in the National League. He was with St. Louis Cardinals then, but with the advent of Johnny Mize, Rip went to Chicago with Leroy Parmelee in exchange for pitcher Lon Warneke. The Cubs recently announced his sale to the minor league Los Angeles team of the Pacific Coast League.

TITLE MATCHES OF BADMINTON CLUB ARE CONCLUDED

Miss Dorothy Davison and Robert Martin Win Senior Single Titles

DOUBLES DECIDED

Social Evening Spent at the Conclusion of the Matches

Keen competition and a large gallery were featured during the annual club championship tournament of the Belleville Badminton Club held at the Armouries on Saturday evening.

Practically all of the matches went to three games, while two continued into overtime before the championships were decided. The mixed doubles and ladies' doubles in the "B" flight both went three games and into overtime before the winners were declared, three games were necessary in the men's doubles in both the "A" and "B" flights.

The club championships in the singles went to Miss Dorothy Davison and Robert (Bob) Martin, both of whom won their respective titles in straight sets. Mr. Martin also teamed with Vic White to win the club doubles title, while Miss Davison teamed with Mrs. E. Spruston to take the ladies' club championship in the doubles.

Following the tournament a social evening was spent in the officers mess at the Armouries, where dainty refreshments were served by the lady members of the club. Saturday night's championship matches concluded the activities of the Belleville Badminton Club for the current season.

The results of the tournament of club championships were as follows:

Ladies' Events "A" Flight

Singles—Miss D. Davison won over Mrs. E. Spruston 11-8 and 11-1.

Mixed Doubles—Mrs. E. Spruston and A. McFee won over M. Burrows and R. Martin, 7-15, 15-7 and 18-16.

"B" Flight

Doubles—Mrs. G. Murray and Miss A. Schuster won over Mrs. Blaine and Mrs. Orr 15-11, 10-15 and 18-17.

Mixed Doubles—Miss K. Henley and A. Hogg won over Mr. and Mrs. T. Vanderwater 15-15 and 15-12.

Men's Events "A" Flight

Singles—Bob Martin won over Russ Hachborn score 15-10 and 15-9.

Doubles—Bob Martin and Vic White won over Russ Hachborn and Lyle Hunter 11-15, 15-5 and 15-11.

"B" Flight

Singles—A. Hogg won over H. Mott 15-10 and 15-9.

Doubles: W. Ristow and B. Salisbury lost to F. Vanderwater and Art Hogg 5-15, 15-7 and 7-15.

BEAR CATS WIN FROM KIMBERLEY

Winning Goal Scored 41 Seconds Before End of Game

Calgary, April 3—(CP)—Kimberley's overtime win in the first game of the Western Senior Hockey Final and Port Arthur's last-minute victory in the second indicate the fur will really fly here tonight in the third chapter of the best-of-five series.

The dynamiters from Kimberley, carrying British Columbia's defence of the Allan Cup won last year by Trail Smoke Eaters, won the series opener 6-5 in overtime and seemed well on the way to a second victory here Saturday night when Port Arthur Bear Cats crashed for two third-period goals and a 2-1 triumph.

Hugh O'Leary, Ports captain and defenceman, sailed through alone for the winning goal with 41 seconds of the third period remaining. Bones McCormach scored the first goal.

Gordon Wilson scored for Kimberley.

MONTREAL TEAM LOSE TO TIREMEN

Goodyears Slap 6-2 Loss on Team Figured to Win Allen Cup

Montreal, April 3 (CP)—The odds shifted more heavily in favor of Toronto Goodyears today as the Ontario champions prepared to meet Montreal Royals in the second game of their best-of-five series for the Eastern Canada Senior Amateur Hockey title.

Pre-series favorites, the Goodyears strengthened their grasp on the public's opinion with a 6-2 victory here yesterday in the opener of the round. The teams play the second game tomorrow night in Toronto, and return to Montreal for a third clash Thursday night.

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

(By The Associated Press)

Clearwater, Fla.: In stocky Bobby Estalella Washington Senators believe they have found the right-handed batting punch they lost in selling Zeke Bonura to New York Giants. Although the shortest man on the squad, the stocky Cuban hits the longest ball.

Lakefield, Fla.: Manager Del Baker has shuffled his pitchers so diligently in the 13 games Detroit Tigers have played that not one has credit for either winning or losing more than one game. Four pitchers, including Schoolboy Rowe, have won once without losing. Rowe also is leading the club in batting, but has made just six trips to the plate. He got three hits.

Austin, Tex.: Merrill May, rookie third sacker of the Phillies, was enroute to Philadelphia today for treatment of a spine injury received last Friday in a game with St. Louis Browns. The squad was split today with the regulars meeting Texas U. and the seconds engaging Port Worth.

Baton Rouge, La.: One of the reasons Bill Terry has not been disconsolate over the loss, at least temporary, of Carl Hubbell is the pitching of Cliff Melton. In 19 innings spread over five games Melton apparently effortlessly has limited the opposition to 13 hits and four runs, one unearned. He has a dozen strikeouts to his credit.

VERDUN LEAFS TO TAKE ON OSHAWA

Defeat Perth 5-2 in Second Game of Eastern Canada Semi - Finals

Ottawa, April 3—(CP)—A well-balanced team led by a high-scoring defenceman with a hockey future, Verdun Maple Leafs moved into the Eastern Canada Memorial Cup finals against Oshawa Generals by trimming Perth Blue Wings 5-2 here Saturday night.

Frankie Eddolls directed the Maple Leafs' attack, rapped two goals, had one assist and was the mainstay of the defence the entire game. His brace of goals along with two more by Jerry Walker and a fifth by Les Ramsay gave Verdun its second straight victory in the best-of-three-series. Last season, Perth eliminated Verdun in the semi-finals but was knocked out by Oshawa in the eastern final.

A five-man attack was used by Perth in a futile effort to stay in the running but the Montrealers' smooth combination and hard checking was too much for the Lanark County players. It was a scrappy game with 16 penalties, including one major to Eric Fleet.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

Continuing in the weekly ribbon and crests tournaments at the Y.M.C.A. in track, gymnasium and pool contests several contests were participated in on Saturday, with both boys and girls competing.

The point standing in the tournament reads as follows:

SYLVANUS APPS NOMINATED FOR FEDERAL HOUSE

Conservatives Pin Faith on Hockey Player in Coming Election

BORN IN PARIS

If Elected Will Sever His Connection With Maple Leafs

Paris, Ont., April 3—(CP)—Sylvanus Apps, one of professional hockey's greatest players, may doff his skates for a career in the arena of federal politics.

The 24-year-old star centre man of Toronto Maple Leafs was given his start along the political path Saturday night at a meeting he did not attend. Busy at Toronto helping Leafs defeat Detroit to advance into the Stanley Cup finals against Boston, Apps was given the Brant constituency Conservative party nomination for the next federal elections.

While thousands cheered Apps and his fellow Leafs at Toronto, another group of 450 persons cheered wildly in the town hall here when the hockey star was nominated on the first ballot over four opponents, Col. A. H. Monteith, K.C., Albert H. Boody, K.C., Dr. P. Barron and John Nunan.

Will Retire From Hockey

Apps sent word to the meeting that if elected at the next general election, probably this fall or next spring, he would retire from hockey in the spring of 1940 when his Leaf contract expires.

When Conny Smythe, Leaf Manager, heard at Toronto of the possible loss of his star player after another season, he commented "that's a long time off." In the meantime, he added jocularly, "I guess I'll have to go out and work for the Liberals."

Apps, graduate of Paris High School and McMaster University, is an all-round sportsman with an athletic career embracing baseball, football, track and field as well as hockey. He competed in the Olympic games at Berlin in 1936 after winning the Canadian pole vault championship in 1934, repeating later at the British Empire games.

Work For National Unity

Apps, who promised in a speech read at the nomination meeting to work for national unity and co-operation between the provinces and the federal government, would be one of the youngest members ever elected to parliament if successful in the election.

The present member is George Wood, Liberal. Since the riding was created in 1904, Liberals have been elected at three general elections and the Conservatives at Four. An Independent was elected in 1917 and a progressive in 1921.

EDMONTON WINS OVER BRANDON

Takes Second Game of Junior Western Final by 6 to 0

Edmonton, April 3—(CP)—New York Rangers bowed from the 1938-39 hockey stage last night when they lost to Boston Bruins in the Stanley Cup semi-final but Rangers' only junior farm team, Edmonton Athletic Club Roamers, celebrated the week-end by practically clinching the western title and the Abbott Cup.

Roamers whipped Brandon Elks, Manitoba champions, 6-0 here Saturday night for their second straight victory by that score in the best-of-five Abbott Cup series for the right to represent the West in the National final. They play again at Winnipeg tomorrow with Roamers odds-on favorites.

Suspension of George Agar of Edmonton was announced last night by President W. G. Hardy of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. Agar was given a five-minute penalty Saturday after Chuck Taylor of Brandon was carried from the ice with a head cut. The suspension will be for two games of the series but will not continue into the Canadian Final.

GREYHOUNDS ARE 2 POINTS AHEAD

Earls Court Rangers Become Serious Threat in British Loop

London, April 3—(CP Cable)—The National Hockey League starts down the home stretch with Harringay Greyhounds a scant two points ahead of the onrushing Earls Court Rangers. During the past two weeks Harringay racers, last year's champions, faded from first to fourth place in the standing, as Rangers came up.

Greyhounds defeated Racers 3-1 Saturday night, while Rangers lengthened their winning streak with a 7-1 victory over Wembley Monarchs. In a third game, Wembley Lions defeated Brighton Tigers 5-2.

Jimmy Powers of the New York Daily News observes: "Biggest problem of our town is trying to find some one who will bet against the Yankees. Joe McCarthy's boys are 1-2 shots....Joe Gordon, our idea of a future Hall of Famer, says that he changes his stance from month to month and stays out of batting slumps, he hopes, he hopes ....Jimmy Foxx and Joe DiMaggio agree that the toughest pitcher for them to face is Mel Harder of Cleveland....Mel Ott at 30 looks 25 and confides he owes it all to a diet of raw carrots."

In reviewing the activities of the 1939 Ki-Y hockey groups it might be well to point out that these annual hockey games serve a definite purpose in the life of Belleville's youth. The fact that every member of this season's good junior O.H.A. team came up through the channels of the Ki-Y leagues is sufficient to prove the value of Ki-Y hockey in Belleville. Of a recent date there has been much talk of the sponsorship of other such minor leagues in the city, but if those mooting such proposals would place their shoulders to the Ki-Y efforts in the manner suggested, no doubt the required results would be attained. Generally speaking the lack of adequate coaching is not afforded some of the Ki-Y teams, but if a united effort of all interested was centred upon these bantams, midgets and juveniles the future of hockey would be secure in Belleville.

One week from today (Easter Monday) the Eastern Ontario checker championships will be held in the Y.M.C.A. Contestants from Peterborough to the Quebec border are expected to compete in this annual championship tournament. Play this year will be under the two-move restriction. The four players having the highest points in the finals will play a round robin series for the H. S. Colliver Trophy. A large entry of outside checker exponents has been registered and the public is cordially invited to attend the games.

Apparently the hockey services of Honey Tompkins are being sought in many centres these days. Recently he was supposed to have been approached by Jack Adams of the Red Wings, but of a more recent date the Peterboro sports scribe has the following to add to Tompkins' puck offerings for the future. He says: "A gent from Cornwall was in town the other day trying to contact Don Crowe and Honey Tompkins of the Petes. Didn't hear his offer, probably a puck offer for these lads to play hockey in the eastern centre next winter—and maybe Crowe's lacrosse ability was concerned, too. There is little chance, we believe of Tompkins or Crowe going to Cornwall, but of course one never knows. Honey already has a chance to play in Detroit or London next winter. If he wishes to do so, while Don turned down a bid to go with Al and Grant Clark last autumn to Clarkson Tech in N'Yawk."

Jimmy Powers of the New York News also observes, after a visit at the A's training camp at Lake Charles, La.: "Saw Connie Mack. He looked in perfect shape. His brain is rapier sharp. His health is perfect. And he is certainly the most articulate of all managers. Connie bought himself a herd of players in the minor loop draft. Most are old-timers with rubber arms. Connie believes baseball is going through a 'talent shortage.' Clubs are buying men they fired years ago. And it is ironic that baseball goods are at an all-time low, while customer receipts are at an all-time high. Connie Mack says he can't explain it."

For the information of the members of the Quinte Motorcycle Club, if they contact a Mr. Putman, in charge of the Wooler Fair, they may learn something to their advantage. The proposal is to stage professional motorcycle races in conjunction with that village's fair next fall. The Wooler Fair is one of the better type smaller fairs where motorcycle racing would doubtlessly prove popular.

Those two ancient enemies of the N.H.L. ice lanes, Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs, will stack up in the Stanley Cup finals. The Rangers chased the Bruins right to the barrier before Art Ross' charges won in overtime last night, but not before the Rangers had tossed quite a scare into the ranks of the Boston fandom. Up in Toronto on Saturday night the Ontario puck fans were quite jittery over the whole thing until Gord Drillon put on his sensational overtime show to steal the picture with a solo effort, that saw Jack Adams' Wings rubbed out.

Here and There—Toronto Goodyears experienced little trouble disposing of the Montreal Royals 6-2 yesterday....Verdun polished off Perth and now meet Oshawa Generals in the Eastern Canada finals of the Memorial Cup playdowns....As was expected the O.B.A. proposal of zoning the province for baseball purposes did not meet with approval, Cobourg scribe please note....We understand Ralph McCabe, former Belleville and Oshawa moundsman, has taken up residence in Northern Ontario; lack of employment forced McCabe to go north.

Culminating a most successful season on the courts, the Belleville Badminton Club rang down its curtain of activities with the playing of all club championships at the Armouries Saturday night. A large gallery showed their appreciation of the thrilling play, that saw nearly all of the events decided in extra sets, two of which went overtime. The club champions, singles, were Miss Dorothy Davison and Bob Martin, who won their laurels handily. However, Mrs. G. Murray and Miss Ann Schuster were forced to battle hard for their ladies' championship in the doubles of the "B" flight, as was the case when Mrs. Spruston and A. McFee were forced into overtime to win the mixed doubles. Some really keen badminton was seen Saturday night although some of the contestants were in as many as three championship matches during the evening. The night terminated the activities of the club for the season.

SIXTO ESCOBAR RETAINS TITLE

Defends World's Bantam-Weight Title Against K. O. Morgan

San Juan, Puerto Rico, April 3—(AP)—Sixto Escobar, the little Puerto Rican, made another successful defence of his world bantamweight championship here last night when he defeated K.O. Morgan, in a 15-round championship fight.

Escobar lost the crown once to Harry Jeffra of Baltimore, but regained it here about a year ago. Since then he's lost several non-title scraps, including the one with Morgan, but he came through in fine style when the chips were down.

The result was highly satisfactory to a sellout crowd of about 12,000 which paid $22,000 to see the fight. The fans shouted "foul" a couple of times when Morgan's blows landed just below the belt line, but Referee Pablo Albanese also had to warn Escobar for low blows.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was reading his newspaper in his private chair, saying to ma, By gollies this is bad, according to this article France is quite likely to go Fashist.

O Willyum, dont say that, that's terrible, ma said, and pop said, That's a way I feel about it too, and ma said, Of course, and it means even more to me personly that it does to you, Willyum. Howard Beckwer the decorater gave me a note to a holesale house and I went down there this afternoon to look over some upholstery materials. It's very important to get just the precise right shade to recover the davenport, because, as Mr. Beckwer expressed it, the whole room revolves around the davenport. Well after going through a whole sea of samples I found just the ideal shade and texture, and when the holesale man told me it was made in Germany you can imagine my reaction, she said.

Mine too, pop said. I'll cheerfully sot on Hitler, but not on his materials, he said, and ma said, That's what I mean, Willyum, so I looked and looked, and the only other possibilities were importations from Italy and Japan so I promptly discarded them, because there's no room in my house for dictaterships, no matter how beautifully they blend, and then came the very last sample he showed me, the most perfect of all.

Dont tell me it was made in Russia? pop said, and ma said, No, France, and even if I order the material immeditly it will take 3 weeks to get here, and by that time France may be in the throes of a dictater and how would I feel then, O Willyum why did you have to tell me?

I didn't. I mean yee gods it's only an unfounded rumor, vive la France for Peet sake, pop said, and ma said, I'll phone in my order the first thing in the morning, a wonderful country like France is certainly not going to fall in 3 weeks, and after that my conscience will be clear.

And she started to do the bridge problem with a happy expression

CONAN DOYLE ON DOGS

Conan Doyle once wrote: "My line of thought about dogs is analogous. A dog reflects the family life. Whoever saw a frisky dog in a gloomy family, or a sad dog in a happy one? Snarling people have snarling dogs, dangerous people dangerous ones. And their passing mood may reflect the moods of others."

Moira Keeps Within Banks As Ice-Jam Clears River From Footbridge to Cannifton

Ice Above Cannifton Dam is Reported to be Solid

BREAKS THRU CHANNEL

Back-up of Drains Floods Basements of Some Shops Downtown

LOWER RIVER CHOKED

At noon today the highest level of the water of the Moira River which was still partially dammed by the shifting floes of ice along its lower course, had yet to reach a height of fifteen feet before reaching the level of the pavement on Front Street at the footbridge gangway and thirteen feet before reaching the road level at the corner of Front and East and West Bridge Streets, it was reported following a survey undertaken by city engineer Chas. Mott.

At the peak of the flood tide on Sunday afternoon, the river had reached a height of 6 and one-half feet above normal, reaching to within five feet of the level of the ground floor of the building occupied by the Bell Shirt Company on the northeast corner of West Bridge and Coleman Streets. Following the first movement of the ice, a drop of two feet in the level of the river was recorded by city engineer Charles Mott.

Movement Expected

Today, unless more rain is received further flood fears were discounted by the office of the engineer. Sunday's movement of the ice was more or less normal, and to be expected. Damage was even lighter than at first expected. Only at the lower end of he stone wall on the east bank of the river did the ice reach above the top of the wall, carried there by the rising water which floated several larger cakes to the road of the park subway under the car bridge.

"We believe the worst of the flood is over now," stated the city engineer. "This year we have not even had reports of any excess water in cellars along Front Street. Not any more than is usually reported any spring.

A lone muskrat, clinging precariously to the upflung jagged edges of swirling ice-cakes rode the heavy ice-field that broke away from behind Lazier's Dam yesterday afternoon to race downriver in the van of brown flood-waters and choke that stretch of the river between the Canadian Pacific Railway bridge and a point a hundred yards north of the footbridge.

Rising to within a couple of feet of flood-level, the swirling gray mass of ice, that showed a thickness of well over twelve inches was halted by the solid ice-field, that stretches south of the railway bridge.

First Push Sunday at 3 a.m.

Momentum of the ice-field drove a smaller field of ice that came down-river at three o'clock Sunday morning in large piles of jagged edged chunks, just south of the railway bridge. Pressure of water and ice behind the field caused a heavy volume of water to flood the entrance to Victoria Park and hurl huge pieces of ice across the road to the frozen surface of the harbor.

Rising at the rate of a foot a minute as the field drove down river, ice and water came to within a few feet of the river banks near the Corbin Lock Company plant, forcing a blackflow of water into sewage pipes that flooded cellars in the vicinity to a depth of twelve inches. No other flood damage was reported.

Volume of Water Lacking

Lack of heavy volume and water pressure behind the field prevented a pile-up of the rotting ice-cakes. Stopped by the solid field of ice below the railway bridge, the field "halted in its tracks" as pressure was released from the upper part of the river. Water, however, found its way through the field to the open stretches of water in the bay, and within an hour of the time the ice movement had stopped a distinct settling of the field was noticeable. This morning the field had settled some twelve inches from the peak of the rise yesterday

River Clear to Cannifton Dam

Today the ice-field is choking that part of the river from near the railway bridge to a point between the footbridge and the rear at the City Hotel. The river is open from that point to the Cannifton dam, an early report stated today. The ice-field north of the dam is said to be solid with no signs of an immediate break-up.

Quietly, without the habitual roar of cracking ice, the Moira attempted to free itself of its ice-shackles shortly after four o'clock yesterday afternoon. Motorists driving along the river noticed a slight movement of the field south of Lazier's Dam, as flood waters flowing down from the upper stretches gradually loosened ice that already showed signs of disintegration and honeycombing.

Race of Ice Down River

Slowly the field poured over the dam, gaining momentum as it entered those stretches of the river that were free from ice. It raced away to choke slightly at the College Street bridge, halted temporarily as it rounded the bend and again gained speed, racing beneath the upper bridge in a foaming ice-packed stream to pour down the straight stretch between that structure and the Lower Bridge. Its greatest speed was attained in the stretch of the river between the two lower city bridges.

The news spread like wildfire. As one resident puts it, "in less time than it takes to shake a stick," city bridges were black with curious spectators, while motorists sped along the Cannifton Road to view the spectacle. River banks were lined with people while a large number of the curious raced to the C.P.R. bridge to watch for any spectacular occurrences that might happen. One spectator was nearly caught in the flood water that poured over the entrance to Victoria Park, carrying large ice-chunks with it across the road to the harbor ice.

A brief, but severe rainstorm on Saturday night increased fears of a flood. Canadian Department Stores staff worked feverishly removing stocks from the store basement near the footbridge, with department and other stores also taking anti-damage precautions.

At three o'clock Sunday morning, a movement of ice was noticeable in the river mouth north of the Upper Bridge and a few minutes later a large field broke away, picking up fragments in a swift rush to the rivermouth where it stopped near the railway bridge. No exceptional rise of levels was caused by this movement, but ice jamped in the stretch of river between the railway and lower bridges.

Danger of Flood Greatly Reduced

Danger of a damaging flood was greatly minimized this morning, City Engineer Mott stated. "The entire river is clear from the Cannifton dam to the end of the lower river—ice-jam," he said, "while the field near the railway bridge has pushed itself through to the channel cut in the bay ice by city workmen some time ago. Water is running away freely through the field—the entire jam is settling, and flood danger is over for the present at least," he said.

MUSKRAT HAS EXCITING RIDE ON ICE FLOES

Manages to Escape Jumping Ice Cakes and Finally Dives Into Open Water

Clinging to its slippery, precarious position atop a jagged chunk of ice, a brown muskrat thrilled the crowds of people that lined city bridges and the riverbanks yesterday, as it rode down river with the large ice-field that broke away from above Lazier's Dam shortly after three o'clock.

To the accompaniment of a twisting, whirling mass of jagged ice that rode on the crest of brown flood waters, the animal showing little signs of fear rode its icy steed down the winding stretches of the river until it jolted to a stop when the moving field contacted the solid ice south of the railway bridge.

A crowd of small boys followed its ice-strewn trail for some distance along the river-bank, shouting and gesticulating as the muskrat jerked and twisted on its slippery moving pedestal.

Near the railway bridge that part of the field swung sharply in towards the east bank, bringing the animal to within a few feet of the embankment.

Suddenly, sighting an open stretch of water between two ice-cakes, it slipped into the stream to disappear from sight beneath the large broken field near the bridge.

ENCIRCLEMENT

Joseph Beck, Polish Foreign Minister who arrives today, "a frank discussion on the many problems which are of common interest to our two countries."

No Time Lost

His Majesty's government had decided that no time should be lost in taking action to stabilize the situation and thought it right to make plain in the interim what its position would be in the event Poland found herself confronted with the danger they had some reason to apprehend. The action of the government had been represented in certain quarters as an attempt to encircle Germany.

"Nothing could be further from the truth," Lord Halifax said. "It is a case of a strong Germany set in the midst of Europe and if her neighbors feel apprehension as to her intention and intend to take common action in self defence, that result flows from instinctive reaction and certainly is not the creation of an outside suggestion."

Halifax Cheered

Loud cheers greeted the Foreign Secretary when he said: "Our pledge to Poland marks a new and momentous departure in British policy. We have undertaken this commitment not in any spirit of hostility to any country but in the hope and belief that by doing so we might strengthen the cause of European stability and peace."

Both Lord Snell and the Marquess of Crewe, Labor and Liberal opposition leaders respectively, agreed not to ask for a debate at present.

Lord Arnold, who resigned from the Labor party last year because he disagreed with his colleagues on foreign policy, said the commitment to Poland was "one of the unwisest and most dangerous decisions ever made by a British government."

Contract Awarded for Post Office At Tweed for Amount of $11,765

W. A. Watson of Belleville Architect for New Building

D. McDOUGAL BUILDER

Work is to begin as soon as possible on the new post office in Tweed. The building, located at the corner of Victoria and Bridge streets will be of buff colored brick with Canadian limestone trim, and will be one storey in height. Surmounted by the customary flag pole and the dignified doorway flanked by wrought iron railings, the building will be an acquisition to the village and a worthy Dominion public building. This modern Georgian structure was designed by W. A. Watson, architect, of Belleville, Ont. and is to be built under his supervision by Duncan McDougall of Bluevale, Ontario, who has several such buildings to his credit.

Ottawa, Apr. 3 (CP)—Department of Public Works last night announced the award for the Tweed post office to Duncan McDougall, Bluevale, Ont., for $11,765.

Ignace Jan Paderewski

Paderewski, world famous pianist, gave his first London recital in 1890 at St. James Hall—and the box office receipts were exactly $50.

Music critics of the daily press ignored him—except one. George Bernard Shaw, who described the visiting pianist as "alert, humorous, delightful, dignified, intelligent."

Later Paderewski received $5,000 for a single London performance.

Paderewski has had an interesting career, and has made the Front Page many times. In view of his Polish nationality and his career as a public man in Poland and the fact that Poland is once more largely in the public eye Paderewski's personality and history are peculiarly interesting just at this time.

When the Great War broke out Paderewski devoted himself to giving concerts for the benefit of Polish war sufferers, realizing large sums thereby. He also made a number of addresses on behalf of Poland, and in 1917 organized a Polish Army in the United States for overseas service. After the United States joined the Allies he raised a Polish army of 20,000 men.

After the war he accompanied the British Mission to Warsaw and was a leading figure in organizing the Polish Republic. He organized a government and became Premier of Poland, and in this capacity signed the Treaty of Versailles. In 1921 he represented Poland at the League of Nations, and afterward retired from politics. Since then his public appearances have been rare, and now at 76 years of age he caps a career of such variety and interest as few men have ever approached by perpetuating his musical talent and his attractive personality on the screen in a fitting setting for Ignace Jan Paderewski, recognized as the greatest pianist the world has ever known, "Moonlight Sonata", a charming story told mostly in music, a story woven about that masterpiece of the Great Master, Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata."

In "Moonlight Sonata" the great Maestro, Paderewski, plays, as only he can, four immortal classics, one of them being his own "Minuet 'n G Major." The famous pieces he interprets are:

Polonaise, A Flat Major-Op. 53 of Chopin.

The Second Hungarian Rhapsody of Liszt.

Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata.

To those of this generation to whom the name Paderewski means just one of the Old Masters who has lingered behind for a spell, the opportunity to see and hear this truly great man through the medium of moving pictures should not be missed—then they will be part and parcel of a beautiful musical tradition which has illumined the world during this generation.

Deflated Values

By BETH BOUTWELL

The music of "La Cucaracha" filled the high school gymnasium.

"Swell music, isn't it?" Floyd and his partner stepped and dipped in time to it.

Anne smiled dreamily.

"Say, you know, you're not such a bad dancer." Floyd's tone was a little magnanimous.

"Oh, how kind you are!" He failed to catch the hint of sarcasm in Anne's voice and answered:

"No kiddin'. You are! I'm glad to find someone I can really dance with."

Her murmured "You overwhelm me," encouraged him to greater heights of eloquence.

"And you're not such a bad looker, either."

Then she laughed. "Were all the girls in your old high school good dancers and good lookers?"

Floyd had just been transferred from a city high school to one in a small town, and this was his first dance with the new school.

Later on they wandered out to the tennis courts. School grounds have a way of looking very different in the moonlight from their usual daytime appearance, and the sight of them went to Floyd's head He kissed Anne.

"Why," she said, "you kiss like all the boys. Don't they do it any differently in your other high school?"

He laughed indulgently. "Look here, Anne. I like you better than any other girl in the school. Will you go with me steady?"

Anne was still for a little while. Then she said:

"I'll have to think about it Floyd."

"What?" he asked in surprise "You'll have to—well, all right!"

They went over to get a package of cigarettes from his car.

"Oh, what a darling car!" exclaimed Anne. "Is it yours?"

"Uh huh. It's mine," said Floyd as he fumbled in the pocket for the cigarettes.

"My!" Anne sighed. "You must have plenty of money to have a car of your own. What does your father do?"

"Why, he's a—well, a corporation lawyer that looks after the interests of a chain of grocery stores. I'm going to be a lawyer when I finish school. There's lots of money in it."

At the close of the dance, Anne agreed to let Floyd take her home, rather reluctantly to the young man's bewilderment. They dodged among the cars that were scuttling back and forth like trapped crabs, in search of Floyd's car. They came upon the place where the car should have been, and stopped. A dilapidated delivery truck stood in its place.

"Why whatever has become of your car?" asked Anne. Then she saw the misery in his very pose. He was staring at the car, dropping, all his cockiness gone. On the body of the car was written his father's name, over the word "Groceries."

A note lay on the front seat. Floyd read it through. Then he crumpled it up and threw it away. But he picked it up again, smoothed it and handed it to Anne. She read by the light of the head lights, as he had done:

"Mother and I have decided to go to a show. So I got the car and left the truck for you, Dad."

A painfully long silence followed. Then a miserable, "I can't take you home in this thing!"

"I don't mind. Truly!" At least she wasn't laughing. Then she said:

"So that wasn't your car?"

"No."

"And this is your father's business?"

"Yes."

Then he faced her. "I don't know why I lied like that, Anne."

But her face glowed in the moonlight.

"I do," she said softly. She put her head on his arm. "I like you better this way, Floyd. I'll go — with you—steady."

"Aw gee—you're sweet!"

In the shadow of the grocery truck he took her in his arms.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, April 3—(AP)— The stock market snapped into an early recovery drive today and, for a while, extended Saturday's rally by fractions to more than two points.

Profit taking soon made the going more difficult and extreme advances were substantially reduced or cancelled near the final hour.

Dealings were fastest in the morning, dwindling as selling came into the list. Transfers were at the rate of approximately 1,500,000 shares.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Apr. 3 (CP)—Trading became slow around midday today on Toronto Exchange. Turnover was only 337,000 shares. Prices were trimmed in early afternoon. Gold shares showed a little greater rise.

Steel, food, utility and liquor issues were well up for the day, some of the leaders posted gains of a point or more. Lake Shore stood out with a point advance and strong spots included Hard Rock, Central Patricia, Pamour, Kirkland Lake and Macassa.

Base metals dropped most of their early gains and western oils were higher.

LIVESTOCK

Toronto, April 3—(CP)—Trade continued dull in early afternoon on the Toronto Livestock Market. Only a few hundred cattle were sold at firm prices. Only bright spot of the session was a 50-cent increase posted in calves. The hog market showed a sign of weakness while sheep were steady. Cattle holdover from last week was 400 head.

Receipts reported by Dominion Livestock Branch were: cattle 3,000, calves 950, hogs 1540, sheep and lambs 1,060.

A few weighty steers sold at $6.75-$7.85 and butcher steers and heifers ranged from $6-$7. Good cows sold at $4.50-$5 and canners and cutters brought $2.75-$3.50. A few butcher bulls traded at $5-$6.50 and fed calves sold from $7.50-$9. Medium to good stockers were $5.50-$6.

Choice veal calves reached up to $9.50-$10 and a few sold at $10.50. Common grades sold downward to $5. A few grass calves brought $4.25.

Lambs receipts included 800 from the West. A few spring lambs brought $7-$11.

HOG QUOTATIONS

Toronto, April 3 (CP)—Kitchener posted the only change on reporting bacon-hog markets today, the dressed weight prices dropping 65 cents to $10.70.

Live weights:—Brantford $8.25; Hull $8.25; London $8.35.

Dressed weights: — Hamilton, $11.25; Hull $11.30; Kitchener, $10.70; London $11.15; Stratford $10.75.

Anti-Dumping Duties May be Imposed

London, Apr. 3 (CP)—A suggestion that anti-dumping regulations might be imposed by Great Britain against German products was endorsed today by Lord Stamp, the economist, in an interview with the Financial News.

Lord Stamp said an international boycott of any country was a "two-edged weapon" which might force "the country against which it is applied to some mad act of violence."

Instead of a boycott he preferred the "idea of voluntary 'anti-dumping' measures on the part of those states which feel themselves in a position to operate them, rather than any formal pact with that aim in view."

The Financial News said there was a growing demand in Great Britain for anti-dumping regulations against German exports, similar to those adopted by the United States.

Produce Ends Week With Prices Steady

Toronto, April 3—In generally quiet dealings prices remained at former levels for all lines on the Toronto open produce market Saturday.

Light offerings prevailed on the butter market, but supplies were enough to satisfy demand. Buying was still close, with buyers not inclined to take on more than necessary for their day-to-day requirements. Ontario creamery solids traded in small lots at the steady prices of 21¾c for No. 1 grades, and 21c for 38 score.

An uneasy undertone was apparent on the egg market, altho' fresh receipts cleared fairly well for the week-end and no change occurred in prices. Buyers appear to be about stocked up for the Easter trade and this fact was reported to be causing some nervousness on the market. Graded shipments closed out the week at 21½c for grade A-large, 20½c for medium, 19½ for pullets and 18½c for B and C grades.

Montreal, April 3—Trading continued quiet and prices generally held steady and unchanged on open produce markets here last week, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reported.

Creamery butter prints to retailers sold for 22½c to 22¾c a pound and solids for 22c to 22½c.

Graded egg shipments in used free cases sold at 23 cents a dozen for A-large, 21½c for A-medium and 20½c for A-pullets. Receipts: 9,090 cases, compared with 7,264 a year ago.

Express Service to Madoc Inaugurated

Keeping abreast with the trend of the times an early morning express delivery from Belleville to Madoc was introduced early today. In the bleak small hours before sun-up Mr. George Griffin, in charge of the Belleville branch of the Canadian National Express Company, stepped into a large C.N.R. truck at the Belleville C.N.R. station to inaugurate the new Belleville-Madoc express service. A round trip to Madoc will be made with the return journey being over long before local business men have arisen. "We hope to have this early morning express service to Madoc and return operated so as to have early deliveries in the north and the northern shipments back in Belleville for shipments early in the morning," explained Mr. Griffin. The inaugural trip was completed without incident and on schedule. Later a definite schedule will be announced.

The Manchester Guardian (Liberal) said editorially:

"The speech makes no change in the international situation. As his words prove, Hitler is certainly awaiting the outcome of the British-French conversations with the east European and Balkan countries on the one hand, and of the German diplomatic counter-offensive on the other. For the time being his attitude remains undecided."

TRUST OUR ACTION

consciousness they could not live forever in the atmosphere of surprise and alarm from which Europe has suffered in recent months.

"I trust our action begun but not concluded will prove to be the turning point, not towards war which cures nothing and ends nothing, but towards a more wholesome era in which reason will take the place of force and threats will make way for cool and well-marshalled arguments."

Richard Butler, under-secretary for Foreign Affairs, announced to the House of Commons:

"The British government is at all times prepared to give sympathetic consideration to the possibility of meeting rearmament requirements of the Rumanian government as well as in naval and other spheres."

In response to questions, Mr. Butler added "the question of Danzig will no doubt be discussed with Colonel Beck (the Polish foreign minister who arrives this afternoon) during his stay in London."

Rejected Request

Prime Minister Chamberlain again rejected a request for compulsory registration of manpower.

"A compulsory register at this stage," he declared, "would hinder the voluntary recruitment scheme which we are pressing forward to meet the needs of the situation."

In the distinguished visitors' gallery of the House of Commons were the Russian, French, United States, Belgian and Chinese ambassadors and the ministers of Rumania, Switzerland and Turkey.

Informed circles said earlier that Great Britain had offered Rumania a pledge to help defend her independence similar to the one Prime Minister Chamberlain announced Friday for Poland.

These sources considered it certain that Rumania would accept.

Dependent on Germany

Mr. Butler had been asked by Morgan Price, Labor, whether "in view of the fact that Germany is to provide land armaments to Rumania under the German-Rumania treaty, the Prime Minister has considered entering into negotiations with Rumania with a view to strengthening her naval forces?"

Because virtually all her armaments in the past had been purchased from Czecho-Slovakia's Skoda Munitions Work, now in Germany's possession, Rumania is almost wholly dependent on Germany for her arms.

British loans, credits and other assistance would be one wedge to prevent a German stranglehold on Rumania, informed sources said, and enable Bucharest to co-operate in a "halt Hitler" bloc.

Anglo-Rumanian Trade.

It was announced that Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, planned to make a statement tomorrow on Anglo-Rumanian trade.

Two weeks ago Mr. Stanley disclosed to the House that Britain proposed sending a trade mission to King Carol's government despite already started German negotiations which have resulted in a commercial pact between Berlin and Bucharest.

Mr. Chamberlain was cheered when he rose to speak. He started by saying it was not easy to speak frankly when he was about to take part in informal conversations with other European governments.

Arthur Greenwood, Acting Labor leader who preceded the prime minister, issued this warning:

"If the government be slow moving, vacillating and uncertain, they will meet with the sternest criticism. I mean to dispel any illusion that the Labor lion means to lie down with the government lamb."

"We must suspend final judgment on the government's proposals until we are satisfied that they will be adequate to meet the international situation," he added.

New Course in Foreign Policy.

Mr. Chamberlain asserted Great Britain's action in guaranteeing the independence of Poland "constitutes if not a new epoch certainly a new point in the course of our foreign policy".

He said the guarantee to Poland "is not concerned with a frontier incident but with big things that might lie behind a frontier incident."

After a pause, he added:

"If Poland were threatened I have no doubt that the Polish people would resist it."

"We have departed from our traditional ideas," the premier said. "As long ago as last September I gave warning of the possibility of such a departure as we are now contemplating."

Then he referred to his broadcast on the rainy evening of Sept. 27 when, with the nation urgently preparing to resist a German attack on Czecho-Slovakia, he said Great Britain would certainly resist any attempt to dominate the world by force.

Rumania to Accept

There was no doubt here that Romania would accept the British offer and it was believed further that Turkey would join the "anti-aggression" bloc which Mr. Chamberlain hoped to build around the British-French-Polish nucleus.

Mr. Chamberlain's bloc-building represented a change in foreign policy brought about by Chancellor Hitler's Czecho-Slovak coup of March 15. It is intended to raise a barricade against German territorial expansion.

On the Turkish possibility, it was regarded here as significant that the Rumanian Foreign Minister, Grigore Gafencu, planned to start late this month on a tour of European capitals and Ankara.

It was believed in Bucharest that the trip would be concerned with the anti-aggression bloc. Gafencu planned to visit the Turkish capital and Athens after stops in London and Paris.

TRENTON and DISTRICT

Trenton, April 3rd., Special—Gathering in Canterbury Hall on Friday evening last for their annual banquet, seventy or more members of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, officers and men, enjoyed a splendid meal served by ladies of the Guild and reviewed progress within the battalion during the month just past. The event was under the joint sponsorship of "A" Company, commanded by Major H. D. Graham who presided, the Signal Section commanded by Lieut. F. W. Sherbert, and the Anti-Aircraft Section commanded by Lieut. T. S. Ketcheson. About a dozen officers were present, including those mentioned and Col. A. E. Bywater, V.D., honorary colonel of the battalion, Capt. F. A. Smith, honorary padre, Lieutenants A. A. Mutton, A. H. Norrington, H. S. Campbell, R. E. Succee, and others. Also seated at the officers' table was ex-R.S.M. E. Almey, who spoke encouragingly to the group later in the evening.

Members of the various squads were on hand early for the event and enjoyed to the full the tempting meal served by the ladies. After the toast to the King Major Graham spoke briefly, making special reference to the provisional school of instruction held at the Armoury during the months of January, February, and March, and the examinations held in Belleville on March 19th. A fine record had been set, he said, one almost unique in regimental history, for of the fourteen candidates who went down with the hope of qualifying as sergeants the entire group passed without one failure. This was most pleasing, he said, and he asked the candidates one by one to stand and be identified.

Men Congratulated

Commenting on the work done Lieut. F. W. Sherbert congratulated the men for their work, and passed out a hint to his signallers that they had a specially difficult job in that they not only had to learn drill but signalling as well. He asked the members of the various groups, who had been identified with the regiment for as much as five years to stand, and showed how these groups had been built around certain members who provided a backbone for the organization.

Company Sergeant-Major Angus Duffy of the Headquarters Coy. provided something different in the line of awards when he announced that he was donating a handsome swagger stick, a souvenir which he picked up in England while he was on the Coronation trip two years ago and one which he valued very highly, to the member of the recent class of candidates, who was the most generally proficient, the one who was the best all-round leader of the group. Ballots were passed out to the fourteen members of the class and they themselves voted to decide the honour. after counting of ballots Maj. Graham announced that the outstanding choice was Private R. S. Weeks, a son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Weeks, Princess Street, and a member of "A" Company for only a year. C. S. M. Duffy himself made the presentation, warmly congratulating the recipient and urging the other members of the militia to pattern themselves after this young man. Pte. Weeks made a fitting acknowledgement, thanking those who voted for him and promising to bear himself at all times in a manner befitting his rank.

The chief speaker of the evening was Col. A. E. Bywater, first colonel of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment after its organization, and a man who, as Major Graham remarked in his introduction had had a most outstanding war record and had been a soldier "more years than most of us have lived". Col. Bywater told his audience what a pleasure it was for him to be present at a gathering of that kind and said that he had never known happier times in his whole military career than when as a company commander he had been associated with just such a group of men. He commented on the tenseness of the European situation and said that while no one in Canada wanted war he was afraid that some such calamity would soon develop. He said that while Britain might find herself assailed she would never be beaten as long as she possessed the spirit which activated Canadian troops both in 1916 and now. In closing he pointed out that he hoped he would often be able to attend such gatherings, and expressed a sincere hope that all members of the battalion would go on to finer and greater achievements.

Community singing was enjoyed for a time in a brief address Lieut. Ketcheson congratulated all successful candidates.

Commented On Changes.

Ex-Regimental Sergeant-Major E. Almey commented on the change in conditions in the past thirty years as regards militia, and mentioned a time in the Imperial British Army when "four out of five men in the ranks had a whale of a time writing a letter home. He complimented the men on their achievements, and said that particularly in the Canadian forces there was evidence of a superior mentality all along the line. He admonished the men to respect their officers for they are "gentlemen in every sense"; and he pointed out that "our officers lead, while in the continental armies they get behind you and push you along ahead of them."

In closing Major Graham announced that members of the battalion should expect to be present in Kingston on the occasion of the visit of their Majesties and he said the training for that purpose would be carried out weekly until the time of the royal visit.

New Store Opened.

The official opening of the Macdonald Bros. five-to-a-dollar store in the new Axiz building took place on Thursday, and though hampered by the very unfavorable weather the response to advertising on Friday and Saturday more than made up for any slackness on opening day. The store is being managed by Dave and Duncan Macdonald, both Trenton boys. David, the older, was with the Lipson chain for some years and resigned from the managership of the Gananoque store to open his own business here. Duncan, the younger brother, has been with Maher Shoe Stores locally for some time.

Officers Elected.

Unpleasant weather held down attendance at the annual reorganization meeting of the Trenton Softball Association on Thursday evening, but three teams, R.C.A.F., Yourex Billiards, and Graham's Garage were represented and business was carried out as usual. Election of officers saw George H. Cobley, president for the past two years, and Arthur H. Norrington, secretary for the same period of time, withdraw from their positions, and an entirely new group will take over the reins. Pressed to continue as president, Mr. Cobley said that he had been with the loop for two years and after last season's successful campaign when the R.C.A.F. team went through to the provincial semi-finals before bowing to Owen Sound he felt that it was time for some other man to hold the presidential seat for a time. Officers elected included G. H. Cobley as honorary president, Percy Beale as president, Arthur K. Black as secretary, William McCue as treasurer, and Mark Tripp of Trenton, Harold Steinberg of Wooler, and Flying Officer Wm. Rider of the R.C.A.F. as a group of three vice-presidents to act in an advisory capacity should an emergency arise. Closing date for entries of teams was set at midnight of Monday, May 1st, with the probability of an executive meeting the following evening, May 2nd. The season will probably open about the second week of May.

Motorists Charged.

Motorists who just wanted to see how far they could get with the old markers came to brief by dozens on Saturday when provincial and other officers patrolled highways and issued summons against a number of drivers. Most of those corralled were guilty of driving without the 1939 permit, but some were even trying to get along on 1938 markers. Many said when stopped that they were on their way to town at the time to get the new plates. One salesman complained that he stopped in Belleville to get the markers and could not because he was there before the opening hour, and in driving on to Trenton he was stopped and charged. A young R.C.A.F. member who borrowed a car with '38 plates long enough to slip uptown to go to a local dentist slipped no further than the west end of the aerodrome where he was stopped and charged by a waiting officer. All in all it was a busy day for the officers, and a busier one for the issuer of motor vehicle licenses. Motorists in spite of months of warning still persist in trying to squeeze in just a few extra days.

Rain marred Saturday evening's shopping, but a large crowd was in town, and spring is evidently in the air.

Teachers and pupils of Trenton High School were hosts and hostesses on Friday evening on the occasion of their annual Parents' Night and scores of grown-ups availed themselves of the opportunity of looking over the high school and seeing exhibitions of physical training, gymnastics, and exhibits of work done by pupils.

ARCHBISHOP GOES ON CRUISE

London, Apr. 3 (AP)—The Archbishop of Canterbury, advised by his physicians to take a rest, has left London for a long Mediterranean cruise in J. P. Morgan's yacht, Corsair.

The archbishop, primate of all England, left Saturday to join the yacht. He was expected to be away for several weeks but his office said he was not ill.

City and District News

NOTHING OFFICIAL YET ON PREPARATIONS HERE FOR KING'S VISIT

Numerous enquiries lately have been received by his office regarding the Royal Tour through Belleville in May, it was admitted by Mayor Bone this morning, and though as yet no official preparations have been made by council for the reception of Their Majesties in Belleville during their expected brief stop at the north station of the Canadian National Railways this matter is expected to be taken up at the next meeting of council.

"I am preparing a sort of a report for council on the matter," stated the Mayor.

NEW MEMBERS ARE WELCOMED INTO FELLOWSHIP

Palm Sunday was marked at Bridge Street United Church with the celebration of the Holy Communion at the morning service. Rev. Dr. James Semple officiated at the communion as well as at the reception of sixty-one new members into the fellowship of the church. The congregation was very large.

$6000 IN BUILDING PERMITS FOR MARCH

The month of March struck fair average for building construction within the city it is shown by a total of nearly $6,000 involved in new construction during the period. During the month authorities for new construction were issued Peter Mhores, for store alteration, 326 Front Street, at $250; Barnes Wines alteration store front, Front Street, at $500; J. Shoycett, Oshawa, for installation of gas pumps 9 Station Street, at $150; D. E. Grass, R.R. No. 2, alteration to duplex at 270 William Street, $350; J. N. Yanover, addition to City Hotel, $4,500; G. W. Clarke, alterations to house at 30 Ridley Street, $225.

EXPERIENCED HELP REPORTED SCARCE

Shortage of experienced domestic and farm laborers is being experienced in the city and district this year, according to officials of the local Employment office. While young inexperienced girls are available, housewives of the city who prefer the trained experienced type of maid are feeling the effects of the shortage.

Lateness of the Spring and its attendant work, has resulted in a slowing down on the part of farmers to apply for help. There is plenty available for needs but the majority of applicants are lacking in experience, statistics reveal.

ELECTRIC HEATING PADS BLAMED FOR POOR RADIO RECEPTION

The wave of colds and influenza which has made its rounds of the city and district lately has been closely linked to the poor radio reception reported by local listeners, it was reported by a city radiotrician this morning.

Many of those confined to bed with colds and influenza have been taken electrical heating pads to bed with them. Heating pads are one of the greatest nuisances to radio listeners today owing to the interference and noise they create. Thus, when the present wave of sickness abates, radio reception should be better, it is pointed out by the radio man.

CHECK-UP IS MADE ON DRIVERS' LICENCES

There were a number of red faces on the Belleville-Trenton highway yesterday afternoon, and the effect was not because of the warm Spring sunshine.

For two stalwart Trenton police officers stationed on the highway at the eastern aprt of the neighboring town stopped motorists and enquired in a polite way if they had their drivers' licences.

A steady stream of cars was noticed stopped along the highway as the officers did their duty. While actual figures were not available, it is understood that a number of drivers were given those slips of paper, inviting them to alk the matter over with the Magistrate.

Appreciation Expressed By Kinsmen Club

Appreciation of the patronage of the general public during the three nights of "Bingo for Hams" sponsored by the Belleville Kinsmen Club in a drive for funds to replenish the coffers of their Eye Clinic service work, was voiced today by officials of the organization.

The third and final night of the games came to a successful conclusion on Saturday when a large enthusiastic crowd attended the former A. & P. Stores building on Upper Front Street.

While interest was at a high pitch during the evening as lucky persons won the succulent hams given away as prizes by the clubmen, it came to a climax at eleven o'clock when the drawing for the third and last beautiful Stewart-Warner radio was made.

A second later Laurence (Pat) Boyle, member of the 34th Field Battery, R.C.A. was announced as the lucky winner of this attractive door-prize.

Officials and members of the club are grateful to the general public for the fine response to their appeal for funds through the medium of their "Bingo for Hams".

CHEESE FACTORIES TO BEGIN OPERATIONS

Up to today it was not known by the local grading office whether any district cheese factories had opened for the season's make, but it was expected that by the middle of the present week several in Hastings, Lennox-Addington and Prince Edward counties will have commenced work for the season. One new factory, the Fraser Creek factory at Boulter, North Hastings, is expected to be added to the list of county factories this season. This factory did not operate last season.

THREE CHIMNEY FIRES CAUSE LITTLE DAMAGE

Three chimney and furnace pipe fires kept Fire Department members busy over the week end. Blazes at 96 Dundas Street, 80 East Moira and 247 Station were quickly extinguished with a minimum of damage.

SWEET MELODIES FEATURE CONCERT

Large Crowd Appreciates Melodic Selections Played by Band and Artists

Versatility of not only the individual members of the organization as musicians, but also of the whole in its ability to play music that satisfies the most critical listener, was exemplified last night at the McCarthy Theatre when the Belleville Municipal Band under the baton of Lieut. Fred Jobson gave another sacred concert that was a tuneful departure from the usual program that usually features affairs of this kind.

Again the general music-loving public showed their appreciation of the fine artistry and musicianship that are characteristics of members of the band by turning out in numbers that were greatly appreciated by not only the band itself, but members of the Belleville Retail Merchants' Association that are sponsoring the series.

And indicative of the fine ability of one of Belleville's outstanding musicians and composers, was the tuneful arrangement of Liszt's "Liebestraum," written especially for the band by former Bandmaster Reg. Hinchey. The arrangement is a melodic setting of this world-famous composition and was received by a splendid ovation on the part of the audience.

Splendid Solo Given

Another feature of the concert, and one that again exemplified the fine musicianship of a local artist was the trumpet solo, "The Holy City", given by Bandsman Frank Howard. The efforts received waves of well-merited applause to which the musician responded with a generous encore.

Dr. Arthur C. Locke, whose splendid ability as a violinist, has won him a place high in the esteem of local musical circles delighted his audience with two solos. They were well received, and formed no small contributing factor to the success of the affair.

The band offerings were rendered in the same high musical plane as always, while the community singing of three popular Negro spirituals was entered into with a wholehearted spirit on the part of the audience.

Mr. Edson Logan acted as chairman for the concert, while sponsoring the affair were Messrs. Laurie Lewis, Jack McIntosh, Ed. Shapiro and William Doyle.

Customs Collections In Last Fiscal Year Total $1,184,657.08

Decrease of $109,670 from Previous Year

A decrease of $109,670.12 in total collections at the local Port of Customs for the fiscal year ending March 31st is reported at the office. Collections for the year ending March 31st, 1938 reached $1,294,327.20, while for the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1939, total collections reached $1,184,657.08

Collections during the month of March, 1939 reached $69,905.39, and for the month of March, 1938 $67,774.19, an increase of $2,131.20.

Hope It's True!

April, it was pointed out by the veteran weather observer of the city this morning while snowflurries whirled around a downtown street corner, generally borrows three days from the month of March at its beginning, and on that basis, first of the real spring weather should be received in the district tomorrow, for the forecast for Tuesday is —fair with slightly higher temperature.

CHAPTER XXII

"I'll leave Andrews to Finch," Sir Francis decided. "It seems to me at the moment as though someone had followed Fergus down from London. If so, the letters are probably in Paris by now."

"Are you going to tell me what was in those letters, sir?" Matresser asked.

"That's why I begged for an invitation to Sandringham so as to have a bona fide excuse for calling in to see you. One letter concerned your report on Territory Number 7. Theft of that message makes the whole business in which the Foreign Office is concerned extraordinarily difficult."

"It is a record of plain unvarnished facts," Matresser said firmly.

"My dear fellow, we realize that and we are tremendously grateful," Sir Francis declared. "If those facts had leaked out afterwards, provided our great move comes off, there would have been an uproar. We should have had a red hot press against us. You did what we asked you to do by telling us the simple truth, Matresser, and I won't have a line of your report altered. We shall have to deal with Number Seven separately."

"What about the other letter?"

"You will probably smile when I tell you its contents and it will take me the best part of an hour to explain exactly its significance. The letter contains an invitation from a certain person in mid-Europe to spend a fortnight with him at his shooting box in the Metzger Mountains."

"From a stranger?" Matresser asked.

"I don't think it likely that you have ever met him," was the thoughtful reply. "He is a very charming person, however, and although he is not English himself, he appears to have a great affection for our race. You will take with you the usual outfit—a rifle and I suppose a couple of shotguns with cartridges from number twos to sevens. Let it look as much like a genuine sporting expedition as possible."

"And when I arrive with this arsenal?"

Sir Francis was silent for several moments.

"I shall have to wander for a few minutes," he said, "from the immediate subject of our discussion. You have shown yourself capable of helping us to such an extent that I am going to take you still further into our confidence."

Matresser pulled up his chair closer to his visitor's. He leaned forward and listened intently.

"The fact of it is," Sir Francis began, "that neither you nor anyone else outside the Cabinet knows exactly how serious the present situation is. Even the press dare not acknowledge it. Our ambassadors keep us on the jump the whole of the time."

"Where's the danger, sir?" Matresser asked.

"Germany, of course. She is the strongest and best prepared nation in Europe and she knows it. The curious thing about it is that the man who is chiefly responsible for her strength, the man who has hammered militarism into the country, defied all Europe and broken every covenant, is the man who today desires peace."

"That seems rather surprising," Matresser observed quietly.

"I am not guessing," Sir Francis assured him. "I am telling you the absolute truth . . . I was in Berlin myself, as you know, a short time ago. I had two interviews with the person whom I will call the Dictator. He acknowledged frankly that he was losing his hold upon the country, and he was losing it because, having weighed up all the possibilities, he has come to the conclusion that what Germany needs is peace."

Why?"

"You have asked a question," the Foreign Secretary replied, "which I believe I am the only man in the world who could answer. The Dictator gave himself away at our last interview. I know what it is he is really fearing."

"A return to monarchy?"

"Precisely. There are at least three of the present generation of Hohenzollerns who are lusty, ambitious fellows and they have been living before their public in the one hope that some day the country will swing back and they might be chosen to take Hellstern's place. The students are all with them and curiously enough, the army, fashioned and developed by the Dictator, is becoming more and more royalist every day. Not one of those three likely candidates for the throne of the new Germany can show himself in the streets today without being saluted and applauded."

"And France?"

"Our alliance with France has become almost a fetish of honor with us all," Sir Francis said gravely. "And frankly, Matresser, we may have to face at any moment a terrible decision. There's not anyone in the Cabinet or out of it who could pretend that France has treated this country well since the war. She only once made a gesture of being our ally at Geneva and in the matter of sanctions she did her best to heap all the onus of making a decision upon us and us alone. She never for a single moment played the honest game. You know as well as I do, Matresser, that there is not a more unpopular country in France today than England. They don't trust us. They don't believe in us. In the press there they call us a nation of hypocrites. We have been stupid often enough but we have not deserved such an attitude on their part. That is one of the things we are up against, Matresser. It boils itself down to this. Are we to risk everything that this nation stands for by fighting Germany for the sake of France?"

"You are being extraordinarily candid with me, Sir Francis," Matresser observed.

"We have more faith in you than you have in yourself," was the blunt reply. "Now that we have begun, let us go through with it. There's Italy. Well, my own opinion is that Hellstern's turn-about-face is entirely due to the disaster which has befallen that country. Matorni embarked upon what we considered a perfectly safe and glorious war in Abyssinia, a hollow victory, and then came—Spain. . .

"Today, Dictator Matorni is facing doom as a tyrant whose authority is falling away from him. Hellstern looks across the Alps and shudders. The only thing that could restore Matorni's popularity would be if he were able to join any combination of nations strong enough to make war against this country.

"Meanwhile, the Crown Prince of Italy, who once was utterly neglected, becomes more and more popular every day. Only last week he was received with cheers at the opening of the Opera while Matorni took his place alone and in silence. In Austria—well, the people don't even trouble to conceal the fact that the only thing they are praying for now is a Hapsburg back upon the ancient throne.

"We have to face the music," Sir Francis Tring went on, "but exactly what policy to embrace, which will enable us to retain our honorable place among the nations and yet keep England safe, is a dire problem. What we fear most is being dragged into a war with France as our ally against Italy, Germany and probably Austria. Germany is waiting with her hand already upon the sword. France, a shuddering mass of nerves suspecting our every action, is terrified every moment of being what she calls betrayed by perfidious Britain."

"You have taken note of the other possible complications?" Matresser asked.

"We have gambled upon your report," the minister replied. "We studied it carefully and without a dissentient voice we pinned our faith to it. We have accepted it as an axiom that in the face of a possible closer fusion between Japan and China, Russia will never move a single man westwards to the help of France even if she were otherwise inclined to do so. Your Chinese work was wonderful, Matresser. Without official recognition you seem to have won the confidence of all the men who stand for the new China and everything you predicted is justifying itself. It is, as you pointed out, a perfectly logical outcome of the spread of western civilization among the yellow-skinned races that they should draw closer to one another and present a united front. We are with you also in all that you say about America, although there we have been able, without your report, to arrive at definite conclusions. America will never intervene again in European quarrels. It is not to be asked of or expected from the United States.'

Matresser rose from his chair and paced the room thoughtfully for several minutes.

"You have not taken me so far into your confidence, Sir Francis I am sure," he said, "without some definite reason. You know that I am not a diplomat."

"Really?"

"Really. I am more of an adventurer with the knack of keeping my wits about me and facing danger when it is there. But does all this mean you have another job for me?'

"Would you go on another mission, more dangerous, even more brimful of responsibility?"

"I cannot fancy myself refusing," was the brief reply.

"This one would be a matter of a few weeks only."

"But how far should I have to travel?" Matresser asked.

"Just to a certain shooting lodge on the eastern frontier of Germany, the same expedition I have spoken of before. There will be negotiations there in which you will take part."

"Couldn't that be better done from the Berlin Embassy?"

Sir Francis smiled deprecatingly.

"My dear fellow," he remonstrated, "the German espionage system is getting to be one of the finest in the world. It is today very nearly as good as our own. I forget what our staff is at the Embassy, but there is not a single member, down to the typists employed by the various secretaries, who is not watched. The head of the police there could tell you where our second and third secretaries, for instance, dined and supped every night for the last three months."

"Should I have to carry any papers?"

"Not a line. The whole affair would be unofficial."

"I imagine my mission would be connected in some way with my last two years' work."

"With a portion of it—yes," Sir Francis replied.

"Well, I'm your man," Matresser agreed. "I shall at least have the advantage of knowing what I am talking about, although I think myself you are rating me too high."

"And I am quite sure that we are not," was the emphatic reply. "The very fact that you are right outside the diplomatic world is a huge advantage. I cannot think of a single soul whom I dare send on this business except you, Matresser."

"I hope I will deserve your confidence, sir. You would not like to give me a hint, I suppose?"

"I would rather not," Sir Francis confessed. "It may come to nothing and if it does I would rather possesses the knowledge that no human being had ever heard of the suggestion as having come from me."

"That's quite enough, sir," Matresser assured him.

"In any case," Sir Francis went on, "the less you know about the matter until the last moment the better. When that last moment arrives, you will act."

"I have given my word, sir," Matresser reminded him.

The Foreign Secretary drew a sigh of immense relief and knocked out the ashes from his pipe.

CHAPTER XXIII

Matresser, a few mornings later looked up with a frown from his task of examining the breech of one of his guns. There was no mistaking the booming voice, the heavy tread of the approaching guest.

"Who the devil let that fellow in, Humphreys?" he muttered.

"He never waits to be let in anywhere, that Dutchman don't, mi-lord," Humphreys compained.

The door was flung open. Mijnheer van Westrheene stepped across the threshold—a huge grotesque figure in his short shooting coat and his long legs tightly encased in breeches and gaiters.

"Good morning, Lord Matresser," he boomed out with spurious heartiness. "What a day! A clear sky, how the pheasants will tumble!"

"I see you are carrying your gun," Matresser remarked. "You didn't expect to use it in the lane coming up, did you?"

"I did not. I say to myself when I leave the boat—perhaps Lord Matresser will like an hour's or so walk before lunch. If so, there am I for company—and behold, dinner is in the pot!"

"Sorry to disappoint you," Matresser regretted. "All my outlying land is on the other side and I never go near my covers on off days."

There was a timid knock at the door. Humphreys threw it open and Elisabeth entered. She stopped short when she saw van Westrheene.

"I am so sorry," she apologized. "I understood you were alone."

"Come in please, Mademoiselle Stamler," Matresser invited. "I am just looking through my kit before I push off—not that Humphreys ever forgets anything."

"I come and I try to tell Lord Matresser that it is too beautiful a day to spend thinking of anything but sport," van Westrheene put in with a bow of welcome. "It is a day to roam the country with a gun on one's shoulder and to kill. The light is wonderful."

"I was going to the village," Elisabeth remarked, turning to Matresser. "I wondered if I could do anything for you?"

"Or me?" van Westrheene proposed. "If there is no shooting I go to the village, too. I post your letter, I send your telegrams — what you wish."

Matresser smiled. He was beginning to find the Dutchman's persistence amusing.

"My telegrams are always telephoned to Norwich," he confided, "and Yates sees to all the letters. Perhaps, after all, I had better accept your invitation and take out a gun for an hour."

"Excellent!" van Westrheene exclaimed, rising to his feet.

"May I come?" Elisabeth asked.

"You can beat for us with that shooting stick," Matresser suggested with a smile.

"Let me telephone for one of the lads to hurry up on his bicycle, your lordship," Humphreys begged, "or let me come myself."

"If you wish I will carry the game," van Westrheene proposed.

"Have it your own way," Matresser agreed.

They strolled across the Park and reached the lower gate leading into the wood.

"You take the fourth ride," his host told van Westrheene. "We will take the third here. You had better keep about fifteen yards ahead of us and if you were not such a devilishly precise shot I would ask you to be careful because it is rather thin here and there and the drives are not cut straight."

Van Westrheene went off as directed. He had scarcely reached the corner of the ride when he stopped short, looking upwards. His gun flashed into position and a pigeon came tumbling down. He thrust the bird into his pocket, reloaded and turned down the fourth ride according to directions. Matresser gave him a short start and then strolled on. They had barely gone a dozen paces when a cocker spaniel ranging ahead put up a woodcock which Matresser shot neatly between two trees. A minute or two later a cock pheasant came flying over and fell to Matresser's first barrel.

"Well, it looks as though we were going to have all we can do this morning," he remarked, as he disposed of another woodcock.

FACING POSSIBLE 12-YEAR PRISON TERM

Johnny Torrio, one-time overland of Chicago gangdom, LEFT, is shown leaving federal court in New York after a jury was selected to try him on allegedly neglecting to pay the U.S. government approximately $87,000 in taxes, while his empire flourished. Federal Judge John Clancy stunned Torrio and his legal advisors when he summarily cancelled Torrio's $50,000 bail and clapped him and four co-defendants into jail for the duration of their trial, in a move to forestall possible jury tampering.

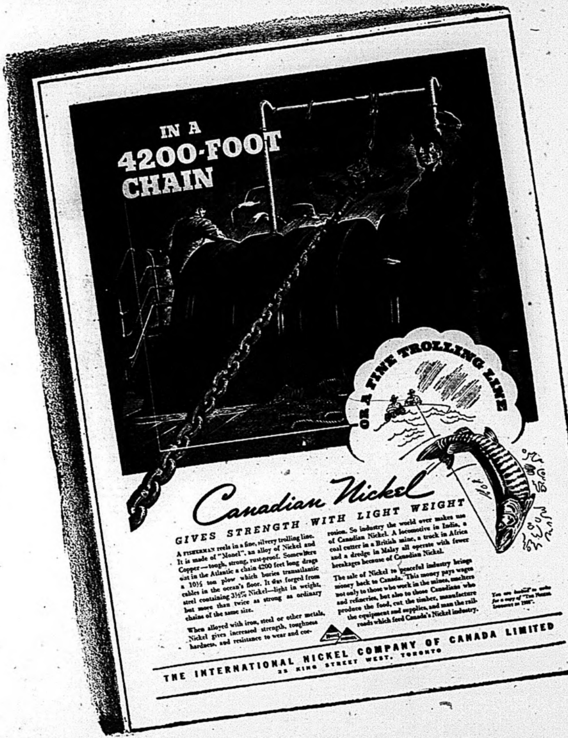
A GREAT INDUSTRY SPEAKS TO CANADA



GIVES STRENGTH WITH LIGHT WEIGHT

A FISHERMAN reels in a fine, silvery trolling line. It is made of "Monel", an alloy of Nickel and Copper—tough, strong, rust-proof. Somewhere out in the Atlantic a chain 4200 feet long drags a 10½ ton plow which buries transatlantic cables in the ocean's floor. It was forged from steel containing 3½% Nickel—light in weight, but more than twice as strong as ordinary chains of the same size.

When alloyed with iron, steel or other metals, Nickel gives increased strength, toughness hardness, and resistance to wear and corrosion. So industry the world over makes use of Canadian Nickel. A locomotive in India, a coal cutter in a British mine, a truck in Africa and a dredge in Malay all operate with fewer breakages because of Canadian Nickel.

The sale of Nickel to peaceful industry brings money back to Canada. This money pays wages not only to those who work in the mines, smelters and refineries, but also to those Canadians who produce the food, cut the timber, manufacture the equipment and supplies, and man the railroads which feed Canada's Nickel industry.

THE INTERNATIONAL NICKEL COMPANY OF CANADA LIMITED
25 KING STREET WEST, TORONTO

RECOGNIZING the mutuality of interest between Canadian industry and the Canadian people, the International Nickel Company of Canada, Limited, inaugurated a program of institutional advertising in 1932. The purpose of this advertising was to explain to the Canadian people the aims and problems of the company.

During the ensuing years, the company has presented facts about its history, its never-ceasing search for new uses and markets for nickel, and the economic significance of its operations to every Canadian citizen. This institutional program has probably been the most consistent ever carried out by a Canadian corporation.

Naturally, to reach and influence the greatest number of people and to convey these messages economically, daily newspapers have been used each year without interruption since 1932.

AIRPLANE DESIGNER OFFERS PLAN BUILD HIS 'SHIPS' IN CANADA

London, April 4 (AP)—Alexander Seversky, American aircraft designer, today put before Air Ministry officials a plan for the construction in Canada of Seversky convoy fighters which he said could be flown from Canada to London in seven hours.

Seversky escaped injury Saturday when his plane crashed at Croydon during a demonstration before Air Ministry officials.

SIX STITCHES IN HEART

Detroit, April 4 (CP)—Buster Payton was alive today but only through a miracle of science. He was stabbed in the heart in a drinking brawl here and eight doctors operated on him.

Four surgeons removed several ribs and took six stitches in his heart, two doctors and a nurse watched his lungs, and two more doctors and a nurse gave the patient three pints of blood by transfusion. He lost three quarts of blood during the operation.

Patients usually die during the operation.

AUGUSTINE NUNS TO EMIGRATE

Salzburg, Germany, April 4—The Augustine nuns of Salzburg, widely known as the "Ursulinen," are preparing to emigrate. They will go Thursday to Southern France, where the elder nuns will remain, but the destination of the others is reported to be South America.

MILK WAR ON IN DETROIT

Detroit, April 4 (CP)—All Detroit's major creameries today had joined the milk price war as they met the nine-cent a quart price set by two firms Friday. Milk prices here have dropped four cents a quart within the past year. One firm sells milk on a cash-and-carry basis at six cents a quart.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, April 4—(CP)— Light snowfalls or flurries have occurred in many parts of Eastern Canada and light rain and snow in the Prairie Provinces. The weather is now cold in nearly all parts of the Dominion. A moderate disturbance is moving eastward across Manitoba with a trough extending southward to Texas, and pressure continues low over the Maritime Provinces while the barometer is high from Alberta northward to the Arctic and over the lake region and central states.

Lake Superior—Cloudy with some light snow or rain tonight and part of Wednesday, followed by northwest winds and becoming colder again.

Manitoba — Strong northwest winds; partly cloudy and colder tonight and Wednesday with snowflurries.

Saskatchewan and Alberta—Northerly winds; partly cloudy and cold today and Wednesday with scattered snowflurries.

Why the Weather!

By Major A. H. Thiessen

Photography and weather! A quarter of a century ago it was not generally thought possible to make a photograph of a scene which would show more details than were visible to the eye. Indeed, in ordinary photography haziness shows more dense than appears to the eye. N , however, with panchromatic plates and a red filter, distant objects are much clearer than they are to the eye. Another interesting application of infra-red photography is photographing a scene in daytime with moonlight effects. In this case the deep shadows so characteristic of moonlight are perfectly reproduced. This application is especially valuable to the movie picture profession.

FEAR IS EXPRESSED OVER STATUS QUO OF SOVEREIGNTIES

Italian Radio Station Says Albanian King Wants Ties Strengthened

REPORT OF TROOPS

Italy Denies Persistent Rumors of Plan to Strengthen Control

Rome, April 4—(AP)—An Italian government radio station announced today that negotiations were under way for the strengthening of the 1937 defensive alliance between Italy and Albania.

The station at Bari broadcast that "at the specific request of the King of Albania" conversations were under way "for the strengthening of the defensive alliance between the two countries."

This announcement came as diplomatic circles heard unconfirmed reports that 20,000 or more Italian troops were concentrated at Bari and Brindisi with troopships standing by, presumably to take them to nearby Albania.

Rumors Persist

Rumors that Italy intended to strengthen her control of Albania, the little country of King Zog, persisted despite official denials.

The Bari radio station said the Italian government lacked any intention of interfering with the independence and integrity of Albania. Officials declined details of the scope of the contemplated strengthening of the Italian-Albanian defensive pact.

London, April 4 —(AP)—Unconfirmed reports Italy planned to send troops to occupy Albania brought a British hint today that such action would violate the anglo-Italian friendship agreement.

Informed British quarters indicated that the British government, while not planning to fight Italy over Albania, would expect to be consulted over any disturbance of the "status quo regarding national sovereignties in the Mediterranean area."

The British view was expressed as Viscount Halifax, Foreign Secretary, and Joseph Beck, Polish Foreign Minister, concluded the first

2 PLANES CRASH AT 2,000 FEET

Crews of U. S. Navy Biplanes Carried to Death

East Braintree, Mass., Apr. 4 (AP)—Two United States Navy biplanes designed to carry two men apiece, crashed 2,000 feet in the air today and plunged flaming to earth, apparently carrying their crews to death.

West Williams, commercial aviator and flying instructor, who was aloft nearby at the time, said the third plane of a group of six flying in formation, dived into one wing of the second plane.

The second plane "fell apart", he said, and plummeted downward into a house, setting it afire. The other plane faltered for a moment he added, and then went down in a power dive, apparently striking a second house about half a mile away.

International Briefs

Paris, Apr. 4 (CP-Havas) — The French press today acclaimed Prime Minister Chamberlain's pledge that Great Britain would stand by any nation whose independence was threatened.

"The Reich is now warned," said the Petit Parisien (independent), "that it will meet the barrier of England on any route on which its excessive ambitions lead it."

"The last speech of Chamberlain is perhaps the most important he ever made," wrote Genevieve Tabous in L'Oeuvre (Radical Socialist).

Jerusalem, Apr. 4 (CP) — John Iliffe, British keeper of the Rockefeller Museum and former Museum Archaeologist of the University of Toronto, was shot and seriously wounded last night by unidentified assailants outside his house in the old city of Jerusalem. The Arab quarters of the city are being searched.

Mr. Iliffe is curator of the museum opened in January, 1938, and constructed with $2,000,000 donated by John D. Rockefeller.

Washington, Apr. 4 (AP) — The United States Government was reported reliably today to be considering renewal of negotiations for a trade agreement with Spain which lapsed when the civil war broke out. The agreement would serve in part to offset the economic advantages which Germany and Italy are expected to seek in Spain by virtue of the assistance they gave General Franco's forces.

New Process of Streamlining Gas Will Make All Aviation Gas Needed

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

Baltimore, April 4—(AP)— A new process of streamlining gasoline which will make all the high speed aviation gas the world can use in both peace and war was announced here today.

Streamlining gasoline is no figure of speech. Particles of hydrocarbons, shaped like long worms, are reshaped to the forms of fish. In the fish shape they burn slower and with greater power.

One hundred million dollars, it was announced, will be spent this year on new apparatus for streamlining gasolines in the United States. This is the start of a new move, the object ultimately to be able to convert all the hundreds of odd-shaped hydrocarbons in gasoline, into one ideal stream-lined fish form.

The announcements were made at a symposium of the American Chemical Society on the catalytic process of making gasoline. Dr. Hugh Scott Taylor of Princeton University presided.

It is one these catalytic processes, alkylation, which has nothing to do with alkalinity, that gives the new source of aviation gasoline. This was reported by Dr. Gustav Egloff, of the Universal Oil Products Co., Chicago. Alkylation describes taking a hydrogen atom off a hydrocarbon particle, and replacing it with a hydrocarbon fragment.

The new aviation gasoline is made of natural gas and oil refinery gases These gases are run over catalysts, usually bits of metal, such as chromic oxide. This gives gases known as iso-butanes and butenes. These again are run over catalysts, which may include aluminum or sulfuric acid.

The result is 90 to 100 octane aviation fuel.

TURKEY TO ANNEX ALEXANDRETTA AS PRICE OF SUPPORT

60,000 Men Waiting at Frontier for Vote to Call Them in FRANCE AGREEABLE

District Has Population of 200,000 and Area of 10,000 Square Miles

Paris, April 4—(AP)—Turkey was reported today to have informed France she would annex the semi-independent district of Alexandretta in northern Syria as her price for supporting an anti-aggression bloc aimed at blocking further German expansion.

The Conservative newspaper Le Figuaro said a Turkish army of 60,000 men was waiting on the frontier to march into the district after a vote of the Alexandretta parliament calls them in.

The Centrist newspaper L'Ordre said the Turkish Ambassador in Paris, Saud Davax, yesterday informed Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet of the coming occupation.

(Havas News Agency said that France was "reliably reported" to be agreeable to Turkish annexation of the Sanjak, a state in French-mandated Syria).

Think Hour Propitious

"Doubtless the Turks think the hour is propitious at the moment when Rumania asked them to authorize the passage of British ships through the Dardenelles in case of war," said L'Ordre.

KING GHAZI I OF IRAQ IS KILLED

Driving Car Which Crashes Into an Electric Light Pole

Baghdad, April 4— (AP)—King Ghazi I of Iraq died early today of a skull fracture after his automobile crashed into an electric light pole.

The 27-year-old monarch was returning to the palace about midnight when he lost control of the car.

Appoint Regency

Ghazi's four-year-old son, Crown Prince Feisal, was proclaimed king but will rule under a regency headed by Emir Il Ah, brother-in-law and cousin of the late king.

Ghazi acquired a liking for motoring during his three-year stay in England as a student at Harrow. He liked to drive fast.

During his 5 1-2 year reign he did much to develop friendly relations between Iraq and Great Britain. His near eastern kingdom controls the Iraq pipeline through which Britain receives much of her vital supply of oil and the royal air force has long maintained a large force in Iraq.

The King educated at Harrow, England, succeeded his father, King Feisal, September 8, 1933. after Feisal's death of a heart attack at Berne, Switzerland.

Ghazi married his cousin, Princess Alyah, daughter of the late King Ali of Hejaz, a week after his coronation. They had one child, Crown Prince Feisal, born May 2, 1935.

Iraq was freed from the Turks during the Great War and recognized as an independent state, under British mandate. It is a Mesopotamian Kingdom, with an area of 116,600 square miles and a population of nearly 3,000,000 almost totally Arab.

Kingston Remits $42,000 to Consumers Of Hydro Power

Kingston, Ont., Apr. 4 (CP) — Granting of a rebate of 15 per cent on electric accounts of 1939, was announced by the Public Utilities Commission today. The rebate has been approved by the Hydro Electric Power Commission and work of mailing cheques to consumers has started. The rebate will amount to $42,000.

It was announced that since 1931, the Commission has turned back to the city and consumers in rebates, and grants from water department direct to the city, a total of $304,733.

Money for Promotion Of German Trade

Berlin, April 4.— (AP)—Guided by Chancellor Hitler's dictum, "export or die", Germany will set aside up to 500,000,000 marks ($200,000,000) in her 1939 budget for "promotion of German trade".

The budget law, retroactive to April 1, 1939, further authorizes the finance ministry to assume additional guarantees up to $382,000,000, including government subsidies for cultivation of the soil, promotion of domestic trade within the four-year plan for self-sufficiency, and homestead building.

Creation of the Reich's protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia and Incorporation of Austria and the Sudetenland into Germany are reflected in the 1939 budget which for these reasons "has not yet been definitely fixed in its particulars."

The finance ministry said Germany's budget will be balanced despite the extraordinary financial requirements.

JACK BENNY IS FINED $10,000 FOR SMUGGLING

Sentence of a Year and Day in Prison is Suspended

APPEARS IN PERSON

New York, Apr. 4 (AP) — Jack Benny, radio and screen comedian, threw himself upon the mercy of Federal Court today and admitted his guilt to charges of smuggling, based upon his purchase of $2,131 worth of jewelry as a gift for Mary Livingstone, his wife and partner.

Benny was sentenced by Judge Vincent Leibell to pay three fines, totalling $10,000 and to serve a year and a day in prison. The prison sentence, however, was suspended.

George Burns, also a famous radio and stage comedian, pleaded guilty to virtually the same charges last Dec. 12. He was fined $8,000 and given a suspended sentence of one year and a day.

Albert N. Chaperau, a co-defendant with Burns as well as in the indictment against Benny, pleaded guilty to both charges and is still awaiting sentence. Both Benny and Burns purchased jewelry which he had brought into the country.

The government at no time contended the two comedians had actually done any smuggling.

The courtroom was packed with an estimated 400 spectators. Mostly admirers of the wise-cracking comedian, with standees lining the wall at the back of the room.

Benny's face today was sober in contrast to the airy grins with which he faced the Grand Jury at the time of his appearance during the 'MAD DOG' IN EUROPE GIVEN TEETH BY CANADA SAYS DOUGLAS, C.C.F.

Ottawa, April 4—(CP)— A "mad dog" is loose in Europe, "but I submit we gave him teeth," T. C. Douglas (C.C.F. Weyburn), told the House of Commons Monday in a protest against Canadian exports of war materials.

"During the last four years, in spite of all our protestations of peace, this country has continued to be a source of supply for the aggressor nations," he said.

Canada, with her exports of nickel, copper, scrap iron and other materials, had assisted Italy, Germany and Japan to rearm and he urged the government to place an embargo on all war materials "as the major contribution Canada can make towards collective peace".

TORONTO TEACHER WINS ART PRIZE IN U. S. COMPETITION

Toronto, Apr. 4 (CP)—First time a Canadian competitor has won such an award, a $100 first prize in the Society of Watercolor Painters competition in the United States went to Alice Richardson, Humbercrest Public School teacher here, it was announced today.

Word she won the prize for a summer landscape scene at Port Elgin "almost rocked me off my feet", Miss Richardson said.

PACIFIC COAST ALLIANCE URGED FOR DEFENCE PLAN

Vancouver South M. P. Mentions Canada, U.S. and British Isles

HITS PRESENT POLICY

Makes Very Definite Suggestions in Support of Proposal

Ottawa, April 4—(CP)—A defensive alliance between Canada, the United States and British states on the Pacific Ocean was urged in the House of Commons last night by Howard Green (Con. Vancouver South) as a formal, three-day debate on foreign affairs came to a close.

Advancing the most definite suggestions regarding foreign policy to come from any speaker, Mr. Green declared the present policy of "no commitments" on the Pacific was fair neither to Canada's friends nor to potential enemies.

His program included construction of a highway through British Columbia, linking the United States with Alaska, subsidies for the construction of passenger ships for the Canada-Australia service, purchase of arms from Australia, shutting off Japanese immigration to British Columbia and establishing a North Pacific naval squadron base at Esquimalt.

EDMOND G. ODETTE BURIED TODAY

Federal, Provincial and County Officials Pay Tributes

Tilbury, Ont., April 4—(CP) — With business of the town suspended and flags flying at half mast, officials and citizens of this community joined with federal, provincial, and county officials in paying a last tribute of respect to Edmond G. Odette, former Mayor, former federal representative and Ontario's Liquor Commissioner who died suddenly Friday in Toronto.

Body of Mr. Odette was removed to the St. Francis Roman Catholic Church for the last rites. More than half the seats in the edifice were reserved for men prominent in public life who attended the requiem which was conducted by the Right Rev. Monsignor Parent.

During the service hundreds stood around the church and joined in the solemn procession to the St. Francis cemetery to witness the committal. The committal was climaxed by impressive rites conducted by officials and members of the Canadian Legion of which the former Mayor was a member.

Active pall bearers were Hon. A. St. Clair Gordon, M.P.P. for West Kent and Minister Without Portfolio in the Ontario cabinet, Dr. S. Lawson, Harry Johnson, Albert Gordon, A. E. Underwood, Gordon Fraser, K.C., John D. Chick and Col. W. Green.

FINDINGS OF TRIBUNAL ARE REFUSED BY UNION

London, Apr. 4 (CP)—Representatives of the National Union of Railwaymen today refused to accept the findings of the Railway Staff National Tribunal which last month turned down claims for wage increases for 60,000 British railwaymen.

The possibility of a strike will be discussed later. The wage increases asked would have cost £7,000,000 ($32,800,000).

Later the N.U.R. decided its executive should ask the railways companies to establish a basic weekly wage of 50 shillings.

70 Crisp $1,000 Bills Found By Police, Will be Used as Bail

Montreal, April 4—(CP)—Seventy crisp $1,000 bills, seized by police in the home of Francesca Giardina, were turned over by police today to serve as the woman's bail pending her trial on charges of stealing $83,000 and obtaining $159,000 by false pretences from the widow and estate of Jean-Marie Viglino, former Montreal court interpreter who died in 1933.

The complaint against Mrs. Giardina, who police said was also known as Francoise Jardine, was sworn out by Nicola L. Iorbo, a notary on behalf of Maria Ursule Jacquemin of Pisa, Italy, who claims to be Viglino's widow.

It charges Mrs. Giardina with theft of $83,000, and with obtaining through false pretences $159,000 from the Banque Nationale and the Bank of Montreal, property of the Viglino estate and of his wife.

Mrs. Giardina did not plead but through her attorney demanded preliminary inquiry which was fixed for April 12.

Consulate at Mosul Burned by Rioters; Order is Restored

Outbreak Occurs During Frenzied Mourning for Young King

RIOT CAUSE UNKNOWN

Slain Consul Spent Most of His Career in East

Mosul, Iraq, April 4—(AP)— G. E. A. C. Monck-Mason, British Consul at Mosul, was assassinated at noon today by a mob which rushed on the consulate and burned it.

Martial law was declared and order was restored four hours later, at 4 p.m. (8 a.m. EST).

The reason for the outbreak was not at once clear. It occurred during frenzied mourning for young King Ghazi, who was killed in an automobile accident a few hours earlier.

Consul 53 Years of Age

Monck-Mason, 53 years old, entered the consular service in 1908 and spent most of his career in the near East. He was at Alexandria and Salonika during the war, and acted as Consul General at the latter city in 1920. In 1929 he was made Consul at Aleppo. He became Consul at Mosul in October last year.

Four Men Arrested

(Reports received in London said four men were arrested after the slaying of Monck-Mason. They asserted agitators had worked up a crowd of mourners near the British Consulate by declaring King Gahzi had been slain by Britons. The mob then rushed the Consulate and burned it.

(Mosul, chief city of a district rich in oil deposits, is on the River Tigris 200 miles northwest of Baghdad.)

'PEACE BREAKER', GERMANS STATE OF CHAMBERLAIN

'Reich Has no Intention to Wait Encirclement'

GERMAN CHARGES

Berlin, April 4—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain, hailed last fall as a peacemaker, was called a "peace breaker" in the German press today and warned not to go too far with what the newspapers called his "encirclement policy."

"We must once more emphasize that the Reich has no intention of waiting until the encirclement net has become close and untearable," said Deutscher Dienst, a special service of DNB, the official news agency.

Newspapers charged Mr. Chamberlain's address of yesterday before the House of Commons set Great Britain on a "dangerous" and "peace-breaking" course.

Women's Christian Assoc. to Use Funds to Construct New Hospital Wing

FEES REMITTED

Toronto, Apr. 4 (CP)—Hearing today by the Private Bills Committee of the Ontario Legislature on a bill permitting the Women's Christian Association of Belleville to borrow money on the credit of the Association was approved. The Association operates a General Hospital at Belleville and it is proposed to construct a $200,000 addition, for which approximately $125,000 is on hand. The bill will authorize the borrowing of money giving a mortgage on the hospital. On motion of Hon. Eric Cross fees in connection with the bill were remitted.

Three-Hour Battle On Russian Border

Tokyo, April 4—(AP)—A Domei (Japanese News Agency) dispatch from Harbin, Manchoukuo, today said a three-hour battle took place between Manchoukuoans and nearly 100 Russians Sunday on the border of northwestern Hsingan Province.

The dispatch said the Russians, armed with light machine-guns, clashed with Manchoukuo border patrols, but did not give the number of casualties.

(The border of the province named is in the vicinity of Manchuli, on the northwestern frontier between Manchuokuo and Siberia where numerous clashes have occurred in recent months.)

SMALL DOG CROSSES RIVER ON THE ICE

Slipping and clambering with the agility of a young seal over the up-tilted ice cakes and floes just above the lower bridge early last evening "Mop" a small part Skye terrier owned by Wesley Brant, Pinnacle Street made the crossing of the ice-choked river without difficulty. The terrier had been engaged on the east bank of the river chasing birds and had ventured far out on the ice. Nearing the middle of the river, the dog decided to complete the crossing to a point where several small boys stood opposite whistling.

FISHERMEN MOVE HUTS NEARER SHORE

Ominous rumblings of the still thick ice of the bay east of the city during the past day or so has resulted in the decision of the majority of residents of the winter fishing village to move their tiny huts closer to shore where angling has admittedly been poorer. Only one or two of the more venturesome anglers near the old rifle butts remain in their old locations. Fishing lately is reported decidedly poor.

SMALL BOYS RISK DEATH IN PLAYING ON ICE IN RIVER

Small boys of the city who have found a new playgrounds on the banks of the river among the heavy ice cakes are courting death by drowning as they slide from one slippery ice floe to another. Beslippery ice floe to another. Beneath them lurk swirling, sluggish currents which would carry them under the ice without a trace, comments a hotel owner, who has warned some of the children at play.

RED-WINGED BLACK-BIRDS SEEN IN MARSH

What was believed to be part of a small advance flock of red-winged blackbirds which will soon follow, was observed by workers of a South Front Street oil company this morning. The birds, distinctive in colors of black and red were seen for the first time in a marsh near the government dock.

ONE-HALF LOAD LAW TO BE ENFORCED

Provincial Police today received instructions to continue the enforcement of the one-half load law, issued through the Highway Department some time ago. Local highways upon which only one-half commercial loads may be hauled at this time of the year include Highway No. 14 from Picton to Stirling and the same highway from Springbrook to Marmora; Highway No. 37 from Belleville to Actinolite and Highway No. 7 from Peterborough to Perth. Commercial trucks hauling over these roads shall only carry one-half of the tonnage permitted during the remainder of the month of April, Motorcycle Patrolman Sam Ervine warned today.

FIND FREAK EGG ONE-HALF INCH LONG

A tiny hen's egg complete in every detail including a perfectly formed shell and measuring slightly under one-half inch the "long way" and approximately one-third of an inch "across" was brought to the office of the Ontario Intelligencer yesterday by Mr. Wallace Sims, Thurlow Township resident.

The small freak of Nature was discovered by its finder, Mrs. Sims after a chicken had been killed for the family dinner. An egg taken from the hen was found to include the tiny perfectly-formed freak.

C.N.R. OFFICIALS ARE GUESTS AT PETERBORO ROTARY CLUB LUNCH

Rotarians of Peterborough were hosts to several representatives of the Belleville and Toronto divisions of the Canadian National Railways at the Empress Hotel in Peterborough at the regular luncheon on Monday noon. Among those present were O. W. Duff divisional superintendent of the local division J. F. Pringle, Toronto General Superintendent of Ontario; E. W. Burns former assistant superintendent of Belleville now of Lindsay; H. F. Tilley, Toronto, district passenger agent; A. H. Gardiner, Toronto, assistant general passenger traffic manager and others.

Guest speaker was Mr. A. H. Gardiner who recounted experiences of a life of thirty-two years with the Canadian National and old Grand Trunk during which time he had met the great and near great as passengers on the line.

PAINTERS MAKE UP NEW CLEANING SOLVENT

That necessity is the mother of invention was amply borne out here the other day. Two local men J. D. (Scotty) Wilson an William Arnott looking for suitable material with which to use in their occupation of interior decoration, got their heads together and devised a formula for a cleansing solvent that is said to be "tops" in its particular line.

The duo's formula was used in the renovation of City Hall offices, and other parts of the building, and according to City Engineer Charles Mott the results were highly satisfactory. The men will not divulge the ingredients of the solvent, but are using it with splendid results.

NAPANEE APPOINTS M. P. GRAHAM ASSESSOR

Following a recommendation of the fiance committee, Napanee town council last evening appointed M. P. Graham, town treasurer, to the position of assessor, at a salary of $600.

Under a new system, the town of Napanee will be zoned and receive what is hoped to be more exact assessing in the future.

Police Blotter

Five local young men fell into the clutches of the long arm of the law last night, all having imbibed much too freely, the police blotter revealed today. Three of the quintette were reported to have been causing disturbances at the upper end of Front Street, where they were said to have used abusive language in the direction of passers by. All five apprehended were "cooled off" in the cell block before being permitted to return to their respective homes late last night. Charges of intoxication were laid in each incident, Chief Kidd revealed today.

Otherwise activities were quiet and serene about city and county police circles no other arrests having been reported. After the inebriates vacated the cell block and quiet reigned supreme, 13 transients slumbered peacefully in warm sleeping quarters.

TRENTON BOY KILLED BY CAR

Driver of Car States He Did Not See Young Leonard Ayres

Trenton, Ont., (Special) — The second death to occur within the family in a month, Leonard Ayres six-year-old son of William Ayres, was killed almost instantly last night when struck on Dundas Street by a car said to have been driven by Fred Fairman, 55, of this town. The dead boy's mother died a few weeks ago.

The boy was believed to have been crossing the road from a service station to his home, when struck by the car.

Fairman stated that he was driving east when the accident occurred. He did not see the child, he told police who stated there were no other witnesses to the accident. Dr. J. W. Farley was called and Coroner Dr. E. A. McQuade ordered an inquest.

Mayor Bone To Offer Himself as Candidate At Con. Convention

Decision was reached by Mayor Jamieson Bone this morning to offer himself as candidate for the nomination as representative for the Conservative riding of South Hastings.

On the eve of the Conservative convention at the city hall on Wednesday afternoon at which delegates will seek a representative in opposition to the sitting member, Chas. A. Cameron, K.C., Mayor Bone announced today he had capitulated in favor of the numerous requests that have been made for him to run, bu leading Conservatives of Belleville and district.

"I have finally decided to let my name go before the convention" he stated this morning.

Mentioned some time ago as a potential candidate for Conservative honors in this riding, the Mayor declared that he had given the matter of candidacy "some thought since". Steadily increasing pressure brought upon him since had resulted in the decision announced today, it was stated.

"I'll go before the convention with an open mind on the matter. If the convention seems fit to name me candidate, then I'll be glad to accept. But this acceptance is conditional upon my being allowed to serve this riding in the best interests of all electors of the constituency. This I will make clear if I am chosen."

U. S. Visitors Inspect Ice-Choked Moira R.

A friendly sympathy for any community which might be threatened by spring floods such as devastated their own State during years past, prompted Mr. and Mrs. William Leskis and small son, Roy visitors from Hamilton, Ohio, this morning to pause in the city and make an examination of the ice-choked Moira River, while on a vacation visit to the east.

The Ohio visitors strolled along the stone wall through the lower section of the city, taking snapshots of the river at its more interesting points. Later they visited the section north of the city from which the initial ice shove came on Sunday.

"Looks just like some of our rivers back home," commented Mr. Leskis later. "Only there we always have more water in them than you apparently have here.

The visitors recalled having read of the damage caused by the uncontrolled Moira three years ago, and remembered faintly many scenes of domestic difficulty experienced by Belleville residents which appeared in Canadian and United States newspapers then.

Met Chaperau In 1937.

Carl Newton, Benny's Counsel told the court that Benny and Miss Livingstone met Chaperau casually in Hollywood in the summer of 1937. Mr. and Mrs. Benny went to Europe, and in Paris, Newton said, Benny bought two diamond studded gold clips and a diamond studded gold bracelet with a total value of $2,131.

Later in Cannes Chaperau suggested that Benny give him the jewelry as he could bring it in the United States duty free.

Benny and his wife arrived in New York on Aug. 10, 1937, and Chaperau followed on Oct. 7 with the jewelry.

"Somewhere on his person he secreted the jewelry which got past the customs," the defence counsel said.

"During October," he continued, "Chaperau turned the jewelry over to Benny through a third person. On Jan. 10, 1939, Benny voluntarily turned the jewelry over to the United States and assisted the government by appearing before the Grand Jury.

Judge Leibell told Benny:

"Sometimes men who are prominent in pictures and radio are just easy marks for smart people. But you should have been smart enough not to have fallen in with such a plan.

"You have undoubtedly made a fortune and shouldn't have fallen in with a scheme to defraud the United States Government and the country in which you acquired your prominence and your wealth. It was small stuff.

THEFT OF HOUSE IS CHARGE LAID

Case is Remanded for One Week at Madoc Police Court

Charged with the theft of an entire dwelling house, Charles Blair, Crookston, appeared before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd in County Police Court at Madoc yesterday. The accused pleaded not guilty and after much controversial testimony and confusion, His Worship enlarged the matter in hopes the parties concerned would come to some mutual and amicable agreement.

Blair was charged with the theft of a house, the property of one Oscar Storring. It was alleged that Blair moved the dwelling from the Storring property to that of his own. George White, Madoc solicitor, moved the matter be enlarged in order that the parties concerned might straighten the matter of ownership out. Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, K.C., readily agreed to the adjournment. The parties concerned were brothers-in-law.

Charles Trumbell, Cashel Township, was found not guilty of a charge of obstruction. It was alleged in the charge that Trumbull had attempted to prevent one Willard Hailstone from obtaining his personal belongings from a dwelling house. Altercations ensued at the time and both men were said to have threatened each other.

In dismissing the charge Magistrate Lloyd warned both parties to keep away from each other. "You men can't go around threatening each other, or you will find yourselves in serious difficulty, I warn you," concluded His Worship.

Several minor cases concluded the court, in which Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, K.C., conducted the prosecutions.

'HE SERVED WELL' EULOGY PAID TO H. E. FAIRFIELD

Simple and Impressive Service Conducted by Dr. James Semple

MASONIC COMMITTAL

Beneath a snow-covered slope in Belleville Cemetery overlooking the Bay of Quinte he loved so well, the body of the late H. E. Fairfield, snatched suddenly by death a few days ago, was laid in its last resting place yesterday afternoon, while a community mourned the passing of one of its distinguished sons.

The funeral service, simple and impressive was conducted by the Rev. Dr. James Semple, minister of Bridge Street United Church of which the deceased was a loyal devoted member, at the Highland Avenue home, assisted by the Rev. Dr. E. N. Baker. Graveside service was also conducted by Dr. Semple while members of Eureka Lodge No. 283 A.F. & A.M. conducted the traditional Masonic rites prior to committal.

Business, professional and industrial wheels of the district paused in their daily activities to pay a final reverent tribute to one who during his life not only achieved the heights of business success, but devoted many efforts to the many phases of community work in which he took an absorbing interest.

All Walks Attend

Doctors, lawyers, executives of industry, members of the city council, and the chief magistrate of the city, the humble and those of high places, the crossroads of a city population, from all walks of life they came, to testify by their sorrowing presence to the high esteem and regard in which the late Mr. Fairfield was held.

Through the flower-banked room in which the body lay, a constant stream of people, heads bowed in reverence, eyes glistening at times with unshed tears passed in silent tribute during the day. A highway worker stood with bared head bowed as later the cortege wound its way along the highway to the hallowed ground of the cemetery.

Rich with the aroma of many beautiful floral tributes, the late residence of the deceased was filled to capacity with a sorrowing gathering, when Dr. Semple opened the impressive funeral service with a brief prayer. Outside, in reverence, stood another large gathering unable to obtain admission to the already crowded rooms.

There was no singing of hymns. Through the sad silence that was evident, reverential in itself, the voices of the officiating ministers were clearly audible in prayer and eulogy to a departed friend.

"Served His Generation"

Like the King David of old, the late Gene Fairfield served his generation well, then by the will of God sleep fell on him, Dr. Semple said in a beautiful eulogy to the deceased.

"He served his generation by being a success in his own business," the speaker said, "and his thoughtfulness, insight and sagacity in the kingdom of business was a model for others to follow."

"But he did not stop at this. His thoughts turned to his community in which he took a wide interest. The Hydro Commission, the city council, and many other phases of community service were enriched by his efforts. He enjoyed the confidence of the city which elected him to positions of responsibility. He served with great diligence our city hospital, and the many wonderful changes that have taken place in that institution were due in no small measure to his interest.'

"The Y.M.C.A. in the work of which he was very thorough, will miss him. The official Board of the church of which I have the honor to be the minister has lost a valued member and friend. He exercised thoughtfulness and great care in the planning of the church and its work.

"He served in innumerable other community works, that I could mention," Dr. Semple said, "and in all these efforts two things were conspicuous, humility and appreciation. He never asked for honor, rather he was humble in the things he sought to do for humanity. He was always appreciative of those, who worked with him, and always spoke of the worth of their efforts rather than his own. It is a great man, who is humble and appreciative of the service of other people."

A Fine Tribute

"I cannot pay a greater tribute to him and his service than in those words of long ago as written in the Acts 'For David, after he had served his generation, by the will of God, fell on sleep'. These words I address to the family. They come from that priceless heritage, the Scripture, that they may take comfort in the days immediately ahead of them."

Turning to various aspects of life, the speaker pointed out that some people exist solely for the making of money. "They put all their strength in it, but of what use is it unless some service is given to the community. To others life is for pleasure. All they think of is how to enjoy themselves without thought of service to others. It is a poor life if no service is rendered to a needy humanity."

Others live for fame, Dr. Semple declared. "They enjoy the plaudits of the multitude and grow fat on applause. No matter how much applause they receive, if at the end of what they think is an illustrious career they have not served humanity, they have defeated the very idea of their existence" he said.

"But Gene Fairfield served his generation and his community. The community is poorer by his passing. May his mantle fall upon many today, so that we too, can belong to those of whom they will say 'They served well'," Dr. Semple concluded.

Guard of Honor

A Masonic guard of honor stood in reverential attitude as a few minutes later the flower-covered casket was borne to the funeral coach. A long line of automobiles followed the cortege to the cemetery where the committal rites were administered. Dr. Semple conducted the brief service at the graveside while the impressive Masonic ritual was carried out by Wor. Bro. B. G. Wilkinson; Rt. Wor. Bro. J. W. Barlow; Rt. Wor. Bro. J. O. Herity; Wor. Bro. Carl D. Crosby; Rt. Wor. Bro. R. D. Adams and Wor. Bro. P. W. Geen, also Dr. Semple.

Honorary pall bearers were Messrs W. H. Morton, J. B. Boyce, J. O. Herity, Mackenzie Robertson, L. B. Riggs and E. P. Bernstein.

Active pall bearers were: Dr. Gerald A. Morton; MacLean Haig; Charles A. Cameron, M.P.; O. H. Scott; W. Sharpe and Gordon Friesen.

'IMMIGRANT' DOG BEST OUT OF 1259

Chicago, Apr. 3 (AP)—Ferry von Rauhfelsen of Giralda, a Doberman Pinscher today was hailed as the best dog out of 1,259 pure breds entered in the 38th annual International Kennel Club show.

The German "immigrant" dog which a few months ago was a pet in a barber shop in Augsbury, Germany, last night won the grand award as the climax of the two-day show. The prize winner is owned by Mrs. M. Hartley Dodge of Madison, N.J.

SAVING THE SOIL FROM BLOWSAND

Creeping Death Which Swallows Land, Buildings, Crops, and Trees, Shown by Forestry Expert in Word and Picture

Belleville Rotarians honored the memory of a comrade, H. E. (Gene) Fairfield, who died suddenly last Thursday, by standing with bowed heads for two minutes silence at the opening of the regular weekly meeting Monday in Hotel Quinte. President Mac Haig paid eloquent tribute to the worth of Rotarian Fairfield, his value to the club and his value as a citizen, one who was always ready and willing to carry more than his share of the load in club activities, and already busy on preliminary arrangements for the speed boat regatta to be held here this summer under Rotarian auspices when called by death. As a citizen generally Gene Fairfield had always been active in forward movements for the benefit of all citizens and had served in the City Council and as a Public Utilities Commissioner. His outstanding characteristic was his geniality and his friendly manner made him friennds easily and everywhere. As a business man he showed shrewdness and ability to a remarkable degree and achieved outstanding success. President Haig expressed the regret of the club at losing a valued member and friend. It was decided to attend the funeral in a body as a mark of respect.

Election of directors for official year beginning July 1, resulted as follows: Percy McGuire, W. Morrison, Irv. Hefky, Morley Duff, Howard Clarke, with President Mac Haig as Vice President, by virtue of his office. President for 1930-40 will be elected by vote of directors.

Guest speaker was Mr. George Bailey from Provincial Forestry Department, who showed a number of lantern slides from photographs taken of various aspects of the work of the Provincial Forestry Department in reclaiming agricultural land, threatened by the blow sand which creeps up and over everything in its path if not checked.

Of special interest were pictures taken in Prince Edward County showing the destruction of lands, houses and trees and crops by the blow sand and the measures taken to check the destruction by planting red pine which is preferable to white pine which is susceptible to dangerous diseases. How the pine cones are gathered and the seeds obtained and cleaned and treated under strong heat was illustrated in the pictures and the whole furnished an attractive and interesting interlude in the busy day.

AMATEUR SHOW WELL RECEIVED

Cream of Talent in P. E. County With Dancing Class Seen at McCarthy Theatre

In one of the best entertainments of its kind seen here in some time, the cream of Prince Edward County amateur talent, some seventeen acts all told, delighted a capacity house at the McCarthy Theatre last night. The show will be repeated tonight when the winner who will be igiven an all-expense trip to Toronto to compete in a Ken Soble amateur hour, will be chosen.

Augmenting a performance, that left nothing to be desired from a variety entertainment point of view were such local stars as Jackie Marsh "Belleville's Bobby Breen" heard in "Mexicali Rose" and "I Love You Truly" and members of the Mary Forster dancing classes seen in several solo and ensemble efforts. An additional attraction was the sweet soprano voice of Mrs. Gordon Bell, Cherry Valley, whose solo "La Golondrina" received well-merited acclaim.

Picton, Greenbush, Milford, Cherry Valley, Black Creek, and other Prince Edward communties are represented in the show that is productive of high class entertainment in many forms and phases. For instance, there are two young ropers and singers, the Way Brothers, who are stars in the making. Jack Clark, a more or less corpulent singing comedian; the Bolton trio, three old-time music makers, who scored a hit with their rollicking tunes; Wilson Vance, a yodelling cowboy and Carson Scott, Milford comedian, who drew loud applause with a humorous song.

Plays Eight Instruments

Albert Case, versatile Picton musician who plays on no less than eight instruments gave a highly variable performance while outstanding in a show that is packed with amateur artists, is a boy and girl act staged by Burton and Lenore Pickering. Both talented singers, these youngsters showed marked histrionic ability besides possessing a decided flair for comedy.

Another act that drew the acclaim of the large audience was the singing duo of Murray and Melita Smith, prize winners in many former contests whose voices blended in fine harmony in an old favorite song.

Dainty little Miss Jean Wood, singer and dancer of Milford, who headed the program showed delightful ability and scored a hit with the audience. Last but not least was the Home Town Mountain Band, seventeen male musicians, whose variable offerings on various instruments caught the fancy of the crowd.

Phil Dodds is M.C.

Mary and Gerald Bongard, Madeline Holden, Mary Lou Pigden, and a quartette of ensemble dancers, all well-known to Belleville audiences as pupils of Miss Mary Forster, were seen in outstanding dance offerings, that received generous applause from an appreciative audience.

Philip Dodds, of the Picton Gazette staff, acted as master of ceremonies in a capable manner, his humourous patter in introducing the many artists adding much to the enjoyment of the show. A picture 'Pride of the Navy' completes an evening of keen entertainment.

NEWSPAPERS IMPROVE

Like all other institutions, the newspapers are under critical fire these days. It is a time of criticism, and of examination of things as they are, to see if they can't be made better.

Newspapers, being edited by human beings, aren't perfect. But they have been making a conscious effort especially during the past 10 years, to improve themselves. And they have made great progress.

A recent study of them by the Northwestern National Life Insurance Company shows these things:

They give their readers from 250 to 500 per cent. more information than they did 50 years ago.

They print far more explanatory and background material to help readers to understand what news means.

They print a wealth of pictures formerly not available.

Editorial opinion has largely been eliminated from news columns.

Much more material on science, health and beauty, and subjects interesting to women is presented.

More able by-line comment is printed by writers who may differ, with the policies of the paper, thus giving readers varying points of view on events.

Every institution must improve or die. And anyone can see, by going to the library and looking at newspapers of 50 years ago, how greatly newspapers have improved, and are still improving, to meet the needs of the times.—Sydney Post Record.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was leening back in his private chair smoking one of the King Olaf Havana cigars ma got him for his berthday by request, and ma said, Look, Willyum, what do you think of these 2 samples or materials, one is chintz and the other is damask.

My deer you make it too easy for me, now I know exactly what to think, I think one is chintz and the other is damask, pop said. I'll go even further, I'll bet the one with the flowers is chintz, he said, and ma said, Well of course, naturelly but I mean wich one would you prefer for window hangings in this room, Willyum? Howerd Beckwer the decorater left them here today for me to select from, she said.

Has that man been here again? pop said. This room still seems good enough for me, why should he clammer to change it when he doesn't even live here? he said, and ma said, Now Willyum get down to facts. I dont want anything in this room that you're not going to like, and these 2 samples represent what you might call the last analysis, I mean it's to be either one or the other, so wich would be your personel choice, the chintz or the damask?

Well, there seems to be something about my higher nature that responds to the sound of damask, pop said, and ma said, You always did have good taste, Willyum, and of course good taste comes high, I mean the damask comes to almost 4 dollers a yard and the chintz is a doller and 25 cents.

Is that so, the sound of chintz has an irresistible appeal that I cant explain, unless perhaps it's because it rimes with blintz, pop said. That's the name of a cheese pancake I ate once in a Russian resterant, it haunted me all that night and it's haunted me ever since. The chintz by all means, he said, and ma said, But Willyum you said the damask, and pop said, But I meant the chintz.

And he wouldn't change back again.

A PUBLIC-SPIRITED CITIZEN GONE

Through the death of Mr. H. E. ("Gene") Fairfield Belleville has lost a citizen who served in many organizations of a business or charitable and public character. He possessed a keen sense of business, an absorbing interest in everything of a business or municipal nature. The ceaseless activity he indicated in his early years became a mark of the mature man. His qualities made him a success in business and also opened to him avenues of service to the community.

The successful man is the man who is able to make a large contribution to the life about him and who has the capacity to instil enthusiasm in others. This gift "Gene" Fairfield possessed to a remarkable degree. His breadth of interest was symbolic of the man. To this must be added the fact that strict integrity and fitness in business were characteristic of all his dealings.

His fine business instinct, foresight and executive ability to make success brought other tasks which he gladly assumed. It was natural for him to give generously of his time and means to a large number of causes and movements for improvement of the city. He possessed also a rare sense of diplomacy and tact in his approach, one of the best signs of a man who has made or will make his life a success. This gift, which had stood him in good stead in business, he exercised at every opportunity to serve his fellow-citizens of Belleville and the surrounding countryside for his experience in business had made him familiar with the life of both city and country. Qualified as he was by education, training and experience, he was fitted for municipal life and was able to render service to his city. He was an alderman for two years. He took a very keen interest in the local Hydro plant and on his election as a Commissioner made a close study of Hydro. He was named a director of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association for his interest in Hydro and municipal affairs. He was one of the charter members of Chamber of Commerce and became president of that organization.

When he was appointed a member of the Board of Governors of the Belleville General Hospital he found the work of this body absorbing and full of opportunity for one who liked to work and to see work accomplished. So he gave himself wholeheartedly to his duties. He was elected vice-chairman. Full of enthusiasm for work, he was able to perform important services for the hospital, one of his opportunities lying in overseeing the work of renovation of buildings at the hospital and in numerous other ways he made a lasting contribution to this institution.

Society is always looking for men of his stamp who will bear their share or even more than their share of responsibility, and in view of this fact and of his qualifications and fitness "Gene" was sought out for office because those who knew him valued his advice and good judgment and realized it is the busy man who has time to take on additional tasks and who can be depended upon to perform them satisfactorily. In these community efforts he practised the same enthusiasm as he did in his own business. This intense energy was what was to be expected of a man who did not know what it meant to be idle.

The late "Gene" Fairfield had found what many another person overlooks, the opportunity to serve his community and the city he loved so well.

IN THE NAZI MIND

What is in the Nazi mind is very clearly revealed in Das Schwarz Korps, official organ of the Nazi Elite Guard which early last week urged British-German alliance in a league to force peace to the world. This was before the Anglo-French agreement to defend Poland if attacked. These were the words:

"England must now take a far-sighted decision whether she will stand with us. If so then the two 'white peoples' will dictate peace not only to Europe but to the whole world. If not then we will be quickly finished with the pack of hounds which is being whipped up against us."

Britain does not want to dictate peace. She wants to preserve peace.

In the light of recent events who can see Britain and Germany linked as big brothers forcing peace upon a world—a peace which would have to bear all the elements and stains of Nazi oppression.

During the Great War, Germany did many odd things, despite her regimentation and her reputation for thoroughness. A cross-section of Nazi activity in the last three years and more, is surely proof of the mental and spiritual inability of the Nazis to help to force peace on the world. Their mentality is so warped, so embittered against international society, that the German Government wants to destroy it or at least remake it into the Prussian style of Kultur.

There is but one method of success, and that is hard labor; and a man who will not pay that price for distinction had better at once dedicate himself to the pursuit of the fox.—Sydney Smith.

No way has been found for making heroism easy, even for the scholar. Labor, iron labor, is for him. The world was created as an audience for him; the atoms of which it is made are opportunities.—Emerson.

Labor is rest from sorrows that greet us; from all the petty vexations that meet us; from the sin-promptings that assail us; from the world-sirens that lure us to ill.—F. S. Osgood.

A TRYSTING PLACE

There is a place down by the shore,
Just where the pathway curves and bends,
Where cedars lean the waters o'er
And lilies sweet their fragrance lend;
Beneath the maple's sheltering shade
A rustic seat is still in place—
A trysting spot for lovers made
'Neath swaying boughs that interlace.

A dreamful place, long, long ago,
When love and romance loitered there;
And still when red the leaf-buds show
And May-day skies are all aglow,
Leaves whisper in the sun-lit air
And secrets of dead lovers share.

WORKED LIKE A MULE—an apt expression, very often heard, to signify the hardest kind of hard work, for a mule can work when he feels like it. Apropos of mule labor George Leacock, brother of Stephen Leacock, McGill College professor, humorist and economist, told the Optimist Club, of Toronto, some incidents in his successful business career which indicated that a strain of humor must run through the whole Leacock family. His first job was the Leacock subject. His father must have been something of a humorist too, for he took the lad down and got him a job, telling the firm not to show the boy any favors just because the father happened to be a large stockholder in the firm. Incidentally he didn't have a dollar in the business. No favors were shown the Leacock lad. He started work at six o'clock, ante meridian, and became pinch-hitter for a mule, the harness being shifted from the mule to him, while the mule was given a breather. In this wise and guise he hauled ashes until seven a.m. "When I went out, after that," he said, "I noticed the other mules looking at me very queerly—they considered me scab labor. After a few months they said they were going to promote me. A mule died and they put me on the day shift. After that I got on better with the other mules. They soon began to accept me as one of themselves, and it wasn't long before I was having lunch with them regularly. That was really how I got used to handling advertising men—after talking to those mules they were easy." Just a minute, there, Leacock, let's get this thing straight—what's the use.

MANHATTAN MAGAZINE WHICH TRIES TO BE SMART, and on occasion has managed to be too smart with results not so congenial, but which will apparently do anything to gain circulation, made another faux pas in its latest edition. Every copy displayed in Montreal was confiscated and destroyed and it is expected the mag will be permanently banned in Ontario when the authorities get around to it. All praise to the Montreal police who did not wait for government orders but just took action at once when the insult to British Institutions was drawn to their attention.

CANADIAN UNITY TOOK A LONG STEP FORWARD when Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Canadian Minister of Justice, declared that Canada is with Great Britain all the way in war as in peace—that the Empire is one and indivisible, that when the Empire is at war Canada is at war, automatically. After so much shadow boxing by Quebec members, to be or not to be, to fight or not to fight, to pick their own way of fighting, and place of fighting, regardless of desires of other participants, etc., the plain statement of Hon. Lapointe came with refreshing suddenness, and a cold shower for those Quebec politicians who seem to delight in stirring up argument and disunion—when they don't really mean it—but it makes good thunder for the church steps on Sunday morning after Mass—and the simple habitant is easy to scare into belief that the English are always plotting something which will not result to his advantage—a lot of tripe spilled on many church steps in and out of season by slick politicians.

"THE LIVING GOD"? IS THE TITLE OF A DARING BROADCAST beginning Tuesday evening at 6 p.m., continuing each night thereafter until Saturday, being a dramatizing of the events of Holy Week, in modern manner. "The Living God" is built around the experiences of a roving announcer, who having lost his faith, enquires of passersby "Who is Christ?" Walter Connolly, screen actor, will play the part of the announcer (he carries a movable microphone and describes each scene including the Crucifixion, as he sees it, in the modern manner). Pedor de Cordoba will be heard as the voice of Christ, and Mary Carr, best remembered for her part in the motion picture "Over the Hill" will also have a prominent role. Great interest is being taken in this broadcast and NBC would not touch it until the script had been thoroughly studied by representatives of various churches, and endorsed. The modern presentation of the various important events of Holy Week, culminating in the Crucifixion, is said to be sensational. The broadcast will originate at WEAF, New York, what Canadian stations, if any, will carry it, is unknown to the writer.

The letter was, undoubtedly, composed very badly, and the manager reproved the clerk who had written it.

"A man who does not make himself understood is a fool," he shouted. "Do you understand me?"

"No sir," the clerk replied.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

April 4th., 1919.

Mr. C. S. Ogilvie, assistant engineer on the Belleville Division of the G.T.R. has been transferred to Ottawa as assistant engineer on the Ottawa Division.

The average deposit of Belleville public school pupils in the Penny Bank during January and February was thirty nine cents for Queen Mary School; forty six cents for Queen Alexandra School and fifty seven cents for Queen Victoria School. January deposits from the three schools amounted to $570.01 and February $570.35. The same period last year the deposits for January were $415.95 and for February $387.47.

Mr. D. V. Sinclair was in Toronto today.

30 YEARS AGO

April 4th., 1909.

Mr. Gordon Caldwell, son of Dr. Caldwell of this city, left today for Yorkston, Sask., and will later proceed to Edmonton where he will locate.

The stationary engineers of this city have organized with the following officers: President, F. H. Chesher; Vice President, C. J. Peppin; Secretary, W. E. Cooke; Treasurer, F. Davies; Conductor, J. Davidson; Doorkeeper, B. Ketcheson.

At the annual meeting of the Belleville Golf Club the following officers were elected: President, Mr. Thomas Ritchie; First Vice President, Dr. Farley; Second Vice President, Mr. R.A. Bull; Captain, Mr. W. R. Ostrom; Secretary, Mr. H. Sneyd; Assistant Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. J. W. Johnson, M.P.P.

40 YEARS AGO

April 4th., 1899.

Mr. Joseph Sauve spent Sunday with his parents in Brockville.

Mr. James H. Reeves was home from Kingston to spend Sunday.

Mr. William A. Symons who has been in Mayville, Mich., for some time, has returned to his home here.

Mr. Adam Vanderwaters has left to spend some time in Dauphin, Manitoba.

Arrangements for the erection of the Rolling Mills here are progressing satisfactorily. Tenders will be called for soon.

Mr. Harry Dunning of Toronto, formerly of Belleville, is here on a visit.

Dr. James Potts of Stirling, was in town today.

Mr. J. M. Hurley, M.P., left today for Ottawa.

Mr. Randal W. Hart will leave tomorrow for Key West, Florida.

50 YEARS AGO

April 4th., 1889.

Fuller's Boot and Shoe Store will be moved shortly to the store lately occupied by W. J. Reid & Co., crockery merchants.

Building operations for the season have already commenced. Mr. C. P. Smith has the foundation laid for a residence on Pine St., Mr. George Flower has commenced the erection of a house on Charles Street, near Pine Street, and Mr. John Doyle commenced yesterday to build a house on Alexander Street.

Messrs C. P. Smith & Co., have taken over the plumbing business which has been carried on for some time by the Water Works Company, and have retained the services of Mr. James Owens to look after the business.

A number of sleighs and cutters were out today. Sleighing has been restored for a time by the snow storm of yesterday.

BUGS EAT BUGS

The Dominion Entomologist, Science Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, advises that about this season of the year the whitefly usually makes its appearance in greenhouses and unless steps are taken to control it, becomes increasingly troublesome and destructive toward Spring. Tomatoes and cucumbers are particularly susceptible to injury by this pest.

Excellent results have been obtained during the past few years in controlling the whitefly by the use of one of its natural enemies, a small insect parasite knows as Encarsia formosa. The Division of Entomology, Dominion Department of Agriculture, will supply this parasite free of charge on application to Mr. A. B. Baird, Dominion Parasite Laboratory, 228 Dundas Street east, Belleville, Ont.

Another serious pest on some greenhouse crops is the common mealy bug, and parasites for the control of it may also be obtained from the same source. The supply of mealy bug parasites will be rather limited but an attempt will be made to furnish them to as many applicants as possible. — Dominion Department of Agriculture Bulletin.

DEPARTED GLORY

Shades of the gay seventies or is it the sixties, but many a local counter-cruiser had to rub his or her eyes one day the past week to make sure it was 1939 and not 1870 because of the apparition that was passing down Queen Street behind a prancing steed with a liveried driver (at least with the cap) perched knowingly in the seat. You wouldn't guess unless we told you what this strange contraption was, so here's the secret. It was a phaeton—one of those colossal conveyances in which the well-to-do and socially prominent were wont to sport about the highways and byways in the days of long ago. The driver was Freeman Cook, Ontario Street, West Ward, who was taking delivery of the sloop-sterned tourabout with the tasseled top for John "Scotty" Chisholm, of the G. P. D. Freeman had hauled the ancient carriage, which was once the pride and joy of the late Geo. Carter, from the barn where it has stood for more than 30 years. Mr. Chisholm will use parts of the buggy for delivery wagon purposes. — St. Mary's Journal-Argus.

GAS MASK NUISANCE

There has been some agitation in Britain over the case of a citizen who took his gas mask, furnished by the Government for his protection in air raids, and tossed it into the back yard as nuisance. The courts have upheld him, deciding it was his mask, and he could do with it what he liked. If he wanted to throw it away and take his chances with air raids, that was his privilege. All this is very Anglo-Saxon and British. Gas masks as home furnishings are things Britishers still seem unwilling to take with becoming seriousness. Recently an air raid warden, making the rounds of some cottages near Manchester to see that all was well with the air raids precaution work, found a housewife wearing her gas mask. She was peeling onions. — Victoria Times.

TAN FOR MORALE

In one New York hospital it is the practice to expose patients who must undergo major operations on stomach or intestines to ultraviolet lamps. Ashen skins tan, a counterfeit of health is presented. "You're looking fine, Joe," comment visiting friends, and relatives after the crisis is over. Joe is highly pleased with a constitution that can triumph so brilliantly over the scalpel. No piece of trickery this on the hospital's part. "Any improvement in the morale is a battle won," says a doctor in charge of the department.—Canadian Doctor.

OLD FASHIONED HOCKEY

Hockey players in some centres are not what they used to be. It is not so many years ago that puck chasers were sixty-minute men and played every game without relief. Recent snow storms have made motor travel impossible for visiting hockey teams and rather than drive by horse and sleigh as their predecessors did many a time, games have been cancelled. — Petrolia Advertiser-Topic.

PROFITABLE PLAY

Gertrude Lawrence and "Susan and God" sadly bade farewell to each other in Boston after 29 weeks on the road. Jessie Royce Landis took up the Lawrence reins in Buffalo; quite profitably, too, the John Golden office reports.

The companionship of Miss Lawrence and the Rachel Brothers play during the coast-to-coast trek poured into the Golden coffers the sum of $555,924.70—to mingle there with the $636,558.85 which was the gross intake for the 36 weeks on Broadway.

Toronto, during the week of January 23, paid the most to see Miss Lawrence—$23,779, and Chicago, in the show's 11th. week of the visit, paid the least—$12,334. The highest figure amassed was during a blizzard in Toledo the night of January 30, or $5,785.26; the lowest was one night in San Francisco, during the fifth week there, when the sum was only $1,402. The afternoon of Christmas Eve in Chicago gave the lowest matinee, $1,279.50, and the afternoon of January 21, in Pittsburgh, gave the biggest matinee, $3,118.75.

(The gross receipts for the one-night performance of this play at the Capitol Theatre in Ottawa were $5200.)—N. Y. Times.

PERFECT PEACE

A village has been discovered in British Guiana where it is said perfect happiness exists. Dr. Zahl, who discovered the lost village, says he found practically perfect human relations among the people. Never did he see the slightest sign of anger only laughter and general happiness. Such a state will not long continue. Soon the benefits of civilization will reach that happy village and the Indians will learn how to frown and to be angry. Perhaps they may even be given guns and shown how to kill each other as they do in civilized lands and communities. They will learn from the whites the foolishness of perfect happiness and human behaviour.

It is a great discovery Dr. Zahl has made but we believe the villagers would have been better off, more likely to continue in their state of happiness had they been left to their own devices, for there are not many places where perfect happiness still exists. — Niagara Falls Review.

FINNISH BEAUTIES

In reproducing a picture of three pretty Finnish bathing beauties yesterday as they were chosen at a recent affair held by their compatriots, the Timmins Daily Press feels that it has surely done its share in nudging Old Man Winter to get out of the picture, and in giving Miss Spring an invitation to do her stuff.

The Press is sure, too, that it is well ahead in the Bathing Beauty Parade of 1939, though here and there winter sports resorts in Canada do go in for bathing scenes, in what we often suspect must be fake snow.

Soon after the three Finnish girls found themselves put in the window, and we are sure, judging by the reactions of the crowds which gathered that what with the sunshine beaming down, we contributed the needed Spring-like touch.

At least, we didn't note any shuddering—nothing but smiles of anticipation—and a new assurance in many faces, that with those girls out there, Spring could be far behind?

From Finnish Beauties to finny beauts and a singing fishing rod, may not be such a yump after all. —Timmins Press.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

A CALL TO ARMS

An army, poor in finances but rich in fighting spirit, has been organized in every State of the Union and the District of Columbia. Women are the warriors because they are fighting to protect other women who, after going through the ordinary hardships of life together with the special hardships of motherhood, are then threatened by an enemy who fights in the dark and not in the open.

I refer to cancer.

Thus we find the Women's Field Army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer finishing each year of its fight against 'the great killer' by a special drive to continue to fight cancer with knowledge and to increase its membership.

"Women suffer more from cancer than do men; this disease killed more women in 1935 between the ages of forty and sixty-five than any other disease. Yet the types of cancer to which women are most prone—cancer of the uterus and of the breast—are, in seventy to eight percent of cases, curable, if taken in time. To-day throughout the world only twenty per cent of these cases are being cured."

The main attack on cancer made by this volunteer army is by the arousing of interest in regular periodic physical examination which means the early discovery of cancer and early discovery means cure.

Their slogan is 'Early Cancer is Curable'. 'Fight Cancer With Knowledge'. Thus by newspapers, magazines, and the radio, the danger signals of cancer are brought vividly to the attention of the public. These danger signals, which should send the patient to a physician immediately, are:

1—Any persistent lump or thickening, especially in the breast.

2—Any irregular bleeding or discharge from any body openings.

3—Any sore that does not heal—particularly about the tongue, mouth or lips.

4—Persistent indigestion, often accompanied by loss of weight.

5—Sudden changes in the rate of growth of a mole or wart.

Pain is a late symptom. Do not wait for it.

To join this worthy army and thus share in the saving of thousands of useful lives yearly costs One Dollar which should be sent to American Society for the Control of Cancer, 1250 Sixth Ave., New York, New York.

GREATER RARITY

Papa Dionne wants to know why King George and Queen Elizabeth cannot come down to Callander to look at the famous Five instead of having the children brought to Toronto on a special train. It is an understandable position on the part of the father. Their Majesties would never dream of having Niagara Falls or the Taj Mahal brought to them for inspection, but would make a pilgrimage to the spot. In the records of nature or of civilization the Dionne quintuplets are a greater rarity than Niagara or any of the Seven Wonders of the World.—N. Y. Times.

TOOTH SEPLANTATION

Almost 2,000 years ago the Incas of Peru used to yank out aching teeth, then stick them back in their sockets and pray for them to grow firm again. It never worked.

Last week Dentist C. W. Messinger of Houghton, Mich., told members of the Chicago Dental Society that he had stream-lined the ancient practice of tooth replacement and that now it did work. First he extracts an abscessed tooth and removes the jaw abscess. Then he scrapes out all the pulp in the root canal of the tooth, sterilizes it, and fills the shell with gutta-percha. After he re-sterilizes it, he pushes the tooth pack in its socket with his thumb. A gold frame is clamped on the tooth to hold it in place. After four weeks said Dr. Messinger, the frame can be removed, for, although the tooth is not rooted to the jawbone, gum and tissue have grown solidly back around it and it can be used for chewing. He told of 65 replantations he made each lasting about five years.

Although Chicago dentists enthusiastically applauded Dr. Messinger, dentists in Manhattan who soon got wind of the performance roundly denounced it. "Tooth replantation is an archaic, long-abandoned dangerous practice," said the Greater New York Bureau for Dental Information, official spokesman of the American Dental Association. A replanted tooth is a foreign body the bureau warned. Even if sterilized, and even if it stays put, it may cause infection.—Time Magazine.

THE CAT'S WHISKER

There is an old belief that a cat uses its whiskers to determine whether it can squeeze through a small hole or opening. According to this notion, the whiskers are exactly the same width as the animal's body, and if they touch the sides of the hole the cat will not attempt to enter, writes a correspondent to the Indianapolis News.

Although not strictly true, there is a grain of truth in the belief. The large facial hairs, known scientifically as "vibrissae" serve as feelers or organs of touch and contribute materially to the cat's ability to move about in the dark. These hairs themselves, of course, are not sensitive nerve endings. Facial hairs of this type are particularly well developed, both in number and size, in those predatory species which hunt chiefly in jungles and other thick undergrowth.

There may be a relationship between the cat's whiskers and its sense of sight. A naturalist found that cats with their whiskers cut short were unable to judge distances accurately. In experiments cats without whiskers would repeatedly miss their prey when springing for it. The investigator concluded that the facial hairs aid the animal to fix its eyes on its prey and that it is undoubtedly injurious to remove the whiskers from a cat which must hunt for a living.

REMARKABLE WOMAN

Canada has recently supplied instances of birthday celebrations of those attaining one hundred years and over, but the most remarkable case is that of Mrs. Isabella Allen of Twin Elm, Carleton Country. She was 102 on March 15, and has spent the winter nursing a sick daughter, while also doing the work about the house. The Canadian climate may go to extremes, but many instances show that the 'swing' of the weather pendulum from heat to cold does not militate against longevity.— Brantford Expositor.

SHORT SESSION OF CITY COUNCIL HELD ON MONDAY

Filling of Receway is Referred Back to Committee

BY-LAWS PASSED

The City Council had before it a complaint from James Alexander, resident on Station Street regarding the methods used by the Fire Department in fighting a fire at the corner of Cannifton Road and Reid Street two weeks ago and all the evidence in the matter will be laid before the Fire Committee at an early date, it was decided last night at the regular session of the council after Mr. Alexander and Fire Chief Lynch had been heard and a letter read by the Chairman of Fire, Alderman Laurie Lewis from L. B. Bishop, an inspector in the Fire Marshal's Department of Toronto on his investigation of this particular fire.

Mr. Alexander appearing before the council stated he took exception to the report given of a fire at the corner of Cannifton Road and Reid Street some time ago. He stated, that when he came to the house in question, there was only one line of hose laid on the South side, and that he went around to the north side to help remove some articles from the house. At this point, Ald. Lewis asked that Fire Chief Lynch be admitted to the council chamber to hear the complaint and his request was granted.

Mr. Alexander continuing his complaint stated that while on the north side of the house he noticed flames but there were no firemen present. "Seventeen windows were broken in the house, which was quite unnecessary in my belief," said Mr. Alexander. "When I saw the flames I told the firemen to come around and apply water and at that time Chief Lynch appeared and he said, "You don't know anything about fighting fire and I am the Chief and will direct the firemen in their work."

Carrying Out Articles

"At this point," continued the speaker, "I told him that he made plenty of mistakes and the crowd standing nearby started to laugh and jeer. I then asked Mr. Van Meer if everything was all out of the house and, receiving a negative answer, went upstairs and while going up said 'Is it not a shame the way they wreck a place.' The Chief was nearby and he said, "Look here, Alexander, I am the Fire Chief around here." "I said to him, you parade around and don't do anything and at this point the Chief called Constable Evans and had me sent downstairs. I wrote a piece to the paper, but they unfortunately would not print it. The Chief claims the house was full of smoke and it was necessary to break the windows to let the smoke out but I could not see any great amount and I was around the fire from its start until the brigade left.

"I told the chief during another argument," said Mr. Alexander, "that if I had a fire I would rather send for house wreckers than Belleville fire fighters. I also told him, that when the brigade was called to a fire at the Belleville Foundry a short time ago, the brigade went to the Belleville Lock Company on Pinnacle Street."

"I also saw at the Van Meer fire three firemen on the back roof pecking holes in it and one fireman picked up a piece of ice and threw it through a front window. Mr. Valleau was trying to get his stove out and a fireman came along and said, "I will show you how, and he took an axe and knocked two legs off the stove and wrenched the stove free from the tank fixture."

Turned Over to Committee

Mayor Bone at this point suggested, that the complaint was a matter for the Fire Committee. Chief Lynch was then called and stated that it was true one of the fire companies had made a mistake in going to the Belleville Foundry fire and went to Pinnacle Street, but that the pumper had proceeded to the proper place and no time was lost in fighting the blaze. The Chief also stated that when he arrived at the house in question after fighting a chimney blaze on Emily Street one could not see the house for smoke and I ordered the windows broken so the men could get the hose quickly on the seat of the fire. "The whole entire attic was on fire", said Chief Lynch, "and the congestion in that particular place might have caused an explosion and it was necessary to fight the fire and fight it quickly at that particular spot. I told Alexander he had no right to be in the house as I was in charge of operations. As for the stove the men working on it trying to get it out were twisting it and I showed them how to get it out without breaking."

Letter is Produced

Alderman Lewis told the members, that as a layman he had examined the fire and thought the brigade did a good job. "The house was nothing but a fire trap" said Ald. Lewis. "There was a lot of tar paper lying around and the Fire brigade was lucky to save the house with so little damage. I have a letter in my hand from the Fire Marshal's Department in Toronto, which will give a detailed statement of the fire after investigation by that department and I think you will find, that the Belleville Department is vindicated in every respect. "I wonder if people realize in this city, that according to the records of the Fire Marshal's department, Chief Lynch is considered one of the best three Fire Chiefs from Toronto to Montreal and one of the best six in the Province of Ontario", said Ald. Lewis.

Ald. Logan, "I can't understand a man of the calibre of Mr. Alexander coming to this council and making such statements unless it be in a vindictive nature."

Ald. Lewis, "He is just a mischief-maker of the worst sort."

A member of the council moved that the debate be closed and if Mr. Alexander wished he could take his complaint to the Fire Committee and the council passed on to other business.

Letter Read

The letter received from the Fire Marshal's Department in Toronto was as follows:—

March 30. 1939

Mr. Laurie Lewis,
Chairman of the Fire Dept.,
Belleville, Ontario.

Dear Sir:

I made an inspection of a property which is reported to be owned by Mr. VanMeer and Mrs. Hanna Brophy, which is located at the corner of Cannifton Road and Reid Street at Belleville. This property having been on fire on March 22.

It was reported to me that there were certain complaints being made about the fire department in fighting this fire correctly and causing unnecessary damage.

According to statements of the Chief, and the evidence seen at the building in question, it is quite evident that the fire occurred in the vicinity of a chimney on the ground floor and then it travelled in between the walls upward to the attic and half of the attic had been on fire. The exterior walls show evidence of considerable smoke being forced between clapboards which leads one to believe that there must have been an enormous amount of smoke in this attic to which the firemen could not enter, and it was necessary to cut a hole in the ceiling to get into the attic. It is also necessary in fires such as this to remove part of the plaster from walls and ceiling where it is suspected fire is travelling.

It must be realized that the building in question is a large frame structure, really two dwellings semi-detached and the roof is of wooden shingles which are extremely old, and if the fire was not subdued immediately on the arrival of the department, it was in grave danger, not only in losing this structure, but the wooden shingles on fire would undoubtedly have gone to other buildings and could easily result in a conflagration, and knowing your Chief, I am positive that he had this in mind when he played three lines of hose on this building, but it is also to the credit of the fire department that they removed the furniture of the building, mainly because there was no insurance on it. This, of course, takes time and men, but it also shows that your department is on its job.

I can't see how any intelligent person who knows anything about fire-fighting could criticize the actions of your fire department in fighting this fire. Quite frankly, I feel they are to be commended for the little damage they have done to the furniture and to the building, when one considers the type of structure, the amount of the building involved in fire and the difficulty in being able to reach it.

Yours very truly,
L. J. Bishop. Inspector.

Lengthy Report

A lengthy report was received from City Engineer Mott respecting the filling in of the raceway behind a number of business places on Front Street and also a recommendation that the work be done according to the details of the report but the council were not quite sure that it would be a wise investment until some assurance was given that the owners of the property would deed the amount of land required to the city. The members agreed with Ald. Jennings chairman of Regional Planning that the work would be a benefit but that the plan was not quite mature enough to warrant action and the report was therefore sent back to the committee for further consideration and in the meantime the committee was asked to bring in more concrete proposals. The report of the City Engineer follows:

Old Kentucky CIGARETTES

Re: Raceway Filling and Sewer Connections

Dear Sir:

I beg to report that I have completed a survey of the properties on the west side of Front Street abutting on the raceway which leads from the Fruit Machinery Company southerly to the City Hotel property. There are fourteen individual properties located in this area of which seven have the sewage emptying into the raceway. These properties are listed as follows:

1. Fruit Machinery Company
2. Wannamaker Property
3. Belvedere Hotel
4. Adams Estate
5. J. B. Boyce
6. Mrs. George Thompson
7. Fairfield Estate

I have located an old book of records which show that sewer laterals were constructed in this area from the main sewer into the street line about the year 1912. From measurements made it appears that one of these laterals was constructed in the gangway of the Belvedere Hotel. The owner of the property at that time was Thomas Haslip. Another lateral is shown running into the Bowler property, which at that time was occupied by Jake Pinkle.

The ground elevation will permit of the extension of the Belvedere lateral towards the west to provide an outlet to accommodate the sewage from the Fruit Machinery Company, the Wannamaker property and the Belvedere Hotel, as well as from the Adams Estate property. This lateral extension will require a certain amount of rock excavation and the laying of tile, which, I have estimated, will cost around $100.

The sewer pipes from the J. B. Boyce property, Mrs. George Thompson property and the Fairfield Estate all appear to empty into one drain which empties into the raceway at the rear of the Thompson property. The records show that no sewer laterals were ever constructed into these properties from the main sewer on Front Street. Therefore, it would be necessary to construct one new sewer lateral to provide an outlet for the sewage from the J. B. Boyce property and Mrs. George Thompson's property. Another new sewer lateral will have to be constructed from the main sewer to provide an outlet for the sewage from the Fairfield Estate property. I have estimated that these two laterals will cost approximately $225.00 each, as there will be considerable work involved in their construction through having to cut into the Front St. pavement. These two laterals would be constructed all the way into the building line, so that the plumbing fixtures could be readily connected to the sewer tile. This would make a total cost for sewer laterals of $550.00.

In addition to this work there will be the extra expenditure for alterations to the soil pipes inside the respective buildings. I have estimated this expense to be as follows:

1. Fruit Machinery Company	$50.00
2. Wannamaker Property ..	15.00
3. Belvedere Hotel	75.00
4. Adams Estate	20.00
5. J. B. Boyce	80.00
6. Mrs. G. Thompson	60.00
7. Fairfield Estate	100.00
	$400.00

I would consider it a fair arrangement to have this inside work carried out by the individual property owners at their own expense, providing the City makes the expenditure of $550.00 for the construction of the sewer laterals on the street. Of course, it will be entirely a matter for this council to decide whether or not they wish these arrangements carried out in return for permission given to the City to fill in the raceway for the purpose of completing a driveway and parking area along the east bank of the Moira River.

In addition to the work as outlined above, an extra expenditure amounting to $300.00 will be necessary to cover the cost of equipment and foreman's time to fill in the raceway, as explained in my report of March 16th. However, there might be a possibility of reducing this cost if we were able to carry out negotiations with Mr. Howe who is now working on the contract of clearing the grounds at the old Kyle House location. There is considerable material here which could be used as fill, but Mr. Howe would have to know almost immediately whether or not the City are agreeable to allowing him to dump this material in the raceway. There is also a possibility that Mr. Howe may obtain the contract for the removal of the Belvedere Garage which would again provide additional fill.

The attached plan shows the present sewer connections to the raceway marked in solid red lines. The dotted red lines show the main sewer on Front Street and the existing sewer laterals. The green lines show the location of the proposed sewer laterals and extensions as outlined in this report.

Yours respectfully.
Charles A. Mott,
City Engineer.

By-Law is Ordered

City Solicitor A. B. Collins sent a report to the committee headed by Alderman Rollins respecting the prohibiting of selling home cooking and canned goods on the Belleville Market and recommended that the present by-law be amended incorporating the wording of new paragraphs which would allow the same. The letter as given was accepted by the Retail Merchants Association according to Ald. Allin and a recommendation that a new by-law be drawn incorporating the amending paragraphs. The motion was passed unanimously. The letter from Mr. Collins respecting the matter is herewith given.

Attention Alderman Rollins Re Market By-law

Dear Mr. Holmes:

Since last night's meeting, which I was privileged to attend, I have checked the material used when the present Market By-law was prepared. Section 2 thereof, from the interpretation of which some confusion seems to have arisen, was evidently drafted after the By-law of the City of Hamilton regulating the Central Market. The Committee at that time gave considerable thought to the revision of the By-law and considered the By-laws as in force in a number of other Cities and it was the unanimous opinion that that part of the Hamilton By-law which was adopted was appropriate for conditions existing in Belleville.

From the observation made by a number of patrons of the Belleville Market at last night's meeting it would appear as though the confusion has arisen from an attempt to interpret the By-law too literally. There appears to exist some doubt as to the right of vendors to bring upon the market home-made cooking products, canned and pickled fruit, vegetables and meats, marmalades, etc. In as much as these are products of the farm, garden or dairy the words used in the By-law, namely, "other farm, garden or dairy products" would contemplate the products mentioned. However should the Committee still feel that the By-law should be amended a section might be added thereto by way of interpretation of the words "farm, garden or dairy produce". Such interpretation section might take the following form:

"Farm, garden or dairy produce" as used in Section 2 hereof, shall be construed to mean—all commodities produced from the farm, garden or dairy of a bona fide producer in farm, garden or dairy products; and without limiting the generality thereof shall include home-made cooking products, canned and pickled fruits, vegetables and meats, marmalades, salads and all products produced from the farm, garden or dairy.

The other matter arising out of last night's discussion was that of proof by vendor that he is the producer of the products offered for sale, which might be covered in a section somewhat as follows:

"Any vendor using the Belleville Market for the sale of his products, shall whenever requested to do so, by the Market Lessee, or person in charge of the market, or of any Police Officer, produce written proof that he is the producer of the products exhibited for sale."

Yours very truly,
A. B. Collins.
City Solicitor

Audit Situation

The special committee appointed with respect to an independent audit for the city reported to the council and the same was accepted without comment. The report was—

The Committee consisting of Aldermen Haig, Marshall and Jennings appointed to report on the advisability of appointing a person in a supervisory capacity over certain departments in the City Hall to co-ordinate the work of the different departments in an effort to improve the efficiency of the administration went into the matter from all angles. It was decided that such a move would be advisable and in the best interests of efficient administration. We are therefore recommending that an audit of the Financial Statement of the City for 1938 be made and that if during the course of such an audit it becomes apparent that it would be advisable to conduct same into previous years that such a plan be considered at that time.

We would further recommend that after the audit is concluded that an official be appointed to supervise the installation of recommendations which the auditors will undoubtedly make and that such an official should have as much supervisory control over the various departments in the City Hall as the Council feels it would be expedient to make in view of such recommendations. We would also suggest that the recommendations of the Auditor, Mr. Chamberlain, accompanying the tabling of his report for 1938 be received and discussed with the external auditors and reviewed in the light of their recommendations.

We would further recommend that as soon as tenders are in from auditors already approached that Council review tenders as soon as possible so that the audit herewith recommended can be proceeded with without delay.

All of which is respectfully submitted, A. McLean Haig, Burton F. Jennings, Jack A. Marshall.

Opposed Expenditure

Ald. Harvey opposed the attendance of Mayor Bone and Ald. Haig at a convention to be held in Ottawa on April 11th to 13th. The Alderman stated if anyone from this council wanted to attend the conference they should pay their own way but the Council as a whole thought differently and the members were voted to attend the meeting. Mayor Bone will also attend a meeting of the Mayors' Association at the same time.

A committee of Alderman Lewis, J. H. Lazenby P. C. MacLaurin, Fred Jobson and O. W. Duff was appointed to make arrangements regarding the visit of Their Majesties to Belleville on May 21st at 8.00 p.m. and said committee to call Charles A. Cameron M.P., R. D. Arnott, M.L.A., Wing Commander D. C. M. Hume, Chief Kidd, Lt.-Col. Gribole, and Lt.-Col. T. Y. Wills if and as required and also that the City Clerk enquire if any room is being provided for Belleville and district residents at Kingston on May 21st. Mayor Bone explained that the stop at Belleville will only be an 'operating stop' and that Their Majesties might object to making a personal appearance on Sunday but there is a possibility if a large crowd gathers Their Majesties will come out on the platform of their car to extend their greetings.

Thanks Extended

The thanks of the Retail Merchants to the Public Works Department were extended for the splendid work that was done on the Front Street during the recent storms. Ald. Kennedy was also personally thanked by the council for his work in this respect. A complaint was registered about the condition of the road east of the city and Mayor Bone stated he was going to take the matter up with Hon. T. B. McQuesten of the Department of Highways at once. The council got into a short discussion over the purchase of fourteen overcoats, recommended by the Fire Committee. Ald. Cushing stated he was very much opposed to buying these coats, when the winter was nearly over but Ald. Lewis defended the purchase by stating that the cloth would be the same as that purchased earlier in the season. Ald. Rollins suggested that the tender could be passed and the coats delivered in the fall but Ald. Kennedy was not agreeable to purchase of the coats at the present time. Ald. Harvey stated he was surprised that Ald. Thompson was in favor of this purchase. The coats will be bought as well as 19 suits at $22.50 each and a Chief's suit at $35.00. Alderman Harvey, Kennedy and Cushing voted against the purchase of the overcoats.

Smoke By-Law Passed

The smoke nuisance by-law before the council on many occasions was passed through the various stages and now becomes law.

There was no discussion on the by-law excepting that the penalty for the first offence was changed from $50 to $25. License for all pin machines in the city was set at $100 each and slot machines at $200. Authority was granted to build a cement sidewalk on the west side of McDonald Avenue under the Local Improvement Act and a deed of conveyance was granted to Roy Tracey, Boland and Boland and Clinton H. McDonald. Another by-law was passed authorizing the changes at the Shell Oil Company. There being no further business the council adjourned at ten o'clock.

Shanghai, Apr. 4 (AP)—Severe fighting was carried west of Kaoan today as Japanese invaders pushed an advance from Nanchang, Kwangsi Province capital, deeper into the interior toward Changsha, in Hunan. The Japanese thrust was directed from Tsingan and Fengsin, 35 and 30 miles respectively northwest of Nanchang.

Hamburg, Germany, Apr. 4 (AP)—Chancellor Hitler disembarked today from the "strength through joy" steamship Robert Ley, ending a two day North Sea cruise. A cheering throng greeted him.

Hendaye, France, Apr. 4 (AP)—Spanish Nationalist reports today told of a widespread round-up by General Franco's military police of Republican leaders. Many arrests have been made, these reports said, principally in the vicinity of Alicante where a number of Republican leaders fled after the surrender of Madrid.

Among the prisoners was Pedro Perero Villapalos, whom Nationalist attaches described as "one of the assassins of Calvo Sotelo". The slaying of Calvo Sotelo, a monarchist leader, in July 1936 was one of the immediate causes of the civil war.

Chorzow, Poland, Apr. 4 (AP)—Police said today they had got to the bottom of one of Poland's so-called anti-German incidents—the smashing of windows in a German high school for boys.

The officers said they found several of the students were responsible and that the boys told them the window smashing was suggested to them by a German resident of Chorzow.

Vatican City, Apr. 4 (AP)—A Vatican News Service disclosed today that Vatican authorities were studying means of protecting Pope Pius in the event of air raids. Prelates suggested that an inner room of the great tower of Pope Nicholas V. (A.D. 1447-1455) could be used as a refuge for the Pontiff in time of danger. This tower has a metal-encased room built to safeguard church treasures and rare documents.

Moscow, Apr. 4 (AP)—An appeal for "genuine" collective resistance against aggression — resistance "designed to safeguard the security of all peaceful states, both small and large"—was voiced today in Le Journal De Moscou, French language newspapers which frequently speaks for the Soviet Foreign Office. Le Journal De Moscou cautioned against making Poland the keystone in the arch of European peace.

Free City of Danzig, Apr. 4 (AP)—Wilhelm Huth, Vice-President of the Danzig Senate, told the Chamber of Industry and Commerce today that "we shall never yield our essential rights for living to Poland."

"Besides," Huth said, "Germany is now so strong she will not stand for having our rights diminished."

Huth told the chamber that there still were 5,090 Jews in Danzig but that their influence had been broken.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

(Copyright, 1937, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

Is Marriage Popular?

Who is happier, the bachelor or the married man?

American men have made up their minds, it seems, upon this important subject. They come out squarely for married bliss—seventy-eight per cent of them are in agreement—according to a survey recently undertaken. And that's a pretty big majority. Let's look into this interesting census. Perhaps you'll be surprised to see what it proves.

For there's a good deal to be said on both sides of the question.

First, however, let's take the case of the bachelor. With a good job, and complete control of his own time and money, he comes pretty near to being ideally free. No domestic slavery for him. No household bills to stagger under. No "in-laws" to demand attention. No children to be shod and schooled and seen through whooping-cough. If he likes, he can devote himself to a dozen pretty girls at once. Or he can limit himself to one superlative siren. Utterly without responsibilities, he doesn't have to account for his comings and goings, his spendings and savings, to any human creature.

Just compare his lot with that of the husband and father who has to scratch hard six days a week to support a family, who almost never has time or money to watch ball games or go on fishing-trips or whatever it may be that he personally enjoys.

Which manner of life would you think preferable?

As a matter of fact, men don't have to debate this question. They know. And there's a big thrill for us onlookers, particularly for women, to find that men, in looking at life, by no means overlook love.

Marriage is better than bachelorhood. The married man is happier than the unmarried. And this is no guesswork. Men themselves have said so,—multitudes of them. And they are willing to stand by what they've said.

Happiness in life is made by love that it what their statements boil down to. A loveless life, however smooth and easy it may seem to be, is really no life at all.

An enviable creature he knows himself to be, the man who has succeeded in marrying his best girl, whose job suffices for a comfortable little home, no matter if it's restricted to two or three rooms, who has at least one enchanting and healthy baby with the hope of others latter on, who loves devotedly and is loved in return.

There's a deep content in knowing that you haven't dodged life, that you're living humanly and naturally. There's a ceaseless wonder for a happily mated pair in the fact that they matter so much to each other, that practically nothing else in the world, except the babies, matters very much.

Bachelors and benedicts alike, American men have gone on record in favor of the normal happy married life. Who wants to be a bachelor, say at Christmas time? They're a lonely lot and they know it. Having other people to live for is a thousand times sweeter and more interesting than living for oneself. Loving somebody, and being loved, is the only meaning that life has.

Besides, to a contented married man, a bachelor seems just a wee bit ridiculous. Wouldn't the right girl marry him? And if not, why wouldn't she? Or is he too stingy to share his income, even when it's a case of buying happiness? Or is he so dull as not to guess what true happiness is?

Anyway, his fellow men are sorry for him, as they should be.

Thoughtless People Bring No Pleasure

If there is one quality common to all human beings I have ever met it is the one of liking to be liked. Well, now, if we all want to be popular with others, quite naturally we should try to make ourselves popular.

From this it would seem that there are certain qualities we admire in people, and other qualities which we could get along very nicely without.

I like attractive people; so do you . . . babies, pudgy school boys, college seniors, cheery bus conductors, dear old ladies with white aprons. . . . all kinds, just so long as they have attractive personalities.

I don't enjoy people who are always thinking of themselves, and I'm sure you don't either. They can't seem to get past the thought of the effect they are making on others. I've noticed . . .and doubtless you have, too . . that thoughtless people don't give very much pleasure to those about them, boys and girls who are thoughtless to Mother and Father, people who are sullen in manner, quick-tempered, moody. Discourtesy isn't the way to make friends, not to mention keeping them.

People who appraise themselves too highly (conceited, we call it), while apparently they always please themselves, seldom arouse the same degree of admiration in anyone else. However satisfied we are with ourselves, we had best not wear our own esteem on our sleeves. Once in a while we should toss off a gay bit of spontaneous enthusiasm for someone else It helps!

"As the tree is bent, so will it grow." If we learn early to be pleasing in our personal appearance to enhance it with a warm and winning personality, to radiate to others our own zest for life, to forget ourselves a little by taking thought of our neighbours, we shall taste the sweetness of sincere admiration and garner life's richest harvest . . . the love of devoted friends.

Hilaire Belloc puts the idea beautifully:

"Of courtesy; it is much less
Than courage of heart or Holiness
But in my walks it seems to me
That the Grace of God is in Courtesy".

DR. DAFOE'S COLUMN on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Insuring Your Child's Future

Sometimes I think that parents do not realize how much they can do to insure their baby of a happy life. So today I am going to run over a few things that I think every baby has right to receive from his parents.

The first thing of all is a healthy mother. It is the parents' responsibility to see that the mother's health is carefully guarded before the baby's birth and after.

When the baby is born, the doctor takes on the responsibility of seeing that it gets along well for the first few days. But later on, when it's the parents' job to look after the child, I have found several things that are apt to be overlooked.

One of the most common is the teeth. In a way, the teeth are just like the baby—they have to be cared for before they come if they're to be given the best chance. Many parents do not realize that unless the temporary teeth are looked after properly, the permanent ones are likely to be crooked or weak.

Then many parents neglect to have their children protected against smallpox and diphtheria. This protection is so harmless—I have never seen any harm come from it and I have done many hundreds of cases—and is such an important piece of insurance for the child that every one should receive it.

If parents will begin from the first to follow the rules of physical hygiene for their child, they will be giving him insurance against suffering from the deficiency diseases caused by faulty diet or from tuberculosis or the other diseases that strike the child who does not get the proper rest, exercise, pure milk and sunshine.

Remember, too, that by teaching the child to mix with others and do things for himself as far as it is safe, parents can be sure they are giving their child the best chance of developing a good personality—insurance that he'll be able to earn a living when he grows up. Some people are so sheltered in childhood that when they come to the stage when they have to look after themselves, they are not fit to do it.

A sound mind and a sound body are the most important things a child may inherit but, on the other hand, a little thought on the part of the parents when the child is young will help the child a great deal when he begins to earn his on living.

It would be a fine thing if all parents would put aside something for their children, in the way of money, and I think that one of the best ways is insurance. I remember how useful I found it when I had the benefit of an insurance my father had taken out for me when I was a child. It helped a lot when I was starting out in practice. I have seen dozens of other cases where insurance has helped a person go through university or get a start in business when it would not have been possible except for the parents' thoughtfulness.

Don't Be Mistaken About Constipation!

A great many people, when they are constipated, open the medicine closet, take a purgative, and try to forget—until the ailment returns. And generally it comes back — more and more often — until you find the cause.

If, like most people, you eat bread, meat, potatoes—the cause of your ailment is probably lack of "bulk." And "bulk" does not mean quantity of food, but the kind of food that is incompletely assimilated and leaves a soft mass in the bowels that helps the bowel movement.

If that is the reason for your ailment, eat a good bowl of Kellogg's crispy All-Bran for breakfast. It forms the necessary "bulk", and contains Vitamin B₁, the natural intestinal tonic.

Eat some All-Bran every day, drink lots of water, and become "regular." Made in London, Canada, by Kellogg. At all grocers.

KINGSTON ROAD W.A.

On March the seventh an all-day meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Chas. Grass. After twenty members and ten visitors partook of a very sumptuous dinner provided by Mrs. Grass and Mrs. Garbutt the meeting was called to order by the President Mrs. McDonald.

The roll call was answered with a quarter yard of print donated by each member. The day was spent quilting a large quilt. The meeting was closed with a hearty vote of thanks to the two ideal hostesses Mrs. Grass and Mrs. Garbutt. The proceeds were more than satisfactory due to a number of gentlemen joining at the dinner hour.

On March 24th., Mr. and Mrs. H. Walkom very generously opened their home for a social evening. A large number assembled and the program opened with Mrs. Garbutt in the chair in the absence of the president, Mrs McDonald.

Community singing led by Mr. Ridley got the evening well on its way. The program consisted of an instrumental by Miss Dorothy McDonald and guitar solos by Mrs. Kingston and Mr. George Weymark.

Duet, humorous, by Ernie Gazely and Ross Gregory.

A vegetarian contest and Shakesperian plays, a contest, were among the amusing things of the evening. A balloon contest also proved interesting. Each one for a cent could step on the scales and get their weight and a fortune and what a fortune. This created a great deal of amusement.

Mr. and Mrs. Walkom were voted ideal host and hostess.

The evening's proceeds were very satisfactory.

On March 29th Mrs. Gazely very graciously opened her home for a special meeting. The purpose being the quilting of a quilt. Ten willing members were present and succeeded in finishing the quilt after which the hostess served a very dainty lunch.

Weddings

CANE—FEE

MARMORA, (Special) — A picturesque early Spring wedding was solemnized Saturday afternoon in the Church of the Redeemer, Toronto, when Mary Isobel Fee, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fee, Thornhill, became the bride of Charles Cane of Cordova Mines, son of Sheriff and Mrs. W. H. S. Cane, Toronto. After the ceremony a reception was held at the Grantite Club. Following the honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Cane will take up residence in Cordova Mines.

3rd. Sidney

Mrs. Newman of Belleville, addresses Aikens Congregation

3rd Sidney — (Special) — The Easter Thank-offering Service of Aiken's Woman's Missionary Society was held at their church on Sunday afternoon with Mrs. (Rev.) R. Newman of Belleville, as guest speaker.

The President of the Society Mrs. Thos. Irwin was in charge of the Service. The choir rendered an anthem, Miss Jewel Bailey, a reading and Master Gordon Grills another member of the Mission Band, an Easter recitation.

In her timely address "The Church is Challenged", Mrs. Newman said, "as we approach Holy Week we must remember the foundation of our Christian Churches was the death and resurrection of Christ. Humanity needs Christ and the Easter message. Christian Churches of today are faced with a crisis——they are attacked from without. Let us ask ourselves as we think through this Easter week, if all Christians were like us how far would Christianity spread?" Mrs. Newman quoted Leslie Weatherhead of London, England, as saying too many want the form of religion, but not the force of it. Much of the world's chaos of today could have been averted, she continued had not men and nations left God out of their lives. Ninety per cent of church members are spiritually minded it has been said, without the vital force that comes with a complete surrender to God's will. If petty sin persists in the life of the Christian it does greater harm, the speaker believes than communism. Let us face these problems squarely she said, surrendering daily, keeping it up to date, that is what makes Christianity vital, said Mrs. Newman.

She urged that as church members not to expect ease, softness, praise and worldly success. Christianity has spread through persecution. Jesus did not compromise—rather he chose the Cross! A beautiful poem—"The Cross Was His Own" was read by Mrs. Newman and that Cross she said was a challenge to the church and its members. The Thank-offering was $19.70.

If You're Falling for Hair Ornament Craze Be Sure You Select Right One

MATCHING. . . . her orchid hair ornament with fuchsia finger-tips.

(By HELEN FOLLETT)

WHEN a young lady gets a notion that she wants to wear a rose tucked behind her ear or a feather in her hair, she must count ten and act slowly. Hair ornaments have become a madness. They're beautiful and chic, but if you don't get exactly the right one you're going to look all dressed up like a circus horse.

Those high-posed, ravishing affairs of tinsel, artificial flowers and all sorts of lala stuff look best on the tall, regal person who carries her dry goods with dignity and elan. The girl of abbreviated inches will do well to confine herself to some of the simpler effects, sparkling clips or flat flowers. A tiara of feathers or cellophane posies are grand for the dowager, but overpowering on the young person.

If you would be strictly in the fashion parade, you can have matched hair ornament and corsage bouquet. Cute idea, isn't it?

Those Prince of Wales ostrich tips are only for the most formal occasion, to be worn with luscious velvets, gorgeous brocades, or other expensive fabrics.

The metal bandeau holds up the high hair-do, is Grecian enough to have a friendly feeling for curls placed midway between crown and nape line Gold quills are a novelty. When you wear them you film your eyelids with gold shadows. That's sumpin!

Everything is fuchsia these days. Fuchsia fabrics for your spring toggery, the same color for lipstick and finger-nail polish. It is a madness.

There's no nicer lipstick tint for the woman with the sallow skin. And of course her finger-tips must match Fuchsia you understand is not a purple-red, it is a lovely combination of red, mauve and cloudy grey. It has richness.

Orange-reds seem to be tagging along at the end of the make-up parade, yet they are the best selections for the red-headed girl, especially if her hair has a coppery cast. There are tints and tones for all types. Look 'em over.

Fatted calves are a pain in the heart for many a girl They're hateful. They should never have got that way in the first place; would not have if there had been strict regard for diet, a passing up of the good grub that builds adipose tissue.

Walk tippy toe whenever you think of it. Pulls hard on muscles; hard-working muscles won't stand for any fat cells around the premises. Jump rope five minutes twice a day.

Clasp the hands around the ankles, go kneading and pounding up to the knees, pressing inward with the thumbs, squeezing the flesh between the fingers. Measure before you start on this campaign. You'll be surprised.

"ENVOY EXTRAORDINARY"

by E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

After that there was a few moments lull.

"The Dutchman doesn't seem to be getting much," Matresser muttered. "I haven't heard his gun since he shot that pigeon."

"I wonder where he is," Elisabeth speculated. "You told him to keep twenty or thirty yards ahead but I cannot see him."

"Neither can I," her companion exclaimed with some irritation. "I'm not surprised. Humphreys was complaining about him only this morning. He is always about twenty or thirty yards ahead of the line. I expect he is almost at the other end of the wood by now."

He pointed into the wood. Half a dozen cock pheasants had risen from a holly bush which should have been within a few yards of van Westrheene's beat, and a moment later a woodcock came lobbing up which Matresser, with a long shot, secured.

"His bird, but he wasn't there."

Then, for the first time, Matresser turned his head and looked behind him down the parallel ride. Almost at the same instant a little gleam of sunshine broke through the scanty foliage of a tall ash tree and flashed upon something brilliant. Matresser had no time to shout. He caught Elisabeth by the wrist and flung her to the ground, sprawling down himself by her side. They heard the buzzing of shot exactly where Matresser's head had been!

Matresser sprang up as the echoes of the report died away. Half way between the next ride and his own, well behind him instead of in front, the Dutchman was cowering behind a tree.

"My God!" Matresser exclaimed. "He tried to shoot me! Stay where you are, Elisabeth."

With his gun charged, watching every movement of the Dutchman, Matresser plunged into the undergrowth. Van Westrheene seemed to hesitate for a moment but his half-raised gun came down under his arm. He gave a little shout of horror.

"Ach, but I am sorry!" he cried. "There was a low woodcock. I would not have shot but I thought you were behind."

Matresser made no reply. He strode through the bushes recklessly. In a few moments he had reached the Dutchman.

"Didn't I tell you to keep twenty yards ahead of us?" he asked fiercely.

"So I started to walk," van Westrheene explained. "I paused to light a cigarette—so— and you must have passed on quicker than I thought. I regret deeply."

Matresser leaned his gun against a tree. His eyes were watching the Dutchman with a steely concentration. He strode up to him and laid his hand upon his gun.

"What is it that you wish?" van Westrheene demanded. "I am sorry. You would take my gun away?"

"Break it," Matresser ordered. Van Westrheene obeyed, handing the gun to Matresser who drew out the second cartridge, glanced at it and thrust it into his pocket.

"Number threes," he exclaimed. "You would try to shoot woodcock and pheasants with number threes, van Westrheene! Why not a rifle and have done with it?"

"I fill my bag from an old box," the other declared angrily. "I did not look at every cartridge. There are sixes and sevens here."

"I see," Matresser observed. "The threes were there just in case, I suppose!"

"You cannot suppose," the Dutchman shouted, "that I wish to commit murder!"

"If I had not turned round at that precise moment and the sun had not flashed on the barrel of your gun, that is precisely what you would have done."

"Am I a lunatic then that I should try to shoot my friend in his own woods?" van Westrheene demanded. "What have I to gain by such folly? I beg you will permit me to pass. I wish to make my apologies to Mademoiselle."

Matresser seized the Dutchman's gun by the barrels and threw it twenty or thirty yards away into the undergrowth, then he picked up his own weapon.

"Do you see that gate?" he pointed out. "That's the way home—the way you came. Take it and get on your boat as quickly as you can."

"But my gun!"

"You shall have it back tomorrow if it pleases me to send it back. I may deposit it at the police station instead. Do as I tell you. The gate!"

Van Westrheene's features were convulsed with fury. For a moment it seemed as though he were about to spring at his antagonist. The veins of his forehead were swollen and his fists were clenched. Matresser, however, handling his gun with perfect calmness, watched him with an almost tigerish gleam in his eyes. The Dutchman swung round and flung himself through the undergrowth in a straight line for the gate.

"You do not think," Elisabeth asked Matresser when he rejoined her, "that he shot at us on purpose?"

"He shot at me and he meant killing," Matresser replied gravely. "The blackguard had number three cartridges in each barrel of his gun."

"But why? What have you done to him?"

"Not half what I should like to," he answered under his breath.

She passed her arm through his.

"Well, it was all very thrilling," she said. "I could not make it out at first. I thought you were angry because he had been careless, then I saw his face and I knew there was more in it. When you strode up to him and took the gun away I was terrified."

"These oversized men," he told her smiling, "always crumple up easily."

That afternoon Matresser entered his study somewhat precipitately and shook his fist at the faithful Yates.

"Look here," he expostulated. "I wish you would leave off waving that wretched old shirt of yours out of the window. Surely you have got through your message by now."

Yates returned the handkerchief to his pocket and retired into the shadows of the rooms.

"It was not a shirt, sir However I have finished [illegible] me to tea with her on board the yacht, to say goodbye."

"I thought they would be leaving soon," his master observed. "You can't" go Henry. I've lost my confidence in that little outfit. I'm not going to have you whisked off to the German Archipelago or some such inaccessible place. The yacht is out of bounds, remember. You can pursue your amorous adventures and your deep-laid schemes in the parlor of the Matresser Arms."

"You will permit me to write a note," Yates begged.

"By all means," his employer assented. "Madame will have plenty to tell you. I am going to give the harbor master notice that the Daphne is to go out on tomorrow evening's tide at the latest."

Henry Yates blinked behind his spectacles. His attitude indicated a desire for further information.

CHAPTER XXIV

"Carelessness with a gun," Matresser continued, "is a thing I never pardon. The Dutchman was more than careless this morning, so out he goes. You have until seven o'clock to say your farewells, Henry, but don't you trust yourself on board that yacht."

"Carlessness with a gun is always reprehensible," Yates murmured, "but are you sure that you are wise in letting them depart?"

"Why not?"

"Inspector Marlow arrived here a few minutes after you and Mademoiselle had gone down to the wood," Yates confided.

"What did he want?"

"Information about van Westrheene. He wanted it very badly and plenty of it."

Matresser tapped a cigarette gravely upon his blotter and lit it.

"This is rather a new idea, Henry."

"Not with me. Mademoiselle Rosa may be clumsy to look at but she has seen life from the cafes of Berlin, not of Amsterdam. She is also a professional nurse."

"Henry," his master said reprovingly, "you distress me. Do you mean to say that all the time you spent in gentle dalliance with that sweet friend of the Dutchman's, you had this in your mind?"

"From the very first," Yates assented.

"Perhaps," Matresser reflected, "as I shall be leaving the country at any moment it would be as well if we had a few words with regard to that murder. Inspector Marlow will have to be dealt with before we go."

"The murder," Henry Yates confided, "was probably committed by Mademoiselle Rosa. Mr. van Westrheene could have brought her to the door, picked the lock and waited for her. The papers and letter Fergus was carrying, were, of course, meant for you. Van Westrheene has come to this part of the world simply to spy on your movements."

"Vastly interesting," Matresser murmured. "If only I had known this before Sir Francis' visit I need not have broken my nail changing that tire on Mademoiselle Stamier's car."

"Quite unnecessary," Yates agreed.

There was a knock at the door. Burrows presented himself.

"Inspector Marlow is here and if convenient he would like a few words with your lordship," the man announced.

"Show him up. And Burrows — when you come, wait for a note Mr. Yates will have ready for you and see that it is delivered to John Long at the Harbor Master's office at once."

"Very good, milord."

Inspector Marlow turned out to be a pleasant, very much bespectacled young man of the new type in which Scotland Yard has become interested of late. He was in mufti and only his eyes, which were shrewd and penetrating, indicated any special measure of intelligence. Matresser welcomed him with a friendly nod.

"This is my secretary," he said, indicating Yates. "He knows a great deal more about this affair than I do and in any case you can speak quite freely before him. Any progress?"

The young man smiled.

"Plenty," he replied. "The only trouble is to know quite how much we are to use. That's why I came down with Finch from the Yard. It's rather an unusual case."

"The facts are simple enough," Matresser observed.

"Yes, the facts are very simple," the young man repeated. "The only trouble is the complications with MI7B. I am the liason officer between MI7B and Scotland Yard. Finch naturally wants to make a clean job of it, which is, on the face of it, impossible."

"Where do I come in, so far as you are concerned?" Matresser asked bluntly.

"Your appearance in the matter is only a negative one. I am instructed not to allow any arrest without your permission."

"That," Matresser said firmly, "is of the utmost importance. Do I understand that you are in a position to put your hand upon the guilty person?"

"Not quite sir. We need a little more circumstantial evidence."

"Do you expect any help from me?"

"Not at all, sir. On the contrary, my general instructions were not to trouble you until the case was completed. Finch, however, is making matters difficult."

"In what respect?"

"He particularly wishes to ask a question or two of a member of your household. I told him that I must consult you first."

"Very considerate. Who is the person?"

"Mademoiselle Stamier, the young Austrian lady. I believe she holds the position of companion to your sister, Lady Ann."

"Quite right."

"It is always the foreigner that these Scotland Yard men suspect," Marlow observed. "Half a criminal already, according to them."

"Well, you won't find much of the criminal about Mademoiselle Stamier," Matresser assured his companion. "Henry," he said turning to Yates, "try and see if you can unearth the young lady. I rather believe she is playing squash."

Elisabeth came in, swinging her racquet, straight from the squash courts. The slight tinge of color in her cheeks was exceedingly becoming. Her eyes were bright, she seemed entirely free from any apprehensions. Nevertheless, Matresser's first few words seemed to come as a shock to her.

"I do not mind answering any questions, of course," she said doubtfully, "but what is there I can tell anyone about the matter? I was nowhere near Dr. Andrews' house on the day when the murder was supposed to take place."

She accepted the chair which Matresser had wheeled round for her and she faced her inquisitor.

"You have a small car here, have you not, Miss Stamier?"

"A tiny two-seater—yes."

"Did you drive into Norwich on Monday?"

"I think it was Monday—yes."

"Shopping?"

"I made some purchases. I also sent off some telegrams. This was the same day when the man was picked up in the turnip field and taken to the doctor's."

"Precisely," Marlow agreed. "It is just about the shopping I want to ask. You went to Callard, the chemist?"

"I did."

"I am not suggesting that it had anything to do with what actually occurred," Marlow continued smoothly, "but you did buy a hypodermic outfit there, didn't you?"

"I think I did—also some tooth powder and some orris root."

"Why did you buy the hypodermic syringe?"

"It was a commission."

"You bought it for someone else?"

"Yes."

"I am afraid I must ask you for whom?"

She frowned.

"I am quite sure that I am not inclined to tell you."

Marlow shrugged his shoulders and glanced towards Matresser. His silky tone had lost its courteous note. His manner, too, had changed. He explained:

"I am here to discover privately or publicly the person who administered poison to Fergus and stole his papers. It is obvious, therefore, that the subject of a recently acquired hypodermic syringe, of the same pattern as that discovered by the side of the murdered man, interests me."

"That syringe could have had nothing whatever to do with the one I purchased," Elisabeth asserted. A queer little silence followed. It became obvious that she did not intend to speak further.

"Very well," Marlow went on at last. "You bought a box containing a hypodermic syringe and some needles that afternoon of the same make as the one discovered by the dead man and you will not tell us for whom you purchased them. You will forgive my reminding you that in some circumstances you may be compelled to answer so vital a question. I will pass on, however. Have you any poison in your room such as might be injected into a body with a syringe?"

"I do not possess any poison of any sort," she declared.

"One more question I must trouble you with," Marlow concluded, speaking this time more in his old manner. "Have you any idea where that syringe which you bought in Norwich is now?"

"None whatever."

"Had you any acquaintance with Major Fergus?"

"None."

"You did not know that he was coming down here with important governmental papers for Lord Matresser?"

"I certainly did not, nor had I any idea," Elisabeth went on emphatically, "that Lord Matresser was expecting anything of the sort or that he was a person likely to receive governmental papers."

Marlow closed the book in which he had made a few notes and rose to his feet.

"Sorry to have been such a nuisance," he said. "Nothing more to ask you, Miss Stamier. If I could have just a word with you, Lord Matresser?"

"I may finish my game of squash, then?" Elisabeth asked, also rising.

"By all means," the young man answered.

Matresser opened the door and she passed out. For a moment on the threshold she paused and looked into his face. What she saw apparently satisfied her, for she waved her hand and departed with a smile.

"I hope you do not think," Marlow said as soon as the door was closed, "that I was in any way unnecessarily insistent with those questions?"

"Perhaps not," Matresser replied, "but at any rate you went quite far enough."

"There was no need to go further," Marlow remarked drily. "Miss Stamier told me all that I, or rather Finch, wishes to know."

"You would be a great deal wiser," Matresser said coldly, "and you would come a great deal nearer solving this mystery if you would put it out of your head that Miss Stamier could possibly have had anything to do with this affair. The purchase of a hypodermic syringe is an everyday affair."

"Nevertheless," Marlow persisted, "the fact that the syringe is found within a few feet of the person whose death we are here to investigate, naturally makes the purchase of some interest."

"I do not propose," Matresser said firmly, "to discuss this matter with you, Marlow. It is the decision of Sir Francis Tring that no charge of murder must be brought against anyone unless the evidence has first been placed before him. Find the criminal by all means, but your particular business, Marlow, is to see that Scotland Yard does not overstep the mark. A blunder on their part would bring about serious complications. There are greater issues at stake than the lives or deaths of a dozen men, even if they were all as good as Fergus."

Marlow's air was distinctly crestfallen.

"I am ranking myself on your side, of course," he acknowledged, "but you must admit that it is a little difficult for Scotland Yard to stay their arm altogether when a brutal murder has been committed."

CHAPTER XXV

"Well, difficult or not, it has to be done," Matresser said sternly, "and if you feel in the least doubt as to your instructions, you had better telephone once more to MI7B before you make any false move which would mean the removal of two very able officers from the service. There is to be no arrest until Downing Street permits it, even if you get confession."

Marlow, dejected and puzzled, took his leave. Yates stroked his chin for several moments thoughtfully. Once he moved towards the window and looked up at the sky, then he turned his shaggy head towards Matresser.

"Have you received word from London as to your destination, sir?" he asked.

Matresser smiled.

"For the first time in my life, little man," he replied, "I am not proposing to tell you. I shall be carrying the burden of a great many secrets. That big man down in the harbor, if he is here for the purpose I believe he is, would boil you alive to find them out."

"He wouldn't succeed."

"Boiling alive is an unpleasant death," Matresser observed.

"We have seen worse," Yates reminded him.

"One thing more," Matresser said emphatically.

The little man nodded.

"I can guess what it is."

"Don't let them bully Miss Stamier."

"It would be easier," Yates suggested, "if you were to get her to tell you why and for whom she bought that hypodermic syringe."

Once more the lights were flaming from behind every window of the Great House. Everyone crowded on to the terrace or on to the balcony above. Out of the clouds had come the roar of the engine of a slowly descending plane. In the centre of the Park every man upon the place was engaged in building up with dry timber the bonfire which was to guide the plane down.

Matresser was standing in the gunroom doorway. He started at a soft touch upon his shoulder.

It was Elisabeth who stood there, a transformed Elisabeth in a tailored suit and a small felt hat, with a row of woodcock feathers which he had himself arranged in the ribbon. She carried a fur coat upon her arm. He looked at her in astonishment.

"My dear—"

"Lord Matresser," she begged, "you must do something for me."

"Well?"

"This plane is coming for you, of course. I suppose it means another of your wild expeditions."

"Not that I know of," he assured her.

She pointed to the pile of gun cases, the well-filled cartridge magazines all standing neatly together.

"What about those?"

Matresser contemplated them calmly.

"Well, there has been a shooting expedition talked of," he admitted. "I thought I had better get ready."

"The shooting expedition that Sir Francis, your Foreign Secretary, came down to see you about, I suppose?" she demanded.

"Does that matter?" he asked.

She was silent for a few brief moments.

"You do not wish to tell me anything," she complained. "You have nothing to say? You were going to leave me alone here where people are beginning to think horrible things about me."

He threw away the cigarette he had been smoking.

"Elisabeth," he remonstrated. "It is not like you to talk like this. I have done everything I can to make your position secure. Any small risk that is left you must run. You may be called upon to face trouble. I am called upon to do what I think is right and I must do it."

"I want you to take me with you," she pleaded.

"Where to?" he asked.

"How do I know where you are going?" she demanded, stamping her foot upon the stone floor. "Whatever it may be—wherever I can escape from this atmosphere of doubt and unhappiness. You could put me down somewhere at one of the airports. I will be no trouble to you. I cannot breathe here any longer. I think that the servants have heard that I am suspected of having murdered that man. They know that I went to Norwich that afternoon. They look at me with suspicion. I wish to leave."

"But my dear," he remonstrated, "a word or two from you and everything will be put right even without my help. No one could imagine for a minute that you could possibly have committed a murder. The simplest thing to do, of course, would be to tell us frankly why you bought that wretched thing."

"That I shall not do."

"You make it a little difficult," he pointed out, "for those who wish to help you."

"I cannot help it," she replied.

Elisabeth had drawn as closely to his side as possible in the gunroom where all lights had been extinguished so that they might watch the descending plane. Her shivering body was close to his. For the first time that they had been together she seemed eager to creep into his arms. For some reason or other fear had overtaken her. She was terrified by the loneliness which had accompanied it. Her eyes pleaded with him. She was trembling for just a reassuring touch. Her lips would have been unlocked in a single moment if he had spoken the word.

Matresser was looking down at her perhaps with more kindliness in his eyes than she had ever seen there before, yet his mouth was hopelessly set, the lines in his face were deepened and he shook his head slowly.

"If I leave in that plane, he said, "I must leave alone. There is no changing that.'

"I would like, then, to leave in my own car," she announced.

He passed his arm through hers and drew her away through the great oak portals of the room and across the courtyard. The bonfire in the Park was burning brightly now and the plane was sweeping around it, slower and slower.

No one noticed them as they passed towards the garage. Everyone was gazing toward the sky.

"I had hoped to find you a little more reasonable," he complained.

HOME AFTER SURPRISE WEDDING

Smiling and happy, Clarke Gable and his actress-bride, blonde Carole Lombard, are pictured at the bride's Bel-Air home after their return from Kingman, Ariz., where they were quietly married. Gable heralded his return to Hollywood by calling Mrs. Elizabeth Peters and saying: "Hello, mom. This is your new son-in-law."

To paraphrase an old proverb, "One girl's attack of measles is another girl's good luck," or so it turned out for pretty June Brody, of Dodge City, Kansas. When Errol Flynn, one of the screen's leading feminine heart-throbs, paid a visit to Dodge City, a young women's business club staged a raffle to see who would have the honor of entertaining him, and a Miss Butterfield won, only to be stricken with measles. On the next try Miss Brody, 22-year-old waitress, was the winner, and is seen here gazing at a picture of her guest of the silver screen.

DOCTORS CHECK KIDNEYS FIRST

Because they know that healthy Kidneys remove from the blood the waste matter—the excess acids and poisons, formed by the ever-changing human body as it decays and rebuilds itself. TOMMY PEDDER EQUALS RECORD WEIGHT LIFTING

Championships Staged by Hastings Weight Lifting Club

13 TAKE TESTS

Jack Cooper Attained Fifth Best Total and Future Predicted

In a recent championship weight lifting test staged in Belleville by the Hastings Weight Lifting Club, Tommy Pedder, 123 pound North American lifting champion equalled the Canadian 132 pound championship, when he lifted 170 pounds in the press. Pedder only weighed 124 pounds when he accomplished this feat, however.

Thirteen members of the Hastings County Lifting Club participated in the tests, which saw some fine lifts in perfect precision. The Hastings County Club members are coached by Mr. Pedder. Leon Shortt with a total of 445 pounds won the 123 1-4 pound club championship in a convincing style, while Pedder topped the 132 1-2 pound class and Jack Edmunds, with a total lift of 510 pounds won the 148 3-4 pound class. Bill McQuaid took the 165 1-4 pound class honors with a total lift of 495 pounds.

Jack Cooper, the most promising member in the heavyweight class attained the fifth best total ever made by a Canadian in his class and a brilliant future for Cooper is predicted by expert weight lifters. Three official lifts, the press, snatch and clean jerk were tried by each contestant, making the competition one of championship nature.

Tommy Pedder holds the two hand press championship of 170 pounds and the two hand jerk of 220 pounds. All United States records in the heavyweight class are held by Steve Stanko.

The individual results of the Hastings County Weight Lifting Club championships in classes were as follows:

BEAR CATS TAKE KIMBERLEY 13-2

Flu - Infected Dynamiters No Match for Strong Port Arthur Team

Calgary, April 4 (CP)—In one of the wildest Allan Cup semi-final hockey games in history, Port Arthur Bear Cats walloped the broken, flu-infected Kimberley Dynamiters 13-2 here last night before 4,523 paid customers to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five series.

Fourth game of the western final will be played at Saskatoon Thursday.

The smooth-skating lakehead team struck in the first 20 seconds and never gave up their offensive which wore down the weakened Alberta-British Columbia champions before the second period ended.

Two of Ports' eight third-period markers came when Ken Campbell was withdrawn in favor of six forwards in the last three minutes.

Centre Joe MacArthur and right-winger Stan King, most effective pair against the reshuffled Dynamiter forwards, counted four and three goals respectively. Edgar Laprade beat Campbell twice while Bones McCormack, Norm Wright, Bob Manahan and Don Gordon made one apiece.

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

(By The Associated Press)

Baton Rouge, La.: New York Giants' four regular starting pitchers this season will be Harry Gumbert, Cliff Melton, Hal Schumacher and the rookie, Manuel Salvo, Manager Bill Terry announced today. When and if Carl Hubbell regains his form he will become a fifth starter, but Terry isn't counting on Clyde Castleman.

Bisbee, Ariz.: Earl Whitehill, who suffered a broken ankle bone at the Catalina Island training camp, has had the cast removed and isn't even limping. He is one of Chicago Cubs' most active players at getting into shape despite the injury and his 39 years. His pitching arm will get a test within a few days. Meanwhile the Cubs go after their fifth straight exhibition victory over the White Sox with Larry French hurling against John Rigney.

Fort Worth, Tex.: Although it's generally admitted that Grapefruit League games don't mean a thing, there's a lesson in them for the Yankees' rivals—it won't help a bit to start a left hander against them. With Lou Gehrig and only portside hitters regularly in the lineup, three minor league clubs have tried starting southpaws in the past three days. The Yanks won by scores of 15-2, 7-2, and 9-2.

Clearwater, Fla.: Brooklyn Dodgers are playing with Pete Coscarart on Second and the veteran Tony Lazzeri at third, an indication that these two will start the season at those positions. Coscarart, after a bad start, has won the position from rookie Pete Reiser, and Lazzeri has ousted Harry Lavagetto, who played at third most of last season.

Orlando, Fla.: Washington Senators are toying with the idea of using Roberto Ortiz—the hard throwing pitcher—in the outfield. In seven times at bat in exhibition games he has collected two singles and triple. He was an outfielder before the Senators tried to use his speed in the box.

Leafs and Bruins Will Provide Dramatic, Boisterous Hockey In Coming Stanley Cup Finals

Each Team Has Won Stanley Cup on One Occasion

MET FOUR TIMES

Leafs Have Been Victorious in All but One Series

(By Jack Calder, Canadian Press Staff Writer).

Toronto, April 4 (CP)—Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs have won the Stanley Cup only once each, but no other team has brought so much dramatic and boisterous hockey to the trophy series in the past as either of these two clubs which open the finals Thursday at Boston.

The Bruins won the cup and the world championship in 1929 by defeating New York Rangers in the finals. The Leafs won in 1932, also against the Rangers, giving Toronto the storied trophy for the first time since the old St. Patricks took it in 1922.

The year after the Leafs captured the world title, they met Boston in the cup playoffs for the first time. The two have met three times in playoffs since then—never in the finals, but always in a hot and heavy round that Toronto managed to win. On each occasion the Leafs have been too badly battered by the Bruins to win the finals.

Perhaps the round that will be remembered longest by the fans is that of 1933, because the final game kept them up most of the night. Playing for the National League title and in the first round for the cup, the Leafs and the Bruins divided the first four games and went scoreless through the three regular periods of the fifth and deciding one.

Doraty Scores Winner

For 104 minutes of overtime the duelling went on. There were frequent bristling chances to wind up the round, but goalies Lorne Chabot of the Leafs and Tiny Thompson of Boston were unbeatable until little Ken Doraty, a lesser light with the Toronto team, batted in Andy Blair's pass in the 47th second of the 105th minute of extra play.

After that the tired Leafs had to entrain for New York to meet the Rangers in a best-of-five series for the cup. They were barely able to drag themselves through the first contest and the Rangers took the round three games to one.

In 1935 Toronto and Boston collided again for the league title and this time the Leafs won in four bitter games, one going into 33 minutes of overtime. The Leafs won the last one 2-1 and were distinctly sub-par for the finals. The old Montreal Maroons licked them in three straight games, 3-2, 3-1 and 4-1.

Turbulent Session

But the most turbulent of them all was the meeting of the Leafs and Bruins in 1936 in a two-game total-goals playoff in the first round after each had finished second in its N.H.L. division. Boston won the first game at home 3-0.

The return game at Toronto was scarcely under way when Eddie Shore, the Bruins' great mainstay of the defence, drew a 10-minute misconduct penalty for heckling the officials and shooting the puck in the general direction of one of them. While he was off the Leafs scored five times and won the game 8-3, the round 8-6.

Toronto had enough reserve strength to go through New York Americans in the semi-finals, but couldn't keep up with Detroit in the finals. The Red Wings took the cup in four starts.

Won Three in Row

Last year, when the teams came together in the league finals and the first round for the cup again, Boston was favored more than either of the teams had been in any of the three previous series. But Toronto took the round three games in a row, finishing off the last one on Gordon Drillon's goal after 21 minutes of overtime by a 2-1 score.

Again the Leafs weren't up to winning the finals and Chicago won the venerable cup in four games.

If the teams that played that memorable marathon in 1933, only Shore and Dit Clapper are left with Boston and Captain Red Horner and Harvey Jackson with Toronto. Charlie Sands, who was with the Leafs, is now with the Bruins but saw no action in the seven-game semi-final round against the Rangers.

GOOD COACHING BY JOE PRIMEAU

Has Guided Goodyears Through 31 Games Without Defeat

Toronto, April 4 (CP)—One of the better hockey coaching jobs of the winter has been done by Joe Primeau, one-time National League great now guiding the destinies of Toronto Goodyears.

This is the third season since Joe's retirement from Toronto Maple Leafs, with whom he became one of the best centres over a seven-year stretch. This also is his best season in hockey since the retirement, for Joe's Toronto Goodyears are one up and two to go for a place in the Allan Cup final.

The machine he assembled and piloted through 31 games without a defeat goes against the tough Montreal Royals tonight in the second game of a best-of-five series for the eastern Canada championship. Goodyears won 6-2 in Montreal Sunday afternoon and they're favorites to make it two straight over the Quebec champions.

No matter what happens in this series Primeau has earned a lot of praise for a job well done. He took a team well supplied with individual stars and blended them into a smooth-working unit that balances from goal out. He has pushed individualism into the background, emphasizing team spirit.

RIVULETTES WIN OVER WINNIPEG

Western Girls Quite Impressive in Losing to Preston

Galt, April 4 (CP)—Strongest team of girl hockeyists to come out of the west, Winnipeg Olympics today were rated a fair chance of breaking Galt's domination in women's hockey.

Although they dropped a 3-2 decision to Preston Rivulettes, nine times Ontario champions now seeking their fifth Dominion crown, here last night, the Winnipeg girls were impressive. The second game of the total-goal series will be played here tonight.

Should the Olympics overcome the goal advantage held by the Preston fair ones, they will proceed to Charlottetown, P.E.I., to participate in the Canadian finals next Saturday and Monday.

Helga Ranscombe, Gladys Pitcher and Ruth Dargel scored for Rivulettes. Mae Lumsden and Winnie Fullerton scored for the westerners.

TWO BASKETBALL SQUADS HONORED AT MEN'S CLUB

"Y" Girls and "Y" Junior Boys Attend Banquet at the "Y"

TEAMS INTRODUCED

Harold McEwen, National Boys' Work Secretary, is Speaker

Belleville's two provincial basketball teams the "Y" girls and the Dracon-Y junior boys, were honored and banqueted by the local Y's Men's Club at the Y.M.C.A. last evening during which time Harold McEwen, National Boys' Work Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. in Canada, was the guest speaker and spoke paramountly on "boys' work and the youth of today."

President Harold Vaughan introduced Miss Laura Melchior, captain of the Belleville "Y" girls' basketball team, Eastern Ontario L.O.B.A. champions, who in turn presented Coach Jack Dickens, who likewise introduced each member of the team. "We won our group this year and expect to add to our laurels another season," promised Coach Dickens. Murray Clare, captain of the junior boys' team, introduced his fellow teammates. "We wish to thank the Y.M.C.A. for its co-operation and I might say we had practically a new team this year, from which we expect better success in the future," concluded Captain Clare.

Proud of Showing

Mr. Norman Edwards, President of the Belleville Y.M.C.A., assured the members of both squads that the "Y" was justly proud of the respective club's showing during the year.

"It might be interesting to know that our girls' team travelled over 1,000 miles and our boys' team some 650 miles during the 1939 basketball season," revealed Secretary J. E. Shortt, following which he introduced the speaker of the evening.

"We of the National Boys' Work Council are primarily interested in the teen-aged boy. Today in Canada there are 60 Hi-Y Clubs in the Y.M.C.A. for teen-aged boys, but in the United States the movement is spreading rapidly. They have over 6,500 clubs with a membership of some 260,000 teen-aged boys," stated Mr. McEwen in opening.

Youth Looks Ahead

"Youth looks ahead, while age looks back. We are living in a much different world than welcomed our parents, who did not know of the auto, radio or aeroplane, but who made adjustments, which have brought about this present modern age. However, today we are faced with the fact, that youth does not attain the degree of interest it should in our everyday life. In a survey recently taken of today's youth it was found there are four criticisms which business today attaches to modern youth and they are:

1st: Youth has not learned how to think.

2nd: Youth does not show any initiative.

3rd: Youth does not accept responsibility.

4th: Youth has no quality of life.

Tendered Thanks

"Taking these as measuring sticks, go home and measure yourself and see how you measure up to the requirements of today," concluded Mr. McEwen. The speaker was tendered the thanks of the club by President Harold Vaughan.

For the entertainment of the Y's Men and their guests, Y'sman Alec Gordon arranged a musical program, which included violin solos by Sidney Bates, vocal solos by Harold Howard and swing music by Clarence Slight and Jerry Nolan on the fiddle and guitar.

VERDUN LEAFS SCORE UPSET

Defeat Oshawa Generals 2-1 in First Game of Eastern Junior Final

Montreal, April 4 (CP)—The shock still lingered today of a stunning victory for Verdun Maple Leafs, rated as just an "ordinary" team, over Oshawa's highly-touted Generals in the opening contest between the clubs of a best-of-three series for the Eastern Canada junior hockey title.

The Leafs stopped the Generals with a flashing offensive and defensive display last night that brought a 2-1 victory before a crowd of about 3,500 fans. The second game will be played in Toronto tomorrow night.

The victory put the Leafs the closest a junior team from Quebec province ever has come to winning the Memorial Cup. The winner of the series between the Generals and the Leafs will play either Edmonton Roamers or Brandon Elks in the cup final.

Leafs gained victory on a third period goal by Gerry Walker, after Nick Knott had scored for the Generals late in the second and Roland Forget had tied it up a short time later in the middle session.

Yesterday's sudden decision to postpone the opening N.H.L. finals until Thursday was no doubt received with appreciation in both the Boston and Toronto camps. Perhaps more so in the Bruins' case, as Art Ross charges had a real bruising series at the hands of the New York Rangers. After negotiations it was agreed the first two games of the series will be played in Boston, on Thursday and Sunday nights. The third and fourth games go to Toronto April 11th and 13th, so Ontario fans cannot expect any Saturday night Stanley Cup games in Toronto this year. If additional games are necessary however, the fifth game will be played at Boston, April 16th; a possible sixth at Toronto the 18th and if a seventh is needed it goes to Boston on the 20th. From this corner it looks like Boston in five or possibly six games and don't say we didn't warn you. Both teams will be at full strength, but always take into consideration that old jinx on the Bruins.

In a recent championship lift of the Hastings Weight-lifting Club, Tommy Pedder, the 123 1-4 pound weightlifting champion, moved out of his class to equal the 132 pound Canadian record two hand press lift when he successfully lifted 170 pounds. Taking into consideration Pedder is only a featherweight, when it comes to lifting, his effort was remarkable. Incidentally Tommy is coaching the Hastings County Weightlifting Club members and thinks highly of Leon Shortt, who lifts in Pedder's recognized class. Jack Cooper, the lone heavy in the club, is also highly recommended by his coach. In addition to equalling the bantamweight press lift, however, Pedder hoisted 225 pounds in the clean and jerk, which is five pounds more than the present Canadian bantam record. However, these tests are not accepted as records, Pedder being one-half a pound overweight at the time. When a lad weighing less than 130 pounds can successfully lift 225 pounds in a clean and jerk, that's really sumpin' in the weightlifting racket.

Johnny Mundo, former kicking backfielder with the old Queen's University and Toronto Argonauts and not Charley Box, will coach the rudiments of football at the London Central Collegiate next semester. Munro was hired by the London Board of Education to teach at the Central Collegiate and will no doubt coach football and hockey at Central. Box, who was originally offered the post, was previously signed by the Toronto Board of Education to a similar post in the Queen City. Other centres throughout Western Ontario are annually becoming more football conscious and employing teachers with a solid grid background gained in the Intercollegiate football wars. A few years ago a strong senior Interscholastic grid group functioned in Eastern Ontario, composed of Oshawa, Lindsay, Peterboro and Belleville collegiate teams. If the secondary schools throughout Western Ontario feel they can elevate their standard of football through the employment of former Intercollegiate grid stars as coaches, no doubt they will set a precedent and maybe the schools of the east will see their present folly and fall in line later.

Secretary Harry Knott, of the Belleville Softball Association, called an emergency meeting of his 'mushball' henchmen for tonight to study the proposed changes and amendments to the by-laws and constitution of the Ontario Softball Association to be voted on at the annual meeting of the O.A.S.A. in Hamilton on Friday. Secretary Knott received the proposed agenda and notices of motion in today's mail, which necessitated the calling of this emergency meeting in order that the local softball clientele might acquaint themselves with Friday's problems. The Belleville Association has several recommendations on the list of amendments, including the proposal to permit cities under 15,000 population the right to play intermediate "B" softball and another suggestion, that the O.A.S.A. refrain from permitting the signing of players for the current year, until after the annual meeting and the payment of affiliation fees have been made. No doubt the local softballers will select their slate of officers for O.A.S.A. election tonight as well.

Dissatisfied with their lot in the senior O.H.A. picture, the Niagara Falls "Cataracts" are threatening to bolt the senior series another year. The main reason given is their inability to cope with the alleged packed team at Toronto and also the long jump to Oshawa. Just why the Niagara Falls puck interests are squawking over their lot of the current season is hard to understand. First they had a good financial season in the senior "A" series, a play-off with Brantford and subsequently were ushered into the senior "B" final round robin playoff where they again reaped a fine financial harvest. Frankly speaking the clubs to have the biggest kick were the senior "B" clubs, like Peterboro and Waterloo, who were forced to play a senior "A" team in their final series. Unfair competition, we calls it.

Hodge Podge — Joe Krakauskas, Hamilton's gift to the major baseball wars, may get the opening pitching assignment against the world champion New York Yankees, Joe being one of the most promising moundsmen in the camp of the Washington Senators ..... Should be Goodyears in two straight tonight over the Montreal Royals.....Oshawa Generals ran into a sudden and abrupt surprise at Montreal last night when the Verdun Leafs stopped Tracy Shaw's kids and handed them a 2-1 reverse.....They do say Art Ross has ordered his Bruins to bed for 48 hours, in preparation for their forthcoming series with the Maple Leafs. ..

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, April 5

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

A PARTICULARLY lively day in connection with the pursuit of pleasure and the finer avocations of life is foirecast from the leading planetary operations. Personal interests are paramount, posisbly in the direction of courtship, marriage or other romantic or social functions. These may cause some out-of-the-ordinary financial tax or perhaps extravagance. All new projects ar eunder fair stimulus for success should the energies be bent in that direction.

Those whose birthday :: is may anticipate a very lively and happy year, with romance, love-making, social or artistic pursuits demanding paramount attention. Great pleasure and happiness are forecast, despite some extravagance and indulgence. Under highly-stimulated energies and initiative much might be accomplished in new propositions, but do not permit violence or recklessness to overrule cam deliberation.

A child born on this day may have much energy, enterprise, initiative and constructive ability, although it may be disposed to divert such forces and faculties into channels of personal indulgence and gratifications. It should have much attraction for the opposite sex.

AT THE BELLE

"Ice Follies of 1939"

Introducing Joan Crawford to the screen as a singing star, "The Ice Follies of 1939" starring Miss Crawford with James Stewart, Lew Ayres and Lewis Stone, is now on the Belle screen.

Threefold in its appeal, "The Ice Follies o 1939" contains elaborate spectacles staged by the famous "International Ice Follies" troupe on a giant rink, hit tunes and a background of Hollywood and the inside workings of a motion picture studio.

The story concerns an ice-skating duo consisting of James Stewart and Lew Ayres. The duo becomes a trio when Stewart falls in love and marries Mary McKay, a singer, portrayed by Joan Crawford. Her introduction to the act costs the boys their jobs and when booking becomes scarce the girl lands a motion picture contract. In her haste to sign she overlooks a "no marriage" clause buried deep in the maze of legal terminology.

She rises rapidly to stardom. Stewart, not wishing to hold her back, disappears and begins work on his dream of some day staging a huge Ice Follies with singing, dancing, comedy, all presented on a rink. Finally, after a reunion with Ayres, who has gone out on his own, the two manage to obtain the necessary backing for their show. It has its premiere on the same night that Miss Crawford is scheduled to make a personal appearance with a new film which is also opening in New York.

In spite of pressing engagements, Stewart and Miss Crawford manage a brief meeting in Central Park. Here they quarrel and depart for their respective engagements. Stewart's "Ice Follies" proves the season's biggest hit and is signed by the Shuberts. The picture, too, brings raves from the critics and Miss Crawford is hailed as Hollywood's brightest star. During a banquet given in her honor, however, she renounces her career and divulges the fact that she is married. Stewart, who has been listening to a broadcast of the banquet, turns off the radio before he hears this important last portion of her speech.

Ayres, returning from an interview, unwittingly reveals the fact to Stewart that the money used to stage the show was put up by Stewart's wife. Complications arising from this situation are eventually ironed out and the picture ends with the name of Mary McKay being added, in lights, to the cast of the "Ice Follies."

In addition to the stars of the film, the original "International Ice Follies" troupe, headed by Bess Ehrhardt and Roy Shipstad, play an important part. Spectacular ice numbers filmed in technicolor include a Mother Goose Ballet, an Indian Fantasy, a Circus Ballet and innumerable specialty acts by some of the foremost champions of the ice. The production was directed by Reinhold Schunzel.

The songs sung by Miss Crawford include "Something's Gotta Happen Soon," by Brown and Freed; "Here I Go Falling in Love Agian," by Roger Edans, and "It's All So New to Me," by Petkere and Symcs.

Excellent Featurettes

"Double Diving" is the title of the Pete Smith specialty to be presented on the same program with "The Wrong Way Out" a gripping "Crime Does Not Pay" story, and the popular Belle News of the day.

PACIFIC COAST

Internal Affairs

Discussion of external affairs continues today in committee of the whole and will assume a more informal character as Prime Minister King answers questions on estimates for the Department of External Affairs of which he is head.

"This government always overlooks the effect that a firm stand in foreign affairs would have on our friends, our potential enemies and our own people," said Mr. Green. "Such a wishy-washy policy (no commitments) is neither safe nor sane.

"I suggest the time has come for Canada to adopt as a basic Pacific policy the full and open co-operation with the other British peoples living on the shores of that ocean and with the American people. I suggest that Canada enter a defensive alliance with these peoples."

Pacific Relations

Canada should have sat in at the conference in Wellington, N.Z., on Pacific defence matters at which Great Britain, Australia and New Zealand were represented and should have endeavored to have the United States represented.

From Liberal, Social Credit and C.C.F. members came pleas for the establishment of Canada's legal right to remain neutral in a war in which Great Britain took part although the spokesman differed as to the extent to which Canada should exercise that right.

Joseph Thorson (Lib. Selkirk) said if Canada was an autonomous nation the Canadian people should not be plunged into war by the action of the government of another country.

Generally this view was shared by T. C. Douglas (C.C.F. Weyburn), Grant MacNeil (C.C.F. Vancouver North), John Blackmore, Social Credit leader, C. E. Johnston (S.C. Bow River). Maxime Raymon (Lib. Beauharnois-LaPrairies) and Wilfrid Lacroix (Lib. Quebec-Montemorency).

2 Quebec M.P.'s on Foreign Policy

The two Quebec members took direct issue with the stand taken by their party leaders, Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Justice Minister Lapointe. They declared Canada had no interest in the wars of Great Britain and should remain at peace unless directly attacked.

Mr. Raymond said Canada should not be forever at the mercy of British political intrigue and Mr. Lacroix, while opposed to the annexation of Canada to the United States, believed this country would have to move more in the direction of independence if it was to be involved in every war to which Great Britain was a party.

Public opinion changed rapidly said Mr. Blackmore, and the duty of a democratic government was to hold itself free to carry out the will of the people in whatever circumstances arose. No government should be so reckless as to state in advance what it would do in particular circumstances.

Walsh Gives View

W. A. Walsh (Con. Mount Royal) said Canada was not a nation in the usual acceptance of the word and would not be regarded by other countries as separate from the empire in the event of war. He agreed with the stand taken by leaders in the House that when Great Britain was at war Canada was at war and was glad the party leaders had gone on record against conscription.

A complete embargo on the export of war materials was urged by Mr. Douglas as Canada's most effective contribution to the cause of peace. By continuing to export war materials Canada had contributed to the rearmament of Germany and the consuest of Ethiopia and of China.

A revision of the law governing Canada's armed forces was urged by Mr. MacNeil for the purpose of establishing parliament's complete control and to prevent the commission of acts of belligerency without the consent of parliament.

The Militia Act, he said, permitted the Governor General to put the militia on active service and to impose conscription. It also made the Canadian militia subject to the British Army Act. Parliament should enact an Army Act of its own and revise both the Militia Act and the Naval Service Act.

Under this legislation in 1914 a Canadian vessel, the Rainbow, had been ordered to sea on the Pacific and to engage German ships before parliament was summoned. That was an act of belligerency which committed Canada to war without any consent from parliament.

From several members, notably Mr. Douglas an d Mr. Johnston, came a demand for a clear statement from the government as to how parliament would be consulted in the event of an outbreak of hostilities. It was one thing, they argued, for parliament to decide on Canadian participation and another for parliament to be asked to ratify a decision taken by the government.

TURKEY TO ANNEX

(An implied British promise of aid to Rumania in event her independence was threatened by aggression was seen yesterday in the House of Commons statement of Prime Minister Chamberlain, to be effective probably would involve sending a fleet and reinforcements in wartime to the Black Sea by way of the Turkish-controlled Dardanelles.)

The district of Alexandretta, with a population of 200,000 and a magnificent harbor about 18 miles wide, has an area of 10,000 square miles.

Treaty of Friendship

By the French-Turkish treaty of friendship signed July 4, 1938, an equal number of Turkish and French troops were to be stationed in the district, a part of the League of Nation's Syrian mandate to France.

In exchange, France was reported to have received guarantees her warships and those of her allies could pass through the Dardanelles from the Mediterranean into the Black Sea in case of war.

Recently, however, Turkey was reported dissatisfied with this arrangement.

France withdrew all Syrian and French troops from the port of Alexandretta last October, after Turkish troops marched in.

Turkey Holds Majority

The district, officially called the State of Hatay, was left almost exclusively in the hands of Turkish officials, and under the rule of a parliament in which, by French agreement, Turks held a majority.

That parliament, the French Press, said will vote the district's annexation to Turkey.

"The Turks will go further than that," said Le Figuaro. "At Aleppo (important city of Syria 25 miles south of the Turkish border), a city of 320,000 where the Turks are only an infinestimal minority, pro-Turk committees will invite Turkey officially to annex Aleppo as well as free its oppressed citizens.

"The Turks know the German method. If we let them take the Sanjak (district of Alexandretta), we will lose all of Syria and lose it with dishonor."

Alexandretta, as wel as all Syria, Alexandretta, as well as all Syria, pire until after the Great War.

Press Sarcastic

Inspired by the umbrella which Chamberlain carried with him in his peace-making visits to Germany last September, the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger pictured him now as wanting to hang his umbrella over Germany "like the sword of Damocles."

In an appeal appearing in all newspapers, General Albert Kesselring of the German air force asked Germany's young men to "become fliers."

"He who wants to protect Germany's frontiers against any insolent attack and maintain for his home the blessings of peaceful development, he must become a flier," said the appeal. "A flier in the best air force of the world! In the air force of our general, Field Marshal Hermann Goering!"

Von Neurath to Prague

Kesselring said, "German youths who had the luck to be born during the world historical period and who became witnesses of the world historical accomplishments of Adolf Hitler during their most enthusiastic period of life, should pay their thanks to the Fuehrer and the nation by devoting their entire ability, knowledge and will to Adolf Hitler and the Reich."

Meanwhile it was announced that Baron Konstantin von Neurath, Reichsprotector of Bohemia and Moravia, would assume his post in Prague tomorrow with a German military display.

German spokesmen struck , back at Chamberlain with a charge that Great Britain was laying the ground work for a new war which she would run at the expense of others.

FLEEING MAN

to ribbons a rear tire on a stolen car driven by Bartlett. Five shots were fired by Constable Harold Speight before the machine stopped on muddy Morningside Avenue in Scarboro Township. Bartlett was charged with car theft and Miss Boissoneaux with vagrancy.

Dobbie is Wounded

Constable Stanley Ella wounded and captured Dobbie after commandeering the automobile of a motorist, Eric Bell, and chasing the car in which Dobbie and his companions were racing through North Toronto streets. The fugitive machine crashed into a fence at Mount Pleasant Road and Davisville Avenue.

Ella said he fired a shot in the air before the crash and two more as the four men ran from the wrecked car. He caught up with Dobbie, he said, and as he struggled with the man his revolver went off, wounding Dobbie in the arm. The car was the property of Joseph Shiner.

Driving Stolen Car

The car in which Bartlett and his woman companion were arrested, and owned by Richard Irwin, was stolen from near the Toronto General Hospital. Ninety minutes later East York Police were pursuing it through the suburbs. In the chase a parked car was struck by a bullet from Constable Speight's revolver, while another was damaged by the car driven by Bartlett.

The pursuing officers said Bartlett tried to shake them off by taking a zig-zag course. His progress finally was slowed when he made the mistake of taking to a muddy road. As the police cruiser began to catch up, Speight punctured a tire with his fifth shot and Bartlett pulled up.

Fortunate Honesty

By ANN SAVILLE

Although customers seldom came into the store at night, it was part of Jadd Baines' job to keep it open until nine. He often decided laconically, as he seated himself before the coal stove, that it was lucky for him he could spend so much time dreaming. And he enjoyed it, too, this dreaming of the day when he could get beyond the hill-country into the cities where there was laughter and music the same as you heard over the radio. Of course it wasn't so pleasant when his dreams were inevitably grounded by a grim reality—money. At least five hundred dollars he would need to go "in style." Such an impossible amount that it was fortunate the store cash never exceeded fifty dollars.

He was thinking along these lines when a couple, typical of the hardy hill-folk entered. Wizened, they were, and you noticed it all the more because their eyes were so bright.

The man spoke first. "Is thar a courthouse hereabouts where we can get married?"

"Why, yes, there's a courthouse 'cross the way, but it's too late tonight. You'll have to stay over until tomorrow morning."

The old man wiped his brow in fatigue. "We come a long way. Couldn't make it no earlier."

His bride-to-be patted his hand consolingly. "One more day ain't much. We can stay up to Cousin Tillie's over night."

"Tain't the stayin part that worries me," the prospective bridegroom said, then paused as his eyes roved about the store until they rested on a safe in the corner. He looked at it a while, then turned back to the clerk and studied him carefully.

Jadd was becoming uncomfortable when the old man spoke "Young feller," he said, "you 'pear honest to me. I want to put this money in the safe till mornin'. I don't trust cousin Tillie's man a mite." He took the purse from the woman and handed it to Jadd.

Jadd took it, knowing perfectly well that he couldn't put it in the safe; that was beyond his domain

The man was saying wistfully "Thar's nine hundred of 'em in that. We saved quite a spell for that."

Jadd muttered something unintelligible as the trusting pair made their way off. He was left standing with the nine hundred. Four hundred dollars more than he needed! He looked at the clock on the wall. It's ticking was suddenly like a volley of rhythmic hammers. Eight-fifteen—thirty minutes until the only night train to the city pulled in. The train would take him to the city that had music—and lights.

He stood there, a solitary figure, his imagination picturing the new scenes that were now within his reach. His eyes saw streets crowded with friendly people and shining with lights of brilliant hues.. And all at once another sort of light came into his vision. Lights that had been soft and starry, lights that shone from the eyes of a wizened old lady—a bride-to-be. And still again appeared a different sort of light, proud, defiant, that had accompanied the words of the groom.

"We saved quite a spell for that."

But something that had always threatened the cash register still persisted. It was saying that the little hill-town had a heart; a great big heart that would shower the poor couple after he was far beyond apprehension. They wouldn't suffer, and he would gain.

The clock on the wall struck once in a startling interruption of his thoughts. Eight-thirty. It left a dismal echo in the store to remind him that he had been standing there fifteen minutes.

The purse was still clutched tightly in his hand. He wished suddenly that the train might come at once, so that he need hesitate no longer.

Suddenly he whirled around. The door had opened and the old man was again entering. Jadd dropped the purse into his pocket.

The old mountaineer leaned on the counter. "Jes' thought I'd run back 'n ast ya to go 'long to the courthouse tomorrow," he said, then added confidentially, "I never liked Cousin Tillie's man nohow. He's got wicked eyes, not straight like most fellas—like yourn are."

Jadd Baines' eyes fell, then lifted suddenly as a train whistled shrilly. The eight forty-five!

The engine had stopped and was panting impatiently at its inactivity. Jadd stood fascinated until the panting began to quicken. Bells rang warningly, and then the panting became a steady purr.

Then to the old man's astonishment, he laughed. A laugh that held a world of relief. He stretched his neck and ran his handkerchief around the inside of his collar.

"What'sa matter —" His trusting friend wanted to know.

"That train." Jadd motioned in the direction of the station. "I'm just glad it wasn't early."

The old fellow's brow wrinkled in puzzlement. Then he, too, laughed in a bewildered manner. He had dismissed it as something he couldn't understand.

And he was right about that. But the next morning, when a happy old man opened a decrepit purse to pay for his marriage license, and nine hundred pennies rolled out, Jadd Baines blinked at the pile of coppers and then understood many things. Among which was that honesty—even fortunate honesty—pays.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Apr. 4 (CP)—The Toronto list followed New York downward from the opening today but losses here were much lighter than across the line and trading proceeded on a small scale. Turnover in the first three hours totalled only 231,000 shares and much of the business was in the penny golds. Mining and industrial indices were off 1.35 to 2.75 at noon.

Steels, foods, utilities and liquors were prominent in the industrial share declines and a few losses expanded to 2 to 3 points. Walkers Common, selling ex-dividend was off about 3 points or more. Ford A, Brazilian and Fanny Farmer were heavy.

Losses of 2 to 3 points were boarded by the big base metal shares, Nickel, Noranda, Smelters and Hudson Bay. Declines of 10 to 15 cents were scattered through the gold list. Home, Calgary-Edmonton, Okalta and Anglo-Canadian were soft spots in the oils.

WALL ST. CLOSE

New York, April 4—(AP)—Stocks dived to new lows for more than a year in today's market, declines running to five or more points at the worst.

Except for a brief selling wave near mid-day which put the ticker tape behind, dealings were comparatively orderly. A little buying support came in near the final hour and shaded extreme losses. Transfers were about 1,600,000 shares.

RAW MATERIALS FOR ARMAMENTS POUR INTO POLAND

Long Freight Trains from Russia Bring Supplies for War Arsenals

AID FOR POLAND

Warsaw, Apr. 4 (AP)—Raw materials to feed Poland's busy arsenals poured into the country today from Russia.

Travellers reported that passenger trains were delayed in leaving Russian frontier stations by long freight trains laden with manganese, phosphates, cotton and other Soviet products vital to Poland's war industries.

Despite denials from Moscow, well informed sources declared Russia had promised she would send planes and war supplies to Poland if war should come with Germany.

(Tass, the Soviet official news agency, issued an unusual communique last night saying: "This report does not correspond with the facts as the Soviet Union neither gave anyone such promises nor undertook such obligations."

Published In Paris.

(The communique said the report was published in Paris. Interest attached to the communique because the Soviet government seldom makes a formal denial of foreign newspaper reports.)

Sources here who insisted upon veracity of the report said the Soviet denial may have been promoted by reported German-Soviet talks in Stockholm.

Information reaching the Polish Foreign Office was to the effect that Hitler's emissaries sought out Russian representatives in the Swedish capital as soon as Prime Minister Chamberlain announced last Friday his support for Poland if her independence were threatened.

Informed sources said Hitler, fearing encirclement of Germany, was desperately trying to avert the cutting off of raw materials to the Reich from Russia at Great Britain's behest.

COLLIE SAVES MANSE, WAKENS YOUNG MASTER BY TUGGING CLOTHES

Guelph, Ont., Apr. 4 (CP)—Laddie, a collie dog owned by John Gallagher, son of Rev. W. J. Gallagher, Minister of Chalmers Church, today had the distinction of having saved the manse from fire. Last night he wakened John who was sleeping on a couch downstairs, by barking and tugging at his clothes. Then he led him upstairs where fire broke out in the boy's father's study. The fire department quenched the flames.

of talks designed to cement Poland into a European front against further German expansion.

Staff Officers May Consult

War Minister Leslie Hore-Belisha indicated in reply to House of Commons questions that British officers might have general staff talks with Polish officers.

It was understood that the British Ambassador in Rome the Earl of Perth, had been instructed to seek clarification of the reports of Italian troop movements from the Italian Foreign Minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano.

It was emphasized in British quarters that a request from Albania herself might have led Italy to prepare to take action. There was a possibility, British quarters said, that Albania had asked Italy to establish a protectorate over that country to enable Premier Mussolini to develop more fully Albania's natural resources. Italy was expected to welcome such an opportunity to establish herself on the Balkan mainland.

Activity in Italy

A Foreign Office spokesman said a "certain amount of military activity has been going on in Italy lately."

The Anglo-Italian agreement, which was concluded April 16 last year, carried a provision for maintenance of the status quo "as regards national sovereignties in the Mediterranean area."

Outright Italian annexation of Albania would be of concern to Greece and Turkey.

After two hours of discussion at the Foreign Office, Lord Halifax entertained Beck at luncheon at a London hotel. Among the guests were Anthony Eden, Winston Churchill and Viscountess Astor.

Problem With Poland

It was believed the most difficult problem facing Lord Halifax and Mr. Chamberlain was to convince Beck of the desirability of closer relations with Russia and overcome the Poles' traditional distrust of a country which ruled them for many years.

British diplomats purposely had assigned Russia to a back seat in the new attempt at collective security so as not to arouse Polish and Rumanian ideological prejudices. It was said here that Russia was fully aware of the necessity of such procedure in rallying Warsaw and Bucharest to the "anti-aggression" front.

French Air Minister Guy la Chambre, here to discuss coordination of British and French aviation production programs, called at 10 Downing Street ond gave Mr. Chamberlain a first hand report on the part France is ready to play in the new alignment.

Rome, April 4—(AP)— Rumors Italy intends to strengthen her control of Albania, the little country of King Zog, persisted here today despite official denials.

Diplomatic circles heard unconfirmed reports that 20,000 or more Italian troops were concentrated at Bari and Brindisi with troopships standing by. Bari and Brindisi are directly across the Adriatic from Albania. The Adriatic is about 75 miles wide at Brindisi.

The reports of Italian troops movements were linked with rumors that Italy was contemplating a semi-protectorate over Albania, with the consent of King Zog, for the greater development of Albania's oil and other resources.

The Albanian telegraph agency characterized the reports as "without foundation". The reports previousyl had been denied in Italian official circles.

Despite these denials, foreign circles heard rumors about a fortnight ago that some Italian troops had gone to Albania. Some diplomats thought the troops, if the reports were true, might have been sent to Albania in case Yugoslavia showed a tendency to join any French-British bloc against Germany or the Rome-Berlin axis. Albania lies directly south of Yugoslavia.

London reports have mentioned Yugoslavia as a possible partner in Prime Minister Chamberlain's "anti-aggression" line-up.

The Earl of Perth, the British Ambassador, visited Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano today for what was believed a general discussion of the European situation.

Albania, a former part of the Turkish empire, proclaimed her independence in 1912.

A country of 10,629 square miles and 1,000,000 population, Albania has been in the Italian sphere of influence since 1925 when she obtained a large Italian loan, and subsequent loans, for public works, military purposes, much-needed highways through her mountainous territory and public utilities.

King Zog, a mountain chieftain, was proclaimed King Sept. 1, 1928, after having served as President of the country from 1925. He was supported in his rise to power over turbulent Albanian tribesmen by Yugoslafia but later was forced to turn to Italy for the money needed to strengthen his country.

Obituary

FRED W. SMYTHE

The death of Fred W. Smythe, which occurred in Queen Alexandra Hospital, London Ont. on Monday, April 3rd. has brought sincere regretings of regret to many persons in this city, who knew him well and highly esteemed him for the many fine qualities of character and temperament which he possessed. For some years he had been in failing health and about a year and a half ago he went to Madoc to reside. For some years prior to this time he was engaged in business in Belleville and was the proprietor of the A1 Sign Studio. He was an expert craftsman and succeeded in his line of work until ill health came upon him.

During Fred Smythe's residence in Belleville he took an active part in public undertakings which were inaugurated for the better of the city and its residents. The noble work of the Victoria Order of Nurses appealed strongly to him and he was energetic in his support of this work and served for a time as President of the local branch of the Order. In the Kiwanis Club he was a popular and active worker and willingly gave of his time and ability in carrying through to successful completion the undertakings which the club engaged in. Fraternally he was a member of Moira Lodge No. 11 A.F. & A.M. He was a veteran of the Great War, having enlisted for service overseas with the 3rd. Field Company of Canadian Engineers.

The late Fred W. Smythe was born 52 years ago in Aston, England, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. William Smythe. He came to Canada at an early age and eventually located in Belleville.

Surviving to mourn his loss are three daughters, Margery, Jean and Betty at home in Madoc; one son, Lance Corporal B. D. Smythe, London, Ont.; three sisters, Miss Emily Smythe, Boston, Mass.; Miss Susan Smythe, Madoc; Miss Margery Smythe, England; three brothers Mr. Bernard Smythe, England; Mr. Frank Smythe, South Africa, and Mr. Alfred Smythe, South Africa.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

Howard Clarke New Rotary Head

Officers of the Belleville Rotary Club for the official year beginning July 1, were elected as follows:

President—Howard Clarke.

Vice-President—Mac Haig, Past President.

Directors—W. J. Morrison, M. P. Duff, Percy McGuire, Irv. Hefkey.

PREDICT LATE OPENING FOR LOCAL HARBOR

Veteran waterfront men inspecting the bay in the bright sunlight this morning offered the prediction that Belleville harbor would not be free of ice for a period of two weeks yet, a prediction which if true would set the date of the spring breakup later than for the past many years. Navigation into the port may be permitted, however, before this date if warmer weather is experienced.

Investigation of the harbor this morning showed little structural change in the two-foot thick ice. Large patches of open water are observed in the bay east of the bay bridge along the north shore of Prince Edward County, but no signs of progressive thaw are noted from the shore south of the city. The ice remains hard and firm with but few larger cracks through its surface.

CONSTABLE BEATTY ON SHOOTING TEAM

Constable William Beatty of the Belleville detachment of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, was included in a Canadian shooting team to journey to the United States, where the Canucks will engage in a friendly revolver shooting match with crack Yankee authority marksmen at Alexandria Bay, N.Y. this afternoon. The Canadian team will consist of two crack marksmen from the Royal Military College, two R.C.M.P. constables from Kingston and Constable Beatty of Belleville. The Canadian marksmen will compete against a picked team of five members of the United States Customs Patrol from along the St. Lawrence River. Revolver shooting will constitute the tournament.

SIR GERALD AYLMER DIES

Cheltenham, England, Apr. 4 (CP)—Sir Gerald Aylmer, formerly of Montreal, died here last night. He was 69.

Sir Gerald, who succeeded a cousin as 14th Baronet in 1935, came to England two years ago.

The new Baronet is Fenton Gerald Aylmer, who is understood to be on the Atlantic en route to England. He is 38 and married in 1928 Miss Rosalind Bell, daughter of J. Percival Bell of Hamilton, Ont. Their two-year-old son becomes heir to the title.

Imperial Airways Opens School to Train Transatlantic Pilots

TOP, an Imperial Airways plane is pictured at its base. Bottom, G. F. Godsave points out some pertinent air facts to his class

By Central Press Canadian

Southampton, Eng —Anticipating the great popularity of transatlantic air travel, and determined there shall be no scarcity of efficient and highly trained pilots and navigators, British Imperial Airways, which operates jointly with Pan-American Airways, has opened a school where the men are thoroughly instructed in all problems relating to ocean flying. The school is located at the port of Southampton, British terminal of the giant transatlantic planes.

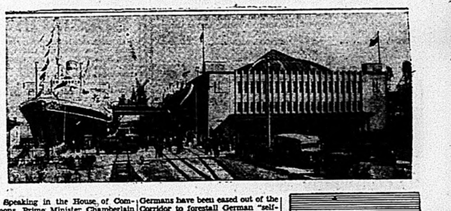
Squadron Leader G. F. Godsave is chief instructor and school manager for Imperial, teaching his class the a, b, c of navigation over the watery wastes. No problem is too small to be given a thorough going-over, for once the men are speeding over the waves, one of these small details may crop up, and, if not attended to properly, could spell disaster.

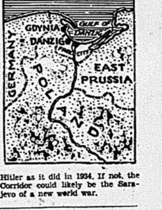
Godsave not only teaches the new pilots and would-be pilots, but includes in his classes men who have thousands of air miles to their credit. They come to gain any new information available, particularly from pilots who have flown the ocean routes. The North Atlantic is flown by British planes, via Foynes, Ireland, and Newfoundland, and the southern route by the American planes, of which the Yankee Clipper was first.

The 42-ton passenger Yankee Clipper, on its maiden flight arrived in the Azores half an hour ahead of schedule, averaging 165 miles an hour on the 2800-mile flight, as compared with the 30 miles an hour made by the fastest ocean liners.

The Imperial school is being given every co-operation by the British government, which is determined there shall not be another Cavalier disaster, which seriously affected its prestige.

Poland Armed to Teeth for Defense of Gdynia





Speaking in the House of Commons, Prime Minister Chamberlain bluntly issued a warning to Chancellor Hitler that Britain will give armed assistance to Poland, if the independence of the latter country was threatened. Continuing his address, Mr. Chamberlain declared that he was authorized to state that France would also fight in similar circumstances. Poland, which in 1934 forced Germany to sign a ten-year non-aggression pact under threat of invasion, is today arming to the teeth in anticipation of a demand from Hitler for the Polish Corridor, which separates Germany from East Prussia.

With a large export trade and a merchant marine of 66 vessels, including the crack liners Pilsudski and Batory, Poland rightly feels that its economic life would be throttled should Germany seize its Baltic seaports.

Danzig, formerly German, was granted to Poland by the treaty of Versailles. Although most of the Germans have been eased out of the Corridor to forestall German "self-determination" demands, Nazis have controlled the port for the past three years.

As an alternative, in event Danzig should fall to the Reich forces, Poland within the last ten years has developed Gdynia, just west of Danzig, from a fishing village into a thriving modern port of some 100,000 population with a harbor that can accommodate 50 vessels, a sea wall nine miles long, travelling cranes, railroad tracks and warehouses.

To defend this rich area, Poland has an army which military experts concede would be no match for the German Reichswehr but which should be able to hold any invader at bay until help could come from France, England and Russia. Poland also has an air force of 1,500 planes and is quick to point out that Berlin is only eighty miles from the Polish border. There is a chance Poland may outbluff Hitler as it did in 1934. If not, the Corridor could likely be the Sarajevo of a new world war.

NEWS ODDITIES AND BRIEFS

BEAR STARTLES TRAPPERS

Eureka, Ont., April 5 (CP)—It was a bit of a shock when Olive Punstel and Richard Arkell of Biscotasing came upon a two-year-old bear, grumpy and hungry after a winter's sleep, while setting beaver traps in the bush. They first noticed the animal when it was 15 feet away. Punstel killed it with a shot between the eyes from a small-calibre rifle.

GEOGRAPHY NOT ONE OF BOBBIE'S STRONG SUBJECTS

Peterborough, Ont., April 5 (CP)—Eight-year-old Bobbie Lightower of Toronto evidently believes Peterborough is in some foreign country. Visiting here, Bobbie became lost and told a passerby he did not know how to get to the home of his friends. When asked where he came from Bobbie answered: "From Canada." He was returned to his friends, however.

Why the Weather!

By Major A. H. Thiessen

Science Service Meteorologist

International weather reports! Weather is a world problem and recognizes no artificial boundaries. This was known to meterologists a long time ago. To further the study of the weather and the forecasting thereof there is an exchange of weather reports between all countries maintaining weather services. This co-operation exists nowhere so completely as between Canada and the United States. The weather services of these two countries maintain complete and most amicable relations. Reports of Canadian observations of the weather are received in the United States as promptly as in Toronto, and the United States reports are sent as promptly to Toronto.

RUMORS PERSIST ITALIAN TROOPS READY TO LAND

'Our Reply Will Not be Delayed,' Says Italian Newspaper

DEFENSIVE ALLIANCE

Treaty of Tirania Signed in 1927 is Quoted as to Alliance

By RICHARD MASSOCK
Associated Press Foreign Staff

Rome, April 5—(AP)—Italian troop concentrations at Adriatic ports were interpreted in foreign circles today as a "warning" to Great Britain and France against carrying out their so-called "encirclement" plans and to Yugoslavia and Greece against joining in them.

This view was strengthened by an article in the prominent Bologna newspaper Il Resto Del Carlino as political circles forecast greater freedom for Italian troop movements to Albania as a result of the expected strengthening of the Italian-Albanian defensive alliance.

Troops Said Ready to Land

Rumors persisted Italian troops were ready to land in Albania, across the Adriatic from Italy.

Il Resto Del Carlino said Great Britain and France were counting on Rome's abandonment of the Rome-Berlin axis when London and Paris have "encircled Germany by creating a series of guarantee pacts with Soviet Russia, Poland, Rumania, Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey."

The newspaper advised "big and little illusionists near and far that Italy, along with Germany, will reply tit for tat to any attempt at encirclement."

OPEN CANAL TO FRANCE, BRITAIN IN CASE OF WAR

France Gives This Assurance to Rumania, it is Reliably Reported

TURKEY TO WAIT

Paris, April 5—(AP)—France was reported in informed quarters today to have assured Rumania that in event of European war the Dardanelles would be open to French and British warships.

Busily building the southern part of the "stop Hitler" bloc, France was said to have received assurances from Turkey, which controls the entrance to the Black Sea and Rumania's "back door," of support for the French-British lineup to preserve the independence of small European countries.

In exchange, these sources said, Turkey was told she could eventually annex the Sanjak of Alexandretta although unrest in Syria made that impossible for the present. The Sanjak is a small district of northern Syria.

Senator Urges Quick Revision Of Neutrality Act

Washington, April 5—(AP)—Senator Key Pittman (Dem-Nevada) urged today that the United States' Neutrality Act be revised quickly because any changes made during a war might be criticized as unneutral.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which Pittman heads, called Henry Stimson, Secretary of State under President Hoover, as the first witness at hearings on several proposals to rewrite the law. Stimson is an advocate of collective action by nations in an attempt to secure world peace.

In a statement prepared for the opening of the Session Pittman said consideration of proposed changes in the Legislation should be expedited because it was agreed by international lawyers "that there should be no substantial change in the laws of a neutral as affecting a belligerent after declared or undeclared war takes place."

Stimson urged Congress to amend the Neutrality Act to give the President wider discretionary powers

Stimson said that should a gener-

SIX EXPLOSIONS ROCK CITIES IN ENGLAND TODAY

No One Was Injured but Considerable Damage Was Done

POLICE MOBILIZED

London, April 5—(CP-Havas)—Six bomb explosions rocked Birmingham, Liverpool, and Coventry at intervals during the night and early today in what police described as a new outbreak of Irish Republican Army activity. Nobody was hurt. Considerable damage was done.

In Birmingham the first blast occurred on Snow Hill, near the main station. Windows in nearby houses were shattered by the concussion. Half an hour later another bomb went off in Congreve Street near the city administration buildings breaking more windows. A third explosion occurred shortly before 3.30 a.m. in the heart of the city near the police station.

TENURE OF OFFICE WILL BE EXTENDED

Ottawa, April 5.—(CP)—The tenure of office of Sir Lyman P. Duff, Chief Justice of Canada, will be extended, according to a Bill placed on today's House votes and proceedings by Justice Minister Lapointe. The Chief Justice is 74 years old and members of the Court customarily retire at 75. It is understood the extension is being made for two years.

Mr. Lapointe has inscribed another bill on the order paper, relating to official secrets. This will amend the criminal code with a view to tightening up the legislation on this point. No details were disclosed.

Cockeyed Hats and Flouncy Skirts Newest Easter Styles

(By Robert Stevenson)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, April 5—(CP)—Style experts today are ringing the knell of the "Glamor Girl" along with a healthy tune on the cash register as a new and nuttier line of feminine frills heads for the boulevards and the Easter parade.

"The 'glamor girl' is definitely on the shelf", said one votary of Schiaparelli in a downtown store. "She of the spun yarn tresses billowing on her shoulders, with heavy lipstick, pale complexion and very sophisticated clothes is gone. In her place we have—the 'little girl'."

This year's "little girl" will be altogether more curved and feminine than her counterpart last year. If you care for social psychology, this may have something or other to do with the international situation. But anyway, the net result will be young and lively—with cockeyed hats, square shoulders, tiny waists and flouncy skirts.

It all adds up to a real fillip for the work-jaded male because skirts are going up.

They'll be one to one and a half inches higher, or about 17 inches off the ground. If you want to be technical, that's about the top of the calf on most women.

Despite the upward trend, Toronto stylists are slow to predict a further rise in skirts. They see no signs of a return to the boom days of the early twenties.

"Very short skirts make women look 'dumpy' and 'hippy'," said one expert. "It will be a long time before woman will be ready to surrender her present graceful silhouette. That is why the wide, square shoulders and narrow waist are as much in evidence as ever this season."

Another tip to nervous escorts. Petticoats are back. Don't rush off the deep end if you find the girl friend parading with an inch and a half of frilly lace showing below her skirt. It's meant to be there. And it's an even chance it won't be a petticoat at all but only a lace trimming sewn to the underside of the skirt to give a petticoat effect.

TEN NOMINATED AS CANDIDATES AT CONVENTION

Conservatives Gather in Belleville to Select Federal Candidate

LARGE GATHERING

William House of Trenton Elected President of Association

Up to a late hour this afternoon delegates from the four corners of the federal Conservative riding of South Hastings at one of the most important conventions being held in the city hall were engaged in the difficult task of selecting a candidate to represent the riding in opposition to the Liberal sitting member, Mr. C. A. Cameron, K.C., at the next Dominion general elections.

It was a strenuous convention up to a late hour today, attended by one of the heaviest gatherings of official delegates and party supporters yet checked by organizers of the riding.

From the various municipalities and polls, a total of 249 delegates had been officially named to vote on the choice. Bad roads had kept some of this number home, but it was estimated that before the convention opened at 1.30 o'clock this afternoon that the majority were

RE-ELECT LEBRUN FOR PRESIDENT

French Houses of Parliament Give Him Further seven-Year Term

Versailles, France, April 5—(CP—Havas)—Albert Lebrun today was re-elected President of France for a second seven-year term by both Houses of Parliament, sitting as the National Assembly, in historic Versailles Palace.

M. Lebrun was the second president in French history to be elected for a second term. The first was Jules Grevy, re-elected in 1885.

President Lebrun received 506 votes on the first ballot, whereas only 453 were required for his election. There were 910 votes cast, of which six were blank.

35 ARABS HELD IN SHOOTING CASE

Former Toronto Man Is Recovering at Jerusalem from Wounds

Jerusalem, April 5.—(CP)—Police today held 35 Arab suspects in the shooting of H. J. Iliffe, British curator of the Rockefeller Museum here and former Museum Archaeologist at the University of Toronto.

Iliffe was described as having been struck by several bullets. He was walking outside his home, near Herod's Gate at the time. Authorities could assign no reason for the attack. In other parts of the city three other Britons were attacked, one of the fatally.

Immediately following the shooting of Iliffe, the authorities guarded all gates of the old city and prevented Arabs from entering or leaving pending completion of an investigation.

Iliffe has been curator of the Jerusalem Museum since it opened in January, 1938.

Wounded Yesterday

Toronto, April 5.—(CP)—Mrs. W. K. Vincent of Toronto, received a cable today from Jerusalem saying her son-in-law, H. J. Iliffe, curator of the Rockefeller Museum in Jerusalem, was recovering from bullet wounds.

Iliffe was reported in cable despatches from Jerusalem yesterday to have been fatally wounded by an unidentified person.

Mrs. Vincent, formerly of Owen Sound, Ont., received first word of the shooting Monday, the cable stating Iliffe had been wounded 'seriously but no dangerously'. Today's cable said he was "much improved".

Both cables were sent by the wife of the professor formerly on the staff of the Royal Ontario Museum here.

Demonstrations by University Students Labelled 'Hitlerism'

London, Ont., April 5—(CP)—Dr. W. J. Stevenson, representative of the London City Council to the Senate of the University of Western Ontario, labelled as "Hitlerism" yesterday the demonstrations by Western students against a reduction in the Provincial Government's grant to the University.

Speaking before the London District Liberal Women's Association, Dr. Stevenson said the tactics of the students in parading and holding a mass meeting of protest against the cut resembled the work of the Hitler Movement.

"I don't like to see a group of fellows doing these things," Dr. Stevenson said. "The people in charge of these students should be castigated and any member of this organization (The Liberal Association) who was on the platform should be read out of the party."

Dr. Stevenson said he could not see why the government should be called on to help "people who can pay $26.10 for a pin to show where they come from."

CONSTABLES' ACT TO BE AMENDED BY ATTY.-GENERAL

Would Permit Policemen to Go Outside Their Own Zone in Emergency

BUDGET CRITICIZED

Toronto, April 5—(CP)—Attorney-General Gordon Conant introduced in the legislature yesterday a bill to amend the Constables' Act to permit policemen from one municipality to exercise authority in another when circumstances warrant.

The bill is the successor to the measure withdrawn by Mr. Conant last week which would have given the Provincial Police Commissioner control of all Ontario police forces in time of emergency or for the apprehension of a dangerous criminal.

The bill brought in yesterday would give the Provincial Police Commissioner the right to inspect any police force in the province and, on order of the Attorney-General, to conduct an inquiry into any force.

Lord Beaverbrook Urges Recognition Of Duchess of Windsor

London, April 5—(CP-Havas)—Recognition of the Duchess of Windsor as "Her Royal Highness" was urged today by Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express.

Termination of the Duke of Windsor's exile would be of general benefit, the editorial said, declaring that refusal to accord his wife royal rank was a "petty injustice".

"The Duke of Windsor and his wife should be encouraged to return to Britain," the editorial said. "They have been away a long time. . . . It is the universal rule for a wife to take the status of her husband. . . . Earl Baldwin insisted on the rule at the time of the abdication crisis. A king's wife, he said, must be queen. A morganatic marriage was an institution unknown in this country. He refused to allow it to King Edward.

"The Duke of Windsor has now had a morganatic marriage forced upon him. His wife is not granted his own rank. This petty injustice is a poor return for the service which he gave his country."

Boys and Girls Must Join Hitler Youth

Berlin, April 5.—(AP)—Chancellor Hitler issued a decree today making it compulsory for all German boys and girls from 10 to 18 years to belong to the Hitler Youth.

The organization gives training in Nazi precepts and pre-military instructions for boys.

German boys henceforth will be obliged to serve eight years in the Hitler Youth, then six months in the Labor Service and two years in the Army.

Today's decree followed up another issued December 1, 1936, in which the general lines for a "State Youth" organization were traced.

KING DENOUNCES ADDRESS REPORT FALSE, PREVERTED

Speech Appeared Under By-line of Harold Dingman of Globe and Mail

CORRECT VERSION

Premier Asks Privilege of Press Gallery be Denied Correspondent

Ottawa, April 5—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King last night denounced as "very false and perverted" a report of his speech last Thursday on foreign affairs which appeared in the Toronto Globe and Mail under the by-line of Harold Dingman, that paper's correspondent in Ottawa.

Mr. Mackenzie King quoted the first two paragraphs of the Globe and Mail's report as follows:

"Ottawa, March 30—In the face of reports from Europe of a rapid development of a new and grave situation and intense activity in London, Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons today.

"'I cannot accept the view of some that regardless of circumstances this country must say here and now that Canada is prepared to support any action that may be decided upon by the government at Westminster.'"

POPE TO RENEW PEACE APPEAL

Will Make Declaration at Easter Service in St. Peter's

Vatican City, April 5—(AP)—The Pope has decided to read a declaration at the Easter service in St. Peter's Sunday which is expected to be a renewed appeal to the world for peace.

The Vatican announced the Homily in Latin would be read by the Pontiff after the gospel.

Arrangements have been made by the Vatican Radio Station to broadcast the message along with the rest of the Easter ceremony on a wavelength of 31.06 metres.

The services will begin after 10 a.m. (4 a.m., EST) and last until noon, when the Pope will impart this benediction to a crowd in St. Peter's Square from the balcony of the Basilica.

Chicago Mayor Re-elected

Chicago, April 5—(AP)—Mayor Edward J. Kelly, re-elected by a decisive margin, went back to his city hall desk today for another four-year term while party chieftains studied the election results for a tip on the 1940 contest for the United States Presidency.

Climaxing one of the strangest mayoralty campaigns in Chicago's history, the veteran Democratic leader defeated his youthful Republican opponent, Dwight Green, by approximately 180,000 votes.

Rome-Berlin Axis Superior in Air According to United States Experts

By EDWARD BOMAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, April 5—(AP)—Britain's new anti-aggression lineup unites imposing land and sea force but in the air United States experts said today, the most authoritative figures give the Rome-Berlin axis superiority.

Further, in the number of troops actually under arms, Germany and Italy together are shown by official reports to possess greater immediate striking power.

It is in trained reserves, naval might, and resources for a long struggle that an alliance of Great Britain, France and Poland appears to some experts to be better equipped—excluding the possibility of aid from Russia, Rumania or other nations.

Because of the aerial armadas of Germany and Italy, Paris and London would be in effect "hostages," subject to the peril of destruction in the event of war, in the view of Major General George Lynch, United States Chief of Infantry. Other authorities said, however, that this would not decide the outcome of a major conflict.

Relative Strengths

Latest available official data—subject to revision almost daily because of sudden moves on the European military checkerboard—give this picture of the relative strength in land forces:

Great Britain—208,500 men under arms, 573,500 including trained reserves.

France—725,000 active, 6,025,000 including reserves.

Poland—266,000 active, 1,713,000 including reserves.

Germany—930,000 active, 4,080,000 including reserves.

Italy—917,000 active, 7,412,000 including reserves.

The break-up of Czecho-Slovakia disbanded a trained army of 205,000 and disarmed most of an additional reserve force of 1,685,000.

Hungary, a possible Rome-Berlin ally, is credited with 50,000 men under arms, and an additional 650,000 reserves.

The land forces of other powers include:

Russia—1,500,000 active army, possibly 18,000,000 trained reserves.

Rumania—212,000 active; 1,828,000 including reserves.

Japan—1,500,000 or more under arms pressing the conflict with China and guarding the Siberian

Chamberlain Says He Took Action 'To Spare Public'

'Man-Guns' Phrase Was Unpremediated Commons Told

PRESS 'KILLS' STORY

No Change in Usual Orders Given to Navy

London, April 5—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons today that he personally gave directions that British newspapers should suppress or discount Earl Stanhope's "man the guns" speech because it gave an incorrect impression.

Mr. Chamberlain said he had acted to "spare the public unnecessary agitation" over the declaration made by Lord Stanhope, First Lord of the Admiralty, last night.

The Prime Minister said amid laughter and cheers: "Apparently my efforts to spare the public unnecessary agitation were not altogether successful but the incident will at any rate have served to demonstrate the constant readiness of the navy for all eventualities."

Stanhope Likely to Stay

Mr. Chamberlain said Lord Stanhope's statement was "unpremeditated" and denied that the First Lord had asked the press to give special prominence to his statement.

The Prime Minister's tendency to treat the incident as a misunderstanding left the impression that Lord Stanhope's position in the cabinet would not be impaired.

In a speech last night the First Lord declared that anti-aircraft guns of the fleet were manned "to be ready for anything."

The declaration provoked sharp repercussions. The Prime Minister's office issued a denial. The Admiralty asked the press to suppress the statement.

Colleagues Consulted

Mr. Chamberlain was understood to have sought the advice of his cabinet ministers on whether to ask for Lord Stanhope's resignation. He was said to take a grave view of the speech because of the effect it might have upon the delicate European situation during the defensive alliance discussions with Poland—which already have inspired German charges of an attempt to "encircle" Germany.

The Prime Minister said no other orders had been given by the admiralty other than that the

Earl Stanhope's Statement

London, April 5—(CP-Havas)—The text of the statement by Earl Stanhope, First Lord of the Admiralty, in the House of Lords today follows:

I should like to explain to the House the circumstances in which I made my remarks on the Ark Royal at Portsmouth yesterday evening.

The occasion was the initiation of a new scheme inaugurating the Royal Naval Film Corporation, a scheme whereby, thanks to the great generosity of the cinema industry and others, the best and most modern films are made available to the ships of His Majesty's fleet at home and abroad.

It was an occasion on which our guests who were there to receive the navy's thanks would expect every seat to be occupied. I ventured therefore to explain that the reason why there was not a full attendance

ESTIMATES PASSED

Ottawa, April 5—(CP)—From the disturbed condition of Europe and Canada's position in the event of war, the House of Commons turns today to one of Canada's own troubles—the wheat problem of Western Canada.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner will introduce the first of a series of bills embodying the government's new wheat policy. He will move for the introduction of a bill to provide for an acreage bonus to farmers in conditions of emergency and for a percentage deduction from all grain marketed in the spring wheat area, the three Prairie Provinces.

Premier's Statement

London, April 5 (AP)—Following is the text of a statement by Prime Minister Chamberlain before the House of Commons today concerning Earl Stanhope's "man the guns" declaration of last night.

I have seen the First Lord (of the Admiralty)) this morning and he has explained to me the circumstances in which the remarks were made, which apparently created some sensation. The occasion was the initiation of a new scheme in connection with the showing of films in the navy.

My noble friend's speech was unpremeditated and it is quite untrue as is suggested that he invited the press to give special prominence to it. In the course of his remarks my noble friend drew attention to the fact that there was not a full attendance as some of the men were retained on board their own ships in readiness to man their guns as has been the normal practice in time of tension.

No other orders had been given by the Admiralty than that this practice should not be relaxed even on so special an occasion. With regard to the subsequent proceedings I was informed in the course of the evening that considerable comment had been aroused by an earlier report on the wireless of what my noble friend had said.

I understood that this report had not been broadcast in this country although it had been on the Empire broadcast. Since it seemed to be likely to be treated, in fact it has been treated,, as a sensational matter whereas there was no reason or foundation for any sensation, I gave directions that the press should be asked not to publish the account of the First Lord's speech or if they did publish it not to ascribe to it any particular importance.

Apparently my efforts to spare the public unnecessary agitation were not altogether successful, but the incident will at any rate have served to demonstrate the constant readiness of the navy for all eventualities.

Brother and Sister Show Real Class At Amateur Show

Burton and Leonore Pickering, Picton, two talented youngsters that practically "stole the show" during the two-night presentation of the pick of Prince Edward County amateur talent at the McCarthy Theatre, were adjudged the winners at the conclusion of last night's performance and will represent their county at an amateur contest to be held in Toronto in the near future.

The show, that included seventeen acts, again played to a capacity house, and all numbers were received with generous applause. Jackie Marsh and a bevy of dancers from Miss Mary Forster's class augmented the show with sterling performances, with Philip Dodds again in the master-of-ceremonies capacity.

The Pickerings, who stage a "boy and girl" act will have all expenses paid to Toronto as part of the prize awarded the winners of the local contest. Other acts ran the ultimate winners a close race, and were afforded generous applause at the conclusion of their various performances.

Pennybank Deposits Show $711 Decrease In January and February

With an aggregate weekly percentage of forty for pupils depositing in the penny savings banks of the city, and part of Sidney Township, deposits for the months of January and February showed a decrease of $711.81 over the same period of a year ago. Deposits at the end of February shc against $10,883.34 of last year.

Individual percentages for schools are: King George 70; Queen Mary 35; Queen Victoria 32; Queen Alexandra 30; S.S. No. 4 Sidney, 54.

Five hundred and twenty three schools in Ontario showed $1,475,662.07 on deposit at the end of February as against five hundred and twelve schools with $1,425,230.57, of a year ago, or an increase of $50,432.50.

In a circular letter to the schools, J. R. Littleproud, Ontario Penny Bank Inspector, urged teaching on three important topics, namely, "The meaning and value of money", "The importance of regular purposeful saving" and "The need for wise spending."

Members of Famous Band Plan Reunion Here on June 17th

From the far-flung corners of the North American continent they will come. From Texas, Los Angeles, Chicago, New York and Canada, these musicians of the days of old, some of them today leaders and conductors of famous musical organizations, but still retaining a warm spot in their hearts for the famous Belleville Kilties Band that wrote musical history for Canada years ago, will arrive in the city on June 17, for a two-day reunion that will bring many of them together for the first time in two decades.

Plans for a reception are now under way, while tentative arrangements for a program of entertainment are being laid down, according to members of the local committee in charge of the affair.

The success of the re-union held here last year re-echoed until it came to the ears of many of those unable to be present. This year however, it is expected that a record number of the "old boys" will attend.

Local Military Units To Assist at Kingston During Royal Visit

Officers and other ranks of the 34th Field Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery and the Argyll Light Infantry (Tank) will be on parade in Kingston during the visit of Their Majesties to that city on May 21st, it was announced yesterday.

The local units will assist other units of the district to line the route of parade during the movements of the King and Queen.

TWO PERSONS HELD AFTER HOLD-UP

Toronto, April 5—(CP)— Peter Gruin, of Holland Landing, told police last night he had been assaulted and robbed of $45. Following investigations Oliver Holley was arrested on a charge of assault and robbery and a woman was detained as a maternal witness.

The victim claimed he met the couple in a hotel and they invited him to go for a walk. He said the robbery occurred on a downtown street.

ICE JAM MOVING GRADUALLY DOWN

Larger Volume Water Forces Ice Below Lower Bridge Today

Relentless pressure of tributary waters flowing into it from the back areas, aided the Moira River in its attempts to throw off its ice shackles yesterday. Free from ice from the lower stretches to the Cannifton Dam, flowing water has a clear sweep from the upper part of the river to the Lower City Bridge where the upper edge of the large icefield rested last night after being shoved toward the river mouth approximately three hundred yards from where it stopped on Sunday following the release of the ice-field above Lazier's Dam.

Heavy piling of ice is noticeable for some distance south of the Canadian Pacific Railway bridge, due to the steady pressure of tons of broken ice that is being forced down-river by the volume of free water flowing down from the upper stretches.

Last night at a late hour, the fourth movement of the east side of the ice-field left open water down as far as the Lower Bridge. Subsequent movement is forcing the ice-field gradually downstream, and today the expanse of open water between the lower bridge and the edge of the field is gradually growing larger.

Brilliant warm sunshine threw in its forces today with the river in its battle against the ice. While the ice-field directly south of the railway bridge is solid for the most part, city officials stated today that the warm sun will speed disintegration and aid materially in the clearance of ice from the bay proper.

Front Street merchants breathed easier today with the advent of the first Spring weather of the season. Flood threats were greatly minimized in the consensus of opinion, as water-levels of the river in the lower stretches failed to show any signs of rising.

TWO BREAKINS NET SOME CASH

$15 Taken from Service Station and Some Cash at Warehouse

Entrances into gasoline dispensing establishments and robberies in different parts of the city today baffled local police authorities when the breakins were not discovered until the business places were opened. In all incidents entrance was gained by jimmying doors with a pinch bar.

At the Bay Bridge service station, West Dundas Street, robbers entered and stole $15.00 from the cash register, a quantity of chocolate bars and candy, while at the Cities Service warehouse, South John Street, entrance was gained in the same manner, but only a small sum of money was obtained from the cash box last night. At Gilroy's service station at the corner of Foster Ave and East Dundas Street, however the robberies had doubtlessly been failed to jimmy open the door and gain entrance. Plainclothes Constable Fred Isard investigated the robberies today and later revealed the robberies had doubtless been completed by the same parties and with the same tools and implements used to gain entrance.

At the Cities Service warehouse on John Street, where only a small amount of silver and stamps were stolen from the cash drawer, the robbers broke open several desks and drawers in a futile effort to obtain more cash, but without results. At the Bay Bridge service station however, they were more successful some $15.00 having been left in the cash register. All desks and drawers here were also forced open. Police are convinced the same parties were responsible in all cases.

A quantity of gasoline was stolen from the pumps at the Bay Bridge station where an old gasoline pumphandle was found abandoned, it later being established that the pumphandle had been stolen from a Coleman Street gasoline station.

Obituary

THE LATE EVERETT MOYNES

(Frankford)

Frankford April 5.—(Special) — The funeral of the late Everett Moynes was held from the home on Trent Street on Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock.

Services in the home, in the United Church and at the graveside in Frankford Cemetery were conducted by Rev. J. F. Lane. During the church service Miss Ethel Maybee gave a vocal solo "There is no Night There".

The funeral was under Masonic direction and members of Franck Lodge A.F. & A.M. of which Mr. Moynes was a member, attended. The last rites at the graveside were conducted by Past Master Edward Nelson.

The United Church was filled with citizens and friends, many from out of town, who came to pay their last respects to one whose passing has cast a gloom over the whole community. Among those attending were members of the Frankford Citizens' Band. Mr. Moynes was a valued member of the Band for over forty years.

Bearers, members of Franck Lodge A.F. & A.M. were W. N. Simmons, C. D. Powell, Gerald Johnson, J. B. Ford, Harold Hadley and G. W. Dickson.

LATE GEORGE LITTLE

The funeral of George Little took place Tuesday afternoon, April 4th., from the residence of his sister, Mrs. George F. Cole, 46 West Bridge Street. The service in the home was conducted by the Rev. A. Poulter of Wooler, assisted by the Rev. Dr. James Semple, pastor of Bridge Street United Church and the Rev. Dr. E. N. Baker.

Interment was made in Frankford Cemetery, the service at the graveside was conducted by the Rev. A. Poulter and the Rev. Dr. Semple.

The bearers were Messrs W. Free, R. Wiley, Bert Wiley, E. Hubble, R. Bruyea and A. H. McGuire.

MRS. MARY A. CLARKE

(Foxboro)

Mrs. Mary A. Clarke, widow of Samuel James Clarke, passed away this Wednesday morning, April 5th., at her late residence in the village of Foxboro.

The late Mrs. Clarke was advanced in years, being 87 years of age. She was born in Thurlow Township, her parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Reid. For many years she had resided in Foxboro and was highly esteemed in the community. In religion she was a member of the Foxboro United Church.

Surviving her are two sons, Edward Guy Clarke of Foxboro, and Benjamin Aubrey Clarke of Corbyville; two sisters, Mrs. James McCurdy, Toronto, and Mrs. Phoebe Jaques of Foxboro.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR CONFER DEGREE

R. A. M. Degree of Chapter Exemplified in Splendid Manner

With members of King Baldwin Preceptory, Knights Templar, occupying the conferring chairs at Moira Chapter, R.A.M., No. 7, G.R.C., convocation last evening, the R.A.M. Degree was exemplified. All members of the degree conferring team were Past Principals of R.A.M. and members of the Knights Templar.

Following the degree work in the lodge room, which was witnessed by a large gallery, the members adjourned to the banquet hall where a delightful repast and entertainment followed, with Ex. Comp. Wm. Colby as toast-master. During the program Comp. Harold Howard rendered two solos, while Comp. Leo Riggs executed in his own inimitable manner the well known composition "Moonlight Sonata", as a piano solo.

Sir Knight Templar Garn Dobbs replied to the toast to the King Baldwin Preceptory, while the conventional R.A.M. toasts were also responded to.

Ex-Comp. E. T. Cherry occupied the First Principal's chair during the conferring of the degree and was assisted by Rt. Ex. Comp. J. O. R. McCurdy, Rt. Ex. Comp. J. O. Herity, V. E. Comp. W. I. Eva Masters returned home after spending two weeks visiting friends in Havelock.

The April Fool's Party which was held on Friday night, under the auspices of one of the groups of the W.A., under the leadership of Mrs. L. Bryant was a grand success. A nice crowd attended. A debate was held "Resolved that single blessedness was better than married bliss" Edith Austin and Wesley Down taking the single, and Mrs. Olive May and Mrs. M. Sharpe for the married. The result was the married ones won. It was real interesting. The Ladies had to make their new Easter hats and wear them. There were some strange looking outfits. Mrs. J. Goodfellow won the prize for the craziest looking one, and Roma Austin for the most original.

The trappers in this district have their traps set for muskrats but the season has been very poor as yet.

Mrs. Robt. Walker is improving a little, but still in bed. Marion McColl is staying with them for awhile.

Mission Band was held at the home of Betty Waite Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Gillings left on Friday for their new home on No. 2 Highway near Smithfield, where Mr. Gillings has hired for the summer to Mr. E. B. Seeds.

Mr. N. Easterly has been confined to his bed with congestion of the lungs.

Mr. W. J. Bell is not improving very fast. He is still confined to the house and very weak.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Gainforth spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. L. Bryant.

Sunday School and church services were well attended on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clegg, Trenton, called on Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bell on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Jones were called to Trenton Sunday night to see Mrs. Jones' mother, Mrs. Wrightman who is sick with pneumonia.

Special Services are being held all this week in the United Church leading up to Easter with guest speakers each night.

Tweed

Tweed—The Marion Coon Evening Auxiliary met in the United Church on Thursday evening with the members of the W. M. S. Auxiliary as guests. Miss H. Grindell, B. A., president, was in charge of the meeting, and conducted the Worship Service. The Scripture Reading was given by Miss C. McQuarrie. Miss K. Jordan read an Easter message. This was followed by an Easter hymn. Mrs. S. H. Connor was pianist for the meeting.

A detailed report of the Belleville Annual Presbyterial which was held in Picton in February was given by the delegates, Mrs. M. Ardenne, Mrs. R. Wood (whose report was read by Mrs. H. L. Morrison) and Mrs. M. Drinkwater. Mrs. W. S. Gordon, president of the W. M. S. of Tweed United Church and Vice President of Madoc District, who attended the annual Presbyterial, also gave some interesting highlights of the meetings.

A very pleasing solo was sung by Mrs. H. A. Grier. Following a hymn the meeting was concluded with prayer. Lunch was served. Unfavourable weather conditions resulted in a small attendance.

Mr. J. McCartney, member of the Conservation Department of Ontario Game and Fisheries, will be the guest speaker at the Community Club dinner at The Huyck House on Tuesday evening. The members of the Hockey Club, winners of the Cobley Trophy, will be guests of the Club.

An interesting meeting of the Actinolite Young People's Union was held on Thursday night. Most of the members of the Tweed group were in attendance as guests and supplied the programme. They were entertained later at a "taffy-pull", the first of the season.

The choir of Tweed United Church was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Porritt on Friday night. Following regular choir practice, an interesting "Quiz" game was provided by Miss Florence Blaney. Mr. Frank Tummon was the winner and Doug Connor was runner-up. They were awarded suitable prizes. Several splendid banjo numbers were played by Billy Porritt, Jr., of Vancouver, who is a wizard with the "picks." After a substantial lunch, Mr. S. H. Connor, choir leader, expressed to the host and hostess the choir's appreciation of their hospitality.

SPRING FRESHET IS ORDERLY

The Moira River break-up has been quiet and without incident. The season is late for an April spring freshet is not common. The fact that the date for the clearing of the river in the freshet is so far behind the time of other river rampages has made numbers of citizens realize how large a part the weather plays in causing or preventing a flood at Belleville. The weather, it is clear, has been conducive this year to an orderly and progressive clearance of the stream. It may well be that only the late weather prevented a flood and possibly a serious flood, and this emphasizes the annual ice menace. Rain had it fallen over a continued period could this year easily have been a deciding factor as it often is.

As everyone escaped damage and annoyance through the good manners of the Moira, everyone should be pleased that there has been no interference with the usual life of the citizens.

It may well be that some day in the near future there will be means adopted to assure the city protection from the annual threat of a river overflowing its banks.

DISTURBING NEWS

There were two pieces of news yesterday which caused some anxiety, the disorders at Mosul, Iraq, in which the British consul was assassinated and the report from Albania of some possible action by Italy to strengthen her grip on the Kingdom of Albania, on the Adriatic Sea across from Italy.

The killing of the consul in Mosul, Iraq, was not political in its origin, but was due to frenzy of a mob of hundreds of Iraq mourners, inflamed by rumors that their young king, who had been killed in an accident in a car had been assassinated.

Whether the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo axis is turning from Poland, the Corridor and Danzig to the Mediterranean to overcome the growing anti-Hitler bloc which Britain and France are organizing to the northeast of these countries is of course speculative. Is it possible the Italian claim is coming up again and that another stage of the showdown is at hand?

If the Central Europe dictators feel themselves frustrated by the British-French stand over Poland and the East and turn attention to the Mediterranean, the world may make sure there will be other moves of the German-Italian axis to gain its point. These will provide plenty of problems from time to time. The powers are dealing with vast issues and forces which will require many moves on the checkerboard of Europe and perhaps Asia.

HITLER'S REACTION

Whatever idea Chancellor Adolf Hitler had in his mind about where Britain would stand in the event of a drive of aggression or domination across Europe by the Germans or perhaps of world control, he must now know that henceforward he must speak in a different tone. He cannot play with the flimsy excuses or pretenses of ill-treatment of German minorities. He faces a determined force of Britain and France, there is no doubt of that. Seemingly he has not shown any desire hitherto to have Britain against him, but he clearly showed by his reaction as he stood behind a "glass shield" on Saturday at Wilhelmshaven at the launching of a new battleship, that the new facts were very unpleasant to him. The wonder is if he thought Germany could be allowedl to proceed as she seems to have had in mind to proceed without meeting opposition. His ill-temper at the Saturday function contained a few threats, but yet he was careful not to go too far. Perhaps what he did not say was more important than what he did say or perhaps he did succeed in keeping his display of anger as quiet as possible except at one point when he attacked British empire growth and spoke of Britain's present satisfaction and her desire to be virtuous in her age. There his temper got the better of the reputed astute man.

Germany realizes that Britain is alert and that she must move more carefully and perhaps modify her plans. Even as Mr. Chamberlain said on Monday, there is no threat to Germany and nothing need worry her if she has no ill intentions or as he summed it up in words "as long as Germany remains a good neighbor". Germany must have realized perhaps for the first time that she has stirred Britain to action which may take many forms —such for instance, as the anti-Hitler bloc to halt the race Germany seemingly intended down to the Black Sea. She must realize that there is a united British nation standing directly in her path and saying "Not a step farther." Germans heard such words in Belgium in 1914 and they were true. Perhaps Hitler's annoyance was intensified by the fact that he must hold himself in, that he had a bigger program to face in the outside world and now in Germany herself with the turn the enemies of oppression and domination have taken to halt him.

BACK TO THE LAND IS THE SOLUTION OF UNEMPLOYMENT AND ALL THE MAJOR ILLS WHICH MANKIND is heir to, according to some students of economics. Drift from the farms to the cities has thrown the whole world out of focus and the factories which started the vogue of paying big wages for unskilled labor are accused of throwing the whole economic system out of balance by attracting labor from the farms. There is land enough in Canada to support many millions more than are now included in the census—now the bogy of over-production is raised. After the family has lived well and enjoyed life in a manner which would have seemed like a fairy tale to the pioneers if they could have visualized it, there might be some left over. Better than to have a scarcity. However, what we started out to discuss was local vacant lots for vegetable growing. Mayor Bone says that lots will be provided, also free seed and all encouragement for the unemployed to raise vegetables for next winter. No doubt if enough vacant lots were spoken for there could be a ploughing bee put on and all the lots ploughed up at once.

INVITATIONS IN BANK WINDOWS asking citizens to come in and borrow money for the improvement of their homes is a hopeful sign. Easier money, easier to get, and cheaper, can be put to work in a manner which will make a great deal of work when it is most needed, in the spring and summer. Cooperation with the Government Home Improvement Plan and with the new Housing Act is a step in the right direction, encouraging better homes, happier citizens and providing employment for men in the building trades, as well as factories and stores producing and selling building supplies. Folks who have the urge for a home of their own and folks who own their own homes and wish to improve them should study the Home Improvement Plan and the new Housing Act.

TWELVE STRIKES IN A ROW was the outstanding feature of the American Bowling Congress in Cleveland recently. William McGeorge, of Kent, Ohio, an average bowler, supplied the feature almost unconsciously in singles competition. Bowler McGeorge was hardly aware of the fact that he was doing anything sensational, being so intent on his game, until eleven strikes had been chalked up—then he became jittery and a newsman discribed his emotions thus: "Down the alley now the pins looked hazy. Bowler McGeorge felt a little sick at his stomach. His palms sweated so that he had to dry them. He dabbed his fingers with chalk, got a grip of sorts on himself, picked up the ball, sighted down the maple strip, and let fly. It was his only erratic shot. There was a gasp as it crossed over, broke toward the Brooklyn (left) side. But on the left side is the 1-2 pocket, which bowlers sometimes call Last Chance Gulch and right in there Bowler McGeorge's last straying hook nudged its way. Obedient to the master, the pins vanished into the pit, every last one."

YANKEE MONEY WELCOME. Some controversy having arisen as to the wisdom of the one hundred dollar trading concession to tourists entering Canada, and vice versa, investigation has shown that our cousins from over the line spend much more money in Canada on their visits than do Canadians crossing the line southward. As Canada gets the better of the exchange why worry?

PREPARED FOR PINCHING

An Italian who kept a fruit stand was much annoyed by possible customers who made a practice of handling the fruit and pinching it, thereby leaving it softened and often spoiled. Exasperated beyond endurance, he finally put up a sign which read: "If you must pincha da fruit—pincha da cocoanut."

At the regular monthly business meeting of the members of the Belleville Congregational Church, Hotel Street, last evening, the following resolutions were adopted: (1) That believing it to be detrimental to the prosperity and interest of this church to continue under the Canada Congregational Missionary Society, we decline further aid from that Society from the 1st. of April 1889. (2) That we guarantee our pastor, the Rev. T. W. Bowen, a salary of $600.00 per annum, with an additional $100.00 if feasible from the 1st. of April.

Many interested persons visited the stable today to obtain a view of the horse for which the price paid was $2,500.00

Abstaining From Drinking

Hamilton, Ontario,
March 29th, 1939.

To The Editor Ontario Intelligencer:—

Dear Sir:

Why abstain from Drink? I am now a man getting on in life, having passed the three-score-and-ten years, having come along a life somewhat varied.

My father was a building contractor—stone and brick, etc. It was customary in those days for the men to have drink around the building—not in an extravagant way, let me say. Some days beer would be taken; other days whiskey would make its appearance; the men chipping in. Sometimes the men would be a little under the influence of drink, but usually kept quite sober.

I remember on one occasion we were building a large smelter in a gold mining district; a very large contract and a difficult task, an engineer of note superintending it. There were Cornishmen and Italian miners, clever Swedish men in metallurgy, and much drinking, as I remember.

One Sunday stands out in my memory. Most of our men walked four miles to Church; we attended the English Church. On walking home it could be seen some had attended more than the Service, noticeably by their walk and their conversation; but their behavious was fairly good, as I remember.

This is to let you know my life has been somewhat varied. However, the time came when I joined the Methodist Church. My brother had done so before me. That meant no more drink. As time went on I attended College in Toronto—a fine class of young men, '86-'89.

Having worked in the Draughting Department, Aitchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad, Chicago, without any harm—very little drinking except one man as I remember, who used to be up against it by the end of the month. I used to lend him a little occasionally. A brief experience as a Civil Engineer—all went well.

Returning to Toronto in 1890 and entering on a medical course, meeting young men of fine calibre; I don't remember meeting men of the drinking habit, as in my recollection. At the University of Toronto I do not remember many young men who drank; some, but very few; a splendid type of young men.

Graduating in Medicine in 1894, I started practice in Huron County—Crediton; largely German town, and to their credit, not much drinking. I do not remember many men under the influence of liquor.

Leaving that village, I eventually settled in Watford, Ont., where there were three hotels. Of course there was drinking going on, but I do not remember much drinking. Practiced there about five years, and then coming to the City of Hamilton, I worked up a practice, where I live.

Now this is written to let you know what can be done by a young hard-working man who lives a sober life. Beginning as a mason-bricklayer, then engineering, and after that practising in medicine. A varied life—sometimes tempted, and yet getting through with a fair amount of success. Had I taken to drink, I could never have done it. I lived away from my home all the time; I was not a saint, but a persevering young man. When I joined the church, that settled me down—no drink, and kept it.

What money I could have spent as a jolly good fellow, one of the boys, etc! But where would I have landed? I could never have accomplished two courses at a University, that is sure. Look what it costs; And let me say here, I do not smoke, and thank God I am not tied up to drinking, smoking, or chewing; I am not a saint, but a man free from those habits.

Now here is the important thought; why have the young people of Ontario taken to drink so strongly? I have had a varied life, had to borrow money to accomplish the standing that I have attained; M.D., C.M., Toronto University, 1894; M.B., Toronto, 1911.

Many a man has done better, and the point is to impress on our young men and women too, is to live noble and sober lives. I wasn't extra clever; had to study real hard; worked in the summer time at my trade and then to College in the winter.

The young men and women of Ontario have had an excellent training on the harm of alcohol to the system. Our great churches have stood for abstinence, and there are many societies to help young men and women to live sober. Why have they turned to such drinking habits? If they didn't drink we wouldn't need so many drinking parlors. But more, I am very proud of the people who go to from our population. We have in this fair land of Canada a people unsurpassed anywhere, I believe, for the building up of a great nation. Let us as men and women be proud of that fact. However, let us take it to heart and see to it that we do our part by example and influence to make Our Fair Dominion an outstanding member of the British Commonwealth of Nations, keeping the Ten Commandments — the rock bottom of a nation's greatness — and the laws that have come down to us from the Magna Charta, the Charter of Liberty, on to the present day. Let us stand by the churches, of our country. The inspiration of good thought, true religion, pure science, education, good citizenship, and last but not least, Home Living, where the Bible is not forgotten.

Yours truly,
"CANADIAN"

ATHLETIC LEGISLATORS

Aspiration of Syl Apps star centre of the Toronto Maple Leafs, to a political career probably came as something of a surprise, when it was first scanned in a press dispatch, but it should occasion no continued shock. Apps would run for the federal seat in Brant, so the dispatch stated.

Lionel Conacher, after twelve years of professional hockey and a long reign as Canada's outstanding all-round athlete, created a precedent for this jump from the ice sheets to the more softly upholstered legislative chambers of the nation, though Lionel, of course, is performing in the supposedly minor group at Queen's Park, while Apps is setting his firing sights for Ottawa.

Conacher made the jump to the legislative halls after having one of the oldest careers of hockey. Waived on by every club in the league when he seemed definitely well down the side of the wrong side of the hill, he came back to re-establish himself once more as an outstanding star—the spark of inspiration for two different teams, which in successive years won honors. Conacher hardly seemed fitting himself for more serious duties, as he barnstormed his way over the country's wrestling rings, but to give him credit, he was too honest at heart to grimace and act his way through these athletic farces. He may have been an honest, even a good wrestler, but he was a flop when it came to the histrionics of "rassling." However, the voters even forgave the wrestling interlude.

But Apps has a college background.—Timmins Press.

A Slight Defect in Hearing Can Spoil a Child's Life

In testing the hearing of a young patient, the physician was whispering certain numbers —8, 7, 5, 6— which the patient was to repeat. He was repeating the numbers correctly but the physician noticed that he had turned his head and was watching the physician's lips. With the young patient eyes to the front, the physician standing behind, the patient was unable to repeat a single number correctly. He admitted that he had 'got by' and 'was getting by' by lip reading. His voice lacked resonance. This patient was making a mistake in not using a hearing aid as he would lose much of a lecture, a stage performance, or even a motion picture if he were unable to see the lips of the speaker or actor.

In regard to children, Dr. Horace Newhart, in Laryngoscope, says:

"As a result of extensive hearing tests made by modern methods, it is known that a slight defect in hearing in the school child may cause such difficulties as speech defects, slowness in school, behavior problems, and inferiority complex. Further, the frustration, anxiety, and tiredness due to prolonged effort to hear may be partly to blame for disorders of speech."

"Extensive use of audiometers (machines to measure degree of hearing) has disclosed an amazingly high percentage of defective hearing which has been overlooked by the older methods—watch, loud whisper, tuning fork. New methods of testing are four or five times as accurate as older methods and should be used as widely as possible as early discovery of hearing defects is most important."

There is no question but that a youngster, naturally as bright as other members of the class, but with a slight defect in hearing, is not only going to miss much which the teacher or others say, but will miss practically all that is said because he cannot make sense of what he does hear. School will become distasteful to him because he gets behind his fellow pupils, and an inferiority complex develops, all because his slight defect of hearing was unnoticed or disregarded.

Fortunately, the testing of eyesight and hearing is now a regular procedure in many schools.

SAFE WALKING

In Vermont the Legislature has received a bill that would require all who walk on highways after dark carry reflectors. The proposal seems at first thought a safe and sane one to protect motorists as well as careless pedestrians, but it may have one serious result.

A person walking on the road may possibly wear the reflector on his back or strapped to his arm in such a fashion as to catch the light from cars approaching from the rear. The safer way of walking on a highway at night is to keep well to the left so that the walker will be seen by cars coming toward him and so that he will be able to judge the distance of cars from the left edge of the road.

In New York State the law grants legal protection in accidents to those pedestrians who walk on the left side of highways. A measure requiring reflectors might well be so written, therefore, as to encourage the practice among those who find it necessary to walk on roads after dark.—New York Sun.

CANADIAN CARGO

Few ships carry more varied cargo than the North Atlantic traders berthing in Surrey Commercial docks. For examples of this variety I watched the S. S. Ausonia discharging in the Greenland Dock early in February.

Apples from Nova Scotia, now at the height of their season, were swung up from the ship's hold on trays each holding 16 barrels. Each trayload was deposited on an electric runabout, which whisked it into a quayside shed. The broad classification "Apples" was subdivided, "Golden Russel" "Gano" and "Ben Davis" being the brands in particular prominence.

At the same time Ausonia's derricks were groping in another hold for powdery sacks of flour. Among the cargo already discharged were huge hogsheads of Canadian tobacco, "bowlers" containing cheese, a stack of cardboard cartons of breakfast food, U.S.A. lard in wooden boxes, washing machines, rolls of paper, typewriters, and ladies' rubber.—Manchester Guardian. (Eng.) Monthly.

BOILING THE MONEY

Of the many sidelines of London's daily life one that is disappearing is the boiling of money. It was centred in the Billingsgate area, and was an outcome of the unpleasant condition in which coins used to leave the market after a few hours' handling.

It was no unusual thing for coins of the realm to acquire an accretion of bits of fish, rice, and other oddments which frequently cemented them firmly together into a disagreeable mass. An enterprising bank on the outskirts of the market set up a "laundry" on its premises, and several hundred weight of silver and copper coins were cleaned there every night by a process of boiling them in strong soda and water — not a particularly pleasant task.

This has continued until comparatively recently, when more modern methods of handling cash and changes in accounting procedure have reduced the need for so much Spring cleaning, although even now there are occasional "wash-days". It is still necessary to send to the Bank of England for destruction the bulk of the notes that are handled in the market.—Manchester Guardian. .. ....

Madoc

Madoc —During February and March a winter school for leadership training, sponsored by the Young People's District Executive was held in Trinity United Church Madoc. Rev. S. B. Smith pastor of Eldorado circuit conducted the class on the study of "The Bible and Christian Religion." Rev. Mr. Snelgrove of Queensboro on "The Christian View of Life" and Rev. I. E. Kennedy of Madoc led in "Youth Action In Personal Religion." Miss Bessie Gordon of Tweed took charge of the recreational part of each evening, very ably assisted by Miss June Brown at the piano.

Between thirty and forty persons attended the school, which was held one evening a week for five week and despite the fact that illness and bad roads caused some of the meetings to be postponed till the last of March the work was very successful.

The final class on Wednesday, March 29th began with a jolly pot-luck supper and sing song and was much enjoyed by all. Then the usual study period followed after which Miss Gordon led in recreational period of games and fun. A vote of thanks for their faithful work and generous use of their time was tendered the leaders of the classes by Miss Edith MacDermid. Mr. Snelgrove conducted the devotional exercises and also presented certificates to those who had attended at least four out of the five classes, studied the text book provided for the work and successfully completed the four written assignments set for the course covered. Following are the names of those granted certificates.

A—The Bible and Christian Religian—Mrs. V. G. Sanderson.

B—Youth Action In Personal Religion—Mrs. W. J. Blair, Miss June Brown, Mrs. T. E. Burnside, Mrs. Percy Derry, Miss Goldie Godfrey, Miss Annie Holmes, Miss E. MacDermid, Miss Mary Bronson.

C—The Christian View of Life—Miss Bessie Gryce, Miss Betty Rose, Miss Grace Garrett, Mrs. H. De Clair, Mrs. J. Roushorn.

After a hymn, Rev. Kennedy pronounced the benediction, bringing to a close a very inspiring and enjoyable winter's work.

The March meeting of the Women's Institute took the form of a banquet in the S. S. rooms of Trinity United Church on Friday evening, March 31, and was sponsored by the losing team in the contest for membership. The tables were set in an U shape and looked very inviting, following a color scheme of mauve and yellow and dotted here and there with colorful chickens and Easter eggs. After some community singing, Mrs. Nickle, Hon. Pres., introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Fair, agricultural representative of Stirling. His address was along agricultural activities and junior boys' and girls' projects throughout the county and was terminated by the showing of slides on "Home Beautification Across Canada." Miss MacDermid assisting, by reading the manuscript. These slides were much enjoyed and afforded an inspiration to beautify our own surroundings. A vote of appreciation was tendered the speaker by Mrs. C. Whytock seconded by Mrs. R Bristol. The Institute members voiced by the President were glad to welcome their four past presidents, namely, Mrs. A. H. Watson, Mrs. Jas. Caskey, Mrs. C. Whytock and Mrs. T. L. Nickle, also Mrs. E. West who was the only member present that joined Madoc Branch when it was instituted in February 1910. Moved by Mrs. C. McCoy and seconded by Mrs. Davies the Women's Institute finance the installing of electric lights in one room of the Public School. Current events were given in a very interesting manner by Mrs. C. McCoy. Mrs. McCarey continued her course in Buymanship with a reading "Tips to Husbands re-Budgeting." The Roll Call "Made in Canada Products" showed 50 members and 26 visitors present.

Mrs. Dymond, leader of the winning team thanked the losing team for the wonderful banquet also the good fellowship existing between teams. A vocal solo "A Perfect Day" was given by Mrs. Geo. White and was much enjoyed. Doris Broad delighted those present by a humorous reading. Mrs T. Jones sang "Can't You Hear Me Callin' Caroline" in her usual good style. The meeting closed by the singing of the National Anthem.

Mrs. Ham of Toronto is visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Kenneth Nicol.

Mrs. Benson Kincaid and little daughter returned to their home in Toronto on Sunday after having spent the winter months with Mrs. A. Kincaid.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Porritt and son Will, Jr., of Vancouver B. C. spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. C. Whytock.

The Senior Girls' Auxiliary of St. John's Anglican Church held the monthly supper meeting in the Guild Rooms on Friday evening. The husbands and friends of the members were guests at this meeting. Mrs. W. Hart arranged a very amusing supper hour with everyone assisting in serving and providing entertainment. Community singing was enjoyed. The evening was spent in playing cards, Miss Jean Phillips and Mr. Harry Thompson being the winners. Rev. and Mrs. Swayne were present, this being the last meeting of the Auxiliary before they leave for their new home in Merrickville, Ont.

Young W. Club, Afternoon Tea

The Young Women's Club of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church held an afternoon tea at the home of Mrs. G. L. Thain on Thursday.

Mrs. Thain received the guests while Miss MacIntosh invited them to the dining room; where Mrs. W. Hawthorne poured tea and Mrs. Norman Whytock, Mrs. Kenneth Nicol and Miss Margaret Cochran served. The dining table was prettily decorated with lighted candles and beautiful spring flowers.

Miss Patricia Meagher who is a patient in Belleville General Hospital following an operation for appendicitis is progressing favorably.

... Jean Stobie who is attending Branksome Hall will spend the Easter holidays at her home here.

Fashion Flashes

(By Alice Alden)

TOP HEAVY with trimming are many of the new hats, yet they manage to retain a fragile delicacy and charm. A forward-perching beret of deep green baltbuntl straw piled high with honey-suckle and wheat. Twists of misty green velvet in back and a frothy green well trim the hat.

Getting quite fancy are some of the new beach slacks. From Paris comes a pair of slacks, beautifully tailored, of tiny black and white check with a line of red checks blocking the design. Nice with black white or red jacket and contrasting shirt.

Not all lace dresses are bouffant. A slinky and slim evening frock is of white lace, cut on narrow princess lines, fastening in front with a diagonal slide-fastener. The closing is made soft with an edging of net.

An echo of Valentine Day is found in a lovely print. It is of little red hearts and white winged cupids and arrows, all forming a lovely design on black or white silk. Heart shaped belt buckle in red leather carries out the theme.

Plenty of requests for colorful tweeds. A new suit is of pinkish-mauve tweed with a cross-bar in wine color. Worn with a violet georgette blouse with huge self-bow.

Watch your greens for you'll find that green in every shade is tops this Spring. Pale green filmy lace makes a charming evening frock. The lace has its pattern outlined with silk braid and is worn over a foundation of chartreuse green taffeta.

Little Benny's Note Book

We were eating supper, being lamb stew without dumplings, and ma said to pop, O deer, Willyum, I was just thinking, 3 whole weeks have gone by since your berthday and the imported cigars I gave you have practically all dissapeared in smoke, and before we know it you'll have still another berthday and be still another year older.

So will you, but you dont see me taking any gloating joy in the thought for Peet sake, pop said, and I said, Hay pop, hay ma, do you know what it says in my Junior Encyclopedia of Universal Nollege, it says the world is 2 billion years old.

Now that's what I call constructive information, pop said. My own few paltry berthdays dont even seem worth mentioning when I reflect that it's been 2 billion years since Flathead the cave dweller last asked for a mess of wild elephant's liver and onions, only to be repulsed by a withering glance from Flap Ears his wife, he said, and ma said, You had liver and onions yestidday, so if that was meant to be a hint it was lost on the desert air.

What right have I to feel the weight of my years when I think that Knobby Knees the treeman might of lived on this very spot, happy in his ignorance that the invention of Culbertson was 2 billion years away, pop said, and ma said, Now Willyum, you're not going to get out of that bridge game tonight, the Hewses expect us and that's the long and short of it in a nutshell.

Okay, I'll go on one consideration, tell me I look younger than the first day you saw me, pop said, and ma said, O yes, yes you look like a babe in arms and you talk like one for land sakes.

Honor is sattisfied, lead me to the slawter, pop said.

Meening the bridge game, wich she did right after supper.

Cooking School at St. Andrew's Largely Attended on First Day

Miss Leta Small Devotes Time to Making of Cakes

PRIZES AWARDED

Sugar and spice and everything nice went into the delicious baked goods prepared by Miss Leta Small, home science director of Moffats, Ltd., at yesterday's cooking school sponsored by the Belleville Utilities and the Guild of St. Andrew's Church. The first day of the school was devoted to the demonstration of correct method of making cakes, small cakes, biscuits and icing.

Mr. Everett Smith of the Belleville Public Utilities opened the school, welcoming the large audience and explaining that the classes were arranged to help Belleville homemakers to cook more economically and to get better knowledge of their electric ranges. He invited the ladies to ask any questions and to feel perfectly at home at the school.

No Stranger to City

In introducing Miss Leta Small, Mr. Smith said that the director of the cooking school was no stranger to Belleville audiences who awaited her visits with keen anticipation and found the classes she conducted thoroughly interesting and instructive.

Miss Small was enthusiastically received by the ladies as she stepped on the stage which had been transformed into a beautifully appointed kitchen with the latest electrical equipment. She explained the program for the afternoon and began her demonstration, her skilful fingers working busily as she discussed the various articles she prepared.

Spice cake, pear upside down cake, economical sponge cake used as a basis for an Easter dessert, jelly icing, cocoanut nest cookies and savory sandwich biscuits were prepared before the audience.

Many Useful Hints

Miss Small had many useful hints in cake making to present to her hearers. It was first necessary to have all ingredients ready, to go ahead without interruption. Standard measuring equipment was invaluable and it was an added help to have all ingredients at room temperature. Tablespoon measurement rather than cup measurement for butter is more accurate. A large enough bowl and wooden spoon, for mixing, saved time and patience.

The director explained every step in the preparation of the various delicacies, showing how a little ingenuity will transform the same recipe into many different forms.

Electrical Rates Discussed

At the conclusion of the class, Mr. Smith addressed the ladies, speaking particularly on the low electrical rates in the city, a chart of comparative rates of other cities illustrating his talk.

Prizes Awarded

Splendid prizes were arranged by the Guild donated by various firms and these, with the cooking, were won by the following lucky ticket holders: steamer—Mrs. Facer, 307 Foster Avenue; lamp—Mrs. W. Mrs. McCauley Guest Of Women of Moose

Provincial Dean, Academy of Friendship, Visits Local Chapter

The regular meeting of the Women of the Moose, Belleville Chapter 435, was presided over by Senior Regent York. Mrs. Dorothy McCauley and Miss Margaret Magee, Toronto, were guest speakers of the evening.

Junior Regent Chapman gave her library report for the quarter. Junior Graduate Regent McGinness read the report of the Mooseheart Chairman and Co-Worker Saylor reported on her activities for Moosehaven.

Following the exemplification of the ritual, presentations of bouquets of beautiful Spring flowers were made to the Provincial Dean and to Miss Magee.

To Co-Worker Pianist Cooke a presentation of a pair of silver candlesticks was made as Mrs. Cooke is leaving for her new home in Peterborough. suitable replies were made by the recipients.

Luncheon was served under the chairmanship and committee of homemaking and at this time humourous anecdotes were told by Mr. Norman Heyd of Toronto and a hearty vote of thanks to Co-Worker Mrs. Mossman was tendered for the money turned over to the Chapter due to her efforts.

LT.-COL. LOCKE COMMANDS

Toronto, April 5.— (CP)— The Governor-General's Horse Guards have a new commanding officer today following a military pageant at which Lieut.-Col. A. E. Nash handed over the command to Lieut.-Col. R. P. Locke.

Nearly 400 members of the famous cavalry regiment paraded for the ceremony last night.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties.

BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep.

So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders.

You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

Weddings

CUMMINS—PIGDEN

Christ Church, Belleville, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on April 4, at 2 p.m. when Audrey Mae, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Pigden, Oshawa, became the bride of Gordon Edgar, son of the late John Cummins and Mrs. W. C. Mitchell of Belleville.

The Rev. G. G. Wright officiated. The church was decorated with pink tulips, snapdragons and sweet peas. Wedding Music was played by Mr. George Maybee, organist of Christ Church.

During the signing of the register Mrs. Robt. Sayers of Picton, aunt of the groom sang "O Promise Me".

The bride, given in marriage by her father chose a floor length gown of white triple sheer crepe with matching bolero jacket. Her full length tulle veil was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried Calla lilies.

Miss Dorothy Pigden was her sister's bridesmaid and wore sheer crepe in salmon pink with matching jacket and turban. Her accessories were white and she carried deep pink tulips.

Little Miss Agnes, tiny sister of the bride, as flower girl wore deep pink crepe with pale blue sash and bows and white accessories. She carried a basket of sweet peas and fern.

Carmen Mitchell, brother of the groom assisted as best man.

The ushers were Douglas Mitchell, brother of the groom, and Ormal Pigden, brother of the bride.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. F. W. Noakes, 57 Grier Street, Belleville.

Mrs. Pigden, mother of the bride wearing a navy and pink ensemble of silk crepe, and corsage of blush pink roses and Mrs. Mitchell in navy sheer and corsage of red roses received with the bride and groom.

After a buffet luncheon the bride and groom left on a motor trip for Windsor and points west. For travelling the bride chose rose wool tailored ensemble with black coat and accessories and squirrel cape. The groom's gift to the bride was a cameo pendant, to the bridesmaid a sequin evening bag, to the best man, a gold tie set, to the flower girl a gold brooch and the soloist a turquoise brooch.

Out of town guests were Mrs. Robt. Sayers, Grace and Florence and Crayton of Picton and Mrs. Fortune of Galt.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Cummins will take up residence on the groom's farm near Belleville.

(Oshawa papers please copy.)

It is a treat to see the new house coats and hostess gowns for they are smarter than ever. A new mode with slim bodice and wide skirt, is of black chenille ribbed white taffeta. The black is repeated in large velvet bows at shoulders and waistline of fitted basque.

"PRIDE OF THE NAVY"
"MEET THE MISSUS"

Now playing at the McCarthy for the last times are two well cast and outstanding comedy features that will give you a swell evening's screen entertainment, James Dunn and Rochelle Hudson are presented in at tidal-wave of romance and fun in the first attraction "Pride of the Navy" and Victor Moore and Helen Broderick provide hilarious laughs throughout the second hit entitled "Meet The Missus", Anne Shirley with Alan Bruce, co-star in the romantic sequences of this swell second feature. An all technicolor Walt Disney Mickey Mouse cartoon entitled "Boat Builders" completes the programme.

"Paderewski"

Next at the McCarthy Theatre comes the eagerly awaited first and only screen appearance of Ignace Jan Paderewski, world's finest pianist in "Moonlight Sonata" with Charles Farrell, Marie Tempest and lovely Barbara Greene heading the excellent supporting cast of this romantic musical production.

AT THE BELLE

"Ice Follies of 1939"

The problem of careers versus marriage finds an answer against the glamour of a back-stage romance of Hollywood in "The Ice Follies of 1939", starring Joan Crawford with James Stewart, Lew Ayres, Lewis Stone and the famous "International Ice Follies" troupe. The new picture is now on the Belle screen.

Portraying a singing role for the first time since embarking on a musical career, Miss Crawford is seen as Mary McKay, a singing skater who marries James Stewart, only to find that she cannot acknowledge the union due to a "no marriage" clause in a motion picture contract signed in an effort to keep the team of Stewart, Lew Ayres and herself from starving.

The couple separate when Stewart realizes that he is proving a hindrance to her career. She soars rapidly to stardom and Stewart, reunited with Ayres, works on tangible plans for the staging of a spectacle on ice to be known as the "Ice Follies".

Called to New York for a personal appearance, the star arrives on the same night that Stewart's "Ice Follies' is opening. The two are reunited for a brief moment but quarrel and depart for their respective theatres. Stewart's "Ice Follies" wins acclaim as the hit of the season.

Stewart in the meantime, discovers that his own wife is the mysterious backer of his show and upon verifying this truth renounces all interest in the company. The complications which follow prove thrilling and end with a shot of the name Stewart's wife added in lights to the cast of the "Ice Follies".

In addition to the popular stars of the picture is the entire troupe of the original "International Ice Follies", headed by Bess Ehrhardt and Roy Shipstad, Eddie Shipstad and Oscar Johnson. Elaborate ensemble numbers and specialties form an integral part of the picture which was directed by Reinhold Schunzel.

"Double Diving" is the title of the Pete Smith Specialty to be presented on the same program with "The Wrong Way Out", a gripping "Crime Does Not Pay" story and the popular pictorial News.

BABY CONSTIPATED?

BABY'S daily movements are something of which absolutely accurate track must be kept. When he misses something must be done at once. Constipation is serious for baby.

Mrs. John T. Reid of Hespeler, Ont., has this to say: "Having had seven children and having used Baby's Own Tablets for all seven, can say they are the best and gentlest regulator for children — safe and effective for the tiniest infant. I give them up to 10 years of age. During teething Baby's Own Tablets were a boon to me as they cleared up at once any digestive disturbance or fretfulness."

Equally effective for simple fever, diarrhoea, upset stomach, colic, simple croup and other minor ailments of babyhood.

Quick and sure in their action. Easy to take. Harmless, and safe. Do not contain opiates or stupefying drugs. Each package contains analyst's certificate. Get a box today. Sickness so often strikes in the night. 25 cents. Money back if not satisfied.

OBITUARY

MRS. ESTHER PRESTON

Stricken with a stroke three weeks ago today, Mrs. Esther (Allen) Preston, widow of Robert Preston died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Weese, early today. The deceased was born in Florida, Ontario, 78 years ago, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Allen. For the past eight years she has resided with her daughter in Belleville and previously resided with her son, William C. Preston in Hungerford Township. The late Mrs. Preston was well and favorably known in this city and district and her many friends will sincerely regret her passing. The deceased was an ardent member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in this city and formerly of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at Roslin, where she took an active part in all church work. Surviving are one son William C. Preston of Hungerford Twp, three daughters, Mrs. Ralph Weese of Belleville, Mrs. John Johnson of Hungerford Twp, Mrs. T. J. Holland of Belleville, one brother J. H. Allen of St. Catharines, one sister, Mrs. F. L. Hicks of St. Catharines and eight grandchildren.

Funeral announcement will be found elsewhere in this issue.

LATE HERMAN GOODMURPHY
(Consecon)

The funeral of Herman Goodmurphy took place from his late residence at Consecon, Prince Edward County, on Monday, April 3rd. The service in the home and at the mausoleum in Belleville Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. H. Saunders, assisted by the Rev. E. Cook.

The bearers were Messrs Thomas Clarke, Roy Taylor, Wm. Zufelt, (Foxboro), Douglas Bush, Lester Puffer and Freeman French.

There were many beautiful floral tributes.

The late Mr. Goodmurphy died on Friday, March 31st., after an illness of two weeks' duration. He was born 66 years ago in Prince Edward County, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Davis Goodmurphy. All his life was passed in Prince Edward County and he was highly esteemed in the community. For many years he conducted a grocery store at Consecon. In religion he was a member of the United Church at Consecon.

Surviving him are his wife, who prior to her marriage to him was Harriet Hamilton Dyer; one son, Allan Goodmurphy, and granddaughter, Dawn, Consecon; one stepson, Ralph Dyer, Detroit, Mich.; two daughters, Mrs. Ernest Groves, Queensboro, and Miss Hilda at home.

FRED W. SMYTHE

The death of Fred W. Smythe, which occurred in Queen Alexandra Hospital, London Ont. on Monday, April 3rd. has brought sincere feelings of regret to many persons in this city, who knew him well and highly esteemed him for the many fine qualities of character and temperament which he possessed. For some years he had been in failing health and about a year and a half ago he went to Madoc to reside. For some years prior to this time he was engaged in business in Belleville and was the proprietor of the A1 Sign Studio. He was an expert craftsman and succeeded in his line of work until ill health came upon him.

During Fred Smythe's residence in Belleville he took an active part in public undertakings which were inaugurated for the betterment of the city and its residents. The noble work of the Victorian Order of Nurses appealed strongly to him and he was energetic in his support of this work and served for a time as President of the local branch of the Order. In the Kiwanis Club he was a popular and active worker and willingly gave of his time and ability in carrying through to successful completion the undertakings which the club engaged in. Fraternally he was a member of Moira Lodge No. 11 A.F. & A.M. He was a veteran of the Great War, having enlisted for service overseas with the 3rd. Field Company of Canadian Engineers.

The late Fred W. Smythe was born 52 years ago in Aston, England, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. William Smythe. He came to Canada at an early age and eventually located in Belleville.

Surviving to mourn his loss are three daughters, Margery, Jean and Betty at home in Madoc; one son, Lance Corporal B. D. Smythe, London, Ont.; three sisters, Miss Emily Smythe, Boston, Mass.; Miss Susan Smythe, Madoc; Miss Margery Smythe, England; three brothers Mr. Bernard Smythe, England; Mr. Frank Smythe, South Africa, and Mr. Alfred Smythe, South Africa.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

Mountain View

Mountain View — The Vanity Girl's Club held their meeting on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Miss Connie Wood. Roll call was well responded to by the showing of good and poor materials for the making of bedspreads and vanity scarfs. Miss Hazel Minaker gave a demonstration on the correct arrangement of articles for the Vanity Dresser. The girls then worked on their sewing. Games were played and a dainty lunch brought the afternoon to a close.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Pringle and family moved on Wednesday to the farm vacated by Mr. A. Langstaffe. Mr. Grant McKittrick assisted them in moving.

The Mountain View Young People held their weekly meeting on Wednesday night in the Sunday School rooms with Consecon Young People as their guests. The meeting was opened by the use of hymn 18. Mr. William Nightingale extended a welcome to the visitors. The feature of the evening was the moving pictures put on by Mr. Allan Dempsey and Mr. Leon Ward of Rednersville. They consisted of an educational film of Canada's Northland, for comedy, Popeye, the main feature Robinson Crusoe. All together they made a very pleasant evening's entertainment. Mr Andrew Harris read the weekly issue of the Wasday Mouthpiece during the changing of the films. Collection was taken up. Miss Barbara Wilson led in a sing song. The Mountain View Young People served refreshments. A vote of thanks was moved by the Consecon Young People for the evening's entertainment.

PASTOR INVITED TO CONTINUE

M[illegible]v. W. T. Keough i[illegible]ter of Point [illegible]d Front Road

At [illegible]meeting of the Official [illegible]he Point Anne and Fr[illegible]nited Church, a unanimous [illegible] was extended to Major, the [illegible] W. T. Keough, M.A., to conti[illegible] their [illegible] for the coming year 1939-40. Major Keough has lab[illegible] as pastor of the Point Anne c[illegible]t for the past ten years, having begun his pastorate in July, 1929.

During the war he served overseas for four years first as a Combatant officer and later in the Chaplain service. While taking training in mid-winter during a six weeks' course on the cricket field in Kingston at the Provisional School of Infantry he contracted throat trouble which eventually rendered his voice unfit for public speaking in larger churches. During his service in France he lost the sight of his right eye from concussion. These disabilities forced him to retire from the active ministry and take a small charge. Otherwise, doubtless he would still be serving the United Church in one of the larger centres. His many friends will extend to him a hearty welcome for the coming year.

Appeal Dismissed By Judge Madden

An appeal to set aside the decision of a magistrate's court was dismissed by His Honor Judge Madden in County Court held in Belleville yesterday when W. L. Ketcheson, Tweed, appealed the conviction of a reckless driving charge handed down last December by Magistrate E. J. Butler, K. C., in Police Court.

In his findings yesterday Judge Madden said, following the submission of all evidence and testimony—"I find on the evidence presented, that the accused is guilty, as did the Magistrate, and therefore deny the appeal and affirm the conviction," concluded His Honor as he dismissed the appeal with costs against Mr. Ketcheson to the amount of $44.00.

The charge arose out of a motor accident, which happened near Marysville on Nov. 20th, 1938, when motor cars driven by Mr. Ketcheson and W. S. Ralph, Brockville, were in collision. The charge of reckless driving against Mr. Ketcheson was preferred on Dec. 30th, 1938, by Motorcycle Patrolman H. Jillings, Napanee, and resulted in a conviction being registered against the accused.

STILL CUTTING ICE

Brockville, Ont., April 5.—(CP)—Although spring is officially presumed to have arrived more than two weeks ago, ice-cutting operations are today in progress in the St. Lawrence at McDonald's Bay three miles west of here, where ice 22 inches thick and of good quality is being harvested.

ANGLO-FRENCH PLEDGES ALTER BALANCE OF POWER IN EUROPE

On the ABOVE map are shown the crucial points in Europe following the establishment of the London Paris and Warsaw axis. 1. Italy concentrates crack Alpine troops at Trento. 2. Gorizia placed on war footing—ready for mobilization. 3. Libya reported receiving artillery "replacements" from Italy. 4. Warships and troops concentrated at Bari. 5. Brindisi as well as Bari may be jumping off point for Albania. 6. Opening of Dardanelles to British warships in wartime asked by Rumania. 7. Alexandretta may be annexed by Turkey as price for joining anti-aggression pact. 8. Turkish forces reported poised for annexation of Aleppo and Alexandretta. 9. Cyprus is part of the British Empire. 10. Dodecanese islands are Italian. 11. Danish elections resulted in return of three Nazis in North Schleswig. 12. Belgium imposes crushing defeat on Nazi and Fascist candidates.

Recalls April Snow Storm That Blocked Roads of District 53 Years Ago

R.H. Ketcheson States Drifts Many Feet Deep Tied Up All Traffic

SERIOUS FIRE ALSO

From a memory almost as retentive as a written record, R. H. Ketcheson, local fair secretary, this morning recalled that just fifty-three years ago tomorrow, April 6th, Belleville and district experienced one of the worst storms on records of the community.

The storm which blew unheralded out of the north, covered the district with five and six foot drifts of snow, halted horse-drawn and steam communication of that early age, obliterated schedules on railroads and forced residents indoors for days, until the drifts and damage could be cleared.

To add to Belleville's troubles, that day one of the most disastrous fires experienced in the business section broke out in the building on the corner of Victoria Avenue and Front Street, then occupied by Geen's drug store.

"It was as much as your life was worth to walk up Front Street that day," recalled Mr. Ketcheson. The snow and smoke was so thick you couldn't see a foot ahead of you."

Belleville's fire fighters the day previously had been called to Napanee to man volunteer equipment in a damaging fire there and returned to Belleville just in time to help the stay-at-home remnants of the local brigade on the Victoria Avenue and Front Street fire.

April 5th, it was remembered was a day similar to that of today "when you could walk the street without a coat." But the day which followed was without precedent in the ferocity of the storm.

"We have never had one like it since, and I doubt if there was any record of any storm just as bad before that," stated the secretary today.

International Events

Barrow-in-Furness England, April 5—(AP)—H.M.S. Illustrious, 23,000 tons, the largest aircraft carrier ever built for the royal navy, was launched today. The Illustrious, first of five sister ships, was laid down in 1937.

Tirana, Albania, April 5—(AP) —An heir to the Albanian throne was born at 3.30 a.m. today to Queen Geraldine and King Zog I.

An artillery salute of 101 guns notified the people that a Crown Prince had been born. Elaborate celebrations were ordered throughout Albania.

The Queen was described as in excellent health.

Queen Geraldine, the former Countess Geraldine Apponyi of Hungary, was married to King Zog last April.

London, April 5—(CP Havas)—Air Minister Guy La Chambre of France left Croydon for Paris today after conferring with British officials on Anglo-French cooperation in the event of an emergency.

Kaifeng, Honan Province, China, April 5—(AP)—Working against the spring floods of the Yellow River, Japanese military authorities have impressed thousands of Chinese laborers to repair dikes and fortify this outpost of invasion.

Other impressed workers are building a temporary railroad to link the east-west Lunghai line with the north-south Peiping-Hankow railway to provide communication between Kaifeng and Peiping, Japan's North China base.

The workers are paid 40 Chinese cents a day, the approximate equivalent of six cents in Canadian currency.

Shanghai, April 5—(CP-Havas) — Greeted by denunciations in the Japanese-dominated press, Sir Robert Craigie, British Ambassador to Japan, arrived here today for talks with Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, British Ambassador to China. The papers accused Great Britain of being the power most violently opposed to Japan's "new order" in east Asia.

Versailles, France, April 5—(CP-Havas)—The re-election of President Albert Lebrun for a second seven-year term appeared practically certain today as members of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies met in historic Versailles Palace to cast their ballots.

M. Lebrun was expected to get 500 or more votes of the national assembly—both houses of parliament sitting together—on the first ballot. About 450 are required for his election.

By noon there were three other candidates in the field, Justin Godart, Radical-Socialist Senator, Albert Bedouce, Socialist Deputy, candidate of his party, and Senator Marcel Cachin, Communist.

Free City of Danzig, April 5 (AP) —Twenty persons were under arrest today as a result of a clash, in which two men were hurt, between Nazis and Poles in Langbuhr near here.

Police quelled the disorder, in which chairs and beer glasses were thrown and epithets such as 'Polish swine' and 'Nazi sows' were shouted.

The clash occurred last night near the place where Polish-Nazi student disorders took place Feb. 27 leading to anti-German demonstrations in Poland.

Successful Students From Kemptville E. O. Dairy School

The following students from this district who have been successful in their examinations at the conclusion of the winter term of the Eastern Ontario Dairy School at Kemptville are eligible to receive their dairy school diploma: E. Locklin, Frankford; R. E. Broadworth, Belleville; M. Bradden, Latta; F. Cassidy, Stoco; K. Bray, West Huntingdon; J. E. Motley, Belleville; B. S. Reid, Springrook; B. O'Coin, Tweed; H. A. McKillican, Madoc; E. R. Callaghan, Corbyville.

Included in the list of pupils who have attained highest standings for general proficiency are: A. E. Locklin, Frankford; for buttermaking R. E. Broadworth, Belleville.

Mr. Broadworth attained highest grades in buttermaking, written and practical and received a prize of $10.

SEARCH FOR YOUTHS WHO ATTACKED GIRL

Hamilton, April 5—(CP)—Provincial Constables Reginald Reynolds and Vincent Coffee last night conducted a fruitless search of Saltfleet Township sideroads for two youths who attacked Miss Bernice Stonehouse, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stonehouse, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stonehouse, Parkdale Survey.

The woman was attacked as she walked along No. 8 Highway, near the Royal Canadin Mounted Police Veterans' Cabin, a half-mile east of Hamilton city limits. She was hurled to the pavement and suffered several bruises and shock.

Large Registration Cheesemakers Expected At 2-Day Short Course

A registration of three hundred cheesemakers of this central district is expected to be recorded by officials of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association for the two-day short course in cheesemaking which is to be held at the factory of Allan Wood, at Selby, on April 12 and 13th, it was announced by the local office this morning. The course is being held through the efforts of the association, and with the assistance of the Eastern Ontario Dairy School, Kemptville, with Dr. A. L. Gibson, in charge.

There will be no grading competition this year as previously expected.

Wm. Newman, assistant chairman of the Farm Products Control Board, Toronto, will be guest speaker at the banquet on the concluding evening of the 13th at which results of those attending the course will be announced.

ROME-BERLIN

border, plus 4,748,000 reserves.

The United States—185,000 active army and 315,000 reserves.

Larger Warship Tonnage

At sea, Great Britain and France have warship tonnage of 2,842,000, compared with 1,180,000 for Germany and Italy.

Latest revised comparative figures credit Japan with 898,691 warship tonnage. The United States navy's total in 1,407,945.

Aerial strength is the most difficult to measure, because of the attendant secrecy and the complex factor of production capacity which ment of wartime losses.

By one authoritative estimate, Germany and Italy could put at least 12,500 warplanes into the air immediately, compared to 7,700 British and French modern aircraft. Italo-German productive capacity is rated higher also, though Britain has been gearing her plane output to greater speeds.

Using 10 as an index, one report to the United States War Department thus rated air strength of leading powers: Germany, 10, Italy 6, Great Britain 5, United States 4, and France 2. Relatively speaking Japan and Poland were out of the picture.

RUMORS PERSIST

It said Great Britain and France "run the risk of being crushed, and all the worse for the little powers who dare to lend themselves to the game of the big ones."

Reply "Not Delayed"

"Our reply will not be delayed!" it asserted.

Diplomatic interest focussed on negotiations between Italy and Albania, officially described as intended to strengthen their military alliance.

The treaty of Tirana, signed in 1927, provided for dispatch of Italian troops to Albania if the latter requested such aid against a war danger.

Some foreign observers considered it likely the treaty would be broadened to permit Italian forces to help King Zog crush any revolt in his little domain across the Adriatic from Italy.

It was reported in some circles that Zog already had asked for Italian troops to put down an uprising but this lacked official confirmation.

Negotiations Start

Italian government radio station at Bari announced last night that negotiations had been started to strengthen the military alliance at Zog's request.

The alliance already required that each ally place all her military, financial and other resources at the disposal of the other in event of a war menace.

The Bari station denied reports abroad concerning Albanian-Italian relations without saying what the reports were. Among the reports, however, was one that Italy intended to send troops to Albania.

Allow No Violation of Integrity

(The Albanian Legation in London issued an announcement last night that Albania "would never allow violation of her independence or integrity" and that reports that "a protectorate over Albania is imminent" lacked "foundation.")

Fascists explained the Italian-Albanian and other moves as precautions to guard Italy's maritime back door against any "encirclement" by France and Great Britain.

Authoritative circles confirmed reports of Italian troop concentrations near Brindisi, on the Adriatic coast opposite Albania, but said they were intended to reinforce Italian garrisons in the Dodecanese Islands, facing Turkey in the eastern Mediterranean, and perhaps Italian garrisons in Libya.

Fascists said one regiment already had gone to Rhodes in the Dodecanese group.

KING DENOUNCES

(The quoted statement of the Prime Minister included in the Globe and Mail report as above of which he complained was carried by The Canadian Press in its report during the progress of his speech. Later when the text of the Prime Minister's speech became available The Canadian Press carried in the form of a quoted excerpt the exact words the Prime Minister used in this connection. It is of course impossible in the running report of a lengthy speech to quote textually a passage of this kind. If in summarizing the above the Canadian Press was in error, it desires to express its regret both to the Prime Minister and to the Globe and Mail).

Refers to Hansard

The Prime Minister then referred to the Hansard record of this paragraph, which was as follows:

"I cannot accept the view which is being urged in some quarters today, that regardless of what government or party may be in office, regardless of what its policy may be, regardless of what the issue itself may come to be, this country should say here and now that Canada is prepared to support whatever may be proposed by the government at Westminster."

Mr. Mackenzie King then said: "It will be noted that the correspondent of the Globe, Mr. Dingman, in sending the report to his paper, has left out certain very relevant parts of what I said, has substituted other words for certain words that I used, and has given the whole as a complete paragraph without giving the paragraph as I gave it to this House at the time.'

Pointing out the words that had been dropped, and the substitution of the word "decided" for the word "proposed", Mr. Mackenzie King said these gave "an entirely different meaning and significance to what was said, and particularly in the face of a situation such as was existing in England at the time that I made my speech in this House, and of which I was fully cognizant at the time that I spoke, in fact so cognizant that I was careful not to trust to words spoken extemporaneously but carefully wrote out what I had to say."

Rules Quoted

Quoting the rules of the House on privilege — "the publication of debates of either House has been repeatedly declared to be a breach of privilege, and especially false and perverted reports of them," the Prime Minister continued:

"I contend, Mr. Speaker, that this report which I have referred to is a false and perverted report, a very wilfully false and perverted report having regard to all the circumstances, and particularly to the fact that the perverted statement is preceded by the words that it was given in the face of reports of the rapid developments of a new and grave situation in London.

"I leave it to the House as to what it thinks should be done with a correspondent who deals in that fashion with statements of Hon. Members, particularly the Prime Minister of the country in announcing a statement of policy which would be cabled immediately to all parts of the world. For my own part I think he should be denied the privileges which are accorded to members of the press in the press gallery.

"I would not have referred to it, but so often there have been these misleading statements from the same correspondent that I have felt this time, seeing that a number of members have spoken to me about it and others have written to me about it, that I owed it to the Hon. Members generally in the House, and particularly to the government and its policies, to see that the matter was placed in its true light before this House and before the country."

CONSTABLES' ACT

The Throne Speech debate was opened yesterday by Leslie Frost (Con. Victoria) who charged the government had diverted from the highway improvement fund $5,905,064 to general purposes to enable it to make a good showing on the fiscal year ended March 31.

Had the money been used for the purposes for which the statutes directed it to be used, Premier Mitchell Hepburn would have had to report a deficit of $6,767,000 instead of a surplus of $236,000, said Mr. Frost.

Criticized Subsidies

Mr. Frost criticized also the extension of aid to municipalities through tax rate subsidies based on assessed values. These values were not computed the same way in all municipalities. He suggested that instead of subsidizing the municipalities, education costs, relief, justice costs and other services should be assumed entirely by the province.

The burden of taxation should be shifted from real estate in order to revive the construction industry. He also urged the inauguration of an "honest" debt retirement scheme by the province.

Mr. Frost said the Hepburn government since Oct. 1, 1934, had increased the debt of the province to be paid from revenues by $117,200,000 until it was now approximately $475,750,000. Average yearly increase had been $5.65 per capita.

"When one considers that the Ontario taxpayer in addition must shoulder the heavy end of the load of Dominion debt, taxation and deficits being created under Liberal rule, one cannot anticipate the future with much joy." he said.

Must End Fluctuations

J. W. Freeborn (Lib. Middlesex North) suggested study of a system whereby farmers shipping hogs to the Toronto market would receive the average price of hogs in the month in which they were shipped' Something should be done to end the violent price fluctuations that characterized the market now.

"A 50 cents a hundredweight difference in the price of hogs often means the difference between profit and loss for the farmer," he said. He urged a daily five-cent limit on price fluctuations. Hurried and delayed marketings would be eliminated, however, if the farmer knew he was to receive the average price for hogs in the month in which they were marketed.

William Stewart (Con. Toronto-Parkdale) charged there was interference in local relief administrations by the Provincial Welfare Department. Brantford, he said, had been ordered to get a welfare officer satisfactory to the ministery.

"And to the satisfaction of the city council also," interjected Louis Hagey (Lib. Brantford).

A plan to subsidize farmers to take unemployed single men to work on their farms was worthy of study, said Mr. Stewart.

Aim to Tighten Law

A measure to tighten the law governing the changing of names was introduced today by Mr. Hagey. It is designed to guard against fraud in connection with the changing of a name, and against impersonation in connection with the assuming of another name.

At present any person may change their name by filing a deed poll. The bill proposed by Mr. Hagey would require public notice of intention to change a name, to be followed by a hearing before a judge at which any person opposed to the change would be heard.

SIX EXPLOSIONS

Force Mobilized

The entire police force of Birmingham was mobilized to hunting bombs in all quarters of the city.

Just before daylight in Liverpool a bomb was exploded on the road alongside the Lancashire team s cricket field. Little damage was done. An hour later another explosion took place in the city near the tramway lines.

At about 5 a.m. in Coventry a bomb attached to a tramway pylon at an important intersection exploded. A nearby hotel was damaged.

Instructions to carry out mysterious orders already given them within the next 10 days were broadcast to supposed units of the outlawed Irish Republican Army in Canada and the United States last night over a secret radio transmitter.

Warned to be Ready

The speaker, broadcasting over a 21-metres wave length, referred to what he described as "I.R.A. units in the British Army". Similar groups in Canada and the United States ere warned to be ready to carry out orders already given them.

The announcer said the Irish people were daily drawing closer together and were increasingly recognizing that methods used in the past had been ineffective as a means of realizing their objective. He declared that other methods must be used in the future.

Every help must be given to those working for the Republic in England, he said. The people of Ireland must be prepared, he addeu, to support the I.R.A. in any undertaking.

YOUNG BANDIT TAKES OWN LIFE

Taxi - driver Hired by Gunman in Serious Condition

Quebec, April 5—(CP)—A taxi-driver hired by a fugitive gunman lay in hospital today in serious condition from a shot fired by the young bandit, who afterwards turned the fun on himself and died from a bullet in the head.

Police said the 18-year-old Jean Paul Lapointe died from a self-inflicted bullet wound after shooting Alexandre Gosselin, 33-year-old taxi operator, in the chest.

Meanwhile, police also held 19-year-old Gaston Guay on a charge of attempted robbery with violence. Police said that Guay and Lapointe had entered a clothing store owned by P. H. Deblois and that while one of the youths tried on a hat, the other had slugged the proprietor with a blackjack.

Deblois, although stunned by the blow, struggled with his assailants and they both fled. A clerk in the store gave the alarm and shortly after Guay was arrested. Police said Lapointe escaped through narrow lanes and yards, and then went on the cab ride, which ended in his death.

Had Gun in Hand

Gosselin told police that his fare had asked him to drive toward St. Sacrament Hospital on St. Foye Road, but that when they arrived there the order was to "drive on further." Gosselin said his charge had a gun in his hand and the taxi-driver told police he thought it was a hold-up.

Gosselin said he drove on about 200 yards further and then stopped the car at a point not far from a cab stand. He said that when he leaped from the car Lapointe fired. While the chauffeur lay on the ground, Lapointe drove off in the car.

The driver struggled over to the nearby taxi stand and notified other drivers of the attack. Several of the men at the stand chased Lapointe in their cars and when the youth saw he was being overtaken he stopped the car, jumped to the sidewalk and turned the gun on himself.

NO APPOINTMENT

International affairs occupied the House of Commons for almost four days and the discussion of this subject ended last night with the passage of estimate for the Department of External Affairs over which Prime Minister Mackenzie King presides.

The position of Canadian Minister to Japan will remain vacant for the present, Mr. Mackenzie King told the House in reply to a questioner. The Canadian Legation at Tokyo has been headed by Charge D'Affaires since the resignation of Hon. Randolph Bruce and the Prime Minister indicated the government intended to leave matters thus "for the present" although a Minister would be appointed later on.

Performs Useful Service

Conservative leader Manion suggested Canada's permanent office at the League of Nations served no special purpose and might be closed but did not press his point when Mr. Mackenzie King said the cost of the office was only $32,500 a year and it performed a useful service in keeping the government advised on conditions in Europe.

Dr. Manion congratulated the government on the appointments of Col. George Vanjer as Canadian Minister at Paris and Jean Desy as Minister at Brussels. He said the men merited promotion and he was glad the government had not gone outside the service.

The Prime Minister's role in international affairs was given a high rating by J. F. Pouliot (Lib. Temiscouata) who recalled Mr. Mackenzie King's visit to Chancellor Hitler of Germany in 1937.

OPEN CANAL

Turkey was represented as being willing to wait, since the government of President Ismet Inonu already leaned toward the French-British bloc because of its own fears of Germany's expansion southeastward.

Not to Sieze by Force

These developments followed assurances yesterday by the Turkish Ambassador that Turkey would not seize the Sanjak by force after Paris newspapers had reported 60,000 Turkish troops on the border, ready to occupy the territory.

Turkey, however, informed France she wished to annex the 10,000-square mile district "as quickly as possible."

But Turkey could afford to wait as the district with its valuable harbor in the eastern Mediterranean already is entirely in the hands of the Turkish minority there and has adopted Turkish money and standards.

By a friendship treaty of July 4, 1938, with Turkey, France agreed to a joint military occupation of the district, a part of France's League of Nations' mandate, and the Turks there gained control of the parliament.

Defences Strengthened

To quiet public opinion after giving Turkey assurances of eventual annexation of Alexandretta, the French government ordered French defences in the Sanjak strengthened.

On other fronts in her "stop Hitler" manoeuvres, France sought to assure Rumania she need not fear cooperation with Russia, and that the "anti-aggression" block could not be solid, even with the Dardanelles open, unless Bucharest was ready to cooperate fully with Russia as an ally.

Rumanians, however remained distrustful of Moscow's designs on Bessarabia, 17,000 square mile province which Rumania took the opportunity to annex in 1918.

They were reported to be ready to accept Soviet arms, munitions and planes in event of an attack by Germany but not to accept Russian troops on their soil even to resist Germany.

Maestro Immortalized in Screen Story

The long awaited first and only screen appearance of the World's Greatest pianist, Ignace Jan Paderewski is scheduled to open at the McCarthy Theatre this week. The great Maestro will be seen in the Lothar Mendes production "Moonlight Sonata" in which the supporting cast includes Marie Tempest, Charles Farrell, Barbara Greene and Eric Portman.

Paderewski who is in his 76th year was intrigued by the mechanics of the making of motion pictures and he was in a veritable wonderland during the progress of the filming.

One memorable experience which must have added to his treasure store of remembrance was sitting with Lothar Mendes in the darkness of the projection room and hearing his own music surge forth from the empty screen before him. The first sound track of his playing had been made; the screen had captured the greatest living musical genius of the age, and the first recording for posterity, had been made.

Eighteen different pianos were tried out before Paderewski decided on the two he would use during the course of the film—one at the studio and the other at his hotel. It was found that the wooden flooring gave too much resonance, and a concrete floor was specially laid down, much to Paderewski's satisfaction.

One of the longest "takes" of "Moonlight Sonata" was some 1,000 feet of Paderewski playing the Liszt Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2. Besides the playing of the Rhapsody, Paderewski also plays during the run of the picture, Polonaise, A Flat Major by Chopin; his own Minuet and Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata.

TOLD THE TRUTH

I once knew, in Baltimore, a man who told stories as lurid and as incredible as those told by, for instance, Casanova or Venvenuto Cellini. People listened because the stories, untrue on their face, still had the quality of high romance.

There was one story the scene of which was laid in a small town in southern France — Nimes, I think. It had to do with a bull-fight, and the sudden substitution of my friend for the regular matador, and with his great victory over the bull. One man who had heard the tale found himself in Nimes, and decided to investigate just to prove how great a liar this Baltimorean could be. He sought out the mayor, asked him about the incident, and then, to his surprise, discovered that the whole incredible business was true in all its details.

Other individuals investigated when occasion arose, still other stories, and in each instance found them verifiable. The supposed liar was gradually acquiring a reputation for extreme truthfulness, but unfortunately he died before he could cash in upon his Sun.

STERN CHASE ENDS IN CAPTURE

Gunfire on the Middle Rd. between Toronto and Hamilton Sunday morning ended a trail of crime for four young men now charged with armed robbery and car theft. Trail began Saturday night with the theft of a car in Niagara Falls, then hold-up of a store in Port Colborne. Two officers gave chase to the car in Toronto, made the capture and recovered loot and a gun (MIDDLE LEFT) Roland and Hazel Mitchell (TOP CENTRE) watched the capture from their window. The bullet hole (MIDDLE RIGHT) was the result of P.C. Johnston's marksmanship. Two of the prisoners, Donald Irvine, 20, and Louis Savano, 21, appear with an officer (BOTTOM). Savano is also shown (TOP RIGHT).

Beck arrives in London for a four-day parley with the British government in connection with the new situation created in Central Europe by Britain's pledge of military aid to Poland. Diplomatic soothsayers are predicting that the Polish statesman will be reluctant to participate in any attempt to create what might be interpreted in Berlin as a "war alliance" against Germany.

Ice Breakers Complete Work

Montreal, April 5—(CP)—Ice in the St. Lawrence river channel from Montreal harbor to Sorel was reported moving freely today after the government icebreakers N. B. McLean and Saurel completed the final cut from Longue Pointe, at the east end of the Island of Montreal, to Victoria bridge. The McLean and Saurel returned to Longue Pointe yesterday to keep the ice moving downstream while at Lake St. Peter farther down the river, the Lady Grey worked on an ice jam that formed there.

New Editor for Gazette

Montreal, April 5 — (CP)—Appointment of George H. Carpenter as managing editor of the Gazette was announced today.

Mr. Carpenter, formerly financial editor and circulation manager of the Gazette for the last four years, will succeed J. A. McNeil, recently appointed general manager of The Canadian Press.

T. C. Moore, a barber in Monroe, La., was arrested for passing out hamburgers with every fifty cents' worth of trade, or the average price of a hair-cut

This, it appears, violated a local price-fixing ordinance, but, law or no law, we think it was a good idea and would go a lot toward staving off what we have come to call Barber-shop Melancholia. A man always feels depressed and helpless getting his hair cut. His image in the mirror looks silly; the body swathed in a sheet, the head that stares back at him idiotically while a dialect comedian in a white coat jerks it to and fro. It is hard to keep the spirit up while looking at this feeble-minded apparition; it is hard to be composed in the face of hints that soon the hair may be all gone, revealing the barren, wintry landscape of the skull.

A hamburger might be just the thing to ward off the despair that seizes us at times like those, a little red meat just the prescription for courage and urbanity under the shears.—The New Yorker.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, April 5—(AP)— Wall Street was on the alert today for hints of a settlement between Germany and Poland and the stock market strained for a rally after its heavy fall in the preceding session.

Market rumors Poland and Germany had agreed on a way out of the Danzig question touched off a wave of buying in the early afternoon. Some stocks ran up more than a point. The rally quickly subsided, however, after financial tickers carried a denial of the rumors from London. Near the final hour the market drifted in listless trade.

Transfers were about 900,000 shares.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, April 5—(CP)—A decidedly drab market was topped off with a minor rally in the final half hour today on the Toronto exchange and the close found prices in the average just about where they closed on Tuesday. The early tone had been a bit heavy. Gold and western oil shares were up narrowly and the base metals and industrials were unchanged to slightly lower. Only 202,000 shares changed hands in the first four hours and the final hour added about 75,000 to 100,000 to the total.

HOG QUOTATIONS

Toronto, April 5 (CP)—Hog markets ruled steady today with only two price changed reported. Brantford liveweights advanced 15 cents and Hamilton dressed-weights gained a similar amount.

Liveweights: Brantford $8.40; Hull $8.35; London $8.35; Peterborough $8.25.

Dressedweights: Hull $11.30; Hamilton $11.40; Kitchener $10.70; London $11.15; Peterborough 10.90; Stratford $10.75.

Stretch of Ice Field North of Corbyville Breaks Loose Today

Without warning, and aided and abetted by a warm Spring sunshine that part of the Moira River directly north of the Corbyville dam shook itself free of its ice-shackles shortly after one o'clock today.

The ice-field poured over the dam propelled by a more or less heavy volume of water to race down stream until halted by the heavy ice-field that is still intact, north of the Cannifton dam.

Reports from that district at two o'clock today stated that the field north of the Cannifton dam is showing no signs of a breakup, the ice stretching northward in a solid mass for considerable distance.

City officials however, held no fear of a flood in the lower stretches of the river, as there is believed to be little if any possibility of the ice north of Cannifton breaking and racing over the dam.

Ice in that part of the river has not broken sufficiently to come down stream since the year of the disastrous flood, a prominent Cannifton resident said today dismissing the possibility of the ice from the upper dams pouring down stream.

Shoving gently in a series of intermittent steady pushes, the ice-field in the lower stretches of the river is gradually working its way to the river mouth. The last movement, that occurred shortly after two o'clock pushed the field to a point more than half-way between the lower bridge and the Canadian Pacific Railway bridge.

Ice is jammed, however, for some distance south of the railway bridge, with upstream pressure of water driving the main field gradually to the river mouth. The solid ice-field that stretches south of the bridge is gradually weakening, city officials stated, with the warm sun of today hastening disintegration.

Butter, Eggs Firmer On Toronto Market

Toronto, April 5— Slight price gains were recorded by butter and graded eggs during yesterday's session of the Toronto open produce market, according to the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Continued light offerings met fair demand on the butter market, and local sources reported no difficulty in keeping receipts moving. As a result of the ready movement prices advanced 1-4c per pound on Ontario solids. Ontario creamery solids traded at 22c for No. 1 grades, and 21 1-4c for 38 score. Prints changed hands at the former values of 23 1-4c to 23 1-2c for top grades, and 22 1-2c to 22 3-4c for 38 score.

Small arrivals of fresh receipts cleared satisfactorily under good trading on the egg market, and the general tone was firm, with the graded division showing some improvement in prices. Demand was concentrated on Grade A large. Closing sales in the graded section were reported at 22c for Grade A large, 21c for medium, 19 1-2c to 20c for pullets and 18 1-2c to 19c for B and C grades.

Butter Up at Montreal

Montreal, April 5—(CP)—Quebec butter and Prince Edward Island potato prices strengthened slightly on open market here yesterday the Dominion Department of Agriculture reported. Eggs eased fractionally.

Creamery butter prints to retailers sold for 22 1-2c to 22 3-4c a pound, and solids for 22c to 22 1-4c.

Graded egg shipments in used free cases were offered at 22 1-2c to 23c a dozen for A large, 21 to 21 1-2c for A medium, 20 to 20 1-2c for A pullets, 19 1-2 to 20c for B large, and 18 1-2 to 19c for C. Receipts: 1,193 cases.

No Italians Landed In Spain Recently Britain Assured

London, April 5—(CP)— Britain today was understood to have informed Italy that now the Spanish War is ended, Italian troops should be withdrawn from Spain. The Foreign Minister of Italy, Count Galeazzo Ciano, was said by London sources to have stated that no Italian troops had landed in Spain recently. Count Ciano received the British ambassador, the Earl of Perth, in Rome yesterday.

CHAMBERLAIN

practice of retaining some of the men on board their own ships in readiness to man the guns should not be relaxed, even on so special an occasion as the dinner and movie aboard the Ark Royal at which Lord Stanhope spoke.

Greenwood Questions Premier

Arthur Greenwood, acting leader of the opposition, who asked the Prime Minister for the statement on Lord Stanhope's speech, then inquired:

"If the First Lord's words were not premeditated, does the Prime Minister regard the First Lord as a fit person to hold an important office?

"Is not the Prime Minister making rather light of a serious business? Will he give an assurance that such indiscreet, irresponsible and unpremeditated statements shall not be repeated in the future by responsible officers of the Crown?"

Efficiency Not Affected

Mr. Chamberlain replied: "No. My noble friend has expressed regret to me that his words—which perhaps were not very happily chosen — should have given rise to so much comment and so much unnecessary alarm. I do not think that affects the efficiency of my noble friend, with whom I am perfectly satisfied."

While Mr. Chamberlain spoke in the Commons, Lord Stanhope rose in the House of Lords and explained that the guests on the aircraft carrier Ark Royal last night had a right to expect all seats to be occupied and then declared:

"Therefore, I ventured to explain that the reason why there was not full attendance was because some of the crews were on their own ships in readiness to man the guns as had been the normal practice in time of tension."

Opposition leaders seemed more concerned with the request that the speech be suppressed than with the speech itself.

Chamberlain Questioned

The leader of the Liberals, Sir Archibald Sinclair, asked: "Is it not the Prime Minister's own action in interfering with the freedom of the press which has ensured for the first Lord's statement redoubled publicity?"

Mr. Chamberlain replied:

"I think it is appropriate for the government from time to time to make a request to the press.... and I always have found the press ready to comply.

"I must take the blame for the action, which certainly did not produce the effect I wanted—to prevent unnecessary agitation in the minds of the public."

The Prime Minister did rebuke Lord Stanhope mildly by saying:

"It is desirable in times like this that everyone should be very careful of what they say. I am sure my noble friend will take special care after this experience."

Stanhope Statement

In the Portsmouth speech, Stanhope said "man-the-guns" orders had been issued shortly before he left the Admiralty in London.

"Long before the guests came aboard this ship," he said, "16 anti-aircraft guns could have given a arm welcome to anyone who happened to come this way."

He explained the absence of some officers from the ceremonies—installation of motion picture apparatus on the Ark Royal—as resulting from the call to defence duty.

Promptly from Mr. Chamberlain's official residence came a denial that any such order had been issued, while the Admiralty itself asked the press to suppress Lord Stanhope's speech. Under the official Secrets Act, the government has authority to suppress news considered adverse to National safety.

The Admiralty spokesman said Easter leave accounted for the absence of many officers and added: "The fleet is always ready and no extra precautions have been taken tonight."

Embarrassing Situation

The incident, coming in the midst of British talks with Foreign Minister Joseph Beck of Poland on formation of an "anti-aggression" front in Europe, was said in some quarters to have embarrassed Mr. Chamberlain greatly and to have placed Lord Stanhope on a touchy spot.

The British press, unfamiliar with official censorship, appeared puzzled over what to do when asked to refrain from publishing Lord Stanhope's remarks. Some newspapers printed the remarks in early editions and then withdrew them, carrying the statement that the First Lord of the Admiralty had made an "amazing" or "sensational" declaration but that it was not being printed at the request of the Admiralty.

Admiralty Notice

The Admiralty notice to the newspapers said:

"In the National interests the speech of Lord Stanhope, First Lord of the Admiralty, in the Ark Royal tonight should not be published."

The conversations which Mr. Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax started yesterday with Beck were understood to have brought a preliminary promise that Poland was ready to reciprocate Britain's promise of aid against armed aggression.

Such an agreement, formalized along with the commitment of military aid announced by Mr. Chamberlain last Friday, would constitute a military alliance which, together with Polish-French and French-British ties, the Prime Minister hoped to make the nucleus of a new collective security.

Comment From Berlin

Comment was soon forthcoming from Berlin. The noonday newspaper Zeitung Am Mittag captioned its front page editorial: "Mars inhabitants now before England." The newspaper recalled the Oct. 30 scare in the United States over a radio dramatization of a martian invasion.

"Does Lord Stanhope think the martians now are marching on England?" Zeitung Am Mittag asked.

The cabinet, meeting after the Stanhope-Chamberlain conference, discussed the First Lord's speech and its possible effects abroad in view of the present situation, as well as how to explain it.

The Earl's remarks caused a sensation in government circles because proverbially the royal navy is the "silent service."

Lord Stanhope spoke aboard the fleet's newest aircraft carrier Ark Royal at the inauguration of the government-sponsored plan to provide cheap movies for the navy. The movie shown last night with the Ark Royal's new projection apparatus was entitled "trouble brewing."

Polish Situation

The Ministers received from Viscount Halifax, Foreign Secretary, a detailed report on his discussions with Foreign Minister Joseph Beck of Poland looking toward a Polish-British mutual assistance alliance as the keystone of an "anti-aggression" line-up in Europe.

Robert Hudson, Secretary to the Department of Overseas Trade, reported on his political-economic tour of Warsaw, Moscow, Helsingfors and Stockhalm.

Colonel Beck meanwhile motored to Windsor Castle to lunch with the King and Queen.

Bombshell Effect

London, April 5—(AP) — Earl Stanhope, whose statement that anti-aircraft guns were manned "to be read for anything" was something of a bombshell in England and elsewhere, has established a reputation for making "unfortunate" statements.

Three years ago, as under-secretary for Foreign Affairs, he said "the time will no doubt come when we shall have to give back Tanganyika (a German colony in East Africa before the great war) to Germany."

In November, 1938, he aroused widespread newspaper antagonism by an attack on the press. He declared that newspapers had made no plans for publishing outside London in the event of war.

Also when Foreign Affairs under-secretary, he declared in the House of Lords that there might be some doubt as to who won the war but that there could be no doubt that the war-time Prime Minister, David Lloyd George, "lost the peace." He added that "we have all suffered from the effects of the Versailles treaty."

Last November he attacked Winston Churchill as being "more than anyone responsible for the position we are in today." Mr. Churchill issued a sharp rebuke, declaring Lord Stanhope was making "silly and inept statements which discredited no one but himself."

R. D. Arnott Sponsors Hospital Bill; Warmly Endorsed by Dr. Welsh

The bill authorizing and investing powers in the Women's Christian Association of this city to borrow money for the building of an extension to Belleville General Hospital, passed by the private bills committee of the Ontario Legislature yesterday was introduced by R. D. Arnott, K.C., West Hastings, and warmly endorsed by Dr. Harold Welsh, member for East Hastings.

"The financial basis of the organization is sound and it is certainly absolutely necessary for that district he said in referring to the proposed new addition.

Mr. Arnott stated the new addition plus cost of renovation of old building would cost in the neighborhood of $200,000.00.

Alva Hagerman Suffers Loss of Finger in Buzz Saw

When his hand was drawn into contact with a buzz-saw, while he was cutting wood near Corbyville this morning, 64-year-old Alva Hagerman, Thurlow Township, sustained a fractured arm, badly lacerated hand and the loss of one finger. The injured man was taken to the Belleville General Hospital by Dr. Johnson, Foxboro, where Dr. G. H. Stobie assisted in the reducing of the fracture. Hagerman was assisting in the reducing of the fracture. Hagerman was assisting in the cutting of wood when his hand came in contact with the buzz saw. The hand was drawn into contact with the saw, resulting in the loss of the finger and the laceration of his hand, but when the arm was broken it saved more serious lacerations, the physicians believed.

SKULL FRACTURE PROVES FATAL

Harry Darling of Hilton Struck on Head by Flying Wheel

When the fly wheel of his sawing machine broke into pieces, the flying metal pieces struck 53-year-old Harry Darling, of Hilton, Ont., inflicting fatal injuries late this morning. Darling was rushed to the Belleville General Hospital where he died on the operating table shortly after noon today.

Death was the result of a fractured skull, while additional head, chest and abdomen injuries resulted when the broken wheel flew off and struck Mr. Darling with full force. He was attended at the scene of the accident by Dr. H. McMullen of Frankford and Dr. G. H. Stobie at the hospital. The injuries were such as to render the injured man in an unconscious condition and he failed to rally.

Mr. Darling had taken his portable sawing machine to a neighbor's Mrs. Yarrow a widow, and was cutting some wood for the woman when the fly wheel of the machine broke, one of the largest pieces striking Mr. Darling who was operating the machine at the time.

DR. G. S. CRONK SPECIAL SPEAKER

Explains to Members of Club Number of Anethestics Used

Pinch hitting for the speaker of the day, who was unavoidably detained from attending the luncheon, Dr. G. S. Cronk addressed the members of the Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon on Tuesday on the subject "anethesia." He was introduced to the club by the president Dr. R. A. "Dick" Flynn and Kiwanian appreciation was expressed by Ted Hughes. A number of guests were welcomed to the luncheon, including Alex Morris, past president of the Downtown Club in Toronto.

Ross Hunter, a former member of the club, was welcomed back and he expressed great pleasure in joining up again with his old friends. The glee club gave a number of selections and were congratulated by the president. Number one team won the attendance prize for March and Ralph Harris presented the members with a box of cigars. The three losing teams will banquet the winning team in the near future. Next week the club will hold a father and son banquet at which the Junior "C" hockey team will be guests.

Dr. Cronk told the members of the rapid advance in medicine and especially anethesia and explained the different methods and newest sleep producing drugs on the market.

TEN NOMINATED

present. Added to this total were the thirty members of the executive of the senior organization, presided over by Chas. A. Payne, K.C., president.

The speaker this afternoon was Jos. H. Harris, M.P., for Toronto Danforth riding, well known in Belleville, where he has spoken on previous occasions.

Officers Elected

Pres., Wm. House, Trenton; Vice Pres., T. Clarence Graham, Tweed; Secretary, R. H. Ketcheson; Treasurer, Fred Ketcheson, Sidney; Vice Pres. for Belleville, Dr. J. W. Kinnear; Vice Pres. for Trenton, N. J. McNair; Sidney, Edgar Morrow; Thurlow, Frank Hicks; Tyendinaga, Ken Vivian; Hungerford, Archie Graham; Tweed, Burton Thompson; Deseronto, G. M. Campbell; Stirling, Harry Wickett; Frankford Village, Geo. Spencer.

One of the heaviest lists of candidates in some time was presented to the delegates for their choice and vote. They included:

Wesley Gray, Thurlow, by Richard Clarke and George Stock.

George H. Stokes, Belleville, by T. C. Graham and Harry Coulter.

W. E. Tummon, Tweed, by W. H. Ireland and Harry Rollins.

Dr. W. C. Morgan, Belleville, by G. H. Stokes and Dr. J. W. Kinnear.

Arthur L. Burke, Sidney, by Dr. R. S. Gibson and Stanley May.

Charles A. Payne, K. C., Belleville, by Harry Rollins and G. H. Stokes.

Roscoe Robson, Thurlow, by S. Scanlan and Arthur Clazie.

Howard D. Graham, Trenton, by S. Ketcheson and Samuel Bush.

Jamieson Bone, Belleville, by George Wallbridge and Frank McKeown.

Harry Rollins, Belleville, by Edgar Morrow and Mrs. Harry Naylor.

As at previous conventions, large placards bearing the names of the different municipalities and polling sections from which delegates were allotted, divided the auditorium of the city hall into designated sections. At the rear of these sections space had been left for the unofficial delegates and party supporters, who had waited in line in patient manner long before the hour of opening, to be admitted.

Before press time, Wesley Gray, Roscoe Robson and W. E. Tummon withdrew their names from nomination while Howard D. Graham of Trenton announced his intention to allow his name to stand.

was because some of the crews were retained aboard their own ships in readiness to man their guns, as had been normal practice in time of tension.

No other orders had been given by the Admiralty than that this practice should not be relaxed even on so special an occasion.

May I add that I had not prepared my speech beforehand and that it is quite untrue that I asked the press to give special prominence to it.

"I have never been anxious to call for the spotlight on myself. I understand that when my remarks reached London they were treated as sensational matter and the Prime Minister asked the press, as I should have done had I known it, not to publish my speech, or if they did publish it, not to ascribe to it any particular importance.

I can only express my keen regret that any remarks of mine emphasized the readiness of the navy to meet all eventualities even when, as now, Easter leave is being given, should have added to the work of the Prime Minister or caused concern to any one else.

al war start in Europe this spring, the present neutrality law might facilitate a result that would make the United States "the next victim of attack".

He told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that he agreed with President Roosevelt that there are methods "short of war but stronger and more effective than mere words."

Noting that the United States produces about one-third of the world's raw materials, Stimson asserted:

"For the past two years we have been busy using these matchless resources in very large part to stimulate the activities and aggression of our potential enemies. This does not strike me as very intelligent behavior.

"I know that it is sometimes said that an economic weapon is a dangerous one. In the case of ourselves I doubt its truth. If it is, we are certainly in a safer position to use it than any other country in the world."

Conny Smythe is Insisting Regulation Sticks be Used By Boston Bruins in Series

World Title Round Opens in Boston on Thursday Night

JACKSON READY

Irvine Plans to Give Left Winger Heavy Duty

(By Jack Calder Canadian Press Staff Writer).

Toronto, April (5 CP)—Bustling about in preparation for the trip to Boston tonight, Manager Conny Smythe told today why he is making sure everything is according to hockey Hoyle for the Stanley cup finals with Boston Bruins. The old National League rivals open their world title round tomorrow.

"Sure, we're insisting that the Bruins have regulation sticks," Smythe said. "And why not? The rules are there, so let's live up to them.

"We've beaten the Bruins four times in Stanley cup playoffs and every time there has been a wholesale squawk out of Boston after the series. At the N.H.L. semi-annual meeting last fall, I insisted that everything be right up to the mark for the playoffs, because I felt there was too much controversy over them every year. This time—If I have anything to do about it—there will be no loopholes for arguing afterwards. Nobody can say the better team didn't win."

Sticks Must be Right Size

That's why the Boston players spent part of a practice period yesterday making sure their sticks were down to the 53-inch limit. Smythe thought it would be "just as smart to have adjustable goals as illegal sticks."

The Toronto team held a brief workout on the ice at Maple Leaf Gardens today Bingo Kampman, who has missed the practices since the Leafs eliminated Detroit from the playoffs Saturday, was back in harness. He suffered a twisted ankle in the last game with the Red Wings, but doesn't expect it will bother him in the Boston series.

Harvey Jackson has shown in the ice drills that he will be ready to carry a full load of work again. And now that the veteran wingman's knee is ready, coach Dick Irvin plans to give him heavy duty against the Bruins.

May Go Limit

The impression grew today that the seven-game series which opens tomorrow will go just about to the limit. All that is needed to stretch it to six or seven games, Toronto observers say, is a Maple Leaf victory in either of the first two matches at Boston. The third and fourth are to be played here and the Leafs' only two victories over the Bruins during the National League schedule were scored on Toronto ice.

If Gordie Drillon of the Leafs grabs a goal or an assist tomorrow night, he will have set a record for point-making in playoffs. Right now he has seven goals and four assists for a total of 11 points, tying the mark set by Babe Dye of Toronto St. Patricks in 1922 and equalled by Marty Barry of Detroit Red Wings in 1937.

Challedon and El Chico Hook up In Kentucky Derby

New York, April 5 (AP)—The little red-headed stepper and the big brunette are going to look each other in the eye for the first time in the Kentucky Derby and the racing faithful can hardly wait.

The one is El Chico, small chestnut son of John P. Grier-La Chica, which breezed in with seven straight victories in his two-year-old campaigning, for a money winning total of $84,100. The other is the dark bay Maryland-bred Challedon, which cleaned up $67,700 in six 1938 starts, winning four.

Their paths never crossed because William Ziegler, Jr., after picking up Chico for $2,700, didn't think he was big enough for nomination to such stakes as the Pimlico, New England and Maryland futurities, all of which Challedon won.

The winter books rate Chico the favorite at 4 to 1, primarily off his two-year-old record, with Challedon hooked up with Technician and Johnstown at 10.

Neither horse has had a three-year-old outing yet. Both have been in winter quarters, Chico under the watchful eye of the pleasant Irish veteran, Matt Brady, at Belmont Park, and Challedon at the old Benning track near Washington, with Lou Schaefer, former jockey, as trainer. Both wintered splendidly.

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

(By The Associated Press)

Baton Rouge, La.: Johnny Wittig, the young hurler from Baltimore, must learn to be a little more deceitful if he is to stick with the New York Giants. Wittig has plenty of "stuff" and has no difficulty finding the centre of the plate, but he does it too often and shows by his actions what he's going to throw. More concealment and cutting of the corners are manager Bill Terry's prescription.

San Antonio, Tex.: Red-haired Cy Blanton appears to have won the honor of pitching the Pirates' opening game against Cincinnati for the third consecutive year. In 21 innings this spring he has allowed only six runs, two unearned, and fanned four St. Louis Browns in seven innings yesterday.

Mobile, Ala.: Mel Harder, who has cancelled two pitching assignments for the Cleveland Indians because of an aching shoulder, has announced he's ready to start today against Mobile's Southeastern League Club. He blamed the ache on a cold.

El Pasco, Tex.: Gerald (Gee) Walker, has Manager Jimmy Dykes stumped. Despite his reputation as a spring hitter, Walker has been looking terrible both at the plate and in the field. Unless he shows improvement soon, Rip Radcliffe will replace him in the White Sox outfield. The Chicago clubs resumed their spring series today with the Cubs seeking their fifth straight victory.

MONTREAL TEAM SCORE 3-1 WIN OVER GOODYEARS

Loss Was the First One Suffered by Tiremen in 32 Games

MORIN A STAR

Third Game of Series Will be Played in Montreal

Toronto, April 5 (CP)—The hair is getting thin atop Herman Murray's head and he's no speedball carrying a puck, yet this youngish veteran of the hockey wars is a handy man to have round when the chips are down.

It was Murray, scoreless through a regular 22-game schedule, who fired the winning goal last night as Montreal Royals spilled the favored Toronto Goodyears 3-1 to even their Allan Cup semi-final at a game each and bring to an end the amazing streak of the Ontario champions. The loss was Goodyears' first in 32 league and playoff games.

Royals, 2-1 underdogs before last night's game, went back to Montreal today for the third game Thursday night at least even choices to gain a berth in the final for the senior amateur hockey championship of Canada. The fourth game will be played here Saturday.

Team Has Courage

Royals had the courage to come back after seeing Carl Gamble shove the puck into his own net trying to clear as it skidded in front of the cage. That goal, credited to Hank Goldup, wiped out the advantage young Buddy O'Connor established after 13 minutes' play in the first period.

Pete Morin helped O'Connor with a pretty, set-up pass on that goal and he was with Murray as the pair started a rush late in the second period. Morin carried it to the defence, then slipped it to the defenceman who took it on his backhand and swooped around the guardsmen holding his stick in one hand. As Harry McQuesten moved to defend the Toronto cage Murray let go a sharp backhand shot that caught a corner.

Murray started the play for the third Montreal goal in the last period, passing to O'Connor at centre. When McQuesten let the rebound of O'Connor's shot lie by the side of the net, Morin came in fast and poked it home.

Waterloo McPhails And Port Colborne To Meet in Finals

Toronto, April 5 (CP)—Waterloo McPhails and Port Colborne Lions will meet in Ontario Juvenile Hockey Association finals after sweeping said everything in their paths.

Waterloo eliminated Oshawa Canada Bread last night while Port Colborne was knocking off Hamilton Trail Blazers. Waterloo defeated the Bakers 3-2 at Oshawa, taking the total-goals round 6-4, and Port Colborne lost to the Trail Blazers 6-4 at Hamilton but captured the round 12-9.

The great goaltending of George Hainsworth, Jr., son of the former National Hockey League goalie, was the highlight of Waterloo's victory. Last year's champions threw rubber at him all night but he stood up under the barrage.

B. Ryan, with two goals, was Port Colborne's leader. Hamilton scored three times in the first period but was outscored 3-1 in the second.

Ramblers Even Series With Cleveland Indians

Philadelphia, April 5 (AP)—Still tingling from their bruising marathon in the arena, Cleveland Barons and Philadelphia Ramblers today shifted their scramble for the International-American League hockey championship to Cleveland.

In three extra periods and before 5,000 fans, the Ramblers evened the best-of-five series last night with a 5-4 win. The Barons won the first playoff game. The next two contests will be played at Cleveland Thursday and Saturday night.

It was Joe Krol of Winnipeg who gave the Ramblers the winning tally. Taking a pass from Lude Wareing, he drilled the puck past Moe Roberts, Cleveland goalie.

The 4-4 deadlock was broken in 4.48 of the second overtime period.

Jeggy O'Neil put the Barons out in front with a goal in the third regular period, but Kilby McDonald tied the count with only four minutes to go.

BRANDON ELKS BACK IN PICTURE

Defeat Edmonton Roamers 5-0 in Third Game of Junior Final

Winnipeg, April 5 (CP)—Edmonton Roamers' playoff record of 10 straight victories lay shattered today at the feet of Brandon's amazing Elks, who lightly cast aside the depressing influence of two 6-0 trimmings to whip Roamers 5-0 last night and sent the best-of-five western junior hockey final into a fourth game.

Roamers had stepped easily past Edmonton Maple Leafs, Calgary Jimmies, Trail Tigers and Moose Jaw Canucks and had two strikes on the Manitoba champions when the teams left Edmonton after two games. They had scored 83 goals to 10 and were lauded as one of the greatest teams in western puck history.

Five thousand fans jamming the amphitheatre rink were fully prepared for a third Edmonton win. But Brandon, recalling their three straight victories in the Manitoba final after losing the first game 11-3 to Winnipeg Monarchs, took a two goal lead in the first five minutes and held a good margin of play thereafter.

Edmonton's apparent loss of form was attributable in part to loss of centre George Agar, suspended for two games by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association because he struck Chuck Taylor over the head with his stick Saturday at Edmonton. Coach Lefty Grove shuffled his lines but the attack seemed disorganized.

Bus Taylor, Glenn Richardson, Ray Nielson, Bus Wycherley and Glen Tarman scored Brandon's goals.

RIVULETTES HELD TO SCORELESS TIE

Preston, However, Advances to Finals by Winning Round

Galt, Ont., April 5 (CP)—Preston Rivulettes today were strong favorites to retain the Dominion Women's hockey title, after turning back the most dangerous challenge ever to come out of the west.

The best the Rivulettes could do was hold Winnipeg Olympics to a scoreless tie in an exciting game before 1,000 fans here last night. But the effort was good enough as the night previous the champions edged out the Manitoba girls 3-2 in the first game of a total-goals round.

Relegated to the sidelines, the westerners made a fine impression in their two-game stand. They fought tirelessly in a game effort to earn the right to travel to the Maritimes and face Charlottetown Islanders for the Beseborough trophy, next Saturday and Monday.

NO STARS ON VERDUN TEAM

Coach Claims Squad Has Balance Above Everything Else

Toronto, April 5 (CP)—There are no stars on Verdun's junior hockey club and that says coach Art Therrien, is one reason why his team is one game up on Oshawa Generals in the Eastern Canada title series. The teams play the second of a best-of-three series here tonight and a victory will put the Quebec club in the Memorial Cup finals against the western winners.

Therrien claims balance is the one thing this team has above everything else. He added: "You'll notice that in all our play-off games first one player and then the other has come through for us. You never know who'll do the scoring. Therefore all our players need watching."

The Verdun coach was optimistic about the outcome of tonight's game. If there was any problem, it was that of checking Billy Taylor, Generals' star centre. This had been well taken care of in the first game and Therrien said he believed it could be done again.

ALLAN CUP SURVIVORS

(By The Canadian Press)

Montreal Royals evened the count at a game apiece last night with Toronto Goodyears in their best-of-five series for the Eastern Canada Senior Amateur Hockey title by defeating the Ontario champions 3-1 at Toronto. The Goodies won the first game 6-2 at Montreal. Port Arthur Bearcats, holding a 2-1 lead in games, resume their series with Kimberley Dynamiters tomorrow night at Saskatoon. Allan Cup lineup:

EAST—

Quebec — Montreal Royals; Ontario—Toronto Goodyears.

WEST—

Ontario Port Arthur; British Columbia—Kimberley.

In his annual report to the Ontario Baseball Association convention at Owen Sound recently, Secretary Billie Snyder revealed there had been an increase of over 1,000 players registered in the O.B.A. last year over that of 1937, while 42 more teams were registered than the year before also. However, there is a marked decrease in the popularity of the diamond game in the larger centres, where baseball seems to be on the downhill trend. In the smaller and rural centres, however, there has been a distinct increase in the number of teams playing baseball throughout the province. The elimination of the intermediate "C" group and the stepping up of all other intermediate classifications will doubtless prove a stimulant to the summer pastime, where it has held on in hopes of better times.

One week from tonight, April 12th, the annual meeting of the Bay of Quinte League will be held in Napanee, Secretary Lynn Cressman announced today. Notification of the meeting will be mailed to the officers of six clubs. Last year the Bay of Quinte League was revived, after years of inactivity, and embraced four clubs—Napanee, Picton, Belleville and the Kingston "Locos." During the off season the league executive have endeavoured to increase their league from a four to a six teamed loop, inviting Gananoque and a second Kingston team into the fold. With the disbanding of the old Kingston Ponies, both the Quinte League and the O.B.A. feel Kingston should either operate two Intermediate clubs or accept a bye into the senior O.B.A. ranks, but what of the situation in Belleville?

Last season Fanning's fancies finished their regular schedule well in front of all competition, only to lose out in the league finals to Napanee, when the locals were forced to vacate their home diamond owing to the Belleville Fair being in progress. The entire 1938 roster of the Belleville intermediates will again be available, along with Joe Kelleher, who will come up from the junior ranks and Keith Weeks, who was forced to the sidelines owing to ill health last year. With these two additional hurlers available for service, along with at least four of last year's juniors, who are today over age for junior competition, a strong intermediate ball club could be assembled in Belleville. However, we understand last year's management is, what is commonly known in sports circles, "fed up with the whole show." However, if the players are desirous of playing baseball in a six-teamed league, that will extend from Belleville to Gananoque, something should be done in the matter of reorganizing before the annual meeting next Wednesday in Napanee.

Already the league heads are negotiating with Trenton and Airport interests relative to an amalgamation between those two places in an effort to insure the sixth berth, providing, however, Belleville is not represented at the annual league meeting. Rumours have several good baseball players arriving at the Airport from British Columbia and down around Ottawa, sufficient to augment with Trenton and hereby freeze Belleville out of a berth, if the latter lets its franchise lapse. There's the picture, now what's the answer from Belleville?

The Eastern Canada Greyhound Association is seeking information relative to the matter of licencing greyhound racing at Picton, we hear. Greyhound hacing is rapidly becoming popular in Canada, where the public react to racing, especially where betting is permitted. Greyhound racing might prove popular at our new Belleville Beaches, where a long stretch of sandy beach could be used as the straightaway track.

After somewhat of a rough ocean passage, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Pepper arrived in England, we learned today. George left immediately for London, where he is to race at the West Ham track on an "all Canadian" motorcycle racing team, that will tour England before George returns to Newcastle as captain of that racing team. The regular racing season opens in about a fortnight.

The irony of it: Jake Flowers, former National League infielder who was named the No. 1 manager of the minors in 1937 when pilot of the Salisbury Indians, whom he led to two successive pennants, is at Tampa, Fla., looking for a job as pilot and wondering what it takes to win a skipper's berth.

The old hockey dope bucket received a severe jolt, to say nothing of a complete upset, last night when the Montreal Royals stepped into Maple Leaf Gardens and scored a goal a period to beat Goodyears 3-1, after the "Goodies" had won the first game of the 3 in 5 series 6-2 at Montreal. It marked the first loss the "tiremen" had suffered in 32 games. While this upset was under way the Brandon kids stayed in the running for the Memorial Cup by beating Edmonton Rovers 5-0 for the former's initial win in three games. Incidentally the Oshawa Generals will be minus the services of Roy Sawyer, star right winger of that good club for tonight's Verdun-Oshawa return tilt. Sawyer has a broken ankle, sustained in the first game of the series at Montreal. Oshawa hopes to prolong the series tonight, however.

Did You Know that Boston Bruins are 10-7 favorites to win the Stanley Cup over the Leafs? .... That William Morenz, is near death following a fall in Stratford recently....Despite rumours to the contrary, don't sell Lou Gehrig short as not starting the opening game with the world champions this month....The promoters on the west coast expect to hang out the S.R.O. sign for the Jack-Roper-Joe Louis scrap....Preston Rivulettes, perennial girls' hockey champions of the Dominion, are repeaters.

The disciples of Izaak Walton will again limber up their rods and reels at the Armouries tonight. Plug and fly casting practices will continue and President Joe Shortt tells us all are welcome to try a hand at casting.

KINGSTON BEATEN AT HOME

Kingston, Ont., April 5 (CP)—Ottawa Glebe Collegiate defeated Kingston Collegiate Institute 37-24 here last night, gaining a 13-point lead in the two-game total-points round for the eastern Ontario secondary school association basketball championship. Fowlett, a guard, led the Glebe team in a brilliant exhibition of passing and shooting, scoring 17 points. Lemmon led Kingston with eight.

The Stars Say

For Thursday, April 6
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

DISTURBING and destructive astral forces are preponderant today, influencing sudden change, reckless plunges and other disintegrating activities which are likely to spell disaster. Radical and wayward tendencies may lead to dangers and disaster. Strange episodes and irregular contacts with strangers may be pernicious and of far-reaching detriment. Yet, a latent tendency to stratagem, shrewdness, tact and diplomacy may be exercised to save the day from dire or tragic denouements. Look before you leap.

Those whose birthday it is should not be surprised to find themselves engulfed in a year of most unexpected, unpredictable and unusual adventures, with strange experiences and contacts, and a general state of devastating and disturbing situations. These may be dramatic and thrilling, and of far-reaching effect, but will be radical and hazardous. However, there is also a definite tendency to use shrewd tactics in outsmarting opposing forces. Jump into nothing without much care and deliberation.

A child born on this day may be a character of wild actions, reckless judgments and hectic impulses, being altogether radical and revolutionary in thought and action. Yet, deep within its makeup it may have subtlety, craft and native proclivities to save its own neck (or face).

IN MEMORIAM

WEYMARK—In loving memory of our dear Audry who departed this life April 5, 1936.

Gone from us your smiling face
Those happy cheerful ways
The heart that won so many friends
In the happy bygone days
The years may wipe out many things
But this they'll wipe out never
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.

AERIAL SAFETY NET PREPARED TO PROTECT REICH CAPITAL

Following the example of the British government in protecting London from possible air raids by a balloon barrage, the German government is taking unusual precautions to protect the populace of Berlin as Der Fuehrer's "Drang Nach Osten" keeps the world's eyes on the reich. The ABOVE picture was taken as Berlin launched its balloon barrage during recent tests.

FEAR ALBANIA TO BECOME ITALIAN PROTECTORATE

Reports of the concentration of Italian troops and transports on the Adriatic, have raised warning signals that Il Duce may be preparing some further action in the tiny kingdom of Albania. Already strongly under Italian influence, King Zog's kingdom may become an Italian protectorate that would allow Italy stronger control and enable her to develop Albanian resources more fully. In a bad way financially, King Zog, LEFT, already has made an arrangement with the Italian Foreign Minister Ciano, RIGHT, for Italian financial aid in developing the natural resources of his country.

Practically Nothing

By LILLIAN OAKLEY

When I left Ted Rayburn in New York in the spring I had him practically eating out of my hand. So when the president of the Drama club in our little summer colony told me Ted was coming down to put on "The Loves of Lady Isobel" for the club, I knew that I could have any part of the play that I wanted.

His train got in at five in the morning, but I was waiting. Before he got through raving about how grand and noble I was to get up practically in the middle of the night to come down to meet him, I told him I wanted the part of Lady Isobel in the play.

But instead of saying "Okay, Love of My Life," as I expected him to, he pulled out a note book and showed me the list of the members of our colony and how much each had contributed to the Drama club. And because the fathers of Edith Grand and Evalyn Stroud had given the most, Edith or Evalyn would have to be Lady Isobel.

"Your show's a flop right now," I told him. "Those two girls you've picked are absolutely youthless. They're so old they won't even tell their age to the census taker; they must be nearly thirty.

"Even at that extreme age," Ted said, "they may be able to creep out on the stage and mumble a few words. And for gosh sake, Beautiful, remember the boss did it and don't frigidaire me about it."

For a minute I felt as if I just couldn't be in anything so sordid as this play was going to be. But when our Drama club puts on a show people come from miles around. Last summer one of the big New York producers was in the audience, and after the play he walked up and gave the leading lady a fat contract. I couldn't afford not to be in it. But it certainly burned me up to see talent and beauty snubbed for a few paltry dollars.

After dinner we met at the boat house and the committee helped Ted assign the parts. All but Lady Isobel's, and they left it up to Edith and Evalyn to decide which one of them would be Lady Isobel. The part they gave me was perfectly asinine—a sweet little sister in white organdie and blue ribbons. It made me sick. I threw my love for art in the waste basket when I read it.

The only thing that made life bearable was the way Edith and Evalyn acted. First one and then the other would get Ted off in a corner and tell him why she should be Lady Isobel. He kept giving me the S.O.S. sign. But it wasn't my day to get dizzy from doing too many good turns so I just left him to stew in his own juice.

"Feed 'em both poison, Beautiful and I'll give you the part so quick it'll made your head swim," Ted told me after our third attempt at rehearsing without knowing which one was Lady Isobel.

"Cross your heart and hope to die if you don't" And I made him for me to get rid of both of those do it. It looked almost impossible girls, but you never can tell.

Just when I thought we were going to have to give the play up or make Lady Isobel a twin, the minister came to our house to dinner.

It's the first time I ever did get an inspiration from hearing a minister talk. But Doctor Bradley told about the time he built a new church and the two richest women in the congregation wanted the same pew. The board and committee were about to split up over it when Doctor Bradley settled the whole thing without any trouble.

As soon as we got up from the table I excused myself and went over to see Edith. Then I went and had a little visit with Evalyn. I enjoyed myself at both places.

Ted was late that night. The minute he came on the stage Edith rushed over and handed him her script for Lady Isobel.

"Awfully sorry to disappoint you, Ted," she said, "but we have unexpected guests and I won't be able to work up such a big part. Give it to Evalyn and let me me in the chorus."

Everybody looked at Evalyn. She didn't look happy—just sort of upset.

"I'm terribly sorry, Ted," she said, "but my aunt is very ill, and mother said at dinner that I mustn't accept such an important role for we might be called away at any time."

Ted looked positively goofy. If I hadn't walked right up and taken the part of Lady Isobel out of his hand I don't now what would have happened. But I swung right into being Lady Isobel and we had a grand rehearsal.

"What'd you do to those two girls?" Ted demanded as soon as we started home. "You did something. When I saw them this morning they were both still dead set on being Lady Isobel."

"It's Lesson Number Three in my Modern Psychology," I told him. "You visualize yourself being what you want to be and you're it. I saw myself as Lady Isobel, I am Lady Isobel."

"Baloney," he scoffed. "you did something. I hope I get out of town without having my throat cut."

But what I'd done was practically nothing. I just told Edith that Ted was going to suggest at the next rehearsal that she and Evalyn settle for the part of Lady Isobel by letting the oldest one have it. Then I told Evalyn the same thing.

PICTON RELIEF BILL SHOWS NICE DECREASE

Picton, Ont (Special)—Prosperity apparently is just around the corner, if the town relief rolls are any criterion.

The relief bill for the month just past was $779.49 less than that of a year ago, with reliefees numbering 369 as against 409 of a year ago.

The total cost for relief for March of this year was $1,559.21.

GENERAL STORE BURNED

Unthoff, Ont., April 5— (CP) — Fire, believed started by a chimney spark, today destroyed the general store of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Soules in this village five miles north of Orillia in Simcoe County.

The fire was noticed shortly after the two occupants of the combined store and home arose. Neighbours succeeded in saving most of the store stock and furniture and formed a bucket brigade to pour water on neighbouring buildings and prevent their destruction.

Shannonville

Shannonville—A special meeting of the Shannonville Women's Guild was held at the home of its vice-president, Mrs. Albert Mark on Monday afternoon with a large number of members in attendance.

The meeting marked the close of the "Penny" contest in which the "33" team were winners. The "Penny" contest as it was called, was a contest in which the Guild members were divided into two teams with Mrs. A. E. Pepper as Captain of one team and Mrs. William Coles the other team captain. The team captained by Mrs. Pepper saved 1933 coins and the team led by Mrs. Coles saved 1935 coins. When the coins were counted at the meeting it was ascertained that the 1933 team were the winners. Therefore the losing team is to stage a supper at which the winning team will be guests. The supper will be held on Saturday night.

Miss Frances Walker of Bloomfield has returned home after visiting in the village the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Howard.

Miss Eliza Bell spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Jack Kent and family.

Mrs. Margaret Duncan of Napanee was a week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Cook.

Mr. Charley Howard of Milltown spent Saturday with his daughter, Mrs. Harold Burtt and Mr. Burtt.

Mrs. Joseph Gannon of Point Anne is visiting in the community the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bennett.

The Misses Marcella Lewis and Doris Ferguson of Belleville were Sunday afternoon guests of the former's father, Mr. Marshall Lewis.

Motorists made a last minute rush on Friday to fill up their tanks before the gasoline tax increase became law, according to local gasoline station proprietors, who report a very brisk sale.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wilson were Sunday evening guests of Mr. Marshall Lewis.

Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Harvey of Deseronto were Sunday evening callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Leverton.

Halloway

Holloway—The Holloway Y.P.S. held their meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Reid on Wednesday evening. The meeting was opened with a hymn followed by "The Lord's Prayer." Psalm VIII was read responsively. Mrs. Clayton Reid had charge of the programme. The scripture was read by Mr. Ralph Smith. Mrs. Clayton Reid outlined a splendid topic "Moral Rearmament or National Decay." A reading "Getting the Most Out of Life" was given by Miss Dorothy Reid after which Miss Betty Kelly gave a reading "Awareness." A hymn was sung and the meeting closed with the Benediction. Several contests were enjoyed after which the hostess served a delicious lunch.

A hard time supper was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Snider on April 1st. Proceeds of the supper amounted to $4.50.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman McConnell, Mount Pleasant, called on Mr. and Mrs. Don Rose one day recently.

Callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Townsend recently were Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Kelly.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Reid were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Reid on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Townsend were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Foster, Moira.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Searles, Zion, and Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Hamilton called on Mrs. A. Lowery on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Phillips, Belleville took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Grenville Frederick.

Miss Georgina Sutherland, Centenary, is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Kelly.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Emerson, Mr. and Mrs. John Townsend called on Mr. and Mrs. Harold Garrison also Mr. and Mrs. Everett Elliott, Centenary, one day recently.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Rose, Mr. and Mrs. Don Rose were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Rose, Tweed.

Nothing yet made to beat black and white. An exquisite evening ensemble is of black marquisette with white Venetian lace bordering the low cut bodice in back and continuing to form a back halter. Worn with a short sleeved jacket of the white Venetian lace.

If you look for something different in the fur jacket line, we have it for you. It is a snug-fitting bolero of black monkey fur with slide fastener and with twisted taffeta ribbon at the collarless neckline.

"ENVOY EXTRAORDINARY"

by E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

"It is you who are unreasonable" she declared coldly. "You have changed. You have adopted an air of authority. It is admirable in a way but I do not like to have it exercised against me. I simply asked to be your fellow passenger. I should have been no trouble— no responsibility. If evil had come I should have met it eagerly— with you."

"You are asking for an impossibility," he replied. "Under no conditions could I accept anyone as a fellow passenger on this journey."

Elisabeth made no reply.

On foot, Elisabeth and Matresser had reached the garage. A sergeant of police was standing in front of it.

"Your lordship will excuse me," the sergeant begged. "The orders are that no car is to leave—"

"Don't be foolish, Harrison," Matresser enjoined. "This is my garage and on my property. I take full responsibility for what I am doing."

The man saluted and stood to one side.

A footman from the House arrived with a suit-case. Matresser himself backed the small car into the drive. Elisabeth ensconced herself in it and with some reluctance held out her hand. Here eyes were very sad but she struggled with a smile.

"It was not like this," she confided, "that I wished to leave the Great House.' '

X X X

Matresser crossed the north end of the Park with swift footsteps and stood amid the little crowd which saw the plane finally come to a standstill. The mechanic and pilot, its sole occupants, unstrapped themselves and descended. The pilot—a tall, fair-haired and blue-eyed young man—stretched himself once, removed his helmet and came across toward the outstanding figure of the scattered group. He saluted.

"You have come for me?" Matresser asked.

"We have come," the young man answered in correct but rather hesitating English, "to be on the spot when the time comes for you to join us. We do nothing until you have spoken with those who give the directions."

"I see," was the somewhat disappointed reply.

"We can put your kit aboard, sir," the young man proposed. "My mechanic will need a half hour with the engine. I should introduce myself. We have no names in this service. I am Pilot Number 17."

"Capital! I am Lord Matresser. You will come along to the House with me. There will be time for a bath and some dinner, perhaps."

The pilot shook his head. "My orders forbid me to leave the plane," he regretted. Then he added:

"Your message will arrive by a special line attached to your telephone any moment tonight....If I might make the request, sir, you would do well to be in your house awaiting it. As soon as possible after its receipt we shall start."

"Within ten minutes after receiving the message," Matresser agreed, "I'll take my place in the plane."

X X X

The master of the House had rather a bad time of it during the quarter of an hour before dinner. Even his mother, in whose eyes he could do no wrong, was a bit severe.

"I simply do not understand it, Ronald," she said. "Miss Stamler, of whom we were all very fond, was a delightful member of this household. That she should have left us like this, with only one pathetic word of farewell to Ann, is to me utterly inexplicable. You seem to have been the only one favored by her confidence. Surely you can help us understand what has happened."

"It must have been some sudden trouble," Ann put in. "Surely you could have helped her."

"I did what I could," Matresser assured them. "I wanted her to stay as badly as any of you. I can assure you that any influence I might possess was exerted to keep her here."

"One feels that she must have been hurt or frightened in some way," Andrews, who had been invited in to dine, declared. "She gave no hope of returning?"

"Not the slightest. I don't even know where she has gone."

"She went in her own car," Ann observed. "How did she manage that?"

"Well, I can explain that," Matresser said. "I took the seal off myself, had Miss Stamler's car wheeled out and started her off. I would not be surprised if the police reported me to the Home Office!"

"I am very glad indeed," Lady Matresser approved, "that you were able to do something, Ronald, to prove our confidence in her. At the same time, the situation is most unpleasant. I was very fond of Elisabeth and the greatest pleasure I had in life, outside my family, was her music. I have written about her to the Austrian Embassy."

"So have I," Ann told them.

The doctor coughed. "I have to be in London in a few days," he confided. "Would it be of any assistance if I went, say tomorrow, and tried to locate her?"

"It could do no harm," Lady Matresser acquiesced. "You and she were very good friends.' '

CHAPTER XXVI

"I do hope," Ann sighed, "that those men who are down here from Scotland Yard have not been worrying Elisabeth."

Matresser looked across at his sister with a slight frown. "Please do not get this matter wrong," he said coldly. "There is only one bona fide Scotland Yard man down—Inspector Finch—and I am sure that he has not been near Mademoiselle Stamler. The other fellow, Marlow, is a different type altogether. He had a brief interview with Mademoiselle Stamler in my presence and I can answer for it that he remained entirely civil. He is dining here tonight, so for heaven's sake let everyone be polite to him!

"I think I hear some cars in the drive," Matresser went on, listening for a moment. "I suggest that we all avoid the subject of the Fergus death during the evening, and while I think of it—at half-past nine precisely—I shall have to go to the telephone. Yates took a message while I was out in the Park talking to the pilot."

"More mysteries?" his mother asked, with a slight uplifting of the eyebrows.

"Nothing that approaches a mystery," her son assured her, "It is this little excursion that Sir Francis wants me to undertake. I was not so keen on it, till he sent this plane down. Now I must confess that I am rather looking forward to it."

"If you were anything of a brother," Ann said reproachfully, "you would take your little sister with you. I would love to fly, if it were only to Paris."

"Next time," Matresser promised. "Here come our friends."

X X X

At precisely twenty-five minutes past nine that evening Burrows approached his master with: "I beg your lordship's pardon, but there is a call through from London on the telephone."

Matresser excused himself to his immediate neighbors and waved his hand in apology to his mother. In the study he found Henry Yates who whispered, "They have just rung up to warn that a message will be through on the private line as the clock strikes nine-thirty."

Yates was showing signs of excitement. Matresser, on the other hand, seemed entirely unaffected by the tenseness of the moment. The idea that he was probably to be the first person in the world outside Downing Street to hear certain great news may have possessed some dramatic significance for him, but he showed no signs of it. With a glance at the clock he lit a cigarette and took his place before the table. Precisely at the half hour, the expected tinkle came.

"Francis Tring speaking from London. Is that Matresser?"

"Speaking, Sir Francis," was the clear reply.

"It is now half-past nine," the Foreign Secretary continued. "We have been in conference for five hours. We are, I honestly believe, nearing agreement but we have not reached it yet."

"What happens then?"

"We have adjourned for an hour. Some of us are dining here, others are going home for a few minutes. At a quarter past ten we reassemble. It is understood between us that we are to arrive at a decision before we separate."

"That seems sound."

"I have already received news that the plane arrived."

"Quite right. It has been here for a couple of hours."

"Norwich will keep two operators," Sir Francis went on, "holding on to the private line until we give the signal for dismissal. You are an old campaigner and I know you won't mind an all-night wait."

"I shall be within a dozen yards of the phone until it rings— say from eleven o'clock," Matresser announced.

"Capital! Things are moving in the right direction but we are all a little nervous. I have attended many of these conferences and have never known the strain like it is now....Later on, then, Matresser."

"Later on," the latter echoed.

X X X

Matresser slipped quietly back into his place and picked up the conversation with his neighbor almost where they had left it. It happened to be a dinner of young people rather than a formal gathering and very soon his mother rose from her place and was followed from the room by the other women.

"Come along, Colonel," Matresser invited, "and you, Miller, and Marlow. There are all sorts of orgies for you young people tonight—table tennis, for one game. Pretty violent exercise, I must warn you. Bridge for the elders and billiards for the middle-aged. Two glasses of port and away we go. Cigars and coffee in the lounge. It is a sensible age we live in, General," he went on, as Hamilton sank into the high-backed chair by his side. "We have got out of the arm-chair habit. Modern man is beginning to realize that there is nothing like movement for keeping young."

"That's all very well for you youngsters," the General grunted, "but what are you going to do when you find you are seated opposite a decanter of '70 port at my time of life?"

"Well, that's one temptation from which we shall be removed before long," his host reminded him. "My cellarman tells me we are on the last bin of '70's. Is it true that you are going north, General?"

"They are talking about it," was the somewhat gloomy reply.

"A hard life, a soldier's," Major Miller, acting adjutant of the regiment, remarked fingering the stem of his wineglass. "You just get used to a place and begin to feel thoroughly at home when one of those mysterious fellows behind the scenes at the War Office gives you the shove. By-the-by, Matresser, are you going to add flying to the long list of your accomplishments?" he asked. "That's a magnificent plane in the corner of the Park there."

"No, I'm too old to take up flying," Matresser replied. "That belongs to a foreign friend who wants to take me off for a few days...."

There was a quarter of an hour's neighborly talk, then Matresser led the way into the circular lounge where coffee was being served. Without any apparent effort he started two bridge tables and the table tennis. Soon the whole party was busily engaged....Matresser took one last look around and slipped away to his study and Henry Yates.

"All serene, Henry?" he asked, closing the door behind him.

"Quite quiet, sir. The government operator from Norwich rang up to be sure that we were still in touch and to test the line. Nothing else."

Matresser glanced at the clock. It was ten minutes to eleven.

"Shows their second session is lasting out," he meditated. "Getting nervous, Henry?"

"I don't think that I am ever that, sir," the little man replied, stroking his short beard, "but in this case I am not fully acquainted with the nature of the situation."

'Can't say any of us are. We have been drifting so long, though, that any decisive action will seem to be sensational."

"You think there will be a war, sir?"

Matresser answered like a man whose thoughts were in some faraway place.

"One's fancies go for nothing at such a time. They spring up in the mind like weeds and pass with the ticking of the clock. Something is going to happen, Henry. That I am sure of. I could feel the shiver of excitement all over Europe last time I came back. What does happen will depend upon such a small decision—a tremor in Downing Street tonight, a mind that turns the wrong way in Berlin tomorrow. Anything might do it, Henry. And what a war!"

Matresser had walked to the broad window at the further end of the apartment looking across the Park. All was darkness as he stood there absorbed.

"Tell me the time, Henry," he asked without turning round.

"Five minutes to eleven."

Matresser left the window and walked down the room toward the small round table on which the telephone stood.

"I feel so foolishly futile," he confided, "shut up here in a locked room talking to myself, trying to keep calm—and yet believe me, Henry, I am aching to overwhelm those bloody-minded, slobbering so-called men of letters who sit ready to launch their flaming phrases and raucous rhetoric. They have got it all cut-and-dried. 'Not one yard of our beloved Empire, won by those who gave body and soul for their country, shall be parted with—' "

The clock began to strike the hour. Matresser was suddenly silent. His severe mood had left him. He stood close to Yates, whose eyes were fixed upon the telephone instrument. Before the last stroke of the clock the message came.

"Norwich speaking. London is on the line."

Matresser gripped the receiver which had been handed to him.

"Matresser this end," he said calmly.

It was Sir Francis' voice, husky with emotion.

"Magnificent!"

Sir Francis' voice came for a moment shrill and then again hoarse.

"At a great cost. Everyone seems stupefied. The room is like a battlefield strewn with the corpses of mangled phrases and mortally wounded hopes. Destroy your telephone connection. Leave with the dawn, or before, if the moonlight helps. Your pilot will know."

Then silence.

Matresser took up a huge pair of scissors from the desk and cut the green telephone cord. His voice seemed suddenly inspired. Yates stared at him in amazement.

"Official orders, Henry. Too late now for anyone to change their minds. It is only five minutes past eleven: You have sent everything to the plane?"

"Everything."

Matresser's fingers were already upon the handle of the door when the crash came. The casement of the French window fell inwards, smashed through the centre and the carpet was covered with splintered glass. A man in blue overalls, his face bleeding, staggered into the room.

"You must come to help," he cried in German. "They will kill my pilot! I myself am shot!"

CHAPTER XXVII

For the fourth time in fifty years the alarm bell from the Great House pealed out its brazen, dramatic summons. The Park was studded with hastening figures in various states of deshabille. Messengers were running everywhere explaining the situation. Hidden marksmen from concealed places in the wood had been shooting at the plane. Volunteers were quickly called and urged to carry weapons if possible. At least a score of dogs, barking joyfully at their unexpected freedom, had been set loose. Fresh volunteers were arriving all the time.

Behind the plane itself, Matresser and the pilot were deep in conversation.

"I don't think there will be any more firing," Matresser said. "They would not dare, whoever they are, to try and rush the plane now and they know they have potted one of you. We shall have news from the House directly about your mechanic. I don't fancy he was badly hurt."

"It's a risky thing to mount without him," the pilot said doubtfully.

"I could take the stick myself if necessary for a time," Matresser urged. "I understand the general mechanism of a plane, too. It's too late to ask for further instructions. We must stick to those you have. I tell you frankly I don't like that silence all of a sudden in the wood. Our assailants may sneak back to the attack. What we want to do is to get away from here as quickly as possible."

"Quite true,' 'the pilot conceded.

"You have a clear run up the path now and there's an edge of the moon showing," Matresser pointed out. "Remember, we are expected. If we fail to arrive, there will be a thousand devils to pay!"

A queer little figure on a bicycle came peddling across from the House.

"Well, you are saved one decision anyway," Matresser declared. "Here's the doctor."

Andrews stopped beside them, breathing heavily.

"Hospital case for a fortnight," he gasped—"Has a dozen small shot inside him—one or two very near the heart—will be operated on tomorrow."

"After that," Matresser said, turning to the pilot, "there is no alternative." The latter buttoned up his coat without further demur. In a moment or two Matresser settled down in the seat by his side. The motor was already humming quietly. They were off!

X X X

The stars were beginning to pale with the coming of dawn when the stony figure by Matresser's side suddenly broke the long silence. He lifted the front of his helmet and a shout of triumph broke from his lips.

"We have won!" he cried. "We are there! Sit tight, my noble passenger. Look down! We begin to descend."

Matresser gazed below. In the midst of a forest of pine trees, a space had been cleared and from each corner a flaming electric torch blazed into the dim light of dawn. From the height they were, however, the space itself seemed about the size of a pocket handkerchief, the lamps little more than pin-pricks of fire and the building something like a cow shed. Gray specks of mist were rolling upward, now and then blotting out the vista. The pilot studied his instruments.

"We have already descended a thousand feet," he reported. "That is the morning mist which we all fear but I show you—I shall show you. We slip in underneath it. Gnadiger Herr, have no fear. You shall land in an easy chair on the grounds of His Highness' hunting lodge. Look!"

"They are there," Matresser told him. A crowd of men below were shouting now and waving their arms. The cow shed had revealed itself as a hangar.

DO YOU FEEL NERVOUS, WEAK?

THOUSANDS of weak, nervous women have been helped to regain strength by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It calms the nerves, stimulates the appetite, improves nutrition, benefits the female organs. Mrs. Elisabeth Harshaw, 181 McKay Ave., Windsor, Ont., says: "My nerves were just about driving me frantic. I had no appetite. I was in such a weakened condition I could hardly do my housework. But after taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I was relishing my meals and slept soundly at night. My old strength returned. I felt just fine in every way, and once more I enjoyed living." Why the Weather!

By Major A. H. Thiessen

Science Service Meteorlogist

Canada's climate control! Canada has for the most part satisfactory rainfall, and that leaves temperature as the dominant climatic element. Although winters are intense except on the Pacific coast, the summer months are sufficiently warm that they determine the areas of settlement. This condition may be explained by the fact that the heat received from the sun in summer varies but little from 55 degrees to 80 degrees north latitude, for the reason that while the farther one goes north the more oblique are the rays from the sun, but the days are sufficiently longer to make up the difference.

REVIEWED PLANES AND NEW RECRUITS AS TENSION GROWS

Fascist Press Says Italy is Ready for Anything at Any Moment

DIPLOMATS PUZZLED

Albania Gained Independence in 1912 After 445 Yrs. of Turkish Rule

Rome, Apr. 6 (AP)—Premier Mussolini flew today to the military airport of Jest, near the Adriatic seaport of Anacona, where he reviewed planes and new recruits.

The premier piloted a tri-motored bomber to the airport near a point that overlooks the sea toward Albania as rumors of an impending Italian military occupation of the little Balkan country ran through Europe.

(Yugoslav officials, who said they were officially informed of Italy's intentions, declared the impending military occupation was meant as a warning to both Yugoslavia and Greece not to mix in the Anglo-French 'stop Hitler" bloc.)

The Fascist press proclaimed that Italy was "ready for anything at any moment" though the newspapers were silent concerning Albania. However, they displayed prominently a communique saying Italian-German military talks were proceeding at Innsbruck in Germany.

Il Duce appeared on a balcony at Jesi after inspecting the airport and saluted the crowd but did not make a speech.

Military Talks Intended to Teach Chamberlain a Lesson

Berlin, April 6.—(AP)—Cautious German diplomatic comment. centred today in the implication that general staff conferences now in progress between Colonel-General Wilhelm Keitel of Germany and General Alberto Pariani of Italy, as well as the situation in Albania, are intended "to teach Chamberlain a lesson".

One Wilhelmstrasse commentator observed: "To threaten a leadership state is always a boomerang if ne who does the threatening comes from a country which lacks the leadership principle."

German officialdom is well aware, official circles said, that the British and French general staffs recently have been in constant touch with each other. They said the German Intelligence Service had been able to ascertain that not only had general staff officers of Great Britain and France met but also that they had "arrived at important decisions."

Germans said the meeting between Keitel and Pariani each of whom is accompanied by technical personnel is, therefore, a counter-demonstration.

Informed quarters expressed belief that the Keitel-Pariani talks touched on the Albanian situation and said Germany would stand by Italy in any action concerning Albania. In official quarters it was acknowledged that the two chiefs of staff were going over the whole ground of Rome-Berlin axis relations from the military viewpoint.

ACREAGE BONUS SYSTEM IN WEST

Under Scheme Farmer With Smallest Crop Gets Most Assistance

Ottawa, April 6. — (CP) —The Government has moved forward another step in its new plan for wheat marketing with announcement by Agriculture Minister Gardiner of an acreage bonus system on a sliding scale designed to benefit those who need assistance most.

In the House of Commons yesterday the Minister outlined the new scheme which will be a companion measure to that introduced last Monday by Trade Minister Euler guaranteeing an advance of 60 cents a bushel basis No 1 Manitoba Northern at Fort William.

While the acreage bonus, graduating from $1 an acre to $2.50 according to crop yield averages, applies only in emergency years, the 60-cents-a-bushel guarantee, operates permanently. The next crop year starting August 1 will be declared an "emergency year" and subsequent years many be so declared before December in any crop year, at the Government's discretion.

Under this scheme the farmer with the smallest crop gets the greatest assistance. The acreage bonus applies to half the total acreage a farmer has under cultivation regardless of what is sown, up to a maximum of 400 acreages in cultivation.

To assist in building up a fund, which will be augmented by Government contributions, one per cent of all grain delivered at terminal elevators will be taken over by the government and sold.

Another safeguard is that the acreage bonus will be reduced by one-tenth for every cent the market goes above 70 cents, which would asborb the total if wheat sold at 80 cents. This range may be altered for subsequent years.

King's Maundy Pennies Given To 88-Paupers at Old Abbey

By PAT USSHER

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Apr. 6 (CP)—The king's Maundy Pennies were distributed today to 88 paupers with traditional ceremony in Westminster Abbey.

The Bishop of London, Rt. Rev. Arthur Winnington-Ingram, Dean of the Chapels Royal, handed purses to the recipients—44 men and 44 women, corresponding to the sovereign's years.

The court at present is at Windsor and the king did not attend the ceremony. The Archbishop of Canterbury, who ordinarily distributes the "dole", is absent from England for a health cruise on the Mediterranean.

The Duke and Duchess of Gloucester and Princesses Marie Louise and Helena Victoria watched the ceremony.

The men received 95 shillings—including 45 for clothing, 30 for provisions, and £1 "redemption money". The women received 85 shillings, including 35 for clothing.

Each recipient got 44 pennies worth of the Maundy pieces. The money, handed out in red and white leather purses, was in current coins and the specially minted Maundy pieces.

The complete ritual, as carried out centuries ago, included washing the feet of the pilgrims who were then recipients of the dole. The tradition is based on the Bible account of Christ's washing the feet of the disciples.

James II was the last king of England to perform the full ceremony. It is recorded that James in 1865 "wash'd, wip'd, and kiss'd the feet of 52 poor men with wonderful humility".

In subsequent years the task was turned over to the Lord High Almoner. But within a century that part of it was dropped.

Origin of the word "Maundy" is the Latin "Mandatum", first word of the service chanted at the washing of the feet of the pilgrims on Holy Thursday.

George H. Stokes Selected As Conservative Candidate For Riding of S. Hastings

Former Sheriff of County Selected on Third Ballot

FIVE IN RUNNING

H. D. Graham, Mayor Bone, A. L. Burke and Dr. Morgan in Contest

In one of the most vigorous and hard won elections, Geo. H. Stokes, Belleville, late yesterday afternoon was named leader of the Conservative party in the federal riding of Hastings South to contest the seat in opposition to C. A. Cameron, K. C., present Liberal member.

One of ten candidates nominated at the convention held in the city hall, Mr. Stokes defeated Howard D. Graham of Trenton on the third ballot, and Mr. Graham, Mayor Jamieson Bone, who withdrew, and Arthur L. Burke of Belleville in the second ballot, and the above three candidates, with Dr. W. C. Morgan, in the first ballot. Names of ten who were nominated appeared in yesterday's issue of the Ontario Intelligencer.

Of a total of 277 votes polled by the delegates from the various municipalities of the riding, it was stated that Mr. Stokes had been given a total of 106 on the first ballot. Results of further, balloting were not made public to either delegates or candidates.

HARDWOOD LOGS NOT FINISHED TO BE EXPORTED

Ontario Government to Assist Britain in Rearmament Plans

WILL CHANGE ACT

Toronto, April 6 — (CP) —Scheduled for third reading in the Ontario Legislature today is a Bill innocuously titled a Bill for an Act to amend the Crown Timber Act. It really is a Bill to help Britain in her rearmament plans.

The measure precipitated a debate yesterday in committee stage before Premier Mitchell Hepburn explained its purpose. It had gone through first and second readings without debate, the Conservatives waiting to tackle it in Committee stage.

Under the Bill's terms, Ontario will lift her prohibition on the export of unmanufactured hardwood logs, such exemption to apply only to logs exported to the British Empire. The Premier explained that from such logs parts of airplanes are made and that Britain has found difficulties with her supply from the Maritimes.

Conservative Leader George Drew attacked the measure, before its purpose was stated, as a transfer of too much power to the Cabinet,

Chamberlain Again Defends Action on 'Man-Guns' Speech

London, Apr. 6 (AP) — Prime Minister Chamberlain for the second time defended in the House of Commons today his action in seeking to suppress the "man with guns" speech of Earl Stanhope as some London newspapers demanded the First Lord of the Admiralty resign.

The prime minister said he tried to suppress the speech because "it appeared to me to be likely to convey the impression to the public and, perhaps, not only to the public of this country that we were at that moment expecting some surprise attack on our ships."

Mr. Chamberlain said he regretted that a "D"—for danger—notice was used to gain support of British papers in suppressing the speech, but added:

"Looking back on the circumstances I still think that if they were repeated I should do the same thing."

INDIAN AGENT AT DESERONTO DIES

Capt. Harold J. Eade Has Held Post Since 1934

Deseronto, Ont., April 6—CP)—Capt. Harold J. Eade, commissioner of Indian Affairs on the Tyendinaga Indian Reserve, suffered a seizure and died a few minutes later at his home here yesterday.

Capt. Eade came here as Indian Agent in 1934. A widow and two children survive.

FULLY JUSTIFIED TO MAKE DEALS REPORT TABLED

Majority Report Signed by Seven Liberals of Commission

FOUR DISSENT

Toronto, April 6.—(CP) — Conflicting conclusions as to whether Premier Mitchell Hepburn deceived the Ontario electorate with his "back-to-Niagara" Hydro policy in the 1937 general election campaign were reached by Liberal and Conservative members of the committee that investigated the deception charge.

The charge was made at the 1938 legislature session by Leopold Macaulay, then Conservative House Leader. An inquiry was ordered by the House and Attorney-General Gordon Conant was made chairman of the committee of seven Liberals and four Conservatives.

The majority report signed by the seven government members, was tabled in the legislature yesterday by Provincial Secretary Harry Nixon. Speaker James Clark, saying his ruling was not to be taken as a precedent, permitted Mr. Macaulay to table a minority report signed by the four Conservatives. Both will be included in the journals.

Fully Justified Says Report

On the basis of information supplied to him by T. Stewart Lyon, then chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, the Premier in 1937 was fully justified in advocating that Ontario should undertake further power developments at Niagara Falls to satisfy her power needs, was the majority conclusion.

"There is conclusive evidence that Mr. Hepburn deceived the public with his assurance of a 'Back-to-Niagara' policy", said the minority report.

Mr. Macaulay's original charge was that Premier Hepburn knew before the 1937 election that Ontario was facing a power shortage and that he, or someone else on his behalf, was negotiating with the

Fair and Cool Weather Predicted For Easter Parade

Toronto, April 6 (CP)—The Easter parade will be moving at a brisk pace through most of Ontario if advance forecasts of Easter Sunday weather prove correct.

While he would not go overboard about Sunday, the weather man predicted the weather will be snappy enough to keep the peacock battalions strutting along. He added however, that fair skies probably will prevent wholesale casualties among the new hats and frocks.

Good Friday weather through most of the province is expected to be fair and moderately cold.

Yugoslavia and Greece Warned to Stay Out of Bloc

Tirana, Apr. 6 (AP)—An Italian cruiser and two destroyers arrived at Durazzo, Albania, this morning as Albania feverishly discussed reports of an imminent Italian occupation.

Many Albanian reservists have been mobilized. Twenty truckloads of arms were sent yesterday to Valona, the southern port of Albania.

There was some feeling in diplomatic circles that the Albanian government might try to resist any landing of Italian troops.

There was a distinct possibility, however, that the government might on the other hand find a formula under which Italian occupation would be accepted.

Crowds of Albanians gathered outside the foreign ministry, seeking some inkling of what was going on.

Will Resist Occupation.

People in the streets freely expressed their desire to resist any military occupation.

Plane service from Tirana to Italy was cancelled. Practically all Italians in Albania had returned to Italy.

Negotiations between Albania and Italy, ostensibly toward strengthening of the 1927 defensive alliance between the two countries have been going on for several days.

PREMIER LYONS CRITICALLY ILL

Suffering from Complication of Ailments Following Heart Attack

Sydney, Australia, April 6.—(CP)—Anxiety for the life of Prime Minister Joseph Lyons was expressed today by the Deputy Prime Minister, Sir Earle Page.

Sir Earle said Lyons was suffering a complication of ailments after a serious heart attack.

A bulletin said the Prime Minister's condition was "very desperate".

Archbishop John Panico, Catholic Apostolic delegate to Australia, was summoned to the Prime Minister's bedside in the hospital as specialists urgently conferred on his condition.

The 60-year-old Prime Minister entered hospital last Tuesday with what was described as a "bad case of grippe". Complications set in last night.

Mrs. Lyons rushed here by airplane from Tasmania after she was informed of her husband's illness.

Sir Charles Blackburn, one of Sydney's foremost physicians, was called in the case.

The official bulletin said:—

"The Prime Minister's condition is still exceedingly serious. He has again been seen by Sir Charles Blackburn in consultation with Dr. Dierholm. His condition is still very desperate. Dame Lyons and members of his family kept a vigil at the hospital all day."

New Drug Arrests Spread of Tuberculosis in Guinea Pigs

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE

(Associated Press Science Editor)

Baltimore, Apr. 6 ((P)—Human tuberculosis has been completely arrested in about 100 guinea pigs by a new form of sulfanilamide.

The pigs were not cured, but the disease was stopped from spreading and the animals lived in good health until killed to further verify these results.

No predictions are made as to whether the new drug will be useful to human beings.

These reports were made to the American Chemical Society here today by doctors M. L. Crossley, E. H. Northey and Martin E. Hultquist of the Calco Chemical Company, Bound Brook, N.J.

The Sulfanilamide which saved the pigs was made by combining the drug with a fat from an acid common in cocoanut oil. The compound's chemical name is N-1 Dodecanoyl Sulfanilamide. It is a white solid, which the pigs ate.

About 300 pigs were used in a year's expericents. They were injected, in the abdomen, with massive doses of human tuberculosis bacilli.

Those receiving no sulfanilamide all died within 60 days, of tuberculosis spread through their systems. The 100 that lived were given the Dodecanoyl drug about three days after infection.

Tubercles formed at the site of the infection, a sign of tuberculosis at that spot. The tubercles remained there as long as the pigs lived. But the disease spread no farther. These pigs lost no weight, a sharp contrast to the unprotected pigs.

Mutual Military Aid to be Pledged By Britain, Poland

Labor M.P.'s Charge Gestapo With Terrorizing Germans in Britain

INFORMATION ASKED

Hoare Requests Information of Activity of German Secret Police

By J. F. SANDERSON

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Apr. 6 (CP) — Anglo-Polish relations will be placed on a permanent treaty basis with each country pledging military assistance to the other if attacked, Prime Minister Chamberlain announced in the House of Commons today.

The prime minister also dclared Great Britain was maintaining a close watch on the Albanian situation. The Albanian authorities had assured Britain they would accept no condition "incompatible with their sovereignty or national integrity."

To Deport German Secret Police.

Sir Samuel Hoare, Home Secretary, announced the government was taking steps to deport from Britain members of the German secret police and other Nazi organizations. Within recent weeks the government has taken steps against three members of Nazi organizations.

The Home Secretary made his announcement after Labor members said agents of the Gestapo were terrorizing Germans working in Britain by telling them their relatives in Germany would be punished unless they sent part of their earnings home. Sir Samuel requested any information members possessed substantiating the activities of the German secret police.

One member asked whether any Nazi agents enjoyed diplomatic immunity—a suggestion that some members of the German diplomatic corps might be dealing with espionage—but Sir Samuel replied: "The answer is no.'

Suspicion of German Journalists.

It is known that British officials are suspicious of a number of German journalists assigned to cover Whitehall. Around 40 German newspapermen work in London and in the opinion of British officials three or four could handle the news transmitted from here for use in the German controlled press.

On several occasions British officials have considered reducing the number of German newspapermen to bring it down to the number of British reporters covering the German capital.

On the Polish understanding, Mr. Chamberlain said:

"Pending competition of a permanent agreement Colonel Beck (the Polish Foreign Minister now in England) gave an assurance that the gave an assurance that the Polish government would consider themselves under an obligation to render assistance to his Majesty's government under the same conditions as those in the temporary assurance already given by his Majesty's government to Poland.

"The permanent agreement will be designed to assure Great Britain and Poland of mutual assistance in the event of any threat, direct or indirect, to the independence of either.

"Like the temporary assurance the permanent agreement will not be directed against any other country."

Massey Kept Informed.

Vincent Massey, High Commissioner for Canada, and the representatives of the other Dominions were given details of the Anglo-Polish negotiations by Sir Thomas Inskip, Secretary for the Dominions. Mr. Chamberlain's statement also was discussed.

CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE FAMED FOR KEEN MEMORY

Ability to Remember Names Gives Mr. Stokes Wide Circle of Friends

MUCH PUBLIC SERVICE

George H. Stokes, 266 George Street, Belleville, who yesterday was selected by the Conservative convention at the city hall to represent the federal riding of South Hastings at the next Dominion general election, has long been recognized as one of the most popular and best known residents of the constituency.

A native of Hastings County, Mr. Stokes was born in the Township of Rawdon of pioneer parents, but resided in Hungerford Township nearly all his life, except for an almost forgotten period of earlier childhood life when he lived in and attended school in Hillier Township of the County of Prince Edward. Of later years he had made Belleville his home, and has taken an active part not only in Conservative affairs, but the civic associations of Belleville.

His Fine Memory

An amazing memory for names, dates and faces has long been one of the qualifications of the new candidate acknowledged by vote of delegates yesterday as being the strongest in the field for honors of leadership of the local party. Naturally endowed with a quiet nature, Mr. Stokes has been in the past content to offer his services to the Conservative party of Belleville and of the riding in an advisory capacity. He has repeatedly declined to accept the opportunities of publicity and advertised public service. To friends and intimates and officials of district service organizations, he has been long recognized as one of the guiding spirits in Conservative affairs. The decision to allow his name to stand before the convention as candidate came as the result of strong pressure brought to bear by party stalwarts who saw in Mr. Stokes the strength needed to recapture the riding for the Conservative cause. Decision to accept the nomination if offered, came as a last minute one, it has been freely acknowledged.

Has Served Constituency

Mr. Stokes will enter the field of federal politics well equipped and well versed in the matter of service to his constituency. Like many others selected by the voice

OFFICE HOURS AT POST OFFICE FOR HOLIDAYS

Tomorrow being "Good Friday" and a statutory holiday the public lobby of the Post Office will be open from 6.30 a.m. until 6.00 p.m. The General Delivery, Registration and Postage Stamp wickets will be open from 8.00 a.m. until 12 noon as will the Money Order and Savings Bank wickets. One letter carrier delivery will be made while letter-box collections will be made as on a normal day. Mails will be received and despatched as usual, including air mail and special delivery letters.

On Easter Monday the public lobby will be open from 6.30 a.m. until 9.00 p.m. while full service will be given at all wickets. Morning and afternoon letter-carrier delivery will be made as will the usual collections from letter-boxes. Mails will be received and despatched as usual.

NO SIGN OF SUCKER RUN OBSERVED YET

The annual sucker run of the now ice-free Moira River is yet to start, it was reported by local fishermen this morning. Experts were divided on the question of whether the Bay of Quinte pike have yet commenced their spring up-stream run to spawn, though it was stated several of the fish have been observed at the edge of the stone wall above the car bridge following the disappearance of the ice mass from the lower river yesterday afternoon.

SPRING THAW AFFECTS ROADS IN DISTRICT

Roads in many sections of the county are still snow and ice covered, and recent thaws have resulted in extremely muddy conditions on others, it was reported by various delegates from sections of the riding at the convention of South Hastings Conservative delegates at the city hall yesterday afternoon. First sign of thaw is noted this week on some of the lakes of the north, though it is reported that a considerable depth of ice yet remains.

APPOINTED CHIEF DAIRY INSTRUCTOR

H. B. Sandwith, well known among local dairymen, who for a number of years has been instructor in milk testing at the Eastern Ontario Dairy School, Kemptville during the winter months, and inspector in the Kingston district during the summer has been appointed chief dairy instructor for the Eastern Ontario district. The position has been vacant since the retirement of G. G. Publow some years ago.

ICE DELAYS PLACING OF BUOYS IN BAY

Opening of the navigation season at other smaller ports on the lake will be delayed this spring as well as at Belleville. According to latest word, the government buoy carrier, Steamer Grenville will not begin to lay buoys in Lake Ontario and the Bay of Quinte until April 10 at least. This year, reversing usual custom, the Grenville may go to Toronto harbor first to open navigation there. Last year the carrier started from Kingston on April 2 to work west.

POLICE COURT

Tomorrow being a statutory holiday there will be no session of City Police Court, His Worship Magistrate E. J. Butler K.C., revealed today. However, police court may be held on Saturday as Easter Monday is recognized as a legal holiday and during which no session of police court will be held.

Today in special traffic court, Motorcycle Patrolman H. Jillings of Napanee, presented the first case of alleged over-loading of commercial vehicles, contrary to a recent issuance of instructions from the Department of Highways. His Worship, Magistrate Butler registered a conviction against the accused trucker and the minimum fine was assessed.

"Strict instructions to enforce the overloading of commercial vehicles were issued from the Department. All commercial vehicle operators have been warned that only half loads are permitted on certain designated sections of the provincial highways for the remainder of this month," Officer Jillings added.

OFFICIALS CONFER ON ROYAL VISIT

Superintendent O. W. Duff of the Belleville division of the Canadian National Railways, general superintendent Pringle of Toronto, and other officials of the line conferred this week at Kingston with Mayor H. A. Stewart, members of the special committee of city council, and chief of police of the Kingston force, Robinson, to complete plans for the Royal visit in Kingston in May. Inspector Gardner of the local detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police was also present. Representing the militia units of this Military District No. 3, Major-General C. F. Constantine, Officer Commanding, was also named one of the committee to prepare for the visit.

Small Offering Improves Butter Price at Toronto

A few vendors offered maple syrup and sugar on the city market today with prices remaining steady at week-end levels. Gallons were quoted at two dollars with quarts at fifty cents.

"The sap-run has been a distinct disappointment this year, and the crop will not be half of that of last year," a prominent Thurlow Township sugar bush owner stated.

GANGS OF MEN BREAK UP ICE ON STREETS

Last of the winted debris is disappearing from city streets. Gentle rains recently have done much to clear the muddy ice and snow from the shaded corners but an average of thirty and forty men a day with picks and shovels have assisted in the greater part of the work. This week the daily average of thirty workers from the relief rolls of the city is being maintained by the works department. Work is now extended to the residential sections.

To intimate friends and acquaintances, he is known simply as "George" a familiarity he has encouraged through his simplicity and directness of personality. This personality he has carried with him on public speaking platforms of this and other ridings. He has long had the faculty of being able to explain and outline his ideas and suggestions in the less flowery language of more brilliant public speakers, but with a pungency and truth undeniably logical and driven home with the sincere conviction of truth.

The new candidate is convinced beyond all question of doubt that his acceptance of leadership for his riding is the decided wish of those who selected him at the convention yesterday. And in line with that service that he has given unstintedly in the past to the cause of Conservatism, he has announced his intention of making the fight "just as hard for the opposition as we can". That there would be any doubt of party success at the next general election is a thought which has not entered his mind, nor the minds of his supporters.

"The present government machinery has got sand in the gears. It is up to us to overhaul this machinery of government, take out the sand and get it working again," he told delegates yesterday.

Obituary

GEORGE F. BRICKMAN

Word was received here today by Ex-Ald. Clinton Brickman, that his father, Mr. George F. Brickman, passed away in his sleep in Toronto during last night. Mr. Brickman, who has resided at Rossmore for some years, was spending the winter in Toronto, and was apparently making a satisfactory recovery after an attack of the 'flu. He was in his 72nd. year. Friends here will regret to learn of his death.

A more complete obituary and the funeral announcement will appear in this paper on Saturday.

Police Blotter

Wanted in Oshawa on a charge of desertion a man, who police say was Henry Calver, was arrested in Belleville on a warrant of commitment, issued at Oshawa, yesterday. The accused man is being held for the Oshawa authorities.

A Wellington resident was observed driving a dilapidated old motor car on Coleman Street early today. Police investigations revealed the vehicle had exceptionally bad and defective brakes. The vehicle was taken off the highways and placed in a garage where the defectiveness was ordered remedied by police before the car will be permitted to be driven again. Charges are pending.

Mrs. E. W. Hannah, 113 1-2 North Front Street, reported the loss of a child's play wagon yesterday. Shortly afterwards the police recovered the wagon abandoned alongside the curb.

Four inebriates, all transients, who are said by police to have been consuming native wine, were arrested on charges of intoxication last night. They shared the cell block along with 27 transients, who sought shelter there last night.

FRUIT DEALER FINED FOR MISREPRESENTING GRADE OF APPLES

Pleading guilty of an infraction of the Fruit and Vegetable Act, Max Reicher of Toronto, was fined $10 and costs in Kingston police court this week by Magistrate Ambrose Shea. The charge was laid by Inspector C. T. Stevenson of the local office of the Fruit and Vegetables branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Reicher sold a hamper of apples to a Kingston store and it was charged that the top row of the apples in the hamper did not represent the true quality of the fruit contained therein.

Beauharnois Light, Heat and Power Company, of Quebec. This Company had held a contract with Ontario but it was declared null by an Act of the Legislature.

New Contracts Made

It was only after the election that Mr. Hepburn learned of the true power situation and after Mr. Lyon had been replaced as chairman of the Commission by Dr. T. H. Hogg. It was then new contracts were made with Beauharnois Gatineau and MacLaren Power Companies of Quebec.

The contracts were on more favorable terms than the ones that had been declared null, the majority report said. It added that Mr. Hepburn accepted the advice of Attorney-General Conant that the Government had little chance to win a Privy Council fight over the legislation declaring the contract nullities.

No Previous Negotiations

It was declared by the majority report that the first steps for new contracts were taken by Dr. Hogg after the election. There were no previous negotiations.

The minority report said the Hydro staff and at least two members of Mr. Hepburn's Cabinet knew in June 1937, that demands for power made new contracts with Quebec companies inevitable.

"The wisdom of the course followed in signing new contracts is not so much in issue as the unequivocal pledge of Mr. Hepburn that he would not sign new contracts if returned to power", said the Conservative statement.

"In spite of the unconvincing nature of some of the evidence, the only reasonable conclusion from the facts disclosed is that Mr. Hepburn deliberately misled the public and sought re-election upon an undertaking which he was well aware could not be fulfilled."

Doubt as to Saving

It was also to be doubted that there would be a saving from the new contracts, certainly not the $92,000,000 estimated by the government. Under certain circumstances the contracts might be less favorable than the cancelled ones.

The majority report was signed by Attorney-General Gordon Conant (chairman), Provincial Secretary Harry Nixon, James H. Clark (Windsor-Sandwich), Ian T. Strachan (Toronto St. George), James M. Cooper (Sudbury), Archibald J. Haines (Lincoln) and John Newlands (Hamilton Centre), all Liberals.

The minority report was signed by Mr. Macaulay, George H. Challies (Grenville Dundas), L. M. Frost (Victoria) and W. A. Baird (Toronto High Park), all Conservatives.

HARDWOOD LOGS

power to be exercised by Order-in-Council. If the general statute prohibiting such exports was good, there was no reason to permit exceptions. If it wasn't good, it should be repealed.

England Wants Logs

"England wants these logs for parts for airplanes," said Premier Hepburn. "We didn't wish to stand in the way of their getting them, so we ask the power to permit export and I'm sure it will be limited to that purpose. If some other Dominion, Australia, for instance should ask for these logs, we'd be in the unfortunate position of having to refuse unless this Bill passes."

"If that is the purpose of the Bill it is only necessary to add a few words to make it clear", said Col. Drew. Unless the Bill made it clear that such logs were to be exported for defence purposes, it might be used to evade the statute.

"If the Prime Minister accepts a silly amendment like that, I'm satisfied," said Mr. Heenan, piloting the Bill through committee stage.

The Minister's words convinced him more than ever there should be some restriction, said Col. Drew. He wasn't arguing the export of logs should be prohibited, but he was arguing against giving the Minister power to play favorites.

"Now let me pour some oil on troubled waters," said Premier Hepburn. "This very problem arises as the result of a visit to Canada of a commission representing industry in England supplying planes to the British Government.

Accepted Unanimously

"We were told hitherto that logs have been obtained from the Maritimes but unfortunately they could not get the quality they wanted there. The amendment suggests a limitation of exports for defence purposes only.

"The gentlemen who were here represented commercial companies, who may sell planes for commercial purposes. I would suggest the Attorney-General and the Opposition Leader get together and draft an amendment. I don't want to jam it through with the government majority."

After some further debate, the Premier suggested his amendment to limit the exports to the Empire and it was accepted unanimously.

As a Bill making important changes in the Coroner's Act went through committee stage, Attorney-General Gordon Conant inserted a clause empowering the Attorney-General to direct the suspension of inquests in cases where criminal prosecutions have been launched from the same set of circumstances.

The inserted clause would also give the Attorney-General power to order the resumption of suspended inquests should circumstances warrant.

Needless Expense

Needless expense and repetition of evidence might be prevented by the change, said Mr. Conant. Often the same evidence was given at an inquest, rehearsed at a preliminary hearing and repeated at a trial.

Col. Drew felt "perhaps there should be a limitation on the reporting of inquests in order that a case may not be prejudged" by those who might later become jurors in criminal proceedings.

"There should be no restraint on the press, but certainly there should be restraint on the repetition of evidence of an unsavory nature," he said.

Mr. Conant said it was difficult to reach a balance between the freedom of the press and fair, untrammelled administration of justice. Undoubtedly a trial to take place in Toronto next month would be made more difficult because of sordid and elaborate reports already published.

Other Changes

Other changes in the Act incorporated in the Bill include:

Consent of the Crown Attorney or Attorney-General to be required for the holding of an inquest.

The Attorney-General is empowered to order inquests.

Inquests may be held without a body on direction of the Attorney-General.

Five to be the maximum numbers for a coroner's jury. (The statute presently says there may be seven to twelve jurors.)

No one to be allowed to serve on more than one jury a year.

Objected to Tests

Leslie Frost (Con. Victoria) objected to the use of reports of blood tests at inquests to determine if deceased or others were intoxicated. Such tests were not conclusive evidence as to intoxication.

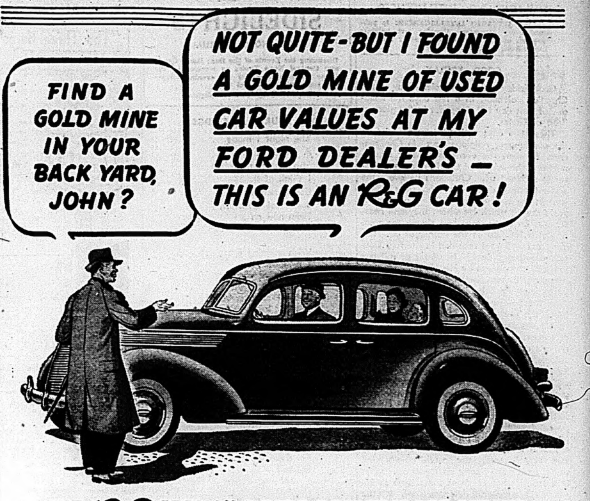
Mr. Frost said he knew of two reputable citizens of his county, killed in an accident, whose memory was left tainted by an inquest because of a report that their blood revealed two parts of alcohol in one thousand. The Coroner told the jury it was a fact the men were intoxicated.

Mr. Conant said he was never convinced there was any hard and fast rule to determine intoxication.

"We're not going to railroad people to jail on the arbitrary and dogmatic formulae of doctors or any body else. Too many facts may intervene in these tests. Certainly they are not conclusive proof of intoxication. It is risky to put people in jail because of a formula or a theory."

T. A. Kidd (Con. Kingston) sought to find out the reason for the dismissal of five coroners in his county after the 1934 general election. He thought it might have been because they weren't Liberals.

Premier Hepburn said the coroner in his county (Elgin) was a Conservative. Col. Kidd asked if the Liberal members knew of any other Conservative coroners. Eight Liberals stood up and the matter dropped.



FIND A GOLD MINE IN YOUR BACK YARD, JOHN?
NOT QUITE - BUT I FOUND A GOLD MINE OF USED CAR VALUES AT MY FORD DEALER'S — THIS IS AN R&G CAR!

THE R&G SEAL ON A FORD DEALER'S CAR MEANS

R: RENEWED where necessary to meet strict specifications.

G: GUARANTEED 2-day money-back guarantee; 50-50 30-day warranty.

IT is several years since Ford Dealers all over Canada first set up definite high standards of RECONDITIONING for used cars, and definite SAFEGUARDS to protect the used car buyer. These standards and safeguards were embodied in the "R&G" PLAN. Each year, Ford Dealers spend thousands of dollars in thoroughly reconditioning the cars they take in trade. Much of this reconditioning is not apparent to the eye. But your Ford Dealer is convinced that his future as a businessman depends on the VALUE of the products he sells—whether they be new Ford, Mercury or Lincoln-Zephyr cars, or whether they be the "R & G" cars that he offers.

For this reason, your Ford Dealer does all in his practical power to make sure that the "R & G" cars he sells are in absolute A-1 condition. Then, to further safeguard the buyer, he offers a 2-day money-back guarantee (100% satisfaction or 100% refund), with a "50-50" 30-day warranty against mechanical defects.

If you're ready to start driving a better used car, see your Ford Dealer today!

GOOD FRIDAY

Good Friday is the most solemn day on the Christian calendar. In a few days the shadows of that day will disappear in the glorious light of Easter.

These two days with Christmas make up the outstanding religious days in Christendom. Between the event marked at Christmas and the events of Good Friday and Easter is summed up. Christians believe, the whole teaching and rule of life. They believe that in the brief span of little over thirty years during which He whom they call Master was on earth man was shown the final revelation of God as the Father of all. His every act and word recorded in the four Gospels are the guide of hundreds of millions who call themselves by His Name. Such a life, spent in communion with the will of the Deity, is unparalleled in history.

In these days of turmoil among the nations, the Gospel story of the Life lived for others stands out clearly against the clouds of threats to peace and harmony shown by nations and the selfishness and sin of individuals. It remains the guiding star of the hope of millions against selfishness and chaos. What it has done for the world is the great marvel of history, however men and women may fall short of the ideal He set forth as their goal. This leads Christians to ponder how the full values of the teachings of Jesus Christ have never been fully realized, for if they had been followed in anything like their fullness, the world of mankind would have been vastly different from what it is today, when it seems there is no security except in material defences along with the knowledge of a just cause.

The message of love for God and man still stands and will endure in spite of all opposition because it is the way of life. Prophets, saintly men and women throughout the world, have visions of that day when the full glow of the Christian way of life will permeate civilization.

Christianity offers this assurance — the meek shall inherit the earth, but so many do not in their hearts really believe that. Yet the real strength in the long run is not in the sword and the gun. It is in the human spirit and dictators who glorify power and might will pass — for the spirit of human nature and life is against them. It is a law of life. Against the words of the Gospel "The meek shall inherit the earth" were heard the words of a dictator the other Sunday that all through history the lesson has been "woe to the unprepared". Another dictator by his actions has expressed the same attitude. He exalts the mythology of Germany which never had a real life against the living spirit of Christ, who exemplified the ideals which go by His Name.

This era is a Good Friday of the world. No one knows what sacrifices may come because of lack of the spirit of brotherhood and Christians. But the world has a hope that some day there will be an Easter Morn of peace for the world, no matter how far away that event may be.

In the light of recent, world happenings some may despair of an ultimate unselfish civilization, though Christianity has elements which will wipe away any civilization which is not founded on the Love of God and the Brotherhood of Man.

THE PASSOVER

At this time the members of the Hebrew faith, that vital Judaism with which Christianity has been associated, are observing one of the great events in history — the festival of the Passover. The story of the persecutions in Egypt under the Pharaoh of the Oppression is well known to all who realize what the feast of the Passover means to this heroic people whose home is in Palestine, however they be scattered across the world.

Today the members of this faith are suffering under probably the worst pogrom in history, the wholesale terror to which Jews in the German Reich have been forced to submit at the hands of the Nazis. Today they are on the eve of an emigration from Germany, the proportions of which may well test the vast resources of the democratic world to handle.

At this time the Jewish people in every land remember their noble past, revealing a loyal and devoted people who through adversities which might crush any race, have survived and handed on, not only to their own fellow Hebrews, but even to the races which have persecuted them the gifts and blessings of enlightenment.

Jews know their cause is just, that as the Passover marks the deliverance from bondage, it symbolizes their triumph over obstacles today and in the future because they are loyal in their faith. This no persecution has been able to take from them. This explains their endurance and vitality, it is their reward for devotion. This race has never been a persecuting people for they believe in justice, truth, peace, and love for God and their fellowmen.

A FOURTH AT BRIDGE

The night I made
A fourth at bridge
Still haunts me when
I think of it.
Convention makes
Such fool demands,
From now on
I'll have none of it.

With seeming grace
I took my place,
And played each hand
As best might be.
The bits of pasteboard
Flipped; but I
Was wandering
Beside the sea.

Out where the waves
And full, round moon
Communed together....
And the room
Quite suddenly
Became a cell—
A kind of tittering
Social hell.

Fat dowagers
Smoked cigarettes,
Winning or losing
Puny bets.
And one with fury
On her face
Shrieked at me,
"You've trumped my ace!"

Through dull post mortems
I was led,
Then pretty society
Was fed.
To act like this
They think no crime,
All had a perfectly
Lovely time.....

The old moon laughed,
The great waves roared.
Between their sheets
The bridge-fiends snored.

BASEBALL BEATS CRIME. As sandlot baseball increases in a community, its juvenile crime rate decreases, Tris Speaker, former big-league player, points out in the current Rotarian Magazine. The man regarded by many as baseball's greatest outfielder now gives much of his time to spreading interest in the national pastime by teaching schoolboys its fundamentals. With Lew Fonseco, former White Sox star, and other players he has conducted baseball schools in Chicago, Boston, and other cities — and few of the lads ever cut classes. "Nobody, of course, will ever be able to say just how much those boys learned from us about baseball," comments Speaker. "But this we do know: their interest was stimulated to a high degree, and the police told us that juvenile delinquency decreased as much as 35 percent in some of the neighborhoods where we conducted our schools." For further evidence of preventing crime through vacant-lot ball games, Speaker cities his home city Cleveland, Ohio, where similar schools have been held. He reports that Eliot Ness, the city's safety director, once told him that if amateur baseball did not occupy such a large place in the thoughts and activities of Cleveland boys, the work of the police department would be tripled.

HATS OFF TO KINGSTON, THE OLD LIMESTONE CITY, which may be old but is not decrepit, being up and coming as they make 'em. Kingston scrapped its Toonerville Trolley when it was seen that better service could be obtained from busses. Kingston has some splendid parks and a waterfront which other communities envy. Kingston has other advantages of scenic and commercial value and has long since moved the Kingston Penitentiary out to Portsmouth as unbecoming the ancient and honourable military and university city motivated by its new and modern spirit of progress. Now Kingston has started the New Year by again making the Front Page with its Hydro Electric-Public Utilities management. The year has hardly started before the Kingston Public Utilities Commission has turned back to the citizens as rebate on electric service collections the sum of $42,000, evidently believing with many others that it is not the purpose of civic utilities to build up large surpluses for future generations to dissipate. Previous rebates to electricity consumers have been very satisfactory. Kingston waterworks department has also an enviable record in rebates to consumers which since 1931 totalled $304,733.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

April 6th., 1919.

At a meeting of the Belleville Sunday School Association yesterday preliminary steps were taken for the making of a church census in Belleville under the Home Visitation Plan, which has been used with great success in other places. The Belleville Ministerial Association is heartily in accord with the movement.

Members and friends of the Belleville Curling Club will enjoy a pedro party at the rink this evening.

Mr. William Lingham of Sydney Australia, is here on a visit to his mother, Mrs. Job Lingham, George Street, and is being welcomed home by many old friends.

Mr. William Robins of the Graham Company, Limited, Belleville, has resigned and has accepted a lucrative position with a firm in Toronto.

30 YEARS AGO

April 6th., 1909.

How is the City Baseball League coming on? Get in the game boys.

The tender of A. S. Large for the city market tolls has been accepted by the city council.

What about the new school? Considering that it is imperative that the Board of Education provide more accommodation, there is no apparent haste on the part of the authorities to get things going. Two new schools, it is reported will be built in East Belleville, one on Pine Street and one on Dundas Street.

At the annual meeting of the Oddfellows' Band the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, John Weese; Manager, R. H. Ketcheson; Treasurer, William Givens; Secretary, Charles Hanna; Executive Committee, Walter Aselstine, Wesley Waymark and Charles Ridley; Auditors, Charles Ridley and Frank Sills. The band is in a good position financially and has several important engagements for the coming season.

40 YEARS AGO

April 6th., 1899.

Mr. A. G. Vermilyea spent yesterday in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Johnson have returned from Woodstock where they visited relatives for some time.

Mr. H. Parker Thomas of this city has been selected to judge certain classes of dogs at the Industrial Fair in Toronto this fall.

Capt Montgomery is fitting out the schooner D. Freeman for the coming season. W. Meehan has been engaged as mate for the season.

The schooner Echo, which has been supplied with a new bottom, was launched here today. Capt. Fagan will be in command during the coming season.

Captain Smith is superintending the fitting out of the schooner Ballou.

The dredge is being overhauled preparatory to resuming work in the local harbor.

At one time this morning there were 21 loads of hay on the market.

All who are interested in the sports of the woods and the waters are invited to attend a meeting in the law office of Mr. E. Guss Porter this evening.

Thieves entered Thomas Sander's Men's Furnishings Store on Front Street near Campbell Street and made off with goods to the value of $12. The refreshment stand of Jacob Finkle on Front Street was also entered and a small lot of goods was taken.

At the various ports on the bay there are about 70,000 bushels of barley awaiting shipment.

Prof. Dawson, formerly head master of the Belleville High School, was in the city today.

The Ancient Order of Foresters will attend the service in the Tabernacle Church on Sunday morning.

Mrs. Andrew Knox is visiting friends in Montreal.

Toasting King in Lemonade

How is Ottawa going to drink the King's health when the royal party arrives here on May 18?

You see, Ottawa is the strictest, dourest capital in the world, a city where only beer and ale are sold in hotels and taverns. Even then there are separate rooms for men and women, for strict segregation of sexes is insisted upon when drinking.

No man, or 20 men for that matter, arriving can sit in the women's lounge or saloon, though, if he arrive accompanied by a woman, concessions are granted allowing you to sit in an obscure corner of the Women's Department.

There are no bars here. Cocktails are unknown. Sixty percent, of the population never touches alcohol.

It is a city without any capers. Even food cannot be had on any premises, either in the dining-room of a first class hotel or restaurant, after 8 p.m.

Ottawa never takes its pleasures after nightfall, and on Sunday not at all.

People I have been talking to think — some of them hope — that the rigorous law might be lifted during the visit of the King and Queen.

At present to get a drink stronger than the rather weak ale on sale here it is necessary to make a trip across the river to the small industrial town of Hull, in Quebec Province, which is considered a very gay spot, but which is actually as gay as Wigan.

They are wondering, too, what will be served at the royal banquet and garden party, pointing out that lemonade and beer somehow do not seem quite right for toasting the Monarch and his Queen.

I confess I dare not make a prophecy on this point, and officials I have talked with have not indicated any concession other than a national holiday.—London Daily Mail.

Cruel and Unusual Punishment

Just glance over our shoulder at the morning's mail.

It's Spring in Japan, the cherry trees are in gorgeous bloom, Japan is "one colossal garden" with festivals and shows, and wouldn't we like to spend a vacation there?

Russia wants us to see Moscow's famous Red Square and the tomb of Lenin, makes a fascinating story of it.

The West Indies are anxious to have us with them, it seems.

Press-agents of cruises to Scandinavia almost induce us to see the ticket agent.

And here is a book about vacations, mostly ocean trips, costing from $50 to $500. We open it at random and read of a 71-day cruise to Haiti, Venezuela and Curacao that can be had with a dollar to spare within the $250 classification. Or for $49.60, it seems, we could have a week at a hotel in Atlantic City.

We look out the window to see Winter lingering reluctant in the lap of Spring, turn back to our task in the conviction that life would be simpler at this season if wily press-agents wouldn't tell us about luxury liners, about white beaches under a tropical moon, about the quaint charm of the far places. It's getting us down.—Ottawa Journal.

ORANGE INFLATION

All this renewed talk about inflation proving the key to better times in Canada reminds us of the story of the oranges. That is one of the very first lessons in rudimentary economics.

If a man is in the desert and thirsty, and he finds someone with an orange, the man is willing to pay five dollars for an orange.

If the seller has a second orange, the thirsty one might pay four dollars for a second orange.

For a third orange, the by now less thirsty one would perhaps pay two dollars.

After a few more oranges, the now quenched man might pay a couple of cents for an orange.

And, eventually he would not even bother taking an orange for a gift.

Inflation is the same way. As long as money and currency are valuable they have purchasing power. But, if so much inflation makes the money lose its attractiveness of value, then it also will have lost its purchasing power.—Windsor Star.

UMBRELLA DANCE

Away over in France there seems to be a growing need for a certain amount of umbrella control. According to a message from Rouen a new measure is proving highly popular in the dance-halls of Normandy.

When the dance in question is in progress a lone male who has been left over is presented with an umbrella; with it he wanders round until he sees a partner with whom he would like to dance. Slipping the crook of the umbrella handle over the arm of the man with whom she is dancing, he then detaches the unneeded partner, seizes the lady himself, and dances off.

The displaced male is left with the umbrella, and he himself has to wander round until he sees another dancer whom he decides to unhook in order to claim his partner. And so on and so on until the dance finishes—or the free fight breaks out. — Manchester Guardian.

RUSSIAN FUR AUCTION

The Soviet fur auction, just ended at Leningrad, was the most successful since the bolshevist revolution, with a record total of sales of $2,500,000 to about 120 foreigners, including thirty-five Americans forming the largest foreign group.

For the third year the auction was handled in English by a former automobile driver, John Cobb, now a member of a firm of English fur auctioneers. The prices ran unexpectedly high, 10 to 15 per cent above the world wholesale average. The furs, especially sables, were said to be rarely prime. Moreover, the most skilled fur workers of Leipzig, Germany, have found refuge in the Soviet Union, and the percentage of dressed furs at Leningrad and their quality are now reported little lower than those of the former Leipzig fur mart.

MYNAH BIRDS SCARCE

Because the Japanese are so busy fighting in China, the Indian Hill Mynah birds have become so scarce prices have soared away up. As much as $100 is being asked for birds that ordinarily sell at around $35 each.

The birds are great talkers, even better than most parrots. They can be taught to say many words, and some of the better trained mynahs have vocabularies of as many as 40 different words.

The mynahs are black with long bright bills. They look something like a crow in size and shape and color, except for the bill.

The birds come from Japan and there has been a marked scarcity of them in the last couple of years. Owners of birds brought in before the invasion of China curbed the Japanese exports are trying to get prices beyond reason.—W. L. Clark in Windsor Star.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Angina Pectoris and Coronary Disease

Perhaps you or one of your family have or have had a 'heart attack'. Your physician may have called it angina pectoris or it may have been called coronary disease —coronary occlusion or stoppage.

As both these conditions cause pain in the region of the heart you may wonder just how serious each condition is, whether it is safe to be up and about as advised by your physician or whether it is necessary to lie in bed for a month or six weeks as one of your friends has had to do.

In speaking of the difference between angina pectoris—breast pang—and coronary disease, Dr. I. C. Brill, Portland, Oregon, Assistant Proqfessor of Medicine, University of Oregon, in Clinical Medicine and Surgery, says:

Angina pectoris results from lack of oxygen in the blood supplying the heart muscle from whatever cause—excess food, excitement, disease or partial closure of the little artery carrying the blood to the heart. The pain is underneath the breast bone. There is always some cause for the attack of angina pectoris. The angina attacks last but a minute or two and the individual feels all right after the attack. He stands still—afraid to move—while the attack is present. No rise in temperature is present.

Coronary disease occurs most frequently in middle-aged men with inherited high blood pressure; diabetes; physical strain. In coronary disease (thrombosis) the attack lasts a long time, hours and days, there seems to be no cause (overworking, overeating, excitement), the patient is restless, and there is rise in temperature. As real damage to the structure of the bloodvessels has occurred the patient must remain in bed for six weeks, until healing occurs.

In the treatment of angina pectoris, the factors causing the attack must be removed or corrected—overeating, overexercising, too much excitement,— together with use of drugs to open the blood vessels more widely.

In the treatment of coronary disease, the prolonged rest is most important. Sometimes, an increased blood supply to the heart muscle is obtained by operation, an added supply of blood being obtained from large chest muscle. In other cases operation, by dividing the bloodvessels brings brilliant results.

Remember angina pectoris needs care but not bed rest; coronary disease needs four to six weeks resting quietly in bed.

MAYOR LaGUARDIA

The secret of the political success of Mayor LaGuardia of New York lies largely in his understanding of human problems and the ease with which the voters understand him. His comment on the Hines conviction, for example, was no long and involved speech on good and bad government. It was this: "The cop today does not have to take his hat off to any lousy political leader." That tells the whole story, and everybody understands it.—Detroit News.

CHANGE TO SLIPPERS

An English professor recently made the playful suggestions that a Five-Power Conference should be called to bring about the wearing of carpet-slippers, instead of top-boots, by dictators; for he thinks that the change would have a soothing effect.

Its commonly accepted that a man's heart may be in his boots; and it can certainly be admitted that association of sounds might lead from spur-clanking to sabre-rattling; and plainly slippers could prevent a martial display from proceeding to extremities. One might deduce also that a dictator could never bring war on the tapis if he were on it himself; since, in that case, the slipper being what it is, he would soon be "on his uppers" too.—Christian Science Monitor.

THE FIRST TICKET

Season ticket number one to the New York World's Fair, 1939, was bought by Mayor F. H. LaGuardia from Grover A. Whalen, president of the Fair Corporation, at a ceremony in City Hall. Mayor LaGuardia, who paid $15 for his ticket, and Mr. Whalen announced jointly that there would be no complimentary tickets to the fair, the Mayor making it the occasion to order all city officials and employees not even to attempt to obtain fair passes. Mr. Whalen said that even executives of the Fair Corporation would pay regular admission charges and that no passes would be issued to employees.

Wo So Seems to be Fighting Losing Battle With the Law

Winnipeg, April 6 —(CP)—Wo So, Winnipeg's stubborn Chinese laundryman yesterday was arrested for the second time because he failed to appear in court to answer a charge of operating his laundry without a licence Wo So's battle with the city over his dilapidated laundry shack has been going on now for a year.

He is held without bail for appearance today, when authorities hope a final decision in the struggle will be made.

Wo So ordered to vacate his establishment, declared unfit for habitation, paid two fines, but on each occasion he headed homeward to continue washing the neighborhood clothes.

Then he was arrested a couple of weeks ago for ignoring a summons which Wo So figured was unimportant. He paid his fine and went back to the washing.

About a year ago, city officials urged Wo So to move. Wo So considered his shack a fit place to live and remained. Friends urged him to find another business place but Wo So impassively returned to the shack.

Then the city decided to refuse him a licence, and to clinch the argument refused to accept Wo So's money every time he tried to get one.

So Wo So, slightly bewildered by it all, will appear in court a third time to pay a fine for not having a licence which the city refuses to give him anyway.

"Moonlight Sonata" English Production Is Different

Features World Famed Pianist and Sterling Cast With Charles Farrell and Marie Tempest

Music lovers, readers of contemporary history and many others who have watched and admired the career of Ignace Jan Paderewski still alive, and a factor in the present exciting whirl of world events, filled the McCarthy Theatre Thursday on the occasion of the first presentation of "Moonlight Sonata," with the great pianist playing Beethoven's masterpiece and several of his own compositions.

"Moonlight Sonata" has everything of an entertaining nature, superb music, fine romance, splendid acting and marvellous photography.

This is the first and only moving picture participated in by Paderewski and will serve to perpetuate the face and form as well as the great talent of the Polish pianist for many to whom otherwise he would be but a shadowy figure flashing across the page of history.

While the musical genius of Paderewski has stirred thousands to enthusiasm, all must admire his place in history. During the World War he worked assiduously in the cause of the allies, organized a Polish army in the United States, and raised large sums of money from concerts to provide comforts for soldiers at the front. After the war he helped to organize a government in the new Poland and became the first Premier, giving valuable service to his country in a stormy period of political intrigue and nation making.

In "Moonlight Sonata" Paderewski is himself, the great pianist, and his performance for the screen constitutes a masterpiece in itself.

A fine cast helps to bring out all the beauties of "Moonlight Sonata," with the popular and clever Charles Farrell, supported by Marie Tempest, most popular of all English actresses, and other talented English artistes. "Moonlight Sonata" was filmed in England, which accounts for the artistic excellence of the production and the faithful attention to detail.

The audience was enthralled by the Maestro's playing and was completely captivated by his delightful personality. Music lover or not, you are certain to be carried away by his work in this picture.

Charm is the keynote of "Moonlight Sonata," with Paderewski as the chief charmer. There have been more exciting films but none more beautiful or more completely satisfying.

The film has been skilfully built around Paderewski and his music. It opens with the pianist giving a recital in a crowded concert hall. Attention is drawn to a happy young couple and their baby daughter. Later in his club Paderewski tells the story of their romance, how it was nearly broken and how his music brought them together again.

Altogether "Moonlight Sonata" is one of those picture presentations which linger long in pleasant memory, good entertainment, and an artistic masterpiece which folks who pride themselves on keeping up with the times can not afford to miss.

OBITUARY

ADOLPH SHANNIK
(Belleville)

After a lengthy illness, Adolph Shannik, an aged and highly respected resident of this city died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Joseph Webb, 443 Bleecker Avenue, on Wednesday night. He was born in Germany, 85 years ago, and as a young man came to this country settling in Bancroft, where he resided for many years until his removal to Belleville four years ago. The funeral of the late Carrie Amelia Belshaw, Stirling, beloved wife of Geo. T. Belshaw took place from the late residence in Stirling on Saturday afternoon, April 1st., to St. John's Anglican Church where service was conducted by Rev. A. S. McConnell.

The late Mrs. Belshaw, who passed away at her home on Thursday March 30th., after a lengthy illness was born in Huntingdon Township, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Bailey. She was in her seventy-second year and had lived in Stirling for the past nineteen years, coming to Stirling with her husband and family from their farm in the eighth concession of Rawdon. Mrs. Belshaw was a woman of fine character and will be sadly mourned by a wide circle of friends. She was a member of St. John's Anglican Church, Stirling. The many floral tributes showed the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

Surviving are her husband, Mr. Geo. T. Belshaw; one son, Claude J. of Stirling. Two daughters, Mrs. C. B. Rollins, Stirling, and Mrs. S. S. Roblin of Toronto. Three brothers, John and Allen Bailey of Rawdon, and Charles Bailey of Campbellford. Two sisters, Mrs. W. Gunning, Stirling and Mrs. H. T. Archer, Havelock. There are also three grandchildren.

The pallbearers were —Messrs Henry Bell, Walter Barker, Frank Stapley, Thos. Francis, Thos. Solmes, and Carleton Wright. Interment in Stirling Cemetery.

KINGSTON MASONS PAY FRATERNAL VISIT TO CITY

Ancient St. John's Confer Degree at Moira Lodge

SPLENDID PROGRAM

Fraternizing at labor and refreshment, some 80 members of Ancient St. John's Lodge No. 3 paid a fraternal visit to the Moira Lodge No. 11, A.F. & A.M., G.R.C., and conferred the Sublime Degree of Masonry at the Masonic Temple here last evening. Masonic dignitaries from all parts of Eastern Ontario were present to swell the gathering into the largest of its kind ever held in Belleville.

At the conclusion of the night's labor, during which the officers of the Ancient St. John's Lodge most capably exemplified the conferring of degrees, the gathering adjourned to the banquet hall under the gavel of Wor. Bro. Roy Anderson, of Moira Lodge, who capably filled the post of chairman.

Included in the large number of visitors was M.W., Bro. W. S. Herrington K.C., P.G.M., of Napanee, who replied to the toast to the Grand Lodge. Wor. Bro. Fred Chamberlain proposed the toast to the Ancient St. John's Lodge No. 3 with replies being given by Wor. Bro. C. H. Hall and other Kingston Masons.

"In proposing this toast to our visitors from Kingston, I might say that the Ancient St. John's Lodge was instituted in Nov. of 1795 by warrant of dispensation from England and is one of the oldest Masonic Lodges on this continent. It was the St. John's Lodge, that installed the first officers of Moira Lodge No. 11 in 1803, after a warrant of dispensation had been granted the Moira Lodge in 1801. Our initial officers went to Kingston in 1803 to be installed into office by the presiding officers of St. John's Lodge at that time, so we always look with favor upon old St. John's," related W. Bro. Chamberlain. Several other Belleville and district Masonic notables gave short impromptu speeches eulogizing the work of the Order.

The Moira Lodge orchestra, under the baton of Bro. W. Aselstine, played several delightful tunes during refreshments while other entertainment was supplied by Bros. Jas. Bankier, E. Brooker and A. Baldwin, all of whom rendered delightful solos.

Rawdon

Adventures of Grandpa a Success

Rawdon—On Friday evening the young people of Wellmans staged their play "Adventures of Grandpa." The scene of the play was in the reception room of the Hunter Dancing Academy in Chicago and was presented in three acts.

Mr. Clifford Sharp directed the play and introduced the characters as follows:—

Montgomery Ray (Montie) — (grandpa's grandson) Mr. Lorne Watson.

Tod Hunter (a young dancing master)—Mr. Owen Sharp.

Ottis Hammerhead (grandpa from Yellowhead, Ohio)—Mr. Karl Sharp.

Officer McCormack (who seen his duty and done it)—Mr. Howard Wallace.

Lucy Hunter (our little wife) —Miss Mary E. Sharp.

Dorothy May (just out of college)—Miss Bernice Dunham.

Mrs. Pansy Hopscotch (fair fat and forty) —Miss Mabel Sharp.

Marie Ribeau (girl from Paris) —Miss Eileen Jackman.

Kloompy (twelve days in Canada from Copenhagen)—Miss Carlyn Johnson.

Mr. George Watson was master of ceremonies in the absence of the pastor. Between acts Mr. Morris of Tweed delighted with a number of musical selections on piano accordion, musical saw and victrola. Mr. George Watson was the accompanist for several rounds of community singing. Miss Doris Pollock contributed a humorous reading and Mr. Jim Watson sang a vocal number. Four school boys Maurice Clancy, Edgar Graham, Billy Maybee and Charlie Maybee sang several songs with guitar accompaniment.

The proceeds of the evening amounted to $25.75 and will be a helpful addition to the Young People's Union.

The muskrat season is open and several are engaged in the business. Owing to the snow and cold weather the rats are not very plentiful.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McKeown attended the funeral of Mrs. Morrow in Campellford on Thursday afternoon.

The epidemic of 'flu is still raging with several families on the sick list.

Messrs. Jack Sharp, George Young, Angus Johnson, Burton Sharp, Harold White and Ormel MacMullen were among those who attended the play at Wellmans.

Owing to the illness of Rev. J. E. Beckel the morning service at Mount Pleasant was taken by Mr. Arthur Wilson of West Huntingdon. Mrs. Ed. McKeown presided at the piano.

Rev. J. E. MacMillan of Burnbrae was in charge of the services at Welkmans and Bethel.

The Y. P. S. at Mount Pleasant was cancelled Friday evening owing to the play at Wellmans.

Several have tapped their maple trees and a few have boiled some syrup. The continued cold winds and flurries of snow are not ideal for syrup making.

Misses Eileen MacMullen, Jessie Johnson, Alma Johnson and Helen Johnson attended "Adventures of Grandpa" at Wellmans Friday evening.

Mrs. Kenneth Holmes and Joan have returned to their home at Eldorado after spending a few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. John Holmes.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bailey, Misses Muriel and Doris Sine and Mr. Allan Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Bailey, Misses Isobel Turner and Esma Cole attended the funeral of Mrs. George Belshaw in Stirling on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stacey, Trenton visited Mr. and Mrs. Norman Weese on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira David and Roy, Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Eileen and Ormel, Mr. and Mrs. Will Montgomery, Marie and Maurice attended a miscellaneous shower for Mr. and Mrs. James Barron, Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Douglas Smith and Susan of Ottawa spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams and Mr. and Mrs Ira David.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brown recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. Fred McKeown, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie McKeown, and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Wellman.

Mr. and Mrs. J. McMullen, Halloway, spent Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McMullen at Harold.

Mr. Melville McKeown has accepted a position with his uncle, Mr. Edgar McKeown, Mount Pleasant.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Rowe of Hoards were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Davies at River Valley.

Folks at Mount Pleasant were very sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. James Williams on Sunday evening. Her daughters, Mrs. Will Millsap, Napanee and Mrs. Will Laycock of Montreal and Mrs. Thomas Henry, Saskatoon are at home.

Mr. Allan Morrison underwent an operation in Belleville Hospital on Friday.

Mr. Lindsay Neal and Don attended the shower for Mr. and Mrs. Jim Barron at Bethel last Tuesday evening.

On Thursday afternoon, March 23rd a miscellaneous kitchen shower was tendered Miss Viola Parr, a bride-to-be at the home of her aunt, Mrs. S. Diamond from 3 o'clock till 5 p.m. The color scheme was beautifully arranged in pink and white, about 30 guests being present for the occasion. Mrs. Walter Bibby called the bride-to-be to the centre of the floor where a large clothes basket beautifully decorated in pink and white was placed. Viola thanked the friends in her usual manner and extended a cordial invitation to all to visit her in her new home at Wellmans. A short programme was given including a mock wedding which created a great deal of laughter and fun. The cast was—bride — Mrs. Ross Stephens who very nervously acted the part of the blushing bride and Miss Gwelda Dunk as the bashful groom; bride's father—Mrs. Clarence Dunk; flower girl—Muriel Stollery; minister — Mrs. Thos. Chadwick; pianist—Mrs. Garnet Grills. A bountiful lunch was then served and a most enjoyable afternoon brought to a close.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rainie, Miss Emma Rainie, Mr. Clifford Sharp and daughter, Mabel, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd King, Mr. and Mrs. George Watson, Mrs. Edith Sharp recently attended the Masonic At Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Douglas and Shirley of Fuller were recent guests at the home of her mother, Mrs. Edith Sharp.

Wellmen's Young People's Union convened Tuesday evening with Miss Mary Sharp in charge and she gave a suitable reading. Mr. Reg. Dunham read the Bible lesson and two verses of a hymn were read responsively. The roll call was answered with a spring bird. Mr. Jim Watson gave a story entitled "The Second Violin."

Miss Bernice Dunham, the Christian missionary convener, then presided and after singing a hymn the topic of the evening was taken in three parts as follows:—Halifax—Miss Mabel Sharp; Edmonton—Miss Mary Sharp; Winnipeg—Miss Bernice Dunham.

Miss Dorothy Dunham gave a reading entitled "A Change." At the close the president staged a contest "Guess My Girl."

Mrs. Burton Morton entertained Miss Mary E. Sharp over the week end.

Owing to the disagreeable weather conditions Bethel Young People's Union cancelled their usual meeting scheduled for Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Reid and Edwin, Mr. and Mrs. Murney Scott and family of Mount Pleasant, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rowe, Halloway attended a miscellaneous shower on Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Parr of Hoard's in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Rowe (nee Viola Parr.)

The Stars Say

For Friday, April 7.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

THE INTERESTING planetary configurations point to a day of great possibilities for enlarging the scope of operations. There should be expanded interests, increased opportunities, with definite growth in finances and possessions. Personal objectives and prestige may lead to goals of power and influence in a large way. These are likely to be pursued with drastic action and indomitable will, despite opposition and frustration. Along the way pleasant adventure and intimate gratifications are assured.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of great achievement and gratification, both business and personal. High ambitions may reach fulfillment, bringing increased fortunes, extended opportunity, expanded interests and enhanced prestige and popularity. These may be pursued with rather strenuous or drastic activities. Romantic thrills are not lacking for the young.

A child born on this day may have a definite endowment for high success in its expansive ambitions. It may have qualities of efficiency, enthusiasm, determination and clever manipulation of governing elements for attainment.

For Saturday, April 8

GREATLY accelerated conditions make this a day of opportunity for centreing the energies and forces into business channels of a very productive and progressive order. All new projects are favored, particularly those connected with writings, publication, advertising or promotional enterprises, or possibly in advancing athletic or sporting ventures. Slight difficulties or setbacks may arise, but in romantic or social associations there will be compensations.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a particularly lively and interesting year, with much stirring in the business as well as emotional life. All progressive and productive programs are under fine auguries, and may be pursued with energy and decisiveness. They should give much happiness and good fortune. The young are especially favored by friendly stars.

A child born on this day may be extremely versatile and clever, probably achieving high success in literature or some other intellectual calling. Its highly-stimulated energies and spirits may lead it to shine in athletics or sport.

Miss L. Bates has returned to Toronto after a delightful month's holiday in the South visiting friends in Lakeland and her mother in St. Petersburg and enjoying the activities of the Jaycee Beach Club for young winter visitors. Mrs. Donaldson of North Park St., College Hill and Mrs. Bates of West Moira Street are returning to Belleville, May 2nd., which date terminates a most enjoyable six months' sojourn in the Sunshine City of St. Petersburg, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Christie and Carl George Stitt of Ilion, N.Y., are in the city to attend the funeral of the late Mr. Walter Christie.

Mrs. E. F. Clarke Kinnear left this week for Bermuda to join her husband who has been on a business trip in the West Indies.

Mr. A. F. Read, manager of the Percival Furniture Store, who underwent a serious operation at the Belleville hospital, is making favorable progress toward recovery.

An interesting event took place following the regular meeting of St. John's Mission A.Y.P.A. last evening when members honoured Rev. A. E. Pepper and Mrs. Pepper who are leaving soon for Tweed. On behalf of the organization Mr. Charles Manore made the presentation of a silver and pyrex casserole expressing appreciation of the splendid leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Pepper whose departure will be keenly regretted. Sincere hope for their future success was also expressed. Mr. Pepper made a suitable reply thanking the members for their thoughtfulness and for their good wishes.

W.C.A. NOTES

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Christian Association was held in the Council Chambers of the City Hall on April 4th, with the President, Mrs V. Blakslee in the chair. Mrs. R. Abrams was appointed lady on duty at the Home for the Aged for the month of April.

COMPLETE OVEN DINNER PREPARED BY MISS SMALL

Cooking School at St. Andrew's Attracts Large Crowds

FISH, MEAT DISHES

Women of Audience Take Active Interest and Seek Information

A complete oven dinner was prepared at Cooking School yesterday afternoon by Miss Leta Small, home science director of Moffat's Ltd, who has been conducting a two day school under the auspices of the Belleville Public Utilities Commission in co-operation with the Ladies' Guild of St. Andrew's Church. Interested visitors at the class yesterday were senior girls of the O.S.D.

Mr. Everett Smith of the Belleville Utilities extended a sincere welcome to the large audience and presented Miss Small, whose charming personality has endeared her to Belleville homemakers. The school yesterday achieved a friendly co-operative atmosphere, the ladies chatting with and interrogating Miss Small on various phases of culinary art.

Fish and Meat Dishes

Fish and meat dishes engaged the attention of the school, a complete oven dinner being the special feature. Miss Small described oven dinners as most economical of time and money as well as a nutritious way of preparing a meal. Several points were to be borne in mind. One should first consider the meat, then plan the dessert and vegetables around this main dish. The dinner yesterday consisted of baked potatoes, meat loaf, carrots and rhubarb meringue. Carrots or similar vegetables cooked en casserole with not too much water and tightly covered retain all the juices. For creamed dishes, the white sauce can be added at once and the vegetables be allowed to cook in it rather than the water. Fruit stewed en casserole needs very little water. Beets can be peeled, sliced and cooked in the oven without "bleeding."

Roast Without Water

Miss Small advocated the roasting of good cuts of meat and tender fowl without water and uncovered, at 350 degrees temperature if an even roasting was desired. Meat less tender required a little bit of water and a cover, the meat being actually "braised" instead of roasted. For older fowl add water and cover the roasting pan one half the cooking time. The meat should be placed in the oven fat side up.

To replace the usual Yorkshire pudding, Miss Small recommended the onion and cheese short cake she prepared. Another delicious Lenten dish was the salmon pie.

Pointed Out Advantages

Miss Small pointed out the advantages of electric cooking and the newer points of the ranges were discussed by Mr. E. Smith, who also spoke of the very low rate of electricity in the city, making its use profitable to Belleville householders. Belleville enjoys the lowest rate of any nearby community, and of larger centres.

Miss Small concluded her class with a discussion of broiling and finished the demonstration with the preparation of a delicious looking salad bouquet. Throughout the classes Miss Small was assisted very efficiently by Mrs. K. Ruttan.

Disposition Affected By Feet

MAUREEN O'SULLIVAN

Always wears properly-fitted shoes

By HELEN FOLLETT

FEET should be cool and collected. Abuse them, put them in shoes that don't conform to pedal contour and they will burn with indignation. The soles will be dry and feverish, toes will twinge, heels will be blistered.

In many shoe shops are X-ray machines. Put on your new booties and you can see if there's plenty of toe space. Toes should not go into a huddle. That situation brings along corns, calloused spots and ingrowing nails. Why be cruel to your little footies?

There should be an extra half-inch or more of space in the length of the shoe. The inner line should be fairly straight so it does not push the big toe inward, a state of affairs that produces bunions and other ills. There should be no slipping at the heel. The waist of the foot should have support, straps should be snug so there is no friction.

Few women give much thought to foot comfort. It is more important than appearance by far. Wrong-fitting shoes are responsible for cases of poor posture, protruding tummies, upset nerves, headaches and snappy dispositions. Ponder on that my children.

An experienced shoe salesman is qualified to give sound advice to the lady customers. But few are willing to listen to him. They have fixed ideas.

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

Sons and Daughters of Divorce

What's the worst misfortune that can overtake a girl or boy presumably headed for a happy and successful life?

Loss of health? Well, perhaps that is the worst thing that can happen.

Loss of money—that is, a sudden and severe reduction of the family income, whether it be small or large? By no means. Poverty isn't a serious handicap for a youngster who has health, courage, character.

A breakdown in the family life? —Yes, that's the answer.

You may be surprised to know that the wise men and women who have been studying these matters for years consider that the children of divorced parents stand in the very front rank of hard luck cases.

Teachers have been warning us for some time about the tragic by products of divorce. Now they're coming out with statistics. It's pretty disheartening to have to accept the conclusions they've come to. But there seems no way out of it.

It seems that a young human life, like a plant, has to have roots below the surface. Family life supplies these roots. A mother and father may not be ideally perfect. You might wish they would be wiser with their children, kinder to each other. But according to the discoveries I'm talking about, they're infinitely better for their little sons and daughters than no parents at all. Infinitely better than parents who quarrel and separate and marry somebody else, flinging their children, so to speak to the winds.

Children need to believe that there's somebody always on the spot who loves them and wishes to protect them. Now, parents may of course, divorce each other and still love their children as much as ever. But to the children it doesn't seem that way. Is a parent who consents to give you up altogether, or to give you up for part of the time, or to hand you over to a step-parent or a boarding-school or whatever it may be—is such a parent really acting like a parent? Children don't think so. And though they may never speak a word of reproach or protest, they do, it seems brood and suffer and become embittered. Most serious of all, they lose faith in themselves. And why not, if they believe themselves unloved?

Writing in a current magazine, Dean Christian Gauss of Princeton University, who knows of course what he is talking about, says that a boy whose parents have been divorced has only a 25 per cent chance of success in life! Furthermore, such a boy is six times more likely than the boy whose home life is normal, to commit actions contrary to law.

The typical divorce victim has no joy in life. He doesn't apply himself either to books or to sports. He's just lonely and miserable and queer.

With girls, the matter is perhaps even more serious. A girl who has watched her parents' relationship go to pieces, who finds herself without a real home, often loses all belief in love, marriage, home life. For herself she'll have nothing to do with marriage. So she decides that she might as well follow any wild impulse, no matter what it may lead to. Her elders can no longer guide her. She's "morally at loose ends", as Dean Gauss puts its. The poor child's chances for a happy normal life seem pretty slim.

What's the moral of all this?

Well, for one thing, there's likely to be a swing back toward old-fashioned standards. People may give up the idea that there's something rather snappy about divorce, even when it's unjustified. They may see that it's just as well to think twice before marrying or before dissolving a marriage. They may decide that the power they have of wrecking their children's lives is after all something pretty serious.

A Charming Tea Hostesses, Aged Six

"There was a table set out", begins Lewis Carroll's story of the immortal Alice-in-Wonderland tea-party. And, a little later in the story, "Come, we shall have some fun now!"

These enchanting words came rushing back into my memory yesterday, when I looked in for a few minutes on a tea-party that was being given by the winsome six-year-old daughter of a very wise friend of mine.

Yes, she is a very wise woman indeed, a very wise mother, too, for realizing that "practice makes perfect", she and her little daughter "play" at giving tea-parties. And so a gracious little hostess is being developed; the shining ideal of hospitality is being handed down from mother to daughter.

What a triumph in social training as this tea-party! What a blessed asset it is to acquire, when we are very young, this accustomedness to being a gracious hostess, acquiring the ability to make our guests happy learning grace in saying our greetings of welcome and friendly good-byes.

I was delighted to see that this tea-table did not wear "hand-me-downs" of discarded dishes and battered silverpieces from the family cupboard. The young hostess has the eternally feminine wish to have her table-setting pretty, to have her own tea-set. Nancy's mother had provided her with a non-breakable set made of a sparkling plastic material, daffodil yellow in shade but very inexpensive, thoroughly practical, gay and correct.

Nancy's mother and I did not stay long at the party. Completely unself-conscious, the hostess was dispensing hospitality and cambric tea in a delightfully competent manner, and there was lively table-talk among these good companions.

To put into a child's life the golden key to social grace, to accustom the child to being a gracious hostess or host or guest, gently and tactfully to apply the rule of 'practice makes perfect', so that self-consciousness gradually disappears . . . what a priceless gift is this for a mother to give!

DR. DAFOE'S COLUMN on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Infectious diseases have a way of crowding in on us in the spring time. Most of them we have with us all year, to some degree, but every spring we anticipate them especially.

Of course these spring outbreaks aren't anything like they used to be. I remember when the homes I visited used to be full of chicken-pox, whooping cough, scarlet fever, and the like. I used to think they afflicted the children then because their resistance was worn down by the long winter.

Perhaps this is the reason why, today, these infectious diseases are not as prevalent as they were. The children of today have far greater resistance than you parents had when you were small. That is because we have learned how invaluable cod-liver oil and fruits and tomato juices are in building up the bodies, and because we have learned a lot about diets and vitamins.

I think sanitation has a lot to do with the improvement. Out in the country particularly, there has been a complete change in the people insofar as sanitation is concerned. And people today have a greater knowledge of the advantages of fresh air and sunshine.

One of these diseases, widespread in its ravages was scarlet fever, an illness most common in temperate zones; more common in the Northern than in the Southern States. It occurs from time to time in all cities, but rarely in such epidemics as we used to see it.

The disease is caused by a little, round-shaped bacteria called a streptococcus, one of the most dangerous bacterias known. The disease usually starts out in the throat of the victim, with the patient first complaining that his throat is sore. His temperature goes up; he becomes feverish and ill. If the doctor is called—as he should be—at this early stage, he may have difficulty in diagnosing the trouble. He will, of course, be suspicious of that sore, red-looking throat, and he will probably take a culture of the back of the throat to see if streptococci are present.

Another symptom which, if present, will give your physician a clue to the trouble, is a heavily-coated tongue. Later this tongue becomes a bright, beef red in color and the little papillae, or ridges along the side, will become large and prominent.

The rash which has given scarlet fever its name, doesn't make its appearance, usually, until the second day of the illness. Until this rash does appear, the patient is very likely to be very sick. This has led to a very old practice throughout this country, arising, I suppose, because people discovered that the appearance of the rash coincided largely with an improvement in the patient. Grandmothers for years have been brewing concoctions to bring out this rash. The first day little Jimmy is pretty sick; the second day Grandma decides to take a hand. She brews a camomile tea, or something else she has heard about, gives it to the child, and presto! that day out comes the rash —it was coming, anyway—and Jimmy feels better.

I never say anything when I go to a house and they tell me how they brought the rash out in Jimmy. It wouldn't do any good if I did and, after all, they are just doing their best for him.

MELROSE W. I.

Despite the unfavourable weather and roads a large number was in attendance at the regular March meeting of the Melrose Women's Institute held on Thursday last at the home of Mrs. Ed. Lazier.

The president in the chair opened the meeting in the usual way and after arrangements were completed in regard to the Musical Festival which is to be put on by the schools under the supervision of the singing teacher, Miss Bernice Robinson, the president introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Wm. White of Roslin, district president of the Women's Institutes of East Hastings.

Mrs. White gave a short address and explained the meaning of "Summary Day" to be held in connection with the meat cookery class.

Mrs. Thos. Leslie as local leader, and her assistant, Mrs. Bruce Sherman, gave readings on Vitamins and demonstrated the cooking of tenderloin steak by dry heat, and preparing and cooking sweet bread.

Leaflets on cuts of meat and methods of cooking were distributed and a "food score" explained.

Mrs. R. McMechan, a charter member of our institute, had charge of the remaining part of the program and called on Mrs. Bates for a musical number. The topic paper "Easter Thoughts" was then given by the leader.

Mrs. Pascoe gave a reading and another piano solo followed this. Mrs. F. Jeffrey gave a reading subject "Easter" and Mrs. Russell MacFarlane a reading "Millinery Madness."

Mrs. Claude Clarke expressed the thanks of Mr. Clarke for fruit received while sick.

The meeting was closed with the National Anthem.

Lunch including the meat cooked for the demonstration, was served by the hostess and conveners. Collection received $2.70.

MOIRA W. A.

On Tuesday evening the Women's Association of Moira held a box social at the home of the President, Mrs. Wallace McInroy, with a good attendance, considering the epidemic of influenza in the neighborhood. The proceeds amounted to over $11. The programme consisted of the following items: trio—by Donald and Grace McInroy and Dorothy Thompson; music—by Mr. Morris; a reading by Mrs. Arthur Mumby; solo — Mrs. Nelson Welsh; music —by Mr. Morris; address—by Mr. Hart, the school teacher on present day conditions in Europe; music— by Mr. Morris concluded the programme.

Mrs. Welsh then conducted 2 contests which were much enjoyed. Mr. Hart was called upon to auction off the boxes, which realized high prices. The hostess served coffee and a most pleasant evening was brought to a close.

STIRLING

Address on Trip To Europe Heard

Stirling, —(Special) —For their regular monthly meeting the ladies of St. Paul's W. A. were guests at the parsonage for a most interesting program featured by a splendid address by Miss Agnes Morton on her recent trip to Europe. The opening exercises were directed by the president, Mrs. F. N. McKee and including the usual theme song and prayer by Mrs. F. Hubble. Mrs. N. Wescott presented the secretary's report and also several acknowledgements of cards, etc, during the past month the society had sent out twenty-three cards. Mrs. R. B. Duffin, Treasurer giving a detailed financial statement, revealed that the society had a substantial bank baloce of $102.82. Six new members had also been enrolled in the last month.

The remaining portion of the program was directed by Mrs. E. G. Bailey, convener of the Program Committee. With the scripture lesson being read by Mrs. Bailey, the meeting continued with the use of another hymn and prayer by Mrs. C. B. Macklin. At this time the gathering was favoured with an excellent instrumental solo by Miss Grace Pitman. Another pleasant musical contribution was a piano solo by Joan Pedley "Heather Rose."

The speaker of the day was Miss Agnes Morton who graphically described conditions in Europe as seen by her on a recent trip which included the British Isles, France, Norway, Switzerland, Germany and many other places of interest.

Excellent Play Presented at St. Paul's

In conjunction with the regular weekly meeting of St. Paul's Y.P.U. on Monday evening the Young Ladies of The Mission Circle Class presented a fine Missionary Drama, "Two Master", which was remarkably well enacted by all those taking part. The play was directed by Mrs. W. J. Scott and the cast included the following young ladies: The invalid mother—Dorothy Pidgeon; daughter Peggy — Elinor Chapman; Mrs. VanHorn — Miss Helen Jeffrey; three college friends —Misses Norma Sarles, Neva Hagerman, Reta Tucker; Mrs. C. Von Der Witt-Jones played by Miss Ruth Murray. The play which was in three acts revealed plenty of theatrical ability on the part of the girls who portrayed each of the characters in splendid fashion. There were three scenes and stage time was approximately forty-five minutes.

Others number which added to the regular program were as follows—Donald Scott presided at the piano and offered a prelude of quiet music to the devotional period which was conducted by the President Don Williams. At the conclusion of the opening—hymn, Miss Mary Hulin read the Scripture lesson. Miss Murietta McKee also offered a pleasing instrumental solo "Dancing Waves."

St. Andrew's Young People's Guild

The regular weekly meeting of St. Andrew's Young People's Guild was held in the Sunday School room on Monday evening with Mrs. Duncan Montgomery as convener of the program committee. Mr. Roy Juby, president presided over the meeting. The secretary's report of the previous meeting was presented by the secretary, Miss Jean Dafoe and the attendance recording system revealed a large number of members and friends present. The next number on the program was a cleverly rendered recitation by Shirley Montgomery "April's Coming."

Passion Week

The speaker of the evening was Rev. W. H. Walker, who spoke on the subject of "Passion Week." The topic dealt with all events concerned in the Week of Easter and as a fitting climax Mr. Wm. Dermedy offered as a vocal solo "Alone."

erday's gathering of the delegates and party workers from the wide limits of the riding, who crowded the large auditorium of the city hall, was one of the most orderly on record. Sectionalism and divergence in choice was replaced yesterday by singleness of purpose and new unity displayed within the ranks of those from the urban communities and the scattered precincts. Most noticeable was the ready acceptance of the appointed delegates to accept even the unexpected names on the ballot. Many of the delegates were unaware that Mayor Jamieson Bone and Dr. W. C. Morgan had signified their intention of offering themselves as candidates until after they had arrived at the hall.

Mayor Bone Asks Withdrawal

The popularity of Mr. Stokes, who for fourteen years had been township clerk of Hungerford, and who for five terms had served as Reeve was evidenced by the hearty applause tendered when the results of the final balloting were announced. On the second ballot Mayor Jamieson Bone had announced his intention of withdrawing "to make it a better race" "I know how the balloting is going, and I believe it would be better if I withdrew," the Mayor told the delegates, "let the best man win."

At the opening of the meeting, president Charles A. Payne, chairman had read a communication from Mr. W. E. Tummon, ex-M.P., now of King's Mountain, North Carolina, who expressed his greetings to all in attendance. "I expect to be home soon, and can assure you that I will lend every support, that I can to your elected candidate;" wired Mr. Tummon.

Previous to the balloting and the acceptance of the nominations, president Payne told the delegates he had little comment to offer. "All I do ask is that all voters consider carefully the qualities of the candidates who have appeared before you and consider also his chance of being elected, if he does receive today's nomination.

South Hastings Record Mentioned

"I might point out that this Conservative constituency of South Hastings has returned all its candidates in all but three elections which have ever been held here. At present a Liberal is representing this riding; this cannot be tolerated. (applause)

"And when we have chosen our candidate, we must support him, irrespective of our likes or dislikes regarding him personally, if we have any. We must take that pledge to further his interests in any way it is possible for us to do so."

Mr. Payne called upon the various candidates individually for their pledge to support the successful candidate and received affirmative answers from the five who were standing for nomination. In order to avoid any personal preference as to precedence, names of the candidates were then drawn from a hat for the allotment of time for addresses.

Candidates Pledge Support

Howard Graham, Trenton barrister, who expressed the belief that he was not as well known in the eastern section of the riding as in his home section of the west asked the indulgence of his listeners while he gave a brief personal history of himself, citing his Scottish ancestry and the fact that he had received his education in the distract where he now resided. He had served three and one half years as private with the Canadian Expeditionary Forces and upon his return home had through his own efforts managed to put himself through Osgoode Hall as attorney at law.

"This may be my political obituary," he remarked at one point in his address.

Mr. Graham had served the town of Trenton as Mayor, and for ten years had been vice president of the Trenton Conservative Association and five years as president.

"I have at times been a cantankerous and critical Conservative," he warned, adding further that he had canvassed none of the delegates, believing they should be allowed to come to the convention "with an open mind and unfettered hands."

Office More Tha Mere Job

"I'm not offering myself for the job of $4,000 a year, or for headlines in a paper, and no man who has the interests of his party at heart should. I am doing what little I can to help along, trying to give the same sort of help I was able to give twenty years ago, when the country needed me." Mr. Graham threatened to overrun his alloted five minutes, and was gently reminded by the timekeeper.

Dr. W. C. Morgan, one of the last to announce himself as candidate, declared himself pleased with the large turnout of feminine delegates and supporters. He described himself as an "an Irishman born in Middlesex County," but who had lived in Belleville for the past twenty years, a location which he believed was his home.

"Today," he appealed, "I come forth to support a man who I believe holds the destiny of the country in his hand, the Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, for whom I have the utmost respect and admiration.

New Leader Arises

"We know here in Canada we have been back-pedalling and if the present Liberal Government, which is in, has any idea there are sign posts up for them to go by, they cannot see them. But lately, Mr. King found himself with a young man who was equipped with maps, the Hon. Mr. Manion with whom I worked in France. Mr. Manion has since worked just as assidiously for the good of Canada and for the past twenty years has helped formulate some of the country's policies.

"Canada today has no room for a third party. If we stand by our principles we will have a country of which we will be proud," warned Dr Morgan, urging the delegates to choose wisely.

"We have only one policy today and Dr. Manion has that policy. Any one who hampers him is not working in the best interests of his country. I hope when I go down there......(laughter, and at this point Dr. Morgan became aware of his statement and joined in the mild merriment)......I mean if I do go down there that I will be able to work with him as I did and carry a mandate from the people of this riding."

Attendance Reflects Interest

Arthur L. Burke pointed out that seldom had there been witnessed such a large and enthusiastic gathering of delegates and supporters. This, he declared, revealed the steadily increasing interest that is being displayed by the people of today in good government.

"We have a challenge to democracy today. We are not getting government for the people by the people. This country is being and has been run by Royal Commissions appointed at a cost of thousands of dollars to bring in reports which few see and no one ever used or acted upon.

"The Canadian people are crying to high heaven for a change. They want reduced costs of taxation; they want many other things which good government will bring. Is it any wonder that we are being subjected to the 'isms' that we have today?"

"Men who have full dinner pails have no time for this talk of radicalism and all the troubles which face a country fade away like the mist in a hot sun.

Problem of Youth Remains

"The most important thing we have in Canada today are our young people. Yet there are thousands walking the streets and roads with no jobs and nothing to look forward to. I have no apologies for appearing on this platform. I was born here and have always worked here and I have always been a Conservative and voted for the principles for which Conservatism stands. This training I have had in the municipal school as reeve and deputy reeve I now offer to the people of this riding in the hope that I may be able to further serve."

G. H. Stokes, was brief. He complimented delegates for their large turnout, and declared the meeting truly reflected the character of the riding of South Hastnigs in which he had been born.

Mr. Stokes warned that "sand in the gears" lately had slowed up government in Canada and unless a change was ordered, the country would be in a bad way.

"But the people in the past have always turned to the Conservatives when things looked darkest, or when a crisis appeared, and this time will be no exception," he continued.

He pointed to many problems which faced the country at the present time, the problem of insidious 'isms,' unemployment, jobs for returned soldiers, all which must be dealt with by the Conservative party under the Hon. Dr. Manion.

South Hastings Versus Government

"Your attendance here today is proof that never before have the people of the country been so interested in good government," stated Mr. Stokes. "I am a candidate for your support. Use your own good judgement, and remember that this time as it has been in the past, it is the riding of South Hastings against the King Government."

Mayor Bone warned that if delegates or supporters had any intention of "sending me to Ottawa to be just a seat warmer there, then don't vote for me."

He admitted that his decision to run for the nomination was a last minute one taken in an effort to help wherever he could.

"I realized that for some time I had been saying a lot of things about the poor government we were getting, and that if we were ever going to get any better I had better offer myself to the people of the riding to go down there and do something about it. I have in the past been mentioned as a follower of Geo. McCullagh, but if the truth were known, and I have plenty of press clippings to show it, I had advanced those same things Mr. McCullagh is talking about, long before he ever mentioned them. The real fact of the matter is that he has been a follower of me in many of the things I have suggested.

Been Paid to Talk

"Also Mr. McCullagh, whom I warmly admire, has been unable to get on the radio to talk to you. I have been paid money to do the same thing.

"It's a shame and disgrace, that we have this country and have allowed it to get into the shape it is now. Here we have everything any nation could ever want, and it is being neglected, thrown aside, while thousands of our men are out of work and nothing to do," declared the Mayor.

He pointed out that at times he had been accused of being a Liberal. "Yet I have never cast anything but a Conservative vote in my life....even though I sometimes wonder why I do vote that way."

"I'll support Dr. Manion and his policy, if he has one," agreed the Mayor. And if he hasn't got one, then I'll help him get one."

Canada should be first in the Empire, first to offer her aid if Britain ever needs it, stated Mr. Bone.

Jos. H. Harris Guest Speaker

Following the concluding remarks of Mayor Bone ballots were at once distributed and Jos. H. Harris, M.P., for Toronto-Danforth as guest speaker took over. In a style and fluency new to many of Belleville, Mr. Harris produced facts and figures with startling skill and ease, surmounting them skilfully into logical order and sequence. He castigated the present Liberal Government, describing their actions for the past three years as one dictated by a "do-nothing policy".

"It is a government which made many promises, but has carried out none. One which had pledged itself to do these things which people asked, but when returned to office forgot all about their pledges. The people of today are problem conscious. They exist today as never before. We have them from every town and city and village. Unemployment — Belleville a railroad city, thinks it has a problem, but it is one which is being experienced throughout the country. We have a youth problem, 228,000 of them walking our roads and nothing has been done or is being done on their behalf. We have always more or less had a farm problem, yet never one that has been experienced as it is today with the signing of those trade agreements by Mackenzie King which has resulted in an almost complete shut down of production on our farms.

Farm Production Halved

The Liberals have cut this production in half. The influx from the competitive markets of the United States have just about halved our annual production and sales. Last year fifty-two million dollars worth of produce, most of which can be grown right here in Ontario, was imported into Canada from the United States, that is cabbage and celery and other vegetables. We imported 82,900 barrels of apples from the United States into Canada last year. We imported one barrel from Scotland. And if Hepburn was here I could tell him what happened to his and other fellow's onion markets during the year. Last year 14,000,000 pounds of onions were brought in. Can't we grow them here? We brought in 9,000,000 pounds of celery. All this can be grown in Hastings ad Prince Edward and other counties of the Province."

Turning to the present day dairy problem of the country, the Toronto member declared that a surplus of butter a seven million pound one existed not only through the fact that the modern housewife did not use as much lard or butter in cake and pastry making as in years past, but because foreign vegetable oil is also being brought into the country in the millions of pounds free of all duty. "It's sold from the tank steamers at four cents a pound. The United States put a tax from to and one half to eight cents on this same oil, and it was turned back on the world market; it flooded Canada. This year we will have imported 150 million pounds of this shortening which will take the place of lard and butter which can be produced on Canadian farms. The King government was told all this when it was returned, yet it has steadfastly refused to do anything".

Tax Reforms Must Come

Mr. Harris urged reform in existing taxation labelling the present sales tax as a non-working one, which collected from the "cradle to the grave yet did not provide one day's work for anyone. The radio tax is one that should and will be abolished.

Again referring to te "appeasement tariff", the speaker declared that $206,700.00 more money was spent by Canadians in the United States last year than was spent by the Americans on goods we were able to ship into the United States.

"Get a greater parity in exports and imports between this country and the United States and we will solve fifty per cent of our unemployment. Give our men of Canada a chance to go to work and make what we need here," he urged.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King was described as a leader "with his head in the clouds, talking eyewash about appeasement". The appointment of Royal Commissions by the present government which has cost Canada an estimated one million dollars a year was further described as a "disgrace". "Let us do the job ourselves and not hide behind commissions", he urged.

Take 5 Convention braf- , N-ITrn

West Hastings Member Speaks

Dr. H. E. Welsh, M.P.P., for East Hastings, who with Mr. R. D. Arnott, M.P.P. for West Hastings, who had made the special trip from Toronto to attend the convention, endorsed the statement made by one of the candidates that "electors of the country had always called upon the Conservatives, when trouble appeared on the horizon". He also reviewed briefly the actions of the Liberal government since assuming office, and declared that even in the riding of South Hastings this lack of evident policy was noted.

"What has our present member done for this riding except give Tweed a post office which the majority of the residents do not want and can do without? Why could not that $15,000 be put into a lower tax rate for Tweed if they wanted to do something? We have heard a lot about putting a flood control scheme in the Moira River. That was something else. Also Stirling is to get a post office. If these contracts have been ready why were they not given out last fall to provide work for the men instead of waiting until now? Why, I submit, because there is an election in the offing, and the party wanted to give these out on the eve of an election.

Tribute Paid to Efforts

"The system of patronage is still heavy in South Hastings," continued Dr. Welsh. He added: "The Liberal member of this riding could well be included as one of the do-nothing legislators at Ottawa."

Mr. Welsh paid tribute to the efforts of Mr. Arnott in the aid given Belleville in the matter of applying fr the use of the local sinking fund at Toronto. "If Peterborough's application for this same thing had been presented in as orderly a fashion as Belleville's was, then it would have gone through for both. But Mr. Arnott is working on another bill which I am sure will have the unanimous support of the House and which will directly benefit Belleville.

R. D. Arnott, in a few brief remarks declared himself unalterably opposed to the principle of any more taxation by the province upon electors. "You or I can't stand any more. We will have to quit road building. We can't afford it. Where is the money to come from?" he asked.

Revenue Comes From Taxation

"Don't be fooled by the new rebate of the one half mill which goes back to the municipality from the collection of gas tax", warned Mr. Arnott. A search of the records had been made by him at Toronto to find the number of ratepayers of Belleville who own cars, and the results of this investigation had been startling to say the least, he added. From the one half mill rate about $5,500 would be Belleville's share, yet there are an estimated 2,400 car owners in Belleville. "We get $5,000 if we pay out $10,000 that's the way that tax works. If this money was being used to pay off the provincial debt, then it would not be so bad, we would be paying off the mortgage, but it is not," pointed out the speaker.

Announcement has been made that the provinial budget next year would be $103,000,000. "Why doesn't Hepburn say he is going to soak the tax payer that much in taxes —that is where this revenue comes from?" asked Mr. Arnott.

In his concluding remarks Mr. Arnott paid tribute to the worth of Dr. Welsh, whom Premier Hepburn has publicly said "No member in this House is more able or more respected by me than Dr. Welsh".

TAKE THE "LEAD" FEELING OUT OF YOUR LEGS

Get More Oxygen In Your Blood and Get the Pep that Sends You Bounding Up the Stairs

People who smother to death die because oxygen has been completely cut off from them. Just as surely you are slowly smothering if your blood lacks red corpuscles. Red corpuscles are your oxygen-carriers. They carry the oxygen you breathe in to every part of your system. Without enough oxygen-carrying corpuscles, your kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels slow down. Your skin gets pale, flabby, often pimply. Your nerves may become jittery — you tire quickly — feel depressed.

What you need is Dr. Williams Pink Pills. These world-famous pills help make more and better red corpuscles and thus increase the oxygen-carrying power of your blood. Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today at your druggist. See for yourself how quickly this time-proven blood-builder will help give you back your pep. Copr. 1938, G. T. Fulford Co., Ltd.

BAGHDAD SCENE OF KING'S BURIAL

British Consul Will be Buried at Mosul, on Thursday

Baghdad, April 5—(AP)—Thousands of bewildered mourners attended the funeral today of King Ghazi of Iraq, killed in an automobile accident early yesterday. He was 27.

Members of the diplomatic corps and representatives of the government and the army walked behind the coffin in procession from the Royal Court to the Royal Mausoleum, where Ghazi was buried beside his father, Feisal 1.

The funeral of G.E.A.C. Monck-Mason, British consul killed by a mob at Mosul during frenzied mourning yesterday, will be held tomorrow at Mosul.

Ghazi was succeeded by his three-year-old son, Feisal 11, with the boy's uncle, Emir Abdul Ilah, acting as Regent.

The mob which stoned Monck-Mason to death also attacked and burned the British consulate. (Reports to London said the mob had been inspired by agitators who declared that "the English" had killed the King.)

Order was restored at Mosul by martial law. Military officials who rounded up leaders of the mob which killed the consul blamed the attack on "riffraff" and said it was without political significance.

BOARD REJECTS MOTION

Toronto, April 5—(CP)—Toronto Board of Control by four votes to one, rejected today a motion of Controller Fred Hailton which asked for an Independent inquiry into conditions in the City Treasury Department.

Hamilton alleged discrimination was shown in promotions of members of the Treasury staff. He also alleged lack of ability and qualifications of certain officials to fill senior positions. He said he could substantiate the charges.

THREE INJURED IN CAR CRASH

Vehicle in Which They Were Riding Plunges Into Trent River

Stirling, Ont., April 5—(Special)—Three men, Jack Lummis, Leslie Chambers, and Ernest Lem, are recovering from shock and injuries here today following an accident early this morning, when the car in which they were riding plunged over the bank into the Trent River a short distance north of Glen Miller.

Lummis is suffering from several broken ribs and bruises; Chambers sustained a possible fracture of the right arm, and Lem received severe bruises and shock.

The trio were returning from Trenton on Highway No. 33 when it is claimed, a tire blew out, causing the car to swerve sharply across the road. The momentum of the vehicle carried it over the bank of the river where it plunged into five feet of water, badly damaging it.

The men were able to extricate themselves from the automobile and were taken to their homes where they are now receiving treatment for their several injuries.

MAKE GLYCERINE FROM WASTE GAS

New Glycerine Neither Animal Nor Vegetable in Nature

Baltimore, April 5—(AP)— Discovery that glycerine, one of the chemicals in world-wide use, can be made from gasoline by-product waste gas was announced here today.

From ancient days the only source of glycerine has been animal and vegetable fats. The new glycerine is neither animal nor vegetable in source.

Its synthesis, described to the American Chemical Society, was regarded as one of the leading industrial scientific achievements of this century. Production already has been proven on a commercial scale.

Chemists of the Shell Development Company, Emergyville, Cal., who invented the process, said that the oil wells can supply glycerine for the entire world. The new glycerine they declared is even better in non toxic qualities than the United States Pharamcopeia requires of the "natural" glycerine.

BOY TRIES TO SELL RINGS WORTH $1,000 FOR $1.50.

Buffalo, N.Y., Apr. 6 (AP)—Police were searching today for the owner of three rings worth $1,000 which a 6-year-old high school boy tried to sell to a jeweler for $1.50. Detective Harvey McNiff said the boy told police he found the rings in a trash can.

Quaternion Group Stages Novel Program

The Quaternion Y.P.U. met in Tabernacle United Church last night, Miss M. Bonter the President was in charge, Miss Helen Brown acted as secretary and Miss Jean Shorey was at the piano;. After the business, devotion were conducted by Miss Mary Kerr, Miss M. Sykes read the scripture, Miss Jean Archibald took the prayer and Miss Flossie Terry gave the address.

In the baseball game, Miss M. Daniels was the captain of the "Invincibles" and Miss Helen Thompson of the "Irresistibles." There were 9 players on each team, but one of Miss Daniels' team dropped out at the last. Miss H. Thompson's team then retired and Mr. Reg. Terry volunteered to withdraw that the teams might be even in numbers. When this was reported Mr. Terry received a great hand from all present

Rev. L. S. Wight as pitcher, prepared the questions and answers, asked the questions and acted as umpire. Miss Jean Matthews was catcher for the Invincibles and Miss H. Thompson for the Irresistibles. The pasage studied was the first 8 chapters of the gospel of Matthew. Such excellent preparation had been made and so cleverly were the questions answered that all the 150 questions prepared were exhausted at the end of the 4th inning. Mr. A. D. Archibald and Mrs. MacDonald kept the score and announced the Invincibles as winners in the contest. The score was 42 to 38 runs. Miss H. Thompson congratulated the winners, and moved a vote of thanks to those who had trained the teams. Miss Daniels replied and seconded the motion. The names of the players were:

The Invincibles: Miss M. Daniels (Captain), Miss Jean Matthews, Miss Mildred Breach, Miss E. Anderson, Miss Jean Shorey, Miss H. Brown, Miss Edith Donaldson and Douglas Mitchell.

The Irresistibles: Miss H. Thompson (Captain), Miss Flossie Terry, Miss Mary Kerr, Miss Marjorie Sykes, Miss Ilene Williams, Albert Stapley, Walter E. Armitage, and Malcolm McClelland.

Ralph Greatrix, cheer leader then led the young people in their Quaternion yell, after which Miss Clare took charge of the games. The meeting closed in the usual way. About 70 were present for the game.

Mr. Ralph Winters of Point Anne who is leaving soon for Winnipeg spoke a few words of farewell in reply to good wishes.

Brings End to 31 Years of GASTRIC TROUBLE

If you have given up hope that your stomach trouble can be cleared up, just consider this case of Mrs. M. H. Y., of Cornwall. For 31 painful years she had stomach pains that made life a misery. It almost seemed that effective treatment was impossible. But it wasn't impossible! Today she is well and healthy, with a strong stomach and a normal appetite. The change was made by the same four powerful alkalies prescribed in the treatment of stomach trouble by specialists. She took these alkalies by taking Maclean Brand Stomach Powder—for this treatment is a perfect balance of the alkalies administered in hospitals.

Let this gentle, effective treatment help you. You will probably find relief from pain comes almost instantly. Then your stomach will grow stronger. But—look for the signature "Alex. C. Maclean". Maclean Brand Stomach Powder is only genuine when this signature is on bottle and carton. Sold only in bottles in cartons, 75c. Never sold loose. 127

"ICE FOLLIES OF 1939"

Hitting a new high in entertainment "The Ice Follies of 1939" starring Joan Crawford with James Stewart, Lew Ayres and Lewis Stone is now at the Belle.

"The Ice Follies of 1939" contains the happy combination of plot, extravaganza, and some of the best tunes to come out of Hollywood this season. It features Joan Crawford in the type of role which skyrocketed her to screen fame, and in addition introduces her to audiences as a new find in film songstresses.

"Double Diving" is the title of Pete Smith specialty to be presented on the same program with "The Wrong Way out" a gripping "Crime Does not Pay" story and the popular Belle pictorial.

Claudette Colbert, Next

One of the most star-studded casts of recent years, a witty story tailored to fit Claudette Colbert's unique personality and the clever direction of Mitchell Leisen, combine to make an outstanding piece of screen comedy out of "Midnight," the Colbert-Ameche starrer, which is next at the Belle Theatre.

A list of the stars in "Midnight" reads like several pages torn from a who's who of Hollywood! In addition to Miss Colbert and Ameche, now starred together for the first time, the picture presents John Barrymore, Francis Lederer, Mary Astor, Hedda Hopper and Rex O'Malley.

At the risk of giving away some of the plot, it can be said that Ameche makes the biggest news of his career in "Midnight." For, believe it or not, he gets the girl! The "second fiddle" of "Happy Landing," "In Old Chicago" and "Alexander's Ragtime Band" now goes out for romance on his own and makes a big success of it!

An extra attraction on the same program is a special edition of the March of Time revealing pictorially for the first time the French-Italian Mediterranean situation. Popeye in "Date to Skate" will be presented on the same program.

Lovely Madeleine Carroll

Madeleine Carroll and Fred MacMurray make a spirited bid for the starring honors of the year in their new (and First) picture together, "Cafe Society", which has its local soon at the Belle Theatre. Shirley Ross co-stars.

Miss Carroll, who is generally acknowledged as one of the screen's most beautiful women, gets a chance to display all her loveliness and her acting ability as well in this high-spirited comedy satirizing New York's much-publicised "aristocracy of the night clubs." MacMurray's fans will see their hero as they like him best, a two-fisted plain-talking reporter who shows the "flower of Cafe Society" how the "other half" lives—and loves!

"Cafe Society" deals with the romantic experiences of a spoiled and bored young society girl who uses a newspaper reporter as the butt of a cruel joke and marries him in order to find a new thrill and get her name in the papers. How he unexpectedly turns on her, spoils her fun and finally teaches her the truth about life forms the gay plot of the film.

Shirley Ross, Claude Gillingwater, Jessie Ralph and Allyn Joslyn play important supporting roles in a story that lampoons some of the best-known figures of New York's "glitterbug" set. The publicity-mad debutantes, the social-climbing representatives of business world, the malicious gossip-columnists, the brazzy party-givers and the long-suffering devotees of the older order—they are all present and come in for their share of good-natured ribbing. The inner circle of New York's original "Cafe Society" is represented by one of its most loyal publicists, the oh-so-correct Mr. Lucius Beebe, who now makes his initial screen appearance.

Shirley Ross, playing a cigarette-girl ingenue songstress and runner-up for MacMurray's affections, enlivens the proceedings further with a new song from the pen of Burton Lane and Frank Loesser—"Kiss Me With Your Eyes."

AT THE McCARTHY

"MOONLIGHT SONATA"

The McCarthy Theatre takes pleasure in announcing the first and only screen appearance of the world's great musical genius PADEREWSKI in "Moonlight Sonata", has come to their screen and will be presented for the balance of this week.

Music lovers will be particularly impressed with the fact that in "Moonlight Sonata" Paderewski's hands, the most famous in the musical world will be able to be watched closely as though they were seated beside him—a treat that the most expensive seat at a concert program could not possibly afford.

The much adored maestro plays, as only the great PADEREWSKI can play, Chopin's Polonaise in A flat, opus 53; Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody, No. 2, his own Minuet in G, and the immortal classic from which the film derives its title, Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata."

"ENVOY EXTRAORDINARY"

by E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Soon they were on the ground taxiing along the level surface to a gentle stop. The pilot and Matresser solemnly shook hands. They were in the centre of the strangest looking group he had ever seen. There were twenty or thirty fine, brawny looking men all dressed in a sort of dark green uniform.

"These are the gardes de chasse of my uncles' forests and estates here," the pilot explained. "They also work at the airdrome when planes are expected. I do not know who has arrived but there will be much stir here during the next few days. Ah, but this is a welcome sight—to you also I hope!"

One of the men came hurrying across from the airdrome carrying two tall glasess upon a tray.

"This is our home beer," the young man announced.

"Prosit, my wonderful pilot!" Matresser replied.

As they drank, dawn was stealing into the sky. A breath of pine scented breeze crept down from the heights. Matresser drew a long breath. "Glorious country, this!" he exclaimed.

"We are fortunate to have kept it," Pilot Number 17 replied, "through all these wild and troublous times. My uncle is never so happy as when he can shut himself up here with a few old friends. What has made him most happy is that the people here have remained loyal. It is very seldom indeed that they touch the game or interfere in any way. There is a beater's wagon here, I see," the young man continued. "That is intended for your guns and baggage. There should be a car in a few moments."

He had scarcely finished speaking before there came from some unseen place in the hills the sound of a hunter's horn—a single bar beautifully played and fading away with a hundred echoes.

"The car is on its way," the pilot observed. And in a few minutes, it drew up within a few yards of where they were standing. A tall, finely built man descended and came smilingly towards them. The pilot stood to attention and saluted stiffly. The newcomer waved his hand in friendly fashion.

"My congratulations, Maurice!" he exclaimed. "Lord Matresser, I bid you welcome." He held out his hand, which his visitor grasped. "I am delighted that my young relative has brought you safely here. But tell me—where is your mechanic, Maurice?"

"He met with an accident while the plane was in my Park," Matresser explained. "I know just a little of flying so I offered my services rather than be delayed."

A servant dressed in a green uniform was opening the door of the car. Matresser was ushered in. His host took the place by his side.

"I feel somehow that my being sent here," Matresser remarked, "is scarcely warranted."

"In that idea you are completely mistaken," was the courteous rejoinder. "I have read copies of many of your reports and I appreciate immensely their great value. The difficulty which has arisen must not wreck so marvelous a plan as we have before us for discussion. The very clarity and firmness with which you have made your points supply inspiration. We have the name of being a very stubborn people, I know, Lord Matresser, but we have learned wisdom and I have no fear of what may happen tonight. You see, I have the faith of the prophets—'some way will be found.'"

Even to a man of Matresser's sternly practical nature there was something fantastic about the hours which followed his arrival at the mountain shooting lodge.

Sir Esmond Curtels, British Ambassador to Berlin, was standing in the low antler-hung hall to greet him. Of course he had known that Curtels was to be there, yet realization seemed to bring with it a queer little shock to find the noted diplomat in this sheltered corner of the world with apparently nothing else upon his mind but the business of a day's sport. Then there was the famous Italian scientist and recently established politician—Corletti—also in shooting kit. Next, he found himself shaking hands with the Archduke Johann von Hapsburg, the young representative of an ancient monarchial house. Next to him had been standing the renowned American, General Besserley—a brilliant soldier, afterwards Chief of the Secret Service at Washington, D. C., and subsequently a representative of his country on various important missions.

Matresser was also presented to a man who seemed somehow out of his place in such an assembly, who wore rough shooting clothes and in whose sharp dark eyes lurked something of that fatigue with life which none of the others displayed. The host of the party, who had met Matresser on the latter's arrival—Count Heinrich von Helm—brought his task to an end with a word concerning this latest personage.

Don Ameche, featured with Claudette Colbert and Francis Lederer in "Midnight," next at the Belle.

"Let me tell you all, my friends" he said, "that the Leader of Germany is here by his own special request. He has convinced me that his gesture is a sincere one. You have all, I am happy to say, welcomed him in the right spirit .... Now, Lord Matresser, you should need refreshment more than any of us. Will you please take your place at the table? I have several chefs here and their united efforts have been to give you a genuine Anglo-American breakfast."

They drew out their chairs and seated themselves. Not a single word was uttered at the meal or later during the progress of the day's sport that touched in any way upon vital things. They ate and they drank, they lit pipes and cigars, and they discussed the day's sport.

"This morning," their host announced, "a hunt is in order. There are some fine stags on the lower crests of the mountain and a few adventurous bears up in the denser part of the woods. We commence with a five mile drive in the automobiles which are now waiting."

There was the sound of the horn. They clambered into the cars and drove off.

X X X

A mittagessen — it would have been absurd to have called it a luncheon—was served in a mountain chalet precisely at midday, from which Matresser escaped at the earliest possible opportunity. His chair was near the door, the room was obscured with tobacco smoke and a drifting mist before the meal was half finished, and so he slipped out unnoticed. He threw over his shoulders his mackintosh, lit his pipe and sat on a gray stone wall looking over the rolling panorama of woods which seemed to reach to the skies. A Brown dog of the cocker spaniel type, which had stuck to him throughout the morning as though it had found a long lost master, came and rested its chin against his hand, looking up at him. He patted its head. The dog licked him gratefully.

"Little brown dog," he murmured, "I wish I could see through that fog inside and know what it all means."

The dog wagged its tail vigorously. Its paws now were on Matresser's leather breaches. Count Helm stood in the door of the lodge and called out.

"Lord Matresser, you must not miss our national dish—hot boar's head!"

CHAPTER XXVIII

Matresser slipped from the wall and crossed over to the door of the lodge.

"I will come and look at it," he said. "I can promise no more. Your hospitality is too overpowering."

"At least," his host insisted, "you must drink one glass of my Berncastler Doctor which is served with it. It has lain in my cellars since the lodge itself was built."

The two men resumed their places at the table. Matresser sipped his wine. His host watched his appreciation with obvious pleasure.

"Forty bottles only I have left," he sighed. "Each one is the same —mellow, soft, with no touch of acidity or sweetness. It would give me great pleasure if we finished them all before you my guests, left me."

Once more the horn was blowing and there were several hours during that afternoon when Matresser forgot the real drama of the day, completely absorbed as he was in its less momentous incidents. He was in a fine mood that night when he took his place at the dinner table on the left hand of his host.

"You find our sport good, Lord Matresser?" was one of the Count's first questions.

"I have never had a more enjoyable day in my life," his visitor replied. "I think I may say that I have shot every variety of game and beast but never under such conditions."

Count Helm showed his gratification.

"It is a happy augury," he declared, "that we have all mingled together pleasantly and happily in sport. I hope and pray that before this evening is over we who appreciate the fellowship principle in sport may have drawn even closer together."

The servants placed at intervals along the table three huge bottles of wine. Other menials were distributing richly chased glasses of many colors from a tray which appeared to be of solid gold.

"I am offering you the tribute of priceless wines, my friends," their host confided. "These three bottles are trimagnums, or Rehoboams I think they are sometimes called, of Johannisberg, the famous 1904 vintage. With my glass in my hand and a burning wish in my heart, I ask you all to rise to your feet and drink with me to the hope that during this hour we may write a bright new page or two in history and find the way to establish the thing we all desire — the peace of Europe. I now invite Herr Hellstern, the Leader of Germany, to offer you a few words of explanation as to his present attitude."

Count Helm resumed his seat. Hellstern drank briskly from his glass before he rose. It was curious how the man seemed to have shrunk physically during the last twelve months of overwhelming anxieties.

"Count Helm," he said, "and delegates of this small conference: It is I who am responsible for the rearming of the German nation. I was the first to see that the way to peace could never lie through disarmament. Disarmament is a logical impossibility. Great Britain recently proved that point. The disarmament policy failed and so Great Britain was compelled to build planes and ships with feverish haste just when so much of the best materials in the world have been absorbed. The German army is today invincible. But I found, as others have found before me, that when I created it, I created a Frankenstein. The new German army is indeed invincible, but it would fight for three things only —God, Germany and an Imperial ruler. I foresaw this years ago and I saw the truth. I saw it in the days when England first commenced her consideration of this great gesture to be announced here and which is the only thing which may keep the German army from war and make the German people a joyous and a peaceful nation. I now, my friends put that gesture into plain words: England, under certain conditions, has offered to restore our colonies."

There was an undertone of voices, of murmurs surcharged with emotion, of suppressed drama forcing its way into some sort of expression. Then once more the deepest silence.

"Germany asks no more," continued Hellstern. "There may be a shade of bitterness in what I say when I tel you that that offer would never be made to me. It would only be made to a Germany which England considered in a position to hold its own in dignity and honor among the nations. That is one reason why my resignation as Leader of Germany is today in the hands of Count Helm.

"I look not so far away from home and I see the misfortunes which have befallen the man whose career has so often been likened to my own. A dubious war will bring any idol in the world tottering from his place in the people's hearts. A dubious war is a thing with which I will have nothing to do. I have struck my blow for Germany. What I have done I have done. It is for Count Helm. If the people trust him and I know they will, to carry on."

Notwithstanding their host's expressed wish that approval or disapproval of what was said should be veiled in discreet silence, there were little murmurs of amazement as Germany's ex-ruler resumed his seat. Count Helm's long fingers stole into the silver cup by his side into which he had dropped several screwed up pieces of paper. He drew out one of them.

"Gentlemen," he announced, "we shall now listen to Signor Corletti."

Corletti rose promptly to his feet. He was at once suave, convincing and fluent.

"Sir," he began with a bow to his host, "I have this much to say to you on behalf of my beloved Italy. We have derived some incalculable benefits from the bold and astute rule of our Premier, but once more Roman history must record the story of a man of genius who, after years of success, leaped into slippery places and, unused to failure, in a spirit of fierce obstinacy, incurred the great displeasure of a still grateful peope.

"Italy now calls for Imperial rule. It pins its faith to the youth of our present Royal Family, whose voice is already being heard in strong dissent to a continuation of our imprudent colonial policy. I have to announce at this gathering that King Victor Emmanuel has already signed his abdication to be made use of at the proper moment, and that the Crown Prince will—when that moment comes—be proclaimed King of Italy.

There was a solemn but entirely favorable silence, Count Helm's fingers once more searched inside the cup. This time he read out the name of General Besserley, the American representative. Besserley rose and bowed to Count Helm. The few words he spoke pleased everybody.

"I feel that I am here by courtesy," he said, "for, as you know, the United States long ago gave up the idea of taking any active part in European politics. We love you just as much—we are fond of you all, and where we can help without imperiling the interests of our own people, we want to help. Peace is the greatest blessing in the world. The vast majority of people has no sympathy for aggressive nations. The only message I have to give you is this:

"If you bring your magnificent plan to a successful conclusion, if this splendid offer by Great Britain is accepted in the right spirit and carried out, if it is clear that the cause of peace will benefit, I am confident that neither our present Administration, nor any future Administration, will refuse to accept the task which you have hinted at, and that is: to adjudicate upon any minor differences that might arise in the formation of the pact." With that the American paused; then continued impressively:

"The plan which Count Helm, I happen to know, has in mind seems to me to be just, logical and workable. I shall touch upon it but lightly. One sentence seems almost to explain it. It is this: that Germany, Austria, Great Britain and Italy each should have attached to their respective embassies what can be called perhaps an 'observer'—a man carefully chosen from among the best of his country, a man of culture, intelligence and character, whose duties will not clash with those of the ambassador but who will be able to offer valuable evidence upon any controversy which might arise. With these and other safeguards which will provide an impartial mass of considered evidence, there should never be much difficulty in solving any peace problems that may arise."

General Besserley resumed his seat. Count Helm leaned over, glanced at the three remaining fragments of paper and, with a smile, nodded to Austria's von Hapsburg.

"I have little to say, sir," Prince Johann began, "because my position carries with it no political complications. There is a strong Royalist party in my country which demands the restoration of the monarchy. They look to me as their head. I have accepted that honor. At any time I am called upon, I am ready to take up the responsibilities of the throne."

Count Helm bowed his approval of the young man's declaration and then announced:

"So far we have left to chance the order in which representatives who are gathered here should express the sentiments of their respective countries. I think that the time has come now when, on behalf of Germany, I should speak of this great offer which persuades us to help establish European peace. You all know what that offer is. Only a few months ago, England expressed her willingness to return to Germany the colonies lost by the Fatherland during the war of 1914.

"England, however, quite rightly stipulated that we should be in a position to give binding and unbreakable pledges to keep the peace —to control our great war machine. It was then that our friend and leader, Hellstern, discovered that he had created a Frankenstein. The chiefs of the army refused to give him the peace pledges which he, on behalf of Great Britain, sought. To be frank, they demanded a return in some form or other of the monarchy. Our Leader here took the brave course—he announced himself willing to resign, provided this offer of Great Britain was substantiated.

"We will now hear from Sir Esmond Curtels, the British Ambassador to Germany, and another Englishman—a free lance so far as the government is concerned—the Earl of Matresser."

Count Helm resumed his seat. Sir Esmond rose and plunged at once into the heart of the subject.

"This offer of my country to restore to Germany her colonies," he said, "was made upon two conditions. One was that Germany maintain the principles of Locarno and undertakes not to further occupy demilitarized towns and ands. That condition Germany accepted. The second was that the natives of those war-lost colonies should show no violent antipathy to the change; in other words, do not consider themselves betrayed by Great Britain by reason of this act of restoration.

"To insure themselves against this, the government appointed, therefore, our friend Lord Matresser, who has been of great service in his missions abroad, to investigate thoroughly this particular point. Lord Matresser's report from all the colonies except one, justify us in confirming our offer; but there is one colony in East Africa, to which we allude, if you please, as Number 7, where difficulties were encountered. I have a suggestion to make which will do away with these difficulties, but before I make it, I would propose that Lord Matresser explain the trouble."

CHAPTER XXIX

The President bowed to Matresser, who rose and began to speak in a conversational tone.

"This particular colony to which reference has been made and to which my remarks apply," he said, "is marked Number 7 upon the map which the President has before him and which I think you have all inspected. There I found trouble. Deputation after deputation from the native chief sought me out even before I had commenced my informal court of inquiry. They all prayed—Count von Helm will excuse my being perfectly frank—that the present regime might continue, that the colony be not returned to its former owners. Naturally I made the closest inquiries as to the reasons for this petition and I convinced myself, and I also convinced the authorities to whom I was responsible, that the reports I sent them were true and well founded.

"Ugly truths have sometimes to be faced and here is one which with the deepest regret I have to place before you. That fact is that the German governor of those provinces—a man of very high position connected, I fear, with some of you, had conducted the duties of his high office in a cruel and almost barbaric fashion. He had reintroduced flogging, for instance, as is reported in the small pamphlet which I submitted to your presiding officer. This report also specifies that native women were frequenty taken from their rightful owners and given to others. Men were subjected to barbaric forms of capital punishment on insufficient grounds. Large fines were continually imposed upon the chiefs in different territories and severe punishments meted out for even a day's delay in payment. I have proved beyond the shadow of a doubt the existence of all these abuses which you will find described at length in my pamphlet. My strong advice to the powers who sent me out on my tour of investigation is that Colony Number 7 should not be restored unless a guarantee be received that the same governor is not reappointed. It was the only hitch I discovered," Matresser wound up. "I came to the conclusion on the whole that German rule would be quite as beneficial and as wisely demonstrated as was British rule. The return to Germany will give no trouble whatever except in the case of Colony Number 7. That is all I have to tell you, gentlemen."

Matresser resumed his seat.

"I will only add," Count Helm said, leaning forward, "that the position is slightly complicated by the fact that the late German governor of Colony Number 7 was His Serene Highness, Prince Otto von Behrling. Those of us who know him understand quite well that the one desire of his life is to find himself reinstated as governor of that colony."

"I would suggest," Sir Esmond Curtels said, "if I may be allowed, that the first list of German chosen colonial governors be submitted to the outgoing British authorities and approved of by them before the appointments be made. That might save some bitter feeling and of course a suggestion to Prince von Behrling, of what would happen if he allowed his name to be put forward, might end the matter. I may add that it is a disappointment to the British Government that our gesture should be encumbered by any condition. However, ugly rumors had reached us and we invited Lord Matresser to visit the colonies and make his report. That report, having been confirmed, we are bound to make some such condition as I have suggested."

Once more Count Helm rose and said. "Gentlemen, you are within your rights, you are acting as statesmen and men of honor, as well. I shall accept, on the part of Germany, Sir Esmond's proposition. Prince von Behrling will not be allowed to hold any office in connection with Colony Number 7."

The conference was practically over. Count Helm leaned towards Matresser.

"A curious thing in connection with Prince von Behrling," he confided, "is that the Prince is practically the owner of the whole of this country down to the frontier. My great-grandfather secured a two hundred and fifty years' lease of these forests and the schloss itself is Crown property; but the woods, although leased to us, are really the property of the von Behrlings."

"And what has become of von Behrling?"

At that moment came an utterly unexpected sound—the approach of a high powered automobile.

The shooting lodge was absolutely unapproachable from the rear owing to the towering wall of thick forest, six or seven hundred feet high. Both roads to the airdrome were strictly guarded. No vehicle was allowed to pass along the private road, no plane to descend at the airdrome, yet the stillness of the night was suddenly broken by the sound of a roaring motor and the rasp of wheels scrunching gravel. Count Helm rose in astonishment. He struck the gong which stood by his side. Hauslans, the ancient butler, was already in the room.

"Your Highness," he reported, "a car has driven through the cordon. Two men are either killed or injured. I have rung the alarm bell for the guard."

"My profound apologies," Count Helm exclaimed. "These intruders are not of our party, for we are all here."

"They are not of mine," Ex-Leader Hellstern said grimly, "or they would have been shot."

"American reporters, I should say," General Besserley suggested in a concerned tone. "Those lads will do anything for a scoop."

The car came to a halt in a cloud of dust with pebbles flying in all directions. There was a momentary commotion in the hall; then the door of the adjoining room was thrown open but it was no American newspaper man who confronted the distinguished gathering.

It was Prince Otto von Behrling, who also bore the title of Baron Jan van Westrheene, who stood for a moment shivering, his lips parted, his expression full of savagery. Then, as though forced into the action by custom, he raised his right hand in sharp salute.

"Your Highness," he muttered, addressing Count Helm who simply turned and looked steadily at the gigantic man by whose side two burly guards seemed mere striplings.

CHAPTER XXX

"You will observe," von Helm said, "that I do not return your salute, van Behrling."

The latter shook with emotion. His furious anger seemed to be contending with the discipline of centuries.

"Your Highness—"

"Silence!"

The newcomer obeyed but it was obvious that he was putting enormous restraint upon himself. The senior of the two guards, a gray bearded veteran, saluted Count Helm.

"I have to report, Excellency, that we were only able to partially close the road to the Prince von Behrling by barricades. The Prince has shot two of our guards and broken the arm of another. We are his men, as were our fathers and grandfathers before us, and we just could not lay a hand upon his person. We could do no more than escort him where he chose to come."

"You are not to be blamed, Fritz," Count Helm said. "I await some explanation, Prince von Behrling, of this extraordinary behaviour."

Von Behrling was swelling again with passion.

"Explanation!" he repeated. "Is this not a conference of vast importance to the interests of Europe, being held here upon my land under my own roof—a conference of which I have been kept in ignorance?"

"You are incorrect," was the cold reply. "It is true that we are upon land owned by your family and under the roof of your lodge, but these have been granted by deed of charter to the house of which my uncle is the head and I the representative for countless years. You have no more right here without an invitation than a beggar."

"Answer me this then," von Behrling demanded. "Have I no right to sit at the table when the future of my country is being determined?"

"This is a conference," Count Helm announced, "of sane men drawn together from the various countries of Europe, having in mind one object—the preservation of peace and the prestige of the Fatherland. The matter which we have had to discuss is one that would have been embarrassing to you. For that reason you were not invited. And now consider your intrusion an affront."

"Himmel!" von Behrling roared. "My intrusion on my own property! There are my lands. I stand under my own roof! Why must I remain dumb? Why must I be excluded from this gathering when it is the future of my country — and my conduct as well—which is under discussion?"

Matresser scrawled a line hastily upon a piece of paper and passed it to the President. The latter glanced at it and nodded gravely.

"How did you know, von Behrling," he asked, "that your conduct was to come under discussion here."

"I knew," was the sullen acknowledgement.

Von Helm glanced at Matresser who rose at once to his feet.

"With your permission, sir," he said, "I will answer that question. The Prince von Behrling knew that his conduct as governor of a certain East African Colony was to come under discussion by securing a private letter written to me by our foreign secretary in reply to a report for which I was responsible. He secured that letter by murdering, or causing to be murdered, the messenger whose body still lies awaiting the final inquest in the neighborhood of my home, Prince von Behrling arrived under a false name in a small boat, with a possible accomplice, in my home harbor—"

"You lie!" von Behrling broke in. "I announced myself as Mijnheer van Westrheene. I am the twelfth Baron van Westrheene and my estates in Holland have been in my family for eleven generations."

"Very well then," Matresser conceded. "You arrived there bearing a name other than that by which you are generally known. Having satisfied yourself, by either murdering or assisting at the murder of the messenger, that I had made my official report upon your conduct, you then made a deliberate attempt to kill me in my own woods and also a young lady connected with a great Austrian family. I escaped death at your hands, Prince, by a miracle."

"You are in a position to deny these statements, von Behrling?" pressed Count Helm.

"I would kill any man," was the harsh reply, "who stood between me and my resumption of the great work I commenced for my country."

Count Helm pointed towards the door.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, April 6—(CP)—The Toronto Stock Market tightened up on short covering in the final hour today after the list had shown losses ranging up to two points or more in the indices. Early individual losses ranging up to 3 points among the seniors were reduced by about one-third, leaving the Industrial and Mining indicators down 1 to 2 points. Western oils held better, limiting losses to about 10 cents. European disturbances were blamed for the slump. Volume was comparatively small at about 350,000 shares.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, April 6.—(AP)—The rallying urge faded tin today's stock market and leaders fell one to more than four points. A few isolated issues conceded five to seven.

Dealings slowed after a mid-morning selling burst put the ticker tape behind for a brief interval. Mild recoveries appeared — after noon, then the downward drift was resumed. Prices were around bottom near the final hour. Transfers were about 1,300,000 shares.

TORONTO GIRL KILLED IN N.Y.

New York, April 6 —(AP)—A plunge of eight stories from the window of a room on the 10th floor of a downtown hotel (Taft) to the roof of a second floor extension killed Helen Bero, 24, of Toronto today.

Donald L. Kahn also of Toronto, with whom police said the young woman registered at the hotel last night was quoted by detectives as saying they had their baggage packed and were just about to leave when the young woman was killed. They were about to meet his sister, whom they had visited yesterday in New Jersey, detectives quoted him as saying, intending to go shopping with her.

Kahn, according to police, said he had gone into the bathroom and when he attempted to leave, found the door had been locked. He called out to Miss Bero to unlock the door, he said, and when he received no reply, smashed a glass panel in the door to open it. The young woman was gone from the room and a window was open. Police reported she had either leaped or fallen from the window.

Maj. Van Steenburgh Presented With Tray By Fellow Officers

Tangible appreciation of years of happy associations was shown Major W. E. Van Steenburgh, popular commanding officer of the 34th Field Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery, and Mrs. Van Steenburgh last night, when upwards of forty officers of the Battery and their friends, presented the O.C. with a beautiful engraved silver tray. Major and Mrs. Van Steenburgh are leaving the city in the near future.

The high regard and esteem in which the popular officer is held by a large number of civilians was evidenced in another presentation of a silver pitcher made following that of the officers of the battery.

The presentation of the officers' gift was made by Lieut. Col. T. Y. Wills, Officer Commanding the Brigade while an address was read by Lieut. R. L. Bird. Mr. Court Miller made the presentation of the civilian gift. Major and Mrs. Van Steenburgh, although taken by surprise expressed their appreciation of the beautiful gifts, and their regret at leaving a large number of friends.

The tray, of handsome solid silver and circular in shape bore the artillery crest in the centre while fassimile signatures of officers of the unit were engraved outside the central design.

The function was held in the officers' mess rooms of the battery. Dancing was indulged in until a late hour, and delicious refreshments were served.

Believes Ice Channel In River Mouth Eased Threat of Flooding

The long channel and basins cut in the solid ice field south of the Canadian Pacific Railway Bridge by city workmen prior to the break-up were given credit for the successful clearance of the river of ice, by City Engineer Charles Mott today.

Pressure of water on the ice-field that choked the lower stretches has now forced the field to approximately the railway bridge where it is being assimilated by the long channel in the rivermouth.

Flood danger would have been much greater had the floe ice not been able to make its way to the eight hundred foot channel cut in the ice near the river mouth, Mr. Mott said, adding that the Sunday push of ice from the upper river stretches was the nearest approach to an actual flood experienced this year.

"The water ran under the ice to the bay," he said "while water pressure gradually forced the ice-field to the channel and under the ice in the bay".

"In spite of criticism from some quarters, the cutting of a large channel in the river mouth ice, has been successful for the past two years. Had this channel and attached basins not been cut, flood danger would have been greatly increased," Mr. Mott stated.

KING AND QUEEN MOVE TO WINDSOR

By EDWIN JOHNSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, April 6—(CP Cable) — The King and Queen, with the Royal Court, have moved to Windsor Castle for Easter but they will enjoy less leisure and relaxation than the average subject of their realm. When they left for the historic Berkshire retreat, however, they took with the ma number of books and maps of Canada and the United States which they hoped to have time to persue.

With only a month remaining until their scheduled departure for North America Their Majesties face one of the most crowded and arduous periods since their accession. During the Windsor stay the King will have little respite from his customary busy program. He will receive daily calls from couriers bearing dispatch boxes crammed with state papers, reports and telegrams requiring urgent attention.

PREMIUM ON HIGH SCORING CHEESE

Two Cents a Pound to be Paid on Cheese Scoring Over 92 Points

Ottawa, April 6—(CP)—To encourage high quality cheese production in Canada, a Bill to be introduced in Parliament by Agriculture Minister Gardiner will provide a premium of two cents a pound for the highest scoring product, it is learned.

Canada last year produced about 120,000,000 pounds of cheese and of this approximately 90 per cent was graded number one. However, there is high number one and low number one. The high number one grade is that which scores more than 93 points out of a possible 100. Accordink to reports circulating here last night the premium will only be on the high number one grade which last year represented about 40 per cent of production.

Benefits Ontario, Quebec

While the premium will apply to all provinces where cheese is made, it will benefit chiefly Ontario and Quebec where the bulk of Canadian cheese is manufactured. It has been felt that in the past producers of the top number one grade did not obtain the premium they deserved as compared with lower number one producers and the premium will rectify that.

Grant will also be provided to aid in construction, reconstruction and equipping of cheese factories as well as for insulation and refrigeration.

The assistance to cheese producers by helping mostly the Ontario and Quebec farmers will offset to some extent the assistance other Bills sponsored by Mr. Gardiner provide for the farmers in the spring wheat area which goes entirely to the west.

Picton

Picton, April 6—There was a good attendance at Consecon Hall last night when the young people of Athol presented their three act play, "The Colonel's Maid", under the auspices of Consecon Y. P. U. The cast was entertained at lunch after the play.

The amateurs of Picton and Prince Edward County, who took part in the amateur shows at the McCarthy Theatre on Monday and Tuesday evenings, were well pleased with the reception given them. Winners of the trip to Toronto for a radio audition were Burton and Lenora Pickering, Picton, who sang a duet.

Miss Marguerite LaValle leaves next week for New York. She will enjoy a cruise to Bermuda.

KING APOLOGIZES TO MR. DINGMAN

Reporter for Globe and Mail Also The Canadian Press Exonerated

Ottawa, April 6.— (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King expressed regret in the House of Commons yesterday that through a misunderstanding of the facts he had charged Harold Dingman, Ottawa correspondent for The Toronto Globe and Mail, with having wilfully "perverted" a quotation from the Prime Minister's Foreign Affairs speech last Thursday.

Referring to statements he had made in the House of Commons last night respecting the Globe and Mail's report of his speech, the Prime Minister said he had received communications from the managing editor of the Globe and Mail and from The Canadian Press indicating that the quotation he referred to had been lifted from The Canadian Press running report of the speech and incorporated in Mr. Dingman's despatch without the latter's knowledge.

Fully Explained

"These two communications fully explain, I think, how the paragraph to which I took exception came to be inserted in Mr. Dingman's commmication to The Toronto Globe and Mail", the Prime Minister said. "They were circumstances of which I had no knowledge whatever and had I any knowledge of them I would certainly not have spoken as I did.

"Let me say that I think the Globe and Mail have done all that possibly could be expected in the way of seeking to rectify the mistakes. I think also The Canadian Press has done all that it possibly could in the way of rectifying the mistake.

"And I should like on my part to do all I possibly can to remove from Mr. Dingman's mind any sense of injustice or wrong that he may feel has been done him by words of mine, occasioned as they were in the circumstances that are known to the House.

"I exonerate him completely as have both the Globe and Mail and The Canadian Press. I would say further that I do not think that either the Globe and Mail or The Canadian Press intentionally sought to alter the meaning of what I said or in any way to misrepresent my position."

REVIEWED PLANES

The communique announcing his visit laid no emphasis on the military phase of his fast trip, which struck foreign observers as important in view of the uncertain situation between Italy and Albania.

Reaches Destination.

He took off at 10:15 a.m. and notwithstanding the bad weather over the Appenines reached Littorio airport at Rome, a 130-mile hop, at 11.10 a.m.

Many diplomats believed military talks yesterday and today between General Alberto Pariani, Chief of the Italian General Staff, and General Wilhelm Keitel, Chief of the German High Command, concerned an Italian-German plan involving Albania.

The fact was cited that Pariani was chief military adviser to Albania for five years, from 1927 to 1932. He is said to have the best military knowledge of King Zog's mountainous kingdom.

Authoritative Italians said they were without word of any Italian troop landings in Albania. Newspapers continued to refrain from any mention of Albania.

Diplomats were puzzled as to the end to be gained by any occupation of the 10,629 square-mile Mohammedan kingdom lying at its nearest point about fifty miles across the Adriatic from the heel of the Italian boot.

Control Resources.

They said Italy already had virtually complete control of the country's natural resources and that with her fortifications on isles off the Albanian coast she already was master of the Adriatic.

They were inclined to believe that occupation of Albania, if undertaken really would be a move directed at countries other than King Zog's land of 1,003,124 inhabitants.

These sources, on the other hand, could not conceive of it as a thrust against Yugoslavia, for Albania's mountains make the land route into Yugoslavia virtually impenetrable for a large army. Yugoslavia's Serbs are known as among the best fighters of Europe.

(Yugoslavia's northern frontiers, however, front both Italy and German Austria and any Italian military occupation of Albania on her southern border would give Yugoslavia something to worry about in event of a joint German-Italian "pincher movement".

(Numerous Germans live in Yugoslavia's northern region as well as 3,000,000 disaffected Croats who have been demanding autonomy.)

Bring Pressure on Greece.

Some diplomats said the occupation conceivably might be undertaken to bring pressure on Greece and might be connected with reports—wholly unconfirmed — that Great Britain had sounded out Greece regarding establishment of naval bases there.

Albanian officials have declared they would resist any threat to the kingdom's independence—Albania's army numbers 13,305 men and 812 officers; her "navy" consists of four coastal motorboats.

The birth of an heir to King Zog yesterday at Tirana sent a wave of nationalistic rejoicing through the country.

"We are proud of our independence and determined to preserve it," was representative comment among Zog's people.

Independence in 1912.

The Albanians gained their independence in 1912 after 445 years of Turkish rule. They made Ahmed Zog president in 1925 when a republic was proclaimed and king in 1928 when the constituent assembly turned the republic into a monarchy.

In 1927 Albania and Italy signed a 20-year defensive alliance which, Italians say, Zog now has asked to be strengthened.

Zog and his ministers studied the Italian proposals for the so-called "strengthening" of the military alliance while Italian troops were concentrated at Brindisi, just across the Adriatic Strait of Otranto from Albania.

At Brindisi last night it was said no soldiers had left the port.

RECOVERS SPEECH

notes or shape simple words with her lips. She did not consult a physician

Doctors Hear of Affliction.

Last month she was admitted to General Hospital to have an abscess removed from her neck. Physicians learned of her affliction and examined her vocal equipment.

They found nothing wrong. It was simply that Mrs. Pearce had been stricken literally "speechless with terror" when the boy ran into the street. Scientifically, the condition is called Aphonia. The shock had blocked off the nerves involved in speech.

"I Feel Wonderful"

Monday Dr. John Lyon, resident psychiatrist, and an intern, Dr. Hugh Swaney, treated Mrs. Pearce with sodium amytal, a drug that dulls the conscious mind. Mrs. Pearce's belief she could not speak was overcome.

"Clear your throat," Dr. Lyon told Mrs. Pearce.

Mrs. Pearce, almost asleep, did it.

"Now cough," Dr. Lyon said.

Mrs. Pearce coughed. Then the doctors suggested to her she could make other sounds.

The treatment was repeated Tuesday night, and yesterday morning When Mrs. Pearce woke up the doctors asked her "how do you feel?"

HOLLOWAY STREET CHURCH REPAIRS ARE COMPLETED

All Marks of Fire Wiped Away and Improvements Are Made

S. S. AUDITORIUM

Gleaming in new attractive shades of cream and white, with soft lights from new electric fixtures enhancing the effect, the Sunday School Auditorium of Holloway Street United Church, damaged by fire a few weeks ago, will be officially opened on Sunday next.

With decoration, renovation and repairs completed, the auditorium presents an attractive appearance. The ceiling and walls are of pure white with a soft shade relieving it at the lower part of the walls. Brown wainscoting furnishes a blending effect.

Nine new electric light fixtures gleam from the ceiling. Five accordion doors placed at intervals in the S. S. auditorium, transform it into five classrooms. The platform at the north end has been raised to a height of two feet enabling officials to store chairs and tables out of sight.

Kitchen Enlarged

The kitchen is a work of art. Here too, white and cream shades predominate. A new heating tank has been installed while the partition of the kitchen has been moved forward for a distance of four feet. A hinged door with collapsible table will facilitate the serving of meals. A handsome rubber matting covers the floor of the kitchen as well as that of the auditorium, while the coconut matting formerly used has been placed in the vestibule of the church proper.

Two new lavatories gleam in white and cream. In the furnace room, new plaster is evident with the ceiling being covered with gyproc boards and this in turn covered with sheet metal. The furnace and pipes have a heavy covering of asbestos. All fire hazards, thus have been greatly reduced.

While new plaster has been used extensively some parts of the walls have been repaired, but skilled workmen have removed all traces of edging, making the whole look very attractive.

New flooring for a distance of sixteen feet forward from the rear of the church has been laid in the main auditorium. New plaster has been placed in those parts of the wall damaged during the fire with decorative colors, the same as the general decorative scheme covering the repaired places.

"The interior decoration of the church generally was not affected," the Rev. R. E. Newman, minister of the church stated today.

Rooms adjoining the sunday school auditorium look fresh and attractive in new decorations. In the tower a false ceiling has been placed in a room leading off the balcony, converting it into an extra Sunday School classroom and clubroom.

Pride gleamed in the eyes of Mr Newman as he escorted a newspaperman through the newly decorated church and Sunday School rooms today. He spoke in glowing terms of the workmanship and skill shown in the decorative scheme, and also voiced his appreciation of the loyalty shown by members of the congregation during and following the fire that might have reduced the fine structure to a mass of ruins.

ITALIAN CRUISER

ferred nearly five hours with his cabinet.

The tense situation cast gloom over the national celebrations of the birth of a Crown Prince to Zog and Queen Geraldine.

Foreign legations were in constant consultation among themselves. The consensus among foreign diplomats was that the situation was extremely grave.

Warning to Countries.

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Apr. 6 (AP) —Well-informed sources here today said the impending Italian military occupation of Albania was meant as a warning to both Yugoslavia and Greece to stay out of the Anglo-French anti-aggression bloc.

Italy's action may involve only the occupation of Albania's coastline for the purpose of hermetically sealing the Adriatic, the same source asserted.

The Yugoslav government, officially informed of Italy's intentions, professed to be calm, but the people were nervous.

They heard that several Italian planes arrived at Tirana today carrying high Italian officials.

Yugoslavs said Italy recently resumed financial and economic talks with Albania but these did not progress in a satisfactory way for the Italians who, through the Italian National Bank, are reported here to be actually financing the entire Albanian administration and King Zog's personal budget.

First Loans Due in 1935.

The first Italian loans to Albania were due in 1935 but Albania could or would not pay so Italy demanded new concessions, according to the version here. She wanted monopolistic mining rights in the mineral areas with the privilege of settling Italians there, it was said.

Albania refused the Italian demands and promptly an Italian fleet demonstration was staged at Durazzo, a harbor on the northern Albanian coast, resulting in Albania yielding.

Now more loans are due and Albania has no more money to repay. Italy is reported to want to occupy the Albanian coastline "as security for the loans" and also as a demonstration to Great Britain and France, but Albanians were reported here to be unwilling to accept this solution.

For the last five days or so big popular demonstrations have taken place at Tirana, demanding that King Zog resist Italy by armed force, reports received in Belgrade said.

LEFT THE ARMY WITH RHEUMATISM

Now Fit to Join Again

Twenty years ago, he left the army, constipated and rheumatic. To-day, he is fit and nimble — a merry, romping granddad, 61 years young.

"I came out of the army with rheumatism," he writes. "It was especially bad in my feet. I started taking Kruschen Salts, and in a few months I found relief from my rheumatism. I became nimble on my feet. Now, at 61 — weighing 168 — I am cheerful, energetic, and always ready to play with my grandchildren."—F.E.B.

Many people grow old long before their time because they neglect one vital need of health — the need for internal cleanliness. Eventually, they adopt the healthy Kruschen habit. Then, probably for the first time in their lives, they start getting rid every day of waste matter from the system. The result is renewed health and vigor. Ailments due to a clogged system vanish, youth returns, and life becomes really worth living.

With Tongue in Cheek Transient Offers His Overcoat for Meal

A transient with a new dodge is reported by a downtown restaurateur whose generosity in providing early morning handouts recently has become an expensive habit.

Entering the cafe this morning, the hungry looking visitor bore an overcoat one arm. He eyed the tempting doughnuts on the shelf with the expression of one who had fasted for days.

"Mr. Boss, I'll make a deal", he said, producing the overcoat. "I'll trade this coat for just one cup of coffee and one doughnut."

"He knew very well I wouldn't accept the coat, but that I would likely give him the coffee and doughnuts anyhow. He's probably worked that racket from one end of the country to the other.

"But at that it was a better approach than most of them make who come in here and almost demand to be fed," commented the proprietor.

THE 'BIG THREE' OF U. S. TURF VIE FOR HONORS

Bradley, Woodward and Woolf Will Have Starters in Derby

BENEFACTOR READY

Johnstown and Technician Likely to Give Them All Trouble

New York, April 6 (AP)— The "Big Three" of the United States turf are back again, smack dab in the middle of the three-year-old racing campaign.

They are the old Colonel, who holds the championship; the persistent fellow who's been picking up on him in the last 10 years, and the "upstart" who made off with the necklace of roses at Louisville last year.

Reading from left to right these three, each boasting a pretty fair galloper in the Kentucky Derby and other top tussles of the season, are:

Col. E. R. Bradley, who has seen four of his famous "B" line in the Derby winners' circle, and who hopes to make it five with the fast-breaking Benefactor.

William Woodward, whose knowledge of breeding of racing stock has produced two Derby victors, and who has a fine big entry in Johnstown.

And Herbert M. Woolf, the Kansas City business man who may not have the others' big league seasoning, but who won last year with Lawrin and who thinks he has a mighty good chance again with the experienced Technician.

Leads Victory Parade

Leading the victory parade at Churchill Downs the Colonel has won the Kentucky Derby with Broker's Tip and Burgoo King and Bubbling Over, and, back in 1921, Behave Yourself. No other owner has sent four winners home.

Down Louisville way they have a hunch Benefactor may take the Colonel around the corner again.

Benefactor pulled up lame last November, but all traces of that injury have vanished, and now he's in fine condition readying for his Derby "prep" at Keeneland.

At the moment, Technician, a "picture horse" that likes to run whether it comes up mud or fast, is real "class." While Benefactor and Johnstown have been idling the winter away, Woolf has had Technician ringing the bell in Florida. The Inco offspring took three of four starts this winter, two at 1 1-8 miles and won $22,550.

BRANDON ELKS GIVEN CHANCE

Must Win Tonight to Prevent Edmonton from Winning Series

Winnipeg, April 6 (CP)—Brandon Elks' amazing 5-0 victory Tuesday night over Edmonton's powerful Roamers has left the best-of-five western junior hockey final up in the air so far as Manitoba fans are concerned and a capacity crowd of 6,000 is assured for the fourth game tonight.

Odds still favor Edmonton, who took the first two games in the Alberta capital by 6-0 scores, but many now give Brandon a good chance to square the series.

Roamers may be without defenceman Harry Pardee, who aggravated an old ankle injury Tuesday night. George Agar, suspended for two games following the Saturday contest at Edmonton, also will be on the bench.

OSHAWA TEAM DEFEATS VERDUN TO EVEN SERIES

Score is 6-1 With Winners Showing Way in Every Department

SAWYER ABSENTEE

Verdun Looked Good Only When Team Was Ganging

Toronto, April 6 (CP)—There's a rainbow in the sky for Oshawa hockey fans today and it isn't so far away that they can't see an Eastern Canada junior championship at the end of it. Dark clouds and all were washed away last night when Generals licked Verdun 6-1 to level the best-of-three series for the right to represent the east in the Memorial Cup play-offs.

Oshawa, playing back to last night's form, should take the Leafs handily in the deciding game here tomorrow night. Even the most rabid Verdun fans will admit this after watching the Generals skate their team into the ice before a crowd of 5,000. What's puzzling the fans just now is how Leafs won in Montreal 2-1.

Perhaps the answer hinges upon Billy Taylor. Held in check in the first game, the brilliant Oshawa centre shook himself loose last night and as he went, so did his teammates. Taylor scored the most stylish goal of the night on an end to end rush and assisted in two others. On another occasion he hit the post from close in while numerous other times only the super saves of goalie Paul Bibeault robbed him of goals.

And to make Oshawa's victory more significant, add the fact it was scored without the services of Roy Sawyer, first string forward. Young Gar Peter was added to the lineup and chipped in with a goal.

Other Oshawa scorers were Jim Drummond, Nick Knott, Norm Mcatee and Gerry Kinsella.

Verdun looked good only when ganging and their lone goal followed a power play early in the second period. Frank Eddolls, one of the most effective men on the Leaf lineup, carried the puck to start the play and passed to Paul Herbert who scored from 10 feet out.

ROSS DECLARES BRUINS READY

Boston Favored 5 to 3 to Win Series and First Game

Boston, April 6 (CP)—Manager Art Ross today declared his Boston Bruins "ready" for their best-of-seven games Stanley Cup hockey series with Toronto Maple Leafs and the betting fraternity installed the Bruins 5 to 3 favorites to take tonight's opening tussle and also the series.

Enthusiasm ran high—even higher than for last Sunday's rubber game against New York Rangers—and an overflow crowd of almost 17,000 was assured for Boston Garden.

The Garden management completed plans for extra police staff to guard against a recurrence of the vegetable-tossing that came from disgruntled Bruin fans during the Boston-Rangers series. Bruins devoted yesterday to a strategy conference and a one-hour workout.

Between the Lines

with

Ken J. Colling

That old bone of conception—the umpires—will be thoroughly discussed as one of the chief items of business at the annual meeting of the O.A.S.A. tomorrow at Hamilton. On the list of proposed amendments is the question of neutral umpires for all provincial softball playoffs and the Belleville delegates have been instructed to vote in favour of the amendment. "We don't want any more such scenes as was our misfortune to have thrust upon us last fall when Umpire Art Twigg accompanied the Kingston team here and the game ended in a general riot, all on account of Twigg's actions", commented Secretary Harry Knott before leaving for the annual softball conclave today. Harry Rollins who is an executive member of the O.A.S.A., Frank Sedore and Secretary Knott will look after the interests of the local softballers in Hamilton.

The Belleville Softball Association is sponsoring an amendment tomorrow, which will no doubt lead to stiff and lengthy discussions. The amendment is to permit cities of 15,000 population and under to enter the intermediate "B" playdowns of the O.A.S.A., as well as the intermediate "A" playoffs. Such a movement on the part of the provincial softball mentors would mean more teams in the O.A.S.A. playdowns, but might ultimately mean trouble in the matter of "packed teams" in the lower circle. The local delegates will favour the permission of allowing the pitcher to touch the ball twice with his hands before delivery, but they will oppose the lengthening of the base lines from 50 to 55 feet and also the proposed extension of the pitching distance from 38 to 40 feet. "We've got a good fast game now so why should we make wholesale changes of the playing rules and regulations," commented "Red" Townsend, sponsor of the Belleville junior 'mushballers'.

Of all sports in the U.S.A., basketball draws the largest in attendance. Upwards of 90,000,000 fans paid admissions to see the game played in the United States last year. Softball is next on the list with approximately 72,000,000 paid admissions, followed by baseball with a crowd of 60,000,000. Football attracted 45,000,000 and boxing 22,500,000. Tennis drew only 600,000.

There are now four Deans in the major leagues—two in each league. Chuggy is with the Philadelphia Americans, Doug with the Washington Americans, Paul with the St. Louis Nationals, and Dizzy with the Chicago Nationals.

Things We'd Like to Know—Instead of spending so much time and money on an open air rink on Dufferin Ave., why don't the heads of the Quinte Skating Club contact the city Parks Commission relative to the use of one of the buildings at the Fair grounds?...At least they wouldn't be confronted with so much snow shovelling, the Horticultural Building has no flooring and would be an ideal location.... Wonder how things are in Morley, Alta..?..When the O.A.S.A. is is going to issue dated certificates instead of hording their revenue for a rainy day? ....How long the local baseball interests think they can procrastinate reorganization with the Bay of Quinte League meeting slated for April 12th?... Why local hockey interests passed up Orser, Trenton's starry defenceman, who is slated for Oshawa in 1940?....When the local softball mentors are going to quit signing players in mid-winter and when certain players are going to learn the folly of signing more than one certificate?

Oshawa Generals evened the Eastern Canada Memorial Cup finals with Verdun Leafs in a most convincing manner last night. The Generals scored consistently, two goals each period, to trounce the Leafs 6-1. The third and final game is slated for the Maple Leaf Gardens on Friday night. The Oshawa scoring honors were evenly divided, no player getting more than one counter.

Charley Grimm, former Chicago Cubs manager, is said to be dickering with Hollywood for a movie debut. A series of two-reelers is under consideration.

Did You Know That—It was exactly two years ago this Good Friday that the Belleville Redmen won the first game of the intermediate "B" finals versus Thorold here?....The game was played on Good Friday and the Redmen went on to bring to Belleville its first and only O.H.A. championship...."Oh, won't you bring back these wonderful days"....Tonight the Stanley Cup finals swing into the zenith of hockey aspirations with Toronto and Boston playing in Beantown....More than 112,000 tickets were sold for the Bruin-Ranger series; which was a best-in-seven and went the limit.... The big league baseball season is only about ten days off....In closing—Boston in six games at the most and don't say you weren't warned.

SASKATOON SCENE OF SENIOR FINAL

Kimberley and Port Arthur Renew Hockey Feud Western City

Saskatoon, April 6 (CP)—Saskatoon was hit another attack of "hockey fever" as Kimberley Dynamiters and Port Arthur Bear Cats prepared for the fourth game of the best-of-five western Canada senior final here tonight.

Bear Cats, without the semblance of an injury or a cold, went through a brisk workout yesterday. Dynamiters also went through a stiff hour's drill.

With a full team available for duty, coach Swede Hornquist will have the same lineup as when his Dynamiters defeated Bear Cats 6-5 in overtime in the first game of the series. Ports won the second and the third 13-2.

New York, April 6 (AP)—Drum beater Ned Irish is worrying because Big Ten basketball coaches have privately voted against future games in Madison Square Garden.... They're now glad to book Budge and Perry n a percentage basis—That's how badly they're flopping.. The new Pacific Coast pro football league is reanying a country-wide talent raid on Varsity and pro squads.

Tony Galento said he was tired .....The public showed it was tired ....That made it unanimous, so the theatrical tour was called off.

Oddities: Technician, one of the Derby favorites, will occupy the same stall at Churchill Downs which housed his half-brother, Lawrin, last year's winner ....Erskine College has had four straight all-State ends, none of whom played football before going to college....Woodrow Wilson Rich, who looks like; a million, cost the Red Sox only five bucks....And another Woodrow Wilson will be succeeded in the Army backfield by "Moon" Mullins....Charlie George, Brooklyn's Greek batting practice catcher, has conquered the urge to open a restaurant and will stick with the club.

Newsreels show Joe Louis at a ball game wearing a 10-gallon hat and looking very bored......Why not, with Roper coming up for breakfast, Galento for dinner and Mebbe Baer for supper?

The Red Sox will tell you Ponce De Leon Park at Atlanta is the best baseball field in the country outside the majors....Mike Jacobs will not arrive in Los Angeles until a week before Roper vs. Louis, but he figures that will give him plenty of time to count the house..Headline: "Mungo takes things easy".... What's the news there, Mister?

Big to-do at Plant City, Fla..... Detroit advertised its $80,000 pitching find would flip against Buffalo ....Same was done. ..... Detroit's share of the receipts was $9.75.

Indians and Ramblers To Renew Hostilities

Cleveland, April 6 (CP)—Tied at one game apiece, Cleveland Barons and Philadelphia Ramblers renew their best-of-five games International-American hockey league championship playoff series here tonight with Cleveland officials predicting a near-record crowd of more than 11,000.

The Baron management announced a sell-out of reservations. Nearly 2,600 bleacher seats and standing room tickets for 2,000 go on sale during the day.

The next two games of the series are scheduled on the Barons' ice, and the fifth, if necessary, at Philadelphia.

Cleveland won the first game 2-1 and Philadelphia took the second game Tuesday night 5-4.

Soiled Linen

By MAUDE M. WELCH

Those who wash our soiled linens may learn our deepest secrets.

Della Groves had been taking in washing for 30 years. She was a small, wiry woman with a pleasant weather-beaten face and alert black eyes. And she could tell you a lot about the people for whom she washed. Only Della wouldn't.

And, while only a washerwoman, Della was also something of a philanthropist. People for whom she did washing were always giving her things with a sort of noblesse oblige gesture. Old shoes, stockings with runs in them, shapeless hats, faded dresses and moth-eaten coats, kitchen utensils, old magazines and a few ragged books. In fact, the usual sort of thing which people give away to the junk man.

So Della always had an odd assortment of things for which she had no use.

It was only natural in time that down-at-the-heel people should appear at her house, quite as if someone had chalked a mark on her front gate post. And needless to say no one ever went away without a gift he or she could use out of the motley array of things Della was always receiving.

But the time came when Della's philanthropy failed in a case where help was greatly needed, and certainly deserved. And for once Della's fertile brain was at a loss.

Melissa was getting married. Melissa was the blond-haired, freckle-faced orphan girl who helped Della with the hanging out. Della never trusted anybody to do the washing or ironing because she always took so much pride in her work. But she let Melissa do odd jobs about the place because she was so poor and friendless.

And now Melissa had found a beau and tomorrow she was going to be married. Her boy drove a vegetable truck for a close-in farmer and made all of seven dollars a week. The future looked bright enough.

Only Melissa had set her heart on having a real wedding dress. A pretty one, lacy and fluffy. It was the one dark cloud in her rosy dreams. She wanted to look like a bride for her soon-to-be young husband.

Della racked her brain all day trying to solve the problem. That afternoon she was ironing. Melissa hovered about her, looking as alert as a bright-eyed bird for a crumb, for any job Della might deem her capable.

Della pulled a garment out of the sprinkle-down basket, slipped it over the ironing board, and the rumpled damp cloth under her skillful manipulations of the iron soon resolved itself into a dress of delicate peach-pink organdie trimmed with wide Valenciennes lace.

Melissa watched the dress as if fascinated. It was so beautiful.

Suddenly Della noticed. She replaced an iron on the gas, lifted up another, spat on it to test the heat, then for a moment she held it in mid-air and stared at the dress with puzzled eyes.

"I'll declare! As long as I've been washing for Mrs. Bunch I've never seen this dress before. Besides, she's been out of town for three weeks. Just got back yesterday, and the maid's been getting up the wash—just towels and sheets and Mr. Bunch's things. Looks kinda funny. But I know I haven't got things mixed. I'm always too careful."

Late that afternoon Melissa carried the basket of laundry to the Bunch bungalow on top of the hill.

The next morning early something happened. Mr. and Mrs. Bunch drove up to the side yard where Melissa was already hanging out, and Della was singing over the wash tubs.

Mrs. Bunch's pale rather acid features wore a frown. Her husband, a smallish man, had the pinkish, scared expression of a rabbit.

On the back seat of the car lay the peach pink organdie neatly folded just as Della had placed it in the basket.

"Della." Mrs. Bunch fixed her eyes on her sternly, "how did that dress get in my wash?"

Now many years of washing dirty linen had sharpened Della's wits. Besides, she had caught a gleam of something like entreaty in Mr. Bunch's eyes, although apparently he slouched against the seat and stared nonchalantly in front of him.

Della hesitated for only a moment. Then she broke into an apologetic laugh. " Why, I'm so sorry, Mrs. Bunch," she began more to gain time than anything else.

The frown cleared from Mrs. Bunch's pale thin features. She turned and faced her husband. "So you told the truth after all. It was Della's mistake. And a good thing for you it was, too."

Then admonishing Della to be more careful about mixing the laundry lists in the future, they drove off leaving Della holding the dress in her hand.

So she made her way to the wash lines where Melissa was patiently hanging out.

"Here's your wedding dress," she said, "—a present from Mr. Bunch."

Little Benny's Note Book

I wasn't suppose to go out on account of the streets being too wet after the rain, and ma was sewing on her sewing machine and I was standing at the window, saying, I can pretty near see dry patches, ma is it all right to go out now?

You may go out when the streets are dry and not before, so dont ask me again or the answer will be no, dry or wet, and that's final and I hope it's clear, ma said, and after a while I said, Hay ma, do you want me to fill your inkwell on your desk for you?

No thanks, I just filled it, ma said and I said, No you didn't, ma, you only half about 3 quarters filled it, I bet I can fill it for you absolutely even to the top without spilling a drop.

O my lands such a thought, dont you touch my inkwell now or at any other time, do you understand? ma said, and I said, Yes mam, well how about if I go and fix my room up while I'm waiting, how about that?

Well that sounds more like a sensible idea, though I must say it seems like a strange one coming from you, ma said, and I said, G, ma, I bet I'll fix it so nobody wont hardly know it, I'll turn the rug on its other side and make the design look entirely diffrent, and I'll push my bed over by the door to make still another big change. It wont matter if the door dont quite open all a ways, will it, ma?

Well of course it will, I mean the whole idea is too preposterous for words, ma said, and I said, Why is it, ma, G wiz you're fixing the living room all over diffrent, aren't you, so why cant I change my room a little?

O, go on outside, hurry up, it doesn't look so bad now if you put your rubbers on, such a boy, ma said.

Meaning me.

REGISTRAR NELLES DIES AT GUELPH

Guelph, Ont., April 5—(CP) — Charles Lonsdale Nelles, registrar for South Wellington, died in Guelph General Hospital early today, less than 36 hours after his wife died from a heart attack. He was 71, and had lived in Guelph for more than 60 years. For many years in the book and stationery business, he was named registrar in 1927. He was one of the founders of St. James Anglican Parish, and active in the development of the Guelph Fat Stock Club.

Would Encourage Cheese Production By Government Grants

Ottawa, April 5 (CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner gave notice today of a bill he will introduce in the House of Commons to make government grants to encourage the production of cheese.

Grants will be made in aid of the construction, reconstruction and equipment of cheese factories, for their insulation and refrigeration and the purchase of equipment. Grants also will be made to producers of high grade cheese and it is reported this will be one cent a pound.

The government's move is an effort to encourage production of more Canadian cheese which finds a ready export market. Higher cheese production would mean less butter production and this is a goal also desired.

Canada has a butter surplus of about 6,000,000 pounds in excess of the amount required to supply the ordinary domestic needs until the big production starts again next month.

Arm Cut Off Under Freight Boy Staggers Home

Toronto, April 5 (CP)—John Bates, 17, suburban Mimico, staggered home unescorted early today after his right arm had been severed under a moving train.

Parents of the lad awakened when he kicked at the front door while holding his severed arm in his left hand. The accident occurred when he attempted to get off a moving train a block from his home and fell beneath the wheels.

Force of the wheels cut off the arm between the wrist and the elbow and compressed the blood vessels so that there was little bleeding. An emergency operation was performed at the hospital.

AFTER FIFTH SUCCESSFUL "FAST-UNTIL-DEATH"

Looking thinner than ever, Mahatma Gandhi was pictured leaving his Delhi residence to visit the British viceroy, the Marquess of Linlithgow, a few days after Gandhi had successfully ended his fifth "fast-unto-death" for political purposes. This fast was conducted in the tiny state of Rajkot, where Gandhi fasted for more than 98 hours until the populace was given a voice in the government of the state.

HITLER ISSUES WARNING AT BATTLESHIP LAUNCHING

Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler is shown RIGHT, with Admiral Eric Raeder as they attended the launching of Germany's newest 35,000-ton battleship, Von Tirpitz, at Wilhelmshaven. The occasion was scheduled to be used for Fuehrer Hitler's reply to the action of Great Britain in promising armed aid to Poland in the event of an invasion of that country. But Der Fuehrer's words were withheld from the German public, the broadcast being cut off shortly after Hitler began to speak. Hitler warned that Britain's committments to Poland "may destroy" the Anglo-German naval pact. He warned that "if any power wants to measure its strength with ours the German people are always ready." Actual launching of the new ship was performed by Frau Ulrich von Hassell, daughter of the late Admiral Von Tirpitz, in whose honor the craft is named.

For Eczema--Skin Troubles

Make up your mind today that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well. Go to any good drug store and get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil—it lasts many days because it is highly concentrated.

The very first application will give you relief—the itching of Eczema is instantly stopped—eruptions dry up and scale off in a very few days. The same is true of Itching Toes and Feet, Barber's Itch, Salt Rheum and other skin troubles.

Remember that Moone's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful, penetrating Antiseptic Oil that does not stain or leave a greasy residue. Complete satisfaction or money back. Doyle's Drug Store.

Piles Go Quick

With Dr. Leonhardt's Prescription

Many sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have found out that quick relief can be had with an internal medicine.

Bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel is the cause of piles The veins are congested and flabby, the bowel walls weak. That is why an internal medicine like HEM-ROID should be used. HEM-ROID stimulates the circulation, relieves the pressure of blood in the veins of the lower bowel and helps to heal and restore the sore, tender parts.

HEM-ROID is the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, who spent several years of his professional life in finding the cause of piles and the medicine that would remove them. His medicine succeeds because it tends to correct the cause.

No matter what kind of piles you have or how long you have had them, if you want to try HEM-ROID, you have our promise to give you back your money if you do not find quick and satisfying relief, after using just one bottle.

J. S. McKeown or any druggist can supply you.

London, April 8 (CP Cable)—Invasion of the little kingdom of Albania by Premier Mussolini's black-shirted legion may result in the urgent re-assembly of parliament, which only Thursday adjourned for a 10-day Easter recess.

Following a council of ministers at 10 Downing Street, at which the Albanian situation was reviewed for an hour and a half, it was announced that Prime Minister Chamberlain was cutting short his fihsing holiday in Aberdeenshire and that cabinet ministers would remain in, or near, London for consultation.

The Prime Minister, the guest of Lord Forbes, is leaving Aberdeen by train tonight, arirving in London in the morning.

Takes Serious View

Mr. Chamberlain's decision to return is interpreted to mean the government is taking a serious view of developments, although it is generally believed in informed circles that the Italian action will not lead to hostilities involving Great Britain.

It is expected, however, that a strong protest will be addressed to Mussolini on the grounds that the military measures against Albania constitute a breach of the Anglo-Italian friendship pact ratified last November.

It is also believed that the government will refuse to recognize Peculiar hailstones! The typical hailstone is roughly spherical and consists of concentric layers of ice and snow. Hailstones of very unusual shape fell at Washington during a severe storm. Some of the stones had diameters equal to that of a quarter-dollar and many had the shape of triangular pyramids with spherical bases. It is thought that these pyramids were the result of bursting of some of regular spherical pattern. This was because the apexes of the pyramids formed the centres of the original stones and the bases the outsides. During their farther descent they collected ice and rime, forming very irregular outer layers.

QUEEN GERALDINE

QUEEN GERALDINE NEAR FLORINA

Tired and Weak After Long Ride Over Mountain Roads

Athens, Apr. 8 (AP)—Queen Geraldine of Albania, who fled Tirana with her three-day-old son as Italian troops invaded her country rested today in a primitive inn at the little town of Florina, ten miles from the border, in Greece.

The 23-year-old queen was tired and weak after a 14-hour, 160-mile ride over mountain roads in an ambulance. She was attended by two doctors and three nurses.

She planned to continue to Salonika today. Two unmarried sisters arrived there last night.

The queen's party left Tirana at dawn yesterday, accompanied by her mother and a few Albanian guards. Mrs. Gladys Stewart Girault, an American by birth, is the queen's mother. Her father was the late banker and marshal of the Hungarian court, Count Julius Nagy-Apponyi, who died in 1924.

The party arrived at Florina about 7:30 p.m. yesterday and Queen Geraldine was taken from the ambulance on a stretcher into the town's only inn. Her mother carried Crown Prince Skander.

CHAMBERLAIN PRAISED

San Francisco, April 8 (AP) — Ignace an Paderewski, former Polish Premier, said today the new British-Polish accord "is what I have believed for many years to be the true stand for Poland to take."

The statesman-pianist said in a statement he admires Prime Minister Chamberlain "for his noble efforts to maintain peace in Europe."

MOB KILLS EIGHT POLICE

Bombay, India, Apr. 8 (AP) — Eight police officers and jail guards were beaten to death today by a mob of more than 1,000 natives who stormed and sacked the state jail at Ramdurg, capital of Ramdurg State, a small native principality about 300 miles southeast of Bombay.

Not Wanted, Get Out

Berlin, April 8 (AP)—Raoul Pico, Albanian Minister to Germany, tried today to lodge a protest at the Foreign Office against Italy's invasion of his country. He was told there was no one to receive him.

INVASION MAY BE A BOOMERANG TO MUSSOLINI

End of Italy as Self-Styled Protector of Islam Believed Near

CALLED TO REVOLT

Paris, April 8—(AP)—Italy's invasion of the Moslem kingdom of Albania was reported in Paris today to have so strengthened French and British Empires in the Mediterranean that it may prove a boomerang for Premier Mussolini.

"This means the end of Italy as the self-styled protector of Islam," said a high official in the French colonial office.

In Syria where French failure to push through a 1936 Syrian independence treaty led to disorders and strikes which French troops had to quell, the reaction was immediate.

Faris El Khouri, President of the Syrian parliament and outstanding leader of the Nationalist bloc which has led the anti-French agitation, issued a scathing attack on Italy. He indicated his bloc would now cooperate with the French.

"Italy's pretentions of protecting our Moslems now reminds us of the story of the lion which defends the prey he does not intend to divide with others," El Khouri said.

Even as Italian troops fought their way into the little Mohammedan state on the Adriatic, the Italian station at Tripoli, Libya, broadcast an appeal in Arabic for Moslems in Tunisia, France's protectorate, to make a demonstration next Sunday against the French. French observers interpreted the broadcast as a call for an Arab revolt.

Some Demonstrations

Immediately after the broadcast there were a number of anti-Italian demonstrations by Arabs in Tunisian cities, however, and various Moslem organizations telegraphed declarations of loyalty to the French resident general's office in Tunis.

Arab sources in Paris said Italy's Albanian invasion would "cancel" much of her recent anti-French and anti-British propaganda in Moslem parts of the French and British Empires.

Part of the Paris press said, however, that to solidify this reaction, Britain and France must do more than "shrug their shoulders" at Italian aggression.

Almost the entire French press urged the government to rush negotiations to solidify the eastern "stop Hitler" bloc.

Meanwhile, George Peyant, leader of the Albanian opposition to King Zog's government and head of a delegation of political exiles in Paris, called at the Albanian legation to announce his unity with Zog against Italy.

Heretofore a bitter opponent of Zog, Peyangi praised the King's military abilities and said he had telegraphed members of his outlawed peoples party in Albania to place themselves at the government's orders.

Rear-End Collision of Freight Trains Occurs at Morrisburg

Morrisburg, Ont., April 8—(CP)—Engineer James Karns of Brockville was injured and other crew members escaped in a collision of Canadian Ntaional Railways freight trains half-a-mile east of here early today. Morrisburg is on the St. Lawrence River 40 miles south of Ottawa.

Karns lost three fingers when they became jammed in the emergency brake handle. His fireman jumped to safety.

Westbound from Montreal to Toronto on the main line, Karns' train rammed the caboose of another westbound freight that had stopped to take on water. The caboose crew saw the other train approaching and leaped out of danger.

Caboose is Smashed

The caboose was smashed and the car ahead of it, loaded with brooms, paper and mattresses, caught fire. The second car from the caboose was derailed.

Karns' engine jumped the rails and came to rest across the double track badly damaged. The tracks were ripped up for some distance.

The noise of the crash was so great residents of Morrisburg were awakened from their sleep. The accident occurred at 6:30 a. m E.S.T.

The engineer was extricated from his engine in a dazed condition and was rushed to Brockville General Hospital.

Residents of the town assisted volunteer firemen in fighting the fire that rapidly consume dthe car.

Wrecking crews were rushed from Brockville and Montreal and the line likely will be cleared this afternoon. A special train was sent from Montreal to take passengers off the Toronto-Montreal train and take them to Montreal.

LLOYD GEORGE SEES RIGHT IN FINAL TRIUMPH

TEACHERS ADDRESSED

Says Right Will Federate to Meet Force'

Llandudno, Wales, April 8 (CP-Havas)— "Darkening symptoms" indicate "the old struggle between force and right might yet be renewed," David Lloyd George said in addressing a meeting of the National Teachers' Union here today.

"Force is marching from one triumph to another but the time will come when right will federate it" he declared.

Stressing the need for "regenerating the rural life of the country," the Great War leader said that during the war there was a struggle between Britain's blockade and Germany's attempt to blockade Britain by submarine warfare.

"There was a moment when one could not tell which stranglehold would succeed—ours did."

He added that lesson had been driven into the German mind and that when he visited the country three or four years ago he found Germans cultivating land which had not been cultivated "since the days of the deluge."

TRENTON GARAGEMAN ESCAPES DROWNING

Trenton, April 7— (Special)— A Trenton news despatch this morning brings the word, that sometime during Friday night or Saturday morning, George Arthur, mechanic employed by Graham's Garage in Trenton, had a narrow escape from drowning in the Trent River near dam No. 2 after his car careened off the highway and into the icy water. The report further says that Arthur was badly cut about legs and hands as he fought his way through broken windows of the vehicle. This is the second accident of its kind to take place along the Trent this season, the first taking place on Wednesday when three Stirling men escaped drowning near dam No. 5.

A few days ago on the disappearance of snow the watch was found in perfect running order. Two months ago Gordon Jocelyn lost his glasses. He found them intact this week on the side of the road.

TRAVELLERS URGED TO SEE DOMINION ON WAY TO FAIRS

Visit of King and Queen to Canada Will Aid Tourist Travel

MANY INQUIRIES

(By The Canadian Press)

World's Fairs in the United States will lure many a tourist dollar from Canada this summer but indications are that the Dominion, chiefly as a result of the spring visit of the King and Queen, in the aggregate will gain much more than it will lose.

In fact, the country's tourists associations have turned the world's fair at New York and the Golden Gate Exposition at San Francisco to their advantage by urging travellers to "see Canada while en route to the fairs". The geographical position of several Canadian highways makes this possible—in some cases preferable.

From all provincial tourist bureaux come forecasts of increased business this year, with the forthcoming royal visit expected to provide a booming opening for the season. D. Leo Dolan, Chief of the Canadian Travel Bureau, summed up the summer's prospects as looking "exceptionally good".

"For time last 11 days she has laid the egg promptly at 8.30 a.m."

GERMANY HAILS FRANCO'S ACCORD AGAINST BLOC

Interpreted as Only Logical Outcome of Spanish War

PRESS COMMENT

Berlin, April 8—(AP)—Germany brought strong diplomatic pressure on Poland and published newspaper threats against her today while most of Europe's attention was centred on Albania.

The campaign coincided with the return home of Foreign Minister Joseph Beck from London, where he concluded a defensive alliance with Great Britain which is considered here to be aimed at Germany.

The Polish Ambassador, Joseph Lipsky, was given a full hour's talk by Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop before von Ribbentrop started on a brief Eastern vacation.

At Warsaw it was intimated that the Germany embassy was undergoing all that Chancellor Hitler's plain-spoken Foreign Minister had told the Polish Ambassador in Berlin.

Poland is Warned

The afternoon press, while still giving front-page prominence to the "double slap at the democracies"—the Italian invasion of Albania and Spain's adherence to the anti-communist pact—continued to warn Poland in no uncertain terms.

Comment of the Berlin newspaper Nachtausgabe was typical: "Whoever concludes a treaty with England against Germany, thereby simultaneously makes a pact with Bolshevism. The states of Europe have today but to choose between

British Freighter Temple Bar Aground on Jutting Rock

Quillayute, Wash., April 8—(AP)—A coast guard crew brought 23 of the 29 men aboard the wrecked British freighter Temple Bar safely into this station today and reported the rest were "safe on the beach." The ship was called a "total loss."

The Temple Bar went aground about 4 a.m. (7 a.m. EST) today about a mile and a half north of Quillayute Needle, a rock a mile off shore and three miles south of the mouth of the Quillayute River. It sent at a frantic S.O.S. before the crew abandoned ship.

ALBANIA GOV'T GOES TO ELBASAN FOR PROTECTION

Expected Italy Will Set up Provisional Gov't. in Country

ZOG'S OFFER REFUSED

Believed That Italy Will Annex Albania and Appoint Governor

Rome, April 8—(AP)— Italian troops marched into Tirana today to occupy the Albanian capital after a night of disorder in the city.

Italian dispatches from Tirana said a small group of Italian military officers and Albanian gendarmes had taken control in the excited city after King Zog had moved his government to Elbasan, 25 miles south.

Order had been restored after a night of shooting and rioting and looting some hours before the troops arrival.

It was expected in political circles here that a provisional government would be set up quickly, pending Premier Mussolini's decision on the future relations of the new regime with Rome.

Previous Italian news agency dispatches indicated occupation of the capital was imminent as one of four columns of Fascist motorized troops fought against King Zog's embattled mountaineers from Durazzo, on the coast, toward Tirana, 25 miles in the interior.

Royal Palace Sacked

Stefani, Italian official news agency said the royal palace and the palace of King Zog's sisters were sacked and "important loot" carried off before order was restored.

Extra editions of Italian newspapers in three-inch-high letters announced the news:

"Tirana occupied!"

An Italian dispatch reported the victory had been gained with the following Italian losses:

QUEEN RELATES STORY OF FLIGHT

Prays World Will be 'Shocked Into Action'

London, April 8 (AP) — Queen Geraldine of Albania prayed today that the world would be "shocked into action" by Italy's invasion of "my tragic little country."

The 23 year old queen, who is of Hungarian parentage, fled into Greece yesterday just two days after she had given birth to a son and heir to the Albanian crown.

(A Rome dispatch from Tirana reported King Zog also had fled to Greece, crossing the frontier at Koritza and apparently heading for Athens. Rome also reported that Queen Geraldine and her son were en route from Florina Greece, to Salonika.)

"I left my husband leading his troops—his poor insignificant little army—into battle. What could Albania do against such armed might as that which ground down on us?"

Story of Queen's Flight

In these words the Queen began her story of her flight from Tirana, the capital of Albania, to the Star, London evening newspaper. The story came by telephone from Florina, the Greek hamlet where the queen south temporary refuge with her new-born son, Skander.

Lying on a sick-bed in a primitive village hotel in Florina, with Skander on an improvides cot beside her, the Queen dictated her story to her grandmother, Madame D'Estrale D'Ekna, who repeated it over the telephone.

King of Hoboes Warns Bums and Tramps Away From Conclave

Cleveland, Apr. 8 (AP) — Those knights-errant of the railroads called hoboes sat down in solemn conclave today.

From a desk piled high with correspondence, "King" Jeff Davis passed out certificates of membership in Hoboes of America, Incorporated.

Above the desk, a sign added an afterthought:

"Warning—Bums, Tramps, Fuzzy-tails, Ringtails, Jungle Buzzards will get de Bums rush. We don't want to have to fumigate dis joint."

Observing "this is strictly a high class 31st annual convention," the 56-year-old "King", who also is "Emperor of the International League of Hoboes," urged his clansmen to give serious heed to revision of the organization's constitution which begins:

"There is a vast difference between hobo, tramp and bum, for a hobo will work, a tramp won't, and a bum couldn't if he wanted to."

Proud Little Army Routed by Italians; Report King Flees

Albanian Army Retreats to the Hills as Italians Occupy City of Tirana

NIGHT OF TERROR

Gendarmes Fire Continuously to Frighten Away Looters Who Earlier Had Sacked Palace

By CHARLES GUPTILL

(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

Tirana, April 8 (AP) — Fascist Italy's troops occupied this capital of Albania without hostile manifestation today after a night of terror and disorder that attended the rout of her proud little army of mountaineers and the reported flight of her King to Greece.

The advance column of Italians rolled in from the coast, twenty-five miles away, just a little more than twenty-four hours after the Italian advance began, against the bitter resistance of poorly-equipped Albanians fighting for their independence.

It was 9:30 a.m. (3:30 a.m. EST) when the first Italian soldiers entered the capital.

Bersagliere on motorcycles, their faces and uniforms grey with dust and with cap feathers flying from their steel helmets, were first to enter the city.

No Manifestations.

Albanians in the square before the government offices applauded them as their cycles roared out of the dust of the Durazzo-Tirana road. There were no hostile manifestations. A group of students carrying an Italian flag marched

CIANO FLIES TO ALBANIAN CAPITAL

Also Reported King Zog Crossed Greek Frontier Today

Rome, Apr. 8 (AP)—Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian Foreign Minister and Premier Mussolini's son-in-law, arrived by airplane at Tirana, capital of invaded Albania, at 11 a.m. (5 a.m. EST) today, an Italian dispatch from Albania said.

Another dispatch from Albania said King Zog of Albania had crossed the Greek frontier at a point near Koritza, Albania, and headed toward Athens.

EARL BALDWIN TO VISIT CANADA

Will Remain Three Days as Guest of Governor General at Ottawa

London, April 8—(CP Cable) — Earl Baldwin, accompanied by Countess Baldwin and his secretary Sir Geoffrey Fry, left today for Liverpool, whence he will sail tonight for Canada in the liner Duchess of York.

Lord Baldwin will remain three days in Ottawa as a guest of the Governor General, Lord Tweedsmuir, and then proceed to Toronto, where he will deliver three addresses inaugurating the Falconer Lectureship at the University of Toronto.

The former Prime Minister has been inundated with invitations to speak in other Canadian and United States centres, none of which, however, he has found it possible to accept. He is sailing for home from New York May 5.

BALKAN KINGDOMS LESS CONFIDENT OF WESTERN AID

Wedge Between Yugoslavia and Greece Reduces Attractiveness of British Plan

GREAT ACTIVITY

Budapest, April 8—(AP)— Little Balkan kingdoms, worried by the Albanian example of what can happen to a weak country which opposes the Rome-Berlin axis, were less confident today of the effectiveness of the projected anti-aggression bloc sponsored by Great Britain.

All foreign offices of southeastern Europe has been considering the advisability of associating themselves with the British-French-Polish front against aggression.

It appeared today, however, that the Italian invasion of Albania, driving a mountain wedge between Yugoslavia and Greece, had greatly reduced the attractiveness of the British plan to the Balkans.

Officially, all countries of the region — particularly Yugoslavia, Rumania and Bulgaria—were expressing an optimistic view of developments. Foreign office spokesmen expressed hope the military action Albania would be localized.

Off the record comment was not so cheerful.

Virtual Control

Many political leaders in Yugoslavia admitted Italian occupation of Albania's seacoast gave Premier Mussolini virtually complete control of the Adriatic. Moreover, Italian troops now were in a position to move up on Yugoslavia's southern border while German, as well as Italian, power could be mobilized to the north and northwest.

Observing themselves in this strategically, precarious position, many Yugoslavs were not impressed by the security promised by distant powers.

"We are too close to the cannon" one Belgrade observer said.

Another weakness of Yugoslavia, growing out of the Albanian occupation, was the likelihood that in any military action in the Balkans, Yugoslavia and Greece would be separated with comparative ease.

Make New Efforts

The Balkan Entente of Yugoslavia, Rumania, Turkey and Greece did not appear to be nearly the compact bloc it seemed when the Entente Council met in Bucharest a few weeks ago.

SPECIAL SERVICE AT BRIDGE STREET CHURCH ON FRIDAY

On Good Friday morning a special service was held at Bridge Street United Church, Rev. Dr. Jas. Semple in charge. The sermon was delivered on the life of Simon of Cyrene who carried the cross of Christ to Calvary, by the Rev. W. T. R. Dell of Ivanhoe. Rev. Mr. Harrison assisted in the service.

Mrs. F. H. Houston, soprano, and Miss Doris Houston, contralto, sang very effectively the hymn "The King of Love My Shepherd Is", Mr. Alec Gordon accompanying.

OUTLOOK FOR FALL GRAINS FAVORABLE

Prospects for a good crop of fall grains in this district, providing there are no late Spring frosts, look exceedingly bright, Mr. Lynn Fair, Hastings County Agricultural representative stated today.

"The grain had splendid topping before the snow came last winter" Mr. Fair said, "while the roots had secured a firm hold and had stored plenty of plant food. Heavy covering of snow has given the grain protection and only a severe late Spring frost will prevent what appears to be now a good crop."

LAKE FISHERMEN GET GOOD HAULS OF FISH

Fishermen of Point Traverse returning with their first catches of the season from Lake Ontario, report fish to be plentiful. Twenty-five hundred pounds of white fish constituted the first day's catch, with subsequent catches pointing to a good season off the southern shores of Prince Edward County.

WORKMEN OPEN UP DEPOSITS OF MICA

Several men under the direction of Mr. S. H. Orser of Verona are at present engaged in opening up a mica property in Faraday Township. The ore will be trucked to Bancroft village where a staff of girls has been engaged to trim and split the material into sheets which will be used for electrical purposes. A contract has reportedly been signed with a large company for the production.

MAYOR BONE TO ATTEND OTTAWA CONFERENCES

Mayor Jamieson Bone will leave the city on Monday evening for Ottawa where he will attend two important conventions being held there on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week, the national conference of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, of which he is one of the executive directors, and the Ontario Mayors' Association, of which he is first vice-president.

CONSECON FISHERMEN SET NETS THIS WEEK

Held up by ice floes along shore for some time, fishermen of the district who have moved into the summer colony at Consecon on the south shore of Prince Edward County were able to place their nets this week for the first time. It was expected by Jack Alyea, Rossmore that the first "lift" would be undertaken on Saturday. Little floating ice is reported in the lake, and the shore floes are rapidly melting, it was stated.

NAPANEE SCHOOL PRINCIPAL RESIGNS

Principal of Napanee public schools for the past twenty-two years, the resignation of W. J. Trenouth has been received and accepted by the Napanee Board of Education. The resignation will take effect at the end of the June term. Mrs. W. E. Cowles, a junior form teacher has also submitted her resignation.

ARRANGEMENTS ARE NOW COMPLETED

Arrangements have been completed for the annual Easter Festival in St. Michael's Academy. The program is most complete with features to delight young and old. Suppers will be served Tuesday and Wednesday from 4.30 to 7, and games will be in progress each of the three nights from 7 to 8. A colorful stage entertainment of variety acts amateur and guest artists with over 100 taking part will present gala programs each evening while jitney dancing will complete a well-rounded evening's fun, with the Top Hatters in attendance.

Door prizes are being given each night and a special drawing on Thursday. All in all, the Festival promises excellent entertainment, the commitee having worked zealously for its success.

CANADIAN LEGION HOLDS EUCHRE

A Vimy euchre held by the Ladies Auxiliary of the local branch of the Canadian Legion, 99, B.E.S.L. in the Imperial Clubrooms was largely attended. Cards, lunch and community singing were all features of the evening's entertainment. Prizes for cards were announced as follows: Mrs. Samain; Mrs. Clorke; Mrs. Styles; Mrs. D. ST. JOHN PASSION SUNG BY CHOIR AT CHRIST CHURCH

Impressive Rendition of Famous Handel Work is Given by Male Choir Under Direction of Geo. N. Maybee, Organist

Handel's "St. John Passion" which tells in music of supreme beauty the scenes at the trial and the crucifixion of Jesus was impressively sung by the choir of Christ Church on Good Friday evening under the direction of Mr. George Maybee, organist and choir leader.

Robed in black without surplices in accord with the spirit of the day of crucifixion, the choir of men and boys slowly moved up the aisle from the vestry to the choir loft as the organist played. Mr. A. W. Simpson sang the part of the Evangelist, his tenor voice being admirably adapted for this role, for it is clear and impressive. Mr. B. J. Theobald, baritone, sang the words of Pilate in his clear and impressive baritone voice and lent distinction to the lines spoken by the Roman Governor. The words of Jesus were rendered by Mr. J. G. Willshire, bass, whose singing throughout was among the most impressive of the entire composition. His voice is deep, well controlled, and possesses a reasonant quality required for singing of these lines. Mr. A. B. Saunders sang a tenor solo "Was There Ever Loneliness Like His" in a very effective and fine style. Mr. P. Blaker, possessing one of the finest contralto voices took the solo "He was despised." This memorable number received a memorable interpretation by Mr. Blaker, his voice was always well under control and possesses very fine fualities even if it is most unusual for a young man to possess a contralto voice. His brother L. Blaker, also a contralto singer of marked depth and sweetness was heard in a solo "Take Comfort Soul". Two boy sopranos who sang were Jack Willshire and Hugh Simpson, their young voices indicating unusual control and fine training. They sang a duet. Jack Willshire also sang the solo "Sins of Deepest Dye" and then with L. Blaker was heard in a duet.

Choral Work Impressive

The work of the choir was inexpressibly beautiful throughout. Christ Church possesses the sole male choir in Belleville and to hear this organization sing is a musical event particularly at such a service as that marking Good Friday when the blending of voices of men and boys with the contrasts which they afford makes indelible the impression which the congregation carries away. Under the direction of Mr. Maybee the soloists, and the sections of the choir were at every stage of the "Passion" able to give the stress and expression which the composition and the scene required. Christ Church choir possesses plenty of volume which was always effectively used. It could be soft and subdued or used with force as when the words were repeated "Away with Him, away! Crucify Him!" Everywhere the music as sung represented the spirit of this the greatest drama ever enacted in history—the scenes in and about the judgment hall and the tragedy on the brow of Calvary. The boys' section was used with brilliant effect throughout.

Mr. Maybee as director was able to inspire the choir with the mood of the religious drama they enacted. It was one of his finest achievements in presenting the best type of church music to the people of Christ Church and Belleville. His work at the organ formed the fine background of sound and accompaniment for the voices of the choir.

Rev. G. G. Wright, rector, presided over the service, which was attended by a fairly large congregation. Hymns were sung at divisions of "The Passion", "Glorq Be to Jesus", "There Is a Green Hill Far Away", and "O Sacred Head, Surrounded". The effectiveness of the choir was shown in the leadership its members gave the congregation and in setting and tempo of the hymns. Such a choir with the organ is a fine agency for the improvement of congregational singing.

Police Blotter

The city police blotter was a clear sheet today, no arrests having been necessary over the holiday.

A Hillside Street resident reported the theft of a girl's bicycle from off West Moira Street on Thursday evening. Yesterday the police located the bike nearby and returned it to its rightful owner. The bike had been picked up by a resident who believed it to have been abandoned.

Apparently the large moving band of transients do not travel during the holiday season, as a general falling off of transients, seeking a night's lodging at the police station, was noted over the holiday.

POLICE COURT

Four transients appeared before His Worship Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., in today's city police court charged with intoxication. Pleas of guilty were accepted in each case and the men were sentenced to ten days in jail in default of the payment of the assessed fine.

A trio of youthful lads appeared on charges of uttering obscene language and causing disturbances on Front street. All three denied the accusations and the cases were enlarged until Tuesday next.

Monday being a legal holiday, His Worship announced there would be no session of the city police court, the session being held over until Tuesday of next week.

TIP GIVEN BY GOVERNOR

Kansas City, April 8 (AP)—Governor Lloyd Stark personally gave President Roosevelt the tip that led to indictment of T. J. Pendergast, Kansas City Democratic party boss, charges of evading United States Federal income taxes on $315,000, the Kansas City Star said today.

Pendergast and R. E. O'Malley, former State insurance superintendent dismissed by Stark, were indicted yesterday by a Federal grand jury.

OBITUARY

ROBERT WEIR
(Madoc)

Madoc, April 8 (Special)— Robert Weir, an aged and respected resident of Madoc, died at the home of his nephew, Thomas Moore of Springbrook on Friday after a lengthy illness. The late Mr. Weir was born at Hazzard's Corners 83 years ago being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Weir, who migrated from Ireland. Taking up farming he lived at Hazzard's Corners for many years retiring twenty years ago to take up his residence in Madoc. He was a member of Trinity United Church and fraternally was identified with Madoc Lodge, No. 179, I.O.O.F. for 59 years being the oldest Oddfellow in that district. He leaves no immediate relatives excepting a sister-in-law, Mrs. Thomas Bailey of Huntingdon Township and a number of nephews and nieces. The funeral will be held on Sunday from Trinity United Church under Oddfellow direction.

GEORGE F. BRICKMAN

George F. Brickman, who died suddenly at the residence of his son, Mr. Orrell Brickman, 172 Jarvis Street, Toronto, on Thursday, April 6th., was well known in this district and highly esteemed. For years he was engaged in the flour and feed business here, being the senior member of the firm of George F. Brickman & Son, with store and warehouse on McAnnany Street. For some time past he had not taken an active part in the business, and went to Toronto some months ago to spend the winter. He had been seriously ill with the 'flu and passed away in his sleep.

The late George F. Brickman, who was in his 72nd year, was born at Rosmore, Prince Edward County, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Francis Brickman. For a time he resided in Belleville, but mostly he had made his home in Rossmore. In religion he was a member of the United Church and fraternally he was a member of the I.O.O.F at Rednersville.

Surviving him are one daughter, Mrs. Earl Harrow, Toronto; two sons, ex-Ald. Clinton Brickman, Belleville, and Mr. Orrell Brickman, Toronto.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

LATE FRED W. SMYTHE

The funeral of Fred W. Smythe took place from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell street, Thursday afternoon, April 6, and many old friends were present. The service in the chapel and at the graveside in Belleville Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. I. E. Kennedy, pastor of the United Church at Madoc.

The bearers were Messrs. P. Naylor, R. Moncrieff, H. LaPalm, George Forhan, Kenneth Blaind and Ernest Finkle.

LATE WALTER CHRISTY

The funeral of Walter Christy, late residence Donald street, Belleville, who died at Weston Ont., after an illness of several months' duration, on Tuesday, April 4, took place Friday afternoon, April 7th, from the Martin Funeral Home, Church street. The service in the chapel and at the graveside in the Belleville Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. D. T. McClintock, pastor of the Tabernacle United Church.

The bearers were Messrs. Clayton Harkins, Eugene Harkins, Douglas Whalen, Edward Whalen, George Appleton and Ross Bunnett.

The late Mr. Christie, who was 57 years of age, was employed for some time at the works of the Belleville-Sargent Company, Pinnacle street, and was an efficient workman. By the management and his fellow employees he was well esteemed. In religion he was a member of the United Church and fraternally he was a member of The Belleville Lodge No. 123, A.F. and A.M.

Surviving him are two sons, Eugene Christy and Edward Christy, two daughters, Mrs. R. Crewe and Miss Evelyn Christy.

LATE MRS. ESTHER PRESTON

The funeral of Mrs. Esther (Allen) Preston, widow of Robert Preston, took place from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Weese, 82 North Front Street on Friday afternoon, April 7th., to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at Roslin, where an impressive service was conducted by the Rev. W. J. Walker ,minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville, assisted by the Rev. J. W. McDonald minister of the Presbyterian Church at Roslin. The Rev. F. C. Beazer, Rector of the Anglican Church at Roslin, also took part in the service.

Interment was made in the Presbyterian Cemetery at Roslin.

The bearers were Messrs. Ross Weese, William Johnson, Gordon Johnson, Joseph Raycroft, John Hogle and Robert Holland.

JAMES BOYLE, Sr.

James Boyle, Sr., passed away suddenly at his late residence, 18 Olive Street, early this Saturday morning, April 8th. When he retired last night he was apparently in his usual state of health.

The late Mr. Boyle, had reached an advanced age, being in his 82nd. year. He was born in Belleville and had resided here all his life. During his active years he was well known and highly competent plasterer and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. His parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Boyle. In religion Mr. Boyle was a faithful member of St. Michael's Church.

Surviving him are six daughters, Sister Mary Evarista and Sister Mary Carmella, both of Kingston; Mrs. H. J. Sheridan, Belleville; Mrs. William George, Toronto; Mrs. D. D. Turcotte, Montreal; Miss Patricia Boyle, Belleville; five sons, Mr. Harry Boyle, Belleville; Mr. Lawrence Boyle, Toronto; Mr. James Boyle, Belleville; Mr. John Boyle, Belleville, and Mr. Terence Boyle, Belleville; one brother, Mr. John Boyle, Belleville; twenty-eight grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

LATE MRS. MARY A. CLARK)
(Foxboro)

Friday afternoon, April 7th, the funeral of Mrs. Mary A. Clarke, widow of Samuel James Clarke, took place from her late residence in Foxboro to the United Church in that village where service was conducted by the Rev. E. N. Cooke, the pastor of the church.

Interment was made in Elmwood Cemetery, Corbyville.

The bearers were Messrs. E. Horton; William Jones; Frank Hicks; S. Sherry; N. Davis and Murney Reynolds.

LIGHTS FAIL, CAR GOES INTO DITCH FOUR ARE INJURED

Four people were rushed to the Belleville General Hospital on Thursday night following an automobile accident near Brighton when the car in which they were riding went out of control when its lighting system failed, and hurtled into a ditch striking and damaging a telephone pole.

The injured are Mr. Jack Rosevear, 35 North Front street, Belleville, fracture of bone in a foot, severe cuts and bruises; his wife, Mrs. Rosevear, fractured arm, severe body bruises and lacerations, and Mr. and Mrs. Morley Randall, Toronto, severe bruses and facial cuts.

Mr. and Mrs. Randall were discharged from hospital yesterday afternoon but Mrs. Rosevear will remain for some time. Mr. Rosevear left for his home after treatment but will return to have his broken foot placed in a cast.

Mr. and Mrs. Rosevear were returning with the Randalls from Toronto to this city where the latter were to be their holiday guests.

According to reports from the scene of the accident, the lights of the car suddenly went out, and in the intense darkness that followed the car went out of control and crashed into the ditch. No other cars were involved, it was stated.

Address on Conservation of Wild Life Heard at Tweed

Community Club Hears Interesting Talk Given by J. McCartney, Toronto

TROPHY PRESENTED

Tweed—The Community Club supper held at the Huyck House on Tuesday evening was well attended, attracted by both the fine meals provided by Thos. K. Potts, proprietor of the hotel and the prospect of an equally fine and interesting address by Mr. J. McCartney of the Conservation Branch of the Ontario Department of Game and Fisheries. In both respects it was probably the best meeting of the many excellent meetings of the Club.

A special feature of the meeting was the presence of the members of Tweed hockey team, winners of the Cobley Trophy. The boys were the guests of the hotel.

Following the supper Reeve C. H. Kerr called upon the members to drink the toast to the King. Mr. I. D. Corcoran, President of the Club, occupied the chair during the evening.

A letter was read from Mr. J. O. Herity of Belleville, Secretary of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, anent the proposed Goodwill Tour of the members of C. of C. throughout the villages of the county of Hastings this spring. Several members expressed themselves as deeply appreciative of the interest of the county seat in the well-being of the other centres of the County. It was moved by Dr. W. A. Paul and seconded by W. S. Gordon and passed unanimously that the Community Club make arrangements for the visit of the members of the Belleville organization probably some time during the month of May.

A letter was also read from a resident of Cleveland, Ohio, asking for information regarding accommodations for tourists. Secretary S. R. Curry stated that he had a great many similar letters from the neighboring republic. It was decided to place an advertisement in Ackerman's Tourist Guide.

President Corcoran introduced Mr. F. W. Clarke, new manager of the local branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, succeeding Mr. A. B. Allen.

A motion was passed to place the fee for membership in Tweed Community Club at fifty cents.

Donor of Trophy Introduced

Following a brief session of community singing conducted by Mr. S. H. Connor, the chairman called on Mr. Tom Beatty to introduce Mr. George Cobley of Trenton, donor of the Hockey Trophy. Tom referred to Mr. Cobley as one of Trenton's most public-spirited citizens whose interest in clean sport had led him to donate a trophy for competition in the Trent Valley League. Referring to the local team, he complimented them on their great team play which had brought them the coveted award. A great share of the credit for the team's success, said Mr. Beatty, is due the splendid work of Hughie Wagor, manager and coach of the team who spent long hours whipping the players into a smooth running organization. Most of the players on the present team had learned their first hockey at the High School under the watchful eye of Principal T. E. Moffat.

Mr. George Cobley in presenting the trophy said that he had done so because of the fine spirit which had been displayed by the hockey players of the various towns in the Trent Valley League. This was worthy of some recognition. The public generally does not patronize the teams as they should, forgetting the difficulties with which the players must contend in filling their engagements. Mr. Cobley deplored the tendency on the part of some fans who favor rough play with its resultant ill-feeling between the players.

Expresses Thanks

Joe Courneyea, captain, and Hubert Wagar, manager, received the trophy and expressed the team's appreciation to Mr. Cobley for his very fine gesture in donating the trophy and in motoring to Tweed to make the presentation.

Dr. W. A. Paul, president of the local Fish and Game Club was called on by the chairman to introduce Mr. J. McCartney, guest speaker of the evening. He spoke of the cordial reception given to the committee composed of Reeve C. H. Kerr, A. J. Maynes and himself when they visited Hon. Harry Nixon of the Department. They were assured of all the assistance which the Department could give to the local club in freeing Stoco Lake of "billfish" and certain other undesirable types of fish.

Speaker Introduced

Mr. McCartney, thoroughly familiar with the subject of Conservation from all its angles gave a most excellent address which was both interesting and instructive.

"Conservation of all our resources" said Mr. McCartney, "is most important in our economic and social life. The term applies to every department of industry. Where trees have been cut down steps are being taken officially to reforest to conserve soil moisture to prevent the erosion of our soil and to assure a supply of timber for future generations. The mineral resources of our country are also being wisely used. Similarly the Department of Game and Fisheries is anxious to conserve these resources so that future generations may enjoy the fish and game with which nature has so plentifully endowed our land.

KING KILLED

An enthusiastic driver of high-powered automobiles, King Ghazi, 1, 27-year-old monarch of Iraq, was instantly killed when his car crashed into a telephone pylon near his palace.

Of Economic Importance

"The conservation of our wild life is of great economic importance. The fishing, trapping and tourist industries of our country are major industries with a vast turnover annually. The tourists alone left in Ontario in 1938 the vast sum of $115,000,000, every man, woman and child in the province sharing its benefits. Every effort to conserve our wild life which is a chief attraction to our tourists should be put forth by everyone.

"The Department of Game and Fisheries was organized in 1905 as it was apparent our wild life was being depleted. At that time there were no game preserves. Today there are 116 game sanctuaries having a total area of 9400 square miles. In these areas game is protected and the natural increase makes it possible to populate the areas round about. Sanctuaries in fishing grounds are also provided to permit the restoring of depleted streams and lakes. Two game bird preserves for the raising of pheasants are provided and 20,000 ring-necked pheasants have been released in South Western Ontario to provide hunting for sportsmen.

"The government maintains a large number of fish hatcheries and in the year 1938, 791,816,367 fingerlings were released into the various lakes, rivers and streams of the province. In the year 1912 a total of 20,000 non-resident fishermen paid the sum of $40,000 for fishing privileges. In the year just closed the amount received in fees for these privileges was $331431.

"The recreational value of our wild life is often lost sight of. It belongs to the people and must be convinced in the best possible way. Of all the sports fishing is one of the best. It takes one into the environment of the great outdoors. it soothes the mind and dispels the worries of business.

Famous Quotation

Mr. McCartney quoted the words of James Oliver Curwood on "fishing."

"The world loves the man who loves to fish. You don't find him in jail. You don't find him in the hospital. You don't find him dying young. He is the man who, without flaunting his religion from the housetops sees God forever in the blue skies, in the forests, in the glimmer of the stars and the rising of the moon—in everything that is a part of his beloved streams and lakes. Fishing is not only a pastime which man has created for himself, it is the greatest character building activity under the sun for human hearts and souls. It is the man who loves to fish who helps to keep the world at its best, who is the greatest fighter for its beauties and its ideals and all because he comes to realize and understand the glorious thrill that intimate contact with nature which one finds when he has a rod in his hand."

In concluding Mr. McCartney urged a deeper interest on the part of citizens in general on the conservation of the wild life—to cooperate with the Department in their efforts to prevent the depletion of our wild life.

Three interesting films were shown depicting the work at the fish hatcheries, lunge fishing in Lake Vermilion and duck-hunting on the St. Lawrence.

A motion was passed instructing the secretary to write to the Department expressing appreciation of the excellent address of Mr. McCartney and of his efforts to conserve wild life in the province.

Musical Festival Is Sponsored By Melrose W. I.

Shannonville—Music lovers were given a rare treat on Wednesday night at Melrose when eight Tyendinaga Township public schools presented a musical festival in the Melrose United Church Hall under the auspices of the Melrose Women's Institute. The spacious seating accommodations of the hall were severely taxed by the vast crowd so much so that a number were forced to stand during the performance.

The crowd came from many distant points and waxed enthusiastic over the performance of the children, their faces fairly beaming with proudness and pleasure, proud mothers and fathers watched their children perform on the stage in a manner that would have done credit to trained vaudeville artists. The children demonstrated by their enthusiasm and adaptability to any scene in which they were placed that these were well trained and keenly interested in music. Miss Bernice Robertson who is the music teacher for all the schools represented, directed all the parts in a splendid manner. Some of choruses in which the children took part, was the first time they had been together as a unit which was a splendid tribute to the musical knowledge of the children.

The Rev. W. D. Craig of Shannonville acted as chairman for the evening's entertainment and he paid glowing tribute to the efforts of Miss Robertson and also complimented the children. He also referred to the Women's Institute to whom he paid a sterling complimtnt and said they were to be commended for acting hosts to the children which he said gave them confidence.

A factor that caught the "eye" of the spectators was the musical band comprising all the schools. The Rev. W. D. Craig offered a prize to anyone that could name all the instruments, comprising the band. However when the crowd saw the instruments they gave up in despair as they were of the homemade type and beyond description. The music as rendered by the children was very brilliant and would have done credit to a trained orchestra. The costumes of the children were also appropriate to the scenes. The dialogue presented by seven little tots of S.S. No. 4 was highly comical and a splendid performance was given by the little children who acted in a manner that would have done credit to much older and trained performers.

Following the program Dr. H. E. Eckhardt, chairman of the Shannonville Board of Trustees and Mr. Arnold Mitchell trustee of S. S. No. 4 complimented Miss Robertson on her splendid achievements to which Miss Robertson in her charming manner gave a very appropriate reply in which she gave full credit to the children and teachers and she also thanked the parents for bringing their children to Melrose for the performance.

Last but far from least was the delightful lunch served by the ladies of the Melroee Women's Institute which was enjoyed by the children and the crowd.

The programme:

Chorus: "O Canada" and "Maple Leaf Forever" in which all schools took part. Duet by Harold Welch and Rosie MacAvoy, "School Days". Chorus, 13 girls, "By Lowlands". Guitar solo, Garnet Mitchell. Chorus "Three Little Piggies", S. S. No. 4 "Eskimo Song" by the juniors. Song "Umbrella Man". Audrey Demille and Marion English. Chorus, "Patty's Garden", senior girls of Shannonville. Rhythm Band, junior pupils all instruments homemade. Son, "Dutch Kindergarden" Fern Snider. Song "My Wild Irish Rose" seventh line boys. "Santa Lucia". Scotch folk song. Dialogue, "The Murphy Children Attend a Party", S. S. No. 4. "Cowboy Song", Teddy Mills and George Marion. Piano solo, Duncan Martin. Chorus, ten pretty girls P. S. and were they pretty. Song, "I don't want to play in your garden". Noia Dent and June Terry. "Kiltie's Song" by the junior children. Song, "Little man you've had a busy day", Mona Whalen and Norma Clare. Piano solo, Audrey Demille. Song, "Four in a family", two little girls. The program closed with a pantomine which was very pretty and was acted to the song of "The Old Rugged Cross."

The schools represented at the festival and teachers were: Shannonville, Mr. John Coukell and Miss Louise Stillson; Melrose, Mr. Young; S. S. No. 4, Miss Thompson; Fourth Line S. S. 14, Miss Hicks; two fifth line schools, Miss Sweetman and Miss Butler; Seventh line, Mr. Clifford Holmes. Two little children, Merebeth Holgate and Willhemin Waldron represented Cannifton.

Ottawa, April 6 — (CP) — Eric Brown, director of the National Gallery here since 1913, died here today after a week's illness. A leader in encouragement of Canadian art, he was largely responsible for the wide development of the Gallery in the years he was associated with it.

EASTER

The great festival of Easter is at hand. It has been observed since the earliest days of the Christian Church or before the days when the book of Acts was written. There is little doubt that the followers of Jesus observed from the earliest time the anniversary of the day when He rose from the grave. Anyone who has read the Acts even at a glance must be filled with a strange feeling as he realizes how even in those days one of the mose remarkable organizations or institutions was in the process of formation with this membership of living men and women who were contemporaries and some of them personal followers of Christ — namely the church. That was the immediate effect of the full realization of what His life, death and resurrection meant. Never in all history will there again be such an era of inspiration.

It is that day which has personally given the Christian world Sunday as the holy day. every Sunday being a celebration of the day when, according to the Gospel, Christ rose from the tomb.

Though the festival goes by the Teutonic name of the goddess Ostera, who was celebrated early in the spring by the Saxons, the anniversary was set for the old date of Ostera for the purpose of supplanting the old pagan worship and introducing the world religion of Christianity to impress the minds of new converts. Various dates were first followed but in 325 A. D., the Council of the Church decided at Nicaea that Easter should be celebrated on the first Sunday after the fourteenth day of the moon that occurred next after the spring equinox, and if the fourteenth day of the moon fell on the spring equinox the following Sunday should be Easter.

The joyousness of Easter apart from its message of eternity and immortality was expressed in old days by fires by which was foretold the nature of the coming harvests; prayers were said for the people for escape from illness and danger. Games also marked the time, dramatic presentations, dance and song, and special cakes which were the origin of the "hot cross buns."

In this age Easter is the theme of special services of glorious music, with flowers and with inspired messages. It is marked by recess from school and banks observe Easter Monday.

As springtime opens the way to growth, and life, Easter marks the end of the Lenten period of worship, it is an outburst of joy in the assurance of immortality.

ITALY STRIKES AT ALBANIA

Italy's action in ordering her warships to bombard seaports of Albania and her troops to move inland against the heroic tribesmen, who were reported to have checked the invaders with heavy losses to the Italians, was not unexpected in the light of the rapid developments which have followed Germany's breach of the pact of Munich by the seizure of Czecho-Slovakia. Whether this is the spark which may once again light up the Balkan nations in what may prove to be another world war remains to be seen. At the moment observers see in it the effort of the totalitarian states to halt the development of the anti-Hitler bloc which Britain and France have in hand, the move being made to hold back the nations of that part of Europe from joining the bloc. Or is it more than a gesture as some fear—the decision which opens up the long-feared German-Italian drive at conquest by war? Germany's backing of Italian action is looked upon as sinister; democracies were warned not to interfere.

The news of the assault on Albania by Italy on Good Friday, the one day in the year when such might least be expected has shocked the world. It was ill-timed from the standpoint of settlement to settle the dispute with Albania in this way.

The Albanians who have put up a brave resistance number only one million people, whose country is supposed to be a protege of Italy, against the forty million Italians. The plight of Queen Geraldine whose son was born but two or three days before was one of the most tragic. She was advised by the King to flee and has found refuge in Greece with her baby. Her heroic King yesterday led his countrymen against Mussolini's forces.

What this event will mean to the rest of the world has to be unfolded.

EMPIRES, POPULATIONS AND TERRITORIES

Officially it is stated that Russia has a population of 170,126,000. This places the Soviet well up in the lead of nations and empires. Germany now has an empire of over 80,000,000, the largest single state in Europe, but Europe constitutes her all. Britain, not one of the largest states in Europe, has an empire which leads all the world with China second.

British Dominions are placed in so many parts of the world that their importance far outweighs their mere numbers of population and areas. Russia is a wide and deep range of races stretched across one and a half continents. China is a mass of population. But in the British Commonwealth are Australia and New Zealand in the lovely setting of the southern breezes. South Africa is in the south between two oceans, India on the south of Asia, the African Dominions stretching up from the Cape to the Mediterranean, and Canada between two oceans, a whole half continent in itself and many other possessions.

Speaking of territories and peoples, one has but to realize that Canada, United States, Britain, the small Scandinavian kingdoms, Finland, Iceland, Greenland and Russia own the whole of the northern part of the earth, that these are all that border on the Arctic Ocean. Most of the southern points of the earth are British.

British Empire-makers were wise and far-seeing beyond their realization and to them not only Britain herself but the people who populate her Dominions owe the greatest gift that any empire has ever passed on to her people. Civilization owes much to them. They also laid a true foundation in New England which has ultimately become the United States, one of the greatest of democracies and occupying one of the finest territories on the face of the globe. With Canada and the United States a whole continent is in the hands of members of the English-speaking race.

It is no wonder that vast empires such as Britain's scattered across the seven seas, are broad in spirit. Without it they could not live.

EASTER

"Because I live, ye shall live also."

Life, life renewed we see in all about us,
The grass grows green, the maple buds show red,
Hepaticas are blooming in the wild wood,
The world of nature is no longer dead.

And down across the years we catch the message,
The words of that far distant Easter Day,
"He is not here, the Lord indeed is risen.
Come, see the place where Christ the Saviour lay."

O weary heart, we, too, may catch the message,
The word that Death no longer holds a sting,
For lo' He burst the bonds of Death forever,
And lives for aye, our risen Lord and King.

"Because I live," He said, "ye shall live also."
O blessed words to soothe life's pain and strife.
We need not fear to pass Death's dreaded portal;
Risen with Him, we'll enter into life.

TONY GALENTO, CHALLENGER FOR THE PUGILISTIC CROWN OF JOE LOUIS, has just finished a brief and inglorious stage career, lasting about one week. Galento trains on beer and pretzels and as a prize fighter has knocked out a few bar flies who took recumbent positions for the count of ten without apparent effort and finished fine and fresh in that position without even a discolored optic. What the boxing solons are trying to pull off in the Louis-Galento brawl is hard to imagine. Perhaps they think the public will stand for anything. For their sakes Galento had better make good.

SOMEWHERE AT SEA, ABOVE OR BELOW, IS RICHARD HALIBURTON, the lad whose itching feet have led him several times around the world, across the Alps on an Elephant, a la Hannibal; across the Hellespont as a swimmer, aping a famous historical character; through the Panama Canal, dodging alligators; diving into the ancient sacrificial death wells of the Aztecs, and other sensational stunts which made good reading matter for adventure lovers. Richard Haliburton is missing, has been missing for six weeks, with his crew of Orientals and Englishmen on a Chinese junk which left China for San Francisco and the Golden Gate World's Fair. Six weeks ago his radio faded out and hasn't been heard since. A general alarm has been sent out to all naval vessels and ships in the Pacific to keep an eye out for Richard and his crew and junk. His last radio message gave his position as 31 degrees north latitude, and 155 east longitude, about 1,500 miles west of Midway Island. Crews of the clipper ships of the Pan American Airways en route from San Francisco to the Orient have been instructed to keep a lookout for the junk in case it might have drifted out of control after having been caught in a typhoon.

Mrs. John Neate and her nephew, Mr. George Watkin, returned home today after an enjoyable trip to England where they visited relatives.

Mr. A. Drummond, who has been in charge of the Marchmont Home here for some time has left to spend some time in the Old Country.

Mrs. J. Hitchon, Forin Street, and Mrs. H. J. Sharpe, Hillside Street, left this morning to attend the Provincial meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church which meets in Guelph.

A new freight shed will be erected here shortly for the C. P. R.

30 YEARS AGO

April 8th., 1909.

The damage done in this section of the country by the terrific wind storm which prevailed yesterday will amount to thousands of dollars. It is impossible as yet to ascertain the loss or the full details of the havoc wrought. In Thurlow Township seven barns were unroofed and other barns were shifted from off foundations. In many places rail fences were blown about fields and trees were levelled. At Foxboro the roof on the Holgate evaporator was taken off and carried some distance. Trees fallen across roads blocked traffic. In this city considerable damage was done and it is miraculous that no person was injured. In the western part of the city many fences were levelled and shade trees badly damaged, and about forty feet of the sidewalk on Holloway Street, west of the church, was carried out into the road. In the eastern part of the city fences were blown down and trees damaged. A fierce storm raged on the bay and huge waves washed over the docks for a considerable distance. The schooner Suffel drifted from her moorings near the Grand Junction Dock and was secured with much difficulty. The schooner D. Freeman broke away from Allen's dock and drifted out into the mouth of the harbour. At present she is resting upon one of the piers formerly used for the fastening of the booms. Some slight damage was done to the schooner Dundee and the steamer Salsberry.

Mr. Walter Power, whose politeness made him a general favorite as purser on the steamer Quinte last summer, has been promoted to the office of the Gas and Chemical Works of the Rathbun Company at Deseronto, and we congratulate him on this deserved recognition of his services to the company and the public. He will be succeeded as purser on the Quinte by Mr. Philip Hambly, who has been for some years with Messrs. L. W. Yeomans and Co., druggists of this city, and as he also possesses pleasing manners and an obliging disposition, we doubt not but that he will be as successful in winning the approbation of the public as was his predecessor.

Dr. T. Purvis spent yesterday in Brockville.

Thoughts of a Little Rebel

As a small boy, I disliked having a new personality forced on me on Sunday with a respectable suit such as I should never have worn a week-day. I loathed the Sunday gloves; I loathed my first bowler. As a result of wearing them I usually arrived in church in a mood of the sourest Calvinism. Ties were the only article of dress that ever gave me much pleasure . They fascinated me in the haberdsher's shop at which we had an account, and for a time I bought them recklessly. I had a competition with another small boy in the same class at school as to which of us could appear wearing a different tie every day for the longer period. It was a kind of timeless test, and ran on, I think, into the third week. That was the only occasion, so far as I remember, when I lived for a time in the spirit of the company director. Yet there have been other lesser raptures—the rapture of the first pair of brown boots, or rather of magnificent yellow boots, made of Russian leather; the rapture of the first pipe-clayed Plimsolls beside the sea; the rapture of the first yellow-and-black football jersey; the rapture of the corduroy cap, crowning me with the personality of a working man. If I had been rich, I might have had more of these. I might have had as many pairs of shoes as the company director or even as the company director's wife. I might have had pyjamas and lounge suits galore, and have worn a different pair of cuff-links on every day of the year. As it is, I hate ever buying a new hat, and my present hat is as shabby as a millionaire's. A man must have some vices, but mine do not run to dress. I sometimes wish they did.—Y. Y. in New Statesman and Nation (London).

The Magna Charta Goes West

In a short time one of the most valuable and historic documents in the world is to cross the Atlantic for exhibition at the New York World's Fair. It is to be fixed in a newly designed copper frame and protected by bullet-proof glass. Extraordinary precautions are being taken to ensure its safety during and after transit. Even the name of the ship it is being sent in is being kept secret. It is the Magna Charta.

There are four copies of the Great Charter, the document which established the legal rights of the people of England 724 years ago, and the one which is going to New York is the clearest. It is the property of the Diocese of Lincoln. Upon this document was founded the Common Law of England, the British Empire and of the United States. The people of England were in revolt because there was no system of law and order, and they suffered many hardships and injustices. The barons compelled King John to admit that the Crown owed a duty to the people. Laws were inscribed in Latin on sheepskin, and at Runneymede, near Windsor Castle, the document was read to King John by the only man present who could read—Stephen Langton, Archbishop of Canterbury, who had drawn it up. The King himself could not read or write. He could not sign his name to it, so he affixed his seal on wax. After that the Charter was taken away and monks and clerks made copies for every important centre. Few were taken care of. The one preserved at Lincoln is believed to be the original. The King put his seal on each one of them. Of the three others in existence, one is illegible owing to fire, another in the British Museum lacks the seal, and the other was partially destroyed by a tailor who was cutting up old vellum.

The Pilgrim Fathers carried enough of the Magna Charta in their heads to inspire the clauses of the American Constitution. Among all the exhibits at the Fair this document should command reverence from American beholders. — St. Thomas Times-Journal.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Treatment of Sinus Infection by Increasing Body Resistance

When a head cold persists for a long time and the watery discharge turns to mucous, it is usually regarded as sinus infection. The first thought in treatment is the application of drugs that will 'shrink' the lining of the nose and allow more air to enter and ventilate the sinuses. Sometimes surgery is required before a good passage through nose and throat to lungs is obtained. That these persistent head colds—sinusitis—may be due to some general defect or infection of the body is now the belief of our nose and throat specialists.

Drs. George M. Coates and William Gordon, in the Philadelphia Number of Medical Clinics of North America, state:

In view of the fact that many cases of sinus disease are caused and kept in an active condition by some defect in one or more systems of the body, it is important that a thorough general physical examination be made including blood studies, tests for syphilis, tuberculosis, the percentage of sugar the blood contains, anaemia, the working of the heart and kidneys, the blood pressure, the gland system, and tests of the working ability of the liver, kidneys and heart.

"Every method should be used to raise the resisting powers of the sinus itself and of the whole body." These methods include diet, rest, clothing, exercise, and other health habits. The diet should include fresh vegetables and greens, cod liver oil or its equivalent, milk, cream, butter, fruits.

Exercise, attention to posture (standing and sitting tall), breathing exercises, as well as massage, hot and cold baths, and sun lamp treatments all help to raise the general resistance of the body. The increased circulation of richer and purer blood will strengthen the resistance to infection of the lining of the walls of the sinus.

Sufficient sleep, regular periods rest and relaxation, will greatly aid the various working processes of the body and restore some of the lost reserve power.

Proper clothing and avoidance of chills and drafts prevent further lowering of the resistance of the body. Mental hygiene, by cultivating poise and calmness, promotes vigor and prevents mental and physical depression."

It will come as a surprise to many who think the treatment of sinus infection consists of the use of substances to shrink the lining tissues or of surgical operation, to know that the building up of the general resistance of the body is such an important factor in successful treatment.

Capital Close-ups of Week

By Ross Munro

Ottawa, April 8—(CP)—From the tangled foreign affairs controversy in Parliament, a significant proposal emerges—that a North Atlantic military alliance be formed between Great Britain, United States and Canada which also would have influence on the Pacific.

Supplementing Empire understandings, the Pro-American sentiment which has threaded through several speeches is a new departure in foreign policy. There is growing support in many sections of the Commons for the suggestion that London, Washington and Ottawa formally join in an agreement regarding defence.

Howard Green, Conservative member for Vancouver south who has made a keen study of Pacific defence problems, originally advanced the military-alliance proposal. He feels the need is most urgent on the west coast and that Japan is a definite threat to North American solidarity.

He advocates specific agreements on coastal and air defence and the Alaskan highway from a military point of view.

While the government is not committing itself regarding the Green proposal, it is generally assumed that the U. S. War Department here are co-operating privately.

Justice Minister Lapointe says that "one of the keystones of our policy must be the maintenance of friendship with the United States".

In the Conservative ranks here, W. K. Esling of Kootenay West and H. J. Barber of Fraser Valley view Green's triple-alliance with considerable favor. Hon. Grote Stirling of Yale, a former National Defence Minister, doubts the value of any agreement with the U. S. until Canada has built up some of its own defences.

In Corridor and Lobby

One of the Prime Minister's secretaries bears a striking resemblance to Hitler. Add a black toothbrush moustache and you think it was the Nazi leader, complete with lock of hair over the brow. This secretary takes a kidding from other men in the Prime Minister's office and by co-incidence was assigned to duty in the Common's gallery during the International Affairs Debate . . . .

The real reason Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett is delaying moving into his Surrey, England, home in that he insists a central heating system be installed before he takes over. He does not want to "rough it" now after living for years in well-heated Canadian hotels . . . .

You almost need a compass to navigate the vast centre block with its long corridors and rows of members' rooms lacking systematic numbering . . . even the Prime Minister had trouble. Going to see Senator George P. Graham, one of the Liberals' elder statesmen, in his Senate office, Mr. Mackenzie King was overheard asking an elevator man "just where is Mr. Graham's room anyway." . . . . . C. B. Howard (Lib. Sherbrooke) has been roaming these halls since he was first elected in 1925 but this week he was seen fumbling with a bunch of keys at a fifth-floor door and mumbling heatedly that "this room of mine is mighty hard to get open." A pert stenographer passes and remarks: "But Mr. Howard your room is on the fourth floor." He flushed as red as the rose in his lapel . . .

A. G. McAvity (Lib. Saint John-Albert) is confident the government will take precautions for the defence of Saint John. "As a major exporting nation we must protect our ports," he says. National Defence Department authorities have given assurance Saint John will be looked after with batteries of anti-aircraft guns and heavy artillery included in the plan . . .

Sessional Sidelights

Prize quip of the week: "There are three languages in the House, —English, French and Tommy Church." The Conservative member for Toronto-Broadview speaks so rapidly that he can scarcely be understood from the gallery . . .

Apart from Mr. Church, most difficult members in the Commons for the Hansard reporters are Defence Minister Mackenzie with his Scottish burr, A. W. Neill (Ind. Comox-Alberni) who speaks softly, and Grant MacNeil (CCF Vancouver North) who has a peculiar inflection . . . fastest speakers are Joseph Bradette (Lib, Cochrane) and Conservative leader Manion while Justice Minister Lapointe, who could not speak English when he first came to Parliament 35 years ago, is the easiest to report and one of the most meticulous users of the English language . . .

Mr. McGreer, the Vancouver Irishman, makes sure no one takes his brief case in error. On the brief case in silver letters an inch high is written: "G. G. McGreer, K. C., M. P., Vancouver, B. C. . ." Over the fireplace in the press gallery lounge these words from Byron's Don Juan are carved in stone: "But words are things, and a small drop of ink, falling like dew upon a thought, produces that which makes thousands, perhaps millions, thin . . ."

Lumberman Rescued From Perilous Position

Truro, N. S., April 8—(CP)—Ralph Best, Truro lumberman, was back home today showing few ill effects from two and one-half days imprisonment at the bottom of a pile of pulpwood logs with the full pressure of a dreaded log jam behind them and a freshet-swollen river beneath.

Best said he was working on the Trafalgar River near New Glasgow, N. S., when a log jam threatened a boom he and his mates had erected. He went out to clear the jam and as he walked over the floating logs the jam broke, piling the timber up in a number of conical heaps.

Best fell into a hole in a pile of logs and a sudden movement of the wood crowded more timbers over the top. The bottom of the hole in which he fell had only one layer of logs floating on the river, while the sides and top were jammed so tightly he could not move them.

For two and a half days, Best told newspapermen, his co-workers sawed and tugged at the logs until they finally freed him.

Retail Merchants' Committee Presents Claims to Commission For Closing Hydro Retail Shop

Deputation of Citizens Representing Members of Railway Brotherhood and C.N.R. Veterans' Association Protest Any Step to Close Shop — Both Delegations Present Arguments at Separate Hearings by Utilities Commission — Merchants Raise Question of Competition With Shops — Board Reserves Decision

Decision was reserved, and further advisement of the matter of whether or not the Hydro shop of the Belleville Public Utilities Commission shall remain open will be undertaken, it was announced following a special meeting of the Commission on Thursday afternoon at which the pleas of two delegations were heard by members.

Again vigorous protest against the continuance of the shop which was declared "in direct competition" was offered by a special committee of the Belleville Retail Merchants' Association composed of chairman of the Grievance Committee J. Edson Logan, secretary Wm. Doyle and Laurie Lewis, who presented the petitions of merchants of Belleville asking that the shop be closed.

Two Distinct Meetings Heard

As determined against any suggestion of the closing of the shop was the stand taken by a deputation of citizens composed of Wm. V. Fairbairn, Thos. H. Crozier; David Harrison, Thos. Rainbird, Alderman Thos. Cushing, ex-alderman Thos. Marshall; E. Bell and S. L. Cherry. Some members of this deputation were members of the local Order of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, others representatives of the C.N.R. Veterans' Association.

Two distinct hours of meeting had been arranged by the Commission members, and both were heard separately.

In presenting the case on behalf of the merchants of Belleville, Mr. Logan had asked that the Commission close the shop due to the strong competition it was affording the merchants, have local electricians share in the business of wiring houses for ranges and other accessories, and arrange for merchants to take part in a 'range campaign' in Belleville which was expected to be launched soon under provincial auspices.

"We believe," Mr. Logan quoted from the letter of petition which was presented on behalf of the merchants "that the merchants are being discriminated unfairly against."

No Question of Unfairness

"Let us get this matter straight" requested M. P. Duff, Commissioner, and chairman of the meeting. "We are just being competitive.... there is no question of our being unfair?"

Wm. Doyle—"That is all. Just the competition."

"Which was in business first, this Hydro or some of these merchants that have been complaining. Did the previous companies serving the city with power and light also retail?" asked Mayor Bone.

It was revealed by Mr. O. H. Scott, manager, that the Seymour Power Corporation and the Trenton Electric Water and Power Company, forerunners of the present Utilities, had been in the business.

"Then many of our merchants have entered the business even when the local Hydro was offering the same service and sales," pointed out Mr. Duff.

"It is felt, outlined Mr. Logan, "that the local Hydro shop has more prestige, offers customers handier facilities for dealing here than the ordinary retail shop in Belleville can. The merchants believe they have a much stiffer competition to meet in the case of the Hydro shop than they would if it was a private business."

All Stores Carrying Same Lines

Mayor Bone: "Do the other stores in Belleville carry the same lines as the Hydro Shop "

Mr. Doyle: "Several of them. They carry the same lines, except in the case of fixtures, and their stock would perhaps not be so complete. But they all handle the major appliances.

Commissioner Clifford Baragar pointed out that the Hydro shop undeniably had advantages not possessed by the ordinary merchant of Belleville.

"It is in a better position than an independent dealer, financially and otherwise. It has been harder for the merchants to approach the stage this shop is in in the manner of retailing. It has complete stocks and is able to give the customer just what he wants when he comes in here. The ordinary merchant finds it hard to compete," he added.

Competition Always Present

Again it was pointed out by chairman Duff that merchants of Belleville had entered the business even in spite of the fact the local shop was even then offering competition.

Laurie Lewis declared that he supported the views of Belleville's merchants "because, as president of the Ontario branch of the Canadian Retail Merchants' Association this organization believes that every field should remain in its own classification. A public body such as this Utilities is perhaps unconsciously protected, cloistered, shielded. And merchants of the city believe that Hydro shops should not continue to distribute these commodities.

"I believe that this institution was created to make power available at the lowest possible cost. There is greater and greater competition these days of higher pressure with every man turning to whatever job he can do. The smaller merchant where the Hydro shop is concerned feels he is working under a disadvantage. They feel that the Hydro shop here is better situated than they can ever hope to be; they feel that in the collection of payments alone this shop can hold the threat of 'pay or be shut off."

Service Never Shut Off

Immediate exception was taken to the last few words of Mr. Lewis by Chairman Duff.

"We don't do that....shut them off. We have never done it, nor have we the authority to do it. We can shut no one off who does not pay his bills for something sold by the shop," declared Mr. Duff. Corroboration was given by Mr. Scott.

"There should be good fellowship between the merchants of Belleville and this Hydro Commission and the citizens of Belleville. There should not be the feeling on the part of the merchants that there is any competitive struggle going on," declared Mr. Lewis.

"We, as elected Commissioners of Belleville," outlined Mr. Duff "were put in this office to serve the taxpayers of Belleville and the people of Belleville in the best manner. We've got to consider all this; we've got to take in the ordinary citizen's view point, too."

Commissioner Baragar: "There is just one matter I would like cleared up. When this Hydro shop sells something is this payment put on the customer's bill?"

"They often ask to have it put on the bill," explained Mr. Scott.

"Do you not feel that this is an unfair advantage that the shop has over the smaller merchant?" pressed Mr. Baragar.

Payments Same as Elsewhere

"The payments made this way are made the same as they would be in any other shop," pointed out Mr. Duff. "Any other shop has the privilege of having the same system."

"Well, a lot of people of Belleville don't understand this thing clearly," said Mr. Baragar.

"When a stove is purchased here, do service men of the commission do the wiring of the house for it?" asked Mayor Bone.

It was explained by Mr. Scott that if the installing was of simple nature, then the men who delivered the stove from the shop generally connected it up. If it became necessary to have the house wired, an outside contractor was brought in.

There were some four thousand consumers being served by the local Commission, it was pointed out by Mr. Scott.

"The only fair way to have this matter settled once and for all would be to let the voters of Belleville decide by taking a vote on whether the shop shall remain open or be closed," declared Wm. Doyle. "This thing has been argued pro and con, and it seems to be getting nowhere."

Matter to go to Council

As a member of the Commission and of city council, too, Mayor Bone declared that before he could concientiously vote on the matter of whether the shop should close or remain open, he would have to have the matter brought before city council. "Council has not yet been officially advised of this matter," he pointed out.

Mayor Bone continued: "I believe Belleville has become the outstanding example of the country in the matter of its service to the public by its Utilities Commission. It is now recognized that we here have the cheapest rates in the continent. It is known, too, that no office of the complete system is more efficiently and more economically run than the Belleville office."

"But what does the local Hydro shop do that the merchant cannot do, or is not prepared to do?" asked Wm. Doyle.

It was pointed out by Chairman Duff that the sale of appliances by the Hydro shop has in turn boosted the consumption of power, which every Commission at all time attempted to do. We have done a more aggressive business than a lot of the dealers. It appears to me that many of the dealers carry their stocks of accessories and equipment only as a sideline. A sort of a part time job for them," he submitted.

Can't Dress up Like Hydro

Mr. Doyle argued that Belleville's merchants were unable to put in a new and costly front for their shops such as the Hydro shop has done.

"We have not been able to dress up our stores as it is done here.."

"If I did not believe that the merchants of the city could not do the same things as the Hydro shop has done, and get the same results as it has been getting, then I would not be arguing as I am," interrupted Mr. Duff.

"But," countered Mr. Doyle, "We can't give the same terms to our customers as this Commission can. We can't carry the amount of bread and butter stock this store is able to. We can't have as many lines. In major accessory lines, perhaps we are as well equipped, or will be better equipped. You have a better shop here. You have more money to work with. This shop can exhibit at all the fairs and shows, and I believe the money is put up without question. We feel, we merchants, as citizens, we have been contributing to all this in order to provide more competition for ourselves."

Unconscious Appeal is There

"Do the merchants ever consider they have been given more business through the sales of this shop?" asked Mr. Duff.

"I believe that can be applied both ways," answered Mr. Doyle. "I believe that it does not however in some ways because many of the appliances are marked 'Hydro Approved' and this perhaps unconsciously gives the customer the idea that if would be better to purchase what he needs directly from the Hydro Commission."

There was a psychological sales angle from this very thing, it was agreed by Laurie Lewis who pointed out that many people perferred unconsciously to buy from the boss. "This boss may be the poorest salesman of the whole business, yet he can go out and invariably oversell his best salesman just because many like to buy from the big fellow."

In the matter of the servicing of homes in the city, it was explained previous to the adjournment of the delegation from the Merchants' Association that any wiring which was to be done, the householder had the privilege of naming the contractor. "The customer can have it done this way, or have the Commission do it," pointed out Mr. Scott.

Advised that the matter would be given full consideration, the delegation then left with the promise by the Commissioners that in the event of another meeting being needed, the Merchants' Association be advised by the Commission.

Second Delegation Heard

Almost immediately upon the retirement of the Merchants' delegation, the arrival of the special delegation of citizens whose names are given in the third paragraph of this article was announced. Little time was lost in formality once seated.

Mr. W. V. Fairbairn, spokesman for the deputation, pointed out that he and his fellow visitors represented not only over one hundred members of the associated organizations of the Canadian National, but also "hundreds of citizens who are anxious not to have the Hydro shop closed." "We come as citizens of Belleville, as ratepayers, not as employees of the railroad," he was careful to impress.

"We believe," continued Mr. Fairbairn "that this store is an asset to Belleville. We are of the opinion that it should not be closed, and the revenue now gained be taken out of the city and sent away."

"It has been claimed by the merchants of Belleville that we are maintaining unfair competition — that we are more or less a government commission, and that as such we are protected and favored," summarized Mayor Bone for the information of the deputation. "It has been claimed that if the store is closed, this business will go to the chain store."

"We of this deputation are hampered by not knowing just what the merchants of Belleville are driving at," stated Mr. Fairbarin.

Statistics Had Been Given

It was brought out that some weeks ago, Mr. Duff, as a citizen and taxpayer, and not in his capacity as Commissioner, had been invited to attend a meeting of the engineers and trades representatives and explain with the aid of government statistics just where Belleville's Utilities stood in comparison with other cities of the Province.

This was attacked by Commissioner Baragar.

"Did you fellows then bother to have any representative of the Merchants' Association attend and explain their side of the story?" asked Mr. Baragar.

"We did not and we did not think it necessary," stated Mr. Fairbairn. "All we were anxious to have was the truth about the local situation".

Mr. Fairbairn continued: "It seems to me the merchants made no fuss when other merchants came in from outside and set up shop. We understand also that this money cleared by the store will be a direct loss if the store is forced to close, and then will be sent out of Belleville. We believe and are convinced that the closing of this store, Belleville's own store, will be a restraint on trade, and that its closing will mean the setting up of a monopoly in Belleville. What argument was put up when the city was asked to buy the Commission?"

Why Utilities Was Formed

"The supply of power at cheaper cost" explained Commissioner Baragar.

Again Mr. Baragar asked if the members of the engineers and veterans had heard representatives of the Merchants. Again he was told 'no' by Mr. Fairbairn.

"Then you come here equipped only with such information that has been given you in favor of the Commission. I suggest that this body should have heard the merchants' side before coming here," declared Mr. Baragar.

"We represent only the taxpayers and the citizens of this city. We want only to have some return for the money that is being put in this Commission," declared ex-Alderman Marshall. "Close this shop and seventy-five per cent of the money being spent in Belleville will go out of the city."

In the matter of profits being returned to the city from the Hydro shop, it was pointed out by Mayor Bone that the same profits could be gained if the Commission went into the business of selling wood or coal or beef. Mayor Bone was politely informed by ex-Alderman Marshall that he was "off the track, and to stick to facts."

Names of fifteen merchants had been signed to the petition presented the Commission by Mr. Logan on behalf of the Merchants' Association, it was disclosed through questioning.

Merchants' Case in Writing

"But the merchants have had their case against the shop in writing. What arguments have you fellows got against keeping the store open?" asked Commissioner Baragar. Mr. Baragar further charged that "the deputation was expressing the opinions of Mr. Duff."

"That's not right, and it does not become you to say that," snapped Mr. Duff. "I attended that meeting and gave the facts from the government statistics as a citizen and a friend of the men I met there. I went there on invitation.

"As an appointed member of the this Commission, I am here to try and carry on the affairs of this Commission in the best interests of the people of Belleville, the majority of the people of Belleville, and you should be, too, Mr. Baragar."

Mayor Bone soothed the meeting with the observation that all Commissioners and Mr. Scott were doing "a wonderful job, and one that has earned the compliments of officials of the Provincial body. Belleville has become the show place of the Ontario Commission," he pointed out.

Citizens Voted Purchase

Mr. Fairbairn took up the argument: "The citizens of Belleville voted to buy this shop and keep it open. No complaints were registered then when it started, and we believe that even now the feelings of hundreds of citizens should be a heavier expression for keeping the store open than the signed names of fifteen merchants. Are we of Belleville to be told how to live and how to carry on by fifteen merchants. Are we to be dictated to by them?"

"The Merchants of Belleville are supporting a lot more than themselves in this city," submitted Mr. Baragar. "They are heavy taxpayers in this city. As Mr. Duff has said, we are elected here to give this business all our effort on behalf not only of the railwaymen and the merchants ,but of the citizens, too."

"The merchants are trying to run this city," offered David Harrison.

"A canvass of Belleville would show that eight tenths of the citizens are talking as we are talking now. It's customary for us to go where we can get the best service and the best goods when we want to deal, commensurate with the cheapest prices. The Hydro shop should not afford too much competition if the other merchants of the city want to go after the business they say they are not getting. When I bought a major accessory lately, I did not come to the Hydro shop for it, but I do get good service from the Utilities Commission and I am grateful for this service and the very low rates they are able to give me," stated Mr. Crozier.

At this point adjournment was made with the promise by the Commission that every consideration would be given both sides of the question and that it would again be brought up at a meeting.

Picton

Picton, April 8—Prince Edward Lodge, No. 18, A.F. & A.M., G.R.C., last night welcomed R. W. Bro. Clem H. Ketcheson, D.D.G.M., of Prince Edward district, on the occasion of his visit here. After the meeting in the lodge room, there was a reception at the Parish hall where the ladies of the Anglican Church served a bountiful repast. Bro. Elmer Collier, Worshipful Master of Prince Edward Lodge, was toast master. Following the toast to the King and to the Craft, Bro. Gerald Allison proposed the toast to the Grand Lodge of Canada in the Province of Ontario, which was responded to by Mr. Ketcheson. The toast to the visitors was proposed by Bro. Carson Hubbs and replied to by several visitors. Musical numbers were provided by Miss Jean Wood and Davies, orchestra.

As in years past, the Picton band will play in front of all the meat shops in town tonight. These shops have special displays for the occasion, marking the end of the Lenten season.

One day this week, the fishermen at Point Traverse lifted a total of 2500 pounds of whitefish. As prices are doubled or tripled due to the Lenten season and Jewish holidays, the fishermen found their hauls this week especially profitable.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thompson last night, a miscellaneous shower was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Morgan, who were recently married. They received many lovely gifts, and the hostesses served delectable refreshments.

County Clerk Gordon Walmsley, Mrs. Walmsley and sons, and Mrs. Thos. Walmsley are expected home from Florida next Thursday.

Miss Marguerite LaValle leaves for New York on April 12, from which port she will enjoy a cruise to Bermuda.

Mr. Orde Ward of Albert College is a holiday guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Ward.

Mrs. H. U. Tobey leaves Monday for Perrysburg, Ohio, to visit her daughter, Mrs. Hulme Duffill.

Mr. Laverne McLellan of Belleville will be an Easter guest of his mother, Mrs. John McLellan.

ALBANIA GOV'T

Twelve killed and fifty-three wounded in yesterday's disembarkation at Durazzo, where the thrust at the mountain kingdom's capital was launched:

Eight sailors killed and thirty-four wounded in fighting in Durazzo.

One sailor killed and ten wounded at Santi Quaranta, near the Greek border.

The Italian forces were estimated at 25,000 to 50,000 by foreign observers.

Army Numbers 15,000.

The Albanian regular army was said to number 15,000, with enough arms for only half its members.

Italian reports attributed the resistance chiefly to hordes of criminals who, the dispatches said, King Zog had let out of jail. Italian communiques said a large part of the population received the Italians with joy "at being delivered from Zog's rule."

It appeared evident the Italy, which for years supported Zog in order to control Albania—just forty miles across the Adriatic Sea from Italy—was finally finished with the monarch and would listen to no proposal coming from him.

Zog's last proposition was dismissed in official dispatches as a "subterfuge of play for time". It was made to General Guzzoni, head of the invading army and transmitted to Premier Mussolini. It was believed to involve acceptance of an Italian protectorate if Albania were accorded a modicum of independence and permitted to retain a monarchy.

May Annex Albania.

In reliable circles it was believed Italy would annex Albania as an Italian possession under an Italian governor, perhaps permitting the Albanians a national assembly for settling local matters which in no way conflicted with Fascist policy.

Annexation also would strengthen Italy's grip on the mouth of the Adriatic, although she already has control of it, with fortifications on islands off the Albanian coast.

The Fascist press made it clear, however, that the most important aspect of Italy's thrust was that it was an answer of the Rome-Berlin axis to plans of the democracies to "encircle" Germany and Italy to halt their expansion.

First reports of the action against Albania mystified Italians who thought Albania was completely under Italian domination. Jubilation and excitement were virtually absent here.

Independent reports said there were destructive bombardments of Albanian towns by 400 Italian planes and warship guns, under cover of which the troops landed.

Not an Obstacle

An official dispatch reported the destruction of a bridge over the Shijak River between Durazzo and Tirana, but said: "this did not constitute an obstacle for our valorous troops, who continued to advance toward the Albanian capital."

Scant sympathy was expressed in foreign circles here for 43-year-old King Zog, who rose to power through support of Yugoslavia and then jumped into the Italian orbit. One of the numerous attempts at justification put forth for the invasion was that the monarch was pocketing a large part of the money Italy advanced Albania.

Diplomats centred attention on whether Mussolini, once installed in Albania, might make an immediate further thrust. Yugoslavia and Greece border on Albania. Diplomats wondered whether Italy, in his "turn" at Rome-Berlin axis action, would move against the Greek island of Corfu, off the southern tip of Albania and considered of strategic value in control of the mouth of the Adriatic.

Once Forced to Withdraw

(Mussolini bombarded and occupied Corfu in 1924 in a dispute with Greece but was forced to withdraw by diplomatic action of "outside powers.")

The former Albanian prefect of Durazzo, Marco Khodeli, appealed to Albanians in a broadcast not to offer further resistance to Italian troops. He said Italy had been unable to tolerate King Zog's "duplicity and deceit" any longer and had decided to act for the welfare of Albanians.

He described Zog and his family as "vampires preying on a disgraced people" and declared Mussolini was the "real friend of the Albanian people" and would keep his promise to maintain Albania as a united and independent country. Zog was pictured in the Ital-

BALKAN KINGDOMS

Consequently, many Balkan statesmen thought it wiser to make new efforts to appease the Axis powers rather than give offence by joining an anti-aggression combination of unproved value.

All through the Balkans there was great diplomatic and governmental activity.

Grigore Gafencu, Rumanian Foreign Minister, was on his way to Turkey for an emergency conference. The Rumanian press bureau sought to minimize the importance of the journey by calling it an Easter holiday.

May Use Canal

(One purpose of Gafencu's trip might be to sound out Turkey on a pledge to pass British and French warships through the Dardanelles to Rumania's back door in event of trouble.

(It was reported in Paris that Gafencu was expected there about April 26, after a visit to London, to discuss "stop Hitler" plans.)

In Greece, General John Metaxas yesterday conferred with his ministers and with diplomats on Italy's dramatic coup.

Among diplomats received by General Metaxas were the Italian, British, French, Netherlands and Polish ministers.

Regent Prince Paul of Yugoslavia consulted his ministers and officials cancelled Easter holiday plans.

The Yugoslav border with Albania was closed. There was subdued excitement in Belgrade despite official Italian assurances that no action disadvantageous to Yugoslavia was contemplated.

HOLLOWAY ST. W.M.S.

The Women's Missionary Society of Holloway Street Church was held at the home of Mrs. S. P. Hagerman, 117 Bridge Street West on Wednesday afternoon with a good attendance. The President, Mrs. Cordes, opened the meeting with a poem "Thirty-three years". Hymn 112 was sung, followed by prayer in unison. The reports of the various secretary's were then received.

Mrs. Leavens became a life member.

Mrs. Denyes and Group 4 then took charge of the meeting. Following the devotional period Miss MacDonald sang a very appropriate Easter solo.

Mrs. Osborne, secretary of Stewardship and Finance for the Presbyterial, gave a very inspiring and instructive address. She emphasized the advantages that go with sharing and demonstrated that all things are in circles and that what we give returns to us again. She concluded with Psalm 696.

A social half-hour followed the close of the meeting.

Mrs. Hugh Koen, Detroit, is spending Easter with her mother, Mrs. M. O'Rourke, Pinnacle Street.

Weddings

MAIR—GRAHAM

Stately Easter lilies and palms made a charming background for the marriage in St. Andrews Church at three thirty this afternoon of Grace Roblin, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Graham, and Flight-Lieut. R. C. Mair, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Mair of Kelso, Scotland. Rev. W. J. Walker, minister of St. Andrew's Church, officiated assisted by Rev. T. J. Thompson, Ottawa, formerly pastor of John Street Church, Belleville.

The bride who was given in her marriage by her uncle, Dr. W. R. Graham, Guelph, was lovely in her beautiful gown of ivory satin, fashioned in Empire style, with long sleeves, fitted bodice and full skirt ending in a flowing train, caught with satin bows and orange blossoms. Her short tulle veil was fastened to her hair with orange blossoms framing her face in bonnet style. She carried calla lilies.

Mrs. Andon Kazanjian, New York, was matron of honour, and Miss Eleanor Bone was bridesmaid. They were gowned in picturesque Mary Stuart period gowns of taffeta and lace with tulle hats, Mrs. Kazanjian in poudre blue and Miss Bone in dusky pink. Their bouquets were of calla lilies and sweet peas in pastel shades.

Flight-Lieut. Lawrence Wray of Ottawa, was groomsman, and the ushers were Squadron Leader W. Van Vleit, Flight-Lieut. W. Orr, Flight-Lieut. M. N. Hendrick and Flight-Lieut. Robert A. Cameron, all of Trenton.

Wedding music was played by Mr. Leo B. Riggs and Mr. John Deacon was soloist; singing Griez's "Ich Liebe Dich" in splendid voice during the signing of the register.

Officers of the R.C.A.F. formed a guard of honour as the bridal party left the church.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home, Montrose. Mrs. Bone, sister of the bride, wearing black chiffon and lace with corsage of orchids, Mrs. W. R. Graham, Guelph, the bride's aunt, who was gowned in navy blue marquisette, with touches of cyclamen and blue and corsage of gardenias, and Dr. Beveredge Mair, Washington, D.C., brother of the groom, received with the bride and groom. Spring flowers in profusion decorated the reception and living rooms while in the dining room the bride's table was centred with pink roses and lilies. Over two hundred guests were present.

Flight-Lieut. and Mrs. Mair who will reside in Halifax where the groom has been transferred left later on a wedding trip, the bride travelling in a smart ensemble of Napier blue.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

Was He Too Sure of Her?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been going with a girl for a long time and all of a sudden she said she didn't want to see me. I was so positive that no other man could take her away from me. I wasn't working and couldn't afford to take her places, but that didn't seem to matter to her. She never wanted to go to gay places when I asked her, but would suggest a walk, or an evening at home, something which costs nothing. She always told me to save my money and I thought that was a good sign.

I asked her to go to a party a couple of weeks ago, but she refused. I love her more than anything in the world and life without her is incomplete. I am a singer, and have been able to obtain a good job for a time at least. Please tell me how to win her back again. I haven't heard of a rival.

Johnny

Perhaps she had a good reason for refusing to go to the party with you. And it's up to you to find out why she doesn't want to see you. You may be able to straighten out the difficulty. Why don't you tell her you have a job now, and suggest an evening out to celebrate? Take her somewhere she'd enjoy visiting.

From what you tell me about this young lady she's not a gold-digger as you say she never wanted you to spend your money. She sounds good to me.

That Triangle!

Dear Miss Fairfax:

The man I'm in love with, works in the same office with me. He tells me he loves me too. But the trouble is one of the girls in the office. She's forever going to him in the office pretending it's business, which is only a stall. When she goes to his desk she always finds a lot to talk about. It's very evident, because others in the office have noticed how she hangs around his desk. But she denies she cares anything at all about him.

Now, please Miss Fairfax, tell me how to stop her before it is too late. I'd like to trust her, but she seems impossible.

Miss K.

You'll find a two-timer like this young lady in almost every office. They like to go around trying to make trouble whenever they can. You have nothing to fear, if you can trust your young man. But if he's the type easily flattered by girls who hang around him, better be careful Don't let either of them see you are annoyed. Good-humored amusement goes further than showing signs of being hurt.

Too Much Family Gossip?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've known a certain young man for a long time, and we liked each other a lot and finally fell in love. Then his mother became acquainted with mine, and they started visiting back and forth. This seems to have worried him, because now he has stopped coming to see me at all.

Do you think he prefers girls at whose houses his mother doesn't visit? Or is he tiring because I let him see how much I thought of him before our mothers got acquainted?

Maybelle

There's no telling why boys switch from one girl to another or vice versa. Sometimes, as you guessed, it's because a girl shows too plainly how much she cares, and boys like "new worlds to conquer".

Another reason may be that this boy doesn't like to be kidded at home about his girl, and since his mother visits yours he is discussed more or less and his family knows his comings and goings.

But whatever the reason my dear, you'll get him back quicker if you don't let him see how he has hurt you by staying away. Just act as if nothing has happened to mar your friendship. And when he comes again, don't let on that anything has interfered.

Love Unrequitted

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've been in love with a certain young man of 24, for several years, but he isn't even aware of me. I am 22, and have been employed since I was 16. There is no one else in the world for me, but though I see him and he talks to me he has no idea of how I feel toward him.

Would you advise me to wait for him to find out how much I care, or should I accept invitations from other boys? I'm so miserable I just don't known what to do. This young man is of excellent parentage—he doesn't have any bad habits, but just goes along at his job, noticing no one I'll be looking for your answer; please don't forget me.

Miriam

If this young man is one of those patient plodders who never see things even under their noses, you will have to show some interest in him, my dear. A great many men are like that. They seem to pass their lives in a sort of dream, until some of those up-and-at-'em women get hold of them and twist them around their fingers. And in the meantime, they are passing up really fine girls.

In this case it seems to be up to you to take the initiative. Why not invite him over, or ask with a couple of other friends to a Sunday night supper? You have my best wishes.

GOOD MANNERS

Have You Annoying Social Habits?

Let's be grumpy today. Let's scowl "with gathering brows" at some of the things people do which strike us as pretty senseless and which are no end annoying.

Where shall we begin? Perhaps with the aggravating person who prefaces a telephone invitation with "What you are doing Friday evening?" What an unfair advantage he or she is taking of us! Of course if we are so enthusiastic about the person telephoning that anything suggested will be welcome to us, it makes an answer easy. But, on the other hand, if we've had some grim experiences about making engagements with the person calling, we feel we must be on guard. If we answer "Nothing" we may be invited to do something that will be gall to us. If, on the other hand, we cagily say we have an engagement we will be bitterly disappointed a moment after, that we've turned down too soon an attractive invitation.

How much simpler and kinder is the telephoner who quickly gives us a hint of what the invitation is to be.

Do you know that high-minded girl friend who thinks it her duty to be "frank" with you about your clothes or some other personad detail. You are very proud of your new hat have chosen it with great care to perk up your spirits. But your spirits aren't to be perked up long for when you meet the frank Jane she defeats you with "You have a new hat. I like it. But I must say I don't like it as much as I did the one you had last summer. Don't you think it's a bit heavy on the sides? — but perhaps you can have that fixed". The seeds of discontent are sown and away goes your joy about your new hat.

Another joy-killer is the depressing person who tells you that "You look tired". Right away you feel tired . . . of her too. And murder is in your eye when someone says, "You've gained some weight haven't you? I believe it's becoming to you."

Do you like the person who always takes the centre of the stage at a party? The "Life of the party" so often can be the death of the party!

You never do any of these things? Good!

MAY—DYCK

A quiet wedding was solemnized at 2.30 p.m. on Thursday, April 6th 1939, at the Sidney United Church parsonage, when Miss Agatha Dyck youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob P. Dyck, of Laird, Sask., became the bride of Mr. Bernard Reuben May, 3rd of Sidney son of r. and Mrs. Chas. May, Consecon.

The Rev. H. B. Johnson, pastor of Sidney Circuit, officiated in the presence of relatives.

The bride, who was attired in a grey suit, with navy hat and accessories was attended by Miss Vivian May, youngest sister of the groom, and Mr. John Dyck, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

A wedding supper and reception were held at the home of the groom's mother at Consecon.

Mr. and Mrs. May will take up residence at "The Maples", their farm home on the third concession of Sidney.

Friends and relatives join in wishing them a long and happy wedded life.

DR. DAFOE'S COLUMN on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Dangers of Scarlet Fever Not to be Held Too Lightly

Scarlet fever derives its name from the rash which nearly always accompanies and helps to identify it. Coming out about the second day after the child has taken ill, it appears as a fine, red blush, most marked on the patient's trunk.

If you want to assure yourself that what you see is scarlet fever rash, then just pass your hand lightly over the skin. If it is the real thing, the rash will feel soft and velvety, slightly raised over the surrounding skin. Of course, after doing this, the doctor, or anyone else, will carefully sterilize his hands.

In mild cases, this rash may last only a few hours. In severe cases, it won't disappear for days. In any case, when it does, the skin over which the rash appeared will peel off.

The result of this loss of superficial skin is that there is left a fine, white material over the body surface. On parts of the body where the skin is thin, this resembles nothing quite so much as fine lace. On the soles of the feet and the palmes of the hands, where the skin is thick, it comes off in thick layers. When the rash has gone you will find, too, a peculiar black stain in the folds of the elbow and in the armpit.

I have seen children—and adults too—who were quite sick with scarlet fever. The temperature often soars up, and some children are so ill they become delirious, and may have convulsions.

Some times the neck shows a lot of swelling. I have known some patients where this swelling was so severe that it actually interfered with their breathing.

In our discussion we are describing a characteristic case of scarlet fever, one that shows all the marked symptoms, including the tell-tale rash. But in many mild cases these symptoms aren't all present or are so indistinct that they aren't noticed. An experienced doctor can nearly always tell, even if symptoms are not market—that is, if he gets a chance. But too often in such mild cases the doctor isn't called in, and in a few days the patient is up and around, mixing with other children, perhaps in school—a menace to everybody he comes near.

I have known many people, I am sorry to say, who definitely knew they had scarlet fever, but hid it from the doctor because they didn't want to be quarantined. If they would only realize what a short-sighted policy this is . . . what serious consequences may result from what they are doing. . . I know they would report every rash.

Quarantine isn't just an arbitrary thing, for we know that a patient carries the infection for about four weeks after he has contracted it, and may give it to others.

Remember if you hide the fact that you have scarlet fever, and mingle with others while you still may spread the disease, you may be bringing death to someone.

Current Offerings at Belleville Theatres

Advance Information on Screen Offerings Supplied by Theatre Managers.

AT THE BELLE

"Midnight"

Claudette Colbert and Don Ameche—those two superb comedy players—have a story and supporting cast worthy of their talents in their first picture together, "Midnight" which Paramount is now presenting to Belleville and vicinity audiences at the Belle Theatre. John Barryore, Francis Lederer, Mary Astor and Hedda Hopper are featured in the uproarious comedy.

The French-Italian Mediterranean situation is pictorially revealed in a special issue of "The March of Time", on the same program with a funny Popeye cartoon "A Date to Skate".

Lovely Madeleine Carroll

Madeleine Carroll, first in the hearts of beauty-appraisers everywhere, returns to the screen for a fling at romance with handsome Fred MacMurray, her new leading man, in Paramount's "Cafe Society" which will be at the Belle Theatre Sunday Midnight, April 9th. Shirley Ross, as chief runner-up for MacMurray's affections, completes the starring trio.

Miss Carroll, who has climbed to screen fame via "The Case Against Mrs. Ames", "The General Died at Dawn", "Lloyds of London", "Prisoner of Zenda" and "Blockade", gets ample opportunity to show off the devastating blonde beauty which prompted one famous artist to call her "lovelier than Romney's Lady Hamilton"—and his highest tribute. Cast as a millionairess of New York's smartest set, she wears more than twenty striking new costumes especially designed for her by Edith Head. Running the gamut from yachting costumes to glamorous evening gowns, the clothes represent the perfect wardrobe for the member of "Cafe Society".

The romance of Miss Carroll and MacMurray, who plays a young newspaperman is one of the highest geared to reach the screen in many a month. It goes into action when, assigned to cover her arrival on the "Queen Mary", he treats her so contemptuously that she waits her time to get even with him. It comes when she succeeds in getting him to fall in love with her and marries him simply to crash the gossip columns.

Walt Disney's newest comicolor cartoon "Donald's Lucky Day", Charlie Chase in a funny multiple-reel comedy "Night Shirt Bandit", and a smart musical revue Busse Rhythm" precede the feature attraction.

Honolulu, Gay Film

Dancing, singing, romance and laughs are represented by the top-notchers in their respective fields in the star-packed cast of the new M. G. M. musical "Honolulu" which comes to the Belle Theatre Monday.

Eleanor Powell, the screen's renounced Qneen of Taps, handles the dancing end of the lavish new picture, with the other headliners composed of Robert Young and the inimitable comedy team of Burns and Allen. Prominent supporting parts are filled by Rita Johnson, Clarence Kolb, Jo Ann Sayers, Ann Morris, Willie Fung, Cliff Clark, Edward Gargan, Eddie Anderson, Sig Rumann, Ruth Hussey, Kealoha Holt and Edgar Dearing.

Edward Buzzell, former Broadway musical comedy star, was the director. Jack Cummings, who produced "Born to Dance" and "Broadway Melody of 1938", produced the new musical.

Miss Powell introduces three specialties: "Hymn to the Sun", a tap hula, based on the traditional Hawaiian dance; an imitation of Bill Robinson's entertaining stair dance, and a tap dance done with a skipping rope.

Scenes range from Hawaii to Broadway, with song on Shipboard and the musical numbers balance Miss Powell's dances. The work of the noted song-writing team of Harry Warren and Gus Kahn, they include "This Night Will be My Souvenir", "The Leader Doesn't Like Music" and "Honolulu", the latter sung by Gracie Allan.

The story concerns a screen star, impersonated by Young, who wearies of the Hollywood routine and wants to get away for a rest. On a big 'opening night' he encounters his opportunity when a Hawaiian planter, who closely resembles him is mobbed by autograph fiends in the theatre lobby.

The actor arranges with the visitor for an exchange of personalities and the chap agrees almost too readily. The deal is made and Young heads for Honolulu, while the planter continues to impersonate the star.

Aboard ship Young meets Eleanor Powell, a cabaret dancer, and of course, falls in love with her. The complications become serious in Hawaii when he learns that he is wanted there for embezzlement and also is engaged to a girl he never saw.

The confusion is finally straightened out when the planter is induced to return to the island, there to face his difficulties and allow Young to return to his own character.

AT THE McCARTHY

"Topper Takes a Trip"

Hal Roach's "Topper Takes a Trip" which will have its premiere showing in Belleville at the McCarthy Theatre Sunday midnight, is one of the daffiest, gayest and most uproariously funny comedies to reach the screen this season. Beautifully staged, brilliantly directed and played expertly by a hand-picked cast, this new film production deserves to be placed conspicuously on every screen fan's best ten list.

The cast, which reads like a Hollywood's "who's who", includes Constance Bennett, Roland Young, Billie Burke, Alan Mowbray, Verree Teasdale, Alexander D'Arcy, Franklin Pangborn, Paul Hurst and Armand Kaliz. Roland Young again plays the role of Cosmo Topper, the bewildered banker, who is about to lose his prim and conventional wife, played by Billie Burke. Constance Bennett, beautiful and glamorous, portrays again the ghostly Marion Kirby, who is anxious to assist the unhappy Toppers in regaining marital happiness.

"Topper Takes a Trip" which you have probably guessed is a sequel to last year's successful "Topper", swings its action from New York to the pictorial brilliance fo the French Riviera where Topper proceeds to race from one jam to another under the stage-management of Marion and her phantom hoaxes.

The screen story of "Topper Takes a Trip" provides crackling dialogue, swiftly paced situations, beautiful lighting effects, first rank camera work and expert photography and is a production which offers top-notch entertainment from the moment it begins to unreel on the silver screen.

Preceding "Topper Takes a Trip" a splendid selection of added attractions add immense enjoyment to the program including a musical comedy featuring "Buddy" Rogers and his band in "Swing Vacation", a Walt Disney Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, all technicolor cartoon entitled "Polar Trappers" and a novelty sport subject entitled "Dude Ranch"

The Stars Say

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, April 9

SUNDAY'S horoscope is decidedly beneficial and promising for the church and state, for the clergy, educators and for all in places of power and authority. These may be inclined to be friendly, conferring favors, honors or other signs of esteem or preferment. But be wise with funds and be alert to subtleties or trickery.

Those whose birthday it is may aim at promotion, advancement in salary or other tokens of preferment and recognition from superiors, those in place and power or elders. Great benefits may be derived, but be wise in risking such emoluments through extreme good nature or overgenerosity. Be vigilant as to duplicity, schemes or other undercover programs.

A child born on this day may be inclined to be extravagant in its personal expenditures and expansive in its aims. It may be studious and have highly developed faculties and exalted impulses, which may incite enmity or subtle machinations.

For Monday, April 10

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for some rather adverse and upsetting conditions, in which an unguarded tongue or pen may be the inciting factor. There are signs of impetuosity, belligerency and other immoderate activity, which may have regrettable consequences and mar a day meant for pleasure and social or romantic enjoyment.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which their social or romantic ambitions may be marred by an impulsive, tempestuous or passionate mode of conduct, or they may precipitate adverse situations or unhappiness by an unruly tongue or an unrestrained pen. Happiness depends on control and amiability.

A child born on this day may be high-tempered, turbulent, impetuous and way ward, although having fine organizing ability and much creative force. It should be gracious and popular in society

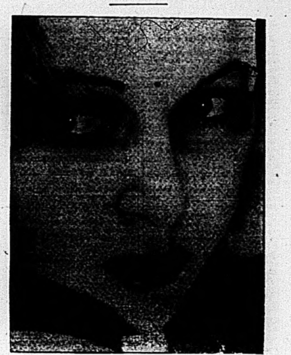
Don't Abuse Soul Lanterns; Get Eye Glasses If They Are Needed



CECILIA PARKER . . . . . .her pretty eyes indicate good care.

(By Helen Follett)

DO YOU know that eye glasses that correct defects of vision will help crow's feet to do a vanishing act? It is heaven's truth. If the soul lamps are unhappy suffering from strain, the surrounding tissues become depleted Think it over, you girls who need specs and won't put them on because you fancy they will make you look older.

When selecting lenses and frames, don't forget that there are many offerings. All are designed in the grand cause of pulchritude. If the nose is long, a low-set nose piece shortens it. Placing the specs low is flattering to the Roman nose, concealing the deep, inward curve between the eyes.

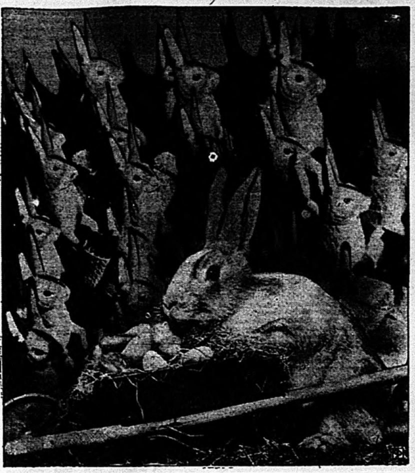
There's a set-away bridge for the impertinent sassy nose that has a tilt; there's a low, wide bridge for the nez that is as thin as a soda cracker. Little Round Face should wear angular lenses, she of the high cheek bones needs lenses with straight sides. It has all been thought out carefully, and the man who helps you select your eye windows will tell you all about it. If you're a fussy person you can have your lenses cut to order. That's service for you.

Plenty of room for the casual hats despite all this emphasis on has of flowers and veiling. A lovely felt with a forward-jutting brim, is of bright fuchsia felt with self stitching and a trimming of straw braid in cyclamen and lilac ending with big tassels.

A preview of next Summer's fashions reveals the continued importance of white and navy blue. A smart woman at Palm Beach wears a frock of white pique striped all over in navy blue rickrack braid. Horizontal bands of white braid mark the nipped-in waist.

Constance Bennett co-starred with Roland Young, Billie Burke and Alan Mowbry in "Topper Takes a Trip," the feature attraction coming next at the McCarthy Theatre.

Busy Days For Easter Bunny



"ENVOY EXTRAORDINARY"

by E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

"You are, as you have reminded us, von Behring, upon your own lands and under your own roof and I shall not ask the foresters to break their allegiance of centuries even at my command. I order you to go back the way you came and not to reappear."

Von Behrling hesitated. The man was racked with emotions. His cheeks were flushed—even his forehead was scarlet.

"If in this fit of madness, von Behrling,' 'the other continued, "you refuse to obey my commands. I have here a personal escort, within a minute's call, only to be used in case any emergency should arise. Unless you obey my orders, they will be summoned. They will have no hesitation whatever in arranging for your immediate expulsion. I should lament such an indignity being offered to one of the leading noblemen of my country."

Von Behrling, with folded arms, stood perfectly still for nearly a minute; then he turned on his heel and, escorted by his two guards, left the room. Von Helm, whose eyes had followed his every movement, turned away with a frown.

"There goes, I fear, a still dangerous man," he said.

X X X

There was a brief period of silence. Everyone was listening to the starting of the car. Soon they heard it roaring down the hill.

"The air," Signor Corletti declared, "seems purer."

(A week or so later, Von Behrling alias Van Westrheene met his fate in an airplane crash.)

Hellstern rose to his feet. He turned toward the President.

"Is it permitted that I say a word?" he asked.

"Having seen and heard the sPrince, I accept the report presented to us by our colleague, Lord Matresser. I say that Germany should accept the peace offer and should give all the required pledges to keep the peace. I, who am passing into the shadows of the political world, offer this recommendation to the powers who will take my place."

Von Helm nodded gravely.

"Our old Leader Hellstern," he said, resuming his conversational manner and remaining seated, "will be declared by history to have played the part of a great patriot in this crisis. This offer of Great Britain, which makes the regeneration of our country possible, is made to a new Imperial Germany—to a Germany that will control her army with a firm hand and will carry out every sacred pledge for the preservation of peace. We welcome that offer. Hellstern and I together—he who has ruled through a more difficult period of our history and I who intend to lead Germany in its pacific development—accept it. The way before us is clear now to fix upon the date when Italy, Austria and Germany can make their simultaneous proclamation.

"Solely and simply to save them from embarrassment, I suggest now that General Besserley, Lord Matresser and Sir Esmond Curtels leave us for a time. We representatives of Germany, Austria, and Italy will go into executive session. Will you give us an hour, gentlemen? The billiard room and the general lounge are at your disposition. I beg that none of you three, unless greatly fatigued, will retire before we drink our final toast."

Matresser slipped away while Besserley and Curtels began a game of billiards, threw his shooting cape over his shoulders, a warm muffler round his neck, and opened the huge front door. With her nose a few inches from the threshold, the little brown dog was lying flat. She leaped to her feet with a bark of delight when Matresser appeared and followed him to the low parapet. Matresser slowly filled his pipe. He found himself in the throes of an unusual and acute depression.

Supposing this great game of king-making and empire building went on smoothly to the end, just what might it mean for Elizabeth? She would become the cousin of the ruler of Austria. Would she ever be likely to satisfy herself with the life of an English country squire? It would be easy to prove to her that he had not been the careless sport-engrossed philanderer she had imagined. Even then, however, a life at Court would have so much to offer her — the blazing up of the old glories, her beloved capital emerging into its old splendors, the men of her own type and rank all her eager suitors. He felt his hold upon her, already so precariously established, slipping away.

Matresser rose to his feet a little chilled by the falling mists. The brown dog kept her nose within an inch or two of his legs. Arrived at the entrance to the lodge, he paused and then picked her up in his arms. Her little body squirmed with delight. She tried her best to cover his face with kisses. He made his way to the great servants' lounge where a huge wood fire was burning and the foresters were seated around a table at one end of which was a barrel of beer. With one accord they rose to their feet at his entrance. He waved them back.

"A word with you, Fritz," he begged.

The forester came forward. The little dog settled herself more closely still in Matresser's arms.

"Fritz, I want this dog," he said.

The man hesitated, but only for a moment.

"She is a favorite," he acknowledged, "but she belongs from now onto the Grsadiger Herr."

"I shall accept your gift with thanks," Matresser declared, holding out his hand. "I thank you, Fritz. How do you call her?"

"Magda," the man replied.

"Magda will be my constant companion," Matresser told him, "and I have an idea. Fritz you must have heard of the highly trained Labradors. What great retrievers they are. My people have bred them in Norfolk for years. I shall send you a youngster of Blue Peter's, broken already—a perfect dog for you. His father is the finest retriever I ever saw and the pup will be as good."

The man's eyes glistened.

"It will be a joy, my noble sir," he exclaimed. "Magda shall have her supper now. Afterwards she will lie outside your door. It is evident that she has a great love for you."

He produced a bowl and whistled Magda to her corner. When she had finished, she walked with Matresser to the shooting lodge. When he re-entered the house she was at his heels. He carried her upstairs to his room and pushed back her ears and the hair from her eyes.

"At least," he murmured half to himself, "you will be a wonderful assurance against loneliness."

CHAPTER XXXI

Matresser, seated in the chair reserved for distinguished visitors, remained in a dubious frame of mind. He had just reported to Sir Francis Tring on returning from Germany by airplane after the secret European peace conference.

"It is very kind of you, Sir Francis," he acknowledged, "and I am glad to hear that matters are moving along smoothly, but I cannot accept an portion of the credit. I just had the good luck to know certain facts which helped your plan."

Sir Francis smiled patiently.

"You must believe me," Matresser went on gravely, "that it is not from any feelings of discourtesy or disloyalty that I am anxious to bring my job to an end. My mother is in very delicate health and I have promised her definitely to settle down at home. I feel that I have been away so much that I should dedicate my time during these last few years of her life towards following out her wishes".

"Your mother is the last person in the world," Sir Francis said, "who would interfere when a man is called upon to serve his country. But need we discuss what may lie beyond, just now? We will leave that for the present. You landed here this morning having brought to a conclusion your part in a most marvelous task which—I speak advisedly, Matresser—will probably go further securing the peace of the world than any single action by any single man. But we do not need to enter upon a general discussion at the present moment.

"We are up against one bad fact. His Majesty is doing me the honor of attending my wife's reception tonight and he has expressed his wish to meet you here. A wish expressed in such language, my dear fellow, can only be dealt with in one way. It is a command."

"You are convincing, Sir Francis," his visitor sighed. "I shall be your guest, then, at nine o'clock this evening."

"At half-past eight, if you please We dine early because the reception is at ten o'clock and His Majesty announced his intention of arriving early. Tomorrow morning you will be free to leave for home. Believe me, I am grateful to you," he added, as he rose and held out his hand.

Matresser took his leave and was driven to his town house. In one of the bachelor suites, Pilot Number 17 was lolling in an easy chair with a pile of newspapers and a half empty tankard by his side.

"No luck, my young friend," his host announced. "It's London for another twelve hours for me at any rate."

"That is not so bad for me. Your beer is very good," the young man in the chair smiled. "I am in great comfort. I shall stay over with much pleasure."

"I shall have to leave you to yourself tonight," Matresser told him as he sank into an easy chair and lit a cigarette.

Pilot Number 17 grinned.

"I have been in London before," he confided. "I amuse myself."

"Just how?" his host enquired.

"I tell you," the young man replied. "Why not? Soon I change my clothes. Your servants here are all wonderful. Everything is already prepared for me. I go to a small club. We are all Germans. We are not all high born but we are of those who take our country seriously. Many friends of my student days are there. We shall eat together and drink wine or beer. Afterwards there are some cafes. We shall amuse ourselves without a doubt. On my dressing table in the morning I shall look for a message from you. I shall be at Heston an hour before you wish to start and you will find our beautiful butterfly place polished and shining, ready for that little hop to Norfolk. And you—you move tonight in high places?"

"Not of my own will," Matresser sighed, "but it must be done."

"I wish they wouldn't send you to Berlin!" Pilot Number 17 exclaimed fervently.

Matresser laughed.

"My dear fellow," he said, "I know no more of the routine of diplomacy than you and I am a great deal too old to learn. I have had my share of excitement, or shall have, when this is over."

The pilot looked wiser than his years.

"I wonder," he murmured.

Matresser lokked up in surprise at the sound of the suddenly opened door. Ann swept across the room to his with outstretched arms, her cheeks and eyes aglow with the exhilaration of the hundred-mile drive in her racing car. She threw aside her thick coat and embraced her brother.

"Ronnie, my angel!" she exclaimed. "How wonderful! No one knew where you were. I just took a chance of finding you."

"Anything wrong?" he asked quickly.

"Not a thing. Mother is not as well as she ought to be — nothing else. Life at the Great House has gone flat—"

The pilot rose from his place and stood at attention. Ann looked at him in surprise.

"Do forgive me," she apologized. "It's that high-backed couch, and I really thought my brother was alone."

"This is my sister," Matresser explained. "You had better shake hands with him, Ann. I daresay you caught a glimpse of one another down at home but we have had the most amazing flight I have ever experienced since then, and here we are safely back again."

Ann shook hands with the tall, blue-eyed young man whose bow was a model of military deportment. His eyes were full of admiration.

"It has been a great pleasure to me to be trusted with your brother, Gnadiges Fraulein," he said.

"I am very glad you brought him home safely," she answered, smiling.

"Did you come up alone, Ann"?

She nodded.

"I shall go back tomorrow."

Matresser insisted. "Tell me, Ann is mother really ill"?

Ann shook her head.

"I would not say that, Ronnie," she confessed, taking his arm. "First of all, she misses Elizabeth tremendously. Her music was such a joy and she was the sweetest person to have about, and then—well, something else seems to be worrying her. I don't know what it is. I came up to see if I could get Dr. Lacon to return with me for the week-end. It will do her more good than anything to know that you are back."

"We shall fly down tomorrow some time," Matresser told her. She threw off her hat and suddenly saw Magda at her brother's feet.

"Ronnie!" she exclaimed. "What a little beauty! Where did you get her?"

"In a hunting lodge somewhere on the eastern frontier of Germany," he replied. "I promised to send the head keeper one of my Labradors in exchange."

Magda looked with fond approval in her brown eyes at the girl, turned and licked her master's hand, and settled down once more.

"I think yours is a very wonderful plane," Ann told the pilot, turning to him.

"You like to ride in it—yes?" the young man asked eagerly. "I take your brother to Norfolk tomorrow. If you are there and your brother permits, it would give me great pleasure to ride you among the clouds."

She laughed.

"Nothing I should like better. I am certainly going back today or tomorrow."

"Have you ever flown before?" he asked.

"Only in a Moth," she answered. "We didn't go very high. It was not real flying at all."

"You shall ride if you will, four—five thousand feet," he promised. "Any speed—you like speed?"

"I adore it. I drive a racing car."

"A hundred and fifty miles an hour, if you choose. We travel round your island."

"Here, steady," Matresser put in. "I have only one unmarried sister and I can't have you doing stunts."

"Have I not guarded you well and yet used speed?" the young man demanded.

"Indeed you have," Matresser acknowledged. "We'll see about it when we get down to Norfolk."

"I cannot make up my mind," Ann said, throwing herself in an easy chair and holding out her hands toward the blaze from the burning logs, "whether to return tonight or not. I have done what I came for. Dr. Lacon is going down by the three o'clock train tomorrow. I have rung up the Eardley Craigs but Nina and Jack are both out of town. What about you, Ronnie? Would you like to frisk your little sister around this evening?"

"Nothing I would like better," he assured her gloomily. "I have a very different program to face—a heavy dinner and a heavier reception afterward."

She looked at him curiously.

"It seems odd to think of yuor being mixed up in these affairs, Ronnie," she observed. "I sometimes wonder whether you have quite that sweet, candid disposition that we always gave you credit for. You are not a Lawrence in disguise, or anything of that sort, are you?"

"Never mind what I am, young lady. I cannot take you out this evening. If I were free at all I should have to look after my friend, the pilot."

Ann smiled across at the young man, a very dazzling and intriguing sort of smile.

"Poor fellow," she murmured, "is he, too, a waif in London?"

"Unfortunately yes, Gnadiges Fraulein," he sighed. "I suggest myself as a fitting object for the charity of anyone in the same position. Do not be afraid of me as I am. I have clothes here. I am a member of some of your clubs. If my most honored and noble passenger would permit, nothing would make me happier than to offer myself for the theater—yes? A dinner and the dance. I dance, perhaps, not so well but I am adaptable."

"This seems a very nice pilot of yours, Ronnie,' Ann observed thoughtfully. "Able to turn his hand to anything—

"Why do you not introduce him? I could scarcely spent the evening with a person whose name I did not know."

The two men exchanged glances. The pilot inclined his blond head gravely.

"TIRED" ALL THE TIME

She felt miserable—draggy—low in vitality—lower in spirits. She hadn't thought of her kidneys, until a friend suggested Dodd's Kidney Pills. At once she took Dodd's. The "washed out" feeling was soon replaced by clear headed energy and restful sleep. Headache, backache, lassitude and other signs of faulty kidneys disappeared. 112

Obituary

LATE MRS. JAMES WILLIAMS
(Rawdon)

The funeral of the late Mrs. James Williams was largely attended on Wednesday afternoon, April 5th in Mount Pleasant (Rawdon) United Church.

Her pastor, Rev. J. E. Beckel brought a comforting message based on the "Reserrection". Mount Pleasant choir rendered "Home Across The Stream" and Mrs. Edgar McKeown sang by request "The Stranger of Galilee."

Twenty members of Mount Pleasant Rawdon Women's Missionary Society attended in a body. Mrs. Williams was president of the organization from 1901 to 1911 and through these first beginnings in pioneer missionary work the society has grown and their success has been due to her untiring efforts.

A large number of beautiful floral tributes covered the casket and were mute testimony to the esteem of the deceased.

The bearers were Messrs Percy Oddie, Andrew Hay, Roy Walker, Clifford Clancy, Charles Hoard and James Sharp.

Centenary

Centenary—There has been much sickness in the community during the last month or so but with the warmer weather of the last few days hopes are held that this condition may improve.

Friends of Mr. Clifford Cassidy were sorry to hear he had been confined to the hospital undergoing an operation for mastoid.

Mrs. Halliday has been quite ill with a heart attack but is improving.

Mrs. Judson Kelley has had a severe attack of lumbago, her many friends hope for her a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Fred Aikens and Miss Florence Johnson called on Mrs. Salter and Mrs. Lawrence Hubble one day recently.

Rev. Mr. Flatt's sermon on Sunday was on the topic "A God of Grace" and was full of inspiration and help, after the service communion was held with a fair attendance.

Mr. Nelson and family have moved into the house formerly occupied by Mr. McCollough.

Mr. Edwin Adams is greatly improved and all hope he will soon be strong and well once more.

West Huntingdon.

West Huntingdon — the roads, 'flu and continued wintry weather are among the chief topics of conversation. Farmers believe the extended winter is fine for meadows and fall grain.

Time brings numerous changes to this busy community. The most recent one is in the mail delivery. For a number of years, Mr. Bert Wannamaker of Foxboro has visiter here three times daily, (except Sunday). Starting Saturday, April 1st, Mr. Wannamaker only makes one trip 8 o'clock A.M. The change made was for financial reasons.

Honored

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ray

A most enjoyable time was spent on Friday evening when over seventy-five friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Haggerty to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ray on their recent marriage.

Rev. W. Walker of Stirling was chairman for the following program: community singing with Mrs. Sam Donnan at the piano; reading by Miss Jean Thompson; solo by Mrs. Charles Pargey; recitation, Marjorie Wright; solo, Gerald Clancy; reading, Alex McCurdy.

On behalf of the members of St. Andrews Church Mrs. J. C. Sills read the following address:

West Huntingdon, March 29, 39
Dear Hilda and Kenneth.

We, your friends and members of St. Andrew's Church wish to express our good will to you as you start life together. A home is one of the finest institutions in the world and as you establish yours, we wish you happiness, health and prosperity. Our associations together have always been pleasant ones. We will miss you in our social gatherings as well as church work. You, Hilda, have always been keenly interested in church activities. Your ability to help and your willingness to do so have always been appreciated. We could not let this happy occasion in your life pass without some expression of our esteem and good will.

Will you kindly accept this small gift as a slight token of our appreciation with our best for your future happiness.

Signed on behalf of your friends of St. Andrew's Church.

Hilda was then presented with table linen as a gift of appreciation of her services from the congregation of St. Andrew's.

Miss Mona Wright read the following address on behalf of neighbors and friends:

West Huntingdon, March 31, 39
Dear Hilda and Kenneth,—

It seemed impossible for us, your friends and neighbors to let such a happy event pass without invading your home to express to both of you the esteem in which you are held in this community.

Sadness, mingled with joy reigns here tonight. We say this because it is with regret we see Hilda leave our community. But we are happy that you, Kenneth, have chosen such a fine life partner. At this time we take the opportunity of congratulating you on your good fortune. Hilda, you have always proven yourself a willing, helpful friend and we trust as time marches on your loyalty will continue Not only have you taken an outstanding part in community affairs but you have been an active member of your church. Hilda and Kenneth, there will always be a welcome awaiting you at West Huntingdon, as often as you are able to join us. To assure you of our good wishes we ask you to kindly accept these gifts, knowing we all wish you health, wealth and prosperity throughout your lives.

Signed on behalf of your many friends,—Annie Cooke, Marjorie McInroy, Mona Wright, Dan. Cooke; Charles Wright.

The newlyweds were presented with two handsome occasional chairs.

Both Hilda and Kenneth thanked those who had made this presentation. A number of gentlemen present also made short addresses. The remainder of the evening was spent in a social manner.

Prof. MacKenzie Gives Talk on Future of Br. Commonwealth

Norman MacKenzie, professor of international law at Toronto University, widely known specialist on world affairs through his long connection with the League of Nations was the concluding speaker in the successful series of lectures sponsored by the Lecture and Study Club.

The subject "The Future of the British Commonwealth" was chosen on account of its timeliness in the light of recent world events, but especially because Professor MacKenzie had been a member of the Canadian delegation to the Conference on Relations of the British Commonwealth which met in Australia last summer. There Professor MacKenzie had special opportunities of learning of the problems which face the individual members of the British Commonwealth of Nations and of their relation to each other and to the United Kingdom.

Professor MacKenzie pointed out that the terms "British Empire and British Commonwealth could not be used interchangeably. The latter consist of the United Kingdom, Ireland, South Africa, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Newfoundland and India while the term "British Empire" included with the United Kingdom the dependent colonies for whose interests the government in London is totally responsible.

Presents Complex Problems

The British Empire extending over more than a quarter of the land surface of the globe and populated by a quarter of the human race, comprising every race, creed and colour present complex problems in government.

The Conference which met in Sydney was unofficial and confidential. No government official was a delegate and the sessions were not open to the public or the press, so that there might be the freest possible discussion of national and international problems. The conference had been arranged by the various institutes of international affairs, as a sequel to the first conference which met in Canada five years ago. The purpose of both conferences was to exchange information and to discuss the problems of the commonwealth with a view to cooperation which would be mutually advantageous. The delegations were as far as possible representative of every shade of opinion and of every phase of national life. Notable exceptions were the Irish who all belonged to the Cosgrave party and the South African which gave no direct representation to the coloured races.

The agenda had been carefully prepared eighteen months before, by the Royal Institute on International Affairs and divided into various fields.

Professor MacKenzie sketched some of the special problems facing each nation and more by implication than specific statement showed their probable effect on the Commonwealth as a whole. The United Kingdom is a European power and influenced by what happens to consider her dependent Empire. Both these facts make her problems different from those of the dominions. Ireland too is involved in European affairs and in a European conflict, her interests would lead her to align herself on the side of Britain in spite of her claim to the right of neutrality. Her big problem is the separation of the north from the south, which her delegation claimed would always remain a problem until the United Kingdom sanctioned union.

The problem of immigration to the dominions loomed large. To those desiring immigrants of British stock experts pointed out the falling British birth rate which would result in a static and much smaller population in the British Isles, with a large per cent of older people who would not make good settlers in a new environment. The economists from the dominions also pointed out that our economy is organized for the primary producer, who requires a world market. As this has contracted, we have faced overproduction and unemployment, and a further surplus of labor of this type would be inadvisable.

The outstanding problem for South Africa is the large coloured population, who are economically politically and socially on a lower plane from the two million white people who again are divided into the Afrikanos (Boers) and British. Professor MacKenzie believed that South African policy would be governed by external affairs, for instance the threat of Italian or German aggression, rather than by emotion or sentiment.

The Australian Setup

The Australian economy as based on wool, wheat and meat which find their market in Britain. Isolated in the Pacific and overshadowed by the threat of Japan, Australia has depended on the "British navy for protection. The homogeneity of her population added to the above factors has made Australia's connection with the United Kingdom very close. However the growth of the Labour movement in Australia has weakened Australian imperialism and there is a growing opinion that Australia should undertake her own defence as her first task.

New Zealand too with an agricultural economy, dependent on British markets and also 100 per cent British in population has a close attachment to Britain. But Prof. MacKenzie found in New Zealand a large body of opinion critical of the Chamberlain foreign policy of the abandonment of the League of Nations and the failure to resist Italian aggression in Abyssinia.

The Indian delegation were critical of British policy in India and being Moslems sympathetic to the Arabs in Palestine. They showed their Asiatic kinship by favoring Japanese domination of China rather than British and American domination.

Expected Present Situation

Viewing the current scene in Europe, Professor MacKenzie refused to be hysterical or surprised, though he did not minimize its seriousness. He had foreseen with the rearmament of Germany, and the failure of the democratic powers to give effect to collective security by the application of the covenant of the League of Nations that the initiative would pass to the Fascist countries. Following the collapse of sanctions against Italy, the time passed to stop aggression without a major war.

Though in the opinion of the speaker a war is not expected in the near future, he maintained that there would be a continual danger of war. As the Fascist countries pursue their technique of crisis with pressure here and pressure there, at any time war may be precipitated. Professor MacKenzie thought that the policy pursued in Czecho-Slovakia would be repeated pressure, disintegration and absorption. If resisted, Germany will withdraw but come back again, and again as in May and September of last year. Hope lies in a combination of the United States, Britain, France and Russia. When some vital interest of one of the great democracies is challenged will be the great danger point, at present unforeseen.

D. E. McMullen expressed the deep appreciation of the audience for Professor MacKenzie's address A reception in the Library followed the lecture and made a fitting conclusion for the year's activities.

Legislation Permits Presbyterian Church Full Title to Name

Toronto, April 8—(CP)—Gordon Sisco, secretary of the General Council of the United Church of Canada, announced Thursday that at the request of his Church legislation was enacted by the Dominion Government giving effect to an agreement entered into between the United Church of Canada and the Presbyterian Church to enable the latter body to use the name—"The Presbyterian Church in Canada."

Dr. Sisco said that under the United Church of Canada Act, passed in 1924 by Federal Parliament, the church formed by the congregations that did not enter union of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches legally could not use the name "The Presbyterian Church in Canada."

Nova Scotia—"Promising".

New Brunswick—"Healthy increase".

Prince Edward Island—"Another increase."

Quebec—"Excellent"

Ontario—"New record".

Manitoba—"Very, very busy".

Saskatchewan — "$500,000 increase".

Alberta—"25 per cent increase".

British Columbia — "All-time record".

In detail, they go much further in predicting that this year will see a large increase in the number and expenditures of tourists over 1938. Estimates of last year's tourist revenue are incomplete but in 1937 an estimated $294,000,000 was spent in Canada by visitors, almost equal to the pre-depression peak year, 1929.

Held World's Records

In expressing the anticipation of a big year in Nova Scotia's tourist trade, A. J. Campbell, publicity director for the Tourist Bureau of that province, says inquiries regarding deep-sea fishing have been received from points as distant as California. Nova Scotia fishermen hold all world records for blue fin tuna fishing.

Particularly promising is the outlook in Ontario. Sullivan reports that in March tourist inquiries jumped 49 per cent over March last year—eloquent testimony to the fame of the Quints, Niagara Falls and Ontario's fighting game fish.

In Saskatchewan, 110,000 tourists visited the province last year and spent $1,000,000. This year's estimates are 150,000 visitors and $1,500,000 expenditures while in Alberta it is anticipated 750,000 tourists in 200,000 automobiles will leave $4,500,000 behind.

More than $30,000,00 was spent by visitors to British Columbia in 1938 and government officials forecast this amount will be greatly exceeded this year. That province expects to gather in a good share of San Francisco's visitors as they turn homeward from the Exposition.

PROUD LITTLE

down the road to meet them.

The tri-colored Italian flag also appeared on the city hall beside the red Albanian banner emblazoned with the black double eagle.

The defeated little Albanian army had retreated to the hills.

King Zog left the city yesterday afternoon with a part of his government and was believed en route to Greece.

Queen Precedes Zog

Queen Geraldine had preceded him to that country yesterday with the Crown Prince who had been born just 48 hours before.

Previous reports had indicated the King with part of his government had removed to Elbasan, 25 miles south of Tirana It was said he was arranging to defend the tortuous trails leading to this inaccessible retreat.

The Italian occupation came after a night of terror in Tirana as gendares fired continuously to frighten away looters who earlier had sacked the royal palace.

Planes Fly Low

Italian bombers appeared again in the sky over Tirana shortly after dawn today and continued to fly low over the city as the troops entered.

General Masse, commander of the column moving on Tirana, arrived soon behind the advance guard. He halted his force at the airport temporarily.

The Bersagliere were followed into Tirana by a tank corps which rumbled through the principal square.

In front of the city hall, General Muty, commander of the advance guard, was greeted by Albanian civil and religious authorities.

The Italians, better-equipped and of larger numbers than the defenders, were in command of the principal points along the 17-mile coast.

Cities Heavily Damaged.

Durazzo, San Giovanni Di Medua and Valona were heavily damaged by naval bombardments and aerial bombings before Italian occupation. Santi Quaranta, another coastal city also was in Italian hands.

Albania had served notice she was prepared to fight until her last man was dead and then mobilize her women.

While regulars and vigilantes who had taken down their rifles and primitive weapons to fight a dogged, if losing battle, from behind stones, trees and mountain ambushes, the former premier, Medhi Frasheri, addressed the nation by radio in impassioned tones:

"There are 44,000,000 Italians against 1,000,000 Albanians but there will be heroic resistance, and when our men are dead, the Italians will have to face our women."

He telegraphed to Premier Mussolini of Italy: "We prefer death to dishonor."

Good roads from the coast to Tirana, built with funds provided by Italian loans, facilitated the Italian advance toward Tirana, but only winding mountain trails led to more remote parts of the country.

any attempt by Italy to bring the kingdom under her own sovereignty by force.

While public indignation mounted and the press voiced bitter condemnation of Mussolini's Good Friday coup, Clement Attlee and Sir Archibald Sinclair, Labor and Liberal leaders, respectively, in the House of Commons, demanded the immediate recall of parliament.

Violates Agreement.

"The shameful Italian invasion of Albania violates the Anglo-Italian agreement and constitutes a fresh dangerous assault on the liberties of Europe by the axis powers," Sir Archbald wired the prime minister. "Urge parliament be summoned immediately to consider government proposals for dealing with the situation."

At the conclusion of the cabinet council no announcement was made about a further meeting or the possibility of parliament's recall. There is little chance of getting the members together before Wednesday, however.

When the House rose Thursday arrangements were made for the summoning of parliament should an emergency arise. In past crises the opposition made similar requests and during the troubles of last September their wishes were granted.

Fears were expressed in some quarters that the Abanian move may mark the beginning of an axis plan for a combined drive into the Mediterranean area with a subsequent thrust through the Balkans to the Near East. Others, however, contend Mussolini marched primarily for the sake of prestige or as a warning to the Balkan entente not to flirt with the idea of the mutual defence front launched by the Anglo-Polish-French alliance.

Time For Showdown.

The United Kingdom press generally agrees that the time has arrived for a definte showdown and more vigorous organization of peace-living nations against further aggression.

The News Chronicle (Liberal) declares energetic condemnation by the British government is not enough and suggests the recall of the British Ambassador from Rome and the concentration of a strong naval force in the Mediterranean to demonstrate how deeply the British people are moved by "this outrage on humanity".

Announcement of Mr. Chamberlain's return followed a meeting of the cabinet in London. After weighing the implications of Italy's invasion of Albania, the ministers issued a statement declaring that the Albanian situation was "still obscure in regard to a number of important factors."

Detailed Report.

Viscount Halifax, Foreign Secretary, gave a detailed report on the Italian invasion of Albania today to the cabinet. Sir John Simon, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, presided.

Ten members, about half the entire cabinet and including five defence ministers, attended the meeting at 10 Downing street.

They were Sir John, Lord Halifax, Lord Chatfield, Minister for Coordination of Defence; Earl Stanhope, First Lord of the Admiralty; Leslie Hore-Belisha, Secretary for War; Sir Kingsley Wood, Secretary for Air; Sir John Anderson, Lord Privy Seal; Home Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare; Ernest Brown, Minister of Transportation.

'Sits in' by Phone

Mr. Chamberlain "sat in" on the meeting by telephone from Castle Forbes in Aberdeenshire.

While the ministers were in session, Clement Attlee, leader of the Opposition in the House of Commons, called at 10 Downing Street and left a note requesting the immediate recall of Parliament. Parliament recessed last Thursday until April 18.

In informed quarters the ministers' statement was interpreted as indicating that the government had not decided to recall Parliament immediately. Parliament began its Easter recess Thursday to extend until April 18.

The Prime Minister, with whom rests the decision whether to recall Parliament, was understood to be considering the demands of Labor and Liberal leaders that Parliament be called immediately to review the new situation in the Mediterranean.

May Reconvene Parliament

He will leave Aberdeen by train at 7:35 p.m. (2:35 p.m. EST) tonight and reach London tomorrow morning. In some quarters it was believed he would reconvene Parliament about the middle of next week.

In view of the Prime Minister's statement in the House of Commons last Thursday that Great Britain "has no direct interest in Albania, but has a general interest in the peace of the world," informed quarters believed Britain would keep hands off the Adriatic war unless some neighboring country became endangered.

The government's only action so far has been to send a note to Italy through the British ambassador in Rome, which was understood to have pointed out that Italy's action was out of harmony with the Anglo-Italian Friendship Accord of 1938 which attempted to preserve the status quo in the Mediterranean.

May Send Protest

The Italian Embassy then issued a statement saying Italian troops would be withdrawn from Albania "as soon as the recent disturbances are terminated."

Some quarters expressed the belief Britain might send a strong protest to Rome.

Government circles saw little possibility that the Italian action would lead to general European war, however, and as a result no action more drastic was anticipated even if Mussolini eventually restored the Roman rule of more than 2,000 years ago over the Albanian mountains.

Nevertheless, Lord Halifax cancelled plans for a holiday trip and kept in constant touch with diplomatic representatives of Albania, Rumania, Bulgaria, Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia—the countries most vitally affected.

The Committee of Imperial Defence met yesterday but no special measures were announced. The admiralty said Easter leaves were not being cancelled, but that it was in a position to deal with any eventuality. Mr. Chamberlain was being kept advised of developments by telephone.

Press Comment

The British Press generally regarded Italy's step as a reply to the Prime Minister's efforts to form an anti-aggression bloc.

The News Chronicle (Liberal) said "The British Government's dilatoriness plays directly into the hands of the dictators. While Whitehall dithers about Russia, Hitler and Mussolini act. In a few weeks Czecho-Slovakia, Memel and Albania have fallen to the axis powers but the sole fruit of British initiative so far is the agreement with Poland—a vital link in a full collective system but of doubtful advantage unless the chain is completed."

The Daily Herald (Labor) said the Italian invasion threatens all the Balkans and "threatening the Balkans menaces Europe."

"The coming days are critical indeed," the Herald continued "That from now on Fascist Italy, by its own choice, establishes beyond doubt or cavil that it is a power in whose word and in whose good faith no shred of reliance can be placed, is certain."

The Daily Express (Independent) cautioned that "this does not constitute a disturbance of the general peace of the world." It meant an Italian dependency was becoming an Italian protectorate, the paper said.

The Daily Telegraph (Conservative) said the invasions carries with it "a grave threat to the security of all the powers—Yugoslavia, Greece, Rumania and Turkey—who are linked together in the Balkan Entente."

The Times (Independent) said the Albanian invasion threatened to disturb the "harmony and stability of the Mediterranean."

"On her own account and on behalf of others, she (Britain) has vital interests to defend in that area and every intention, if need be, of defending them," the Times added.

The Times reflected the view of many officials that the Italian invasion was the beginning of a thrust across the Balkan peninsula to the Aegean Sea, and toward the Dardanelles, and Turkey.

RIVULETTES ARRIVE

Charlottetown, Apr. 7 (CP)—Preston Rivulettes, Dominion women's hockey champions, arrived here last night ready for their series with Charlottetown Islanders, Maritime titlists. The two-game total-goal finals for the 1939 Dominion women's championship start today.

"We had a swell trip down and the players are all in good shape and will be at their peak for the opening game," Manager Dykeman of the Rivulettes said. The Ontario team, he added, expcted a stiff battle from the island team although it was confident of victory.

Hidden

By LILLIAN P. LEONARD

The amiable pedestrian idly ambling along, halted at the curbing near to a young boy, who was diligently poking with a stick in the gutter, where a muddy puddle formed a small, dark pool. As the boy looked up the man mechanically and quickly stepped backward, an indulgent smile lighting his face

"Oh, no, Mister, I won't splash you!"

"Lost something, lad?" Reassured and greatly surprised at the boy's clear diction the man stepped nearer.

"No sir, hunting something. My Dad says, 'Don't go along with your nose stuck up in the air gazing at the sky; you might stub your toe and fall into a mud puddle!'" He seated himself upon the curbing, pursed his lips and as a result of his aim, tiny circular ripples from the exact centre of the pool began to enlarge and waver outward. " 'But,' Dad says, 'go along looking for a mud puddle, then you'll see the sky reflected and maybe find a quarter in it.' Didn't find any in this one, though," he ended on a note of disappointment. But again he sighted, aimed, and hit the mark.

The man's hand slipped to his pocket and brought forth a half dollar. "Well, that was tough luck; but you worked hard enough for it, so here is a bit to make up," proffering the coin.

"Thank you, sir, but can't take it. Dad says 'The return from honest toil is an honor, but money received in charity beggars one.' I didn't work for you, Mister, so I didn't earn it."

"Well! Well!" ejaculated a much surprised pedestrian. "So your Dad says all that! I would like to meet your Dad, young man. It would be an honor."

"Dad and I are all the family—now." The boy paused and a skinny hand tugged at the pedestrian's coat. "You mustn't mind Dad not shaking hands. He is funny, uses both hands to pick up anything, and then sometimes can't do it."

As they passed through a rickety door on the fifth floor, they stepped at once into a living-room, which was evidently also used for whatever else might be required. A man sat on the edge of a cot, elbows on knees, hands dangling downward, silver-templed head bent; a sad picture of complete dejection, but which was at once brightened as he came abruptly to his feet, a strangely winning smile of pleasure irradiating his face at the entrance of his son. As his glance traveled beyond, his look changed to one of utter surprise, incredulity, and then to sheer joy.

The two men stood regarding each other in amazement. Then the pedestrian, unheeding the boy's warning, sprang forward with both hands extended. Swift pain contracting his features, the other held up his arms from which the two hands helplessly dangled.

They held each other off, greedily gazing; they thumped each other on the backs, the crippled one with such whacks as he could administer with his arms. Then later, in reply:

"Came on suddenly in the night, after I lost his mother, Alma—you remember Alma? — Bet you do! Good old sport; many's the quarrel we had that senior year over the nights I spent out. Happy, thought, with life brimming over the cup! Well, we married, and for six years it was heaven. Yes, I have th boy. But this—" he made a gesture with his helpless hands—"been to all the clinics in three cities. A specialist was interested and gave me a lot of attention. Nothing could be done, he said."

The boy opened a lop-sided door and stepped outside onto a tiny balcony, which served for the purpose of drying clothes and storing food—when there was any to store. The two old college chums were left alone.

A splintering of wood, a shriek of terror. The father reached the door first, which he kicked open. A broken rail—a jagged upright post which was thrust through the front of the boys overalls—there he hung, backward over space—the straps of the overalls being the only hold between the child and destruction.

A thought leaped to the father's mind. "Thank God Mrs. Leery sewed those buttons on only last night." But quicker than thought he had grabbed both of the boy's ankles, one in each hand drawing him to safety.

Back into the room, patting and stroking him, soothing him with loving words, the father reached to his pocket for his handkerchief.

As he raised it to wipe the boys tears his gaze fastened first on one hand and then on the other with a look of utter bewilderment, then he raised his eyes to the pedestrian's —and dried his son's tears and then his own.

Little Benny's Note Book

After supper ma said to pop, Willyum how would you like to hold up these 2 lengths of material in front of the window so I can compare them and get an idea?

Suppose I sit right here and hold them, wouldn't that give you an idea? pop said, and ma said, Certainly not, silly, they're for the windows, not for the chair.

But they might be very becoming on the chair, pop said, and ma said, Now Willyum are you going to be obliging or just argumentive?

Obliging, pop said.

And he got up and stood in front of the window holding up the 2 things as high as he could reach one on each side, and ma kept looking at them with her head on one side, and pop said, Well is it all decided, this is hard on the arms.

Do I want the stripes or do I want the dots, that's the question, ma said, and pop said, Are you taking into consideration that I wont always be standing here to add about 50 per cent to the effect? Of course I wont mind standing here from time to time, when we have guests, he said.

Of course the stripe adds length, ma said, and pop said, And then on the other hand the length no doubt adds stripes, the darn thing may turn out to be a vicious circle.

O, I'll wait till Gladdis drops over, ma said. Another minute and I'd of dropped over, but of course if you'd rather sacrifice Gladdis, it's okay by me.

And he sat down again trying to look even more exhawsted than he felt, and ma held up the 2 things for herself a while and then started to do the bridge problem.

ST. JOHN'S MISSION

The Ladies Guild held their meeting at the home of Miss B. Jones. It was open to members of the congregation and opened with a duet by Mrs. Corby and Mrs. Mathews, "Sweet Hour of Prayer." The collects for the day were read by Rev. Pepper followed by reading the Epistle. Mrs. Mathews read a paper on Lent and Mrs. Marion a poem "Gethsemane." Mrs. Mathews, president of the Guild, then presented a purse to Rev. Pepper who is leaving to go to Tweed and Madoc. Mrs. Grimson, Secretary of the Guild then presented Mrs. Pepper with a crocheted hand bag. Rev. A. L. Geen also presented them with a cheque. There were speeches by Rev. Geen and Miss B. Jones. The meeting closed with singing "Abide with Me." and the Blessing. Luncheon was served. The table was tastefully decorated with Easter eggs and chickens.

TORONTO STOCKS CLOSE

Toronto, April 8.—(CP)— Prices cracked for wide losses in today's short session on the Toronto Exchange unsettled by another outbreak of aggression in Europe. All sections of the Board were spotted by new lows or the year at the close and the indices showed losses of 1 to 2 points or more. Turnover was about 500,000 shares. The exchange will remain closed on Monday in observance of the Easter holiday.

A half dozen new lows for the year appeared in the Steel group and recessions of a point or more were boarded by Steel of Canada, National Steel Car, Canadian Car Pfd and Car Common. Senior Oils, Foods, Utilities, Papers, Liquors and Building Shares all fell into a downward slant. Ford A dropped to 17, off more than a point and Ford B had the same set-back.

Declines of a point or more were posted by International Nickel, Noranda, Hudson Bay and Smelters while Waite-Amulet was off 30 cents.

Some of the secondary golds were sold in quantity and losses ranged up to 25 cents while the Seniors dropped fractions to a point or more. McIntyre at 50 was off 1 1-4 and Buffalo-Ankerite also lost a point. Macassa weakened 25 cents, and Pioneer, 20

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, April 8—European worries combined with doubtful domestic business prospects to give the stock market another sharp kick today and leading issues dropped to new lows since last June.

Declines ranged from 1 to 5 points generally. A few high-priced shares were off 7 or so. Most pivotals were at or near bottom marks of the day at the close.

Selling pressure was pronounced at the opening when the ticker tape ran behind for a while. Although there was a letdown later, the recording machinery again lagged at the finish. Transfers for the two hours approximated 1,500,000 shares.

Hiram Walker dropped nearly 3 points in the Canadian section and fractional declines were posted by Canadian Pacific, Dome, Distillers and Lake Shore. Canada 4's were under moderate pressure.

Bonds softened with stocks, grains at Chicago and Winnipeg, the only important commodity markets open, pointed higher Prominent stocks in the slide included U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Eastman Kodak, Dow Chemical, American Telephone, Johns-Manville, Westinghouse, Philip Morris, Santa Fe, Great Northern, U.S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Du Pont, Anaconda and International Harvester.

$1,161,753 Top Salary Paid in U. S. to L. Mayer

Washington, April 8 (AP)— The treasury gave the United States Congress a peek at 1937 salaries today, revealing the big money is in the movies.

Top figure for the year was $1,161,753, paid Louis B. Mayer by Loew's Inc., to which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corporation added $134,750 for his services as vice-president.

The list showed sixty-three salaries greater than $200,000, of which forty were paid by motion picture companies.

The list presented consisted of salaries of more than $15,000, the payments including salaries and bonuses. Income taxes took sizeable portions, especially of larger salaries.

J. Robert Rubin, vice-president of Loew's Inc., received $651,123; and N. M. Schenck, president of the company, drew $489,602. Greta Garbo's compensation for the year was $472,000; Marlene Ditrich's, $370,000; Joan Crawford's $351,538, and Frederick March's, $334,687.

Other branches of the amusement field were prominent in the upper brackets. Major Edward Bowes of broadcasting fame received $427,817 as executive director of Edmar Enterprises Incorporated.

Alfred Lunt of the legitimate theatre drew $101,674, slightly more than that received by his wife, Lynn Fontanne, $99,674. Their stipends were paid by the Theatre Guild. Katharine Cornell of the stage received $58,717 from C. and M.C. Productions.

The New York Daily Mirror paid Walter Winchell $51,699 for his daily column. Robert L. Ripley, the believe-it-or-not man, received $149,777 from King Features Syndicate.

Aside from the movies, the biggest salary went to William Randolph Hearst—$500,000 as president and director of Hearst Consolidated Publications.

The automobile industry paid $247,210 to William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors; $146,056 to Edsel B. Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company; and $189,136 to Walter P. Chrysler, chairman of Chrysler Corporation. The top salary of the steel business, $394,586, went to Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Company. United States Steel paid $167,662 to Myron C. Taylor, then chairman of its Board of Directors.

LARGE QUANTITY SYRUP IS OFFERED AT $2 PER. GALLON

Producers Say Season's Yield Starting to Decline

Looking somewhat out of place with a cool wind blowing a threat of snow, maple syrup and sugar in the largest quantities offered this season, with the bright reds of new rhubarb, featured the week-end offering on the city market today.

General stocks however, were small for a pre-holiday offering and no exceptionally large amount of Easter foodstuffs was available. Eggs, however were plentiful, but the chicken offering was well below that usually offered on the Saturday before Easter.

Maple syrup catered to a fairly large clientele during the later hours with no change being noted over last week-end quotations. Gallons were sold at two dollars each with quart lots moving briskly at fifty cents. Maple sugar blocks sold at six for twenty-five cents with large sizes selling at commensurate prices.

A shortage of syrup was prophesized by a number of vendors, due to weather conditions One prominent Thurlow Township sugar-bush owner stated that his buckets would be taken in at the end of next week regardless of what occurs. "It has been a disappointment this year, in our district at least. The weather has been anything but conducive to a good sap-run, and it is extremely doubtful if a good crop can be harvested now."

Eggs, however, were plentiful and moved well during the early hours. "A" selects eggs sold at twenty-five cents per dozen with slightly inferior qualities offered at twenty-two cents. Farmers' butter was steady at two-pound rolls for fifty-five cents with "singles" offered at twenty-seven cents. New rhubarb caught shoppers' fancies selling at fifteen cents per bunch.

Small Chicken Display

While the chicken display was well below that of previous Saturdays, the quality was fair with choice weighty yearlings selling at from $1.15 to as high as $1.50 each. June chickens were priced at from ninety cents to $1.10 with fowl selling from sixty cents each. A few ducks were offered but moved slowly at from ninety cents each.

On the outside market staple vegetables and winter apples featured a sluggish display. Coolness of the weather kept attendance down to almost a minimum, a decided disappointment for the Saturday before Easter.

Northern Spies featured the winter apple offering, a choice variety of No. 1's selling at $1.50 per bushel. Stark Delicious was offered at $1.75 per hamper-lot with a few varieties of cooking apple selling at ninety cents and one dollar for the same quantity.

There was little to choose from in the vegetable line, and as one vendor puts it "there won't be much until the Spring comes—providing it does arrive". Carrots, parnsips, turnips and beets were quoted at fifty cents for bushel-lots with onions a few cents higher. Potatoes held steady at $1.25 and $1.35 for ninety point baglots.

Pickerel at 18 Cents

Fresh mudcats, pickerel and pike featured a variable fish offering with the former selling at fifteen cents per pound, pickerel at eighteen cents and pike at ten cents. Frozen whitefish was offered at eighteen cents and salmon steaks at fifteen cents per pound.

Six-weeks-old pigs were quoted at six dollars each during the early hours but it is understood this price declined towards noon.

BOTH LEGS FRACTURED

Brockville, Ont., April 8—(CP)—Miss Jean Sawdon, Prescott, was taken to St. Vincent de Paul Hospital here with fractures of both legs as a result of the car in which she was a passenger swerving from No. 2 Highway a short distance east of the town last night and colliding with a pole. The passengers were thrown through the top or out the sides of the car, which was driven by Elmer Blair, Brockville. Lloyd Smith, Brockville, another of the passengers suffered cuts over his right eye.

POLICE CORDON AROUND COUNTY

Precaution Taken After Inmate at Picton Jail Escapes

A police cordon encircled Prince Edward County early today after it was reported that an inmate of the county jail at Picton had escaped. Belleville police guarded the exit from the county at the bay bridge, while Trenton police patrolled the bridges and Murary canal zone.

City and Provincial Police here today received word that a man named Farrington, who had been convicted of theft and was serving a prison term in the Prince Edward County jail, had successfully effected escape from that institution in some unaccounted manner early today.

Prince Edward County police patrolled the southern end of the county in hopes of effecting an early arrest and requested Belleville and Trnton police to place a cordon around the northern end of the county in hopes of cutting off any means of escape from the island county. The escaped prisoner was described as being tall and slim. A brother, convicted at the same time, is still serving his term in the Picton jail.

Small Girl Forgot To Go Home From 'Snow White' Picture

Stays in Theatre for Fourth Showing While Parents Search

The powerful appeal of Walt Disneys famous picture "Snow-white and the Seven Dwarfs", that has played at the Belle Theatre on two successive occasions, was evidenced here last week when the parents of a little girl, alarmed at her non-appearance after being absent from her home since early afternoon discovered her seated in the theatre placidly enjoying the colorful spectacle for the fourth time.

The little girl attended the first matinee performance of the picture and sat through the continuous performance until seven o'clock. Her parents afraid for her safety at her failure to return home within a reasonable time started a search and called the theatre where efforts were made to locate her.

The description, that included the wearing of a pair of glasses, was instrumental in the locating of the missing girl by members of the staff, who noticing the glint of reflection from a pair of spectacles in a seat near the front of the theatre, investigated, and found the little girl enjoying her fourth vision of the picture.

GERMANY HAILS

English policy against Germany or a policy of peace in pursuance of which they will automatically have Germany as their ally."

General Franco's acceptance of the accord against the Communist International was interpreted as "the only logical outcome" of the Spanish war and as killing "last-minute efforts" by the western democracies to bring Spain to their camp.

It was asserted that Spain joined Germany, Italy, Japan, Hungary and Manchoukuo in the anti-Communist agreement "at the very moment when her efforts are being undertaken to set up a democratic front and to bring it in line with Moscow."

More Closely Bound.

The National Zeitung of Essen, a newspaper close to Field Marshal Hermann Goering, declared that the future policies of Nationalist Spain "will be bound closely with those of the Rome-Berlin axis."

It warned that any democratic effort to turn Spain against such a policy would be regarded as "an unfriendly act" and that the anti-comintern powers" will always be on hand if Spain's political integrity is threatened."

The Yokalanzeiger said: "King Zog was too ambitious and unwise in his demands and aims. He thought he could eventually free himself from Italian influence, not to rule over a really sound and independent Albania but to be able to draw upon Italy and other states for his inflated needs for money and power. Thus he yielded to influence all kinds of agents from democratic states, and betrayed Italy."

Had To Act.

Chancellor Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, said that Mussolini had to act because recent developments in Albania had become "dangerous since the democratic adversaries of the axis powers sought to nestle down like fungi wherever German-Italian relations toward their neighbors appeared to show rifts."

It added: "We experienced this in Bohemia and Moravia, in Lithuania, in Rumania and in Poland—the same danger now existed for Italy in Albania. The lesson to be learned by the democracies from Albania that the dynamics of the young political movements of central Europe cannot be broken up by intrigue and diplomatic manoeuvres."

$203 AVERAGE PRICE FOR BULLS

Calgary, April 8 (CP)—Calgary's 39th annual bull sale brought an average price of $203 for the 442 animals on the auction block, best price in eight years. The average was $57.95 higher than last year's sale price.

MEMBERS LEAVE FOR EASTER WEEK

Prorogation of Parliament Expected While King is in Canada

Ottawa, April 8 (CP)—Members of parliament left the Capital for an Easter holiday with a tidy bit of homework in their brief cases. The long Easter weekend will be a period of intense study for members representing rural constituencies particularly for the government's ambitious program of agricultural legislation was introduced in the hause of Commons Thursday.

The Commons branch of the country's law-making machine moved at high speed Thursday and in an afternoon sitting seven bills were given third and final reading, one was given second and referred to the Agriculture Committee while nine were given first reading. The House meets again Tuesday.

The speed with which the House ran through the order paper and the general atmosphere of good will apparent raised hopes for a Royal prorogation of parliament in May. If anything like the same pace it maintained when the members return after Easter the House will complete its businss in time for King George to officiate at the closing ceremonies during his visit to Ottawa.

GAS MASK OWNED BY A. W. THOMAS

A British gas mask of the type for use by the civilian population of Great Britain in the event of air raids was shown to the Ontario Intelligencer today by Mr. Arthur W. Thomas, superintendent of the Belleville Cemetery. Mr. Thomas returned to Belleville two weeks ago from England where he spent three months. The mask he possesses was given him while in England for use in emergency and he was permitted to bring it to Canada.

The device is simple enough, so that with very little care it can be placed about the face and held in position with straps over the head. The inhalant piece is of light metal and in it is contained fibre or compound which acts as a filter eliminating any poisonous gas which may be in the air which may be inhaled by the wearer. The rubber light in weight, the straps of cotton and the buckles of light metal.

There are millions of these. In time of emergency warnings would be given by blasts of sirens stationed at fire halls and other places.

Mr. Thomas stated today that the work of various areas in protecting the public in gas raids is under the A.R.P. Workers then there are wardens to see that the people take advantage of the protection.

"I attended a lecture", said Mr. Thomas 'in which explanations were given as to the use of the masks and it was explained that in coming out of bomb-proof shelters there is a danger of gas-laden atmosphere as the poison gas is heavier than air so that the use of the masks is advised until there is the assurance that all danger from poison gas is at an end."

"The people in England are calm", said Mr. Thomas in answer to an inquiry as to the state of the people.

Spring in England was advancing rapidly when Mr. Thomas left for Canada.

QUEEN RELATES

shocked into action by this invasion against my tragic little country," the Queen said.

Here her grandmother took up the story:

"Queen Geraldine did not want to leave the capital. She pleaded with her husband to let her stay. She begged him to allow her to be by his side to face whatever Providence should bring to their country.

Sad Parting With King.

"'Only let me be with you,' she said. 'We can face anything together. But to go—not knowing what is happening to you. No! No! Please let me remain!'

"The King was adamant. I know he would have liked nothing more than to have had her with him. But he ordered her to go.

"A fleet of cars stood ready in the palace courtyard. One was converted into an ambulance for the Queen and little boy—heir to the throne that is no more. The baby was only a few hours old when we started on our journey. Guns had started to boom. The King gave the order to start.

"He told my granddaughter that it was for her safety and her safety only that he wished her to leave him. She was carried by stretcher from the palace. The baby was carried by a nurse. We were all of us in tears at the parting."

CRIPPLED FATHER KILLED BY MOTORIST

Buffalo, N. Y., April 8—(AP) — A crippled father, carrying home candy and Easter bunnies to his five children, was killed today by the automobile of a hit-run driver, detective Thomas McFarland said.

McFarland identified the victim as Joseph Pieczynski, 48, of Lackawanna, N. Y., who lost his right leg in an industrial accident.

Easter at the Churches

In keeping with the reverence and solemnity of the occasion, special Easter services will be held tomorrow in all city churches. Music the great outlet for Easter joy at the Resurrection of Our Lord, will hold a prominent place in all services, with choirs of the city offering special programs in celebration of this glorious season.

Veterans of the city and district will hold their annual Vimy Church parade to Holloway Street United Church where the Rev. R. E. Newman will deliver a special Easter sermon. Members of the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion here will parade to the Salvation Army Citadel where Major Alderman will be in charge of the Easter service.

An Easter Drama will be given tomorrow night at Bridge Street United Church, while Tabernacle United Church will feature special musical service. Celebration of the Holy Communion will be held at Christ Church and St. Thomas' Anglican Churches with the rectors officiating.

Harold Williamson's fine baritone voice will be heard in the elaborate musical program that will greet the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, while an open session of the Sunday School of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church will be held during an outstanding Easter service.

Alliance Tabernacle, Bethel Hall, Evangel Temple, the Christian Science Society and other denominations will feature Easter with special speakers and musical offerings.

FIVE NARROWLY ESCAPE INJURY

Five persons narrowly escaped serious injury when two automobiles collided immediately west of Belleville on Highway No. 2 on Thursday night when a motor car driven by Ralph Hodgson, Ottawa, was struck by another automobile being driven in the opposite direction by Alvin F. Deslauriers, of Camp Borden. Considerable property damage resulted as the vehicles crashed into the ditch following the impact. R. M. Turner, Camp Borden, was accompanying Hodgson, while Mr. Deslauriers was accompanied by his wife and Robert Campman, who were proceeding to Ottawa. Sergeant H. E. Thompson of the O.P.P., investigated the accident during which both vehicles showed the result of considerable loss in property damage.

WILD DUCKS SEEK FOOD AT ROSSMORE

Wild black ducks, whistlers, bluebills and a few mallards which have been resting in the open waters of the Bay of Quinte for short periods this week before continuing north have become as tame as barn yard fowl, it is reported by bayside dwellers of Rossmore. This week many of the birds have ventured into the back yards of residents in search of scraps of garbage, and have waddled and quacked their way to back doors for food thrown to them. A pair of wild Canada geese was reported seen east of the bridge yesterday afternoon.

AIRPORT OFFICERS HONOR COMRADE ON MARRIAGE EVE

Officers of the R.C.A.F. staged a gala farewell party in the officers' mess building on Thursday evening for Flight Lieutenant R. C. "Bob" Mair, who today is to wed Miss Grace Graham of Belleville, and shortly thereafter to be transferred to the Halifax Station at Dartmouth. Flight Lieutenant Mair has been adjutant of the local station for a year past and has been extremely popular with all ranks.

Former Neapolitan Regrets Action of Italian Dictator

Italy's unprovoked invasion of Albania with her armed forces has been "a big surprise" to Albert Piciannini, local fowl buyer, who yesterday upon receiving news of the aggressive move of his former home land, expressed regret that "Mussolini had gone to war".

Now a naturalized Canadian, and resident of Canada for the past 23 years, the local resident who hails from Naples declared that his countrymen didn't want to fight, but blamed Il Duce for starting everything. But even if his native country has gone to war, he and thousands of Italians like him now residing in Canada will probably be kept out of it. Even the strongest love for their native land will not prompt those who have left it to return from the safety of the North American continent to what may be a world holocaust.

"Italians love their country, yes. They do not love Mussolini and all this blackshirt business. They are happy in Canada, and intend to stay here. There is much sadness over the fact he has gone to war and will be responsible for the deaths of so many good and true Italians.

"Italy is a home-loving country of flowers and songs and bambinos. But lately it has become a country where people are ruled too much. There is no song in that country now. There is no freedom. I have letters from my friends there. They express much, but say little. Italy has changed. And those who have left it do not wish to go back."

RUSSIAN PUBLIC WARNED PEACE WILL NOT LAST IDEFINITELY

Moscow, April 8—(AP)—The Soviet army newspaper, Red Star, warned the Russian public today not to assume their present period of peace would last indefinitely.

"As long as capitalist encirclement exists, our peaceful life will remain only an interval between armed clashes with the world bourgeoisie," it said. "Since its defeat in the first open clash with the armed Soviet people on civil war fronts (in 1920) the world bourgeoisie has not laid aside its weapons.

ENTHRALLED SAT THROUGH TWO SHOWS

Marvellous Artistry of Great Pianist Thrills Belleville Audiences

The marvellous hands of Ignace Jan Paderewski, known as the world's greatest living pianist, in a performance that overshadows his concert appearance, is now playing to crowded houses at the McCarthy Theatre in "Moonlight Sonata" the only motion picture ever made by the distinguished artist, the audience gets many close-ups of the famous hands that fairly fly at times over the keys, bringing out melodies that themselves are world-famous.

The picture is thrilling Paderewski concert in a charming framework of romance, that adds appeal to a picture that for sheer musical beauty has seldom if ever been surpassed in this city.

The famous Chopin's Polonaise in A flat, Opus 53; Lizst's Hungarian Rhapsody; Paderewski's own Minuet in G and the immortal Beethoven Classic from which the picture gets its name will live long in the memory of those who hear them played by a master's hands.

Charles Farrell and Marie Tempest assist the guest artists with a thread of romance that is heart-appealing in itself. The picture deals with the stranding of the passengers of an airliner, among them Paderewski and a gentleman adventurer, a society hypnotist, who immediately lays seige to the heart of a heiress in whose home they are entertained until their plane is repaired. The final expose of the villain, and the reuniting of the lovers through the medium of Mr. Paderewski's artistry makes a picture that is highly entertaining as well as musically perfect.

Many sat through two complete programs so thrilled were they with the Master's artistry.

Another chapter of "Flying G-men," a Walt Disney Silly Symphony in technicolor and a laughable comedy short "The Stupor-visor" rounds out a show that is full of first class screen entertainment.

PREMIER LYONS ILL ONLY DAY

He Rehabilitated Australia After Financial Crisis

Sydney, Australia, Saturday, April 8—Prime Minister Joseph A. Lyons died Friday morning after a two-day illness.

Mr. Lyons, who was 59 years old, had been Prime Minister of Australia since 1932 and was serving his thidr successive term.

The Prime Minister was taken to a hospital Thursday suffering from a chill. Later it was announced that he had had a heart attack.

His death occurred at 10.15 a.m. Friday.

Joseph Aloysius Lyons, the school teacher who beat the depression in Australia, had a political career unparalleled in his native country. He was regarded by his countrymen as the founder of modern Australia. He was "Honest Joe" throughout Australia.

2 HOMES DESTROYED; FAMILIES DRIVEN OUT

Orillia, Ont., April 8 (CP)—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed two Orillia homes and threatened a third here today and forced two families, totalling four adults and two children, to flee into the street in their night clothes.

The homes destroyed belonged to Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. McIntosh, where the fire started and Mr. and Mrs. William Wiseman. Estimated loss was $3,000 to each dwelling.

George Styles saw the McIntosh roof in flames and rushed in to give warning. McIntosh roused his wife and five year old daughter, Shirley, and together they fled into the street.

Fanned by a north wind, the flames spread to the Wiseman dwelling on the south side. Mr. and Mrs. Wiseman and their granddaughter, Joan, aged 7, had to be roused from their sleep.

Firemen arrived in time to save a third house by covering it with water.

BRUINS AND LEAFS MAY START FEUD IN SECOND GAME

Both Teams Played Cautious Hockey on Heavy Ice on Thursday

NO SHOT ON GOAL

Broda Had Easy Time in Twine in Second Period

By JAC KCALDER

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Boston, Apr. 8 (CP)—Indications that Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs might choose the second game here tomorrow night to start feuding in their Stanley Cup finals were in the air today.

"We tried to be cautious and sneak through with a victory in the opener," Coach Dick Irvin of the Maple Leafs explained. "Perhaps this time we'll throw something a little different at them."

"I can realize we looked slow, even though we beat them 2-1 in the first game," said Manager Art Ross of the Bruins. "But the ice was heavy Thursday night, and we were forced to play conservative hockey. Rain and mist outside were responsible for the ice conditions. I don't think we'll run up against those conditions Sunday."

Having felt each other out, the teams can be expected now to turn on some of the hockey that marked their turbulent Stanley Cup wars in other years. They showed signs of frantic action in the late stages on Thursday, when Captain Red Horner tied the score for Toronto with six minutes to play and Bobby Bauer won the game for Boston three minutes later.

Davidson, Chamberlain Heroic.

The main moments outside of these were supplied by Porky Dumart's first-period goal for the Bruins and the heroic work of Bob Davidson and Murph Chamberlain of Leafs in throwing back the Boston invaders when their team was short-handed through penalties.

The Bruins just checked and checked in the second period. Despite three penalties to the Leafs, Boston didn't get a shot on goal all through the chapter. Toronto stepped up the pace in the third and, after Goalie Frank Brimsek had stopped Gordon Drillon twice when he was right in, the Leafs were rewarded by Horner's goal.

If the expected action doesn't develop tomorrow night, it is almost bound to in the third game of the best-of-seven series. The Leafs are certain to open up fully at home, as always, and the Bruins will fall in line to some extent at least.

INDIANS READY FOR FINAL GAME

Badly Battered but Think They Can Take the Ramblers

Cleveland, April 8—(AP)—A battered band of Cleveland Barons awaited the fourth game with Philadelphia Ramblers in the best-of-five series for the International-American Hockey League championship.

The Barons need only one win to take the crown. Should the Ramblers triumph, the deciding game will be played in Philadelphia Tuesday.

Cleveland's casualty list includes Earl Bartholome, flashy forward who has deep facial gashes from being hit by a puck; defence man Art Berlett, with a bandaged eye; goalie Moe Roberts, with a gash on the forehead, and defenceman Fred Robertson, with a wrenched knee, all injured in Thursday night's 2-0 win over the Ramblers. Coach Bill Cook expects all four to be ready.

Montreal Awarded British Empire Games

Edmonton, April 8—(CP)— Subject to complying with requirements, Montreal has been awarded the 1942 British Empire Games it was announced here last night by John Leslie, Secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

"The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada by a majority vote of the executive committee has awarded the venue of the 1942 British Empire Games to Montreal, to be held in connection with its Tercentenary Celebrations,' 'Mr. Leslie announced.

Exact date for the games has yet to be arranged.

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

(By The Associated Press)

Orlando, Fla. — Finally getting alarmed at the failure of First Baseman Jimmy Wasdell to shape up as a satisfactory replacement for Zeke Bonura, sold to New York Giants, Washington Senators are reported casting around for someone else. Bert Haas, a property of Brooklyn Dodgers, is getting most of the attention.

Greensboro, N.C.—More about the Cincinnati Reds' second base troubles: Last week Manager Bill McKechnie was about ready to ship Eddie Joost back to the minors. Then Lonnie Frey hurt his thumb and Eddie went into the lineup. Now he's hitting and fielding so well Frey may have to nurse his thumb a long while.

Chattanooga, Tenn. — Jim Poindexter is beginning to live up to all the nice things Manager Doc Prothro of Philadelphia Phillies has been predicting for him. The rookie southpaw yesterday yielded only one hit in four innings against Chattanooga.

Little Rock, Ark. — New York Yankee tourists are kidding Jake Powell and Joe Gallagher about writing ahead to opposing managers asking for them to use lefthanded pitchers against the world champions. New York has faced eight southpaws in five games and Marse Joe McCarthy, following his announced plan, has started Powell and Gallagher in the outfield against all southpaws. Meanwhile George Selkirk of Huntsville, Ont., who gets his chance against righthanders, moaned, "I never knew there were so many southpaws in the world."

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

By the Associated Press

Dallas—Al Bernard, 156, Houston, Tex., and New York knocked out Maxie Long, 157, Dallas, (3).

ON WHOSE SHELVES WILL THEY REST THIS YEAR?

Stanley Cup

Allan Cup Memorial Cup

Three of the best known and highly valued trophies in the Canadian sport world, the cups awarded to the champion teams every year for supremacy in pro and senior and junior amateur hockey, are these three pieces of silverware, none of which rates as a gold mine in melted down or trade-in value, but worth many times their actual value to the teams that go through each hockey season to wind up with them in their position. The Stanley Cup, oldest of the trio, was once for amateur competition, but is now the be-all and the end-all of each National League season. At the moment Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs are battling for it. Replacing the Stanley Cup when it became a pro trophy was the Allan Cup, emblematic of the Canadian senior championship with Port Arthur Bearcats, Toronto Goodyears and Montreal Royals still in the running this season. In 1919 the junors got a trophy to fight for, the Ontario Hockey Association's Memorial Cup, and still in there fighting are Edmonton Athletic Club and Oshawa Generals. Both the Stanley Cup and the Allan Cup have previously gone to the cities still involved, while whatever hamlet the junior award goes to this year will be seeing it for the first time.

BAREFOOT PLAYER SIGNED BY ENGEL

Led High School Class and Went to Graduation Without Shoes

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 8—(AP)—Joe Engel, King of Jokers and scourge of the serious, came up today with a barefoot baseball player for his team in the Southern Association. A saw mill operator friend of Engel led the boy wonder into the Chattanooga stadium—Joshing Joe saw the point—the bare feet.

"I'll sign him," he ejaculated. "maybe he ain't no Feller or Hutchinson, but he don't wear shoes."

The lad is 19-year-old Durward Hammond, who grew to his present six feet in the sandy hills of Pike County, Ga.

Never has he worn shoes. "They hurt," was his succinct explanation.

Durward admits lack of shoes has caused him some embarrassment.

"I led my high school class," he said, "and we had to wear caps and gowns when we got our diplomas. I reckon my feet sort of looked funny sticking out from under that gown."

ORIOLES TO HAVE YOUNG, HUSTLING BASEBALL TEAM

Rogers Hornsby Retained to Manage Flock This Season

GOOD OUTFIELD

Infield Presents Difficulties but Replacements Are Expected

By Randall Cassell

Baltimore Evneing Sun Baseball Writer

Daytona Beach, Fla., April 8 — (AP) — RogersHornsby, managing Baltimore Orioles for the first time this season although he served as coach for a while in 1938, will send a young and he hopes hustling ball club into the 1939 International Baseball Leauge wars.

Few are the men held over from a disastrous campaign a year ago when the Birds finished last after a veteran ball club, which failed due partially to injuries, was broken up in mid-season.

Hornsby is satisfied with his outfield and catching department and believes he'll get satisfactory results from a new and youthful mound corps. But the infield is a problem.

The return of Dick West on option from Cincinnati, to which club the Orioles sold him last season, gives the flock a No. 1 catcher who can hit well and do a creditable job of receiving. Backing up West will be Ben Warren, up from Gadsden of the Southeastern League.

Six For Outfield

Six men compose the outfield staff. Frank McGowan, operated on for a torn knee cartilage early last season when he was hitting .420, is back in form and due for the centrefield post.

Art Graham, speedy and a good hitter: Fred Tauby, a steady and consistent man who can hit .300 in class AA ball; Gus Dugas, a veteran who hit .314 in 1938; Murray (Red) Howell, drafted from Birminghan with a life-time batting average of .335 and Al (Dutch) Mele who is on option from Cincinnati, round out the outfield list.

In Spring training the Orioles have used Pete Medak, a recruit, on first base with Gene Corbett, 1938 Bird first sacker, on second and Huck Geary and Charles Glock, down from Cincinnati on option, at short and third, respectively.

Only One Sure of Job

This, however, isn't likely to be the infield opening the league season on April 20 against Montreal. Corbett is the only man sure of his job. From the Athletics, owing the Orioles five players in the deal which took pitcher Jim Reinger to to the Mackmen last summer, will come a first baseman, shortstop and third sacker. Nick Etten will undoubtedly be the first sacker. He hit .370 for Jacksonville in 1938.

The veteran Carl Fischer and Jack Tising, the latter bought from Indianapolis, are the only experienced mound operatives. Harry Matuzak, another veteran, has been sold to the Phillies for Spring inspection but may be returned to the flock.

CRAFTY ROYALS READY FOR GAME

Win Tonight Will Put Them in Against Western Winners

Toronto, Apr. 8 (CP)—The crafty Montreal Royals, the best in hockey in Quebec Province, and Toronto Goodyears, the super six in Ontario senior hockey, tangle tonight in what may be the last game of their best-of-five series for eastern supremacy and the right to meet Port Arthur Bear Cats for the Allan Cup.

Coach Joe Primeau of Toronto is as confident "Royals haven't got us yet" as the Royal boss, Frank Carlin is sure the Goodies "were done" when the Montrealers finished with them in the last game.

The teams have battled relentlessly through three games of their eastern final. Toronto humbled the Royals 6-2 in the first game at Montreal, but the Quebec champions battered them for victories of 3-1 and 6-3 in the other games. If Royals win tonight they can sharpen their skates for the Dominion final against Bear Cats, the best in the west.

The entire play-off picture hinges around the Goodie-Royal series and may have a bearing on the Memorial Cup final between Oshawa and Edmonton Roamers who open their junior final here Monday.

Should Royals oust Goodyears, the Allan Cup final will go to Montreal and the juniors will move to Western Canada to wind up their series. But if Goodyears extend the Royals and cop the eastern title the Allan Cup final will be played in the west and the juniors will remain here.

OSHAWA JUNIORS DEFEAT VERDUN TO ENTER FINALS

Will Meet Edmonton Roamers in Toronto for Memorial Cup

KNOTT THE HERO

Left Winger Scores Three Goals in the 4-2 Victory

By DICK SHERIDAN

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, April 8—(CP)— Nick Knott, who handles his hockey stick as though it were a golf club, lifted Oshawa Generals into the Memorial Cup finals last night with a surprising display of goal scoring on tee shots.

The loose-limbed left winger potted three goals as his team licked Verdun Maple Leafs 4-2 in the deciding game of a best-of-three series for the Eastern Canada junior title. Two of his tallies were scored on drives a golf pro would have envied.

Generals clash with Edmonton Roamers in the Cup finals, the best-of-five series opening here Monday and continuing Wednesday and Friday. Roamers beat Brandon Elks for the Western honors.

Carried Off Honors

While Knott carried off the scoring honors, it was Billy Taylor, Generals incomparable centre, who set up most of the shots. Billy The Kid assisted in three goals. He planted the puck on the goal crease for Orv Smith to score the first goal and helped Knott score his first two.

Leafs, who dropped the second game of the series 6-1 after winning the first 2-1 played back to form and held a goal lead going into the second period.

Jacques Fillion gave Verdun the lead in the last second of the first frame when he poked a loose puck under goalie Dinny McManus' feet. Leafs retained the lead for five minutes of the second session when Smith scored as Moe Dupont of Verdun served out a penalty.

Walker Got Second

Jerry Walker got the second Leaf goal late in the third when he caught McManus out of position after the latter had warded off bids by Les Ramsay and Fillion.

In between these goals, Generals rapped in their four. After Smith tallied Knott sent Oshawa ahead for the first time on a picture play. Taylor carried the puck over the blue line, passing to Norm McAtee. McAtee held the puck for a moment and then lifted it to the goal mouth. Knott, rushing in from well out, whacked the puck high into the net.

Scored from 10 Feet

The left winger's second goal was scored from some 10 feet out. Taylor shot the puck from behind the net and Knott didn't waste a moment in hoisting it into the Verdun goal.

The Leaf's defence, backed by goalie Paul Bibeault, was at its best in the first period when Oshawa held a two-man advantage due to penalties to Frankie Eddolls and Eric Fleet, regular rearguards. Although Oshawa players were parked on either side of him Bibeault thwarted them at every turn.

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

with

Ken J. Colling

Today's melodrama, dear children, is entitled—"Twenty years after", or "Where's our wandering ball team today?"

Exactly 20 years ago this month the Grand Trunk Athletic Association was organized, from which sprung the first senior baseball team to compete under Belleville colors in the C.O.B.L. and the O.B.A. The G.T.R. A.C. was primarily organized before provincial baseball was mooted in the Central Ontario zone At the first meeting of the C.O.B.L. 20 years ago this month, the Belleville entry was denied, as the league did not desire to expand east of Cobourg. The teams included at that time were Oshawa, Port Hope, Cobourg, Lindsay and Peterborough, the latter club being under the direction of that colorful leader, Jake Solomon, the father of the C.O.B.L.

Just because they were not allotted the opening game on May 24th, the Bowmanville entry kicked over the traces and bolted the league. The Belleville G.T.R. team then was asked to assume Bowmanville's part of the league schedule and the locals agreed. The rest is history — the old 'Trunks', as they were then known, went on to win the Central League and subsequently eliminate Toronto Oslers and finally trounce the Hamilton Harvesters to win their first senior O.B.A. title and pennant. Freddie Goyer was the club's ace moundsman and hurled the Trunks to two championships, Joe Kelleher and Harry Whalen were the other pitchers with the team. W. J. "Peeney" Mills returned from Brantford that year to take over the catching duties, while Walt Gerow was at first, "Cap." Smith at second, Vern Weir at short, while Joe Kelleher, Harry Mills and Allan Meagher shared the hot corner duties. Al Morden, Wicky Ross and Sammy Symons patrolled the outer garden just 20 years ago.

Of course that was 20 years ago and those players are all on the shelf, long-since having passed their day of usefulness on the diamond. Other heralded players have come and gone while wearing the livery of a Belleville baseball team until today the old game of baseball has drifted far from the popularity it enjoyed a decade or two ago. With the exception of possibly Freddie Goyer, Belleville has a collection of ballsters today, who are much better than given credit for. There is an absence of hard-hitting outfielders, but around the inner works a good infield can be assured an intermediate team here this summer. Last year's infield of Reid, Collins, Sero and Johnson is intact, while coming up from the junior ranks will be Bill Carson, at first, Bill McQuaid at second, Vince Guay at short and Jarrell at third. With Sonny Green turning in a splendid effort behind the plate, three tried and proven hurlers in St. Louis, Weeks and Joe Kelleher.

In naming the above potential baseball strength in Belleville, we only scratched on the surface, but unfortunately there are not those sufficiently interested in the sponsoring of a team to insure Belleville's return to the Bay of Quinte League in 1930. Perhaps if the players themselves would add a little tone of encouragement and co-operation to the picture, maybe some interested baseball mentors would consider the sponsoring of an intermediate team in Belleville. Last year the management felt they did not receive the wholehearted co-operation of the players from many angles. After all if the boys desire to play baseball, they should be willing to sacrifice a little time and effort to attend practices, etc. This is not the first occasion whereby the future and security of baseball has been impaired by the players in Belleville. In what we term the "good old days" of ball here the veteran players shunned and ignored the younger element aspiring for positions, until youthful players felt they were being pushed into the background by the veterans, which was quite true at the time. Such actions took their toll in future years when a drought in baseball material was noted. Today the youngsters are anxious to play ball, so why not rally to their cause and give them that opportunity?

Perhaps oldtime sport fans will recall the late Ralph Garratt, who died at Wellington this week as being the man who organized the old "Oka" lacrosse team in Belleville some 50 years ago.

For the second year in succession the Oshawa Generals have advanced to the Memorial Cup finals. Last year the St. Boniface Seals eliminated the Generals in the Dominion junior finals, but now the Oshawa kids find themselves right back knocking at the Memorial Cup door once more. After having taken the measure of the Verdun Leafs 4-2 last night, the Generals now meet the Edmonton Roamers in the Dominion finals at Toronto.

Did You Know That Art Ross thinks real highly of his Boston Bruins of 1938-39 and they proved their worth with a 2-1 win over the Leafs in the first Stanley Cup game....It's victory or elimination for the Goodyears tonight, the Montreal Royals having won 2 games to the 'Goodies' one in the Allan Cup semi-finals.... Harry Rollins was re-elected to the executive of the O.A.S.A. in Hamilton yesterday....53 horses have been nominated to the King's Plate, so take your choice youse gals and guys....Mel Harder will hurl the Indians' opener this year....Reports from Boston are to the effect the initial Stanley Cup final was productive of anything except good hockey: too much kitty-bar-the-door type of puck-chasing....If Montreal Royals win over the Goodyears tonight, the Allan Cup finals will be played in Montreal, but if the "Goodies" rally and come through the finals may go to the West.

MEMORIAL CUP SURVIVORS

Oshawa Generals qualified last night to meet Edmonton Roamers in the final for the Memorial Cup, emblematic of Canadian Junior Hockey supremacy, when they defeated Verdun Maple Leafs 4-2 in the deciding game of a best-of-three series. Leafs won the first contest 2-1 and dropped the second 6-1. Sectional representatives in the Cup final:

East:—Ontario-Oshawa.
West:—Alberta-Edmonton.

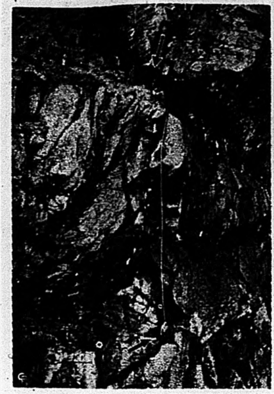
Breakneck Mountain Lives Up to Its Name



Tragedy was enacted on the precipitous slope of Breakneck mountain on the east bank of the Hudson River, near Cold Spring, New York. The LOWER arrow indicates the body of Irving Feigin, 20-year-old music student, swaying pendulum-like, entangled in his life-line. The UPPER arrow indicates a group of rescuers on the ledge from which Feigin slipped to his death. Feigin and his companion, Jeremiah Block, had clambered to the top of Breakneck by way of the comparatively easy northern slope and then tried to descend by way of the cliff-like southwest face. They were 300 feet from the top when disaster struck—Feigin slipped off a ledge to his death. Block managed to hitch their life-line about a tree, but when help arrived, it was too late. Feigin was found to have strangled in his life-line.

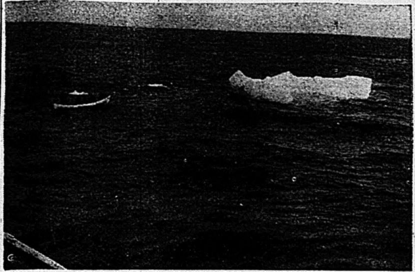
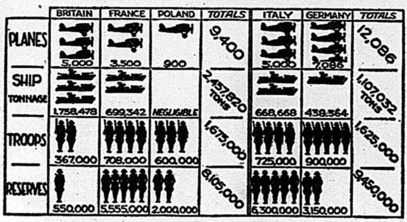
Taming a "Growler" on the Ice Patrol



This is the season of the year when the fancy of the young men in the coast guard ice patrol off the Grand Banks turn not to thoughts of love but to thoughts of the big bergs that come bobbing down from the north to menace shipping in the Atlantic ship lanes. Shipping must be warned and it is the job of the ice patrol to warn it. They give the location of the berg with the direction and rate of its drift. Small pieces that break away from the main berg are called "growlers", the patrol takes care of these, blowing them up with dynamite. Here you see the ship's boat of the U.S.S. Chelan, of the ice patrol, alongside a growler measuring about 100 x 100 feet with about 30 feet out of the water. Two charges of T.N.T. reduced the growler to pieces suitable for high balls and wiped out a menace to shipping.

'Peace Front' Sea Power Offsets Totalitarian Lead in Air Force



By Central Press Canadian

London— Britain's abandonment of appeasement in favor of a militant "peace front" around Germany can succeed in stopping Hitler only if the Fuehrer is convinced the military array against him cannot be beaten in a short war, according to opinion in informed diplomatic circles. As a result the issue of war or peace rests squarely on the answer as to who has the mightiest war machine, the Rome-Berlin axis or the Franco-British front.

The line-up is graphically illustrated in the chart above. The combined air force of Germany and Italy outnumber the sky fleets of Britain, France and Poland 12,086 planes to 9,400. Futhermore, Germany is reported to have plane factories superior to those of the "peace powers," capable of turning out thousands of machines each month to the latter's hundreds.

The anti-dictator front on the other hand, has a combined sea fleet of 2,457,820 tons compared to 1,107,032 tons for the Rome-Berlin Axis, which is also outmanned in number of actual troops in service, though by a mere 50,000, the totals being 1,675,000 to 1,625,000.

Finally, the dictator nations hold an edge in the matter of reserves, listing 9,450,000 to 8,105,000 for Britain, France and Poland,

The figures indicate that the Rome-Berlin Axis would depend upon its air fleets to blast the enemy into submission within a period of a few weeks or months for time would work increasingly against the dictator powers.

Already impoverished and, in the case of Germany, on short rations, they apparently could be starved into submission through the power of the allied sea fleets, much as Germany was forced to her knees in the last war, if the conflict dragged out.

The superiority of the totalitarian nations in reserves would seem to offer a balancing factor in event of a long war, but this probably would be more than offset by the assistance the "peace powers" would expect to receive from Turkey, Britain's dominions, and possibly Russia, should Japan line up in Hitler's side.

Why the Weather!

By Major A. H. Thiessen

Science Service Meteorologist

Future weather! It seems that old Mother Earth has cooled down from an original gaseous state to a condition in which it radiates as much as it receives from the sun. This means that the weather and climate within limits will remain as they are until changed by outside conditions. These changing conditions are mostly solar. The sun it is believed, after a million million years will have lost six per cent of its weight by radiation, and its radiating power will have been so reduced that the earth temperature will be about 50 degrees lower than at present. So, barring accidents, we are at the dawn of an almost endless day.

WOULD ALLOW U.S. TO USE TERRITORY IN EVENT OF WAR

Irish Unity is Believed to be of Supreme Importance to U. S.

MIGHT OPEN PORTS

N. Ireland Would Retain Own Gov't. and Participate in Federal One

By JOSEPH DENNIGAN

Canadian Press Correspondent

Dublin, April 10—(CP Cable) — Authoritative quarters declined comment today on reports current here that negotiations are under way to solve the Irish partition problem.

The reports revived suggestions aired last year during the Anglo-Irish trade talks that a solution might be found in a federal government at Dublin, with Northern Ireland retaining its own government.

One report said a solution might include an agreement permitting United States forces to use Eire territory in wartime if the United States should be involved. Authoritative quarters also declined to discuss this because no one was willing to predict future developments.

The feeling, however, is that Irish unity is a factor of supreme importance to America as well as to Great Britain. Aerial transport is rapidly making Ireland strategically an island off the American coast just as much as off the European coast.

Consequently some people feel a solution would be a joint Anglo-American guarantee of Ireland's security.

Protected by U. S.

London, April 10—(CP-Havas)—A Dublin dispatch to the Sunday Times (Independent) reports that important negotiations are now going on among Washington, Dublin, Belfast and London toward bringing about a united Ireland, which would be protected by United States warships and troops in time of war.

The visit to Washington next month of Prime Minister De Valera of Eire will play a capital role in the negotiations, the dispatch said. President Roosevelt was described as eager to see the question settled by achievement of Irish unity.

"One report is that if such a solution could be reached for a united Ireland maintaining external association with the British Empire the United States armed forces should by treaty be given certain accommodation in time of war," the ditspatch stated.

Would Open Ports

In exchange for Anglo-American guarantees of security, Ireland would open its ports to United States warships and merchant vessels and its territory to American troops, it added.

The question of whether British troops and ships should have access to Ireland would thus be deprived of its importance, the correspondent said, since Irish ports and the commercial shipping routes to America would be protected by United States war vessels.

Irishmen who would not enlist in the British army would be given an opportunity to join the United States armed forces, he added.

Northern Ireland would retain its own government but would also participate in a federal government of a united Ireland in Dublin.

GANGSTER LEADER PLEADS GUILTY TO TAX EVASION

John Torrio, Underworld Character Abruptly Stops Trial

$86,000 INVOLVED

Notorious Figures of Underworld Mentioned at Trial

New York, April 10—(AP)— John Torrio, former Chicago underworld leader, pleaded guilty in federal court today to charges of conspiracy to evade payment of income taxes.

His brother-in-law, William Slockbower, one of four co-defendants also pleaded guilty.

All went on trial March 29 before Judge Clancy and a jury of seven men and five women.

James La Penna also pleaded guilty.

When pleas had been recorded, Federal Judge John Clancy declared a mistrial for the other two defendants, Louis V. La Cava and John D'Agostino.

Torrio, a small, quiet man sometimes referred to in the underworld as "the little one" or "the immune" was a one-time crony of Al Capone during the early days of the prohibition era in Chicago.

He was accused by the government of having invested huge sums in the firm of Prendergast, Davies and Co., Ltd., wholesale liquor dealers.

Many Figures Mentioned

Names of many notorious figures in the underworld were frequently mentioned during the trial.

The government charged that during the years 1933, 1934 and 1935 Torrio omitted to pay income taxes of $86,000, and that Slockbower, La Penna, of Valley Stream, N.Y., Louis La Cava of Westchester County and John D'Agostino, of Egg Harbor, N.J. covered up Torrio's income, thereby conspiring with him to defraud the government.

Torrio, in 1933, paid slightly more than $1,000 taxes on income he "fictitiously" set forth because, he said, "I'm Torrio. I've got to pay a tax. I don't want anyone chasing me."

A tax return was made out by a former deputy collector of internal revenue who had been dismissed from the government service for accepting "gratuities."

THREE VEHICLES FIGURE IN CRASH

Accident Occurs Near Port Hope and Due to Slippery Roads

Cobourg, Ont., Apr. 10 (CP)—Sleet and rain made driving treacherous in this district Saturday night. Three vehicles figured in an accident at Rosebury Hill, west of Port Hope. A car driven by Beverley Curry of Port Hope slid into the ditch at the bottom of the hill. A tow-truck arrived, set up flares, and started the task of hauling Curry's car out. A third car then came along, driven by Miss Frieda Newman of Toronto, and crashed into the other two vehicles.

Three miles east of Cobourg Fred Hune, of Brighton, stopped early Sunday to change a tire. Shortly afterwards a car driven by Ralph Pichon, Toronto, ran into the rear of Hunt's car. Another car driven by William Denny, of Colborne, struck the rear of Pichon's car. A fourth machine took to the ditch to avoid striking the pile-up.

DROWNED AT GANANOQUE

Gananoque, Ont., April 10—(CP)—Robert Cumpson, 55, was drowned today in the Gananoque River. He tumbled into the stream while pushing ice from the lower dam. The body was not immediately recovered.

RESURRECTED REFUGEE

Risen from the dead, and ready to begin life anew, Dr. Jonas Borak, radiologist, is pictured aboard the S.S. Paris as he arrived in New York. When Hitler "Anschlussed" Austria out of existence, Dr. Borak was taken from his Vienna home—and later was reported to be among the large number who had committed suicide while in custody—but he was released. The story is that he saved the life of the wife of a high Nazi official. She had been suffering from cancer of the throat, and Dr. Borak is said to have been given his freedom and a passport in gratitude.

FRENCH DEFENCE COUNCIL MEETS

France Prepares for All Eventualities in East

By CHARLES FOLTZ

Associated Pres Foreign Staff

Paris, April 10 -(AP)— France and Great Britain were reported today to be considering joint military and naval demonstrations to back up their eastern European allies against further Italian-German expansion.

A two-hour extraordinary meeting of the French defence council on Easter day, when Premier Edouard Daladier consulted commanders of the French army, sea and air forces was said by informed sources to have been concerned with such demonstrations.

There was no hint in the press or official quarters as to what form such measures might take. It was said the defence chieftains met to plan "preparations for all eventualities" and that "this is not the time for statements but for military measures to complete preparations."

Conference With Sir Eric Phipps

After the meeting Daladier conferred with the British Ambassador, Sir Eric Phipps, and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet.

The Paris newspaper L'Epoque cautiously declared "it is not forbidden to suppose" that the government considered "measures of military precaution to discourage new surprises."

French observers indicated British and French warships might "go calling" in Greek waters if Athens

Gayda Warns Critics Dictators May Interfere in U. S.

Rome, April 10—(AP)—Virginio Gayda, replying to criticism in the United States of Italy's seizure of Albania, told Americans today to "mind their own business."

Writing in Il Giornale D'Italia, Fascism's leading newspaper spokesman threatened that Italy and Germany otherwise would meddle in American affairs.

"Let them be content to handle their many and complex internal problems still pending," he wrote. "Let them not complain if, refusing this advice, they see European states, chosen as targets, finally for their own defence busying themselves with American things".

ROOSEVELT STUDIES TROUBLED SITUATION

Washington, April 10—(AP)—President Roosevelt returned to Washington from a southern vacation today and before leaving his train received State Secretary Cordell Hull for a discussion of the troubled European situation.

Secretary Henry Morgenthau of the Treasury also joined in the conference.

As he boarded his special train at the Warm Springs station yesterday Mr. Roosevelt's farewell words were: "I'll be back in the fall if we don't have a war."

ITALIAN FORCES REINFORCED TO 950,000 MEN

Entire 1912 Class Has Been Called and 1905, 1912 Specialists

RESERVISTS CALLED

Italians Say Orders Are Natural Consequence of New Bloc

Rome, April 10—(AP)—Authorities reported today the Italian army had been reinforced with reservists to a total strength of approximately 950,000. They confirmed that the entire class of reservists born in 1912 had been called to the colors as well as specialists of the classes from 1901 to 1912.

Military experts estimated that about 350,000 reservists have been called to active service this year. The standing army of Jan. 1 was about 300,000 men. Conscripts born in 1918 and the first four months of 1919 who were called for regular service last month provided about 240,000. Approximately 60,000 others were believed to have been added by calling of undersized men previously exempted from service.

General Perparedness Claimed

Authoritative Italian sources said the reservists had been called up as a part of general preparedness during European tension. They declared it as a natural consequence of efforts at London to line up smaller European States in protective alliances against the dictatorships.

Sending of troop reinforcements in recent months to Libya and the Dodecanese Islands and the expeditiory force to Albania were believed partly responsible for the calling up of reservists.

POPE POINTS WAY BACK TO PEACE THROUGH RELIGION

'Arm of Violence' Seen as Cause of 'Dull Flashes of War'

APPEAL TO RELIGION

Vatican City, April 10—(AP)—Pope Pius XII has pointed the way for a warlike world back to the path of peace through a return to the practice of religion.

In an Easter sermon four weeks after his coronation, the Pontiff called for a "return to the king of peace" and affirmed "he will give us—as he promised—peace."

From his own sovereign state inside the Kingdom of Italy, which at that moment was pressing for its conquest of little Albania to completion, the Pope referred to the "arm of violence" as a cause of "dull flashes of war."

"How may peace be had," His Holiness asked, "if, unfortunately even among nations......pacts solemnly sanctioned and the plighted

International Briefs

Athens, April 10—(AP)— Landing of Italian troops and large consignments of munitions on all islands of Italy's Dodecanese group was reported at Piraeus today. Conservative estimates said Italian troops now in Rhodes—the largest of the 12 small Dodecanese islands off the southwest coast of Asia Minor—now exceeded 45,000. The islands lie in the Aegean and close to Greece.

New York, April 10—(CP)— The March issue of Kriegsmarine, German naval periodical which has reached New York, shows a photograph of a submarine apparently camouflaged.

The vessel in the picture is smeared with the black, grey and white angular splotches familiar in great war days. The designation '38' appears in white numerals on a black triangular splotch of paint on the conning tower.

Jane's fighting ships lists the U-33 as a 500-ton submarine, mounting 3.5-inch guns with five torpedo tubes and a speed of more than 16 1-2 knots.

DISMAL WEATHER CURTAILS PARADE OF EASTER FINERY

Gay Spring Outfits Are Hidden Under Winter Coats

SKIING IN QUEBEC

By The Canadian Press

That new Easter bonnet with the blue ribbons on it didn't make its debut on many a promenade this Easter. For only the really determined miss, the true "parader," dared the snow, rain and generally inclement weather that prevailed throughout Canada.

Gay spring outfits and sportive new shoes were hidden under heavy winter coats, overshoes and turned-up collars as heavy snow fell over Quebec and the Maritime Provinces yesterday. Comparatively few Ontarians dared near-freezing temperatures and chill winds to display their finery while in the west rain and snow kept the fashion display to a minimum.

The unfavorable climatic conditions had little affect on church attendances. Large congregations turned out to hear again the story of the resurrection and to hear their pastors pray for world peace with goodwill toward men.

A sharp protest against "international political scandal" was voiced in a sermon in the Quebec Basilica by Rodrigue Cardinal Villeneuve.

Britain Understands Its Own Fate Threatened by Axis Says Editorial

London, April 16—(CP-Havas) — Great Britain now understands its own fate is threatened by the Rome-Berlin axis, The Daily Telegraph (Conservative) said today.

"The ministers can be under no misapprehension as to the depth to which public opinion in this country has been stirred," the editorial declared.

"Those who have been generously determined to put the most favorable construction on acts which were obviously most exceptionable are now left with no room for any comforting illusions.

"It is not the smart of grievances but the sheer lust of aggression which actuates the totalitarian powers. It now becomes as clear as daylight that all the aggressive moves which have kept Europe in incessant agitation since occupation of the demilitarized Rhineland zone are part of a carefully planned design for building up an irresistible combination in the international chessboard....

The Daily Express (Independent) said:

"In Britain the pressing necessity is preparation for war, for by such preparations we may find peace. It is only by being strong whenever the threat comes that we can hope to give guarantees of peace to our people, and no nation in the world is in a better position to make herself strong in arms than Britain...

The Daily Herald (Labor) said:

"At last the democracies are making their policy consistent with what is required by the dangers in which they stand. But a realistic appreciation of the dangers is not enough. There must be speed, and still more speed, in meeting them.

"Therefore, as Britain acted in Eastern Europe with the Anglo-Polish agreement, so she must now act in the Balkans, in cooperation with all willing nations....

Satisfaction of Bulgaria's territorial claims on Rumania is imperative for formation of a "solid block of peace-loving countries," the diplomatic correspondent of the Sunday Times (Independent) said.

He expressed the opinion Great Britain would not denounce the Anglo-Italian accord because of the invasion of Albania.

Invitation to War If Attempt Made To Seize Corfu

Chamberlain Announces Parliament Will Convene on Thursday for Policy Announcement

EMERGENCY ORDERS

British Cabinet Holds First Emergency Session Since Great War after Many Conferences

London, April 10—(AP)— The British cabinet was reported reliably today to have decided to offer to guarantee the independence of Greece and Turkey.

Earlier Prime Minister Chamberlain was said to have told Italy that any attempt to seize the strategic Greek-owned island of Corfu might be interpreted by Great Britain as an invitation to war.

The cabinet meeting coincided with movements of British warships in the Mediterranean.

At the same time the cabinet decided to interrupt parliament's Easter vacation and convene both Houses Thursday.

Announcement Thursday

The object was to register the British government's disapproval of the Italian invasion of Albania and to discuss ways of protecting other nations considered as threatened.

The announcement of Britain's intention of guaranteeing the independence of Greece and Turkey may be made by Mr. Chamberlain to the House of Commons Thursday.

The special parliamentary meeting is likely to last until Friday. A foreign affairs debate will follow the Prime Minister's declaration.

The last time parliament was recalled ahead of schedule was during the Czecho-Slovak crisis in September.

While the cabinet met, the Admiralty confirmed that all British warships had been ordered to leave Italian ports. However, there was no confirmation of reports that the vessels were en route to Greek ports.

It was explained in informed quarters that Britain's willingness to guarantee the independence of Greece and Turkey was based on a unanimous belief of the committee of imperial defence that these countries are vital to the safety of British and French imperial routes in the Mediterranean.

Among callers at the Foreign Office were the Greek and Rumanian Ministers and the Italian Charge D'Affaires, who was told that Britain was not satisfied with Italian reasons for the invasion of Albania.

Issuance of fleet orders at Malta and the sailing of the battleship Malaya from Menton, France, indicated to some observers that Britain might be preparing to protect the Greek coast. All British naval officers on holiday in Tangier, in Morocco, were ordered by telegraph to return to their ships immediately.

A Greek spokesman here said Britain had not been asked to send ships to protect Greek ports, important to the safety of Anglo-French trade routes through the Mediterranean.

Mr. Chamberlain's message to Premier Mussolini said to have been conveyed by the Earl of Perth, British Ambassador in Rome, was reported to be that Britain would "consider any attempt to seize Corfu as a casus belli (cause for war)."

ORGANIZE EX-RULERS

Presenting a grievance to the French government that her 5,000-franc ($130) yearly pension has lost buying power through inflation, Salima Machimba (pictured), ex-queen of the island of Mohilla, declared that ex-sovereigns should form a union to safeguard what rights they have left. Salima turned the island, in the Indian ocean near Madagascor, over to France 40 years ago when she married a French gendarme, Camille Paul. They have a daughter and live on a small farm in eastern France. Several ex-kings have been approached on the idea to get collective action.

ALBANIAN GOV'T PLEDGES LOYALTY TO ITALIAN RULE

Doubtful Whether Mussolini Will Make Triumphal Entry Today

ADVANCES CONTINUE

Tirana, April 10—(AP)—The provisional Albanian government today pledged the loyalty of the Albanian people to Premier Mussolini and formally accepted Italian rule on their behalf.

The President and Secretary of the administrative committee broadcast loyalty addresses to Albanians and to Italy. Their speeches were relayed over all Italian radio stations.

Contrary to expectations in Tirana, Mussolini had not arrived in time for the broadcast and it was doubted that he would come today.

The "appeal" of Albanian leaders to Mussolini to permit them to found an Albanian Fascist party also was read over the radio.

"We express our thanks for your (Mussolini's) sacrifices which have saved the Albanian people from so many dangers," the apoeal said.

Gather in Main Square

The addresses came as crowds gathered in the main square of this fallen Albanian capital in expectation of a broadcast by Mussolini. The President of the provisional government spoke in Albanian and the secretary in Italian. The broadcast opened with the Albanian National Anthem and the Fascist hymn.

Many thought there would be an Italian Governor-General, or possibly a Viceroy as in Ethiopia, and that the 1,000,000 inhabitants of this mountainous land of 10.629 square miles would be given a national assembly to make decisions where there was no chance of conflict with Fascist policy.

(The Albanian Minister to Bulgaria telegraphed to Mussolini yesterday an expresison of hope that

Holland is Ready to Open Dikes Against Any Armed Invasion

London, April 10—(CP Havas) — The Netherlands has taken drastic precautions again armed invasion, the Amsterdam correspondent of the Daily Express (Independent) reported today.

The dispatch said the border districts of a depth of more than 30 miles are under armed control, all bridges are mined, all army and navy Easter leaves were cancelled and Netherlands authorities are ready to open the dikes and flood one-third of the country, including Amsterdam, Rotterdam and The Hague, within a few hours after an invasion.

FRACTURES LEG WHEN HIT BY CAR

Running from between two parked automobiles on East Bridge St., six-year-old Laurianne Barclay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Barclay, 237 Dundas St., sustained a fractured leg. She ran directly into an east-bound automobile, driven by Stanley Kerr, 115 Chatham St., early Sunday afternoon. The little girl was about to cross Bridge St. between Church and Pinnacle enroute to Sunday School when the accident occurred.

Mr. Kerr immediately stopped his car and placed the little girl in his automobile, rushing her to the surgery of Dr. R. A. Flynn. Later she was removed to the Belleville General Hospital, where it was disclosed that little Laurianne had sustained a severe fracture of the left leg, between the hip and the knee. The fracture was reduced by Dr. Flynn. Mr. Kerr subsequently reported the matter to the police, after having first looked after the physical needs of the injured girl.

APRIL CONSTRUCTION HAS GOOD BEGINNING

First activity in local construction circles has been noted with the return of warmer weather, and propects for a heavy building year this season appear bright, it was stated by builders. Up to the present date of April permits have been issued by the office of the building inspector to G. W. Clarke, Ridley Street for stuccoing of a home, estimated at $225; to W. S. Northcott, 15 Railway Terrace for the construction of a tool house at $80 and to Howe and Hagerman for the installation of a new store front and building alterations at 185 Pinnacle Street.

ICE IN MARSHES CURTAILS TRAPPING

Over one hundred trappers of the immediate district are awaiting the first break in weather conditions which up to the present have resulted in a slim season for muskrat trapping. Due to the sudden rush of applicants for permits last week the stock of licences has been depleted, and orders have been sent Queen's Park for more it was stated this morning by local issuer Geo. Finch. Well over one hundred licences have so far been given out. Reports indicate that there will be no worthwhile trapping in the district for some time unless decidedly warmer weather is experienced. Ice in district marshes is still firm and solid, and trappers have yet to report the first actual catches.

Alertness of Resident Helps Police in Case

The alertness of Clarence Sligh, 6 South Park St., materially assisted police in the apprehension of two alleged thieves in Belleville on Saturday night. Young Slight was in his home when he saw the forms of two persons approach a delivery wagon, which had been parked on the street by Jack Smallhorn, who was making a delivery of groceries nearby. Young Sligh hastened out of the house and gave chase to the robbers, over-taking one and forcing him to drop his loot. The robbers subsequently escaped, however.

Later when Constables Thomson and Taylor arrived for investigation, however, young Sligh was able to direct the police along the C.N.R. right-of-way to the bank of the Moira River, where a considerable amount of the stolen goods were recovered. Later police took Randal Smith, and sixteen-year-old Gerald Stapley, to the police station, where they were detained over the weekend in connection with the theft of the groceries and other Easter purchases, which are said by authorities to have been stolen from Smallhorn's truck. Both Smith and Stapley are residents of Belleville.

Following a subsequent check-up, however, all of the goods, which consisted of numerous Easter purchases, were not accounted for, some of the loot having been lost when the thieves were making their get away. Charges are pending, police revealed today.

Pharmacy Students Honor Associate

Frank Callaghan, Corbyville Voted "Senior Stick" by His Class

Frank Callaghan of Corbyville, this Easter is the proud possessor of the senior stick awarded annually to the best all-round junior attending Ontario College of Pharmacy in Toronto.

According to Dean R. O. Hurst, the stick is voted by junior students to "the junior whose fellow students feel he is most likely to become a leader in the profession of pharmacy, and in other fields of related service. Academic standing or ability in sports do not carry as much weight in the voting as character and personality.

The stick is of ebony with a gold knob. Each year the winner's name is engraved on the gold ferrule which is added, and it remains in his possession until he hands it over to his successor. Winner last year was Stan McVey of Fort William.

JAIL-BREAKER IS SOON CAPTURED

Glendon Farrington Taken After Police Fire at Fleeing Figure

Picton, April 10 —(Special)— A fusillade of shots were needed to stop Glendon Farrington, 20-year-old jail-breaker near Picton on Saturday afternoon, as Farrington was captured by Chief T. B. Biddle and Constable Armstrong some five hours after he had escaped from the Picton jail late Saturday morning. Farrington was captured five hours after he had effected escape by over-powering the Picton turnkey and was found slouched behind a fence four miles south of the town.

Police authorities say Farrington had broken jail and was seeking revenge, after he had heard that a former girl friend was keeping company with another man. He was enroute to the young lady's home when apprehended. Charges of jail breaking will be preferred against Farrington, authorities added. The accused, along with his brother, had been convicted of robbery at Picton and was awaiting removal to the Reformatory.

When first seen by Chief Biddle and Constable Armstrong, Farrington disregarded an order to stop, but when Constable Armstrong fired a shot into the air, the fugitive fell flat on his face in the mud as if hit, but when the constable approached, the escaped prisoner attempted to make use of an iron bar which he had in one hand.

"He apparently wanted me to come in close so that he could slug me and get my gun," said Constable Armstrong. "I was sure I hadn't hit him. Chief Biddle heard my shot and came running to help me. Between the two of us we hand-cuffed him after a bit of a struggle, and returned him to jail."

Farrington was on his way to the home of a former girl friend, where police had found a quantity of stolen goods after a robbery early in the year. The prisoner was recently sentenced to a two-year term in the Ontario Reformatory for breaking and entering.

Town and county police and a citizens' posse hunted for Farrington when word was flashed throughout the district that a prisoner had forced the outer door of the jail and escaped. All highways were blocked and officers followed his tracks in the snow, which led over a mountain and toward a wooded area. The hunters soon lost the tracks across fields bare of snow. He was finally sighted at 2:30 in the afternoon.

250,000 PARADE ON BOARD WALK

Atlantic City Bathed in Sunshine for Easter Parade

Atlantic City, N.J., April 10—(AP)—Two hundred and fifty thousand persons — so says the Chamber of Commerce—paraded Atlantic City's boardwalk during the week-end and showed off their new spring clothes.

The sun beamed on the happy Easter Sunday crowd and it was comfortably warm in the middle of each block. A slightly chill wind struck the promenaders at street-ends.

There was such a confusion of colors that none seemed to dominate — except perhaps apple green and bon-bon pink. Veils, handbags and gloves were of the same color and gloves the hats—

Some looked like pill boxes perched all over one eye. Some bore little fake birds sitting on fake nests. There were tiny sailors and wide-brimmed sailors. Probably more than half the hats were of the "peach basket" type. These look like inverted baskets piled high with artificial flowers or fruits—anything but fresh vegetables.

The women who attracted the most attention were those who wore shepherd plaid, tight, basque jackets with puffed sleeves and plain skirts. Conspicuous, too, were dark tailored suits—either man-tailored or frilled—with white blouses. The dresses of brilliant color were mostly printed silks.

Short fud jackets also attracted attention. These were of mink, seal, fox and squirrel.

At 12 o'clock Walter E. Edge, former ambassador to France, shook hands with City Commissioner Frank B. Orr on the boardwalk at the foot of Pennsylvania Avenue. They've shaken hands at that spot every Easter noon-time since 1906.

Worshippers Throng Churches For Glad Message of Easter

Appeal of Festival Music and Inspiring Sermons on Story of Resurrection is Felt by Thousands at Joyous Festival

The majestic tones of mighty organs thundering in joyous anthem in reverent musical background to the blending of choirs, and congregational voices in an aura of stately Easter lilies and other beautiful floral decorative effects, ushered in the glorious Easter season in all churches here yesterday.

The solemnity and joy of this great festive part of the Christian calendar was observed by the largest crowds in years. From early morning until late night people thronged the auditoriums in a joyous spirit of thanksgiving and rejoicing in the resurrection of our Lord.

A brilliant spring sun shining from cloudless skies offered a perfect Easter setting, and devout Bellevillians in a steady stream wended their way to the various churches of the city.

Easter joy was typified in practically all denominations with the ringing tones of vocal and instrumental music. Mighty anthems that down through the years have brought home the impressiveness and importance of the Easter season rang out during the hours of devotion.

Outstanding soloists of the city were heard in appropriate renditions of typical Easter music, while choir leaders and organists in keeping with the joyous spirit of the occasion led inspired choirs and congregations in the glorious music of the resurrection.

Stately Easter lilies rearing beautiful heads against the green of potted ferns, provided the chief floral decorations in many of the churches. Hyacinths, daffodils, deep wine-colored and other hues of tulips afforded a colorful contrast with other shades adding beautiful floral effects in the general decorative schemes.

Emmanuel Church Easter Services

Eastertide was observed in Emmanuel Reformed Episcopal Church with appropriate services, conducted by Bishop George Marshall. Easter lilies and hyacinths made a setting of beauty and purity for the worship of the day. At the morning service the Holy Communion was partaken of by a very large number and in the evening Bishop Marshall spoke on the text "As in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive." The Easter message was given by the Bishop with its assurance to man of the Resurrection of Christ and the immortality of the soul. The music of the day was inspiring. Miss Saunders, who has been acting as organist since the injury to the wrist of Miss Wilder, organist of the church, had devoted a great deal of attention to the training of the young people and the adult members of the choir on the anthem "Wake up My Glory" and on the "Hallelujah Chorus", which were sung during the day

At the evening service Bishop Marshall expressed on behalf of the congregation to Miss Saunders praise of her services to the musical program of the church, especially for Easter and also congratulated the choir on their fine singing of the music of Easter

Bridge Street Church Observes Religious Festival

Easter was celebrated at Bridge Street United Church on Sunday with festal music played by the organist, Mr. Alec Gordon. Singing of of the great anthem of the church, the "Te Deum Laudamus" (We praise Thee, O God), was sung by the choir and the great Easter hymns which have inspired members of the church all through the ages and expressed their joy at this season, and a sermon by the Rev. Dr. J. Semple, the minister, in which he contrasted the darkness and despair of Good Friday and Black Saturday against the joyousness and happiness of Easter, and the Resurrection. The church was decorated with Easter lilies. The congregation at the morning service was one of the largest in years and the people entered into the joyousness of the worship. In the evening a drama "Release" was presented by the young people of the church, an account of which appears in another column.

Tabernacle U. C. Observes Easter

Special music by an augmented choir with guest artists assisting featured the impressive Easter Services held at Tabernacle United Church yesterday.

Against a beautiful floral background of Easter Lilies the music of Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus" rang out at both services. Augmenting the impressive musical offerings of the choir, the splendid voice of Miss Helen Guest of Brantford, was heard at both services. During the morning worship Mrs. P. J. Bradley and Mr. Gardner Duff took the solo parts in the anthems.

Again in the evening the music formed an outstanding part of the service with Miss Guest's voice again thrilling the congregation and vocal and violin solos by Mr. Harry Moorman and Mr. Bates adding to the beauty of the worship.

The Rev. D. T. McClintock, minister of the church, preached impressive Easter sermons at both services. During the afternoon communicants' class and Sunday School were held in the Sunday School rooms.

St. Thomas' Easter Services

Easter day at the Church of St. Thomas was observed in services of joy and devotion. The altar was most beautiful with flowers and lights and was lovely to behold. Large congregations were present and the vicar, the Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne, was the celebrant at the three celebrations of the Holy Communion, being assisted by Rev. Morrice La Voie of Toronto, as deacon. At 7 a.m. and 8 a.m. there was plain celebrations of the Holy Communion and at 11 o'clock the celebration was fully choral. The vicar preached at the 11 o'clock service upon the great truths of the resurrection, taking as his text the first verse of the third chapter of St. Paul's Epistle to the Colossians: "If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God."

The musical portions of the services were especially well rendered under the leadership of Mr. Ernest Wheatley, Mus. Bac., A.R.C.O. The rendering of the choral parts of the Eucharist at 11 o'clock was indeed most beautiful and impressive. Following is the musical order of the service:

Prelude, "The King Shall Rejoice" (Handel); Easter carol "Let Joyful Praise", A. Evans and choir; Processional, "Christ the Lord is Risen" (164); Introit, "Christ Our Passover" (Goss); Kyrie (Woodward); Gradual, "Jesus Christ Is Risen Today" (157); Credo, sung to Woodward in Eb; Offertoire, "Open the Gates of the Temple" (163), A. Evans; Sanctus, Benedictus (soloist) Miss Helen Votter, Gloria in Excelsis (Woodward); Hymn, "The Day of Resurrection" (167); Nunc Dimittis, Tonus Peregrinus; Postlude, "Laurate Dominie" (Friesinger).

Christ Church Eastertide Services

The joyous message of Eastertide and the glories connected with the resurrection were heralded by large congregations at Christ Church yesterday. Rev. G. G. Wright delivered the Easter message and for his morning sermon spoke of the "True meaning and result of the resurrection."

"Had there been no resurrection of Our Saviour on Easter Day, there could have been no Christianity; therefore Easter Day is our day to rejoice for everything we have and enjoy today," was the message left by Rev. Wright.

During the morning services at Christ Church and St. George's nearly 600 received their Easter Communion. The chancel was tastefully decorated with Easter lilies.

Special Easter music and anthems were prepared by Choirleader George Maybee and rendered by the Christ Church male choir. The anthems for the morning service were: Introit, "Christ Our Passover" (Woodward); Festival Service in "G" (Willan); Anthem, "Hallelujah Chorus (Handel), and the evening service: Introit, "This Joyful Eastertide" (Dutch Carol); Anthems, "O Sons and Daughters" (Walford Davies); "The Strife is O'er" (Henry Ley.)

Easter Music Sung in Theatre By Church Choir

Twenty-six members of Christ Church choir, eighteen boys and eight men, half of the regular choir, sang Easter music in the Belle Theatre on Saturday evening at the intermission between film shows. This very fine organization brought to the theatre-going public of Belleville the revelation of the effectiveness of the voices of boys and men in choral work. Three numbers were presented under the direction of Mr. George N. Maybee, director and organist of the church, who directed the choir who sang unaccompanied.

Rev. G. G. Wright, Rector of the Church, introduced the choir.

The numbers were "This Joyful Eastertide" (an old Dutch carol); "O Come, Ye Servants or the Lord" by Tye (1553); and Easter hymn, "Jesus Christ Is Risen Today".

The audience which packed the theatre was very responsive in its appreciation of the fine choral work. The manager of the theatre, Mr. George J. Forhan, was much pleased with the choir in its fine performance.

TRAVELLER PRAISES BELLEVILLE STREETS

"The more I see of other cities, the more I am impressed with the good roads and the excellent condition in which they are kept in Belleville," remarked a commercial traveller to officials of the city hall staff this morning.

Not in years have roads been as bad as observed in other cities through the province this spring, notes the visitor. Many highways are also in poor condition, and the season's first repair work is yet to begin.

In this city road repairing with cold patch mixture has been under way for the past two weeks, it was reported.

Impressive Holy Week Rites at St. Michael's

Age-Old Ceremonies Take Place Before Large Congregations

The age old ritual of the church prescribed for Holy Week was carried out in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel. The various ceremonies derived from the dawn of the Christian era were most impressive.

At eight o'clock the Mass of Holy Thursday recalling the institution of the Blessed Eucharist at the Last Supper was followed by a procession to the Repository. Here the Blessed Sacrament was reserved in a richly decorated shrine. The main altar was then stripped of its ornaments. A Holy Hour was held on Thursday night in devotion to the Real Presence of Christ in the Blessed Eucharist.

At eight o'clock on Good Friday morning, the Mass of the Pre-sanctified was celebrated with the traditional rites of the unveiling and veneration of the Cross. The open door of the vacant tabernacle and the altar, bare except for violet drapes, expressed the sorrow of the church at the death of the Son of God. The Way of the Cross was made on the evening of Good Friday and the sermon delivered on the Passion of Christ by the Rt. Rev. J. P. Nicholson, V.G. The congregation then venerated the Crucifix.

New Fire Blessed

On Holy Saturday morning at seven o'clock took place the blessing of the new fire, the lighting of the Pascal Candle, the reading of the prophecies, the blessing of the baptismal and Easter Water, followed by the Litany of the Saints which preceded the celebration of the Mass proper to this occasion.

The chanting of the "Gloria" with the ringing of the bell and joyous music testified to the gladness of the Christian soul. The altars were once again decorated and the sombre coverings removed from the statues.

On Easter Sunday the Masses were said at the usual hour: of seven, eight-thirty and ten-thirty o'clock.

Solemn High Mass

This last was a Solemn High Mass celebrated by Monsignor Nicholson assisted by the Rev. C. E. Baker, deacon and Rev. J. J. Collins as sub-deacon.

The Easter sermon given by the pastor Irster Sunday night. Solemn Vespers and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament were given by Mgr. Nicholson assisted by the Very Rev. Dean Leacy, P.P., Napanee, as deacon and Rev. J. J. Collins, as sub deacon.

The main altar gleamed with lights and candles and was a mass of flowers. Large congregations were present at all the solemn devotions of Holy Week which will long be remembered in the annals of the parish.

The music, Millard's Mass, at Solemn High Mass on Easter Sunday was beautifully sung by the choir under the direction of Mrs. James Grant with Miss Dorothy Grant at the organ. The solos in the Mass were sung by Misses Violet Osler, Dorothy Grant, Anna Lafferty and Harold Barrett. At the Offertory the choir sang "Regina Coeli", Miss Grant taking the solo part.

The Christian and Immortality Subject Of Sunday Address

Rev. C. T. Olmstead Tells the Inspiring Story of Open Tomb of Jesus

Large congregations attended the special Easter services at Victoria Avenue Baptist Church where a profusion of Easter lilies, tastefully arranged, added their freshness and purity to the story of the open tomb of Jesus.

The minister, Rev. Claude Troupe Olmstead, speaking on his morning theme The Christian and Immortality, placed emphasis on the words of St. Paul as recorded in the second epistle to Timothy 'Christ Jesus abolished death, and brought life and immortality to light through the Gospel.'

"The face of Christendom is again turned toward the empty tomb in Joseph's lovely garden," said the pastor. "Besides the empty tomb, the greatest assurance that Jesus lives is the glorious fact that He lives in our hearts. Within us is the power of an endless life. Every cemetery is lighted on Easter morning with an inspiring hope. On every Christian grave is written the words of Jesus 'because I live ye shall live also.'

"Listening to these words on Easter morning our hearts bow in adoration to the risen Christ, who planted the Easter lily in the empty tomb."

The choir, under the direction of Mr. Ross Hunter, rendered the Easter message in music very effectively, anthems heard being Jesus Christ is Risen Today, In Joseph's Lovely Garden, O Lord of Life, Hosanna. Mrs. Ross Hunter, organist, played as the prelude, The Resurrection Morn and the Hallelujah Chorus as the postlude.

"Wonderful Recognition" was the theme of the evening service, the beautiful story of Mary's recognition of her risen Lord outside the open tomb. Mr. C. A. Bunting, a former missionary to China, assisted at the evening service and offered the evening prayer. Special music was again rendered by a large and well-trained choir.

Easter Services At St. Andrew's

Rev. W. J. Walker Speaks to Congregation on the Resurrection

The sanctity of the East Day was fittingly observed by large congregations at both services at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Sunday when Rev. W. J. Walker delivered two inspiring services. The choir, under the direction of Mr. Charles Kilgour, organist and choirmaster, added a joyous note with fine rendered anthems and solos. The church looked resplendent in the bright sunshine with potted plants, lilies and tulips forming a glorious background. Rev. W. J. Walker spoke at the morning service, taking as his text, "The Third Day He Arose Again" and in the evening his subject was "The Resurrection." Two quartetes and two choruses from Handel's "Messiah" were sung in the morning while Harold Williamson sang a solo in the evening.

RELIGIOUS PLAY IS PRESENTED

'Release' Tells Story in Dungeon of Barabbas and Two Condemned Men

Strikingly realistic in its presentation was the drama "Release" by Dorothy Clarke Wilson, presented in Bridge Street United Church at the evening service on Easter day by the Young People's Society. Miss Helen Sulman who directed achieved with the small cast an unusually effective performance which made a powerful appeal to the congregation. On the platform had been constructed a set representing a dungeon in Jerusalem not far from the place where Christ was brought before the people and where the mob howled for the release of Barabbas, the robber and insurgent. In the dim light aided by a lantern there was enacted a scene which dealt with the reaction of Barabbas and the two thieves (who died on Calvary with Christ) to their impending execution by the method of crucifixion. The dungeon cell setting was very effective.

The story of the drama was announced by Miss Margery Lashbrook who related the story and announced the names of the actors. Miss Betty Anderson and Mr. Taylor Franklin took the worship service which proved impressive with readings and Gospel story, to reveal the purpose of the life of Christ and the story of His sacrifice. Hymns were played on the organ at intervals by Mr. Gordon with fine effect in this portion of the service leading up to the drama proper.

The Situation.

The scene opens with the entry of a Roman centurion bringing in a young prisoner and fastening him to the post where he is bound by irons hand and foot. Then is brought in a hardened criminal who reviled every good sentiment of the boy and finally comes in Barabbas, the leader of the band of insurgents who is fastened to the centre post. The sister and the mother of Barabbas enter after a time and upon them dawns the fact that the condemned prisoner in the centre is Barabbas. There are touching moments between Barabbas and his mother and sister and in which reference is made to the Man of Galilee as the only one who can save Barabbas. They go out to solicit that aid for the insurgent robber leader.

The boy and the other prisoner are taken out in touching scenes to form the march to execution. Sounds of a mob are heard off stage, crying for the crucifixion of Christ and the release of Barabbas. An officer enters and releases Barabbas who learns that it is through Jesus' conviction and condemnation that he has been released. Barabbas vows that he will never forget Him who has died in his place.

The characters were taken as follows:

Barabbas, William Burgoyne; Dysman, Jack Dicken; Sothmes, Elmer Dixon; Mara, the mother of Barabbas, Mary Lockhart; Tamah, sister of Barabbas, played by Mary Lou Lazier; Dumal, member of the insurgent band, Dorland Houston; Centurion, Gordon Barclay; a soldier, Everett Fairman.

All the actors played their parts with a very fine appreciation of the roles. Each actor gave an individual performance which contributed to the main effect. The Barabbas was exceedingly well done. Mr. Dixon in the role of Sothmes gave a very stirring and dramatic performance in character; Jack Dickens as young Dysman did some effective acting throughout the part and occupied a pathetic part in the play for it was he who was the good thief who died on Calvary. Miss Lockhart gave a fine interpretation of the sympathetic mother and Miss Lazier as the sister was also excellent Dorland Houston was well cast in his part and was effective. Gordon Barclay made a good officer and Everett Fairman played a realistic role with ability as the soldier.

Mr. Milton Fowler was in charge of the stage; the costuming was supervised by Miss Margery Lashbrook and Miss Marjorie Hill, and make-up by Mrs. Fairman.

After the service refreshments were served to the cast and a presentation was made by the members of the cast and their friends to Miss Helen Sulman as an appreciation of her services in directing and producing the religious drama.

HOLLOWAY STREET CHURCH SUNDAY SCHOOL REOPENED

Impressive Program Presented at the Reopening Ceremonies

EASTER PAGEANT GIVEN

Great satisfaction and enthusiasm was evidenced at Holloway Street United Church yesterday (Easter Day) at the regular hour of session 2.30 p.m. The occasion was the reopening of the well-equipped and remodelled Sunday School rooms. The building has been undergoing extensive repairs since the fire of February 14th.

The Hall presented a pleasing sight. The platform was artistically decorated with ferns and Easter lilies. Parents and friends of the school were present and Rev. Royal E. Newman, pastor of the church through an earnest prayer of thanksgiving re-dedicated the building to the worship of God.

The program was chiefly given by the scholars. Miss June Denton, one of the teachers read the Scripture lesson. June Fitzgibbons and Bob Mitchell led in prayer.

Mrs. Chas. Moore, who formerly had charge of the primary Department was welcomed by the Superintendent, Mr. Arnold Campbell. She told a beautiful Easter story entitled "In the Garden". At the close of the story Ross Green sang the hymn "In the Garden". The thanks of the school were extended to Mrs. Moore by Mr. Allen Lennox who spoke in feeling terms of the past associations and the appreciation of the school for the splendid service Mrs. Moore had rendered during the years she was a member of Holloway Street Church.

The members of the C.G.I.T. presented an impressive pageant combining in a unique way the Easter and Missionary Challenge. The pageant as entitled "On Life's Highway" by Dorothy Lehman Sumerean. It was directed by Mrs. E. Hubbs and Mrs. (Rev.) R. E Newman. Those taking part: Miss Marjorie Hitchon, Easter; Miss Barbara Lloyd, Mohammed follower; Miss Ruth Oliphant, Budhist follower; Miss Jean Sherry, Hindu worshipper; Miss Evelyn Reid, Life; Miss Lois Liddle, Light; Miss Helen Brown, Love.

The other member of the C.G.I.T. formed a choir. "Rejoice the Lord is King" concluded a very helpful and challenging appeal by the girls to enlist whole-heartedly in the service of re-dedication. An Easter hymn and the benediction closed the service.

Are Sin, Disease And Death Real?

Christian Science Study of Subject States God's Creations are Harmonious

"Are Sin, Disease and Death Real?" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon for Sunday, April 9 at the service of Christian Science Society, Belleville.

Selections from the Bible included the following from Jeremiah 17: 14, "Heal me, O Lord, and I shall be healed; save me and I shall be saved: for thou art my praise."

Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following from page 472: "All reality is in God and His creation, harmonious and eternal. That which He creates is good and He makes all that is made. Therefore the only reality of sin, sickness or death is the awful fact that unrealities seem real to human, erring belief, until God strips off their disguise."

DISMAL WEATHER

He said "there exists international political scandal and we are tempted to ask and wonder how God permits men to carry on with passions unchained."

Many Went Skiing

Residents of Quebec and Montreal, unable to display publicly their new finery owing to heavy snow, made the best of things. After church services many went to skiing centres outside those cities to participate in skiing meets.

At London, Ont., few braved the chill air for the usual promenades but flying enthusiasts made good use of the day despite unfavorable weather. Members of the London Flying Club put in 15 hours' flying time. Throughout Ontario thousands of motorists took to the highways to make the day the heaviest for traffic so far this year.

Toronto's famed boardwalks at Sunnyside and the east-end beaches were swept by chill winds throughout the day that cut sharply the usual turnout of Easter trippers. In comparison to the crowds that packed the boardwalks last year, comparatively few turned out Sunday.

However, those who did put on a brave show for the benefit of thousands of motorists who cruised adjacent streets to view the promenade. Some of the paraders were in organized marches bearing placards urging support for various causes.

ALBANIAN GOV'T

some degree of Albanian independence would be preserved.)

Meanwhile Italian troops continued their advances into the rugged valleys of the Albanian hinterland, reporting they were welcomed by the people as deliverers.

Zog With Queen

What little opposition met the Italian incursion was attributed mostly to "criminals" whom Italians said Zog had turned loose. Zog had joined his Queen and their five-day-old son, Crown Prince Skander, in Greece.

(While Zog, 43, and Geraldine, 23, took temporary quarters at Salonika, the King's Ministers continued to Athens.)

Groundwork of the new Albanian regime was laid by Mussolini's son-in-law and Foreign Minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, before he flew back to Rome yesterday as officials of the Italian Ministry of Popular Culture, arriving by air, took charge of press and radio facilities.

Il Duce Notified

General Alfredo Guzzoni, Commander of the Italian expeditionary force, telegraphed Il Duce his orders had been executed "with Fascist faith and spirit," and the Premier replied:

"The expeditionary corps under your orders operated with Fascist decision—showing the power of Italian armed forces and guaranteeing the other shore of the Adriatic fundamental interests of the fatherland."

Italians distributed food and money to thousands of poverty-stricken Albanians in the capital. Fascist police, propaganda and sanitary and other officials were organizing the life of the city along new lines.

INVITATION

At the same time rumors that Britain intended to occupy Corfu, which is off the southern tip of Albania and guards the gateway to the Adriatic, were denied.

The cabinet, after meeting for 2 1-4 hours, recessed and a meeting of key ministers was set for later in the day. No communique was issued.

In between the meetings Prime Minister Chamberlain arranged to see Clement Attlee, leader of the opposition in the House of Commons. It was believed they would discuss the question of recalling parliament from its Easter recess.

Mr. Chamberlain and his ministers met at 10 Downing Street in the first bank holiday cabinet session since the Great War.

Though there were only about 200 spectators outside the Prime Minister's residence early in the morning, the crowd had increased to about 800 and special police had to be provided by the time the meeting adjourned. London was shut tight for the holiday.

During the cabinet meeting Charalambos Simopoulos, the Greek Minister, paced up and down outside, waiting for the Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, to come out.

Defend Suez Canal

Defence Ministers were said to take the position that Britain's position in the eastern Mediterranean and particularly her defence of the Suez canal would be seriously threatened by any Italian domination of Greece.

The Ministers also were said to have discussed Gibraltar. It was feared here that General Franco's adherence to the anti-comintern pact might be the start of a Spanish policy of collaboration with Rome and Berlin.

The Malta orders, calling all seamen and officers back from shore leave last night, were described as preliminary to a "minor" naval movement. As to the Malaya, the admiralty declined to say where the big warship headed.

The emergency orders at Malta caused an air of excitement at the big Mediterranean base. Two destroyer flotillas and about half a dozen cruisers were there.

The Malaya was to have participated in French-British carnival festivities starting today at Nice. She sailed before dawn.

It was reported in Paris that France and Britain, both complementing diplomatic activity with practical military talks, were considering joining in military and naval demonstrations to give pause to any aggressive plans of the Rome-Berlin axis following the Italian occupation of Albania.

Sailed From Italy

The British battleship Warspite and the escort vessel Aberdeen sailed from San Remo, Italy, yesterday to avert any "embarrassment"—as it was explained in unofficial quarters.

Informed sources expressed the view that Great Britain would focus immediate efforts on bringing Greece, Turkey and Rumania into a grand alliance against axis expansion.

In some quarters it was reported that—if the British government gives a guarantee to Greece—Greek ports would be placed at the disposal of British warships as they were during the anti-Italian sanctions period of 1735-1936.

Later inquiries concerning the fleet orders at Malta brought the news that correspondents there were not permitted to cable information on the movements of warships.

Henry Margesson, chief government whip in the House of Commons, was called in during the cabinet meeting. This was taken to indicate the ministers had decided to summon parliament this week in the middle of the Easter vacation.

While the cabinet met Sir Sydney Waterlow, British Minister to Greece, had an audience in Athens with Premier John Metaxas.

Informed sources said that the cabinet, which met at 11 a.m. (6 a.m. EST) considered:

1. Guaranteeing the independence of Greece and Turkey along the lines of the British defence alliance with Poland.

2. Denouncing the British-Italian accord of last April 16 on the ground that Premier Mussolini had broken his promise to preserve the status quo in the Mediterranean area.

3. Summoning parliament from its holiday recess Wednesday or Thursday to hear a new statement of policy by the Prime Minister.

Limited Character

Assurances given to Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax by Guido Crolla, Italian Charge D'Affaires, in three separate interviews yesterday —that Italy's occupation of Albania would be of "a limited character"—eased slightly the tenseness that marked the oral protest delivered by Lord Halifax.

Diplomatic observers and the press, however, reflected a deep questioning of Premier Mussolini's motives and raised doubt as to whether the cabinet would consider itself justified in crediting Italian assurances.

With rumors persisting that Italy had concentrated more troops than were needed merely to "protect" Albania, informed sources said Britain considered a quick guarantee to Greece essential to keep Italy from grabbing the strategic island of Corfu south of Albania.

There was talk also of Italian use of Albania as a "spring-board" against Yugoslavia, but Yugoslav officials expressed no concern.

Mussolini bombarded and occupied Corfu in a quarrel with Greece 16 years ago and withdrew reluctantly upon payment of indemnity. The island, opposite the heel of the Italian boot, controls entrance to the Adriatic and affords natural bases for warships and submarines.

Talks With Minister

Before conferring with the committee of imperial defence yesterday, Lord Halifax talked with Charalambos Simopoulos, Greek Minister to London.

Meanwhile at Istanbul, Turkey and Rumania reached agreement to carry on a "Balkan for the Balkans" policy. A communique issued at the close of consultations between Grigore Gafencu and Sukru Sarracoglu, Rumanian and Turkish Foreign Ministers said their policy was aimed at tightening ties among Balkan nations.

This policy, it was pointed out, was based on the Salonika pact of last July among the Balkan entente states—Turkey, Rumania, Greece and Yugoslavia—providing for settlement of all differences by negotiations instead of force.

The Greek government cautiously awaited any approach by London toward a guarantee against aggression. Government officials said they realized the situation was serious but viewed the future with expressions of confidence.

Lord Halifax conferred with Viscount Gort, chief of the Imperial General Staff and Vice Admiral Andrew Cunningham, chief of the naval staff.

SURPRISES OF THE WEATHER

The weather has continued its surprises, snow on Good Friday, and cool weather. Weeks ago Eastertide had an air of enchantment as far as weather-to-be was concerned, but realization has fallen short. It is most always so, hope outleaps fact and perhaps weather is rarely as beautiful as one of those days described by Keats — "What is so beautiful as a day in summer"? Once on a care occasion there are balmy days so fine, in which man seems so attuned to nature that they more than reach man's fondest dream.

But then other weather is rain or cloud or sun, mixed in such an infinite variety that two days can never appear quite equal.

This spring weather has been cool, particularly during the past couple of weeks. April showers have suspiciously looked like snowfalls but they are light and temporary in the blanket they spread over the earth. Hopes come again into the picture and man confidently expects warmer and brighter weather soon.

THE COELACANTH

It was reported recently from East London in South Africa that a Coelacanth fish belonging to a species that was thought to have become extinct 50,000,000 years ago, had been caught. It seems an extremely long time for the Coelacanth to have remained in retirement and he can hardly blame the world if the report of his demise was greatly exaggerated. There is now, of course, nothing for it but to apologize to him. In the words of the Bellman:

" 'Tis a pitiful tale," said the Bellman, whose face
Had grown longer at every word;
"But, now that you've stated the whole of your case,
More debate would be simply absurd"

Nevertheless, without for a moment expecting from the Coelacanth the somewhat vulgar exhibitionism of the Loch Ness Monster one might have looked for a friendly gesture from him in the meantime even if it were no more than the brief bow that the sea-serpent allows himself in the "silly season"; but, presumably he kept himself to himself, until, at last, he discovered that seclusion had left him bored to extinction. — Christian Science Monitor.

INVASION OF ALBANIA

War is no respecter of woman or infant, old age, middle age or childhood, the strong or the weak, the agile or the cripple. It is always brutal but especial woe to that person or government which causes others to fight in very desperation to protect themselves or to flee for safety.

The Italian Government made an ill choice in launching an attack on Albania, a virtually defenceless state, whom in population she outnumbered by forty to one. She broke a holy day and shocked the world during the holy season of three religions. She selected a time when the poor Queen Geraldine of the little kingdom had but two days before given birth to an heir to the Albanian throne. The Italian Government picked the time that forced the Queen to flee with the infant to Greece for refuge from the Italian invaders.

Britain has called Italy's act one that breaks the spirit of the Anglo-Italian treaty the ink of which has scarcely become dry.

But what could an expedition of that kind do — wait until the holy day and season were over and until the time when the Queen would be stronger and the princely babe better able to stand being moved? Who heard of war being considerate? One great general turned an army rather than disturb a bird's nest in the ground but that was in other days, not in days in which modern machinery of death and ruthlessness must have their way. Even in the last war, enemies fraternized in the Christmas season but the custom was stopped. Has the world deteriorated so greatly since then?

That part of the world which is not callous cannot forget that sad queen and her helpless infant, buffeted so brutally in a world of armaments.

WHEN SEEKING A JOB

For those who are out of work, the St. Catharines Standard quotes the views of V. C. Ackerly, personnel manager of the New York Stock Exchange. Mr. Ackerly has the following constructive ideas in the disheartening task of looking for a job,—

"Sell yourself, cultivate character and demonstrate your qualities in the interview.

"Analyze your equipment, read newspaper ads, visit employment agencies, consult those able to make contacts for you.

"Read articles in the papers and you may learn a factory is very busy now or some new firm will open. Then apply for a job there."

Those who have been out of work and want work will search to discover an opening in which they can exercise their talents. Such earnest persons possess confidence, character, attitude, appearance, personality, know something of the world and are not afraid of the world. They have a chance, far greater than those who go to look for work with a defeatist air about them. As the Standard says they are far more likely to succeed than the one who slouches and grumbles.

IF A BUSMAN'S HOLIDAY CONSISTS IN TAKING A RIDE ON A BUS then a postman's holiday should consist in taking a walk. However, a new style has been introduced into house-to-house mail delivery. Down in Columbia, South Carolina, there is a postman who, tired of walking, invented a scooter which takes him over his route daily in jig time. With the consent of the Postmaster General he put his scooter into active service and is the envy of all mail delivery men who have seen the contraption. It is a four-wheeled scooter powered by a small gasolene engine. The postman stands on the back of his doodlebug, put-putting along at four to twelve miles an hour. Arrived in front of a house for which he has mail he parks his scooter at the curb and performs his duties, hopping on again and chugging away to the next stop. He saves 23% of the time formerly required to cover the route. And so the mail of the future will probably be delivered with scooters.

GELATIN PEP FOR ATHLETES is the newest thing in athletics and is getting a big hand from scientists and athletes alike. The tired business man, instead of having to stop work at three o'clock and seek rest and relaxation at the golf club, can take gelatin and be good for several hours more intensive labor. The scientists who developed the gelatin rejuvenator discovered that practically every one of the men experimented with, six men pedalling furiously on a stationary bicycle every day until exhausted doubled their energy output after drinking the gelatin mixture. Death at a Mile With a .22 Rifle

Guns hold a fascination for every boy. The most popular toy with the youngsters of four, five or six is the cap pistol. From that harmless toy he craves the "feel" of the real revolver. That weapon as a toy is, of course, out of the question, but the gun usually thought of as the "kid's gun" is the .22-calibre rifle. In inexpert hands, loaded with modern ammunition, that .22 rifle is more dangerous than the higher-calibred revolver because of higher trajectory-carrying distance.

The parent who gives his boy a .22 rifle without instructions as to care in handling is guilty of gross negligence and, in our opinion, should be liable if the youngster took the life of another or caused injury or damage through misdirected bullets. When police have occasion to admonish a boy with a rifle, they should go further and interview the parent. The father should be 'placed on probation'. He should agree to take the boy into the country and instruct him in the care of the rifle and its use without endangering the lives of others.

Fishing and hunting are two of the most popular sports in this country. That is proven by the number of hunting and fishing licenses issued each year; but the boy who does not know how to handle his weapon is a hazard to himself, to others and to farmers' live stock.

A school teacher recently brought to our attention a paper handed in by a 12-year-old boy, Charles Osborn, jun., of St. Louis. It clearly reflects "safety" and care in the use of his weapon, and it is a safe prediction that this boy is not going accidentally to take the life of another with his gun. It reflects rifle instruction on the part of his father. We are reproducing his short essay believing it may be of some benefit to a chief, marshal or sheriff who may have occasion to warn a youngster against carelessness with his gun. Let the boy read this. It is written in language of his own age, and it may mean more to him than your lecture:

"Bull's-eye " I cried as dad scored a direct hit, as he and I were shooting a .22 rifle out in the country.

"This rifle, being a Christmas present, was bright and shiny and I was proud of it. Holding 12 shorts, 10 longs and eight long rifle fully loaded, this gun is a vicious weapon. Shooting at 100 to 200 feet is duck soup if your aim is straight. At a distance of one mile the bullet is very dangerous, as experts say the bullet travels as fast or faster coming down as it did going up. All .22 ammunition boxes have printed in red letters "Dangerous up to one mile," so be careful!

"When shooting at bottles or cans in a river be sure of your aim or the bullet may hit the water and ricochet, endangering the lives of people on the other bank. Be sure you know what is behind your target, for there might be some person behind it. Wouldn't you hate to be the cause of killing or hurting some person due to your carelessness? A mud bank is best to have behind your target.

"On the whole, when target practising with any gun, I think it is best to be very careful. Don't you?"
—National Police Officer Magazine.

POLITICAL TIP

Here is a tip for a young politician. Don't make a speech on the same day as Hitler. You get crowded off the front page. Lord Baldwin, an old politician who ought to have known better, made that mistake. It is surprising, because he is trying very hard now to get into the limelight.—London Daily Express.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Physicians Must Encourage Patients To Describe Their Symptoms

A young man consulted a physician and before the physician had an opportunity to question him said: "I've been to two other physicians and they both tell me there is nothing wrong with me; yet my heart is going fast and I can't eat and I can't sleep."

"Did these other physicians examine you?"

"Yes, they examined me thoroughly: I went to one of these physicians twice."

"Well, why didn't you tell these physicians the whole story, about what was worrying and upsetting you?"

The patient looked surprised and then admitted that he did have something on his mind but did not think it necessary to tell it to the physicians. For a full twenty minutes he then spoke about his trouble in detail.

The physician examined him, found nothing organically wrong, and fortunately was able to give him advice which he was wise enough to follow and his symptoms disappeared. It was the twenty minutes spent in patient listening to this worried patient that enabled the physician to help him.

A busy physician with but two hours to see eight to twelve patients may not have time to listen to this type of paient but, in most cases, after an examination, asks the patient to return. To try to help him without making an examination would be resented by the patient.

Dr. I. Rodis, Washington, D.C., in 'Medical Annals District of Columbia' makes some excellent suggestions to physicians when these nervous or neurotic, patients consult them.

"Don't be in a hurry with a neurotic individual. It may be that he has wrestled with himself for many hours before deciding to tell the whole story to the physician. If the physician hasn't time to listen, he will not help this patient."

"Do not neglect to perform a thorough examination."

"Do not say, "Forget it", when a patient has described his symptoms. Instead, say, "Tell me about it."

"Do not hesitate to ask your patients about their married or domestic life. Do not attempt to argue or reason a patient out of his symptoms or beliefs. Try to find the cause of the symptoms. Do not make decisions for your patient. Let him talk but try to guide his thoughts into proper channels and he will likely see his own way out of his difficulties."

I believe the patient should also read over these suggestions. It should help him to talk freely and fully about himself.

WHY NOT SELL?

If France chooses to strengthen herself by buying planes here, for cash on the barrel head, we have no grounds, either military or political, for objecting. Should war break out, the situation would change radically. But even then our neutrality act, does not ban trade, in many items which could be used for war, including plane parts, provided the belligerents paid cash and carried the goods away in their own bottoms. The German air fleet has been built up with American help. France is beginning to build hers. To put up the bars at this moment is a strange perversion of the neutral ideal.—New York Post.

NEW YORK'S FINEST

Today New York City is guarded by a force of 18,000 policemen. This body is larger than the standing armies of Peru (10,000), Norway (14,000), Denmark (11,000), Cuba (14,000), or Venezuela (13,000). It is equipped with the latest scientific gadgets for law enforcement and crime detection, including radio, the radio car, teletype, emergency trucks and complete crime laboratories. The character of the personnel has changed since the bleary Hollanders in droopy gallagaskins cried the hour and the season of the weather in the downtown streets. Of 2,427 men appointed to the force since March, 1936, 301 are college men of whom 61 hold college degrees; 1,658 have had complete, or some part of high school education, and 2,231 are native Americans—New York Times.

PARTY PATRONAGE

If a candidate is defeated in an election, but if his party is in power, then the defeated candidate controls the patronage. That is the usual rule in Canadian politics. It works out in strange ways at times.

In Nanaimo, B.C., an Independent candidate was elected. The defeated Liberal candidate still hopes to get into the House of Commons. Early in 1938 the M. P. for Nanaimo asked Hon. J. C. Elliott to have mail-boxes placed in two places in the town of Duncan. But the boxes were not ordered.

But shortly before Mr. Elliott gave up the portfolio, the boxes were placed on the advice of the defeated candidate of the Liberals. In other words, eight months after the Independent M.P. had asked for the boxes, they were ordered on the advice of the defeated candidate.

That all may seem peculiar, but it's the way patronage goes. The defeated candidate was his party's representative in the constituency and each party likes to nurse along the voters in an effort to get them to mark their ballots in the desired way when another election comes.—W. L. Clark in Windsor Star.

Where Hockey is a Business

Manitoba fans and players take their hockey seriously. That needs no proof to anyone who has seen a hockey game. How seriously they take it, though, it remained for the last fortnight to demonstrate.

Returning from Winnipeg after one game in the play-off between the Monarchs and Elks, fifty cars of Brandon fans found themselves stopped by snow drifts at three o'clock in the morning near Carberry. Gossip tells of a hotel so crowded by the sudden rush that only the feminine fans could get beds, and of chairs in the lobby filled with unfortunates snatching uneasy naps, rolled Indian-wise in blankets. The Odyssey ended with many of the wanderers reaching Brandon only at five o'clock in the afternoon after the game, when a snow-plow at last opened the highway.

Souris now has gone one better. "Tired, hungry and frost-bitten, the Northern Aces hockey team of Souris walked into town" the other morning "having been out all night on the way home from a game at Bunclody where they were defeated 3-0", the Souris Plaindealer records. Their truck broke down 18 miles from Souris at midnight, "and carrying all their equipment they started to walk" hoping for a lift. Only one car passed them in the 18 miles.

"To keep from freezing they wrapped extra sweaters around their faces to protect them from the bitter northwest wind which they had to face for nearly the whole distance. The first members of the team reached town about 5.30 but the stragglers staggered in until eight o'clock."

That is what hockey means in Manitoba. Is it any wonder that this province can produce good teams."—Winnipeg Tribune.

Men Can Make Beds and Cook

Many men are still out of work in Australia and at the same time there is a shortage of domestic servants. The situation might be adjusted, a contributor to the Sydney Bulletin suggests, by employing men instead of women as house workers.

He adds: "Throughout the ages men have been recognized as the better cooks, and during the depression men learned to cook and do general housework while their womenfolk could go out and obtain employment. Many of these men are still only on part-time jobs or not working at all, and would gladly accept domestic work and give satisfaction to their employers. It's an idea worthy of a trial, anyway."

In this country, also, many unemployed men did the household chores during the depression while their wives went out to work. In some cases relatives of the wives condemned this reversal of the customary division of labour, but the husbands had a strong case. They said: "We have tried in vain to get jobs, and surely it's better to clean house and cook the meals than to loaf on street corners." The depression helped to break down the idea in some minds that for a male to do domestic work is unmanly.

Several schools have aided the attempt to overcome the prejudice. In San Jose, California, boys attending the Herbert Hoover junior high school learn as part of a course in "social living" to darn their own socks and to cook. Laundry, nutrition, care of the room, etiquette and the selection of clothing are included in the course. In the Yorkville, Ohio, high school girls studying home economics and boys studying manual training exchanged classes for two weeks. The purpose was to instruct the boys in house cleaning, dish washing and similar home-making activities and enable the girls to do repair work and small varnishing or painting jobs about the house.

As part of the Cincinnati employment centre's campaign to bring economic security to all a service for bachelors was designed, which took the form of giving a number of young men domestic training. Two of them found immediate employment as aids to bachelors, and the centre reported that prospects for placing the remaining members of the class were good. In many famous schools for boys care of their rooms is a part of the pupils training.

A man who cannot make a bed so that the sheets will lie flat and unwrinkled suffers much annoyance through the incompetence or carelessness of servants who do not do their work as they should. A man who can cook possesses a useful talent which is capable of producing great enjoyment. The male Australians who are anxious for jobs as domestic servants have the right idea.—New York Sun.

Iceland, The Independent

If it is a happy country that seldom gets into the news of international crises and affairs then Iceland has enjoyed a long period of felicity—to be broken, perhaps, by the reported desire of Germany to secure airplane bases on Iceland's coast. That made Iceland news, because the southern shores of this Arctic island are within long-range bombing distance of Hudson Bay and Strait (even of Northern Ontario), of Canada's Atlantic cities of the St. Lawrence route.

The encyclopaedia tells us that this island in the North Atlantic touches the Arctic Circle with is northern fringe. It has an area of 40,437 square miles, of which three-quarters is uninhabitable what with elevated deserts, lava streams from active and dead volcanoes, glaciers and snow-fields. Earthquakes are another infliction. It has about 122,000 people, almost all Icelanders and Lutherans, of whom 43 per cent. have their living from agriculture and 19 per cent. from fisheries. The capital seat of government and main city is Reykjavik, with some 22,000 people.

The island is virtually independent, although it acknowledges a vaque connection with Denmark and the King of Denmark shares legislative powers with the popular assembly of 42 members, called the Althing. Of this body 36 members are elected by constituencies, and six under proportional representation by the country at large, the six forming the Upper House. The Prime Minister must be an Icelander and nominally he is responsible to the King of Denmark. The Danes have charge of Iceland's foreign affairs—which is not an onerous task in ordinary times. The island has no armed forces, apparently, other than a small police organization. The coast line of 3,730 miles enjoys comparatively mild Summers but cold Winters.

Unquestionably modern aircraft give Iceland a new strategic importance, and its utilization by Germany would constitute a threat not only to parts of Canada but to the British Isles themselves—Ottawa Farm Journal.

NEED THEM HERE

In good years as in bad, the excess of births over deaths in Canada is 120,000. The Province of Quebec alone shows an excess of 30,000. Is it to be assumed that these 120,000 new citizens will by so much increase the number of unemployed? According to the theory of jugglers in economics, that question would have to be answered in the affirmative. But it is well known that this is not the case. Every new nurseling on the contrary brings new needs and increases by so much industrial activity, the source of employment and wages. It is the same with the immigrants, with this difference that the latter are adults and bring with them in consequence much greater needs. To say that every immigrant is one more unemployed is a crude error. He has to clothe himself, to feed himself, to find a home, to educate himself, to amuse himself, to get about, to travel and all these activities, constituting essential needs signify only one thing: Increase in work and production.—Le Jour, Montreal.

PSYCHOLOGY

One of the drawbacks of being an undergraduate in a girls' college is that several times a year at least, psychologists descend on you with questions about your emotional life. One young lady at a certain Eastern college—we promised not to tell which one—got a little annoyed the second time she was haled to the psychological clinic. So, after obediently telling the doctor how far she went with boys and so on, she said she'd like to ask a question. The doctor said of course, go ahead. "Well," the girl said, "I've been wondering if it means anything special that I like pancakes." "Why no," said the doctor, cheerily, "not at all! I wish I had a nickel for every pancake I've eaten!" The girl shook her head darkly. "I don't like to eat them," she said, "I just like to play with them. I have a whole bureau full." It worked beautifully. The doctor dismissed her, with a shudder, and she has never since been asked back to the clinic. Once in a while, however, the house mother drops in and looks through her bureau.—The New Yorker.

CHERCHEZ LA FEMME

A good story is told by Leonard Lyons in the New York Post, though we do not vouch for its accuracy. Two Japanese soldiers "inspected" the American-endowed St. John's University, in Shanghai, and discovered two photographs on the walls of a student's room: They summoned the school's caretaker, and insisted that he produce those women at once. When he insisted that he couldn't produce the ladies whose photographs adorned the wall the soldiers left and returned with ten Japanese officers, who repeated the demand—the women be found and produced forthwith. The university authorities then moved the caretaker to safer quarters in the Settlement, because he was unable to convince the Japs that the ladies were not in the Shanghai sector. The photos were those of Ginger Rogers and Mae West.—Niagara Falls Review.

MEDICAL STRIDES

Plastic surgery has advanced with leaps and bounds in recent years, but plastic surgeons are still having their troubles. One doctor had a man's inner throat to patch and the only skin he found suitable was on the man's neck. The surgeon operated and grafted the skin of the neck to that of the throat quite successfully. But, according to the medical report, the strip from the neck grew a beard and prevented the luckless patient from swallowing his food.—The Commentator.

The Scots in the old days had a different viewpoint. The man who did not know the Longer Catechism was not good enough to fight.—Moncton Transcript.

Rev. R. E. Newman of Holloway St. Church Speaker on Vimy Anniversary

PARADE TO CHURCH

A stirring appeal to pledge themselves to things honorable, right, holy, and noble, for "you have made history in the past, and you will make it again in the future," was launched to a large congregation of city and district war veterans at Holloway Street United Church yesterday morning, when the Rev. R. E. Newman urged the ex-soldiers and others to "put away things sinful and stand for God and the Right."

From the flag-draped pulpit, surrounded by the bright colors of stately Easter lilies, the yellows of daffodils and the deep wine of red tulips, in an impressive service that jointly observed the great festival of Easter and the 22nd anniversary of the capture of Vimy Ridge by heroic Canadian troops, Mr. Newman delivered a stirring resume of the life of Christ. He drew a brilliant word-picture of the unselfishness, unsinfulness of the Man of Galilee and his many wonderful attributes.

High, Unselfish Motives

"His motives, like those of you who gave themselves to the service of their country, were high and unselfish. But while you men were not blameless of sin, yet Christ was sinless. In the battles of Love versus Hate; Honor against Dishonor; Death against Life and Right against Wrong. He loved his enemies and died with a prayer of forgiveness for them upon His lips. His life was that of a despised convict, yet Christianity and Immortality did not come through the great scientists of the day but rather from the humble people, and today by them is being kept alive," the speaker declared.

"If we believe in Easter and what it stands for," Mr. Newman said, "then death is but a triumph of victory. We meet here to revere the memory of those who paid the supreme price, like Jesus did. But He lives. His personality triumphed over death, and we shall live also and conquer death if we live a life like that, that came out of the grave."

Not Saved By Armies

Cities, towns and even nations could be changed if democratic Christianity but made contact with Christ, the speaker declared. "The world will not be saved by armies, airplanes or battleships, but by the love of Christ for the world."

Addressing the veterans, Mr. Newman stated: "Your fighting days are not yet over. You yourselves are not finished. There is something about you yet, though your physical bodies show the marks and nervous strains of war, for service to God."

"The voices of your brothers are calling from the ground for righteousness, for honor and for justice. The blood of Jesus Christ is calling for you to fight for honor, justice and peace. You dare not fail. We as democratic nations must rise to heights of religion and devotion. We must surrender our lives to Christ and His principles."

"From falling hands they threw the torch."

Tribute to Fallen

In reverent tribute to departed comrades, the veterans with bowed heads repeated the memorable words:

"They shall not grown old, as we that are left grow old,
Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn.
With the going down of the sun, and in the morning
We will remember them."

At the conclusion of the service a two-minute silence was observed followed by the Last Post and Reveille blown by Trumpeter Sergt. P. Finden, Argyll Light Infantry (Tank). The National Anthem concluded the service, a musical feature of which was the anthem "Dawn and the Resurrection" sung by the splendid choir of the church under the direction of Choir Director S. M. Anglin, B.A. with Mr. William Connor, M.A. at the organ.

A brilliant Easter sun reflected back the bobbing colors of the representatives of Canada's famous fighting divisions and those of the Imperial Army as to the stirring melodies of the Belleville Municipal Band, the parade sponsored by Army and Navy Veterans in Canada, Belleville No. 201, swung up West Bridge Street at 10.45.

Reforming, following the service, the veterans march down Front Street where crowds of churchgoers deviewed them as they passed.

Mayor Bone

Prior to dismissal in the Armouries, His Worship Mayor Jamieson Bone who led the parade and attended the service in a brief address expressed his pleasure at the privilege of marching with the veterans. "My heart goes out to the boys who did their bit, and who will likely be called upon to do it again. Keep your powder dry, as I have said before." His Worship said, "for in these hectic days there is no telling when we shall need it. The veterans will show the world the old British spirit is still as strong as ever and will again carry the day should the occasion arise."

Trenton

Trenton, April 10—(Special)—Driving snow squalls transformed the streets and lawns into miniature winter landscapes Friday as Good Friday strollers saw the departing season make one more strenuous effort to vanquish spring before disappearing. Snow several inches deep coated lawns and grass plots, but in streets it quickly melted to make them wet and greasy. Stores were almost all closed, and little activity was to be seen.

Cool and backward weather has hindered shopping all during the last week, and merchants have had little to cheer about. Large supplies of new Easter garments have not been disposed of according to expectations, and a considerable holdover may be anticipated.

x x x

A large number of local people visited the scene of an unusual car accident on Thursday afternoon a ftw miles north of Trenton along the Trent river. During the early hours of the night before, a car driven by John Lummiss of Stirling, and carrying two passengers, allegedly went out of control after a blowout and careened off the highway into four feet of open water in the Trent river. The occupants were lucky enough to get out of the car and wade and swim to shore, but the car was not salvaged until the following afternoon when a local tow truck finally hauled it out after some difficulty.

Local Conservatives were at Belleville in force on convention day, April 5th., and many were very much disappointed that the local candidate for nomination, H. D. Graham, K.C., did not get the vote.

x x x

One of the season's saddest tragedies took place a few miles west of Wooler when Harry Darling, 53-year-old farmer, was struck by a portion of the fly-wheel of a home sawing machine and died in Belleville hospital a few hours later of a skull fracture. A son of the deceased, Arthur Darling, teaches only a mile from home.

C.A.S.A. delegates met in convention at the Royal Connaught Hotel in Hamilton on Good Friday but the local group have sent no special representatives. The expense would hardly be justified, and local officers feel that there is little need of it at the present time. Meanwhile plans are going ahead for a successful season, and it is felt that this may be another banner year.

At a special hearing of matters pertaining to the local by-law which is said to prohibit the installation of any new businesses in the "preferred residential area" west of the C.N.R. crossing on Dundas St., Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, K.C., of Belleville found on Wednesday that there were several inconsistencies in the whole affair. He criticized the by-law in form and suggested that it would bear revision, while to Clare Northey, whose desire to establish a funeral home in his residence on Dundas St. West has brought about the investigation, he said that he found he did not send out printed notices to householders at sufficient advance of time, to comply with regulations. So now the hearing will be held over until April 27th when again the matter of Trenton's "preferred area" will be taken up.

The police cruiser which has been used by the local police for the past seasons has recently been turned in and a newer and speedier vehicle substituted for it. Trenton police in the past have earned something of a reputation for their fast and fearless driving while engaged in running down car thieves and others of that sort, and they have proved the need for a sturdy and fast cruiser which will be equal to almost any emergency.

x x x

A class of some thirty-odd R.C.A.F. officers received their "wings" recently, symbols of pilots who have "made the grade" and who may now claim to have won their way into the ranks of the experienced R.C.A.F. flyers.

Tweed

Tweed—Maurice Graham, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Graham sustained a serious fracture of his wrist when he fell from a pile of logs at the local shingle mill. The fracture was reduced by a local physician.

Miss Frances Courneyea of Stoco, who has been president of The Catholic Women's League for the past year, was presented with a radio lamp on her departure for Tweed where she and her sister, Miss Annalena Courneyea, are opening a rooming house in a short time.

Mr. Geo. Thompson suffered a fracture of his left arm at the home of James Courneyea, Bogart. At Belleville General Hospital the fracture was reduced. He will be confined to his home for several weeks.

Two local students at the Eastern Ontario Dairy School, Kemptville, P. Cassidy, and B. O'Cain were successful in obtaining their diplomas following the conclusion of the term examinations.

Prior to their departure for Tweed, Misses Annalena and Frances Courneyea of Stoco were honoured by a number of their friends and neighbors who gathered at their home to bid them farewell. The evening was devoted to progressive euchre with Mrs. Fred Healey and Mr. Justin Healey, the prize winners. After lunch was served, Mr. Thomas Keilty read an address and presented the Misses Courneyea with a substantial cheque.

Dear Frankie and Annalena:

Your many neighbors and friends have met tonight to bid you a last farewell before your removal from our midst.

For the last thirty-two years you have lived and laboured among us, lending a helping hand to the sick and needy, and forever keeping in mind the betterment of the community.

For many years you were the backbone of the choir. The Altar Society and Sodality always found you willing and able to help, but it is with particular significance that we wish to mention the service you have rendered the Catholic Women's League.

You, Frankie, have filled the office of President for years in a most capable and efficient manner and have given untiringly of both time and effort in promoting the good doings of our organization.

You, Annalena, have also done much to help us, serving on the executive and being of as much assistance as time would permit.

Wishing to have some part in making this event one which you will long cherish, in your memories, we wish you to accept this cheque which we are presenting on behalf of your many friends and neighbors, and which carries with it the friendliest good wishes for your future welfare and happiness in Tweed.

Signed,—Irene Genore, Mrs. Pat Mulroney, Mrs. W. G. Martin, J. V. Meagher.

Mr. F. A. Garrett of Dalhousie, N. B., was a recent guest of his mother, Mrs. W. W. Garrett. He is in the employ of the Canadian International Paper Co., of Dalhousie. His duties require that he visit other plants of his company, one of which is the Gatineau plant from which he made a flying trip to renew acquaintances in Tweed.

A series of special services was held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and Tweed United Church during the week. On Sunday evening at the United Church, Rev. Morrison gave the third of a series of messages from great paintings, dealing with Da Vinci's famous painting "The Last Supper."

On Monday evening, Col. Geo. Smith of the Social Department of the Salvation Army, Montreal, gave a very fine illustrated address dealing with the work of the Army in foreign countries and in the British Empire among the outcasts of Society. The vast extent and importance of the work which the Salvation Army is doing is not generally realized, and Col. Smith's address and the information which he gave here were both interesting and informative.

On Tuesday evening, Rev. H.L. Morrison spoke at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and on Wednesday evening Rev. W. A. Hunter gave a special message at the United Church.

On Monday afternoon Col. Geo. Smith of the Salvation Army, Montreal, entertained the children at the Army Hall. Col. Smith is a ventriloquist of no mean order and with the aid of "Okey", Charlie McCarthy's brother, put on an amusing act for the children. He showed a set of beautifully coloured slides and told Dickens' immortal story of "Little Nell."

On Wednesday morning the children of Tweed Consolidated School were entertained during the opening exercises by William Porritt, Jr., of Vancouver with several selections on his banjo. The young musician is a wizard on the banjo and the children got a great deal of enjoyment from his numbers.

The local schools closed on Thursday for the Easter vacation. Miss K. Jordon and Miss H. Grindell of the High School staff left for their homes in Toronto and Guelph.

Miss Florence Blaney and Miss Catherine McQuarrie of the Consolidated School staff are spending the Easter vacation at their homes in Maxville and Maple.

Miss Enid Connor of Waterford Business College is spending the Easter holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Connor.

GOOD MANNERS

Things to Remember in the Training of a Child

Keep active, by constant and gracious example, those courteous twins, "thank you" and "please", they are as good companions for a child . . . . . they will be good companions throughout the rest of life.

Never, never should children be criticized in public. Wait until you are alone with them and then explain lovingly but definitely, whatever is to be explained.

Watch the tone of voice that prevails in your home. Is it pleasant? Or is "at the top of the lungs" the way it best may be described?

Insist on respect for the property of the members of your family. Nothing, except the permission of the person to whom it is addressed, gives you or any member of your family the right to open a letter or a telegram or a message of any other kind. The respect that the well-bred child is taught for the toys of other children grows naturally into respect for the property of adults.

Insist, too, on respect for the privacy of the members of your family. Before entering anyone's room or opening anyone's door, we first should knock and wait for the owner's "come in!"

Keep your promises to your children.

Don't let the always-late habit grow.

Don't repeat in his presence an amusing or clever thing he has said.

Why, why, why? . . what, what, what? . . . how, how, how?. . . all day long come these incessant questions from little people who are trying to find out about the puzzling world and the people who live in it. Answer these questions politely whenever you can, and when you can't honestly admit that you do not know.

Manners of the Moment

When you are being introduced and it is apparent that that awful moment has descended on the introduction . . . the moment when the introducer has forgotten your name . . . immediately come to his or her rescue and supply your name. Do be quick on the trigger about this, for your alertness and unselfconsciousness will at once lift the embarrassment of the situation.

Advice to the Lovelorn

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

No Beaux at Seventeen?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I like a girl in my high school class very much, and want to go over to visit her. However, her mother objects so strongly to her going out with boys that if she so much as mentions a boy's name, her mother makes a big fuss. Why is it, do you suppose? We are both 17 years of age.

Do you think it would be all right to meet her on the sly? I don't like to do this, but I can't see any harm in a girl having boy friends as companions as well as girls.

M. R. K.

If you have followed my column, you know how much I urge parents to let their daughters see their friends—both boys and girls—at home. This is the only way they can be sure their children are making the right sort of friends.

As you write me, you object to meeting her on the sly as any honorable boy would; but however strong the temptation may be, I hope you won't do it.

In the meantime, isn't there some friend or relative, who could take this matter up with the girl's mother? How about your school teacher. Perhaps she can win her mother over with persistent coaxing, to finally agree to letting you come over.

What Price the Early Marriage?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I married before I was 17 a man about seven years my senior, and naturally was deprived of all the good times which I should have had. We've been married three years now and I'm so dissatisfied. My husband has a job which keeps him out nights every other week, but whenever he has a day off, he wants to stay at home and never wants to go out.

I went to a few dances with my girl friend, and there met a man who says he is very much in love with me. He knows I'm married but it doesn't make any difference to him, and he vows he'll never give me up. But I don't want to leave my husband, because he is really in love with me, and as his health isn't so good right now, I don't think I'd be a good sport if I left him, do you? We have no children. Please help me.

Lonesome

If you leave your husband and your home, will this young man you met at the dance be willing to assume all responsibility? I've had many letters from girls in your same position. But when it came to getting down to brass tacks all these men have had to offer was words and lovemaking. The world is full of young men who take the attitude I'll never give you up", but they are willing enough to let you down if it involves any sacrifice on their parts.

You tell me your husband loves you and you don't want to leave him. Then play fair. Drop the romantic lover and tell your husband you'd like to be taken somewhere once in a while. That's half the trouble with you; you just want a good time.

To Meet That Certain Girl

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Sad to say, I'm still unattached and I'm almost 30. But—I've been seeing a certain girl, who lives on my street almost every day on her way to work. I'd like to become friends with her, but it has been rather difficult to find anyone who knows her. She seems to be a home girl and I can't find anyone who ever goes to her home. Now can you give me an idea as to how I may become acquainted?

Happy-Go-Lucky

My dear young man, you'll have to use our imagination and ingenuity. I've known of young men in similar circumstances, who have sent flowers to the fair unknown, who knew exactly whom to thank for them. Women are much more clever about these things than men.

You might find out if her family deals at the same shop as your family, and if so perhaps the storekeeper or his wife can arrange an introduction. Or find out to which church she goes and attend there and get the pastor on your side. There are dozens of ways in which an enterprising young man can meet a girl. And strange to say girls, being human, are usually flattered.

DR. DAFOE'S COLUMN on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Antitoxin Protects Child from Ravages of Scarlet Fever

We have two Americans, G. F. and G. H. Dick, to thank for most of the work that has been done to curb the ravages of scarlet fever.

These investigators were the ones who discovered that the bacteria which caused the infection was one of the streptococcus family. Having discovered this, these men went on to discover the poison, or toxin, that the disease produced. Still later an antidote for this poison—an antitoxin—was discovered.

As in the case of diphtheria, however, this antitoxin gives protection only for a short period—ten days is about as long as it can be depended on. It has been used not so much as a preventive but to treat and neutralize the toxins in the acute states of the infection.

I mean that when a child becomes very sick from scarlet fever, the antitoxin is administered so that it may help the system fight the poisons. Of course other children in the family receive it if they have been exposed to the infection.

I remember very well when this antitoxin first became available. It was rather difficult to use, and very often the patient developed tremendous itching and a hive-like rash. I can remember mothers coming to me the day after I had given it to a child and telling me what they thought of it—and me. However, that has been remedied. The antitoxin has now been purified, and it does its work without any such manifestations.

Many of the large laboratories throughout the country now manufacture the antitoxin in this manner:

The poison, or the toxin produced by the bacteria, is injected into a horse. The animal doesn't contract the disease, but his blood produces an antitoxin to fight the toxin that was injected. After a time, some of the horse's blood is removed, just as we remove blood from humans for a blood transfusion. This blood, when injected into a patient who has scarlet fever, works to neutralize the poisons produced by the bacteria causing the disease.

The two experimenters mentioned above have gone further. They have developed a test which will show whether a person is susceptible to scarlet fever or not. They do this by taking a minute quantity of the toxin and injecting it into the skin of the front of the arm. If the child is suspectible, there will develop in 24 hours a reddened area in the skin where the needle was inserted. If no red spot develops, then the child is immune.

If your doctor discovers that the red spot does show up after a day, then the child will be given a shot of the antitoxin which will protect him for a period often days—unless he is again exposed to the infection. By the end of ten days, the danger of contracting the disease should be well past, and the sources of contagion well under control.

Weddings

POST—MILLARD

A very quiet but pretty wedding as solemnized on Saturday, April 8th., at the parsonage, Stockdale, Ont., when Verna Amelia, daughter of Mrs. W. Post and the late Mr. W. Post of Cannifton, was united in marriage to John Percival Millard, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Millard of Belleville.

The officiating clergyman was Rev. J. W. Johnson, cousin of the bride.

A very dainty lunch was served after which the happy couple left on a motor trip to Eastern Ontario and New York State.

On their return they will reside in Cannifton, Ontario.

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, April 11

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

PARTICULARLY auspicious influences prevail on this day despite signs of very definite obstacles or frustrations to cope with. It is probable that new ventures will prove alluring as well as intriguing. Ambitions are high, and a novel element or innovation seems to pervade them. Elders, superiors and conservatives may oppose, but these may either be placated or subjected to shrewdly-manipulated tactics or compromises. Use strategy rather that direct opposition as basis.

Those whose birthday it is find themselves confronted by an opportunity for putting over cherished plans that have rather revolutionary or novel factors. These may bring hostility or opposition of superiors, conservatives or elders, who will have to be very delicately handled. Tact and diplomacy may win over determined obstacles and assist to high goals.

A child born on this day, while practical, industrious and tenacious, may also have unusual talents and ideals, making it difficult to understand. It may lean toward the new, the untried and experimental, showing cleverness and originality. It may make signal success despite much frustration.

Constance Bennett, the glamourous blonde who proved herself a first-rate comedienne in last year's "Topper" and "Merrily We Live," returns to the screen in another mad and merry portrayal in Hal Roach's latest comedy production "Topper Takes a Trip" now on the screen at the McCarthy theatre, through United Artists release. The cast of players in Miss Bennett's support reads like a galaxy of Hollywood's best known celebrities.

Roland Young, who scored so brilliantly in "Topper" last year and "The Young In Heart" (which comes in the near future to the McCarthy) portrays Cosmo Topper, the banker who manages to slide into marital and fiscal difficulties when Miss Bennett "Philanthropically" takes a hand in the affairs.

Billie Burke, one of the screen's most popular comediennes, who achieved wide acclaim last year as Mr. Topper's Victorian and shockable wife, is again gullible Mrs. Topper who gets into a whole series of strange scrapes when she is followed to the Riviera by Mr. Topper.

Alan Mowbray, who reached new comic heights in Mr. Roach's "There Goes My Heart" is cast as valet to Mr. Young and he manages to infuse his duties with a dash of hilarity and, to complicate his actions with his usual unique logic.

As the gentleman who is attracted by Mrs. Topper's goodly fortune, Alexander D'Arcy contributes a portrayal of a penniless man-about-town with a fine flair for love-making. Also importantly cast in this line-up of stellar players are Franklin Pangborn, Verree Teasdale and Paul Hurst.

The direction of this merry melange of comedy (which had the capacity audience at the Easter Sunday midnight preview in hysterics from the very moment it flashed on the screen), was in the hands of Norman Z. McLeod, who had already proved himself a master of the comic technique when he staged the original "Topper" of 1938, "Merrily We Live" and "There Goes My Heart."

"Buddy" Rogers and his band are also presented in a musical-revue entitled "Swing Vacation" and an amusing Walt Disney, Mickey Mouse-Donald Duck and Pluto all technicolor cartoon besides an R.K.O. special sportscope subject entitled "Dude Ranch" in advance of each complete performance of "Topper Takes a Trip" the most hilarious hit that has come to the screen this season and already picked as one of the Ten Best of 1939.

AT THE BELLE

"Honolulu"

Eleanor Powell, Robert Young, George Burns and Gracie Allen join hands to bring Belle screen audiences an entertainment-packed festival of song, dancing, music and laughs in the new M-G-M star studded musical, "Honolulu" which is now on the Belle screen.

With Miss Powell as a cabaret dancer, Young playing a dual role as both a screen star and an Hawaiian planter, and the inimitable Burns and Allen team offering a fresh supply of laughs, the talent-filled cast also includes Andy Iona's Islanders, the famous Hawaiian orchestra, Rita Johnson, Clarence Kolb, Jo Ann Sayers, Ann Morris, Willie Fung, Cliff Clark, Edward Gargan, Eddie Anderson, Sig Rumann, Ruth Hussey, Kealoha Holt and Edgar Dearing.

The director was Edward Buzzell, who was a Broadway musical comedy star before he went to Hollywood. Jack Cummings, the producer was the guilding hand in the hit productions, "Born to Dance" and "Broadway Melody of 1938."

Miss Powell is seen in a series of new dances, the first, "Hymn to the Sun," a tap hula based on a traditional Hawaiian celebration. She also performs a novelty number in imitation of Bill Robinson's remembered stair dance, and a tap dance with a skipping rope.

The story presents lavish scenes in Hawaii, New York and on board ship. The song numbers include "Honolulu," sung by Gracie Allen, "This Night Will be My Souvenir," and "The Leader Doesn't Like Music," written by Harry Warren and Gus Kahn.

In his dual role, Robert Young appears as a Hollywood screen star who is eager for a vacation. At an "opening" where he is to make a personal appearance, an autograph-seeking crowd mobs a stranger in the lobby who resembles him. Young arranges with the stranger a planter from Hawaii, to trade places temporarily for their mutual amusement.

Enroute to Hawaii, he meets a cabaret dancer on board ship and falls in love with her. In Honolulu, Young finds that he is mistaken for his double and also has acquired that gentleman's troubles, including a girl and a charge of emblezzlement.

The tangle is straightened out with the planter's return to the island. The music and dancing numbers are worked into the story as it progresses.

"How To Sublet" a funny Robert Benchley comedy, the popular Belle Newsreel and "Jungle Juveniles" a cleved and funny novelette will be presented on the same program.

An Adventure in Shadowland

Punch Tells of His Wonder Rubber Plant

By Max Trell

EARLY that morning mother had put the rubber plant by the sunny window in the playroom. She thought it would grow better there. It was a lovely tall rubber plant with large green leaves.

"But it isn't rubber at all," Knarf said to Hanid later that day. "I felt it. It's just like any other plant. Why is it called a rubber plant?"

Hanid thought for a moment or two. Then she shook her head. I don't know, Knarf. But I'm sure its called rubber plant for a very good reason".

At that moment Mr. Punch, who lived in the playroom with his wife, Judy, motioned the two shadow-children to come over. "I saw you looking at that rubber plant over there. I suppose you're wondering about it."

Made of Rubber?

Knarf and Hanid quickly told him that they were. "We were wondering why it was called rubber plant, Mr. Punch. Is it really made of rubber?"

Mr. Punch smiled. "My dears, it's not made of rubber at all. It's called rubber plant because it is full of sap which can be made into rubber. Sap is like a juice. It's inside the plant. But if you take too much of it out the plant dies. Now when I was a boy," Mr. Punch went on making himself comfortable for a long story, "I had a rubber plant growing in my own garden. It was a real rubber plant—much, much more rubbery than the one over there."

"Oh! tell us about it, please!"

Like a Tree

"Well, to begin with it was more like a tree than a plant. And the leaves were rubbery. When you pulled them they s-t-r-e-t-c-hed. One morning I saw a robin tugging at one of the leaves and suddenly—snap! it pulled back and sent Mr. Robin flying into the meadow on the other side of the road."

"My goodness!"

"Yes. And in the springtime it blossomed. Then the blossoms would fall off and different things would start growing. One year it was rubber-bands, the next year it was erasers, a third year it was rubber boots. And one year it was balloons all of a different color."

"What a wonderful rubber plant, Mr. Punch!" the shadows exclaimed. "What happened to it?"

Mr. Punch sighed deeply.

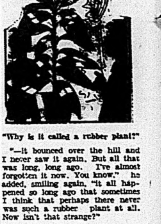
Makes Him Sad

"It makes me sad when I think of what happened to it. But I suppose it couldn't be helped. It's what could happen to any real rubber plant. One morning I went down into the garden to have a look at it. And it was gone!"

"Gone!"

"Yes, gone. A strong wind was blowing. And there it was, in the meadow, going bounce, bounce, bounce, further and further away, bouncing higher and higher like a rubber ball And then—and then—"

"Yes?"



"Why is it called a rubber plant?"

"—it bounced over the hill and I never saw it again. But all that was long, long ago. I've almost forgotten it now. You know," he added, smiling again, "it all happened so long ago that sometimes I think that perhaps there never was such a rubber plant at all. Now isn't that strange?"

Caroline Chatfield Says today

Common Sight But None the Less Tragic to See Family Split up Over Property

Dear Miss Chatfield:

There's a family fuss among us eight children over property. Tell me if you think my husband and I have been fair. Five years ago mother was unable to stay in her home during the winter on account of the bitter cold and my husband and I insisted that she come and stay with us until spring. We assumed the mortgage on her house, have it nearly paid off, keeping up taxes and insurance, and we have kept her each winter even when our income was down mighty low. Finally we got old age pension for her which relieved us to some extent. Now my sisters and brothers say we have coaxed the home away from her and keep her with us to use her pension. They come to see mother and spend time quarreling so we have no peace as one of them is always here. My husband and I are worried to death and so is mother.

E. W.

Answer:

Sister, it will probably take a lawyer and a good one to settle a family dispute about property and then it will never be settled to the satisfaction of all concerned. However, anybody can tell you that you and your husband hadn't the right to step in and assume indebtedness for your mother's home, pay it off and claim ownership on this ground. Not unless you had offered your brothers and sisters the opportunity to come in with you, and they had declined, would you be in a tenable position.

Granting that the home belongs to you mother and she has the right to hand it over to you, you couldn't expect your sisters and brothers to see this as a fair deal. So not pretending to give legal advise but merely a little golden rule suggestion, why don't you and your husband ask the protesters what would satisfy them and give it to them. After you have got back the cash which you've invested, the good will of your clan will be more precious to you than ownership of the place.

Then, too, shouldn't you think of the mental anguish of your mother whose children are fighting over her small possessions. Naturally she feels obligated to you and your husband who saved her home from being sold. Yet she's not relieved of obligations to her other children whose father made the money to buy the home or the whole family. She's at the mercy of you who have paid the bills and having been good to her up to this time you shouldn't be willing to "bring down her grey hairs in sorrow to the grave".

It's a common sight, but none the less tragic, to see a family split to pieces over a little land or money. Millions don't compensate us for the peace of mind we lose when members of our family fall out with us over what they consider a raw deal. So I say it's better to go the second mile in satisfying sisters and brothers, even at financial sacrifice, than to hold out and incur their lifelong enmity.

Shannonville

Shannonville — A number from here attended the Musical Festival held at Melrose on Wednesday night. Among those that attended were the following: Dr. H. E. Eckardt, Mrs. K. R. Vivian, Mrs. Olive Mayell, Mrs. W. S. Dies, Mrs. Kathleen Mills, Miss Jean Kent, Ronald Mayell, Mr. Kemp, Carm Spencer, Jr.

The Rev. A. E. Pepper will conduct his farewell services in the Trinity Church Easter Sunday. Holy Communion will be celebrated at 8 A. M. and at 3 o'clock the evening sermon and service will be held.

The choir of the Trinity Church has been invited to attend the annual Synod service to be held in Kingston on the evening of May the sixteenth. The Rev. A. E. Pepper mentioned this in his service last Sunday and said that members of the congregation owning cars would attempt to take the choir to this impressive service.

Mrs. W. C. MacDonald was a Wednesday evening tea hour guest of Mrs. Jack Kent and family.

SALTED EGGS

A business which, possibly, is very little known, in Eastern Canada, at any rate, is the sale of salted salmon eggs, for the most part to the markets of the Far East. British Columbia is the chief centre of operations where the eggs from the salmon are collected, salted and packed.—Halifax Chronicle.

Colorful Spring Footwear Will Match Costumes

Launching an entirely new trend in the accessories and footwear modes, Spring 1939 will see beautifully blended or matching colors in shoes and hosiery, both perfectly matched or blended with costume colors. The effect is of a "symphony in color" from head to toe and has been at once accepted by smart fashion leaders.

Delightful new color schemes already seen in smartly ensembled costumes are the warm reddish "cranberry" tones in shoes and bags with blending hosiery which has the same deliciously warm hue in a lighter tint. These match the lighter wine red hues seen in Spring ensembles or may contrast with navy. Another color group which will be very popular is the new flattering tan and rust hues, such as "Rosy Rust," "Carcell" and "Fresh Earth". These are all in the new rosy tans or the warm yellowish tans, and are perfectly matched with hosiery and costume suits.

Black or navy shoes and bags will be worn with contrasting hosiery. Black patent shoes are worn with lovely warm beige or rosy nude hosiery, and navy shoes are worn with delicate skin tones softened to blend with navy'

Playtime and high school frocks will feature prints in bright color swatches. This, as a carryover of the dirndl race of last year, fits right in the picture of "old-country" influence. And this picture includes the new Dutch-boy influence in shoes. These shoes are really wood —lightweight and youthfully in good humor.

FOXBORO W. M. S.

The regular meeting of the Foxboro W.M.S. was held on Thursday afternoon in the S. S. rooms. The president, Mrs. Priest, was in charge and the meeting opened with an Easter hymn and prayer by the president. Mrs. M. C. Reynolds read the scripture lesson and business items were dealt with. The treasurer Mrs. S. C. Gay, reported $10 sent to the Presbytery and a number of ladies paid their dues. Mrs. Reynolds gave an interesting Temperance reading. A report on "Peace" was given by Mrs. J. G. Sills and Mrs. Daniels reported some calls made, a letter written and a welcome was extended to Mrs. Harvey Cooke.

Mrs. Walter Scott reported on China and Mrs. Harry Kilpatrick on Africa. Mrs. J. G. Sills then gave a very nice reading "Thirty Three Years," portraying the years of Christ's ministry among the people and Mrs. J. Gowsell then sang a beautiful Easter solo. The third chapter of the study book was given by Mrs. W. Hodgen, the title of which was "The Church Reaches Out to Heal" and an account of the great work that is being carried on in the church hospitals in the west and of the interesting and magnificent services of the doctors and nurses in these hospitals. A hymn and prayer by Mrs. Gay brought the meeting to a close.

NOTES IN THE DIARY OF A FASHION MODEL

By Grace Thorncliffe

Bill came home this morning, and it was swell to see him. He called me and wanted me to take lunch with him, but I had already made a date. I had a dinner date, too, but I was able to break it. We couldn't plan anything afterward as Bill was due to see the senior partner of the firm at his house, so I asked him to have dinner at my apartment.

Soft gray taffeta

Bill looks fine and is full of plans for the future. Things are going well with him and he is thinking in terms of his own organization. He wanted to know what I think about the idea.

Talks it Over

There is one grand quality about Bill, and that is he wants to talk over every move with me. Which is something that many men do not do. They think the little woman hasn't a head for business. Maybe not, but women have a great deal of intuition. They don't know why they like or dislike a person, a thing or a condition, but they do. And more often than not, they are right.

Well, anyway, I advised him against striking out for himself right now. After all, he is with a very well-known firm and they are very nice and generous and appreciative of his work. The more he becomes known, the better his chances of success when he does branch out for himself. And at the proper time the way will be clear for such a move. So Bill did not argue but agreed with me.

Anxious to Succeed

Bill, I know, is anxious to get ahead so that we can get married. He feels that we have lost time during the year that we were not friendly. No one knows this better than I do. But we have waited so long, we might as well wait a little longer.

Taffeta is very popular still, any way, our customers seem to like it. Here is a girlish looking, neat little frock fashioned of paper-weight taffeta, a soft gray with a print of little red circles. Self-pleated ruffles are placed along the hemline at the "necklace" yoke, and at the neck. Buttons in back to below the belt.

"Town-tweed" 3-piece suit with a young jacket in fitted lines, and a casual topcoat with smart shoulders and contrasting sleeves. Two tones, of, color., were chosen by Helen Cookman for the packet and coat, with monotone skirt and sleeves.

Lovely lines in a new reefer coat are accented by embroidered darts about the snug waistline. Gored lines, flare into a full swinging skirt. New smoother shoulders and conceal ed front fastening are also features in this Helen Cookman model.

It's No Simple Matter to Pick The Correct Shade of Powder

By HELEN FOLLETT

CHOOSING the correct shade of complexion powder is no simple matter. You can't close your eyes count ten and pick out any box that happens to be on the cosmetic counter. Match your skin tones, have the powder a wee bit darker; then it will hide any little defects that may be lurking around the facial premises.

The Nordic blonde with fair hair, blue eyes and delicate skin needs a soft creamy powder like the color of delicate old china. She may fancy a flesh tint but it will not be as flattering as cream. The Anglo blonde with ash tresses, brown eyes and a slightly darker complexion will find a happy choice in rachel. There are several tones of rachel and she will have to experiment. In many beauty shops there are open containers. It's fun trying out their contents.

The titian blonde should try a blend of flesh and cream. She is usually pale of coloring, and playing with rouge isn't always successful. Best to get the skin glow in the powder and lipstick.

Mauve powder is ravishing on the white-haired pretties, especially if eyes are blue or grey and the skin carries a transparent quality.

Dainty armpits are in order these days. Perfect cleanliness is necessary; sweat glands are active there and a deterrent or deordant should be used now and then.

There are many commercial hair removers to be had. Instead of increasing the growth, the growth usually lessens. Gets discouraged after being annihilated over and over again. Don't use a deodorant immediately after applying a depilatory. That practice may produce dermatitis.

BESS JOHNSON

Radio actress, selects powder with care

Every morning after your bath spray the armpits with toilet water or eau de cologne, friction briskly with a coarse towel. Use talcum powder freely.

Our pet of the suits seen so far is in misty blue, soft green, beige and brown checked tweed. The long coat is worn over a purplish sweater blouse with pocket flaps and collar edge of the costume tweed.

"Streamline" Coats, Swing Swaggers, Set Dual Trend For Spring

Spring, 1939, is a coat season, says Fashion!

And as never before, the coat looms as the important fashion fundamental around which dresses, hats, suits are planned. And colors in coats this year give opportunities for ensembles of contrasting colors, or the newer "blending color" ensembles worn by smart fashionables. Light coats over blending frocks, bright coats over dark frocks, neutral coats over print frocks, and dark coats as "extra" essentials, makes this year a coat year. Not one coat, but two—a black or navy, a stunning color—are needed.

Fabrics are more fascinating than ever, with twisted-yarn wools which are amazingly water-repellent, new twills and coverts borrowed from the sleek tailleurs of the gay '90's, new striped weaves that vary from the smartly slim chalk stripes, to the nubby stripes on plain fabrics and the bright-hued stripes of multi-color casual coats. Plaids in bold colors, plaids in soft muted pastels, plaid-checks and broken plaids, all revive interest in the popular casual tweeds. Amusing "little checks" in soft pastels or neat black and white, are also seen. And a beautiful variety of softly nubbed or brilliant sparkling tweeds, give new youthful dash to this year's coats.

• "Little Girl" Silhouette

"Little Girl" basque coats of trim navy or black, swing skater coats with wide swirling skirts below trim hips and tiny waistlines, trimly fitted reefers that have young reveres, and tucked or gored coats that somehow add to the sleek youthful lines popular in all new silhouettes, these stand out as the smart coat silhouettes for Spring, 1939. Contrasting with these are the new slim boxy coats that hang in rectangular lines and make almost any figure look trim. There are the fitted front, flared back coats and the dashing new swaggers that swing out in full ripples and pleats at the back. Everywhere, one sees "youth in swing for Spring!"

Fashioned Favered By All

Taking their cue from the streamlining of this year's two great Fairs, designers and manufacturers have given us the most youthful mode of years, with the sleek modern fashions which only the American and Canadian women know how to wear perfectly. Broad military shoulders and "gay '90" sleeves and immaculate tailoring, gives to this year's coats the distinctive air of Tommorrow's Fashions.

Spring promises to be a "casual" mode, and a "travel mode" for the new colorful coats for dressy wear, and the many varieties of tweeds sparkling with color, launch a new trend away from the sophistication of typical dark Paris clothes, to our more truly outdoorish fashions that may go motoring or to luncheon in the smart city restaurant with equal propriety. Backed by the young smart set, colorful coats and ensembles will travel throughout the continent this year.

POTENTATE'S THIRD WIFE

Mel Hill of Saskatoon Attributes Ability to Pals Who Live in Same House

Talks Over All Angles With Boarding-House Buddies

PRAISES COWLEY

Says Centre Ice Star Can Certainly Lay Down a Pass

By JACK CALDER

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Boston, April 10—(CP)—Hockey's sudden-death scorer, 23-year-old Mel Hill, attributes any high-powered job he does for Boston Bruins to long study of every possible ice situation with his four boarding-house buddies.

Hill fired the overtime goal that brought the Bruins three of their four victories over New York Rangers in Stanley Cup semi-finals. No one else ever has scored there overtime goals in the playoffs.

And Mel, a quiet 162-pound pinch-hitter from Saskatoon, Sask., believes a good deal of the credit belongs to four team-mates who live with him in a big suburban Brookline rooming house. He has high praise, too, for Bill Cowley, the centre who gave him passes for all three sudden-death goals.

"Milt Schmidt, Porky Dumart and Bobby Bauer stay in the room next to his and Roy Conacher has that bed next to mine," Hill said today as he practised putting with a golf ball and his new clubs in his bedroom. "We all get along like a million dollars and you should be around here when we have a hockey clinic."

Never Have Argument

Schmidt, Dumart and Bauer, all from Kitchener, never have had an argument, Hill said. As for Conacher, he is as meek off the ice as he is dangerous on it.

Since Schmidt, Dumart and Bauer form the best-balanced forward line in the National League, and since Conacher led the league this season in goals, this really is a notable quintet. No groups of youngsters ever has come along so fast with a team as these five have with the Bruins. The sauerkraut trio put in their first full N.H.L. season last winter, while Hill played only seven games in the big show in 19v7-38 and Conacher was an amateur until last fall.

"The kraut kids lived together last winter and they asked Roy and me to come to this house when Art Ross made us regulars this season," Hill explained. "We clicked right away, and soon we were talking, eating and sleeping hockey.

Can't Sleep After Game

"None of us can sleep until three or four o'clock in the morning after a game, so everybody gathers in here. Sometimes we play cards awhile just to take the edge off, but mostly we just talk over the games, figuring out what we should have done in such and such a case."

Gradually, the talks have paid better and better dividends. Conacher came on with a rush to take the goal-getting title. Then Hill staged his amazing streak against the Rangers, and finally the sauerkraut line produced both goals when the Bruins opened the finals with a 2-1 victory over Toronto Thursday.

"Those goals of mine were just little things along the way," Hill said. "Cowley, who really knows how to lay down a pass, handed me the puck and I batted it in. Actually, I think the goal I scored in the sixth game of the Ranger series—which we lost 2-1—gave me a bigger kick, because I had to work to get it."

Not Super Star

The youngster couldn't see himself as what Manager Ross likes to call a "super star." Maybe Hill hasn't been reading the Boston papers lately.

"No, nothing very much ever happens to me," he said. "Except once.

"In 1937 I was working in the Frood Mine and playing hockey for Sudbury. That was the year we won the Dominion championship.

"One day a stope collapsed about 100 yards from me and four men were killed. My teeth chattered for a week any time there was a sound in the mine. But outside of that, nothing has ever happened to me."

Amateur Association Celebrates Anniversary

Winnipeg, April 10 (CP)—Twenty-fifth anniversary of formation of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association at Ottawa in 1914 will be observed here today at opening of the association's Silver Jubilee meeting.

No actual business will be transacted today although several important resolutions, including a Saskatchewan proposal amateur clubs be permitted to tie their players down to legal contracts, are up for discussion Tuesday and Wednesday.

Forty-two officers and delegates are expected to attend from all parts of Canada.

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

(By The Associated Press)

Rocky Mount, N.C.: Johnny (No hit) Vander Meer was assigned to take his first exhibition test of the season for Cincinnati Reds today. Manager Bill McKechnie said his ace, who has been out of action with an inflamed appendix, would work five rounds against Boston Red Sox. Jim Bagby and Jake Wade were to furnish the opposition slants.

Sheveport, La.: Rip Radcliffe, crowded out of Chicago White Sox outfield, is drilling at first base so he may be used there if needed. Manager Jimmy Dykes said the manoeuvre was being used as insurance against Joe Kuhel slumping again this year.

Monroe, La.: The entire cast of New York Giants was assembled today for the tour northward and Manager Bill Terry was radiating joy again at the apparent recovery of Carl Hubbell. The southpaw star worked two innings for the "B" team at Memphis yesterday and was able to use his natural pitching motion again. His first five pitches were strikes.

Atlanta, Ga.: It looks as if rookie Bill Nagel will fill Bill Werber's vacancy at third base for Philadelphia Athletics this season. He has been slugging at top speed and his good work reportedly has prompted Manager Connie Mack to decide to option Bill Lillard, for whom the paid $35,000, to Baltimore instead of Nagel.

LEAFS LOOKING FOR REAL HITTERS IN TRAINING CAMP

SHORT ON HURLERS

Southpaws Weir and Kenney from Boston Bees May Help

By ELMER DULMAGE

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, April 10 —(CP— Heinie Manush, the old big league slugger, was Toronto's only .300 hitter last season and even Heinie's potent club couldn't get the Leafs into the International Baseball League playoffs. After Heinie was sold to Pittsburgh late in the campaign, the Leafs finished in sixth place.

It's hitting power the Leafs are looking for now as they prepare for the new season. Any real rifleman has a chance to break in with manager Jack Burns' team. Burns and general manager Dan Howley hope a big league club or two will contribute assistance before the schedule opens.

Unless he gets help, Burns will have to start again with Ted Petoskey, Mayo Smith and Bobby Porter, all inconsistent at the plate, in the outfield. Joe Walsh and Ralph McLeod, on option from the Boston Bees, may turn out to be of some help but the Burns eye still is wandering afield.

Short on Hurlers

The Leafs also are short of first-division pitching, although the acquisition of left-handers Bill Weir and Art Kenney from the Bees may have wiped out this worry. Weir was on the shelf much of last season with arm trouble. His only complaint this spring has been wildness.

Regular right-handers are Mike Meola, Earl Caldwell and John Berly, with Don Brennan and Joe Mulligan for relief work. All except Brennan, who had a bad season, were mainstays of the 1938 staff along with Joe Sullivan, star southpaw drafted by the Bees. Sullivan won 18 games for Toronto.

The spring pride and joy of the pitching department has been Philip (Babe) Marchildon, 21-year-old right-hander from North Bay, Ont. The lean youngster from the Northern Ontario sand-lots may be carried. Otherwise he will be sent to the Cornwall club of the Canadian-American League for seasoning.

Burns, perhaps the league's best-fielding first baseman, and Flea Clifton are holdovers in the infield.

George Patterson of Kingston Scores Only Goal to Beat Ramblers

Cleveland, O., April 10—(CP)—The championship of the International-American Hockey League that rested last season in Providence, belonged today to Cleveland Barons.

The Barons won the title Saturday night when Georgie (Popeye) Patterson scored the goal that gave Cleveland a 1-0 victory over Philadelphia Ramblers in the fourth game of a best-of-five games championship round.

The Ohio outfit won the first game at Philadelphia 2-1, dropped the second 5-4 in the fourth overtime period and then scored a 2-0 shutout last Thursday when they returned to their home ice.

It was the second straight year that Philadelphia has reached the final round, only to go down before a superior defensive force.

EDMONTON HOLDS BRIEF WORKOUT

Meet Oshawa Generals in Finals for Memorial Cup

Toronto, April 10 (CP)—Intent on retaining the Memorial Cup for Western Canada, Edmonton Roamers held a brief workout today while Toronto fans endeavored to determine hurriedly how the young Albertans compare with Oshawa Generals, highly-rated eastern junior hockey champions.

The two teams open a best-of-five game series for the Dominion title which has rested in the West for the last two years, here tonight. The Generals will be bidding for the trophy for the second successive time, having bowed to St. Boniface Seals in the junior classic last season.

In 20 years of competition, the West has won the cup 11 times, but an Edmonton club has never been successful. A triumph for the Generals also would place Oshawa on the championship list for the first time.

Poker-Faced Doc Romnes of Leafs Fired Overtime Goal to Even Series With the Bruins

Busher Jackson Supplies Pass That Ended Torrid Battle

SCORE IS 3-2

Chamberlain and Apps Score | With Drillon Assisting on Both

Boston, April 10—(CP)— Poker-faced Doc Romnes put himself in a fair way to attaining his second straight world's championship hockey year when he scored the overtime goal last night that gave Toronto Maple Leafs a 3-2 victory over Boston Bruins and levelled their Stanley Cup final at one game each.

The centre ice star, who played for Chicago Black Hawks when they won the cup last season, spanked the puck past Frankie Brimsek after Harvey Jackson had skidded a long pass into the goal-mouth. The teams had played 10 minutes and 38 seconds overtime when the score came.

Jackson broke up a furious Boston offensive and sped along the left boards, then tricked Bobby Bauer aside before laying the puck on Gus Marker's stick. Marker handed it to Romnes as Brimsek dived in an attempt to block.

Goalie Turk Broda co-starred with Romnes in the win that sent the teams back to Toronto ice all even for the third and fourth contests of the best-of-seven series. After coming from behind to tie the count at 2-all in the second period, the Bruins bore down on Broda's net repeatedly. When Bingo Kampman of the Leafs was penalized early in the extra session, the Bruins turned on a frenzied attack that had the Leaf goalie diving and kicking to prevent the sudden-death goal that would end the game.

Leafs Outshot in Overtime

The National League champions had seven shots on the Toronto net in overtime, against three on Brimsek. Broda nipped two shots from Roy Conacher, that seemed certain to break up the battle, and risked a serious head injury by diving into Ray Getliffe's close-in-effort, taking the puck on his chest.

A crowd of 16,859 persons watched action that bore all the hectic ear-marks of the semi-final rounds in which Bruins defeated New York Rangers and Toronto eliminated Detroit.

A penalty to Mel Hill, sudden-death scoring star of Bruins' series with the Rangers, brought Toronto the chance for its first two goals in the opening period. While he was off, Murph Chamberlain and Syl Apps scored power-play goals. Gordon Drillon aided in both.

But Hill refused to become the goat of the game. He tied the count with 16 minutes of the second period gone, a minute after Roy Conacher had narrowed the Leaf margin.

Georgetown Leafs Even Series With Coppercliff Bruins

Copper Cliff, Ont., April 10—(CP)—Georgetown Maple Leafs defeated Copper Cliff Bruins 8-7 here Saturday in the second contest of their best-of-three series for the championship of the Midget National Hockey League. Bruins won the first game Friday 10-9 in overtime.

Deciding game of the series will be played here tonight.

As in Friday's game, the contest Saturday was featured by the work of Georgetown's Beaumont who was garbed as Toronto Maple Leafs' Syl Apps. Beaumont scored five goals and assisted in another Saturday. In the first game he scored six times and set up the play for a seventh.

Georgetown players were dressed in Toronto Maple Leaf uniforms with names of big team players on their backs. Copper Cliff players were similarly garbed in Boston Bruin uniforms.

Winning team will be presented with the Calder Cup, presented by Frank Calder, the National Hockey League President.

Finals in Saskatoon If Goodyears Win

Winnipeg, April 10—(CP)—First game of the Allan Cup finals will be played in Saskatoon, April 1. if Toronto Goodyears win the eastern championship, Dr. W. G. Hardy, President of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, announced here early today.

If the Montreal Royals win, the series will be played in Montreal, Port Arthur Bear Cats, western champions, journeying east for the finals. The Bear Cats left Saskatoon for their home city, there to await the outcome of the eastern final.

"It was their own choice," said Dr. Hardy. "I did not order them home."

ALL-STAR TEAM TO ENTER FINALS

Lacrosse Moguls Give Montreal Club a Real Break

Montreal, April 10 (CP)—Permission has been granted by the Canadian Lacrosse Association for the entry of an All-Star team of Montreal players in the Mann Cup playdowns next season, it was announced here last night by Richard Brayley, Secretary of the Quebec Amateur Lacrosse Association.

Brayley, who returned yesterday from Toronto where he attended the annual meeting of the Ontario Lacrosse Association, said the decision was reached after a conference with Gene Dopp, First Vice-President of the C.L.A. and Mike Kelly, Past President. The same privileges also were granted to Cornwall.

Four teams probably will play in the Quebec senior group, he declared, Indians and All-Stars of Cornwall and Canadiens and another team yet to be named representing Montreal.

A meeting will be held here Wednesday night to consider a suggestion the Beatty Cup be put into competition next September for an elimination series between Cornwall and Montreal teams, the winner to represent Quebec in the Mann Cup playoff.

A second series also is under consideration in which all six Ontario senior teams will participate, playing once each in Cornwall and Montreal during the season, the Upper Canada teams have consented to the trip, Brayley said.

GERMAN PEOPLE

The Germans of the United States cannot be essentially different from the Germans in Germany. Hence it is not hard to believe that there is a revulsion in Germany against the excesses of Hitlerism. It is in the highest degree unfortunate if the Germans over there continue to be deluded with the false and malicious assertion that America, which does not like Hitler's leadership, extends this dislike to the whole German people. —St. Louis Globe-Despatch.

GOODYEARS EVEN SERIES WITH 2-0 WIN OVER ROYALS

Fifth and Deciding Game Will be Played in Montreal Tonight

GAMBLE INJURED

Receives Dislocated Collar Bone and Broken Leg

By DICK SHERIDAN

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, April 10—(CP)— Both coaches predicted victories for their teams as one of the most keenly-contested eastern senior championship series in hockey history switched to Montreal for the deciding game tonight.

Toronto Goodyears who won the first game of the best-of-five series and then dropped two in a row, scored a 2-0 victory over Montreal Royals here Saturday night. The winners of tonight's contest will face Port Arthur Bear Cats for the Allan Cup.

In addition to losing the bruising game played before 9,000 fans, the Royals lost one of their best men, Carl Gamble. The clever centre dislocated his collar bone in the first period and broke his leg in the second to end his hockey for the season.

Coach Joe Primeau, in his usual quiet manner, declared after the game that Goodyears would "beat them now." Frank Carlin, Montreal mentor, said much the same thing but with more emphasis.

Both Rotten Says Coach

"Sure we'll beat them with any kind of refereeing," he shouted. Asked if he was complaining about any particular official, he replied: "Both were rotten."

Carlin claimed referees Leo Heffernan and Dinty Moore should have issued a major penalty, when Blondy Sutcliffe dumped Buddy O'Connor to the ice in the first period and rendered him useless for the remainder of the game. He thought there should have been a penalty also when Gamble was hurt.

There may be a difference of opinion in the Sutcliffe-O'Connor issue—it was a mixup near the boards in which O'Connor was thrown to the ice—but the consensus in the Gamble case was that it was just hard luck.

Shorty Robinson came in from the side to stop Gamble in his wild flight toward the goal and poked at the puck, causing the Royals player to lose his balance. His speed was so great he couldn't stop and he went hutrling into the end boards from some 10 feet out.

Don Metz and Peanuts O'Flaherty got the Goodyear goals early in the third.

MODERN WORRY

Old-time typesetters who are having a contest here to find out who is the fastest handsetter in the United States, say that they could really speed along in the old days. But then they didn't have to set all these Russian, German, Polish and Spanish names that fill the news now.—Los Angeles Times.

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

with

Ken J. Colling

If the Toronto Goodyears and Montreal Royals continue their present-style of bruising hockey in the Allan Cup finals, the Port Arthur Bearcats should just about coast into the world's amateur hockey title without much effort. The 'Goodies' and Royals have been knocking each other around like the proverbial ten pins in their current series, the Toronto squad giving the Royals both barrels of the gun and then the full benefit of the butt on Saturday night when the 'Goodies' tied the series with a 2 to 0 win. Carl Gamble and O'Connor, of the Royals, sustained serious injuries as the Goodyears laid on the gad, Gamble sustaining a fractured leg and dislocated collar bone that will keep him out of the fifth and deciding game at Montreal tonight. The entire series has been a bruising one and will doubtless take much out of the ultimate winner in the finals. In four games played to date Goodyears have scored 12 to the Royals' eleven goals, each winning a game at home and one on the road. Toronto won the first and fourth 6-2 and 2-0, respectively, while Montreal won the second and third 3-1 and 6-3.

Clifford "Nug" Bennett, who learned the rudiments of fly chasing in the outfield with the Belleville juniors, was granted a transfer to play baseball with Kingston this coming season, as was Stan Spratt, former Napanee moundsman. Incidentally local baseball interests do not want to count any too heavy on the services of "Bud" Johnson for the coming season, as we have been reliably informed that Johnson will do all his baseballing in Northern Ontario during the warmer weather—if and when we get any. Although Johnson turned in no mean chore for the locals last year and will naturally be missed in 1939, there are plenty of good youngsters available to very capably fill his shoes.

Although the active umpires on the American League roster this season will be 13 in number, the arbiters are not going to be superstitious about that fact, for when there were 12 last year look what happened! Emmet (Red) Ormsby was out all season because of illness and Harry Geisel was forced to the sidelines later with a broken hand. The retention of George Pipgras by President William Harridge made a total of 13 available for active duty this year.

The old Central Ontario League is still kicking the gong around and apparently is not going out of existence without some kind of a last minute struggle. Recently the O.B.A. conceived a plan whereby Peterboro and Oshawa might be grouped in a province-wide senior baseball loop, but Niagara Falls and other Peninsula clubs turned a deaf ear on the proposal. "Our senior baseball set-up is ideal, why take chances on expansion when it is unnecessary," the Peninsula ball mentors cried. However, an effort to strike up a working agreement between the clubs in the senior T.A.B.A. and the remnants of the C.O.B.L. is now afoot, with representatives from each faction and the O.B.A. convening tonight in Toronto. Most any kind of a working agreement with the Queen City teams will doubtless be most acceptable to both Peterboro and Oshawa, who can culminate a summer of interlocking baseball with the T.A.B.A. with a seven game series for the C.O.B.L. championship and the right to advance to the O.B.A. playdowns.

While all of this is going on the Belleville baseball interests should bear in fact the annual meeting of the Bay of Quinte League will be held in Napanee on Wednesday night at which time officers will be elected and entries received.

The Brown twins of Meaford, Harold and Wallace and upon whom Canada may pin her hopes of Olympic honors next year, were the guests of Jimmie Andrews in Belleville over the holiday. Incidently Harold Brown holds the British Empire broad jump title, while brother Wallace holds the Canadian interscholastic honors in the same event.

The Toronto "Lizzies" junior basketball team won the junior cage title of the province Saturday, defeating Galt in the finals. The Lizzies eliminated Belleville in the first round junior O.B.A. playdowns.

It's even-Stephen in the N.H.L. finals today, the Toronto Maple Leafs taking a decisive 3 to 2 overtime win from the Boston Bruins last night. The Leafs forged ahead to an early 2-0 win early in the first period, the result of a penalty. Boston whipped in two rapid goals in the second, no scoring was in evidence in the third and it remained to have Doc Rommes rifle home Harvey Jackson's pass in the overtime to win. The teams resume hostilities in Toronto on even terms Tuesday.

With a roster of nineteen players in tow the Edmonton Roamers rolled into Toronto over the week end to meet the Oshawa Generals in the Memorial Cup finals. Puck experts from the western provinces lay claims to the fact they consider the Roamers a stronger team than St. Boniface Seals, 1938 junior champions. If these statements be true, the Roamers stand a good chance to win, as we do not consider the Generals as strong this year as last.

Hodge Podge—Scotty Rankin, Canadian runner, placed second in a marathon at Syracuse on Saturday....As a matter of fact Canadians generally placed well in the race....Vern De Geer, of the Toronto A.M. press, reveals the fact that Bill Cook was born in Brantford, not Kingston as we've been led to believe for years....Cy Blanton hurled the season's first no-hitter yesterday, when he let the Cleveland Indians down without a bingle at New Orleans.

Tangier, Morocco, April 10—(AP)—All British naval officers on holiday in Tangier were ordered by telegraph today to return to their ships immediately. A number of officers arranged to return to Gibraltar tonight.

Jerusalem, April 10—(AP)—Four British soldiers were killed and two wounded today when a landmine exploded under a military trolley northwest of the Lydda railway station, the main junction of Palestine railways between Jerusalem and Jaffa.

Hong Kong, April 10—(AP)—British authorities dispatched the destroyer Thracian today to Swatow to seek the release of the Sagres, a vessel seized by the Japanese while she was flying the British flag. The Japanese took the Sagres near the port of Swatow, approximately 200 miles northeast of Hong Kong.

British officials meanwhile were trying to determine the present nationality of the vessel.

(Lloyd's register lists the Sagres as a vessel of 2,333 tons owned by the King Kong Steamship Company Ltd. and registered at Hong Kong).

Rome, April 10—(AP)—A widely expected airplane dash to Tirana by Premier Mussolini appeared unlikely to materialize today. Il Duce was reported to be still in Rome late this afternoon. Some diplomatic circles believed he stayed here to keep in close touch with the general European situation.

Bombay, India, April 10—(AP)—Hjalmar Schacht, Germany's former Economics Minister, said today of Great Britain's proposed stop-Hitler alliances: "We will do our best when the time comes.... We will give them a good fight."

Dr. Schacht, who is here on a vacation, added that Germany would not fight if the democracies were "reasonable."

Shanghai, April 10—(AP)—Strategic victories were claimed by both Chinese and Japanese today after fighting in Kiangsi Province, south China.

The Chinese reported they had stopped a Japanese advance near Wuning, 70 miles northwest of Nanchang, the provincial capital, and, by counter-attacks along the Nanchang-Changsha highway had recaptured Kaoan, which the invaders occupied a week ago at great cost.

Japanese said their forces southwest of Nanchang surrounded several Chinese detachments. Seven hundred Chinese were reported slain.

Athens, April 10—(AP)—Albania's fugitive royal family and entourage spent last night on a train on a railroad siding at Larissa, Greece, and it was reported King Zog, Queen Geraldine and six-day-old Prince Skander would leave as soon as possible for Egypt. Persons in close touch with the royal party said Zog had enough money to enable him to live in a foreign country.

Canton, China, April 10—(CP-Havas)—Dr. O. Leaton, a New Zealander, of the Presbyterian Mission at Kongchuen, Kwantung Province, was killed by bandits last night. He was 33.

Collegiate News

The School Stamp Club is just one of the several distinct Societies throughout the school. Although this society is young compared with the others, the enthusiasm and full attendance which have been in evidence during its existence are certainly the factors which have proven the venture to a great success. We owe the success of our club entirely to Miss Wallen and sincerely thank her for providing such an interesting evening after school on Mondays for those who really appreciate stamp-collecting. Not much mention has been made before of the executive of our club which is listed below:

Miss Wallen and Mr. Jury—Honorary Presidents.
Margaret Coulby—President.
David Smith—Vice-President.
Ben Ogilvie—Secretary.
Irene Singer—Treasurer.
Bill Coulby—Auctioneer.
Jim Mills—Raffle Manager.
Bill Robinson — Sales Circuit Manager.

Because the meetings of our club have been so successful, it is generally agreed that the club will resume its activities next September, when more members will surely be enrolled. Our little contribution on Open Night certainly helped to interest the visitors as we meant it to do, and next year, we will surprise everybody on the next School Open Night by our splendid exhibits.

Although we have had several well-known guests to speak to us this year, it is our objective to have many more guests to favour us with delightful chats next year.

Ben O.

Now that the Easter examinations have just been completed, for better or for worse, the majority of us B.C.I. & V.S. students feel that, temporarily at least, we can lean back and relax. Therefore, any mention of how sickeningly close the May examinations are is automatically ruled out, and this column will be devoted exclusively, or as near to that as I am capable of, to an account of the arrival and departure of the Easter ones (respectively), the in between period being best left cloaked in darkness.

They arrived, on Tuesday, March the twenty-first, as all such things do, not unheralded but most certainly unsung, unless the various sounds of self-pity expressed early in the corridors that morning could be classed under the heading of singing. March the twenty-ninth wrote "finis," to the reign of terror and all breathed more or less happily again.

At the date of writing, the results are being given out, which needs no comment as they usually speak for themselves. To all those pupils who have fallen into disgrace (like me) I quote two sayings to keep in mind—

(1)—"Don't cry over spilt milk" and (2)—"Be thankful for small blessings," the latter, of course, referring to the one or two papers you may have scraped through on.

WILL YUGOSLAVIA BE THE NEXT TO FEEL DICTATOR'S KNIFE?

A possible attempt on the part of Germany and Italy to dismember Jugoslavia is feared by European observers as a result of Il Duce's action in invading the tiny kingdom of Albania. Jugoslavia, facing Italy across the Adriatic sea, has become an important link in the chain of alliances seeking the encirclement of the Fascist powers. Albania was actually a vassal of Italy, being independent in name only, and the regime of King Zog UPPER RIGHT rested largely on Italian support. Now unprovoked military occupation of Albania by Italian legionnaires has thrust a strong wedge between Jugoslovia and Greece. The action of Italy in invading the opereta kingdom is seen as the first step of the Rome-Berlin axis to gain control of the Balkans in answer to Britain and France's "stop-Hitler" movement.

AN UNWILLING — AND UNWELCOME RE FUGEE

Physical struggles and vehement pleas led to at least a temporary respite for this Czecho-Jewish refugee and his companions when British officials attempted to return them to their haven in Warsaw, Poland, after they had landed at Crowdon Airport, London. The officials had to use force to get them to the plane that was to return them to Warsaw, but that plan was foiled when the refugees threatened to hurl themselves from the plane, the pilot refusing, on those grounds, to make the flight.

A SIGN OF THE TIMES

A sign of the times in present-day Europe is this sign that stretches across the face of the Royal Exchange in London to impress upon Englishmen the virtue of being prepared for any eventuality. The bronze figure of the soldier in the war memorial lends emphasis to the warning.

FOILING OF WOULD - BE SUICIDE

Action of the spine-tingling sort is graphically caught by the camera here. Legs kicking wildly, Florence Baker, of Washington, D.C., is shown as she was hauled from the narrow ledge of a Baltimore hotel's third floor after she had stood there for 15 minutes threatening to leap to death. While policemen attracted the distraught girl's attention, two men slipped out of a window behind her, seized her and pulled her to safety. The girl now is in a Baltimore hospital under observation. In Washington, her mother, Mrs. Emma Baker, said her daughter had suffered a nervous breakdown.

Little Benny's Note Book

We were eating breakfist and pop said to ma, I imagine I'll have to bring Mr. Nutberry and his wife home for dinner tonight, he's the division manager and he's in town for a few days, you remember Nutberry, I had them up once before.

I remember him, and her too, now really, Willyum I mean really, they're the 2 worst boars this side of captivity, ma said. Why they dont even play bridge, she said, and pop said, I know, I thought that was their biggest redeeming trait and the brightest side of their natures.

But Willyum, that woman is an inveterate talker and an impossible listener, I mean's she's just one mass of interruptions, and he's still worse, he never says a word and keeps looking at you as if he didn't believe a single one of yours, for goodness sakes take them to a resterant, ma said, and pop said, It might not seem very hospitable.

O very well then, if they dont object to a faint aroma of soap and a lingering impression of dust, ma said. In other words I'm starting my Spring housecleening today, she said, and pop said, Yee gods cant you put it off?

Now Willyum there are certain things that cant be put off, would you ask the callendar to put off the month of April, would you ask the weather man to pospone the Spring showers? ma said, I was just going to ask you to be content with a pick up supper yourself, she said, and pop said, Okay, it's a resterant, I ought to feel thankful to be out of it myself.

And he folded up his paper and left for his office and ma called up my sister Gladdis on the telephone, saying, I'm sorry I cant go shopping with you today but circumstances have obliged me to advance my Spring cleening a few days, and by the way Gladdis where can I get hold of that wonderful cleening woman of yours?

Ross S. Salisbury, Branch Manager

WALL ST. CLOSE

New York, April 10 (AP)—Stocks took on rallying ammunition in today's market and retrieved fractions to more than two points of recently lost territory.

Dealings, fast enough after the opening to put the ticker tape behind for a while, slowed as the session proceeded. Prices, however, were around the best in most cases near the final hour. Transfers were about 1,500,000 shares.

Buck lambs from 1938 crop made $6-$7 with a few ewe lambs at $7.50. Sheep were from $3-$5.50 with the bulk between $5-$5.50.

Toronto, April 10.—(CP)—Trade continued dull at mid-session on the Toronto Livestock market today with cattle prices generally steady. The calf market opened steady but in early afternoon trade had dropped 50 cents. No hog price was set. Western lambs sold steady while sheep were steady. Cattle holdover from last week was 400 head.

Receipts reported by Dominion livestock branch were: cattle, 2,880; calves 810; hogs 1,580; sheep and lambs 430.

Good butcher steers and heifers sold at $6.75 to $7 and common downward to $6. A few weighty steers brought $6.50 to $7.75 and butcher cows traded at $3.75 to $5.25. A few bulls ranged from $4.25 to $5.50 and stockers sold between $5 and $6.

Choice veal calves dropped to $9 to $9.50 and common held at $5.

Previous close on off-truck bacon hogs was $8.65 to $8.75.

Western lambs sold at $9 cwt and sheep sold from $2.50 to $5.50 cwt.

COL. H. McGEE, TORONTO, DIES

Senior Vice President of T. Eaton Co. for Many Years

Toronto, Apr. 10 (CP) — Harry McGee, 77, senior vice-president of The T. Eaton Company, Ltd., and Honorary Colonel of the Irish Regiment, died today.

Mr. McGee joined the Eaton organization in 1883 as a $6-a-week clerk and rose in position as the store expanded. Native of County Tipperary, Ireland, he went to Midland, Ont., in 1882 as assistant to a general storekeeper. Seven months later he came to Toronto as a clerk and joined the Eaton firm in 1883.

After a few months he was promoted to head of a department and later became general supervisor of several departments. He was made a director of the Eaton Company in 1906 and was appointed second vice-president a year later. Later he was made first vice-president.

Produce Unchanged At Toronto Market

Toronto, April 10—Butter showed a firmer undertone during Saturday's session of the Toronto open produce market as eggs moved lower.

Offerings were still light on the butter market. Receipts of the first grade Ontario product were readily taken up at 22¼c, but it was difficult to obtain ¼c above this figure, although some sales were recorded at 22½c.

Ontario creamery solids closed at 22¼c to 22½c for No. 1 grades and 21½c to 21¾c for 38 score. Prints remained at the previous value of 23½c to 24c for top grades and 22¾c to 23¼c for 38 score.

Quiet trading ruled on the egg market, and dealers reduced prices in an effort to stimulate sales. Ungraded eggs fell to 18c for grade A-large, 17c for medium, 15c for B's and 14c for C grades, while grade A-large sold at 23c in the retail section, medium at 22c, B's at 21c and C grades at 20c.

Montreal, April 10—Butter prices firmed while eggs gave ground narrowly on open produce markets here last week the Dominion Department of Agriculture reported.

Creamery butter prints to retailers sold for 23c-23½c a pound and solids for 22½c-23c.

Graded egg shipments in used free cases were offered at 22c a dozen for A-large, 21c for A-medium, 20c for A-pullets, 19c for B-large and 18c for C. Receipts: 7,918 cases, compared with 12,752 a year ago.

$1,500,000 SPENT ON AIR SERVICE

Authority is Sought to Operate Transatlantic Service

Washington, April 10 (AP)—Juan T. Trippe, President of Pan-American Airlines, Inc., testified today his company had spent $1,500,000 in developing a proposed Trans-Atlantic Air Service.

He appeared at a heading before the Civil Aeronautics Authority in support of Pan-American's application for a certificate of convenience and necessity to operate the route. The company proposes to operate between New York—or alternate bases at Baltimore, Boston, or Charleston, S.C.—and traffic centres in Great Britain and France.

Trippe said Pan American, Imperial Airways, Inc., of Great Britain and Aero Postale of France had worked out an agreement in 1930 covering mutual development and expansion of TransAtlantic Service. Under it, he said, the French and English companies agreed to develop facilities at Bermuda, the Azores, and Portugal and Pan American agreed to fly 50 per cent of the schedules.

Counsel for the authority, opening the case, said the C.A.A. must decide whether public necessity existed for TransAtlantic Air Service, and determine fair and reasonable rates for carrying mail.

word have lost their security and value which are indispensable bases of reciprocal confidence and without which ardently desired disarmament, material and moral, becomes with each passing day less possible of realization?".

50,000 Hear Pontiff

The 12-minute homily, in Latin, was heard by 50,000 worshippers massed in the great Basilica of St. Peter and broadcast to the world. The sermon steered a careful path through political conflicts. It constituted largely an appeal to religion.

After picturing the 'sad spectacle' of a world in arms, the Holy Father offered a glowing picture of an era of peace through religions.

"To this inexhaustible fount of pardon and of peace," he said, "the church in the Holy days of Easter calls its sons with paternal insistence.

"If all the world would accept the loving invitation there would thus come about an extremely long and flourishing blossoming of a new life in Christ."

Grandeur of Peace

"Peace," Pope Pius said, "is a good so great that nothing may be more welcome to the ear, nothing more worthy to be desired, nothing better may, in short, be obtained...

"In no time, perhaps, as in the days through which we are passing may the words of the prophet be applied: 'They cried peace peace and there was no peace.'....

"And how may full and true peace be had while even sons of the same land....are so profoundly divided by a burning and implacable struggle between parties and interests....while so many thousands of men lack work?

"Who does not see that in such manner enormous masses are being formed which impoverishment and misery....render easy prey to deceptive mirages insidiously proposed by shrews and promulgators of destructive theories?....

"It is necessary above all to think of peace of conscience: Procure it if one does not have it; guard it and cultivate it if one has it."

AIRPLANES USED IN MERCY FLIGHT

Residents on Wolfe and Amherst Islands Are Marooned

Winging planes driving high over the ice-bound stretches between Wolfe and Amherst Islands brought the sick, the dead, and the dying to the mainland in a series of mercy flights over the weekend.

A sixteen-months' old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stevenson was rushed by plane from Wolfe Island to hospital but died a few hours after admission. The pilot flew back to the island bearing a little white casket.

On his next trip, Captain H. B. Free, instructor at the Kingston Flying Club, and pilot of the mercy plane, brought Mrs. William Leskey, seriously ill to the mainland, where she was placed in a waiting ambulance and rushed to hospital.

Yet another resident, Stanley Woodman, suffering from appendicitis was brought by plane to hospital, where he was successfully operated upon.

Airplanes were brought into action to convey residents to and from Amherst Island a few miles east of Kingston, to the mainland. Christina Wemp, seventeen-year-old girl suffering from appendicitis was rushed to hospital via the air. The plane made eight trips all told.

No food shortage was reported on the island although if the ice does not break up within a few days inconveniences will be suffered. At a late hour yesterday open water was reported at the head of the island, and a motor launch was able to cross to the mainland, a distance of five miles.

CONSTABLE FIRES AT FLEEING MAN

Alleged Car Thief Screams As If Hit But Escapes

Brampton, Ont., April 10 (CP)—Constable E. Armstrong fired three shots at one of two alleged car thieves and burglars here early today. One man screamed as tho' hit when the officer fired at his heels as he sped down a lane.

As Constable Armstrong neared a Main Street grocery store, a light coupe, believed driven by a third burglar, drove away. A minute later two men dashed out the smashed rear door of the store and were spotted by the officer. One man scaled the railway embankment while the second hiked down a lane.

A second motor car, believed to have been stolen in Toronto, was left parked at the rear of the store. The steering gear lock had been broken and the ignition wires crossed so as to make a key unnecessary to operate the car.

Police believe the burglars were attempting to drag the store safe from out of the range of a light when they were surprised. Two sets of fingerprints were found on the safe.

NINE HOURS WORK REQUIRED TO GET CAR FROM RIVER

Car from Which G. Arthur Escaped, Buried in 15 Feet of Water

THIRTY - FOOT BANK

Nine hours of strenuous activity on the part of wrecking trucks and crews, featured by dangerous cable-breaks that send the car plunging back into the flood swollen waters of the Trent River a short distance from Trenton, was necessary yesterday before the automobile that plunged into the river on midnight Friday, carrying with it its owner, George Arthur of Trenton, was finally extricated from the river bottom.

A dramatic story of a miraculous escape from death was told Trenton police by Arthur after he walked into the police station early Saturday morning dripping wet.

The car crashed through the thick cedar undergrowth that lines the riverbank a few hundred yards south of Dam No. 2 after it had gone out of control following the striking of bumps on the highway. It plunged down the almost perpendicular bank crashing through trees and undergrowth to strike the water thirty feet below and disappear into a fifteen foot depth, imprisoning its driver.

The car sank rapidly, but Arthur, exercising great presence of mind, managed to kick the right rear window out, and extricate himself from the submerged vehicle. He told police he was in the car over a minute after it sank. Swimming in the icy water, he clambered up the steep bank and made his way to Trenton.

Hundreds of people and cars lined the river bank as wrecking crews attempted to extricate the car. Strong steel cables were attached to the vehicle after it had been raised from the bottom, but these snapped on one occasion, sending the car plunging back to its original position. Heavy trucks hauled and strained, winches creaked, and tense cables hummed as the car was slowly brought up the steep bank to safety. Crews started work at ten o'clock yesterday morning, but their efforts did not meet with success until well after seven o'clock last night.

LEADERS TURN TO ROOSEVELT

Drafting of New Neutrality Policy for President to Decide

Washington, April 10 (AP)—Alarmed by unsettled conditions in Europe, leaders in the United States Congress turned to President Roosevelt today for help in drafting a new neutrality policy.

They decided to lay the controversial problem before Mr. Roosevelt as soon as he arrived from a vacation at Warm Springs.

As the Senate Foreign Relations Committee resumed hearings on neutrality proposals, administration Lieutenants decided that war threats abroad necessitated the temporary reenactment of the "cash and carry" provisions of the present law before they expire May 1.

There was a wide divergence of congressional opinion, however, over a permanent neutrality course, ranging from a ban on all arms shipments to broad authority for the present in regulating commerce with warring nations.

The House of Representatives Foreign Affairs Committee will begin neutrality hearings tomorrow, and Acting Chairman Bloom (Dem-New York) invited Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh to present his views when he reaches the United States late this week.

Bloom sent a radiogram to the aviator, who sailed from France unexpectedly on Saturday. Chairman Steppard (Dem-Texas) of the Senate Military Committee also was considering asking Lindbergh to testify before his group.

INVENTOR DIES

New York, April 10 —(CP)— Henry A. Wise Wood, 73, Chairman of the Board and former President of the Wood Newspaper Machinery Corporation, who was famous as the inventor of modern high-speed newspaper presses, died last night.

Wood invented and manufactured much of the intricate modern machinery that makes possible the large circulation of daily newspapers today.

FLOOD CONTROL QUESTION IS NOT SHELVED—MAYOR

Discounts Suggestion That Government is Side-stepping Issue

TO KEEP FIGHTING

The Moira River had dropped from its higher flood stages to a normal spring freshet level this week and the ice-free water was finding its way easily to the bay. Flood fears of local residents are apparently over for the year.

But the matter of control methods for the river has not been forgotten, it was stated this morning by Mayor Jamieson Bone. The idea that the matter has been shelved through governmental procrastination has been discounted by the mayor.

"We have no final or satisfactory answer to this matter from either Queen's Park or the Dominion offices of the Public Works Department, and until we do, we are going to keep fighting. There has been some misunderstanding over our meeting with the Dominion and Provincial authorities on this flood control scheme, and I have written the Hon. Eric Cross, Provincial Minister of Public Works on the matter. We expect to hear from him in a day or so," added Mayor Bone.

"This matter appears to be the only one which will provide employment for our men, and if we can get authority for this construction this summer it will mean a lot to the city. We intend to pursue the matter to its conclusion."

PAIR ARRESTED FOR 2 BREAKINS

Merritt Woods and Gerald Connors Both of City Are Held

Merritt Woods, 21 and Gerald Connors, 20, both of Belleville, were arrested by city police today on charges of breaking, entering and robbery at local service stations, while police are seeking a third member of an alleged trio, that has been plundering by night in Belleville.

Woods and Connors appeared before H. B. Wilson, local justice of the peace today, and were remanded for trial. The pair were charged with entering Patterson's service station, West Dundas Street, and stealing $18.00 in cash, candy and a quantity of gasoline.

Following the arrest of the pair by Plainclothes Constable Fred Isard, the officer later recovered a gasoline pump handle hidden beneath a culvert on the Trent Road. Police allege the robbers stole the gas pump handle from a Coleman Street service station and used the handle to procure gasoline from the gas pumps at Patterson's service station.

Efforts to gain entrance to Gilroy's service station on Dundas Street on the same night Patterson's station was entered, failed when the would-be robbers could not force a front door. At the time police were of the opinion the breakins were completed by the same party. Woods and Connors refused to comment as to the question of an accomplice, who police believe was the driven of an automobile used last week when the robberies were committed.

Gordon Monahan of Burwash Escapes

Sudbury, Ont., April 10—(CP)—Two prisoners at Burwash Reformatory escaped today when they dashed from the jail building while crossing the quadrangle on their way to the dining hall. Guards immediately scattered about the district in an effort to apprehend them.

The prisoners are Lucien Therrien, 23, convicted of theft at Ottawa last July, and Gordon Monahan, 42, sentenced at Belleville for theft.

Police Blotter

Police today were investigating a robbery at the Belleville Metal and Waste Company, Church Street, which was discovered by employees as the business opened this morning.

A large quantity of rags and aluminum pots were reported missing. Entrance had been gained through a rear entrance. Constables Ellis and Arnott investigated the matter early today. Several other robberies, which had taken place in Belleville last week, were solved when five men were arrested by city police over the week end on various charges of robbery.

An automobile driven by Charles Gibson, 24 Albion Street, turned over on Victoria Avenue on Saturday afternoon, without injury being sustained to the driver, however. Mr. Gibson was proceeding down the Victoria Avenue hill when his car skidded on a patch of ice, turning over into the curb. Later the vehicle was righted and towed to a nearby garage for repairs.

Two other minor accidents occurred over the week end, but only fender damage resulted and no injuries reported to the vehicles implicated.

A large number of transients were afforded sleeping quarters at the police station over the Easter week end, some 15 on Saturday night and 11 last night.

Display of Easter Finery Voted Best in Recent Years

Perky Hats and Colorful Costumes Freely Displayed Though Weather Was Cool

BRIGHT HUES POPULAR

"In your Easter bonnet, with all the ribbons on it, You'll be the proudest lady in the Easter Parade."

With due apologies to Irving Berlin, the youth and beauty of Belleville, mature matrons, silver-haired ladies and laughing childhood favored by a brilliant Easter sunshine albeit tempered with a cool breeze that blew from the north-west, probably held that secret boast to their bosoms yesterday, as they paraded their Easter finery that left the mere males dazzled with a display that for sheer color and style eclipsed any of recent years.

Whatever the stylists had in mind, according to the display as seen yesterday they left little to the imagination with a wide variety of styles that could not help but delight the female of the species with their widely different frills and folderols.

For instance there were the hats. Cute little creations some of them in all color schemes, some solid colors, others blending while yet others afforded sharp contrasting effects. Big ones, little ones, round ones, flat ones, three-cornered affairs, and "floppy" styles. Others quite mannish with colored feathers adding the feminine touch.

Chic little flower-pot editions that narrowed from a wide brim to a saucy circular effect at the top. "Over the eyes", "off-the-face" "on-the-ear", "down-the-neck" — and other vivid chapeaux had the vainglorious males, themselves decorated in Easter frillery, gasping.

The gals, took full advantage of the warm sunshine, but those who went "all out" in the display of their entire outfits kept clear of shady corners where a brisk wind lessened the comfort of the Spring sunshine. Nor were the ensembles, coats, jacquettes etc, that made up the remainder of milady's Easter apparel, lacking for color.

Orange and red hues were conspicuous, showing in marked contrast against the quieter shades of pinks and purples. Fuchsia tones appeared to be popular while the more sombre blacks were set off with additions of white. Shades of blue were prominent with some outfits exacting the admiration of those who came to see.

Nor was the proud male oblivious of the admiring gaze of pedestrians along the Front Street "boardwalk." Greens and greys appeared to be the more popular in the new topcoats, with the new wide brimmed hats coming in for their share. Collegiate-inclined youths favored the bare head style, with heavy coats and be-mufflered throats.

All-in all it was one of the most colorful Easter turnouts seen in many a season. Milady took full advantage of weahter that while not letter-perfect was conducive to the proper showing of the new outfits.

MAYOR REPLIES TO CRITICISMS

Had Spoken of Hitler as 'Convalescent Man' and 'Austrian Corporal'

Port Elizabeth, South Africa, Apr. 10 (CP-Reuters)—James MacLean, Mayor of Port Elizabeth, took Prime Minister J. B. M. Hertzog to task today in replying to the statesman's criticism of "offensive" terms the Mayor applied to Chancellor Hitler in a public address.

The mayor referred to Hitler as a "convalescent man" and an "Austrian corporal". He admitted in his reply that he had resorted to somewhat violent terms but added:

"When I recall the brutal murder of Dollfuss, the cruel imprisonment of Schuschnigg and the way Benes was hounded out of his country, I wonder whether you, sir, as head of a state protected by the British navy, are not being more complacent than you ought to be with a representative of a regime which apparently delights in treating prime ministers in this fashion."

GREECE PREPARED TO DEFEND SELF SAYS METAXAS

Athens, April 10—(AP)—Premier George Metaxas hinted today that Greece was prepared to defend her territory against any aggression.

In a message to the people Metaxas said Greece possessed every means of assuring the national independence and integrity and told them:—

"The Greek people can quietly go about their business confident that the government will be continuously vigilant to guard their safety and honor."

ARTIST IS STRANDED WITHOUT PAINTS, CANVASS

Toronto, April 10—(CP)—Franz Johnston, Canadian painter, is stranded without paints or canvass "way up at Coronation Gulf, on the northern rim of Canada, better than 1,000 miles from Edmonton, according to word received here by his wife today.

The artist said he took an airplane trip from Eldorado, on Great Bear Lake, to Coronation Gulf and that the airplane returned without him.

FRENCH

reported Italian pressure increased following Premier Mussolini's occupation of Albania.

Every effort would be made by Britain and France, observers agreed to assure the Balkan entente (Rumania, Turkey, Greece and Yugoslavia)of practical aid in the event that the Rome-Berlin axis partners drive farther to the south and east.

Says France Signed Pact

Genevieve Tabois writing in L'Oeuvre, turned French attention toward Spain, where she said General Franco had signed a secret military agreement with Germany, Italy and Japan.

She said the secret agreement was "signed Friday, April 7, at 4 p.m. in Burgos, Spain," and provided that:

1. For 18 months Spain places all her air and naval bases at the disposition of the axis powers.

2. Germany and Italy guarantee to finance the building of a line of fortifications behind the strategic passes of the Pyrenees mountains (at the French-Spanish border).

3. Germany, Italy and Japan guarantee to defend Spanish territory against all aggression by a third power and will support General Franco in his "national territorial demands."

The last phrase, Mme Tabois said, might refer to Britain's Gibraltar at the entrance to the Mediterranean.

The commentator Pertinax, however, dismissed nationalist Spain's potential threat to France with a single sentence: "Franco can no longer doubt that the least movement of hostility on his part will mean the loss of Spanish Morocco."

BERGDOLL TO SURRENDER TO U. S. AUTHORITIES

New York, Apr. 10 (AP) — Mrs. Grover Bergdoll, wife of a notorious American Great War draft dodger, announced on her arrival from Europe today that her husband would sail next week from Germany to surrender himself to military authorities and serve the remainder of the five year sentence imposed upon him before his escape in 1919. He has been living in Germany since then.

Mrs. Bergdoll went to Europe last December with the announced intention of persuading her husband to return to America.

Bergdoll fled from United States military guards after he had been sentenced to five years in prison for evasion of the Great War draft. A warrant for his arrest is still held by the United States Marshal in New York.

ASSAULT CHARGE IS LAID AGAINST WILLIAM J. HALEY

Charged With Attacking W.E. Miflin and Son With Intent to Rob

HEAVY CLUB USED

Quick and concerted investigations on the part Belleville police resulted in the apprehension of William J. Haley, 23-year-old painter of 42 Great St James Street early today on a charge of assault with intent to rob. Haley was arrested following an attack on William E. Mifflin, local barber and his two sons last Saturday night.

At the time of the attack Mr. Mifflin sustained a four inch gash on his head, while his son, Wesley, also was struck over the head with a heavy cudgel in the hands of their assailant. Eleven-year-old George Mifflin courageously attacked the man who later escaped under the cover of darkness.

Haley was arrested by Plainclothes Constable Fred Isard today following investigations headed by Chief Kidd and during which a cap, left at the scene of the attack, was traced to Haley's possession. The accused man is said by police to have given a statement in which he is said to have confessed.

Haley Was Remanded

Accompanied by his two sons, Mr. Mifflin was returning home from his day's labours and was in possession of the day's barber shop receipts, which the unknown assailant unsuccessfully sought in his attack. As the Mifflin's approached the rear verandah of their home, a tall man suddenly leaped out from the seclusion of the darkness and wielding a heavy club struck Wesley Mifflin over the head.

Boy Grapples Assailant

Immediately Mr. Mifflin rushed to his son's aid, but was felled by the marauder when struck over the head with the weapon. The younger George Mifflin, age 11, grappled with the man and cried for assistance. The assailant later ran towards the Moira River and leaped over a fence to disappear in the darkness.

Escorted to Neighbor's Home

The injured family were escorted to the home of Thos. Harris, E. Moira Street, where Dr. R. Bird was summoned. It was found that Mr. Mifflin had sustained a four inch gash on the left side of his head, while Wesley had sustained a nasty head bump as the result of his experience when struck.

Constables Ellis and Evans investigated the attack and later a length of shovel handle was found in the vicinity of the position in which the attacker jumped a fence in escape.

Deseronto Man Takes Own Life

Securing a shot gun from a neighbour's wood shed, 28-year-old Clarence Thompson, Deseronto, shot himself to death in his own back yard last night. Merely mumbling a "good-bye" over his shoulder as he left the house, Thompson walked into the yard and placed the gun to his head and pulled the trigger. Today Dr. J. J. Robertson, coroner, announced no inquest was deemed necessary.

home until he went in the house an and Provincial Constable Wm. McBrien, Belleville, investigated the shooting and subsequently learned that Thompson had procured two shot gun shells on Saturday night and went to a neighbour's house during their absence and took a shot gun that was hanging in the woodshed. Thompson loaded the gun and left it outside his own

Chief E. Beatty of Deseronto, said "goodbye".

It is believed Thompson had become despondent after losing employment at the Trenton Airport last Wednesday.

Present Season One Of Latest On Record

A season as backward as last season was ahead, was the consensus of a group of district farmers on Saturday. "Last year at this time, we were preparing fields for seeding. This year, they are covered with ice in some parts, there is from two to four feet of snow in the woods while a number of sideroads and concessions are still blocked withh snow."

This opinion is shared with a number of urban residents. One year ago this week the spacious lawns of St. Thomas Church received their first grass-cut. Today banks of snow are piled against the church, while against the north walls of the Armouries banks ranging from two to four feet are visible.

The ice is still in the mouth of the Moira—the thermometers hover around freezing point, and the air is still laden with wintry tangs.

In the north country, township roads off the beaten tracks are still filled with snow, and impassable. Woods carry depths of snow well over four feet in places, hampering lumbering and sugar-making operations, according to a Bancroft resident in the city Saturday.

The Morning After Taking Carter's Little Liver Pills

"ENVOY EXTRAORDINARY"

by E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

"It has been more convenient up till now," he confided, "to forget that such a thing as ceremony exists. Now that we are breathing a different atmosphere it would give me great pleasure to be formally made known to you."

"This then," Matresser said, "is my young friend—Major I believe is his military rank Prince Maurice von Reisensach. My sister, Lady Ann Matresser."

The pilot saluted, then he advanced a little and bowed.

"With your brother's permission, Lady Ann," he said, "it would give me the greatest pleasure to offer myself as your escort for this evening."

"I shall be delighted," she assented. "Will you teach me how to waltz like those German girls?"

"I should prefer to take lessons from you in the English methods."

Matresser smiled his acquiescence and strolled towards the door with the little brown dog at his heels.

"While you two make your plans," he announced, "I am going to take Magda around the square."

CHAPTER XXXII

Matresser made his unwilling bow that night to a phase of life entirely strange. In obedience to the card which had been thrust into his hand at the last moment, he was wearing his war medals, but though they made a brave enough show, their simplicity seemed in sharp contrast to the number of orders and decorations of every country worn by the foreigners and even by two of the English cabinet ministers. His hostess, who had been warned as to Matresser's peculiarities and who had placed him upon her left hand, attempted only general conversation, but his neighbor on the other side, the Marchioness of Tewkesbury, indulged in no such reticence.

"They tell me, Lord Matresser," she began, "that although you so seldom speak in the House of Lords, and you seem somehow to keep out of print in the most marvelous manner, you are really a great traveller with many adventures concerning which you never open your mouth."

"Where did you hear such strange things about me?" he asked, without the glimmer of a smile.

"From my husband among others," she replied. "There seems to be an idea among some people that you have been playing the part of a civilized Lawrence, only your happy hunting grounds have been more the capitals of Europe rather than the wild countries."

"Lawrence," Matresser said thoughtfully, "was one of the genuine explorers of the world. He had that extraordinary facility with languages which seems to come only to me who have lived on the borders of civilization. The best linguist I ever came across," he reflected after a momentary pause, "was a Polish baker who had a small establismhent in Warsaw. Not much romance to be squeezed out of him—or me either for that matter."

"Of course, I don't mean that sort of thing at all," the lady declared a little pettishly.

With a polite bow, Matresser turned to his hostess whose attention was for the moment disengaged and it was not until the end of dinner that the Marchioness found opportunity to reproach him.

"You know," she complained, "I was looking forward so much to talking with you and I think you are a most disappointing man."

"I am so sorry," he apologized, "but I can assure you that I am quite out of my element. This is the second dinner party of its sort I have ever attended in my life."

"I find you all the more intriguing for your reticence," she confided with a very pleasant smile. "Perhaps some day, when things have calmed down in the world, you will feel more conversational. By-the-by, you know very well, I believe, a dear friend of my daughter's—one of the most attractive young women I have ever met — the Baroness Stamler?"

Even Matresser failed to conceal his quick interest.

"The Baroness is a young lady of great charm," he admitted. "She stayed with us for some time at Norfolk and my mother and sister were very grieved when she left us. She was to return, I believe, to Vienna."

"She probably did not go because she is back in London now. I saw her only yesterday afternoon. I always hoped that she would settle down in England but I fear she will never do that. I heard only this morning that she was likely to marry her cousin, Prince Johann von Hapsburg. He is the only one of the family who seems to have preserved his lands and money."

"It would seem to be a fitting match," Matresser observed. "The Baroness—she dropped the title while she was with us—is intensely patriotic."

"So much so," his companion laughed, "that I believe it is perfectly true that she was once arrested and very nearly sent to a fortress as a spy."

"By the Russians?" he asked.

"No—by the Germans. She was desperately against one of those mad schemes for the annexation of Austria by Germany. You must get her to tell you about it some day. She always declared that politics were now too sad to discuss, but today things are so different. She herself seems to have taken a new lease on life. I always thought her one of the most beautiful women in Europe. Today she seems to have added happiness to all her other charms.

"I saw her in London," the Marchioness went on meditatively, "only a short time ago—I think it was soon after she came back from Norfolk—and she was looking very tired and miserable. Now she is her old self again....Perhaps," she concluded, leaning a little toward him and dropping her voice, "she may have heard whispers about that amazing hunting party up in the Metzger Mountains."

Their hostess was on her feet.

"So sorry, my dear Louise," she said, addressing Matresser's neighbor, "but His Majesty arrives early."

Sir Francis beckoned to Matresser who, glass in hand, obeyed the summons. He found himself next to the Premier who was in a pensive mood.

"I hope to have an opportunity, Lord Matresser, for a conversation with you before long," he observed. "Even here one cannot, of course, discuss a certain subject freely but I should like you to understand that your part in the proceedings at a certain rendezvous in Germany has been reported to me and meets with my very warm approval."

"My share in the work has been trifling, sir," Matresser insisted.
